

Psychic Possession

Morris Bradley

Are humans subject to psychic possession and if so, then why? According to mystical and spiritual philosophy the “spirit beings” that exist in a certain part of the Astral realms are divided into positive forces (good) and negative forces (bad.) However this is stating the conditions very simplistically for it is far more complicated in its structure than like this. The Bible tells us that in the beginning of creation God Jehovah “cast out” one third of the “heavenly host” from the astral realms because of their wickedness and disobedience to God.

Due to this action, this means that those particular “spirit beings” whom were cast out, were denied the privilege of ever incarnating on the Earth Plane and taking on the “flesh.” at this stage one must understand that for the soul to progress and evolve it is necessary for it to have many incarnations in the denser physical levels in order to produce “Soul growth” so that inevitably the Spirit—Soul unit will be transmuted into a state of spiritual glorification and then move and ever upwards to new and higher dimensions of existence. The prime example of this was of course Jesus Christ who showed us the way when his corruptible body was raised from the dead, become glorified through the “power of God” and then become incorruptible, and this state allowed him to traverse all dimensions without limitations that exist when the spirit is in the physical body.

So these are the privileges that the “cast out” beings desire but can never have, and because of this they are always trying to enter the physical body of Man whenever possible and try to vicariously experience the physical through another mortal being. Discarnate spirits and some forms of extra-terrestrials also try to achieve the same things, so we have a human that is little more than a puppet and the other spirit, or spirits are inside that “tabernacle” (body) pulling the strings, so to speak, and making that person jump on command.

At all times most, humans have strong spiritual protective forces around them in the form of guides or friends and relatives that have passed over, and these “good” spirit forces are always ready to help, but will never intercede unless requested to do so, whereas the “bad” types of entities are always waiting ready to pounce, and when we deny the Holy Spirit, or even the existence of God we sever ourselves from God’s Army of Spirit Hosts which protect us, and lay ourselves open to extra- terrestrial or spirit manipulation from the lower Astral Realms.

What proof do you have of this, the reader may ask? The author over the past years has insurmountable evidence by personal experience that such things do occur, but at this stage will only cite one particular case that is fresh in his memory. Back in early 1980 some people phoned the author as they were concerned about their son who was acting very strangely and making all sorts of strange claims about visions etc. This lad was in his early twenties and seemed to be very intelligent. During the consultation with this young man the author was able to sense that there was some involvement with drugs and that he had been involved in some avant garde mind expanding group of mystics that based their belief system on human logic and rationalism etc and generally writing God off as a myth and putting him in the same category as Father Xmas. It became evident to the author through the use of clairvoyance that there were seven distinct spirit entities attached to this person and all endeavouring to take control of him. The young man had already spent some time in a local mental institution and had some psychiatric analysis done on his personality which was technically labelled as schizophrenic-paranoia, but at this stage the author had not been told of this report by the parents.

As the young man was interviewed by the author different personalities made themselves obvious and were quite hostile in their attitude and the face of the patient would often become twisted or distorted almost looking like some other being. At this stage it was decided to try some electro-therapy treatment, and this was done with a small hand generator that produced about forty volts of alternating current which emanated from two probes that were held in each hand. In many cases this seems to dislodge such beings or entities from the human aura so that they no longer affect the physical body, and in this instance the treatment was successful for the moment. In such cases it then becomes necessary that an explanation is offered to the sufferer and one must try to counsel them to accept God as Man's Keeper and protector, and to discard humanism as a philosophy, and this in itself is a mighty task to follow up in most cases. If one cannot induce the patient to accept this viewpoint, then it is possible for the same or other entities to return and take over again.

In this type of healing work or exorcism the No. 1 Psionic Talisman is an invaluable aid to prevent and clear psychic possession. About three weeks after this "cleansing event" the parents showed the author the psychiatric evaluation done at the mental institution and in the report it stated that seven distinct entities or personalities were revealed to the Doctor during the Hospital counselling sessions, so here we have a case of medical science and psychic analysis both in agreement.

It is high time that the Medical profession looked objectively into Spiritual Healing, for there are thousands of such cases as this one, recorded in different works on healing, so one could conclude because of this that a percentage of mental imbalance could be due to saint possession or psychic obsession, and if so, then there is a need for good clairvoyants and spiritual healers to alleviate this problem. It is recorded in the Bible that Jesus in his travels met some people possessed by Demons, and as he started to "cast them" out they begged him to transfer them to a herd of pigs that were close by. It is said that this was done, and the pigs were that upset, that they committed suicide in a frenzy, by dashing themselves over a cliff rather than play host to these loathsome spirits.

In those times, the pig was looked upon as a most loathsome and dirty creature itself and maybe why this was used in the parable to show that even the lowest of animals would have no truck with such beings. To the readers one can say, don't be fooled by humanistic logic and philosophy, for by shutting yourself off from God your Creator, you are allowing the Tabernacle to be laid open to all forms of visitations from other dimensions who will act as puppeteers while you become the puppet on a string. God's Truth is eternal and exists everywhere but human philosophies can be vain and inane and will pass away to dust just as the physical body does. So we should all invest our lives in that which is incorruptible and will not perish and become a tool of God and not a slave to Satan.
