

The Sore Losers - original soundtrack
 [Sympathy For The Record Industry]

HOLY SHIT!!! This was my reaction to the film that spawned this -made by John Michael Mc Carthy (JMM), a former comic artist & now, the 90's version of Russ Meyer. The film is billed as the "first garage-rock film of the 90's" & the soundtrack for it backs up that claim. This is low-fi garage band heaven, with groups such as: The Makers, Guitar Wolf, 68' Comeback, The Drags, Gasoline, Los Diablos Del Sol, Jack Oblivian; original music by Mick Collins & Cris Clarity (who covers a Shel Silverstein song, 'Rock N' Roll Band', and narration from the film, performed by local musician (& Recycled Sounds employee) Tim Keams. Available on CD & vinyl.

I hope to have an interview with JMM in the next issue; but if you're curious, you can order the film directly from him (& inquire about other films such as TEENAGE TUPELO)

TEENDANCEPARTY - The Woggles
The Zontar Sessions
 [Estrus]

Another grand find, courtesy of the SLEAZEFEST album. There are blistering versions of 'Got Your Number' & 'My Baby Loves To Boogaloo' on it, and I had to have more! More 60's flavored garage trash, one can never have enough. TEENDANCE PARTY is their first CD, with 'My Baby...', 'Abba', 'Mad Dog 20/20', 'Country Squire' & tons o' more. They released some singles on the Zontar label, so Zontar Sessions collects all of those, produced by one Jeff Walls. 'Got Your Number' is on this one, along with 'Carnivore', 'Flash Flood', 'King of Kicks'. They have a new album out on Telstar Records, Get Tough, but had no time to review it for this issue, plus they played a great show with Flat Duo Jets in KC & I MISSED IT!!! (Fortunately, the Micromag people weren't as lame & got the interview & saw the show; The Woggles should be back in the area sometime in the Fall.)
