PLEASE REPLY VERY SOON OR WE WILL HAVE TO DO SOMETHING DRASTIC!!!!!!!

It has been suggested that we (you know, the usual) throw a New's Year Eve party. Comments? Questions? Suggestion? Write to us to let us know if the idea is feasible, feesable, gullable, oh forget it.

No details are known as of now, but if we recieve input from ya'll, then something might dissolve, resolve, revolver. Also, we need to know what has been happening out your way! Write us with news so we have something to write!

Major events and other happenings!!!

Kari M. came home from Boulder as day or two for a wedding.

Trent showed up for something or another. But it was so long ago that I have now idea when!

Richard, Glenn, Cody, Matthew (ME), and for a short crash (I mean time) Dennis, and Justin D. all went out to the Walz Pond Sandpit and putted around. IT seems a good time was had by all. The day was beautiful and so was the wether!

HOWDY FROM WALTER

Hey, everyone, college is ablaze! There is so much to do and so few hours in a day to do it in, that have to be picky. For example, do you go out and go dancing at the ROse or do you stay at the dorms and flirt with the girls that decide to come home. This is a tough choice. To complicate it, you could add the choice of being able to stay up and watch movies with friends. Then one must also consider the fact that homework is due the next day and maybe even a test to study for as well, not to mention the loss of sleep that is desperately needed. The fun is endless and the time is limited, this is what makes college interesting. Case in point: me. I have 12 credit hours worth of class, eight hours worth of work at A+, two hours volunteer for Wiest Hall Council and Residence Hall Association, and a minimum of fourteen hours of work for McMinder (all female dorm so :b) as Night Security. Then there is also Cheer Practice for two and a half hours a day and home games on weekends and some home volleyball games. This does not include time to sleep and free time which is time to socialize and play pool, the latter of which I am the best at but not by much;) and internet time which gets smaller and smaller. Then, saving the best for last, I come home on the weekends to go to church and spend time with family, friends, and relatives. I must say with all of this I am having the time of my life and the only thing I would change right now is the number of hours in a day. Well, live long and prosper; peace and long life and may God bless all of us. Write back to tell how your lives are going! Maybe you hear from me again as well = @. Till then,

Walter--->.>
