

Hello, My Love

Here it is, it's that day of a year
When you're supposed to have undivided attention to those dear
My sweetheart
My darling
I love you, My Valentine

Time constraints and working conditions
Wish I could lay them to rest
I'd spend this special day with you
And try, once again to show you
Just how much you mean to me

It seems a failed attempt at every tick
But I think you've gotten a clue
I've changed so much since I've been with you
It seems you cleanse the tainted soul of my past
Each day, I smile more
Each day, I can hold my head higher
I think I'm going to make it

You're by my side, though there might be distance at times
But it's those times that make us savor those extra minutes
Each kiss is that much sweeter
Each hug means the world to me
Thoughts of you are enchanting
And being lost in your arms...I could fly
Your music warms my heart and wets my eyes

I'm so lucky to have you, I hope you know
I can talk to you
I can be silly with you
We can be ourselves
I can love you and know that it's returned
You give respect, something barely known to me

I've known you through some horrible times
I defended you like you deserved
I was available for you to talk to through it
I still feel pain when I think of what happened
It was not right... nor was it fair
A slum fell over you and shaded your life
I slowly came in to illuminate your hopes

Honestly, I've never seen you happier

Recent events have improved even this
I know I'm in best spirits when you're near
What more do I need but your love?

I cannot think of more to say
So I shall end this note now
With that I say

I love you so dearly
My Sweet Valentine