

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF PARASITOLOGISTS 2006 AWARD WINNERS

The American Society of Parasitologists (ASP) is pleased to be meeting jointly with the British Society of Parasitologists in support of ICOPA-XI this year. We thank everyone involved in the planning for preparing an outstanding Programme and making this special meeting a reality.

Each year, ASP acknowledges a number of outstanding parasitologists for their special contributions. This year's ASP Award winners are listed here.

TIM YOSHINO

ASP PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The President of the ASP for 2006 is Dr. Timothy Yoshino, University of Wisconsin–Madison. Dr. Yoshino's address will be given on Monday, August 7, 11:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m. in the Forth Room. Tim will be introduced by Dr. Mike Moser, University of California–Berkeley.

DAN BROOKS

STOLL STUNKARD LECTURER

This Lectureship honors a scholar whose prominence in basic research is evident, and whose research enhances investigations on parasites, fostering cross-fertilization of ideas and approaches. This year's Lecturer is Dr. Daniel R. Brooks, University of Toronto, Toronto, Ontario. Dr. Brooks' talk will be presented Wednesday, August 9, 11:30 a.m.–1:00 p.m. in the Clyde Auditorium. Dan will be introduced by Dr. David L. Williams, Illinois State University–Normal.

LILLIAN MAYBERRY

ASP DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

The Distinguished Service Award is given at irregular intervals by ASP to someone who has dedicated long years of service to the Society in an exceptional capacity. This year's recipient is Dr. Lillian F. Mayberry, University of Texas–El Paso. Lillian will be introduced by Dr. Robin M. Overstreet, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs, Mississippi. The award will be presented at the ASP Awards and Business Meeting, Wednesday, August 9, 4:00–6:00 p.m. in the Clyde Auditorium.

CHARLES CRISCIONE

ASHTON CUCKLER NEW INVESTIGATOR AWARD

This Award is given to a young scholar within two years of receipt of his/her Ph.D. or M.S. degree, and who has demonstrated exceptional productivity and promise as an independent researcher. This year's recipient is Dr. Charles Criscione, Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research, San Antonio, Texas. Charles will be introduced by Dr. Jason Curtis, Purdue University North Central, Westville, Indiana. The award will be presented at the ASP Awards and Business Meeting, Wednesday, August 9, 4:00–6:00 p.m. in the Clyde Auditorium.

