John Miller has a wonderful story. Born in the Ghetto of Elizabeth, New Jersey, a father in prison, temptations on every hand to pooh-pooh one's education and take the shortcut to a life of drugs and crime. John barely escaped prison himself when he was part of a drug bust and a friend was found to have 60 grams of heroin ready to distribute.

The only way John could see to escape was to join the army. Stationed in Germany, imagine John's surprise when one day his wife came home and announced she had received Christ as her Savior. The rest is history, but John has now graduated college and is ministering to men who are on parole from crimes John barely escaped himself.

Refreshments and fellowship will follow this event.
