About Me

My name is Emily Horner, a recent graduate from Southern New Hampshire University. My bachelor's degree in graphic design and media arts has made a direct impact on my current work as a freelance designer. While I find my freelance work extremely rewarding, I would love to be part of a collaborative team. I enjoy editorial design and infographics, but I am knowledgeable in all areas of design. I am fortunate I get to live a life with inspiration all around me and be able to succeed in a career that produces creative results.
