Quantifiers ~ A Second Look

❶ How much of your homework did you finish last night?

I did a lot of homework last night
vs.
I did a lot of my homework last night.

None of my homework was done.
None of them was done.

❷ Have you seen the movie Planes, Trains and Automobiles or the movie Only the Lonely?

I have seen none of the movies.
I have seen none of them.
I have seen some of the movies before.
I have seen many of them with my friends.

❸ How much of the grammar textbook have we covered so far?

A few of the grammar textbook we have covered so far.
Few of the grammar textbook we have covered so far.

❹ What's a difference between the city you lived in while in your country and the city you live in now? (Try to use two quantifiers.)

The population of my hometown are much more than St. Catharines.
Too much time is cold here.

* There are a lot of differences.

❺ What interesting thing have you noticed about your classmates?

* I've noticed a lot of interesting things about my classmates.
None of the interesting thing I have noticed about my classmates.

❻ What is true of level 5 students that isn't true of level 1 students?

The knowledge of level 5 students are much more than level 1 students.
* None. It's the same between them.

---

* I found many similar examples, but two are enough to make the point. ☺