

Night-Song

Songbirds sing in sunny skies
And sleep in nestled trees
Flowers bloom and watch the moon—
Nodding in the breeze

Moonlit glass that shivers slow
Lilies standing still
Swaying leaves of indigo
Wreath my windowsill

Impassioned pleas of fireflies
Dancing in the dark
Mobius strips of flashing lights
Heartache's brilliant mark

Hear my night-song's reverie
Dance from dusk to dawn
Play me nocturnes through the night
'til sunlight's fearsome yawn

Frogs sing praise in endless shade
Where moths may make small claim
Fluttering of broken wings
Whispering your name

O, the stars! The countless stars—
Winking from above
Lullabies for children's eyes
Tears of Heaven's love

Songbirds sing in quiet eve
When you hold me tight
Loving arms to keep me warm
And one last kiss goodnight
