

Retro Corner: the Rezillos/ Revillos

Well, it's another Doughnut Theory story... My friend Ian (mentioned in the last issue) was of Scottish descent & had a taste for British punk/new wave. One time, when we were sitting around with others, doing various substances, he put on this song, 'Somebody's Gonna Get Their Head Kicked In Tonight', a rockabilly tune by one "Earl Vince & The Valiants" (another moniker for Fleetwood Mac - early, early Mac, when they were a blues-oriented band.) The song sounded like it was sung by Johnny Rotten after doing lots of speed - needless to say, most in the room were not impressed