

The Sons of Elrond

And have you marked the brethren Elladan and Elrohir? Less sombre is their gear than the others', and they are fair and gallant as Elven-lords; and that is not to be wondered at in the sons of Elrond of Rivendell.'

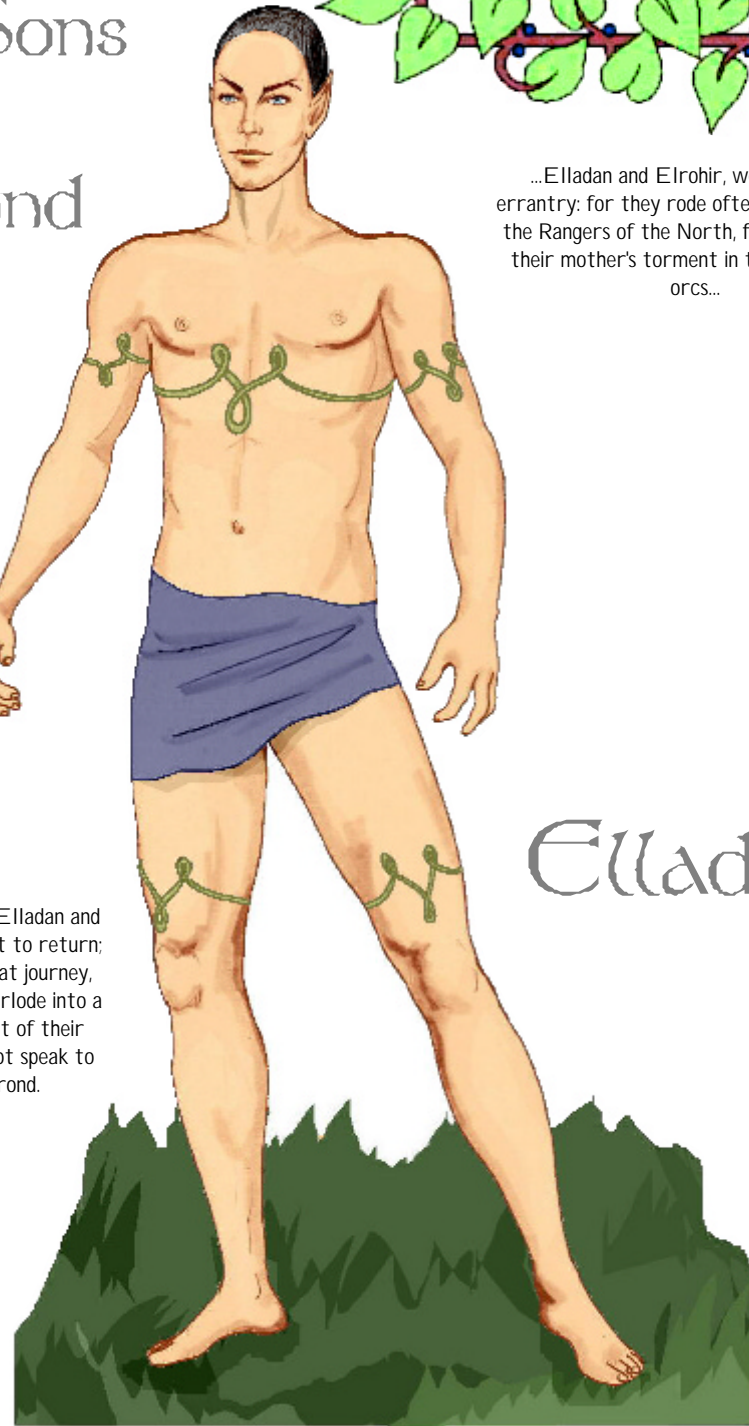

...Elladan and Elrohir, were out upon errantry; for they rode often far afield with the Rangers of the North, forgetting never their mother's torment in the dens of the orcs...

Elrohir

The sons of Elrond, Elladan and Elrohir, were the last to return; they had made a great journey, passing down the Silverlode into a strange country, but of their errand they would not speak to any save to Elrond.

Elladan

..Behind them rode Elladan, last of the Company, but not the last of those that took the downward road..'Yes, the Dead ride behind. They have been summoned,'

Elladan

...Then said Elrohir: 'From the North we came with this purpose, and from Elrond our father we brought this very counsel. We will not turn back!...

Elrohir

...Elrohir said to him:
'I bring word to you from my father:
_The days are short. If thou art in haste, remember the Paths of the Dead!...

