The Lansdowne Mustangs overcame a heartbreaking defeat in extra innings in the opener to explode for 11 runs in the second game to earn a split in the double-header with the Philadelphia Comets.

Trailing 6-0 in the opener, the Mustangs rallied for six runs in the seventh inning behind a three-run homer by Seth Brunner but the Comets pulled out a 7-6 win.

Andrew Fraser was the hard-luck loser for Lansdowne, throwing all eight innings of the contest.

In the nightcap, Dave Jerdan pitched a complete game, throwing six strikeouts and helped himself with an RBI single on his way to an 11-2 win.

Neal McMonigle and Adam Wisniewski each had two hits and two RBI and Kevin Crowding had a two-run single to bolster the offense.
