

ATTRIBUTES OF LOVE

My heart is so full of desire to know that someday when my life is past that you will truly know how much I love you.

(LOVE IS TO CHERISH)

I realize that time blessed us to be together. Time gave us the opportunity to know, to love and share that love; the love that binds hearts together in a lasting relationship.

(LOVE IS ETERNAL)

It is true that time also separates and can be a force which if properly cultivated causes the heart of love to continue in strength of growth. Love growing is a force which will never die.

(LOVE IS SELF PERPETUATING)

The question may be asked, "Can there be love when doubt exists?" The doubt of which I speak is not to question my love for you, but doubt as to whether my action demonstrate my love to you so that you truly know how much I love you.

(LOVE IS MANIFESTED)

The genuineness of my love is free from hypocrisy or pretense. The love for you is controlled by me and no other. It is exactly as it appears.....without deviation.

(LOVE IS REAL)

True love will never die. Cultivation is necessary to assure proper growth. To experience living, growing love is wonderful to me. My love for you will forever be, the total of my love each day and my thanks to you in every way.

(LOVE THE GREATEST SOURCE OF PLEASURE)

By: William T. (Bill) Richardson, Jr.