Evaluation Contest

Contest Master - Clayton Millard

Clayton effortlessly ran the evaluation contest on September 7th. He kicked off our meeting by welcoming and introducing our guest speaker for the day Liz Huff. Liz is a business analyst for Excellus and is a member of the Blues expression toastmasters club. Liz presented her speech about the true meaning of friendship entitled "The Friendship that will never end." After Liz delivered her speech, it was the evaluators turn. We only had 5 minutes to prepare our evaluations and then they took our notes. What was that all about? It makes perfect sense, to make the contest fair for all contestants we were not allowed to look at our notes, this way we all had the same amount of time to prepare. The contestants for the contest were in order: Bill Allen, Kris Stevens (hey, that's me), Bill Rothrock and Karen Goodman. Bill Rothrock took 1st place and Karen Goodman took 2nd. Bill will represent our club at the area contest on Saturday, October 14th.

Thank you again to Clayton. He is quite the interviewer and host.

Humorous Speech Contest

Contest Master - Karen Goodman

Karen was a natural, leading our humorous speech contest on September 21st with ease.

Our first contestant was Mike "funny man" Meynadasy with his speech on women's shoes entitled "What's in a shoe?" Mike researched the phenomenon of woman owning hundreds of pairs of shoes in an attempt to try to understand women a little better. I had hoped that Mike was going to put the shoes on during his speech. Maybe next time... Next up was Kris "side-splitting" Stevens (hey...that's me again) with a speech about the birth of my daughter Isabelle. Not the grotesque version, but the hilarious happenings throughout the day with my crazy family. The third and final contestant was Deb "comical" Cormier with her speech about "The Honeymoon". And what a honeymoon it was, complete with bugs, port-o-potties and the in-laws. Deb, can we say "BEEP! BEEP! BEEP!" Back it up girlfriend.

Yours truly won the Humorous speech contest and I will be representing the club along with Bill at the area contest on October 14th.
