

Grail Song

Justin Eiler

♩=100

Pa-gan Kings and Sa-ges, they sought it long a-go. To make its po-wer serve their cho-sen plan. Fight-ing for the mast'-ry--

- seek-ing earth-ly pow'r-- They tried to hold the whole earth in their hands. But then a sim-ple slave-boy who was set to stir the brew Tast-ed wis-dom from three drops that splashed his hand. And when the Bards who served the King would do his mas-ter ill, Ta-li-

- e-sin was the wis-est in the land. Take the truth as you find it, And take it as a gift from all the Gods. But who are you to say that it's got to be your way? Ho-ly Grail or La-dy's Caul-dron, what's the odds?
