SCHOOL

Two worlds own your heart.
Your parents split apart.
With so much to lose, what will fate choose—united or divided?

Growing up in a small town, Ann lives a normal teenage life. She spends her days riding horses with her mom, hanging out with her friends, and studying for finals. In her dreams, however, Ann lives a life of royalty with her long-lost father in an imaginary world full of magic and mystery—until one day she realizes her dreams might be more than just her imagination.

As her worlds collide, Ann embarks on a quest of self-discovery, encountering mysterious creatures, developing lasting friendships, and unfolding the truth about her family. Can she find a way to reunite her parents before she's forced to lose one of them forever?
