The Year of the Dog

Loyal, faithful, and true, people born in the Year of the Dog make the best of friends. They often inspire confidence in others and are always willing to help those in need.

The Dog is not showy, and can be shy at social gatherings. They are apt to be good listeners, and make good companions for the demonstrative or gregarious personalities of the zodiac.

Born worriers, Dog people can nervously bark and bite at those around them, or become highly critical of those who do not share their highly developed sense of honor and duty. Conversely, when angered Dogs may become quiet, cool and judgmental with loved ones. However, they always remain devoted.

Dogs remain true to their ideal of guarding against the wrongs of society. The Dog can be relied upon to speak up for the disenfranchised and downtrodden.

Dogs do not consciously seek out riches, however they never want for creature comforts. With their considerable talents and innate qualities, Dogs usually excel as effective social activists, teachers, nurses or doctors.
