Dear Sir or Madam:

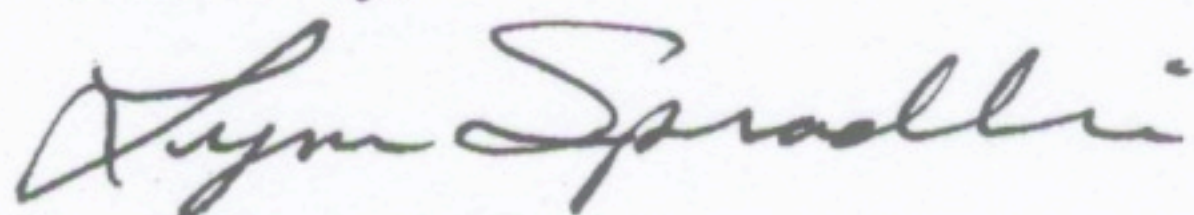

Casey Davis has had a variety of teaching experiences during the 2005-06 school year here at Will C. Wood High School. He was my student teacher in an Algebra II class and his second assignment was an Algebra IP class. Casey's excellent background in mathematics is evident in his teaching.

As a teacher, Casey works to challenge and motivate his students. His lessons are based on curriculum and standards. He has had experience with a variety of instructional strategies and has managed both individual and team-centered work. He communicates clearly, asks relevant questions and holds high expectations for his students. One of his strengths is his knowledge of TI graphing calculators. He uses them effectively both in teacher guided presentations and student investigations.

Outside his classroom Casey continues to support students. He provides additional help in math and has been an academic tutor with our AVID program. He is willing to work with other teachers to plan lessons and activities.

Casey's sincere interest and natural curiosity in mathematics will be positive attributes as he begins his teaching career. I recommend him for a position in secondary mathematics.

Sincerely,

Lynn Spradlin
