

You Shall Know My Name

Morris Bradley

It is important when offering up an incantation (prayer) that we name the Deity that we are calling upon, for after all the words God or Lord are only descriptive terms and don't really relate to anything specific. When one says God, who do they mean, for Pan is a God, so is Satan (God of the Under World) and money is a God to some people and the same applies for Lord, who is it, Lord of the Flies, Lord of the Rings, Lord Snowdon, etc? Does one just project their mind out into the Astral realms and call, out the words, Lord, God, Loved one etc.

The Bible tells us that "Ye are my people and I am thy God and ye shall know my name, and that name is Jehovah, so here is a beginning. The Son of God Jehovah was Jesus Christ so here is another name to call upon, Jesus said, "I am the Light, the Truth, and the Way and no Man cometh unto the Father save through me." So we can conclude from this that we pray to God Jehovah through Jesus Christ for guidance and deliverance. There is something very important in names for the letters of the words seem to have some mystical or magical significance that start off a vibratory process that focuses one into the right energy sources when used correctly. It is like a password, that one uses in some fraternity and if you don't use the right word then there is no entry into the inner sanctum.

Many people when in prayer use the words "Divine Spirit," or "loved ones", but these persons could be calling up almost anyone from the "spirit realms" and has no guarantee that the prayer will be answered by a well intentioned being of the "ethers." During talks with people on "spirit messages" one will hear all sorts of loose terminology such as "the adepts told me," or I was in touch with the "ancient ones," or "the masters," or "the Guardians" and so on. Why can't we have their names, for the other titles are so vague and don't really signify anything at all. Test the spirits, and find out whom you are communication with, let them identify themselves and tell us how they stand against the Law and Testament of God Jehovah and his Son Jesus Christ. You get groups that say that we the people are "sons of God" just as Jesus was, and that he was "just one of us, so to speak," but according to the Scriptures, this is not so, for He was the “only begotten Son of God Jehovah” where we only became the children of God Jehovah through adoption.

One should always identify and verify the source of all information where spirit messages are concerned by using the correct formulae for there are all sorts of entities awaiting out there in the “great beyond” for a chance to “lead Mankind in general up the Garden Path.” There are “Tibetan Adapts” (what have they done for Tibet?) and “Indian Initiates” (what have they done for India?) and so it goes on to the supposedly “higher level beings” with no names that are offering advice on how to live, and yet it appears that only Christianity, despite all its corruption and apostasy has really helped Plan to advance physically and spiritually. At least it does not tell us that monkeys are our brothers and that the cow is sacred or keep us locked in primitive beliefs such as Islam and Buddhism does. Christology is the philosophy for now so learn the name of your God and Guides.
