TIPS ON PLAYING BALL TOGETHER

Your honeymoon is the official start of your new life together. The wedding is behind you and you have your new lives together before you. If you have ever played ball, you know instinctively how to have a great life start.

- Where will the ball land?
- Who starts the ball rolling?
- How does the ball start rolling?
- How do you “pass the ball”?
- How do you practice playing ball?

- (1) Where will the ball land? Share with each other what the ideal relationship will be when you are alone together in private and how you will interact with each other in public. Are there things you want in a mate? Consideration? Generosity? Then, you should adopt those characteristics to set an example for your mate.
- (2) Who starts the ball rolling? You do. If you are reading this, it's you. The honeymoon is the door to your new life. Allow for some highs and lows. Your priorities are shifting from “What do I want” to “What is best for both of us”.
- (3) How does the ball start rolling? First, understand yourself. If you are a “happy single”, you will be a “happy married”. Never expect your mate to be “your everything”. Next, share your dreams about how exciting the future will be. Then, play with relaxed abandon as if you were little children. Finally, share daily one thing you love about your mate.

“ Your married life won't follow anybody else's plan... Design your own marriage. ”

- (4) How do you pass the ball to your team-mate? You chat with your mate about marriage expectations. Never assume. Listen to your mate and reiterate what was said to ensure you understand your mate's expectations. Be faithful to each other and never flirt with others. Only flirt with your love. Share with each other the love lessons you've learned in life. Let go of the “fantasy mate” and embrace the sweet reality and endearing traits of each other. Realize your married life won't follow anybody else's plan. Write your own unique adventure with each other. Design your own marriage. Intimacy is best nourished with a fresh supply of exciting touchable lingerie.
- (5) How do you practice? Play ball for 30 days to make it a habit. Be enthusiastic over small things. Reach out to friends for social activities. Make a point to be appreciative and thankful for the small considerations your mate shows you. Make private bonding intimacy a priority. Love and excitement is contagious. Use lingerie to spread it all around your marriage together.
