To Whom It May Concern:

I had the pleasure of working with John Halmi at Kims School in Gwangju, South Korea. John was a member of the English faculty at our academy. He proved to be a valuable asset to our school during the year that he spent in Korea. I am confident that he would make an excellent addition to the staff at any educational facilities.

John has all of the qualities that make an excellent teacher. He is very energetic and creative. He also has the ability to inspire enthusiasm with both his students and his co-workers. John always conducts himself in a professional manner. He is considerate and responsible, and is always willing to both offer and accept advice.

John was always extremely well prepared for his classes. He came into each class period with a complete knowledge of the lesson materials and a fully realized lesson plan. He was able to employ a variety of techniques and strategies in his teaching.

The variety of ages and ability levels in our school require a teacher to be very flexible and adaptable. John certainly fits this description. He was always ready to made any necessary last-minute changes to his lesson plans, and was quick to recognize and attend to the needs of each individual student.

I am fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with John. While I am happy that his career is continuing and he is returning to his home country, the Kims School staff and I will miss him very much. Our school has benefited from the time that he spent with us, and he has raised the bar for all future teachers at Kims School.
