3. Bequests

3.1. Description

3.1.1. Twenty-six bequests were left in The Will. A description of these follows.

3.2. Major Thomas Petrie

3.2.1. torn letter reassembled, incorrectly, in a frame

"into my own hands. My wife Emerald need not know the particulars of my relationship with this man but I must secure the safety of my friends. Only the major and Katherine know the details of the trist and if the dragon can be quelled by implication that the baby, this creature once fay, was his offspring. It is the contingency of which I fear. The alternative would pray directly into his claws and secure him what he most desires above all. The rest, even my love, need never know that I have lied to them and it is only as a most desperate resort that I would ever consider putting an item of such trusted value in the hands of this man; If that is what he still is. It is well hidden and they are told that they gave Wilson the last to open the door and secure young Benjamin. Hopefully the option will not arise and I will secure his future further and gain him the protection of our enemy from White Lily Kitten. If none. I have sealed it well and it will require some effort to excavate if it is required. At the least it would be pleasant to return to the old parish. I am not accustomed to lying but sometimes it is necessary to secure the future of the"

ACT II SCENE III A street near the Capitol.

Enter ARTEMIDORUS, reading a paper

*ARTEMIDORUS 'Caesar, beware of Brutus; take heed of Cassius;
come not near Casca; have an eye to Cinna, trust not Trebonius: mark well Metellus Cimber: Decius Brutus
⁵ loves thee not: thou hast wronged Caius Ligarius.*

*There is but one mind in all these men, and it is bent against Caesar. If thou beest not immortal, look about you: security gives way to conspiracy.
The mighty gods defend thee! Thy lover,*

¹⁰ 'ARTEMIDORUS.'

*Here will I stand till Caesar pass along,
And as a suitor will I give him this.
My heart laments that virtue cannot live
Out of the teeth of emulation.*

¹⁵ *If thou read this, O Caesar, thou mayst live;
If not, the Fates with traitors do contrive.
Exit*
