

Inside this issue:

Spring Preview	1-3
WAMB	4
Featured Photo	4

Veteran, tobacco farmer, and protestor Dwight W. Watson shows 'em how it's done.

EXTRA!

Crazy-ass anti-abortion wing-nut James Kopp convicted of second degree murder this month!

Read all about it the next issue, and learn why George W. Bush thinks that Kopp is A-OK!

Special points of interest:

- "This look sends one message: it's pro-choice or no-choice, America." p.3
- "Self, you got's to do somethin' about this." p.4

The Happy Hour

Welcome to the Spring Atelier

Saporta Sports Slacks

NAF President and CEO Vicki Saporta

Stepping out into the cool DC spring this year is NAF head honcho Vicki Saporta, wearing a tailored and versatile ensemble from Ann Taylor, one of the hottest houses clothing

Washington's women this season. Saporta starts with the dashing pinstripe Georgette wrap top. Tied at the side, and finished with three-button cuffs, this classic fitted shirt falls to the hip. The cerulean top is the perfect conservative blue, softened for spring. It's a must-have at $79. What cinches the ensemble, however, are the relaxed pants with a straight leg and extended-tab waist. A tiny, silver D-ring accents the front belt loop. With back button-through pockets, these $89 slacks are right out of the 30's and into the new millennium.

To finish it off, Saporta makes it to the Hill on time in her Amherst Dress Moccasins. Without skipping a stylish beat, these classic loafers are crafted with a double row of whipstitch detail. A steal at $99, glossy leather and non-slip soles make a savvy and practical statement. Stacked, squared 1/4" heels mean that Saporta is still comfortably standing tall at the end of a long day.

Gandy Goes Classic

President of NOW, Kim Gandy

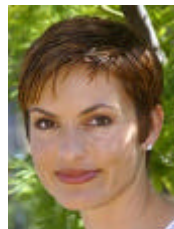

As president of the National Organization for Women, Kim Gandy spends her fair share of time flying the friendly skies. This year, she's matching her colleagues in a smart three-piece Ann Taylor suit.

Perfectly versatile for warmer and cooler climes, the classic tailoring in a longer jacket made of linen/viscose keeps her warm in the breeze while still allowing for comfort indoors. With a demanding travel schedule, Gandy knows better than to shoot for 100% linen, and instead chooses this unique and suave blend. Additionally, the jacket has a two shell-button placket, stylized with three front besom pockets. Falling to mid thigh, this outfit fits Gandy's shorter lines perfectly. She's also out and about with a sassier -do, ala Hollywood bombshell Mariska Hargitay. Gandy started going shorter when her top of the hill term with NOW began a few years ago. This incarnation can be styled a number of ways, from a grassroots, slept-in look to pretty and polished for evening fundraisers.

Gloria Steps Out in Ann Taylor

Planned Parenthood mogul Gloria Feldt

Gloria, can you hear me? Gloria, can you see me? No one will be missing Gloria Feldt this year, as she wows the New York and DC elite in this little black number. First up, long triacetate jacket a with trendy single-button closure. The notched collar ads a touch of reserve, and slim, onseam pockets take smooth to the next level. A deep back slit reminds us that Gloria put the family in family planning. Lined and gently falling just to the knee, this suit was made for walkin'. The simple black sheath below can be worn without the jacket for a quick transition to nightly salons, cocktails, and dinner parties. No New York woman is complete without the right shoes— and these Ann Taylor kate halterback 3” stacked heels fit the bill— and boost the bottom line. An elegant work shoe with tonal stitching along the instep and across the toebox, the modern snipped toe is hot—but just enough. Gloria’s never giving up those signature bangs. Why would she with maven Laura Flynn Boyle proving that the look is here to stay? Swept up, cool, and sassy during the day, or down and out in the evening, tt all goes to prove that not everyone needs to hire GMMB to get just the right look....

Martha Takes a Page from the Boys

Chair of NCWO and firecracker Martha Burk

Spring in Augusta? Well, like it or not boys, here comes Martha. She’s 5’5” of Texas-sized trouble, and who else does she turn to for couture than Ralph? (Lauren, that is). Martha’s gonna whup some good ol’ boy ass in style with these powerful pantsuits from Ralph Lauren and Jones New York. First up is the casino pinstripe lapel jacket, slung over a simply embroidered split-neck rayon shell. This particular style is finished with a pencil-skirt, but Martha knows better. For her money, and her height, she’s betting on slacks to top it all off. Who ever heard of trudging through the sandtrap in a skirt? It might be fine for Hootie and his ladies, but the DAR and Martha ain’t even met yet.. For hanging around the clubhouse, Martha goes casual sophisticate in a striped broadcloth button-down and classic straight-cut slacks. French cuffs add a note of refinement that’s missing from some of her gentlemanly company. Who better to provide the right hairstyle than the mistress of mayhem herself, Sharon Osbourne? We haven’t heard about the two pairing up officially, but can the world really wait for the next dynamic duo? And no one pulls off attitude like Martha. Over par, under par, who cares? The ladies are playing through, boys.

Nothing's Colder Than Ice

*NARAL Pro Choice
America Queen
Kate Michelman*

Kate Michelman reigns supreme, and she's looking to dazzle the subjects in this ice blue silk dupioni jacket and sheath ensemble from Ann Taylor.

This fully lined beauty falls to the hip and pairs perfectly with the matching high-necked jeweled sheath dress. Falling just below the knee, Kate's unusually slim stature allows her to elegantly pull-off this minimalist duo. Icing on the cake? The blair high-heeled sandal in a divine sea-salt off-white hue. Perfect for those steamy summer days, these airy sandals will keep her majesty cool under fire. $400 for the ensemble out the door—a chilling price, but accessorized with some real ice from Cartier, Kate's unstoppable. What's that you say? No do-over is complete without a fabulous new hairdo? Look no fuëher, we mean, further. Inspiration is struck in the pixie-do of Broadway and screen beauty Toni Colette. Is Kate ready for blond? No one knows. But it will definitely set her apart in the crowd. As New York's Nicholas Roach points out, "if you've got it, flaunt it." This suave look can be worked slick or sassy. Whether she's up on the Hill, or out at the OmniShoreham, this look sends one unmistakable message: it's NARAL pro-choice or no-choice, America.

International Feminism with Flair

Ellie Smeal, grand dame of the FMF

Ellie Smeal's been doing feminism a long time, and she's mixed it up with the best of them. Including the Hollywood crowd. The bi-coastal lifestyle means that she's got to have a little more flair, a little more spunk, a little more. So who does Ellie call when she needs to be at the front of the pack? Who else but Dana Buchman. And their latest collaboration worked out beautifully. Smeal can dress up anything in her wardrobe with this artistic topper. The chrysanthemum print is both classic and bold. The single-hook eye closure at the top is simply de rigueur, and the jacket is lined for those chilly spring evenings on the lanai. Silk pants and jet black Asian / Athenian fusion slip-ons make this outfit perfect for those glamorous and high-dollar Beverly Hills fundraisers with Peg Yorkin and pals. It takes a diva to pull off this combo, but look no further. She's learned a thing or two about style from her youthful posse. Ellie will be turning even more heads when she debuts a sassier hairstyle, a bit more clipped than her usual coiffure. Taking a page from the ultimate Dame, Judy Dench, Ellie's tousled salt and pepper will give the LA crowd a run for their oh-so-hip money. Because in tinsel-town, you never know who will show up.

Featured Photo

Iowa's Bill Snyder vows to return to Perry's drag queen brunch annually.

Impending Events: April

Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday
	1 APRIL FOOLS	2	3	4	5	6
7	8 VFC Alanis Concert	9	10	11	12	13
14	15 TAX DAY	16	17 Ellen Degenres @ Lisner	18	19	20
21	22	23	24 Helen Grieco due!	25	26 Freedom @ RFK	27 New Orleans Jazz Fest
28	29	30

You Can't Spell War Without W....

Proving once again that he's in fact very different from Al Gore, Dubya has launched his latest and greatest international relations endeavor to date: war. Read all about it in the next edition of the Happy Hour.

Planned Parenthood
(Abortion providers)

League of Women Voters
(Socialist advocacy group)

International Black Women
for Wages for Housework
(Try a husband)

Choice USA
(Dedicated to corrupting the minds of young girls)

"Religious" Coalition for Reproductive Choice

Equality Now
(Butch Bullies, Inc.)

National Organization for (Ugly) Women
(who hate babies)

United Methodist Church
(Shame on you!)
www.augustadiscriminates.com

WAMB - and other cool things

by Todd Manzi, special to the Happy Hour

Now, I've been playin' golf a long time. And I never said I wanted dames out there cloggin' up the greens. So when "Dr." Martha Burk started hollerin' at Hootie about discrimination and what-not at his private club, I said to myself, "self, somethin' about this."

So I got this great idea to start a website, ItTakesBalls.com. Sometimes I'm just so clever, I can't believe it. And pretty soon, a whole bunch of God-fearin' folks like myself got on the band wagon. And that's where WAMB (Women Against Martha Burk) came from. I just love it when the women-folk turn against each other. 'Course, none of them would be doin' nothin if I hadn't started it all, so once again, it's men that came up with the really good idea. Not like I'm threatened, or anything like that. I'm just sayin', is et any wacko link to my next site, TheBurkStopsHere.com (there I go, bein' clever again). Some of the fine satire from pages linked to mine is featured on the left, there. Finally, I got the super good idea of making some money off of all these broads yelling at us. So I sell stuff on my sites. My favorite product is these golf balls - you can pretend you're hitting "Dr." Burk with a club. 'Cause as I always say, "if you can't make the bitches stop talkin' just threaten 'em with violence!"