

Free as in Freedom

Written by Shaji / 2005

Man is born free and he is everywhere in chains surrounded by all kinds of problems surrounded by all kinds of pains

I looked out the window and saw the sun shine Rays breaking through the bright white clouds like the penetration of open source minds

You can't bind love in chains
you can't put limits to your imagination
The sun's light isn't trial ware
God doesn't charge you for fresh air

Freedom comes with it's own sense of duty you have to do what's right You have to use your head Nothing good can come of using might

Life is hard
we laugh, we cry
but sometimes we hug each other and sometimes we look to the sky

Free as in Freedom
Free as in flight
Free is what you want to be
Being free is your right

You can't control your dreams you can't control the way you think So why try to control other people who you know will find a way through

Putting limits on our thoughts is not the answer When we're forever changing the limits of possibilities Over achieving our own expectations Redefining the perspectives of our own realities

You can't bind love in chains
you can't put limits to your imagination
The sun's light isn't trial ware
God doesn't charge you for fresh air

Life is hard
we laugh, we cry
but sometimes we hug each other

and sometimes we look to the sky

Free as in Freedom
Free as in flight
Free is what you want to be
Being free is your right

Being free is your right
Being free is your right ...