

HSUS

According to HSUS “The HSUS is dedicated to helping all animals, from animals in laboratories to pets at home.” They are doing a great deal of work like PETA. “The Humane Society of the United States is the nation’s largest and most effective animal protection organization. HSUS and their members provide hands-on care and services to more than 100,000 animals each year, and they are professionals at the field through education and training for local organizations.”(HSUS, “About Us” humanesociety.org)

They are the leading animal advocacy organization, seeking a humane world for people and animals alike. They are driving transformational change in the U.S. and around the world by combating large-scale cruelties such as puppy mills, animal fighting, factory farming, seal slaughter, horse cruelty, captive hunts and the wildlife trade.

Kitty Block is currently the President and CEO of The Humane Society of the United States. She assumed the role in February 2018. The protection of whales, dolphins and other wildlife have also been major areas of focus for Block. According to the HSUS “She has represented The HSUS and its members in numerous meetings of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora, the International Whaling Commission, and the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission, where her efforts helped secure and strengthen protections for animals.” Block led her organization to a whole new level after these conventions. She is really engaged and deep in thought about her work and I believe that we will keep working to improve this world, and defend it from animal cruelty.
