To whom it may concern,

We worked with Sandor Bercsenyi on a translation project recently. This was our first project from English to Hungarian.

The project was of a marketing nature (new product launch brochure) and required an excellent working knowledge of both languages.

Sandor was very professional throughout the project and we received our translation on time. Overall, we were quite pleased.

I am unqualified personally to comment on the translation itself, however, our client paid us quite promptly and we received no negative feedback.
