Pictures from our last meeting With John Lander on Zeiss microscopes. Very good, very informative we appreciated this valuable inservice on care maintenance and set-up of Microscopes.

EVER EXPANDING AMERICAN LEXICON

Anchor Baby: Child born in this country of illegal immigrants.

Conservative: A conservative politician or public figure caught doing things that they denounced on record.

Tramp Stamp: A tattoo above a woman's ass crack

Cinimatard: One who is completely lacking movie knowledge

Fauxtograph: A fauxtograph is a practical joke in which the video setting of a digital camera is used to trick the target into posing for a really long time for what isn't a picture at all. "Say 'cheese'!"

Bluetoothoother: A type of homeless person that walks around talking and/or shouting at him/herself, because they appear to be talking on a bluetooth headset.

Jank: Poor quality, in relation to consumer products.

Monthaversary: Similar to anniversary, but occurring every month. For overzealous relationships.

Wi-Five: It's a high five with no contact, normally over a long distance where a real high-five isn't possible.

Dotcomerade: An Internet acquaintance someone you chat with but have never actually met.

Wiki: What is it? just call me dumb.

A collaborative Web site comprised of the perpetual collective work of many authors. Similar to a blog in structure and logic, a wiki allows anyone to edit, delete or modify content that has been placed on the Web site using a browser interface, including the work of previous authors. In contrast, a blog, typically authored by an individual, does not allow visitors to change the original posted material, only add comments to the original content. The term wiki refers to either the Web site or the software used to create the site. The first wiki was created by Ward Cunningham in 1995

Wiki wiki means “quick” in Hawaiian

What are you kidding me, Only in America?

Famous Quotes: Quote me as saying I was mis-quoted. --Groucho Marx
