

Personal Path Report for William Windsor

Introduction

The following pages contain a brief evaluation of key elements of your birth chart, although it is by no means complete. Astrology can reveal many things about a person's life and personality, and you could study your chart for a lifetime without knowing the answers to all of your questions. The descriptions that follow will give you a "thumbnail" introduction to yourself through astrology.

In interpreting your chart, this report considers the sign of the planets and the north node in your chart, as well as their house placements. It also describes the sign of the Ascendant and the strongest aspects between the planets.

You may note that some of the following descriptions appear to contradict each other--and indeed we are all walking bundles of contradiction. If you examine yourself carefully, you will probably realize that you do in fact possess the qualities of both conflicting descriptions. Even though some parts of the reading may seem to clash, you will see that certain themes are repeated throughout the following pages. These are the ones that will become major issues in your life.

The readings stress that you are the ultimate decider of your fate. The stars may indicate the hand you were dealt at birth, but it is up to you to play that hand well enough to achieve your goals. Also, bear in mind that every "bad" aspect of a chart also has a "good" side. How it is expressed is really up to you. We tend to work at expressing ourselves more positively most of the time and only lapse into the negative behavior described when depressed, angry or scared. Or it is possible that some aspects may better describe your personality or behavior earlier in life. They may seem alien now because you have already worked through them.

A "Strength" number precedes each aspect description; this number takes into account how exact the aspect is, whether the aspect is a major or minor one, and whether an aspecting planet is close to one of the four chart angles. The higher the Strength, the more you are likely to feel the aspect and to act it out in your life.

Sagittarius Ascendant

You are open and friendly, and your response to others is spontaneous and sincere. Although at times others may see you as downright blunt and tactless, you are just seeing things philosophically rather than personally. If you can cultivate a little diplomacy, you will do well in public relations, sales or promotion. You are an especially persuasive fast-talker.

In your work you are very organized and would be good at administration and planning projects. But you need to delegate the more routine tasks to others. Getting caught in a maze of little details can be frustrating for you, and you could develop a "who cares" attitude. Your worst habit is overcommitting yourself and then indulging in prolonged procrastination.

You hold firm spiritual beliefs and are a pioneer of new thought and ideas in this area. At the very least you have a philosophical outlook on life and are constantly looking for those elusive universal truths that explain why we're all here. You feel very good about yourself and are able to inspire self-confidence in others.

You love to socialize with friends and may even engage in a little gambling. The more fire you have in your chart, the less chances you should take on gambling. Your confidence that nothing can go wrong is the main reason why you should not gamble excessively.

Physically, Sag Rising is usually tall and slender with a slight tendency to stoop--perhaps because you grew so quickly as a child. You have long arms, legs, hands and feet. Both men and women are generally large-boned and have a wide hip structure. Your hair is usually abundant and wavy, but men tend to bald early. Problem areas are your hips and your liver. You tend to overeat and overindulge in drink.

In romance you generally are likely to be less impulsive than you are in other areas of your life. You have a healthy attitude toward sex and would prefer to "do what comes naturally" rather than plan an encounter down to the last detail. You have a great deal of physical stamina in sex and should choose a partner of similar bent.

Sun in Cancer

Natives of this sign are known as "moonchildren," and their wildly fluctuating moods seem to coincide with the phases of the moon. As with all water signs, there is a tremendous depth of emotion with Cancer. In times of sadness or despair, you may retreat into solitude just as a crab retreats into its shell. At other times, you can display another trait of your namesake--crabbiness.

Cancer has a natural desire to understand its emotional make-up. You engage in self-directed psychoanalysis, striving to feel every detail of life. This is Cancer's purpose in life--to learn to love, trust and accept all that life offers. No sign feels so intensely as Cancer, although this may not be obvious to others. You may set up defenses against being hurt, such as shyness or reclusiveness.

You have a strong need for security, and a comfortable home environment is of utmost importance to you. The security you seek can be found in the knowledge that you are unconditionally loved. You also like to surround yourself with mementos and other reminders of your past. You use your resources wisely, knowing that to waste not is to want not. Like other water signs, Cancer can be manipulative. You never go directly for something (or someone) you want, but once you have it, you will never let it go. Cancer can exercise artful control of feelings--his or her own or those of others. The Moonchild truly needs to be needed, and can provide loads of nurturing and mothering in return.

The threat of becoming emotionally vulnerable in relationships can dissuade Cancers from falling in love. But once they make the big leap, they become very protective of their loved ones. But be careful not to become a "clinging vine" in relationships. Anyone who is strongly independent would feel smothered by your love and would try to break free.

You can be very secretive, and few people will ever witness an outpouring of your deepest, darkest feelings. Yet others will unload their secrets on you and seek your compassion and understanding. You may even have a talent for healing or a green thumb with plants.

Physically, Cancers are more vulnerable to injuries or illness in the chest region, the head and face, knees, and skin. Other trouble spots are the stomach, digestive system, kidneys, and bladder. A strong sense of optimism will do wonders for their health.

Sun in the Seventh House

You learned early to get along with others, and you feel that you function best in partnership with another person, whether it is for work or play. You are able to see both sides of a controversy and can even help others settle their disagreements. As a matter of fact, you may pursue this as an occupational goal and enter a profession in counselling or consulting.

With the Sun in this house you need to learn to be more independent. It is nice to have partners to work and play with, but you need not sacrifice your needs in order to please a friend. Sometimes you must be willing to let a loved one go in order to keep them. Social status and a good reputation are important to you, and you enjoy receiving recognition and public appreciation.

In relationships you must learn to let your partner take the lead sometimes and to not be too demanding. You tend to be dependent on your lovers, particularly during times of difficulty. Therefore you must choose your partner carefully, and unless he or she can also be a friend, close companion or business partner you may soon become bored with the association.

You are happiest in an egalitarian relationship, where both partners exercise a sense of fairness with the other. Your relationships will be very important to you, and you are proud of your talent for getting along with others. Just be sure that your love life does not dominate your life to the detriment of other aspects, such as your career and social life. Your partner may be the perfect match for you, but everyone requires stimulation from other areas of life as well. Be sure to allow room for your partner to have friendships and activities in which you do not share.

Moon in Cancer

The Moon is quite comfortable in this sign, since it rules Cancer. You are truly a "Moonchild" and are subject to mood changes which accompany the changes in the moon's phases. Your home life is very important to you, and you do all you can to make it as comfortable and pleasant as possible.

The Moon also rules habits and memories from our past. You may be quite possessive of cherished objects (or persons). As a parent, you are quite nurturing and attentive—but be careful not to be too possessive. You lavish loved ones with favors and then are disappointed when they do not reciprocate in kind.

When you are hurt you are prone to sulking. You may even attempt to inflict guilt feelings on those who have hurt you (whether intentionally or not). You do not hesitate to use tears or a self-sacrificial attitude to get your point across. This highly emotional behavior can put a strain on your personal as well as professional relationships.

It is likely that you will prepare well for your retirement. Yet persons with Moon in Cancer often try to recapture their youth when they exceed the age of 40. After 50 they may become self-indulgent, and at 60 they begin to wonder if this old age they have prepared for will ever come. They enjoy being grandparents and see it as a further investment in the future.

You have a shrewd way of making money easily. Real estate is an especially good area for you to invest in. You would also do well in a business run from your home. Be careful of your natural tendency to put on weight and to retain water.

In your love life you are a very sympathetic and understanding partner. Early in life you probably attracted persons who were emotionally unstable and drained your energy. As you grow older you learn to avoid such people and to resist the temptation to be an emotional doormat for others. It is possible that you will maintain several relationships at once. This is more because of your inability to cut ties with your past than your need for variety.

Moon in the Seventh House

With this Moon placement you acquire Libra-like qualities in your emotional life, and you constantly seek balance and harmony in that area. The friends you choose to have around you will be those to whom you offer emotional support and security, and they will be extremely close to you. You may also choose a marriage partner who offers the same qualities.

Although you are not overly emotional yourself (unless you have an emphasis in water in other areas of your chart), you attract others who are in order to teach you about your own emotions. You understand yourself best through your interactions with others. For this and other reasons, persons with this Moon placement often marry (or form other permanent love commitments) early in life. It is important for you to have someone to share in your life.

You are always willing to help a friend in need. In your domestic life, you often guide your partner through the intricacies of a marriage relationship. You require a sensitive partner who is willing to listen to your advice and trust you enough to follow your suggestions. It's not that you will necessarily rule your partner; on the contrary, you truly seek a totally equal relationship. Be sure your partner considers it as equal as you do. Learn when to let your advice go untaken.

Mercury in Gemini

Mercury is the natural ruler of Gemini and is very comfortable in that sign. You have a clear, rational mind as well as a sharp wit and sense of humor. Your imagination is very active, and it imperative that you do not allow yourself to become bored intellectually. Your intellect is well-developed and you may have natural linguistic abilities. Since you have a knack for communication, others will find you to be a stimulating conversationalist.

Your mind moves so fast that you must sometimes slow it down on purpose. Otherwise, you may tend to overwork your mind and may even risk nervous breakdown. Although you are very curious and quick to grasp new concepts, you must develop patience with others who are slower to understand. Also be careful not to speak too quickly in anger without thinking your words over carefully. You can do great damage with hurtful words when you are angry.

To make fullest use of your sharp mind and wit, you need to develop the ability to focus your scattered energy on one project at a time. Otherwise, you will be a Jack or Jill of all trades, knowing a little bit about everything but not much about anything. You should also avoid worrying about what's going to happen tomorrow. If you become too preoccupied with uncertainty, you could worry yourself sick. Instead, develop a greater confidence in your own intellectual abilities. This will greatly increase your effectiveness.

You very much enjoy relating to others and communicating your ideas. Others may see you as a "chatterbox" because you talk rather quickly and abundantly. Learn to speak only when you have something important to say, not just because you feel like talking.

Mercury in the Sixth House

You have highly developed organizational skills and a sharp, critical mind. Since you enjoy communicating your ideas to help others, you would be a good linguist, writer, or teacher. With your clear, logical mind, you rarely overlook important details in any project. Take breaks from your demanding schedule to avoid mental fatigue and nervous tension.

Venus in Taurus

With Venus in Taurus (the sign it rules), you are very affectionate and loyal with your friends and lovers. You enjoy the finer things in life, and you also enjoy showering your loved ones with gifts. Those who love you appreciate your encouragement and support. Although some may consider you stubborn, you would prefer to call yourself "persistent."

You have very clear opinions as to what is true art, and you are probably artistically inclined yourself. You also enjoy getting out into nature to relax and drink in her natural beauty. Since you do prefer to have things your way, you tend to put forth the effort required to succeed. With Venus in Taurus, chances are your most treasured material possessions will be the product of your hard work.

You are an earthy lover and enjoy indulging in the physical pleasures of your relationships. The best way to win your heart is to lavish you with affection and gifts. You appreciate the finer things in life and require a comfortable home environment. This placement of Venus also makes you determined (maybe even stubborn) and slow to arouse (whether in anger or in sex).

It is important that your partner be consistent and reliable. You admire inner strength in a lover; it is important that your mate love you without leaning on you or clinging to you. You tend to expect near perfection in your partners and should try to remember that no one is perfect--not even you. Your sexual experiences can be enhanced by a pleasing, romantic setting.

Venus in the Fifth House

You are sensuous and enjoy indulging in the pleasurable senses to the fullest possible extent. You enjoy surrounding yourself with beautiful art and music, and you may have creative talents in these areas. From an early age you were attracted to the opposite sex and are affectionate and loyal toward those you love. You have a talent for inspiring children and would be a stimulating teacher.

Mars in Libra

With Mars in Libra, you prefer peaceful social exchange rather than hot-tempered disputes. Yet, you also seek constant balance by arguing both sides of any situation. In an effort to survive in a world that is often less than peaceful, you must develop the art of negotiation and compromise. You are a natural at working in harmony with a team toward a common goal.

Since you are quite charming, you can often persuade others to see your side without having to resort to argument. You are highly intuitive and seem to know just how to "hook" people with your charm. Although you really don't want to manipulate or control anyone, all is fair in love and war.

You seek a certain amount of refinement and social grace in your partner. Appearances are important to you, and you are concerned about what others think of you. It is likely that your partner will be physically attractive as well as poised and tactful. You are very attentive and will go to extreme lengths to please your partner.

You often instigate change in your relationships and become bored quickly with any that become static. Just be sure that you do not provoke change just for the sake of change; learn to recognize which elements of your relationship should be preserved and which should be thrown out. It is important to you that any relationships you have maintain a quality of fairness.

Mars in the Tenth House

You are highly ambitious and will aggressively pursue success in your chosen career. While material success is important, you also seek the respect of your family, friends and community. Because you are practical and self-reliant, you are a natural for managerial or executive positions. You would be more satisfied in a job which allows you to take the initiative.

Jupiter in Scorpio

You have a flair for finance and the management of the resources of others, as well as natural healing abilities. People are attracted to you by your magnetic personality and deep inner strength. Avoid using your power over others to manipulate and control them. With Jupiter in Scorpio, you may benefit from inheritances. You are hard-working, efficient and resourceful, and therefore you often attain your goals. Sex is very important to you, and if Jupiter is afflicted you may become obsessed with sexual fantasies.

Jupiter in the Eleventh House

You have an active social life and enjoy the company of a wide variety of faithful and influential friends. Listening to your keen sense of intuition can help you exercise good judgment. You are highly idealistic, and seek to bring about needed changes in society. With your natural ability for organizing and carrying out group activities, you would be a valued member of any group working for social reform.

Saturn in Libra

You always seek balance and justice, and for this reason you have a strong sense of social responsibility. With Saturn in Libra, your greatest lessons will be learned through your close personal relationships. Through your partners, you will learn greater cooperation and sharing as you seek harmony and balance. You may encounter relationships which are restrictive and limiting, or which in some way require you to develop greater self-discipline. Traditionally, this placement indicates that you will marry late in life.

Saturn in the Tenth House

You are independent and self-reliant, and you will encounter a series of obstacles in your career in order that you may learn to accept and carry out even the most unpleasant responsibilities. There may be delay in achieving success, and you will succeed only after much hard work and careful planning. One or both of your parents may have been domineering and critical.

Uranus in Sagittarius (1981-1988)

You have a strong curiosity about foreign lands and cultures, and you would find travel to be very mind-expanding. With your strong need to express yourself in your own unique way, you are a revolutionary thinker who could inspire others to bring about needed changes. You approach life philosophically and with great optimism, and you are constantly seeking spiritual enlightenment and evolution.

Uranus in the Twelfth House

You are highly intuitive and deeply interested in metaphysical matters. With your extreme sensitivity, you may have psychic experiences which you will keep secret for fear of ridicule. You are an eternal idealist and are constantly seeking the meaning of life and your role in the Universe. Avoid a tendency to escape to your private fantasy world rather than dealing with the harsh realities of life.

Neptune in Sagittarius (1970-1984)

You are philosophical and even prophetic about societal change. You have a strong love for freedom and a restless optimism about the future. Since you have clairvoyant abilities, you can gain knowledge from your dreams and visions. You will fight religious and moral fanaticism.

Neptune in the Twelfth House

You are highly sympathetic and understanding toward others. Although you may not be aware of it, you have strong psychic abilities. With your great compassion and desire to serve others, you would gain great satisfaction from working in the healing professions. Because you are so sensitive, you should avoid taking on the problems of others; doing so can result in physical illness or depression.

Pluto in Libra (1971-1984)

Your generation has seen massive changes in laws regarding such things as marriage, birth control and sexual behavior. You will also work to curb violence and sexism and to clean up the environment. Because of your strong desire to achieve harmony and balance, you will expose and eliminate corruption in society.

Pluto in the Tenth House

You are highly ambitious in your career and may rise to a position of leadership and power. The challenge for you is to use any power you acquire over others for the benefit of all rather than for your personal gain. You have a very strong will and must learn to be more patient and diplomatic. Rules were intended to apply to you too, not just to others.

North Node in Cancer

You have spent many lifetimes accumulating wealth and managing others. Although you achieved material success and gained the respect of your peers, you did so without regard for the needs of others. During this lifetime you feel compelled to succeed in order to regain the respect you once had. You control your emotions very well and are not easy to get close to. Although you may feel others are neglecting you, you have put up a wall to keep them away. Your challenge is to give nourishment as well as receive it.

North Node in the Seventh House

In past lives you have only considered your own happiness, with little regard for the needs of others. In this lifetime you will learn to cooperate with others to form egalitarian relationships. By devoting your energy and resources to others, you will learn to develop kindness and understanding. You have a gift for helping others recognize their own self-worth.

Sun trine Jupiter

Strength: 10.44

You are a very generous person--toward yourself as well as others. Your optimism and self-confidence inspire others, and they find you a comfort to be around. Therefore, others often come to you with their problems in order to be reassured by your positive attitude. Children are especially drawn to you.

You are blessed with the gift of creativity, but you must provide the impetus to use it constructively. This aspect can give you an erroneous feeling that everything will be fine, even if you don't take any action to make it so. For this reason, you may have a somewhat lazy attitude toward life--unless other aspects in your chart provide the needed motivation to put your creative ideas into action.

Since you are not inclined to work in a hectic atmosphere, you would do best in an occupation in the creative arts. You could succeed in education, writing, philosophy, law, medicine, theater or working with animals. You prefer a career which does not make excessive demands upon you. You do not seek out challenges but prefer to be left to your own creative projects.

It is generally easy for you to get along well with others. You are not overly discriminating when it comes to choosing your friends, and therefore you have associates from all walks of life. You prefer simple people and will give freely of yourself to your loved ones. For this reason, you must be cautious of those who would seek to take advantage of your generous nature.

In your love life you are direct and to the point. You seek a mate who is somewhat sophisticated, moral, and who has good taste. Crass individuals turn you off, as do those who have a negative attitude toward life. You admire common sense and an understanding nature much more than a high education or social status.

Neptune conjunct Ascendant

Strength: 6.518

The conjunction of Neptune with your Ascendant makes you extremely sensitive and gives you natural psychic abilities. Because of your ultra-sensitivity, you often retreat from the harshness of life into a fantasy world of your own making. Daydreaming is nice, but you need to become more grounded in the real world--even though it contains pain and disappointment.

If friends fail you, you hide your bitter disappointment rather than giving them a piece of your mind. Then you become upset but feel powerless to correct the situation since you are incapable of expressing your resentment. On top of that, you will then feel guilty about having any resentment in the first place.

There is a special place in your heart for the downtrodden of society, and you will always lend an understanding ear to those who need you. You are even sympathetic for the oppressors, forgiving them their sins against humanity. You become depressed over social injustices and can even become physically ill as a result of your emotional upset. Be sure that your own surroundings are pleasant. A decaying or deteriorating environment would be physically unhealthy for you.

Avoid drugs and alcohol! These only increase your already risky emotional vulnerability. You seem to attract others to you who will take advantage of your generous and compassionate nature. While it is admirable to help those in need, you must learn to choose which deserve your time and energy. Otherwise, you will become completely drained.

Venus inconjunct Neptune

Strength: 5.942

Although you may not give yourself credit for it, you are very sensitive and have a highly active imagination. These are valuable talents, but they get lost in your mad dash to do everything at once. Slow down and do things one step at a time. Certainly there are some things that can wait till tomorrow. Set realistic priorities and fulfill them; don't expect too much of yourself or others.

You are anxious to receive the approval of others and will go out of your way to impress them with your dedication. Be careful that others do not take advantage of this quality by assigning you responsibilities with little or no compensation. It's O.K. if not everyone likes you. What's most important is that you like yourself.

In a career you would do well in any artistic field. Perhaps you would work best alone where your imagination could run wild and your creative talents flow unhindered. This would also remove the pressure of living up to the expectations of superiors or co-workers.

In your love life you are apt to encounter repeated disappointments. Be careful not to play the victim and allow yourself to be used. Be sure you can trust your partner before diving into a love affair. You are very yielding in matters of the heart and are vulnerable in this area.

Mercury trine Mars

Strength: 5.786

You are highly creative and imaginative and have the enthusiasm to carry out the many projects you can dream up. Your chances for success are quite high since you easily recognize your own talents and limitations and can work within them to achieve your goals. You will succeed in your own way and in your own time and will not be distracted from your goals by anyone or anything.

Because of your good communication skills, you are well informed on many subjects and have an incredible ability to concentrate on any given task. You are a stimulating conversationalist and inspire others with your knowledge, wit and enthusiasm. You have an easy-going nature and are friendly to most everyone. As a friend you are trustworthy and reliable and would never divulge the secrets of another.

You could excel in such fields as law, politics, education, writing, the theatre and government service. You are particularly good with children because you are patient enough to understand and help direct their unlimited energy. In whatever field you choose, you can rise to the top through your hard work and courage. You would also derive much satisfaction working with groups.

Because you can tolerate the flaws and hang-ups of others, others enjoy having you around. You do not feel compelled to interfere in the lives of loved ones and expect the same respect from others. You seek a mate who is as creative and inspired as you are and who shares a common life goal.

Sun opposite Ascendant

Strength: 5.644

Relating to others is very important to you, and at times you may place the needs of your partner above your own. This can be an admirable trait as long as you don't get carried away. Be sure that your needs are also being considered in every decision you make. You feel lost and alone if you are not in a love relationship, and you will make your love life the major priority in your life. If you don't have a lover, you will still derive a great deal of satisfaction from a close and productive business partnership with someone whose needs are harmonious with your own.

Because you have a basic lack of self-confidence and a fear of rejection, you "try too hard" in your relationships in an effort to gain your partner's approval and acceptance. By expressing your own doubt about your capabilities, you are in fact "fishing for compliments" from others who might reassure you that you are special. In order to improve your job opportunities, you need to develop a more assertive attitude. You have to be willing to compete with others if you are going to achieve and maintain a successful position. This can be done with integrity and without conflict.

Some people with this aspect seem to pick fights and arguments with others. Perhaps this is one way to get to know yourself better, but certainly there are more peaceful methods to use. You have excellent communication skills and can use them to invoke either hostility or cooperation. The choice is yours.

Jupiter conjunct Midheaven

Strength: 5.372

You are highly ambitious and have demonstrated leadership abilities since an early age. Because of inspiration and encouragement you received from one or both of your parents, you have confidence in yourself and a wider perspective which takes into account the impact your actions have on the world as a whole. With your high moral and ethical standards, you will seek success which will benefit all of society rather than just self-aggrandizement.

You may be attracted to a career involving religion, travel, healing, education, justice, politics, or social reform. You will devote your energy to protecting and nurturing others, as well as helping them expand their minds and acquire greater wisdom and knowledge. As long as you can retain your humility, you stand a greater chance for success. Avoid becoming arrogant and self-centered, for this will only serve to alienate others.

You value the qualities of honor, integrity and honesty in yourself as well as in others. This may be a result of religious teachings you received as a child, or you may have formed your own religious and philosophical beliefs through your own life experiences. This aspect is frequently found in the charts of people who enter the ministry or priesthood.

Sun inconjunct Uranus

Strength: 4.998

You have a hard time turning down a friend in need and often give in even though you are required to make a great personal sacrifice. Try not to feel guilty about saying "no" when it is necessary.

People appeal to your own vanity by pleading that you are the only person who they can trust with their problem. If you are used in this manner you will grow to resent it. People must understand that it is one thing to be kind and helpful and another altogether to be a sacrificial lamb.

You may be called upon to prove your love to those close to you. Don't let this upset you. Some people will use this to lay guilt trips on you. Love is a two-way street. Whatever your loved ones want from you, they should be willing to give as well.

Fellow co-workers may also try to take advantage of your good nature. You would do well in public service jobs, such as education, institutional services, rehabilitation or other therapy. You would reap great satisfaction out of helping others claim their own freedom. Even though you may not always be appreciated, don't become discouraged. You are on the right track.

Neptune sextile Pluto

Strength: 4.014

This is the only aspect Neptune has made to Pluto during this century, and the planets will remain in sextile to each other for another hundred years, although the signs the planets occupy will continue to change as time passes.

For those born between 1942 and 1956, Neptune was in Libra and Pluto in Leo. These people were born at a time of global war. Governments rose and fell; kings were ousted from their castles. There were breakthroughs in air power (Neptune in Libra) which helped establish the balance of power between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. This time was filled with meetings and peace conferences between global leaders. Those born during this time know that compromise is not enough to achieve peace; you are naturally suspicious of your leaders, and this will help to promote greater honesty and accountability on the part of political figures.

If you were born between 1957 and 1970, Neptune was in Scorpio and Pluto in Virgo. There were new advances in health and medicine, as well as rapid spread of illegal drugs. Our long-held conservative attitude about sex began to dissolve, and we began to realize that marriage was not essential to maintain a committed relationship. Those born during this time seek to serve and improve society. You are also angry about the current state of our environment and natural resources.

If you were born between 1971 and 1983, Neptune was in Sagittarius and Pluto in Libra. Your attitudes about religion, education and human interactions are most likely different from those of your parents. Your religious beliefs, or spiritual practices, are important to you, and you are deeply concerned for the fate of your planet and the race of man. You will insist that your leaders be straight with you and will not accept excuses or manipulation. You are also interested in occult sciences, and many advances in this area will be made by members of your generation.

If you were born between 1984 and 1998, Neptune was in Capricorn and Pluto in Scorpio. You are part of a generation which will make great progress in dealing with power responsibly, both in terms of interpersonal relationships and as protectors of our Mother Earth. You will seek to transform society and replace rampant injustice with compassionate guidance.

Sun opposite Neptune

Strength: 3.834

You are an extremely sensitive person and find that you are easily hurt by the harsh words of others. Even as a child you probably felt that "sticks and stones" were no more painful than words said in anger. For this reason you learned to shy away from conflict, at least until you could grow to take things less personally.

As a child you began to feel intimidated by authority figures; it may have seemed as though you were the only person being reprimanded or punished. You probably rebelled against what you considered unfair domination on the part of the adults around you. Later in life you will develop a more realistic perspective on authority, even though it will still fall short of your ideal.

Because of your extreme sensitivity, you avoid failure and rejection by not engaging in competitive activities. Perhaps those around you will benefit from taking chances that you refused to risk. You will learn to be more daring as you develop more confidence in your own capabilities. It would be best if you were self-employed; this would allow you to focus on your own creative potential.

You are insecure (if not paranoid) in your personal relationships as well. You are afraid of being snared, so you keep a safe distance emotionally. As with your other competitive activities, a more daring attitude toward love will come as you develop self-confidence. You have very strong instincts in matters of love, but you must learn to listen to them.

It is easy to allow your sensitive emotions to color (if not rule) your world. Instead you must learn to focus this beautiful emotional sensitivity into productive channels. One way to do this is to work toward a goal for the common good, such as a charity or other social organization.

Moon trine Jupiter

Strength: 3.314

You are optimistic and generous and find it easy to relate to others. In the worst of circumstances you can see the brighter side; your confidence and enthusiasm are infectious to those around you. You refuse to allow your life to remain complicated very long, and therefore solve your day-to-day problems quickly and without panic.

In a career you can be very creative and imaginative, and you would do well in such fields as public relations, civic affairs, social work or physical therapy. You would do well in any position which requires you to travel a great deal or to solve problems for others. You know how to set priorities and get things done. You are well informed on a variety of subjects and are a stimulating conversationalist.

You may find that others seek you out for advice when they need guidance or encouragement. This is because of the good example that you set with your own actions. Those around you are stimulated to develop their own potentials. You take on tasks with enthusiasm and optimism, no matter how burdensome they may seem to others. At the very least, your opinion is highly regarded because you have proven yourself to be a good advisor.

Chances are that you always allow some time to indulge yourself no matter how busy your schedule is. You enjoy working on projects that will benefit others, and this type of work would leave you with a warm sense of accomplishment.

In romance you are attracted to people of good moral character -- someone who is honest and sincere as well as spiritual. You love peace and harmony and need to share your life with another who is so inclined. Tension and pressure in your love life will cause you great distress. Your relationships tend to improve as time passes, and you have a strong devotion to your love.

Venus inconjunct Ascendant

Strength: 3.121

You enjoy serving those you love and yet feel that you are not entitled to ask their assistance in return. In order to win the approval and affection of others, you will constantly put their needs before your own. You are also the first to make major concessions whenever there is a disagreement. While you do this to gain appreciation from others, you rarely receive any. Instead, others expect you to serve them without regard for your own needs.

In your career you would do well in a job that would allow you to serve others. You always give 150% on the job and are a valued employee. Although this may make you popular at work, just be sure that others do not take advantage of your willingness to work extra hard by allowing you to do their share of the work as well. Remember that you are at least as talented and capable as anyone else around you, and that you deserve the kind of treatment from others that you so freely give.

You have a talent for making yourself very irresistible to your partner. While it is nice to have this ability, you also must recognize that your inner beauty is at least as important as the artful image you project. If you continuously apologize for what you perceive as your shortcomings, others will begin to find fault as well. If you will relax and just be yourself, you will find that many people will love and respect you for the person you really are.

Jupiter sextile Ascendant

Strength: 2.947

You are very congenial and generous and have no difficulty attracting and making friends. Others appreciate your optimism and easygoing nature, and you'll find that you get through difficult times thanks to a little help from your friends. You always insist on seeing the best side of a person, yet you have no room in your life for those who are determined to be pessimistic and petty.

Since you are well-informed on a variety of subjects, you are a stimulating conversationalist. Because of this talent, you would be successful at writing, public speaking, or teaching. In any partnership you can be relied upon to live up to your responsibilities and carry your own weight. You truly strive to be the best you can be at everything you do, and you admire this quality in others as well. If a friend is in need, you will gladly give of your time and your resources in order to help.

As a lover you are very direct in communication as well as in your approach to sex. You have a healthy adventurous attitude toward sex, and you can help your partner relax and share in the adventure. You are most attracted to a partner who shares your optimistic perspective and is willing to be spontaneous and daring.

Sun conjunct Moon

Strength: 2.760

You enjoy a generally integrated personality and are able to remain unaffected by conflicts of will with others. You feel good about yourself and your direction in life and are able to adapt well to unexpected circumstances which arise. You are highly ambitious and are motivated to succeed with your objectives. Toward this end, you are careful not to waste your time and energy on nonproductive projects.

You brook no interference from others in your affairs and know how to mind your own business. In order to insulate yourself from outside distractions, you build an invisible wall around you which no one can penetrate.

Because of this ultra-independence, you often go through times of trouble alone because you have not allowed anyone to get close enough to help you.

Because of your self-confidence and determination, you can achieve whatever you set out to do. Other people's opinions about whether you are successful will not influence your own opinion, for you don't measure your achievements by their standards. You would probably be more satisfied in a job where you could work alone, although you would also be a good supervisor. If you find yourself in a position of authority over others, be sure not to come across as arrogant; they will resent you for this.

It is difficult for you to establish satisfactory social relationships because you tend to keep others at arm's length in order to protect your sensitive feelings. If you want to find happiness in love, you will have to learn to lower your walls and allow yourself to be vulnerable. Of course, you will be careful that you fully trust anyone whom you allow to get close to you.

It is important that you get away for quiet moments of rest and meditation. This is where you recharge your batteries, and this is a much more healthy way of life for you.

Moon square Mars

Strength: 2.755

Your greatest liability is your quick temper. Because of your difficulty in controlling your feelings and making adjustments to others, you encounter problems in your personal relationships. You are afraid of being too vulnerable and allowing others to take advantage of you. In truth, you are only trying to protect your very sensitive feelings; but be careful not to become paranoid and suspicious of everyone who tries to get close to you.

You become irritated when someone challenges your opinion and are a sore loser in competition. It is possible that you even throw temper tantrums or exhibit similar immature behavior when things don't go your way. Until you develop more self-discipline, you will alienate others with your outbursts.

Learn to compromise with others and to work cooperatively to achieve common goals. Your extreme defensiveness is really a side-effect of your own low self-esteem. Build up your image of yourself rather than living in fear of recrimination by others. This is especially true in your domestic and professional life. Be careful not to bring the frustrations of your job home with you. This can lead to problems in your domestic affairs.

As you mature you will learn to restrain your strong emotions. As a matter of fact, it is imperative for good health that you accept this challenge. Otherwise, you will find yourself suffering from stomach and intestinal disorders as well as very uptight nerves.

Become less demanding of others and more responsible about meeting the demands of your loved ones. This will help you achieve a healthy emotional balance between giving and receiving love.

Venus inconjunct Pluto

Strength: 2.487

You tend to overdo in your relationships with others, and may create a burden for yourself by giving to excess. Anyone with a sad story can persuade you to help them. Actually, it is your urge for acceptance and approval that causes you to overextend yourself in such cases. You would reap much satisfaction from working with social organizations or enterprises dedicated to creating a better world for all humankind.

On the job you may volunteer your services repeatedly or end up holding the bag by paying more than your share of expenses shared by your co-workers. For example, you may end up paying for lunches, etc. out of your own pocket when the expense should have been shared by others. Be careful not to let this happen to you repeatedly and to have others consider you a soft touch.

You are easily misled in love by partners who lavish affection on you. Or you may encounter loves who demand that you demonstrate your love for them physically. Don't fall for this line; learn to protect your own interests. Watch for physical problems concerning the reproductive system.

You have tremendous sexual energies and are not often "wasted" following a sexual encounter. Although this may leave you feeling that something is missing, try to see your leftover sexual energy as a head start on future enjoyment. You need to practice patience in bed. In some situations you may try to use sex to manipulate or control others, and you would probably succeed. You should resist the temptation to use your power this way.

Pluto sextile Ascendant

Strength: 1.608

This aspect indicates that you leave a definite impression on people you meet and have an uncanny ability to influence others to do what you want. You are direct and to the point with others, and you welcome competition from any worthy opponent. You have a talent for quickly detecting your foe's weakest points and attacking before they have a chance to strike.

You are highly ambitious and expect to accomplish grand things in your life through hard work. You also have a highly developed social consciousness and will speak out strongly against leaders who do not serve the interests of those who put them in office. You are courageous and dedicated and in general are a good person to have around in times of crisis or emergency.

With your need for intensity and depth in relationships, you need a partner who is not afraid to deal with you openly and honestly. You have a healthy attitude about sex, as well as a healthy appetite. Once you find a partner who is willing to explore the psychological depths with you, you both will be transformed through your relationship.

Moon inconjunct Uranus

Strength: 1.550

Your life seems to be composed of one problem after another --just as you solve one, another surfaces. This may be frustrating, but in the process you become quite skilled in dealing with crises. Learning to solve your emotional problems is what will set you free.

You carry a great deal of guilt around with you, and much of this can be traced back to your parental conditioning (especially your mother). Perhaps you were expected to bear rather heavy emotional burdens as a child-- burdens for which you were unprepared. So now you carry the guilt of not having lived up to your parents' expectations.

Like your parents, other people in your life may prevail upon you to solve their problems, insisting that no one else can do it but you. Just remember that this is not at all true and that they can always find someone else.

You are very sensitive emotionally and could become ill if forced to endure a stressful or distressing situation. Nervous ailments are common under these conditions, caused by the building pressure of the burdens you carry. Learn to say "no" when necessary and reserve your energy to solve your own problems. Rest and relaxation are absolutely essential to your health.

The best occupations for you would involve service to others: medicine, research and development, social work, and counseling. You will be able to fulfill your need to serve others through such jobs and will find them highly satisfying. Be careful not to become a martyr or servant in your love relationships. It is possible that you may marry young in order to escape problems in your parents' home. Whatever you do, avoid feeling guilty about it later. It all contributed to making you who you are today.

Sun trine Pluto

Strength: 1.331

You are highly motivated and have a knack for mobilizing your resources and others to bring about needed improvements. Others are inspired by your vitality, and for this reason you make a powerful leader. You are more inspired by higher purpose than by your position of power, however, as you deplore those who worship and abuse power.

Your uncanny ability to see through the pretenses of others and to identify the root causes of complex problems may at times threaten others, but once they see that you do not intend to abuse this ability, they can trust and follow you. Your heightened sense of perception and intuition enable you to function well in a time of crisis.

One of your natural talents is the skill for handling others' resources. You would do well in a career which involved financing, account management or trusts. Your deductive mind and perceptive abilities also make you an ideal candidate for work as a psychologist, surgeon, researcher or criminal investigator. You will do well in any job which requires you to restore order to chaos by locating the problem and then (like a surgeon) skillfully removing it. You are a natural born healer on many levels.

Traditionally, this aspect indicates the likelihood of your receiving an inheritance or some other windfall which results through the efforts of others. You will most likely do well for yourself on your own. However, if you can combine your enormous creative power with your spiritual motivation and sense of purpose.

Venus opposite Uranus

Strength: 0.180

You are a rebel at heart, have a problem with authority figures and can get into trouble by challenging their power over you. You are quick to express your opinion, and the intensity with which you do so can also cause problems in your relationships.

You enjoy exciting competition on all fronts: home, job, friendships. You are highly ambitious and determined and will even alienate friends in your climb to the top if it is in your best interests to do so.

Your charm and humor come in handy in your occupation. You would do well in jobs that require you to deal with the public.

In your love life you must learn to meet your partner halfway. You may have many loves, but not many deep ones. This could add up to a lonely life which would not be resolved until you are in your later years.
