

Idril Celebrindal

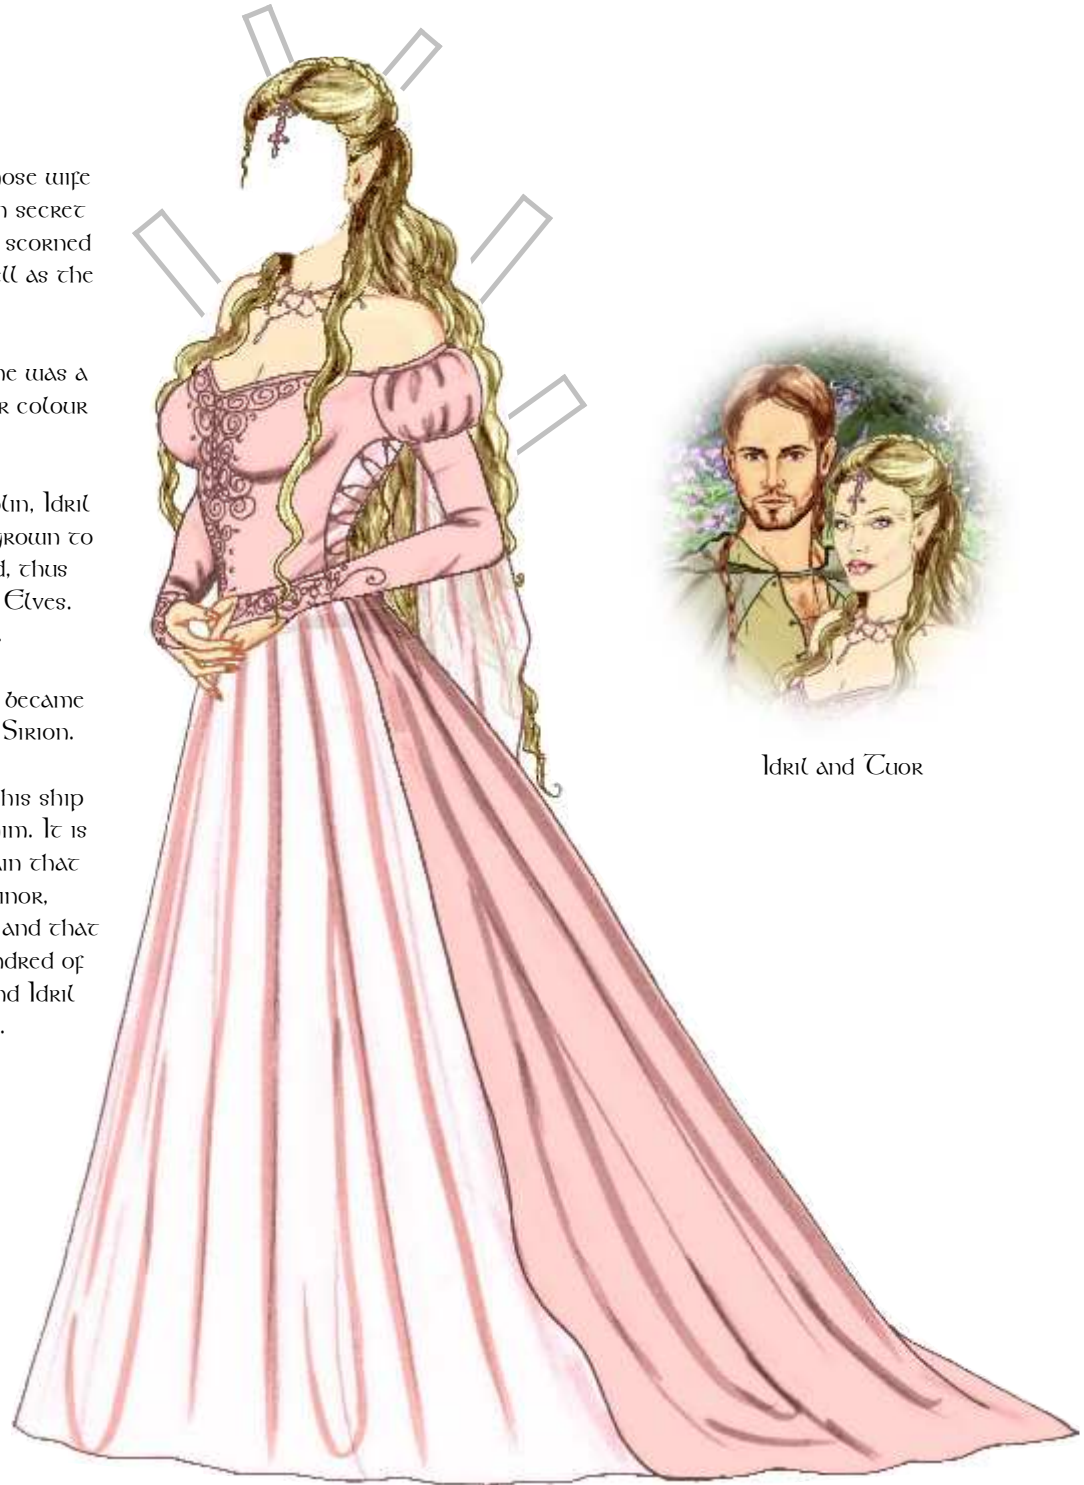

Idril Celebriental is the only child of Turgon, whose wife Elenwë died at the Helcaraxë. Idril was loved in secret by her cousin Maeglin but she despised him and scorned his advances because of his dark character, as well as the fact that they were too closely related.

The name Idril means "sparkling brilliance". She was a lovely blonde princess who she inherited her hair colour from her Vanyarin mother.

When Tuor, son of Huor arrived in Gondolin, Idril fell in love with him. Because Turgon had grown to love Tuor as a son, he allowed them to wed, thus bringing about the second union of Men and Elves. Their son was Eärendil the Mariner.

After the fall of Gondolin, Idril and Tuor became leaders of the exiles at the Mouths of Sirion.

When Tuor grew old he departed in his ship for the West, and Idril went with him. It is believed by the Elves and Dúnedain that Idril and Tuor arrived in Valinor, bypassing the Ban of the Valar, and that Tuor was reckoned in the kindred of the Elves, so that Tuor and Idril now live in Valinor.

Idril and Tuor