

EVIL SPIRITS : DO THEY EXIST?

Morris A Bradley

The Bible states that they do, so we choose to believe that source of knowledge. Sadly there are millions of these spirits who are the chosen minions of Satan and have lost their souls to him and are known as the Dark Brotherhood. They do the work they do because they love it. Certainly there are mischievous spirits and disturbed spirits who have died in shock or in a bad state of grace, and these in the main are redeemable beings who do need our prayers, love and help, but these must not be confused with the evil ones. Those mediums who preach the philosophy of there being no evil spirits are often working on the lower-self level and are usually very young in soul life.

Over the years we have heard accounts from mediums where they claim they have worked all night long, sometimes days, to rid places and people of evil spirits. We have found that even the worst spirit problems are cleared up within minutes, purely by blessing through fervent prayer, as this includes de-haunting houses as well as poltergeist disturbances.

All that one needs is a strong belief in Jesus Christ and follow the advice given here. Once armed with this plus a genuine faith then all is well. The author has received dozens of communications over the years from readers who had trouble of this sort and have put into action our cleansing ritual and have written to tell us how successful it was.

In the Bible it is stated that 'with Christ in your heart you can walk unto the gates of Hades and Satan will prevail not upon you.' All who sincerely believe in God can do this work, for it is the 'Mighty Spirit Host of God' that does the job. The mortals only do the asking.

One must realize that spirit entities in the main are only wispy replicas of previously living Earth beings. The world is full of both evil and good people, as it has always been. If the rule 'as above, so below' applies, then there must be good and evil spirits everywhere. So why is it that some 'mediums' (channellers) keep trying to tell us this is not so? Jesus said, 'You are either for me or against me.' Just as people choose the path of perfidy in their physical life, so do spirit in their spirit life.

Many years ago the author was called out to attend to a young woman who was continually being physically attacked by invisible forces. This went on for nearly three years and drove the woman almost to mental distraction. At first doctors and psychiatrists thought that she was mentally ill and inflicting the wounds on herself. There were scars and bruises from bites and scratches. She was knocked over, pushed down stairs, pushed in front of a moving car on a highway and physically abused in many ways. Even her hair was pulled out in places. In the latter stages much of this happened in front of other people who saw what was occurring and could not see any other person present. Finally in desperation she was taken to the leader of an established spiritualist group who blandly told her, "It's your spirit guides trying to get in touch with you, so don't be afraid, my dear."

How do you like that for an explanation? Some guides! Who were they - Attila, the Hun or the Marquis de Sade? The author and some friends conducted an exorcism over the young woman, blessed her and removed the offending 'entity' and she was troubled no more. This story is true and can be authenticated, yet you still get the same old chant, 'Well, actually there are not really any evil spirits.'

What do you think? Of course there are cases where someone in the spirit state wishes to communicate with a living person and there can be some small manifestations at times to attract the person's attention. Often doors will open and close, lights go on and off, curtains move without a breeze, footsteps and knocking can be heard and some people even feel that they have been gently touched by an invisible finger. The majority of such manifestations serve their purpose and are usually very harmless, though they may shock some people. In most cases you will find that if you give some recognition to the disturber and say a prayer sending out loving thoughts to the entity it will move off on its way almost immediately once it knows that you know it is there. The most dramatic and violent things mainly happen in fictional books or film. These incidents are very rare in the real world.

Finally, to all people we say, be of good cheer, for those who love God are loved in return by Him, and His love shall always protect them and keep them safe. Remember that the saying of the Lord's Prayer or the Prayer of Jehovah goes a long way to keeping one safe from the 'Dark Brotherhood'.
