

WHAT IS RADIONICS?

Morris A. Bradley

The Radionic Broadcast Therapy machine is often referred to as a form of 'electronic mechanized spiritual healing unit', and indeed it is, for in the hands of a good operator it can do all that is done at any spiritual and physical healing centre and do it better. The machine can tell you exactly what is wrong with a patient and can also effect a cure once it is calibrated and set in motion. It will also work seven days a week for 24 hours without food or drink or any other physical problems. It does not sulk, fly into moods, answer you back, turn up late for work, suffer from polarity problems, from unsavoury relationships, be affected by biorhythms, desert you, plot against you or try to usurp you, and one person can give healing for at least 100 people daily no matter where they exist in the world, all from a small piece of hair or a blood spot, and the operator can sit in the comfort of their own home while all this is taking place.

RADIONICS - A NEW HEALING AND DIAGNOSTIC SCIENCE.

Radionics is a coined word. It is related to the word radiesthesia, which we term perhaps an electric vibration. By the use of a pendulum, aura meter, whalebone or other types of similar equipment, one detects the radiesthetic vibrations from minerals, plants, birds, animals or humans. Once one has established the answer to what one is seeking, one uses a manipulative process such as the laying-on-of-hands healing, thought healing, or using electronic equipment such as Radionic Broadcasting Units which have the ability to send out vibratory forces to a patient through a witness. This witness is usually a spot of blood, a hair sample, a saliva sample or fingernail clipping from the patient.

One of the prime requisites needed by anyone wishing to work in the field of Radionics is the ability to dowse. Most people have heard about dowsers and how they in past times went out with a pendulum, a piece of wire or a forked stick and walked around overland and found water. They have been able to find it at varying depths, giving the quantity flow per hour, the quality of the water and so on. This is water divining, but we can carry this into all radiesthetic work. People can use divining for finding lost equipment, for finding minerals and aggregates, and for finding lost animals. There is also a thing called map reading where one can dowse maps with the use of radiesthetic equipment. Some people are born with a natural ability to dowse. It is really an ESP function. Many clairvoyants are good at this sort of thing. One pictures in one's mind what one is seeking and the information that they are looking for and once the mind is tuned in to pick up these vibrations the body and the wire or pendulum will respond accordingly.

Over the last 12 years (as at 1991) I have been involved mainly in healing work with Broadcast Therapy Units and have been using what is known as the Copen Diagnostic and Broadcasting Unit. This varies in design. There are many other models produced by this firm in England. There are many other brands, for instance there is the George de la Warr Radionic Broadcast Unit. Also in England Malcolm Rae, who has now passed away, and Ruth Drown had their own broadcast type of unit. These are the models with which I am familiar. Radionic Research Associates, which I founded, also have a variety of broadcast units, which we have designed and built.