References for Sandor Bercsenyi

Our company deals is machinery, equipment and processing substances used in viticulture. This being a highly specialised field requires the translation of numerous documents, especially following Hungary's accession to the European Union.

Our co-operation with Sandor Bercsenyi has been going on for over 3 years. He translated a number of manuals for straining, filling and wine-processing machinery, used in the field of wine-production. We have always been satisfied with his correct and punctual adaptations.

The documents mentioned are very demanding, written in technical jargon, frequently the result of multiple language translations (i.e. the original literature often written in Italian or French). Sandor successfully tackled all these challenges. We have not only been happy with his accuracy at work, but also with his handling of deadlines, while on many occasions he delivered the translations well ahead of time. The electronic integration of illustrations and images into the translated text never posed a problem, thus we have been able to supply our customers with documentation of the highest standard.

We wholeheartedly recommend his services.
