

HARRINGTON FAMILY IN AMERICA,

Dictated by O. D. Harrington at Tulsa, Oklahoma, May 15, 1914.

Two men, supposed to be cousins, emigrated from a point in the State of Rhode Island near the line of the State of Massachusetts, at about the beginning of the 19th. century, to Harrington Hill, 3 miles south west from the town of Warrensburg in Warren County, New York. They were Elisha Harrington and Joseph Harrington.

I 1

1 Elisha Harrington married and had children among whom were Susan and Lydia.

2 Susan Harrington married her cousin, Joseph Harrington. They had a large family but they all died rather young and left no surviving heirs.

3 Lydia Harrington had one child, a girl, Hannah, by Judge Harris of Hebron, Washington Co., N. Y., who left the state and went to Missouri where he died.

4 Lydia afterward married George Mattison of Washington Co., N.Y., and they had 4 children, Jobe, James, Roxilla and Paulina.

4 5 Jobe Mattison married, first, Sophrona by whom he had one child. The mother, Sophrona, died in child birth and the child was taken to be raised by its aunt, Roxilla, who accidentally rolled on it and smothered it to death in bed. Jobe Mattison married, second, Miranda Fuller and they had a large family of children some of whom survive.

4 6 James Mattison married Martha Although he was temperate, James Mattison liked his toddy. On one occasion he brought home a jug of whiskey. It was found by his wife who objected to his drinking. She emptied out the whiskey and used the jug for a chamber. When James returned home and learned the contents of the jug, he laid his wife, Martha, over his knees and gave her a thorough spanking. They had, at least, five children, Charlotte, James, Fremont and two others. Nothing is known of these children except that Fremont was named after General Fremont, an Indian fighter. Martha, the wife of James Mattison changed the family name from Mattison to Madison, after a former president of the United States.

4 7 Roxilla Madison married Melancthon Barber, a brother of Ralph Barber, () and they had several children including George, Lovisa and Orin. Nothing further is known of them.
