

Viability

It Shouldn't be an Issue in the Abortion Debate

because . . .

- The baby isn't murdered in the baby's crib or in the hospital nursery. She is murdered in the womb. In the womb the baby is always viable . . . if just left alone.
- Non-viability can't ever be the real reason for abortion. If the baby wasn't viable, why would her mother feel she needs to murder her? The reason she needs to murder her is precisely that she is viable! Viability is always the root cause FOR abortion.
- None of us, whether babies or adults, are viable without outside help. Should this lack of viability be an excuse to kill us?