

No updates ?

If this site is not updated for a long time (say three months) it could be one of the following:

1. I am no more: it is inevitable, but I hope not before I am done.
2. I cannot think any more: it could happen with old age, which is a long way off. Aging may be accelerated, but I hope not in my case.
3. I have run out of original ideas: it happens to everybody. Those who understand and accept the truth stop writing. Those who don't (do either/both of these things) keep writing something or the other (often not very useful), or borrow ideas from others (piracy). I cannot do either.
4. My server is down~ not for that long at any time, I hope. But it may happen.
5. They censor content of web sites: this is something one hopes never happens, but it might just happen. I don't think I need to explain why people in positions of power censor people without power.
6. I cannot keep up with technology and they change methods of uploading files: a little far-fetched. I should be able to learn such low/medium level new things, and if I cannot I should get help. If my pride prevents me from getting help, which is not unlikely, this may happen.
7. People stop visiting my site: it might discourage me from writing more and putting it on my website.
