

000315 Quick Addition

Two quick additions to the last email. I am now illegally in China. My visa requires that I have a residence permit within 30 days of my entry to the country. For some reason, my school has been unable to get Jason and I our permit. All of the other volunteers have gotten theirs and Jason and I have seen the paperwork completed. But, although we finally got our passports back after weeks of separation we still have no permits. Worst case is that we will be deported. We are actually looking forward to this because we have heard that the beaches in Cambodia are very nice this time of year. Or, we are both really eager to check out Seoul. I doubt that this will happen, but I have always wanted to be illegally in China. I just hope that we get our green card soon, but if you don't hear from me in a while it is because I am sipping drinks on the beach...

Also, a quick addition to the care package idea. I would love raisins or crasins! And if the gum could be sugar-free like extra or trident, that would be awesome, but not necessary.

Take care,

Jeff
