Representational Systems or Modalities

Our representational systems or modalities are our five senses.

Seeing- VISUAL
Hearing- AUDITORY
Feeling- KINESTHETIC
Smelling- OLFACTORY
Tasting- GUSTATORY

We primarily process and orient ourselves in our world through our Visual, Auditory and Kinesthetic senses, while our senses of smell and taste remain primarily in the background of consciousness. However, these other two do have a powerful subconscious influence on us so they should not be ignored.

Our eyes seem to direct the flow of our consciousness, and will move as we change the modalities we are using to focus on the world

Vr- VISUAL REMEMBERED, when we are seeing an image that we remember in our minds we tend to look up and to the left.

Vc- VISUAL CONSTRUCTED, when we are constructing an image, (or visualizing, clairvoyance) we tend to look up and to the right.

Ar- AUDITORY REMEMBERED, when we are remembering some sound that we have heard, we tend to look to our left.

Ac- AUDITORY CONSTRUCTED, when we are mentally constructing some new sound, (or using clairaudience) we tend to look to the right.

Ad- AUDITORY DIGITAL, when we are speaking to ourselves (internal dialogue) we tend to look down to the right.

K- KINESTHETIC, when we are feeling something, emotions or physical sensations we tend to look down to the left.
