

Twankydllo

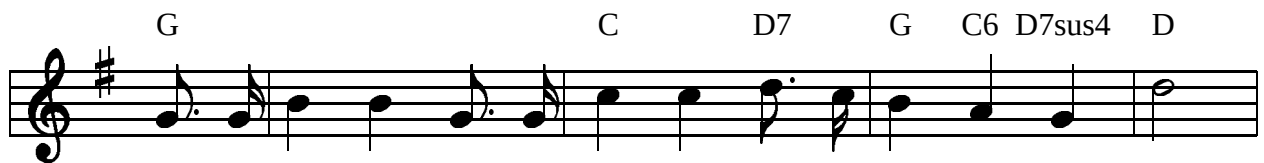

1. Here's a health to the joll - y black-smith, the best of all fell - ows,
 2. If a gent - le - man calls his horse for to shoe,
 3. Here's a health to King Charl - ie and like - wise his queen,

Who works at his an - vil while the boy blows the bell - ows;
 He makes no de - ni - al of one pot or two,
 And to all the royal little ones where' ere they are seen;

Which makes my bright hamm - er to rise and to fall,
 For it makes my bright hamm - er to rise and to fall,
 Which makes my bright hamm - er to rise and to fall,

Here's to old Cole, and to young Cole, and to old Cole of all,

Twan - ky - dill - o, twan-ky - dill - o, twan-ky - dill - o, dill - o, dill - o, dill -

A roar - ing pair of bag - pipes made of the green will - ow.
 And he that loves strong beer is a heart - y good fell - ow.
 A roar - ing pair of bag - pipes made of the green will - ow.
