

TESTING FOR ENERGY TRANSFERENCE AND THE STATE OF BODY POLARITY

Morris Bradley

We did some very interesting tests in the late 1970's by bringing together several people who said they were spiritual healers or Touch-Tone Therapists. Some were people with good body polarity and high energy levels. We connected them to meters which were very delicate and sensitive and able to measure micro-voltage current within a person. Then we sat another person next to them who was also attached to a meter which gave their reading and polarity. A very healthy person may have a resistance of, say, 12 000 ohms on their meter. The micro-voltage reading may have been very high on one and the energy levels registering very low on the other person. Now we just sat these people side by side, not touching one another, and yet after a while just sitting there it was noted that the meters registered that the person with the very low resistance started to rise. The high micro-voltage reading on the more positively polarized person started to drop while the low reading on the other started to rise.

We conducted the same experiment while having the patient, or person with low resistance, lying on a bed and then being massaged by the so-called healer. There is one thing we learned from this that although ones intention to do this sort of work may be good, if the physical polarity and the physical constitution are not right, they can be a source of danger. It is surprising how many people whom I know to have been to Shiatsu operators and the like said that they felt much worse after going there This is one of the reasons for it.

During the course of these tests we dealt with people of different philosophical points of view. One woman said that she knew how to protect herself but I told her that she was very low in energy. Several people said that they belonged to a group and that they put 'White Light' around themselves and that this protected them. It was then agreed upon to run the experiment with them protecting themselves with 'White Light' around them. Sad to say for them that the same applied to those people who didn't have any 'White Light' around themselves at all. As a matter of fact, the same laws applied to Christians as to Atheists. Some of the self-professed Atheists who were there had better energy levels than the spiritually minded people who seemed to be living in a constant state of anxiety as to whether they were offending some god or philosophical creed or eating some wrong thing.

The ones who showed up worst were the vegetarians, which seemed rather strange.

There was one old gentleman who was a self-confessed Atheist, and he said, 'I just believe in people and I believe in the Universe and I am going to direct my energy levels towards this.' No matter how we tested him he showed positive readings at all times. With Laying-on-of hands I witnessed and felt some of his energy flow and he was absolutely terrific. However, when it came to spiritual work, like exorcisms and that sort of thing which we researched and tested with this on a psychic level, he fell foul of all sorts of problems. Obviously there are three types of understanding. There is the spiritual understanding. You do spiritual things with spiritual things. There is the mental understanding. You do mental things with mental things. And then there is the physical understanding.
