

Figure.1.

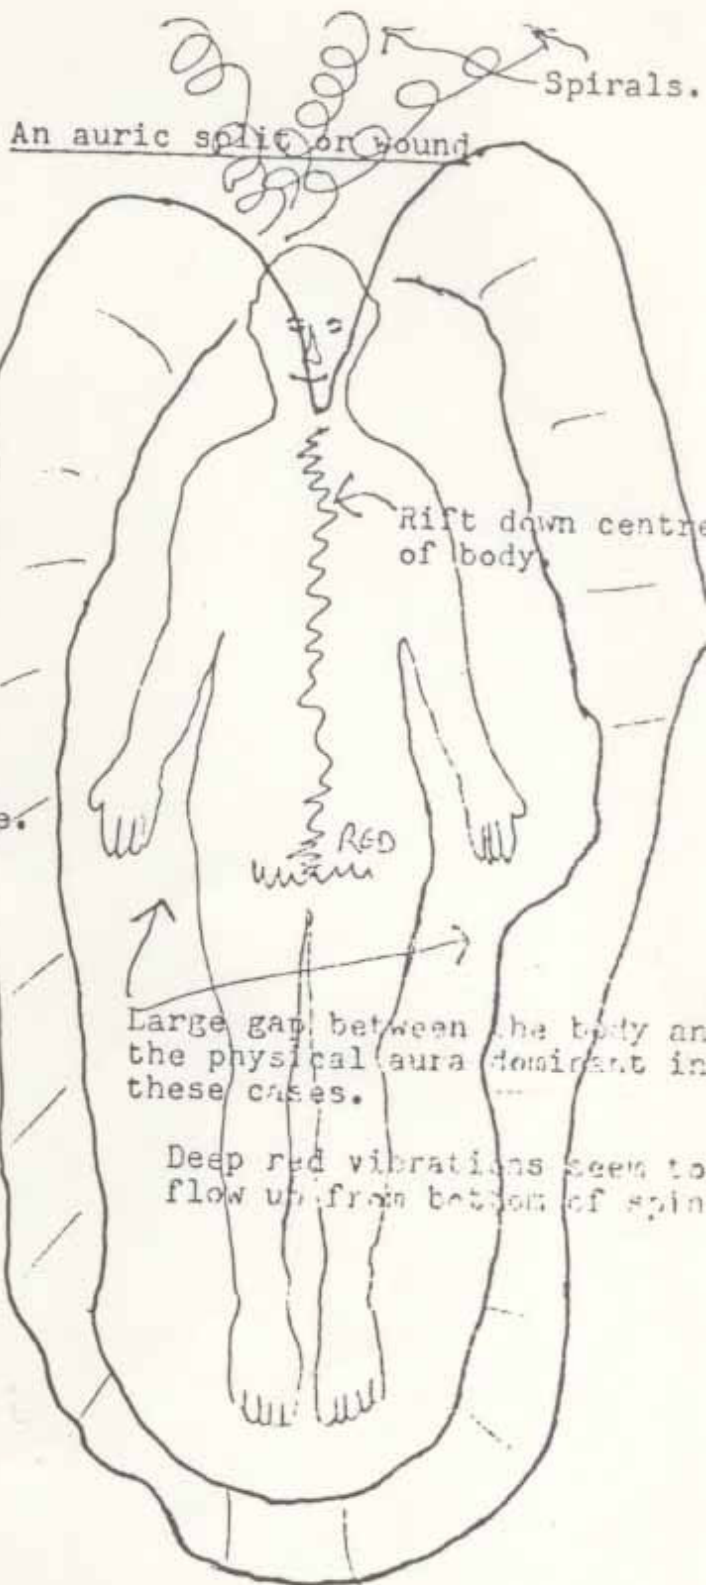

Figure.2,

In Fig.1 you have the side view of the human aura and one can see how it tends to bulge in the head area and the creative centre, as one ages the bulge over the thigh area diminishes. The dotted lined parts are two secondary types of auras that occur from time to time and are measurable.

Fig.2 shows a wound or a "split aura" where a vee like gap is clearly visible in the top part of the auric field and is often accompanied with a red line down through the centre of the body. There is a large loss of vital energy lost through this rift and can often be seen like black spiral moving in an anti clockwise direction. Often seen with mentally or psychologically disturbed people..