

WATSON! Forget the football, forget Streisand, forget Tom Jones. Yes, and you can even forget the Olympics!!! Press that suit, shine those shoes — and get ready for the best game in town: Federal Court Sydney, June 13, kick-off 10am.

South Sydney Rabbitohs v The World (i.e. NRL, News Ltd, Globalism, Economic Rationalism, Corporate Bull#@*$ etc). Brekkie begins at 6am at Souths Leagues Club that morning, which has been designated “Red & Green Day” — although supporters have been asked to stay away from the court in the interest of the legal types manufacturing the necessary cool, dust-dry atmosphere.

I am told on the best authority that it's going to be nothing short of FABULOUS ENTERTAINMENT.

Recent confidential advice and information offered to Souths has come from the most unexpected quarters, some of it positively gob-smacking. Where else would you get a line-up like Lachie Murdoch, Neil “Whitters” Whittaker, Ian “Frykers” Frykberg, Wee George Piggins and heaps more?

I am advised that ex-NRL CEO Whittaker in particular can expect plenty of attention.

Roll up. Roll up. Roll up! Watch 'em squirm in the box. As “Bolts” Hadley used to say in the good old days: “Gibbsy, I can hardly wait!”. BLOW THAT WHISTLE REF!
