

Lindir
Elf of Rivendell

...The chanting ceased. Frodo opened his eyes and saw that Bilbo was seated on his stool in a circle of listeners, who were smiling and applauding.
'Now we had better have it again,' said an Elf. Bilbo got up and bowed. 'I am flattered, Lindir,' he said. 'But it would be too tiring to repeat it all..'

As Elrond entered and went towards the seat prepared for him, elvish minstrels began to make sweet music.

...'Maybe. To sheep other sheep no doubt appear different,' laughed Lindir. 'Or to shepherds. But Mortals have not been our study. We have other business!'

