

A Woman's Place Unit Test

In Marita Golden's novel, A Woman's Place, she writes "I feel what I think is the answer. I'll tell each of them and listen to what they say. Maybe then they'll tell me what the answer is. At least now, I know where it's found." In an essay of about 300 words please answer: What is the question that Tameka wants the answer to? How does this quote illustrate why Golden wrote the novel as a series of personal narratives. To answer this question make sure you define what a personal narrative is. Please cite specific examples from the text to prove your answer.
