

The River in the Forest

The sweet waters from the mountains
Far, far away
They bring clear, refreshing drink to
The wayfarers.
And should you be lost along the way home,
Follow the River
And, yea, you shall arrive.
But the journey can be long and arduous.
Persevere!
For if you do, you will reach home.

The sweet waters from the mountains
Far, far away
They lead you away from dirt and grime
From the bugs and desert.
Follow the River and you shall reach home.
But stray not away.
Keep to the river.
Trust its path and its destination.
For if you do, you will reach home.

Copyright ©2007 Henry S Kuo