A. Counselor, there was so many interviews in this case. Which ones I was involved in at this juncture, you'd have to look at the interview. Normally we would acknowledge who was present in the interview and all. For me to tell you. You know, I spoke with Miss White on many occasions, but whether I was there with these interviews or whatever, I can't remember.

Page 139.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Okay, you indicated that Miss White was interviewed on many occasions. Certain individuals were interviewed on more than one occasion?

A. No, correction: I just said that I spoke with Mrs. White on several occasions. I didn't say interview, I said spoke.

Q. Okay, spoke. So I will rephrase my question. Certain individuals were spoken to on more than one occasion in connection with this case? Is that true?

A. A lot of my conversation with Miss White may not have been in reference to this particular case; it may have been a personal conversation between two human beings.

Q. Do you recall what Miss White looks like?

A. I haven't seen Miss White I guess since this case, or maybe a year or so after this case.

Q. But at the time, back in 1981 and '82?

A. I have her pictured in my mind somewhat. I think she was sort of a slender young lady.

Q. Could you share that with us, that picture in your mind?

Page 140.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. I really... would not like to try to describe someone. Because in my mind, when I try to go back 13 or 14 years, 12 years, whatever it is, I picture her one time maybe in slacks, maybe one time in a dress. She was tall, maybe five-foot-three, five-foot-four, slender build, maybe 100 pounds, something like that, brown-skin young lady. That's what I have in my head maybe. I can't describe to you verbally at all but that's the best I could come up with right now.

Q. Was she white or was she an African American?

A. She was a black lady.

Q. Do you recall the complexion of her skin: Dark, light skin?

MR. GRANT: Objection: Asked and answered. He said she has brown skin.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, were certain individuals interviewed, as opposed to spoken to, interviewed by law enforcement in connection with this case?

A. When you say were certain individuals interviewed in regards to this case, I have no idea who you are talking about.

Q. Well, I'm asking were there certain civilian witnesses interviewed on more than one occasion?

Page 141.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. In my binder -- we make up a binder in Homicide. Each individual who was interviewed. And each one of their interviews was placed in this binder. There's also a section in this binder for all documents related to the criminal lab, to the ballistics lab. There's also another section in there for property receipts concerning firearms, and other documentation, et cetera, and all. There's also a section in this thing for photographs, et cetera, et cetera, from the crime lab, that was taken from the crime scene. So there were some people interviewed more than one time.

Q. That's what I am asking you.

A. Which ones they would be or if they were interviewed more than one time, I would have to look at that binder to tell you.

Q. I am not asking for particular individuals but you just indicated certain individuals were interviewed on more than one occasion?

A. Certain individuals may have been interviewed. If they were interviewed their interview would be in the binder.

Q. Okay. Now, do you know if Cynthia White in particular was interviewed on more than one occasion?

A. Counselor, at this juncture I couldn't tell you how many times Cynthia White was interviewed or anyone else.

Page 142.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Did you regard Miss White as an important witness for the prosecution?

A. A witness is a witness. Every witness is important.

Q. Are some witnesses more important than others?

MR. GRANT: Objection: Asked and answered.

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't think it is.

THE COURT: He said one witness is as important as another witness.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Were you implying it to mean that they are equally important?

MR. GRANT: Objection. Sounds like the spoken words.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am following up as a lawyer ought to, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Is that his job or is that the job of the District Attorney: To decide which witness is more important than somebody else? He is not going to try the case. Is he going to try the case?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, my understanding

Page 143.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

is, and it is an elementary one, is that law enforcement makes judgments about the qualities of witnesses.

THE COURT: Well, I don't think the detective decides that. The D.A. decides who they will prosecute, who they are not going to prosecute.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Let me put it to the witness, then: Do you as an investigator make determinations as to the qualities of different witnesses, whether one witness is more truthful than another, or more credible than another witness, do you do that in law enforcement?

MR. GRANT: I would object. If he doesn't he doesn't. He can't speak for the world.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. I am asking you as a law enforce --

THE COURT: Are you asking him if he did that?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: Oh. Then why don't you rephrase your question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you as a detective make evaluations of

Page 144.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

witnesses in the fashion that I described?

A. As a detective I've always worked under the precept that you locate, interview and put on paper every witness that you can find, all the evidence that you can find, and it will be coming to a place like this and these people that will sit over there, or a judge that will sit here, and you counselors will be there, and will give the decision on what is facts and what isn't facts. A detective's job is just to get the facts, get the witnesses, put them out there. I don't, I don't judge anything further than that.

Q. So it is your understanding as a law enforcement officer that it's important -- pardon me -- that it's important for the jury to hear all of those facts that you can gather; is that true?

A. That's not the scope of my job, sir. My job is just to find the facts, find the witnesses, and turn them over...

Q. To the District Attorney?

A. To the District Attorney.

Q. And some of those facts concerned Mr. Wakshul, right?

MR. GRANT: Here we go.

THE COURT: Okay, I will have to

Page 145.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct sustain that.

MR. GRANT: Did you mention Mr. Wakshul to me, Mr. Williams?

MR. WILLIAMS: I did.

MR. GRANT: Okay, then I object.

MR. WILLIAMS: On what grounds? It goes to one of our claims.

MR. GRANT: On what grounds are you asking him about Mr. Wakshul?

MR. WILLIAMS: It is supporting our claims on Mr. Wakshul and what he testified to.

MR. GRANT: The claim they brought for Mr. Wakshul was he went on vacation and he wasn't allowed. Now, what's he got to do with that?

MR. WILLIAMS: That's why I am inquiring, Your Honor, that's why I am inquiring.

MR. GRANT: I object.

THE COURT: Objection is well taken.

MR. WILLIAMS: We have a valid claim, Your Honor, a viable claim, and we have foundational testimony from Mr. Wakshul. And now I have another witness on the stand and you're barring me from inquiring into it. Is my understanding correct?

Page 146.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

THE COURT: Are you saying he knows where Mr. Wakshul was?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not. I am inquiring into it.

THE COURT: Well, did you put that in writing for the D.A.? You see the problem we have here. If you gave a list to me in the very beginning and put it in writing what you hope to prove by the witnesses, he would then have it.

MR. WILLIAMS: What Your Honor is suggesting is that for every --

THE COURT: I am suggesting that if you had done that in the beginning, just as you did with the other affidavits that you filed --

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not going to quibble with the Court. The Court is barring me from inquiring into it, then so be it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor is barring me?

THE COURT: He made an objection, I sustained it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

THE COURT: If you consider that

Page 147.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

barring you, then I'm barring you. But I don't consider that as barring you.

MR. WILLIAMS: After yesterday, in view of yesterday I could only accept it as a bar.

THE COURT: You could accept it either way, but when somebody makes an objection I will either sustain it or overrule it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Getting back to Cynthia White, Detective Thomas, was Cynthia White arrested between the dates of December 9th, 1981 and June of 1982?

A. Was Cynthia White arrested between December?

Q. Was she ever arrested, yes?

A. I have no idea.

Q. You do not?

A. At this juncture, you know, I don't, I don't know whether Cynthia White was arrested, no, I don't. I don't. You know, you are asking me to give you a time between a 12-month span 12 years ago was someone arrested. I don't know.

Q. Okay. Do you know, as the hub of the wheel of this investigation, how Miss White, a transient and a prostitute, was monitored to insure her availability at trial?

Page 148.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. GRANT: Objection. She had a fixed abode, she was not a transient. Based on the record of this trial.

MR. WILLIAMS: That may very well be Mr. Thomas' answer.

THE COURT: He is objecting to how you phrased your question. If you could rephrase your question somehow that it is not objectionable then go ahead.

MR. WILLIAMS: My question was how was she monitored to assure availability.

THE COURT: You're assuming that she was monitored.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, if they had her address then that's fine, that is a form of monitoring.

THE COURT: No, it is not. The fact that I am a witness and I give them my address, does that mean that they are going to monitor me?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, how did you as the hub of the wheel of this investigation satisfy yourself that Miss White would be available to testify at trial?

A. I prefer to be called the assigned detective,

Page 149.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

sir. But as far as availability, I give the witness to the D.A.'s Office, the D.A. has D.A. detectives to serve the subpoenas and get their witnesses in.

Q. I see. So you played no role in insuring that witnesses and the whereabouts of those witnesses were known to the assigned District Attorney?

A. No, sir. Here, this was not the only case that I had then or thereafter in Homicide. Everyday you have a wheel and everyday someone else gets assigned to another case. And you can't just go around and what you want me to say. I can't just follow people around, whatever you want me to say I'm doing.

Q. I understand that, Mr. Thomas. But what I am saying is you would transmit the police reports that were prepared for a witness such as Miss White and then the assigned District Attorney then has the burden and obligation of assuring that witnesses' availability; is that your understanding?

A. It is the responsibility of the D.A.'s Office to get the witnesses in. They subpoena who they want in. You subpoenaed me.

Q. Okay. So the District Attorney bears that responsibility?

A. That is correct. Or the defense attorney.

Page 150.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Or the defense attorney?

A. Each of you have the equal thing to go to the judge and ask for a subpoena.

Q. Now, are you aware and were you aware back in 1981 and 1982 that members of the Philadelphia Police Department had the capacity to administer polygraph examinations?

A. We had a polygraph unit in the Philadelphia Police Department back then, that is correct.

Q. And which police officers or law enforcement personnel administer those polygraph examinations?

A. Honestly, at this juncture I can't recall.

Q. Back in 1981 and '82.

A. Like I said, I don't know, I don't remember.

Q. Do you know what kind of training those police officers have who administer those polygraph examinations?

A. No, sir, I have no idea what their qualifications for their job is.

Q. Do you know anything about the validity or the method of appropriately administering a polygraph examination?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, if he is qualifying him, or attempting to qualify him as a polygrapher, then I object. It's beyond the scope of what his offer of proof was.

Page 151.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I told Mr. Grant that I would inquire into the area of polygraphs.

MR. GRANT: No, you didn't. You told me you would inquire into the bias of selectively using the polygraph. Well, let's get to it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, I am going into that.

THE COURT: He is talking about qualifications. He doesn't hire anybody to be a polygraph operator.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am simply --

THE COURT: The City of Philadelphia does, and they have records as to the qualifications.

MR. WILLIAMS: Is Your Honor barring me from inquiring?

THE COURT: I am not barring you, I am trying to educate you. But if you don't want to take my advice, fine. He has nothing to do with it: He doesn't hire or fire any operator who operates the polygraph machine.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 152.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Well, let me ask you this, Mr. Thomas: We heard testimony this morning that Mr. Hightower was administered a polygraph examination four hours into his interviewing. Is it your understanding that that is a valid method for administering a polygraph examination?

A. I didn't testify to anything this morning, Counselor.

Q. Mr. Hightower, I am saying, testified to that. That he was given a polygraph examination about four hours into an interview. I'm asking you, do you have an understanding as to whether that is a valid and appropriate method of administering a polygraph examination?

A. I don't have anything to do with the polygraph unit now, sir.

Q. So the answer is you don't know?

A. I don't know.

Q. So you don't know if it affects the results of a polygraph examination?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Now, were you aware that polygraph examinations were used in this case, in this investigation?

Page 153.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. Without me going into what you just transpired and all, I don't have personal knowledge of who may or may not have been polygraphed or whatever. That's not -- who, that is a decision not made of me. That's made by supervision.

Q. So let's be clear: I wasn't asking if you knew in particular which individuals were polygraphed. My question was, did you know whether polygraph examinations were used at all in this investigation?

A. At this juncture of, personal knowledge that I remember, I don't recall, sir.

Q. You don't recall?

A. I don't recall.

Q. In any event, we heard testimony this morning -- and I don't think it is a subject of dispute -- that polygraph examination was used in this investigation. So my question to you, sir, is what is, what is your understanding as to the policy regarding when polygraph examinations are administered to a civilian witness?

A. Could you rephrase that question, Counselor? I don't understand it. I don't have anything to do with the policies of polygraph, that's not me.

Q. What I am asking is do you have an understanding as to the policy regarding when polygraph examinations are administered to civilian witnesses?

Page 154.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. No, sir, I don't have anything to do with that. That's supervision, my supervisor would dictate that.

Q. Do you have an understanding or did you have an understanding as to what is the purpose behind administering a polygraph examination?

A. I understand why you have a polygraph test done, yes.

Q. Can you share that with us, please?

A. It can be used sometime to make me feel a little bit more comfortable in that I believe a person to be telling the truth; and it could also be used to make me a little more comfortable that a person is telling a falsehood. But how the polygraph works, things of this nature, that's not my bailiwick. And in our Homicide unit that is a decision made by supervisors, on whether you go to the polygraph unit with anyone, at that time.

Q. As a onetime seasoned detective, would you feel more comfortable with a polygraph examination of a prostitute with some 38 arrests?

MR. GRANT: I object, Your Honor. I

Page 155.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

mean it depends on which lie he thinks she may tell or what she said. But I mean this is ridiculous: It is a hypothetical based on what?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, it goes directly to the selective use of polygraph examination.

THE COURT: He said he didn't have anything to do with that.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking him if it increases his comfort level. He described the purpose of the polygraph examination from his perspective as providing a certain amount of comfort.

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE COURT: Yes, but the thing is did he do it in this case.

MR. WILLIAMS: And that's what I am asking, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, you didn't ask him that. Rephrase your question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you know whether any polygraph examination was given to the witness by the name of Cynthia White, a woman who had over 38 arrests?

A. I don't know whether one was given or not,

Page 156.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Counselor.

Q. Would it have increased your comfort level if you had a polygraph result on what she allegedly observed on the morning of December 9th, 1981?

MR. GRANT: Objection, Judge.

THE COURT: I have to sustain that. Whether he is comfortable or not is immaterial. He doesn't know if one was given, had nothing to do with it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And what about --

THE COURT: Whether he is comfortable or not, what is the relevance of that?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, do you know whether a polygraph examination was given to a witness by the name of Robert Chobert?

A. At this time I don't recall. I don't really know, I don't know.

Q. You don't know. And what about a witness by the name of Magilton?

A. I have no personal knowledge of anyone that I could give you a name and say that they had a polygraph test at this juncture at this time, Counselor. You know, I don't know of anyone that was given a polygraph test off the top of my head.

Page 157.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. And would that also include Mr. Scanlan, another prosecution witness?

MR. GRANT: Objection: Asked and answered.

THE COURT: I think he has already answered that question, Counselor. He said he has no idea of anyone being given a polygraph test.

MR. WILLIAMS: Maybe the name of Mr. Scanlan would refresh his recollection.

THE COURT: Hey, maybe.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's why I am asking.

MR. GRANT: I object.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. GRANT: He has answered the question.

THE COURT: I think he has answered. At this time he has nothing. Now, if you have something there you want to show him that might refresh his memory, fine. But just to ask him a question over and over again when he said that he has no idea...

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Are you aware as to whether a person by the name of Arnold Howard was asked if he would submit himself to a polygraph examination?

Page 158.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. GRANT: I believe the foundational question is has Arnold Howard ever been an interviewee in the case of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal, and if he has been, do you know if he was polygraphed.

THE COURT: Could you rephrase your question that way. He is not going to object, you will get it in.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, Mr. Thomas, are you aware of whether an individual by the name of Mr. Arnold Howard was interviewed by a detective in connection with the investigation of this matter?

A. Counselor, the names you are throwing out to me right now --

MR. WILLIAMS: May I have this marked to refresh his recollection Defense Exhibit...

THE COURT OFFICER: 17.

MR. GRANT: I would object. Was Mr. Howard the subject of whatever you told me about?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am trying to refresh his recollection.

Page 159.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. GRANT: No, my question is did you say you were going to interview him, cross-examine him about some guy named Howard, did you say that, sir, to me or not?

Never heard the name before out of your lips until just this moment.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, first of all, Your Honor, I feel very uncomfortable in a Court of law having my adversary address me personally.

THE COURT: Well, I feel out of whack too. And I told you in the beginning put it in writing. Serve him a copy, give me a copy, and then I could rule on these questions. You didn't do it. And since he says -- and I will have to take his word: He is an Officer of the Court just as you are -- and he said you didn't discuss that with him, I will have to sustain his objection.

MR. WILLIAMS: What I discussed with Mr. Grant was I was going to inquire into the selective use of the polygraph examination.

MR. GRANT: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Howard, according to his police report, was asked if he would

Page 160.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

subject himself to a polygraph examination.

THE COURT: All right, and you are objecting, or are you withdrawing your objection?

MR. GRANT: Yes, I am withdrawing it. I have his statement here.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-17.

(Investigative report was marked
Defense Exhibit D-l7 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-17, sir.

MR. GRANT: Yes, I have it.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-17, Your Honor. D-17, sir (handing).

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right, Mr. Williams, he is looking at it. What do you want to do with it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, does that refresh your recollection at all as to whether Mr. Howard was the subject of an interview in connection with this matter?

(Pause.)

A. Yes, sir.

Page 161.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. And in looking at that document, does it indicate whether -- I believe it's highlighted if I am not mistaken -- whether this individual was asked whether he would submit to a polygraph examination?

(Pause.)

THE COURT: I want the record to indicate that the attorneys are having a discussion with Mr. Abu-Jamal. I don't know. I don't know. Will you proceed or do you want to get your direction first?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, I am awaiting Mr. Thomas.

THE COURT: Oh. You asked him whether it was on there.

MR. WILLIAMS: There is a question pending, yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I see it on page 4.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And Mr. Howard was questioned because his license was found in the Volkswagen that was the subject of this case; is that right?

A. From reading this that appears to be right, that is correct, sir.

Q. And are you aware that Mr. Howard was arrested

Page 162.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

in connection with this case?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I object. He asked him was he asked to take a polygraph. He said it's in there on the page. The next question is was he given one. If not he is showing selectivity. What Mr. Howard's involvement in this case was is irrelevant to this witness and his offer of proof. Judge, that's what I keep trying --

THE COURT: That's what I told you in the beginning: Put it in writing.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, was Mr. Howard given a polygraph examination?

A. I don't know.

MR. WILLIAMS: I would like to have marked Defense Exhibit 18 --

Is it Defense Exhibit 18?

It is a shorter document, Mr. Thomas. I would like you to review that as well.

(Investigative report was marked
Defense Exhibit D-l8 for identification.)

MR. WILLIAMS: The question that you should have in mind after reviewing it is whether this individual, the subject of this interview, a Mr. Nelms, was asked whether he would submit to a polygraph examination.

Page 163.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

THE COURT OFFICER: D-18, sir (handing).

(Pause.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Are you in a position to answer the question, sir?

THE COURT: Do you think maybe you could agree among yourselves? I don't know.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: Counselor...

THE COURT: I think he wants to know your question again, Counselor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Yes. With respect to Mr. Nelms, the subject of the interview report of Defense Exhibit 18, can you tell us whether he was asked if he would submit to a polygraph examination?

A. Counsel, I see a question in there would you be willing to take a polygraph examination. My only question is, this is an interview from Staff

Page 164.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Inspector Weldon Jones? Which wouldn't be in the Homicide, it wouldn't be within my scope. And it's dated November the 9th, 1981. And it just has a police officer, doesn't have any name.

THE COURT: It is November '81? That is prior to this incident, Counselor. Is that prior to this incident?

MR. WILLIAMS: That is a document that was turned over by the District Attorney's Office.

THE COURT: I know that, but he said something about November of '81. Is that prior to this incident?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes. Apparently it is.

THE COURT: Well, what does it have to do with this case?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it was turned over by the District Attorney's Office.

THE COURT: Well, they turned it over. Maybe they turned it over, I don't know, but I am asking you what does it have to do with this case?

Would you look at it with him, Mr. Grant.

MR. GRANT: This is mis transcribed,

Page 165.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Your Honor: It is supposed to be 12-9-81. However, it is not, it is not the Homicide detective division, it is special investigation resulting from the complaint filed by Mr. Jackson. This is an IAB interview.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's not true.

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. WILLIAMS: The date of the interview is 12-9-81.

MR. GRANT: I agree.

MR. WILLIAMS: And no complaint was filed.

MR. GRANT: Oh, okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Until sometime thereafter.

MR. GRANT: Maybe that date is wrong. It clearly is wrong.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. In any event -- leaving aside the date, which is obviously an error -- the subject, have you read this document?

A. No, sir, I got to the top of it and I wanted to get a clarification before I --

Q. If you read the document (handing)...

Tell me if you are not satisfied that

Page 166.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct that document relates to the investigation of the shooting death of Officer Faulkner?

(Pause.)

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Yes, now having reviewed that document, that document does relate to the shooting death of Officer Faulkner; isn't that true?

A. It gives a synopsis similar to the incident of Officer Faulkner but without mentioning any names. And this being a printed copy, I'm not going to say under oath this relates to that thing. It is an incident similar to that, that's as far as I want to go.

Q. I appreciate your carefulness. In any event, is there a reference in that document as to whether the individual interviewed was asked if he would submit himself to a polygraph examination?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MR. GRANT: Objection because it is

Page 167.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

not relevant to this proceeding. It can not be authenticated as having a relationship to this.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, then --

MR. GRANT: It is not done by Homicide investigating a homicide, apparently. From the face of the document.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, is the prosecution claiming now that that document has no relationship to this case?

MR. GRANT: I am saying it can't be authenticated as proving that anybody at the direction of Homicide caused or didn't cause polygraph examinations to be taken in this particular murder.

THE COURT: All right, okay. So go back and --

MR. WILLIAMS: If I could have the document back, please.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you recall of the four prosecution alleged eyewitnesses -- that is Cynthia White, Mr. Chobert, Mr. Magilton and Mr. Scanlan -- whether all of them had prior criminal, prior criminal history?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE COURT: The basis of your

Page 168.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

objection?

MR. GRANT: The basis of my objection, Your Honor, is I mean if he wants to impeach the witness after the Jury reached their verdict that's one thing, but that is not the, that is not within the scope as I understood his offer of proof.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, sometimes a question is proffered or posited to a witness and it's relevance can only be understood in the context of other questions. I need an answer to this question to proceed to my next one.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. GRANT: His next question is going to be and did you offer them polygraphs. And the reason he is asking the first question is because they are criminals, have criminal histories that maybe they shouldn't be believed, so is that the basis for it. And I am saying if he could just ask the question a person could be lying and still have committed crimes.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will ask the question. I was trying to avoid a long-winded question but I will ask it all in one question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 169.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Can you explain to us why, Detective Thomas, as you sit here today, why four prosecution alleged eyewitnesses, all of whom have criminal records, were not given a polygraph examination, but a young accounting student was given a polygraph examination, can you explain that for us in this Courtroom?

A. No, sir.

Q. Can you explain for us why a young accounting student was kept in the precinct for over four hours, given a polygraph examination when none of the other prosecution witnesses, all of whom have criminal pasts, were never required to endure that?

MR. GRANT: Judge, we don't know that these witnesses weren't given polygraph examinations. He is assuming facts not in evidence.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I am asking him.

THE COURT: He told you he didn't have anything to do with authorizing polygraph tests so how could he answer that question?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. To your knowledge were any of those prosecution witnesses, all of whom have criminal records, ever subjected to a polygraph examination?

A. Counselor, I have no idea who was polygraphed

Page 170.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

and who was not polygraphed at this time.

Q. So -- I'm sorry, I didn't want to interrupt.

THE COURT: He said he didn't know who was given or who wasn't given a polygraph, that's all.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So you can't explain why a young accounting student who saw a man fleeing the scene, who ultimately testified for the defense, was given a polygraph examination, and the four witnesses who testified for the prosecution were not? You can't explain that in this Courtroom today?

MR. GRANT: Objection. Counselor can't prove that the four were not. Therefore, the question --

THE COURT: That's why I sustained the original objection. We are still going over this. It's like beating a dead horse.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, if I were to show you -- pardon me for one moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I would ask at this juncture, then, in light of the

Page 171.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct objection, that the defense be given discovery in regards to whether any witness, any prosecution witness was given a polygraph examination.

THE COURT: I had already ruled that discovery was not available in a PCRA.

MR. WILLIAMS: Now it's patently obvious that we can root that discovery request in a claim.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WILLIAMS: In our PCRA.

THE COURT: There are ways to do it but I am not here to tell you how.

MR. GRANT: I will make it easy for them, Judge: Nobody was given a polygraph.

MR. WILLIAMS: I appreciate the representation by Mr. Grant.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Given that representation by Mr. Grant, Mr. Thomas, you can not explain why a polygraph examination was administered to a young accounting student who ultimately testified for the defense, and not for those witnesses who testified for the prosecution, all of whom had criminal records?

A. Supervisory decision, sir. Polygraph tests

Page 172.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct and who gets them and who doesn't get them is not within the scope of my decision to make.

Q. And you can't help us to understand why the polygraph examination that was administered to Mr. Hightower didn't involve the crucial question as to whether he was lying about seeing a man fleeing from the scene?

MR. GRANT: Crucial to whom, Judge?

MR. WILLIAMS: Crucial to the defense.

MR. GRANT: Well, not to the polygrapher, apparently.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is precisely the point, not to the polygrapher.

THE COURT: This witness can't answer that question.

MR. WILLIAMS: If he can't he could say so.

THE COURT: It is obvious that he can't. He had nothing to do with who got a polygraph in the first place. And he is not a polygrapher, he can't tell what questions were asked.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, perhaps the polygrapher believed that Mr. Hightower saw a person running from the scene and that wasn't the focus of his inquiry as to why he was lying.

THE COURT: Maybe, but I don't know how this witness could help him on that score.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Picking up on the issue of the man fleeing from the scene: The fact of the matter is three of the four, three witnesses other than Mr. Hightower also saw someone fleeing the scene, was that your understanding, sir?

A. Counselor, 12 years later I don't recall all the facts. There's been too many cases after this, too many cases before this. And I'm in a new career now, even that I could remember each person, each witness to this incident. Especially in the manner in which I, you know.

Q. Now, during the trial, while you were assisting Mr. McGill, do you recall ever being requested by Mr. McGill that you attempt to bring to Court a woman by the name of Deborah Kordansky?

A. I don't recall. I don't recall even the name.

Q. Do you recall being requested to try, attempting to contact a witness for the benefit of the defense? Do you recall that?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Do you recall whether you visited a witness in an effort to bring that witness to Court for the benefit of the defense?

A. I don't recall that, Counselor.

Q. You don't recall that. Do you recall whether any individuals who were interviewed by law enforcement were shown photos of Mr. Jamal?

A. Counselor, at this time I don't remember that either. I can't.

Q. You can't recall?

A. I don't remember it.

MR. WILLIAMS: I would like to have this marked as Defense Exhibit 19.

(Investigative report was marked
Defense Exhibit D-l9 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-19, sir (handing).

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, to aid you in your reading of that document, I just want to ask you in connection with that document as to whether any police officers in the investigation of the shooting death of Officer Faulkner showed a photograph of Mr. Jamal to any civilian witnesses or civilian persons?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I think the question is were any photographs shown to civilian witnesses that the Commonwealth didn't turn over to the defense and as a result suppressed exculpatory evidence. That's their claim. This is not even a photo array.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am first establishing whether photos were shown and then I will proceed from there. Your Honor, I would like to think of this as one brick at a time: Put a brick down and then the next question is another brick. But you are forcing me to bring in the whole house.

THE COURT: I am not forcing you to do anything, Counsel. But if I get an objection I want to find out what the situation is. You people have been playing around with this case for years. I haven't.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exactly, that's why we will present it one brick at a time.

THE COURT: Right. But let them know.

MR. WILLIAMS: One question at a time.

THE COURT: But let him know so maybe he won't object. You see what I am talking about?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I just have had a conversation with Mr. Grant. I showed him the document.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just presenting one question at a time.

THE COURT: Right. And I say just discuss it among yourselves; and if he is not going to object, I am not going to rule.

MR. WILLIAMS: If he doesn't object then you allow the question. If he does object you sustain the objection. That's what is happening here.

THE COURT: All right, Counselor, another wise remark like that and you will be in contempt of Court. I don't want any snide remarks from you. You will show the proper respect to this Court. Do I make myself clear?

MR. WILLIAMS: Abundantly clear.

THE COURT: Okay. Now cut it out. I don't want the snide remarks. I rule because I think I'm right, that's why I rule.

All right, you act up you will go outside. Anybody acts up you are going to go out.

See what you have caused?

Page 177.

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't know if that's worthy of comment from me, Your Honor.

THE COURT: It better not.

MR. WILLIAMS: I've been nothing short of respectful for the Court.

THE COURT: No, you haven't. You give me the snide remarks and I don't like it. Cut it out.

MR. WILLIAMS: I merely made an observation.

THE COURT: I don't care about your observation. You don't tell me how to make rulings. You have an exception to every ruling that I make. If I'm wrong I will be overruled. If I'm right I will be affirmed. But I don't need your snide remarks. That's what I am objecting to. Just so we understand one another.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think we do, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, fine.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, can you tell us whether any law enforcement personnel displayed a photograph of Mr. Jamal to any civilian witnesses?

A. This officer states he showed a gentleman a photograph of Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal which was in the newspapers.

Q. So the answer is that a photograph was shown to a civilian witness, at least one, right?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I object. This was not a civilian witness. The man was nowhere within 50 miles of the shooting scene. He owned the cab in which they found the engine running and Mr. Jamal had gotten out of. They were trying to establish is this your cab. They had showed him a picture. Did you loan it to this man.

MR. WILLIAMS: I wasn't suggesting that he was an eyewitness.

MR. GRANT: You have to do it with the photo array.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is not true, I was not suggesting a photo array. I merely asked if this individual was shown a photo.

THE COURT: Well, I think you attorneys could have agreed to this without even asking this witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, now I want to ask the follow-up question.

Page 179.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Were any other civilians shown photographs like the individual mentioned in Defense Exhibit 19?

A. Not that I recall, Counsel.

Q. Do you recall whether any individuals were shown a series of photographs, one of the photographs being of Mr. Jamal, in what is known in our field as a photo, photographic array?

A. I don't recall whether a display or array with Mr. Jamal was shown to anyone, I don't recall at this juncture.

Q. So given that you don't recall, it is possible, is it not?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained. Anything is possible. He said he doesn't recall, period.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, let me put it the other way.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. As you sit here today, you can not state with any certitude that a photographic array that included a photo of Mr. Jamal was not shown to any witnesses? Isn't that true?

A. That's true, I can't.

Q. It's --

Page 180.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. That's true.

Q. Now, you were aware during the course of the trial that there was testimony concerning an alleged confession by Mr. Jamal. Right?

A. Counselor, what went on during that trial, I don't recall all the facts and things of it.

Q. I am not asking you to recall all the facts.

A. I don't recall that.

Q. You don't recall whether there was evidence of Mr. Jamal having confessed to the crime?

MR. GRANT: Objection: It's beyond the scope of his offer.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I did mention to Mr. Grant that I would inquire into what I referred to as the Wakshul matter.

MR. GRANT: And I object. And I said each time he brings up something that doesn't support his position in his Petition, then I would object to it. Mr. Wakshul did or did not go on vacation at the instance of the Police Department. That was the only reason he was on the stand. Now you want to talk about a -- confession from Mr. Jamal?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, what I was going to inquire -- and I am directing his attention to

Page 181.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Mr. Wakshul -- by doing that through the avenue of the fact that there was testimony or evidence of an alleged confession. I am directing his attention to that.

THE COURT: Yes, but we went through all of that already. I don't know where --

MR. WILLIAMS: I am attempting to explore -- is there a rule of evidence that says you could only explore an issue through one witness?

THE COURT: You see, Counselor, that's why I said to you in the beginning would you please put in writing what you hoped to do. I asked you to do that. You still haven't done it for me.

MR. WILLIAMS: That was the purpose of the Petition and the memorandum of law. It goes into --

THE COURT: I said with any witness that you were going to call. So that the District Attorney would be alerted to everything that you hoped to bring up so he could object if he wants to, or maybe not object, but at least he would be put on notice of what you intend to do.

Page 182.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, and I mean no disrespect to the Court in saying this, but on the very first day when Your Honor ordered us to proceed to a hearing, we made the offer of proceeding in an orderly fashion by way of garnering all the statements we needed.

THE COURT: Counselor, Counselor, that is all past. You went up to the Supreme Court and they said start July 26th and we started July 26th.

MR. WILLIAMS: And we are proceeding as fast as we can.

THE COURT: Okay, but you can't tell me you couldn't have taken a few minutes to write something out and give it to the District Attorney. You knew you were going to call him today. Come on, cut out this stuff in the future, will you please. And we could avoid all of this. It doesn't take you that long to write something up. You did it with the other witnesses. Do it in the future, please.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, in connection with the evidence that was adduced at trial regarding an alleged confession made by Mr. Jamal, were you aware that there was a witness by the name of Officer Wakshul, or Wake-shul, that had relevant testimony concerning that evidence that was adduced at trial?

Page 183.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. I'm aware that there was an Officer Wakshul involved in this case.

Q. Do you know whether Officer Wakshul was ever asked by the prosecution, by Mr. McGill or anyone assisting Mr. McGill, whether he should be available to testify for the prosecution?

A. I have... no way I'm going to know that. I have no idea.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Were you present at a meeting in January or February of 1982 with Mr. McGill and a number of police officers connected with this case meeting in a room with a round table discussing how they were going to present this case to a jury, were you present for that meeting?

A. Counselor, you are saying a meeting sometime in January. I was at so many meetings and so many things doing this case, we seemed like we spent our, lives in little rooms. And I was even commenting when I came in here today they got air conditioning now, when we did this we didn't get no air conditioning. And it was little rooms with little round tables. And I spent almost a year or a year and a half with these officers and Joe McGill and what have you on this matter. I spent almost a year on this as well as my other duties in Homicide. I can't remember every meeting we had and what was said and what was transpired.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Okay. In any of those meetings do you recall whether Officer Wakshul was asked to be available to testify at trial?

A. I can't recall what was asked of Officer Wakshul by whatever officer, Detective Goldberg. What was asked of Detective Thomas even, at this juncture, Counsel.

Q. Could you help us to understand why Officer Wakshul, who had evidence concerning an important aspect of this case, if not the most crucial aspect of this case, why he was permitted to go on vacation? Do you have any information as to that?

A. Would you repeat that question? This is something about Officer Wakshul going on vacation when, Counselor?

Q. During the course of this trial, the trial of Mr. Jamal. Can you help us to understand why he was permitted to go on vacation?

A. By Civil Service regulations he gets two or three weeks a year if he puts in his for vacation. I have no idea here, Counselor. You would have to -- I have no idea.

Page 185.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. I'd have to what?

A. I have no idea.

Q. You have no idea why Mr. Wakshul was let go on vacation?

A. You'd have to ask Officer Wakshul: He went on vacation, not Detective Thomas.

Q. He asked us to ask someone else as to whether, as to why he was let go on vacation.

MR. GRANT: I object, Judge.

THE COURT: No, come on, now, Counselor. I told you who to ask.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now you testified earlier this afternoon that one of your obligations was to maintain the files; do you remember that?

A. I testified that I put the Homicide binder together.

Q. Right. And that you would assist Mr. McGill in giving him whatever documents he needed, right?

A. On occasion over that year's time I've handed him documents. I'd give him a number of documents. There were so many things that I did for him, or the defense even, and what have you during that trial.

Page 186.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

And I don't recall everything that I did. Especially something as you want me to remember, giving him a piece of paper. I can't remember everything I did.

Q. Well, I'm not asking you about particular pieces of paper, I'm only asking whether you had provided documents to Mr. McGill upon his request. And your answer is yes. My next question --

A. No, Counselor, hold on. You are asking did I provide him with documents?

Q. Yes.

A. I mean he had the whole case binder. What I am saying I provided him with it: I may be just giving him a number, look at C-44, whatever.

Q. Okay, fine.

A. But like I said, I could hand him a piece of paper, I could hand him a document. Counselor, it is 12 years ago. Whatever I did with Joe McGill, I don't recall everything I may have done.

Q. Now, you also testified earlier this afternoon that one of the things that you did was helped keep control of the witnesses, that is to bring witnesses in if they needed to be brought in?

MR. GRANT: I don't believe he said that.

THE WITNESS: I don't remember

Page 187.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

testifying to that, Counselor.

THE COURT: No. He said he doesn't remember testifying to that.

MR. GRANT: He said specifically that he didn't do that.

THE COURT: He said that is the District Attorney's responsibility. You see, that is the difficulty: You don't know the setup here. The District Attorney has it's own investigators. I don't know what they have to do at work but that's what we have here in Philadelphia.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, are you aware of any efforts by the District Attorney's Office, by any law enforcement personnel, to secure the attendance of Mr. Wakshul to appear in the trial of Mr. Jamal? Are you aware of any such efforts?

A. Counselor, I have no idea what may have transpired from the Police Department, from the D.A. 's Office, even from myself, according to your question, because I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall whether any efforts were made?

A. That's correct, sir, I don't recall it.

Page 188.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

Q. Let me ask you this. Being, having extensive experience in the Philadelphia Police Department, if efforts were made to locate Officer Wakshul within the Police Department, could he have been located?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: What is the basis for that objection, Your Honor?

MR. GRANT: The objection is how does he know where the man was and how does he know what effort could be made by somebody else. Clearly it is speculation in his mind as to what they might be doing.

MR. WILLIAMS: I predicated the question in his experience -- and it is an extensive one -- as to whether he could be located.

THE COURT: Let me say this, Counselor. If this was the only case he handled in the course of his career, I might agree with you. But I would venture to say there must have been hundreds, maybe even thousands of cases that he handled. So how do you expect him to remember every case?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not asking in every case.

Page 189.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

THE COURT: Well, he already told you that it would be up to the District Attorney's Office to locate a witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: But in the hundreds of cases that he has been involved with, perhaps he has come across a situation where a witness was located by law enforcement. Or indeed a brother officer.

THE COURT: It depends on what you are talking about in law enforcement. The District Attorney detectives are law enforcement officers, the investigators are law enforcement officers.

MR. GRANT: My objection is, Judge, maybe he has that experience, maybe he doesn't, but on any particular day when police officers can find the guy who is on vacation, if he is in town or out of town or whatever, there is no general rule that you could make, either an individual can be found or not. So there is no general rule about whether cops can find other cops.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, let me ask this, then. Are the home

Page 190.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

phone numbers of police officers available to the superiors, that is the supervisors of those police officers?

A. The -- yes.

Q. Okay.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And indeed, in the police statements that were prepared in this case, those police statements contained the addresses and phone numbers of the persons interviewed; isn't that true?

A. You are referring to civilian or police personnel?

Q. Both.

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, a police officer's, were the addresses and phone numbers contained in the police reports?

A. No, sir.

Q. Just the precinct -- just the --

MR. WILLIAMS: What is it.

(Discussion was held off the record at this between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. The district?

Page 191.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

A. That's correct, sir.

Q. So one would have to refer to the personnel file of the brother police officer, of the relevant police officer to find the home phone number?

A. One would have to go to the district roster, or personnel has, I believe, an alphabetical roster, or you can go to a roster by badge number. There is a whole lot of cross reference I believe in the Police Department. It's probably changed since I left but at that time I believe it was there.

Q. Do you know who directed Mr. Wakshul not to go on vacation before --

MR. GRANT: Objection: Assumes a fact not in evidence.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Wakshul testified to that.

THE COURT: Fine, ask Mr. Wakshul that.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking who that person is.

MR. GRANT: It assumes a fact not in evidence, is my objection, because he didn't testify to that.

MR. WILLIAMS: He testified one, possibly more than one person directed him not to go on vacation.

Page 192.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

MR. GRANT: No, he asked him if he would stay around if he was on vacation. That's different.

MR. WILLIAMS: Fine, I will ask that question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you know who told Mr. Wakshul to stay around if he was on vacation?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Now, as a onetime seasoned detective, is it unusual for you, is it unusual for a police officer to not know the significance or the importance of a confession?

MR. GRANT: Objection: Beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes directly to the claim of officer --

THE COURT: I sustained the objection, Counselor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. As a seasoned detective, or once seasoned detective, is it unusual for you, or unusual to you, that not a single police officer reported hearing a

Page 193.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Direct

confession within two months of the time that that confession allegedly was uttered, is that unusual for you?

MR. GRANT: Objection. Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, certain individuals, certain individuals noted to law enforcement on the night, or the morning of the shooting of Officer Faulkner, that they had seen an individual fleeing the scene. Did you do any follow-up investigation in light of that information?

MR. GRANT: Objection: That was litigated at the time of trial. It's beyond the offer of proof that he made. And I would like to ask the Court if it will inquire what other lines of questioning we are going to go through with this witness.

THE COURT: Sustain the objection, Counselor.

MR. WILLIAMS: In light of the sustaining of that objection, I have no further questions.

MR. GRANT: I just have three, Judge.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Cross

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Have you ever met Mr. Williams before (indicating)?

A. No, Counselor, I have not.

Q. Ever seen him in your life?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Ever seen Mr. Weinglass here (indicating)?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Miss West over there (indicating)?

A. No; I believe Miss West called me on my phone.

Q. Did they ever give you the courtesy, sir, of saying we are representing Mr. Jamal and we would like to show you the paperwork that was involved in this murder so you could know and answer our questions intelligently instead of saying I don't recall, it's been 12 years, I don't know; did anybody do that for you?

A. No, sir. Counselor, I even asked the Court Crier to ask them if they want to speak to me when I got here this morning. They didn't want to come back and see me.

Q. So the first time you are speaking to them is from the witness stand under oath?

A. That is correct, Counselor.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Cross

Q. Did they ever show you any photographs?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they ever discuss any statements any witnesses made with you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they ever tell you we're going to ask you about a guy named Wakshul?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they ask you or show you a vacation log for any individuals?

A. No, sir.

Q. They just gave you a subpoena and Miss West coordinated your schedule for you to come?

A. Their investigator came to my house and misrepresented himself and tried to force a subpoena on my wife while I was absent. And then later they came up on the Turnpike and I received a subpoena from the investigator.

Q. On the Turnpike?

A. That's correct, while I was working. They went to my office and they got someone out of line at my office and trying to see what I looked like on pictures that are displayed around my office and what have you. And so my office called me while at my work station, where my duty station was that day.

Detective William Thomas, Ret. - Cross

And I told them, I talked to my supervisor up there, I told them to bring it up to Exit 26 of the Turnpike, I'll wait there for the subpoena.

I had contacted this Court on Monday and told them I was back, I had been out of town three weekends in a row plus five straight days. And I notified them that I was here on Monday. And nobody called. I made arrangements for them to meet me in my job at eight o'clock, between 8:00 and 9:00, and I would come right down, I just want to show the subpoena to my job. Nobody showed up then. They showed up after lunch yesterday. And all of them, I don't think the people in my employment appreciated it. I definitely didn't appreciate someone coming to my home, misrepresenting themselves as a member of a youth organization that I belong to dealing with black kids, and trying to force my wife to take the subpoena. I didn't appreciate that at all.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Thomas, you were shown several documents during the course of my examination of you during the direct examination. Do you remember that?

A. Yes, sir, Counselor. Those documents just as easily could have been shown to me this morning so I could peruse either those documents or the Homicide file, of which I'm pretty sure Mr. Grant would have let me see, so that I could have been a, you know.

Q. Now, and showing you those documents during the direct examination apparently didn't refresh much of your recollection, did it?

A. I could see that they had been asked about the polygraph machine. Polygraph test.

Q. Let me ask you this, Detective Thomas. Are you of the mind that you would be willing to help Mr. Jamal get a new trial in this matter?

MR. GRANT: Judge.

THE COURT: Yes. This has got nothing to do with redirect. The objection is sustained. Please.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions. Well, one other question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Having been a long-time employee of the City of Philadelphia, did you ever ask anybody in the prosecution team -- I'm sorry -- the District Attorney's Office, to review any materials in preparation for your testimony here?

Page 198.

MR. GRANT: We didn't subpoena him. It is not our obligation.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Were you aware that you were on a witness list for the District Attorney's Office in connection with this matter?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you know that?

MR. GRANT: It is irrelevant whether he knew it or not.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is relevant to whether he was prepared.

THE COURT: You called him.

MR. WILLIAMS: He was also on the witness list for the District Attorney.

MR. GRANT: Judge, we put on evidence to rebut their claims. And if we needed him to rebut their claims we would have called Mr. Thomas. We don't even know what their claims are at this point. We are just waiting.

And we didn't subpoena him, you did.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Grant made an offer of proof as to why he would call Mr. Thomas.

MR. GRANT: That's right, because I'm supposed to, Your Honor.

Unlike yourself, I did what he asked me.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And so my question is did you review any documents to prepare yourself to testify on behalf of the District Attorney?

A. You subpoenaed me, Counselor. And honoring that subpoena I would not converse with anyone from the D.A.'s Office or anyone else on this case whatever. I didn't talk about this case to anyone.

Q. I didn't ask you to talk, I am asking did you review any documents or prepare yourself in any way to testify on behalf of the District Attorney?

THE COURT: He answered that question.

THE WITNESS: Not knowing why I was subpoenaed to this case, there was no documents that I could review. I have no idea why you subpoenaed me. But I came in this morning.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Thomas, I appreciate your trouble for coming here. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused.

MR. GRANT: I would like to bring to the Court's attention, Your Honor, that at the request of Counsel, because she was a witness that they wanted second on the list, I brought in and had the detectives go find Miss Deborah Kordansky.

THE COURT: She is here?

MR. GRANT: She has been here since this morning. I notified them that she has child care problems and that she has to leave at a certain time. They knew that when this man was being sworn. They knew she was here and they chose to not put her on. Now, I would ask that we be, that they put her on and let her go. She has been here more than once, more than twice, more than three times.

THE COURT: All right, is she here? Let's bring her out. Come on.

- - - - -

Deborah Kordansky, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Miss Kordansky.

Page 201.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Do I have your name correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Deborah Kordansky?

A. Yes. K-O-R-D-A-N-S-K-Y.

Q. Pardon?

A. K-O-R-D-A-N-S-K-Y.

Q. Miss Kordansky, since coming here to Court, have you had occasion to discuss the case that we are presently involved in with any individual?

A. Yes.

Q. And who did you talk to?

A. I spoke to some of the detectives. I spoke to the, ahh, I spoke to my husband, of course. And my, I think my brother as well.

Q. Could you move the microphone a little closer. I'm sorry. You spoke to detectives?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes. Do you remember who?

A. Detective Joe Walsh. And I think Detective Miller, if I am not mistaken. Is it Miller? I'm not sure if that's correct. But another, yeah, two detectives.

Q. Just two detectives?

A. Well, ahh, three. I mean I alluded to it some

Page 202.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

officially maybe to... to a man from Internal Affairs. But, you know, more like oh, this is going on for a long time. Oh, do you think they'll call me. Things like that.

Q. So you spoke to three individuals, but only two about matters of substance?

A. Yeah, I believe so. As far as my memory goes, yes.

Q. And the two detectives that you spoke to, do you recall the nature of the conversation?

A. Yes. We talked about, well, of course the detectives brought a subpoena. And they issued that to my husband for me. But the day before that they came to tell me that I was probably going to be subpoenaed to testify for the defense. And we spoke a little bit about my statement, I mean reviewed it, because I didn't really remember very well actual events.

Q. So you were shown your statement by the detectives?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was before you were subpoenaed?

A. Ahh... I guess so, yeah.

Q. I don't want to ask you your address. But you live in the general area of Philadelphia?

Page 203.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

MR. GRANT: Objection as to relevancy.

THE WITNESS: I'd rather not answer that.

MR. GRANT: Move to strike it.

THE COURT: She lives in Philadelphia, period. I assume.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In Philadelphia?

MR. GRANT: I object. I object.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Am I correct?

MR. GRANT: Does he need to know where she lives personally?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not asking for her address.

THE WITNESS: I would prefer not to answer the question.

THE COURT: I prefer not to answer that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you remember when a detective or detectives came to your house?

MR. GRANT: 1981?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 204.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

Q. No, just we are talking about this proceeding.

A. Yes, just recent past. Umm, a couple of weeks ago.

Q. A couple weeks ago?

A. Yes.

Q. And they came once? I'm sorry. When I say they, was there more than one?

A. Two detectives, yes.

Q. Was that also Detective Welsh?

A. Walsh.

Q. Walsh and Miller?

A. I believe Detective Miller, yes.

Q. And how long did they stay when they came to see you?

A. Maybe 15 or 20 minutes.

Q. That's when you reviewed the statement with them?

A. Yeah. Yeah.

Q. Was this a statement in your own handwriting?

A. No.

Q. It was a typed statement?

A. I believe, yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: If the Court please: I don't have a typed statement of the witness. I asked for discovery on that issue.

Page 205.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

MR. GRANT: The statement she is referring to is the statement that you got. I got another copy for you right here. It's handwritten. And we went there at the request of the defense on every occasion because they said they couldn't locate the witness and they intended to call her. We served subpoenas for them on these occasions.

I don't appreciate the inference, Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: The inference is the witness was shown the statement I don't have.

MR. GRANT: You have it in your hand.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness said it was typed.

MR. GRANT: Ask her.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was it a typed statement that you were shown?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Yeah, it is this statement which I am holding in my hand, right (displaying)?

THE COURT: Why don't you give it to the Clerk.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

Page 206.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

THE WITNESS: It doesn't look like it is.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-20. Do you want this marked?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-20.

(Investigation interview record was marked Defense Exhibit D-20 for identification.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now showing you D-20: That is not a typed statement, is it?

A. No. No, but you know what, it's printed. So it could very well have been the statement that I was shown. Because I do remember printing. I'm sorry, I don't remember exactly if it was typed or printed, though.

Q. Oh. So having seen D-20, that refreshes your recollection that you were shown a statement which could have been printed or typed?

A. Yes.

Q. And D-20 is a hand-printed statement?

A. Yes.

Q.And that is the statement that you were shown?

(Pause.)

A. This is the same contents of the statement

Page 207.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

that I was shown, yes. I don't know if this is the exact replica of what I had written but it is the contents of the statement.

Q. And so a couple weeks ago detectives came to your house and then you came down here to Court, you came today. I believe you might have come some other days as well; is that true?

A. One day.

Q. One other day?

A. Yes.

Q. This is your second day?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you on the last day, not today, the first day you came, did you talk to the detectives on that occasion?

A. Yes. I don't remember exactly, that was the day my mother died so things were a little bit of a blur.

MR. GRANT: Could you speak into the mike, ma'am. or pull it up, please.

What was the last answer?

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, so Councel wants you to repeat your last answer.

THE WITNESS: The day my mother died was the Tuesday I was subpoenaed to be here.

Page 208.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

And I was here. But I really don't remember much of the conversation that I had that day. Because it was the day my mother died.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I see. And that was a Commonwealth's, that day you were subpoenaed by the District Attorney?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, we brought her in for Mr. Weinglass, for the second time.

MR. WEINGLASS: I never asked this witness to be here on that day. Never. They brought her in on a day they selected. And it is unfortunate they brought her in on the day her mother died in order to influence the witness in some way against us.

THE WITNESS: They didn't know my mother had died.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. But you now know we didn't ask you to be here that day, it was the District Attorneys who brought you. Now, I assume on that day you didn't have much conversation with the detectives given --

A. No, no, I didn't learn of my mother's death until after I was here.

Q. I see.

A. But my memory is pretty hazy as a result of

Page 209.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

that. I did have conversation with the detectives, talked about the neighborhood, whatever, you know, different things. But I don't remember much.

Q. Now directing your attention not to the night of the occurrence -- which is December 9th, 1981 -- but -- and we'll come to that -- but to the time of the trial, which is June, the end of June 1982. Were you still here in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And did you have any conversation from December of '81 to June of '82 with representatives of the District Attorney's Office, either detectives or District Attorneys?

A. Referring to this statement?

Q. Well, the statement or any other conversation.

A. I don't think so, no.

Q. You did not?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did any detectives come to where you were living after you made the statement to see you?

A. I don't know. I don't recollect.

Q. Did you have any conversation with a District Attorney named Joe McGill?

A. Not that I recollect.

Q. Did you have any conversations with an

Page 210.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

investigator named Robert Greer for the defense?

A. Maybe. Maybe.

Q. Is there --

A. I can't remember if I spoke to the attorney Mr. Jackson or Robert Greer. I always assumed that I had spoken to the attorney.

Q. Yeah.

A. But I don't know. I'm not sure.

Q. Right. Well, now that we have Mr. Jackson in the picture, you do remember talking to Mr. Jackson?

A. I thought so. But that's only in retrospect after I read newspaper articles and realized he was the defense attorney. So I thought well, that's probably the person I spoke to.

Q. And you do remember talking to a gentleman who said he was Mr. Jackson on the telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that once or more than once?

A. I don't know. I think once or twice, I believe.

Q. And in those conversations did Mr. Jackson ask you to come to Court to testify?

A. I don't remember if he said will you come to Court or will you help us, how he put it.

Q. Did you indicate what your feelings were about coming to Court, whether you would or would not come to Court?

Page 211.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. Well, I felt some reluctance, of course, you know, it's a lot to do. But, umm, I also, if I remember correctly, when I spoke to him I had been in a bike accident - And I had very bad facial injuries, head wounds. And umm, I wasn't in the greatest state of mind.

Q. And do you remember if he asked you what your address was?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Would you have given him your address?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you remember whether or not there was any discussion between you and Mr. Jackson about your attitude towards black people?

A. Yes.

Q. And could you recall what that was?

A. Well, I wasn't specific. I never said that I had an uncomfortable attitude about black people. I had an uncomfortable attitude about black men. Because I had been raped in 1978.

Q. And you told Mr. Jackson that?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that the reason why you didn't come to

Page 212.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

Court?

A. I don't think so, no.

Q. What was the reason why you didn't come to Court?

A. Well, I wasn't called to Court, I don't believe.

Q. Well, didn't he request that you come to Court?

A. I don't know. Umm, I felt some reluctance because I had been in a bike accident. And I really, I wasn't getting around too well. But I mean I had bandages all over my face.

Q. And Mr. Jackson, you indicated -- correct me if I am wrong -- Mr. Jackson asked you if you would help us?

A. I think.

Q. And did you tell him you didn't want to help him?

A. No, I think I said that I don't think I could be of any help because I felt that the, what I had witnessed and the statement basically stood on it's own. And at that point especially, I had lost memory of what had gone on really in the case. But I knew that my testimony, my written testimony was the most accurate it could possibly be.

Page 213.

Q. You had lost memory from December to June?

A. I think that in a case like this, when there is a lot of media coverage, you lose memory within days because there's so much other influence, you know, so much other stimuli.

Q. Did you tell that to any detectives who interviewed you after the event?

A. No.

MR. GRANT: Objection: That presumes that there were interviews after this one interview.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, are you saying -- and correct me if I am wrong -- that you no longer in June of 1982 had confidence in the accuracy of your recall because of the stimulation from news media reporting about the case?

A. At that time in 1982, you know, six months later, yes, I would imagine that, yes.

Q. Now, so, Miss Kordansky, you are of a mind that if you can't remember things accurately and confidently, you don't want to speculate because you might be wrong, given the fact that you watch media?

A. I mean that's what -- unless I am seeing it I am speculating.

Page 214.

Q. Unless what?

A. Unless I am presented the statement this is speculation.

Q. Fine. And there was a great deal of media about the case after the event? Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you watched it?

A. Not religiously but, you know, it came up here and there.

Q. And by watching it I am inferring television. Did you also read about the case?

A. Yeah, I read.

Q. So by June of 1982 you had some idea from the media about who Mr. Jamal was?

A. Yes.

Q. And you had some idea from the media about what some of the issues were surrounding this case?

A. Ahh, I don't think so. Actually --

Q. You don't think so?

A. Not, not in full detail, no. I knew some what was superficial information, I would say.

Q. But when Mr. Jackson called you in June and asked you about being a witness in this case, you knew what case he was talking about?

A. Oh, yes, of course.

Page 215.

Q. And you knew it involved Mr. Jamal (indicating)?

A. Yes.

Q. And didn't you say to him I don't want to help you?

A. I think you asked me that before.

Q. Did you say that?

A. No. I said I don't think I could be helpful for you.

Q. And that's because your memory was conflicted or impaired by what you saw on TV or read?

A. Many reasons; that was one reason. I also felt that my statement was as accurate as it could possibly be and it was a simple statement. I did not witness the crime.

Q. Now, you said that you were interviewed, you made a statement that night -- or that morning, to be more accurate?

A. Yes.

Q. Right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you don't remember talking to any detectives from that morning until, until you were subpoenaed in connection with this proceeding?

A. No, I don't remember that, no.

Page 216.

Q. You don't remember talking to Sergeant Farkas -- F-A-R-K-A-S -- of the Internal Affairs Bureau on April 13th, 1982?

A. No. But if you go into more detail I might remember.

Q. Now, when the detectives came to see you about appearing in this proceeding, did they show you a statement that was given to Sergeant Farkas in April of '82?

A. I don't know when this statement was written. I don't know.

Q. The statement you are pointing to is the statement that you hand wrote in the early morning hours of December 9th. The statement that I am referring to is a two-page statement.

A. Okay.

Q. That you gave, allegedly, to Sergeant Farkas on April 13th, 1982. Did the detectives who brought you here and interviewed you in connection with this proceeding show you the two-page statement?

A. No.

Q. They never did?

A. No.

Q. They didn't when they saw you at home?

A. No.

Page 217.

Q. They didn't when they saw you the first day you were here?

A. No.

Q. They didn't when they saw you today?

A. No. As a matter of fact, that's why I don't remember being interviewed by Detective Farkas: Because I was not told about this statement.

Q. You were never given this statement (displaying)?

A. No.

Q. By any representatives of the District Attorney's Office?

A. No.

MR. GRANT: May I see it?

MR. WEINGLASS: I would like to show you this document.

MR. GRANT: May I see it?

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, I'm sorry (handing).

(Pause.)

MR. GRANT: May the record reflect this is the first time in my life I have ever seen this statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Apparently the police are still keeping statements from the

District Attorney's Office. Even today.

THE COURT: That's Internal Affairs, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: That is Internal Affairs.

MR. WEINGLASS: They are members of the police.

THE COURT: Yes, but that is a separate unit.

MR. WEINGLASS: They all seem to be working in sync.

THE COURT: No, they are not working together. All together different. If you don't know about that you have a problem.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm learning.

THE COURT: Okay, hopefully you are. Well, wait awhile. Was that marked?

THE COURT OFFICER: No, it is not marked.

(Investigation interview record was marked Defense Exhibit D-21 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-21, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Now, you told us one of the reasons why you felt that you couldn't testify in the trial was because of the confabulation of what you saw, read, and what you recall that night, that you felt that you couldn't be accurate, that was one reason?

A. Yes.

Q. Could another reason be that, Miss Kordansky, you also tend to block negative things?

A. No, no, I obsess on negative things.

Q. You obsess on negative things. Does that mean -- what does that mean?

A. Usually with something negative, something with, something bad, when something bad occurs, I think about it a lot.

Q. And so you have good memory of it?

A. No. Not always. Sometimes I distort.

Q. Pardon?

A. Sometimes I'll distort with memory too.

Q. Sometimes you distort?

A. Sometimes, yeah, when a person obsesses they can distort negative information as well.

Q. So if you obsess you may distort but you don't block --

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I object. I believe the basis of this witness is that Mr. Jackson is ineffective because she could offer exculpatory evidence. Now, I don't want to get into paranormal psychology, or psychiatric undertones, or anything like that. But I would like to hear the exculpatory evidence that he was ineffective for not bringing out, please. I object to anything that's not that.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are talking about a statement that the District Attorney's Office should have had for 14 years. It's all in the statement.

THE COURT: Yes, should have had. He didn't have. Why don't you show her the statement.

MR. GRANT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: One moment, Your Honor. I am entitled to question the witness.

THE COURT: It is not fair to be asking about a statement she doesn't remember. Unless you give it to her so she could read it and refresh her memory. Then you could ask her any questions you want.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will get to that. I am following, Your Honor, the same path of examination that Counsel followed with Mr. Hightower this morning. First the question and then the clarification from the statement.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So that I am clear -- and I will move off of this -- you do not block negative things?

MR. GRANT: Objection. Everybody does. All the time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh. Your Honor --

MR. GRANT: Mr. Weinglass blocks them out from day-to-day talking to me.

MR. WEINGLASS: Wish I could.

THE WITNESS: I wouldn't make an absolute statement.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You wouldn't make an absolute statement?

A. No.

Q. But when I asked you a few minutes ago if you block negative things you said you obsess?

A. I guess I was referring to things that happened to me personally.

Q. And what about other things, do you block other things?

A. Sometime.

Q. Sometimes. And isn't it a fact that one of the reasons why you couldn't remember in April what happened in December was because you have certain prejudices around police and around black people?

A. No.

Q. Okay. I now want to show you what's been marked D-21 and direct your attention to the next to last question on page 2 of that statement.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, we are not here to prove if she can remember that and why. We're here to prove what she saw and if it would have made a difference in the outcome of the case. That's what they alleged and that's what we are supposed to be proving. What her prejudices are, who cares. It is what she saw.

THE COURT: It is her original statement that tells us what she saw.

MR. GRANT: Exactly, but they don't want to talk about that. And I am just saying I object to the line of questioning: It doesn't go to what she saw and how it would have changed the outcome of the case.

MR. WEINGLASS: The last line of questioning -- and we are leading up to what she remembers of what she saw as of April -- I am talking about April of 1982 -- the question is what could she have testified to in June of 1982. Here in her statement in April --

Page 223.

THE COURT: Well, then let her read the whole statement so she knows what you are talking about. Let her read the whole statement. And then you could ask her anything that you want. It is not fair. This is your witness, you know. You ought to be prepared for your own witness and let the witness at least read the statement so she knows what you are going to ask her.

THE WITNESS: (Indicating).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, Miss Kordansky, having read what has been marked as C-18, I believe --

THE COURT: C-l8 or D-18? Boy, don't get the record all fouled up.

THE WITNESS: D-21.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. D-21. Do you remember being asked this question in April of 1982: Can you explain why you can't remember? And your answer was I have certain prejudices that affect my memory against and for police. And black people. And newspaper accounts affect my memory. It's been such a long time and I can't remember and I tend to block negative things. Did you tell Sergeant Farkas that in April of 1982, two months before this trial?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, does your signature appear --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on D-21?

A. That is my signature.

Q. That is your signature. Is it true what's written here?

A. My feelings at that time? I imagine I felt some feelings like that at the time. But it never precluded my sense of honesty and my sense of wanting to do the right thing.

Q. Right. It did affect your memory, as you said here?

A. I don't know how accurate I was when I said that. But... If I said it, maybe I felt that way then.

Q. Were you trying to be accurate with the police when the Sergeant Farkas questioned you?

A. Yeah. Of course.

Q. So it is accurate?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor --

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

MR. GRANT: I object to that question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 225.

Q. You don't know. Does having read D-21 refresh your recollection as to whether or not you indicated to attorney Jackson when he spoke to you on the phone that one of the reasons why you wouldn't come to Court was because you have certain prejudices against black people?

MR. GRANT: I believe that question was asked and answered by the witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now that the witness has read her April statement and her recollection might be refreshed, does it now refresh your recollection that that's what you said to Mr. Jackson?

A. I think I really, my biggest emphasis was that the testimony that I had made didn't seem relevant enough and important enough for me to come to Court.

Q. You made that judgment?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Right. And he was asking you to come to Court?

A. I don't know if he was asking me or saying will you help us or something like that. I'm not sure --

Q. And you said no?

A. -- to be specific, I don't know if I said no or I don't want to, I don't think I can be helpful to you.

Q. Do you remember about that time two detectives by the name of Thomas and Morton came to see you?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And asked you if you would come to Court?

MR. GRANT: Objection. I don't believe this is anywhere noted in the record that anybody even knew where this lady lived, so they couldn't come to see her.

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to represent this to the Court: Mr. McGill in the record said he was going to send two detectives, Detective Thomas -- who just left the stand -- and Detective Morton to go see Miss Kordansky to see if she would come. They then reported back to Court through Mr. McGill that they had seen Miss Kordansky and that Miss Kordansky said she would not come.

MR. GRANT: If he could point you to that in the record I will give him $50.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh. May I have a moment?

THE COURT: Sure.

Page 227.

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: I am doing this piecemeal. On June 3Oth, 1982, on page 13 Mr. McGill says the following to the Court. I will do this. I understand the situation and there has been another case where this came up, although I will admit in other cases I was at least advised a little bit more than one day before. But in this case, Judge, I will have one of my detectives also call her to see what the situation is, because we don't know her address either. We can't subpoena somebody when we don't know where they live.

THE COURT: Well, that is a little different from what you just said.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yeah, then there is a report back.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: From Mr. McGill after his detectives completed their mission. And I'm just doing this by way of introduction.

THE COURT: Yes, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yeah. Does the offer of $50 stand until morning?

THE COURT: No, Counselor, this witness is on the stand.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not asking the witness to stay. I am just saying I will bring it in tomorrow morning.

THE COURT: I can't condone gambling. If you were to do this.

MR. WEINGLASS: I didn't make the offer. I am willing to make the acceptance but I didn't make the offer.

THE COURT: Whatever you do with the D.A. is all right but do that out of my hearing. I can't condone any gambling in this Courtroom. Please.

MR. GRANT: I apologize, Your Honor, to put you in this compromising position.

THE COURT: I realize that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In any event, Miss Kordansky, you don't remember whether or not detectives came to see you or called you on the phone, around the time of the trial?

A. No.

Q. Is it that you do remember and they didn't or you don't remember?

A. I don't remember.

Page 229.

Q. And they might have?

A. I don't remember and they might have.

Q. Now let's go to December 9th, 1981. Where were you living at that time?

A. That's the date of the crime?

Q. Yeah.

A. At the St. James House.

Q. And where is the St. James House located?

A. 13th and Walnut Street.

Q. And does the St. James House overlook -- no, strike that. Your apartment in the St. James House overlooked the intersection of Locust and 13th?

A. Yes.

Q. And there is a parking lot before you and so you could look out over the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you able to see the entire block from 13th to 12th on Locust or only a portion of Locust?

A. You are talking in the present tense. I am not still there so I am not that accurate as to how far I could see. But I think I could only, I think I could only see part of the street, part of Locust Street.

Page 230.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

Q. Part of Locust --

A. And all of -- most of 13th.

Q. From 13th you would be able to see looking east a part of Locust?

A. Yes. Except I think my window faced, I think it faced Locust, one of my windows. It was a corner apartment, so it faced Locust.

Q. Facing Locust, approximately, just then, give me an estimate of how much of Locust you could see? Would it be 200 feet? 300 feet? Looking east from 13th.

A. Yes, that's nearly impossible for me to say. Less than half of the street.

Q. Less than half going down to 12th?

A. Oh. Okay. Wait a minute. Yeah, right, right, yes, going east.

Q. Is that right?

A. Yeah.

Q. So from 13th going towards 12th you could see half of Locust?

A. No more than half. So I don't know if it was like a quarter, you know, or half of Locust or how much.

Q. And did you have an unobstructed view of that part of Locust?

Page 231.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. Well, there were buildings below me but I was on a higher floor so I believe I did have an unobstructed view.

Q. And you were in a higher floor?

A. Yes, than the buildings, some of the buildings, I believe.

Q. Right. Would you be up above the 10th floor?

A. I don't remember what my apartment number, what floor I was on.

Q. Without being precise, you were above, let's say, the first four or five floors?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. So there was no building obstruction looking out to Locust, right?

A. I don't think so.

Q. And how far were you from the sidewalk on the north side of Locust? Sorry. The south side? Sorry.

A. The St. James House borders Chancellor Street, I believe it's Chancellor Street. And then below that is Locust Street. Chancellor Street is like a little half-a-block street, sort of.

Q. How far would you be, would you say you were 100 feet from the sidewalk on Locust, on the south side, or were you more like 500 feet?

Page 232.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. I can't estimate. I... let's see... I don't know.

Q. Well, is it further than from here to the back of the Courtroom?

A. I think a little bit further, yes.

Q. From where you were to the sidewalk on Locust Street?

A. Yes. I guess quite a bit further.

Q. Twice as far as from you to the back of the Courtroom?

A. It could be, but I'm not, I'm not sure.

Q. Now, that night around 3:45 to 4:00 a.m. in the morning you heard gunfire; isn't that correct?

A. Yes, but I didn't know it was gunfire, at first I thought it was firecrackers.

Q. Right. But you heard either firecrackers or gunfire and you looked out your window?

A. No.

Q. What did you do?

A. Ahh, you know, continued whatever I was doing in my apartment.

Q. I see. So after you heard -- you do remember hearing firecrackers or gunfire?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. And it is your testimony that when you heard

Page 233.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

it you did not look out your window?

A. No, I did not.

Q. What were you doing at the time?

A. God knows. I really don't know. It's a long time ago.

Q. And did you then go downstairs?

A. No.

Q. Did you then go to the Police Department?

A. No.

Q. Did you then contact any police investigator?

A. No.

Q. Or police?

A. No.

Q. That night? That morning?

A. After I heard the shots?

Q. Yeah.

A. No.

Q. Did any investigators contact you that morning?

A. No. You mean right after the shots?

Q. Yeah.

A. No.

Q. Or, let's say, before eight o'clock in the morning?

A. I don't remember. I know I, did I make my --

Page 234.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

I don't remember when I made my statement but I imagine it was right after the crime. But I don't think I -- I don't know if anybody contacted me right afterwards.

Q. Well, did you remember you made a statement?

A. Yes.

MR. GRANT: On what occasion, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right after the crime?

A. To tell you the truth, I distinctly don't remember whether it was right after the crime or the next day.

Q. I see. But you remember writing something out?

A. Yeah.

MR. GRANT: Objection. There has been no testimony that she wrote this document (displaying).

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, fair enough.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you write something out?

A. It's not my, it's not my writing.

Q. It is not your writing?

A. No.

Page 235.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

Q. So, then, Miss Kordansky, you never wrote something out?

A. I don't think this is my writing.

Q. Right. Did a uniformed police officer write this statement?

A. I think so.

Q. And where was that uniformed police officer when he wrote this statement?

A. I don't remember. Possibly in the lobby of my, of my building. Or possibly on the street, I'm not sure.

Q. So you saw a police officer in the lobby or on the street?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you have a conversation with him?

A. Yes. But this is in... what is the time sequence of this that we are talking about anyway? We are talking about right after the gunshots, or right after the gunshots, sirens, et cetera?

Q. After the gunshots and the sirens, et cetera.

A. Oh, okay. After. After that, yes, I went downstairs.

Q. You went downstairs?

A. Yes.

Q. After the gunshots and the sirens?

Page 236.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. Yes, I'm pretty sure I did.

Q. You went downstairs?

A. I'm positive I did, yes.

Q. And there were other people downstairs?

A. Umm, the doorman, but I don't know about other people.

Q. And there was a police officer there?

A. Not right there, no.

Q. Well, did a police officer come there?

A. Not into the building that I know of, no. I walked outside of the building and walked around the block.

Q. And when you walked around the block, did you walk on towards Locust or did you walk the other way, towards around Walnut?

MR. GRANT: I object to this line of questioning. He has yet to even approach what she saw and how that would have changed the outcome of this case at trial in 1982.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are getting to the statement. Which is why we asked her.

THE COURT: Let's get to the statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are getting there.

THE COURT: It sounds almost like you

Page 237.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

are trying to impeach your own witness before you even get to the statement. Let's get to the statement.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you walked, was it after you walked that you found the police officer who you talked to who wrote the statement?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that officer on Locust when he wrote the statement?

A. I don't know.

Q. Were there other police officers in the vicinity?

A. After the crime? Ahh, yes, yes.

Q. So when this officer wrote the statement there were other police officers around?

A. Yes. I don't know if they watched him writing the statement, but I saw around that block other police officers.

Q. Other police officers?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, can you recall today what you told that police officer?

A. Yes.

Q. You can recall that?

Page 238.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. Well, no, I can't recall what I told the police officer. I could recall today what I saw and heard, I think.

Q. You think.

A. Yeah.

Q. Yeah?

A. I'm sure I heard gunshots. I saw police cars. I also remember -- there are two vivid images in my mind from this. One was the squad cars and the police van. And the other vivid image was going around the block and seeing a squad car with two policemen in it crossing themselves because they had just gotten word from the hospital that Faulkner was dead.

Q. And those are the images that remain with you?

A. Yes.

Q. But, Miss Kordansky, didn't you tell the police that night, the policeman you saw, who wrote a statement, that you saw a man, a male running on the south side of Locust Street?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Didn't you tell them that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they ask you to sign any statement that night?

Page 239.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. Umm, I don't know.

Q. Well, will you look at the statement that's there right next to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Does your signature appear on it?

A. No.

Q. Pardon?

A. No, it doesn't.

Q. Did they ask you to go down to the Roundhouse or the police headquarters to be interviewed?

A. No.

Q. Did they ask you to take a lie detector test, or a polygraph?

MR. GRANT: Objection: Beyond the scope of this witness and their offer of proof as to this witness.

THE COURT: I will sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did they ever come back to you, to your recollection, and say to you what did you mean, Miss Kordansky, when you said you saw someone running south on Locust Street?

MR. GRANT: Objection. It doesn't say running south on Locust because if it were she wouldn't be on Locust --

Page 240.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That you saw a male running on the south side of Locust Street? Sorry.

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Did they ever come back and ask you that?

A. No.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't remember. I mean, I don't remember that.

Q. Did they ever ask you to write a statement in your own hand?

A. I don't remember.

Q. And have you ever seen a statement of yours in your own handwriting?

A. No.

Q. In connection with this case?

A. No. --

Q. Miss Kordansky, did they ask you when it was that you saw the man, a male running on the south side of Locust Street?

A. Well, I told them the sequence of events. First hearing the gunshots. Then hearing sirens. Going to my window. Looking out seeing police cars and vans. And then seeing someone running.

Q. Do you recall today in August of 1995 that you

Page 241.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

gave them that precise sequence? Do you really recall that today?

(Pause.)

A. It's logical.

Q. It's...?

A. It's the way my mind would work. I know I wouldn't go to a window if I heard firecrackers but I would go to a window if I heard a siren, yes.

Q. And that's how you piece it together: It isn't really your recall, it's your belated logical piecing together of what you think is logical?

A. Let me think for a minute.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, it is written down the same night at 4:56, less than an hour later. So we are not really talking about recall here, we are talking about being able to read and write.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not written down by this witness. Written down by a police officer.

THE COURT: Given by this witness she said.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, okay.

THE COURT: She told us that she could remember she told the police officer.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 242.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

Q. You were about to say something and you were interrupted?

A. I was trying to think about whether I could remember... the thing is I remember distinctly sounds of gunshots, and distinctly I could remember the, seeing, hearing the sirens and seeing the cars. Those are the two things that I distinctly remember.

Q. Those are the two things you remember?

A. Distinctly.

Q. And it could be, Miss Kordansky, that you saw a male running on the south side of Locust Street between those two things?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

THE WITNESS: Absolutely not.

BY MR. WEINGLASS: --

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because I wouldn't go to the window -- first of all, if I made this statement I wouldn't lie.

Q. But you didn't make this statement: It was written by a police officer?

THE COURT: Well.

MR. GRANT: He is impeaching his own witness.

THE COURT: Yes, please. This is your witness.

Page 243.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

MR. GRANT: In addition to which because she said she wouldn't lie but he said well, this was made by a police officer. What is the implication of that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Whatever.

THE COURT: Well, I think they interrupted you. Did you want to say something?

THE WITNESS: I just know in my own logic that I wouldn't go to a window for firecrackers. I mean there are a lot of noises in that area. But the sound of sirens I would go to the window for.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. There are a lot of sirens, too, in that area, aren't there, a lot?

A. No.

Q. There aren't many sirens in that area?

A. Not of the magnitude of 12, 10 or eight police cars, no.

Q. Well. It is --

A. It's not usual.

Q. But in April of 1982, more than 13 years ago, you told the police who interviewed you why you couldn't remember it, and you said I have prejudice that affects my memory against and for police and

Page 244.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

black people?

MR. GRANT: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is that why?

A. Can I tell you something else about my character? Because you seem to want to defame my character in implying that I would conspire to not reveal evidence because of prejudice. I was raped and I did have some problems, I felt discomfort with black people -- with black men. But my honesty and my sense of what was true would preclude that. I would never lie and conspire. I don't know this man (indicating the Defendant). I just wouldn't do it.

Q. What we are talking about is your inability to remember, period. And what I am questioning you about is: You've never made a written statement on your own, you've never made a tape recording, you haven't even seen your April '82 statement, and here 13 years later you are trying to recall but you acknowledge that your memory is not that good?

A. Yes.

Q. Was your memory better in June of 1982 than it is now?

A. Umm, was that the time of the bike accident?

Q. No, June of '82 is the time of the trial.

Page 245.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

A. If...

Q. Most of us lose some memory in 13 years?

A. Oh, of course, absolutely.

Q. And you also have lost memory?

A. The most accurate I could be is the statement I gave. That was the most accurate I could possibly be.

Q. But you never wrote a statement?

A. I gave it, then.

Q. You gave it and when did you next see this statement that you gave?

A. Recently.

Q. For 13 years you haven't seen it?

A. No.

Q. You can't testify whether it's accurate or not?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I believe --

BY WEINGLASS:

Q. Can you?

MR. GRANT: I believe what the witness is stating is that this contemporaneously recorded document was true when given, so it is what is called in evidence past recollection recorded which she now adopts. So this becomes the witness, for all intents and purposes - And he keeps trying to impeach her instead of that.

Page 246.

Deborah Kordansky - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: Past recollection recorded from law school.

MR. GRANT: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: With the author on the stand. When the author writes something down and takes the stand, the author can refer back to his or her writing. She never wrote anything down.

THE COURT: Why are you questioning her about that? She said she gave the statement to the police officer.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we are testing that, she hasn't seen it in 13 years.

THE COURT: Well, then, Counsel --

MR. BURNS: Under Pennsylvania law it is not necessary for the declarant to record the statement of a past recollection, it could be written down by someone else.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's refreshing recollection. Which is different.

MR. BURNS: Mr. Weinglass is incorrect, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 247.

Q. So you haven't seen the statement for 13 years?

A. No.

Q. All right. And the two things that you remember, the salient things, were the officers in the police car crossing themselves, and the sirens?

A. And the gunshots, yes.

Q. And the gunshots?

A. Yes.

Q. That's what you remember?

A. Yes. I vaguely remember there was somebody running.

Q. And you remember somebody running?

A. I vaguely remember that.

Q. Vaguely remember?

A. Yes.

Q. When you talked to the police officer that night, were you trying to help the police in solving a crime?

A. Yes... I'm sorry, it seems like an absurd question.

Q. You were trying to help?

A. If I could, you won't restate it. I was trying to be a good citizen.

Q. All right, that is a better way of putting it.

Page 248.

A. Thank you.

Q. And it would help the police, would it not, and make sense that it would help the police, by saying, in effect, you saw someone running away who was probably the shooter and you were telling the police right then and there the shooter ran away?

A. I didn't say --

Q. You said you saw a male running?

A. Yes.

Q. You were trying to help, you were being a good citizen?

A. I didn't say when.

Q. Pardon?

A. I did not say away.

Q. You saw him running?

A. I saw someone running.

Q. And you were trying to be a good citizen and you were trying to help the police. And aren't you trying to tell the police in helping them that the person -- this is my inference -- that the person, you were telling the police, you were directing them that the shooter ran away, and as a good citizen you are telling them I saw him run away and you ought to try to catch him? Isn't that why you told the police that?

Page 249.

A. That's the cops and robbers way of looking at it from television, yes.

Q. This is a cops and robbers event?

A. But that's not how I think. I am a little for --

Q. You thought it would be helpful for the police to know that after they were all there with tens of police cars and vans, you thought it would help the police to tell them that after all you folks were here I saw someone run?

A. No, I think the running was part of the flow of the whole situation. There was a man killed, there's panic. Someone was running, maybe two people are running, maybe three people are running, you know. There's police, there's news crews, et cetera.

Q. And that's the sequence; isn't that right?

A. That's the sequence.

Q. What you just described is the sequence that you saw.

A. That I don't know. Because I didn't --

MR. WEINGLASS: All right, we will leave it at that. Thank you.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Miss Kordansky, good afternoon. I just have two questions. Do you know whether it was a male or female that you saw running? If you could answer it. If you can't, don't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Statement is available right there. If you --

THE WITNESS: I assumed it was a male because the person was wearing pants, but you can't see, it is quite a distance.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Right on your statement there, ma'am, it says you were living at that time 10 floors above the City street: lOOl? Is that right? Is that correct?

A. Yes, above the street of Chancellor Street.

Q. And you were interviewed, it says here, at St. James House; does that refresh your recollection?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was at 4:56 a.m., and you said when you looked out your window you are telling us today you saw police cars and vans, a number of them, and when you saw this person running were they running to a phone?

A. I can't say.

Q. When they ran did they run out of your line of vision?

A. I -- no, I don't know.

Q. Did you see that person with a gun in their hand, with dreadlocks and a red-and-blue sweater?

A. No. I don't even think I could have seen colors on a person - I could see the colors -- well, I don't even know if I saw the colors of the police cars, but I saw the lights.

Q. Could you tell us whether or not that was a policeman running?

A. I couldn't tell, no.

MR. GRANT: Thank you, ma'am.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That person you saw running, your vision of that person running on the south side of Locust was cut off because that person ran in a building and a building was obstructing your view; isn't that correct?

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, first of all, he is impeaching his own witness and she didn't say that.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am just asking.

Page 252.

Deborah Kordansky - Redirect

THE WITNESS: I don't know where, which way they were running.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You don't know which way they were running?

A. I don't think. I mean when I look back at my memory it looks like they were going east.

Q. Yes.

A. But I don't know.

Q. Right. But your best memory, that's fair, is that this person was running on the south side going east, right?

A. That is an image that is in my mind, yes.

Q. All right. And it was a male, your best memory?

A. I thought so because --

Q. You told the police that?

A. Yeah, I thought so.

Q. The bottom line, Miss Kordansky, that night is one hour after the shooting you provided information to the police which you thought would help the police; isn't that the bottom line?

A. Yes, I was trying to be a good citizen, right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Ma'am, when that person or those persons were running east, were they running towards the congregation of police vans and vehicles?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, were they running east from 13th?

A. That's what I thought.

Q. Going towards 12th?

A. That's the image that's in my mind, but I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you know that Officer Faulkner was in the middle of the block where he was killed, between 12th and 13th?

A. I didn't know where it was.

Q. I am telling you that and assume that is the case.

MR. WEINGLASS: It wasn't in the middle, Your Honor. According to Officer Land who measured it for the District Attorney it wasn't in the middle.

MR. GRANT: Excuse me, Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Assuming he was in the middle of the block, ma'am --

MR. WEINGLASS: I appreciate the offer. Now that he sees the jacket was red and blue and this morning it was red and black, I think he is learning a little something here, gradually.

MR. GRANT: My jacket's blue, it looks black.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Assuming he was in the middle of the block and you saw the person running east --

MR. GRANT: Will you stop it. You made your objection.

BY MR. GRANT:

Q. Would that person have been running towards the police congregated towards the middle of the block, or were they already beyond the middle of the block and they were running, going now almost at 12th Street?

A. They were going east. But I don't know if they were running away from the vans, I am -- not away. If they were running towards the vans, if they were in the middle of the street, or away from them.

MR. GRANT: Okay. I appreciate that. Thank you, ma'am.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You are clear, though, it was on the south side of Locust? Your statement does say that?

A. Okay.

Q. On the south side running east?

A. That's the image that comes to mind. But I'm not, I can't be that definite about it, yes.

MR. GRANT: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. You are excused. Who do we have for tomorrow, gentlemen?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we have, we have unquestionably Dr. Hayes from New York City.

THE COURT: Okay. Who else?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have Ward Churchill.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Counsel indicated this morning that there was a question about Ward Churchill. Is there a question?

MR. GRANT: Yes, a lot of questions about Ward Churchill. We have objections.

MR. WEINGLASS: I thought you would.

THE COURT: Who else? Who else? Gentleman, if you don't know, it's 23 minutes of 6:00 already. Could I have the names, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, what happens to us --

THE COURT: Counselor, just give me the names, don't give me any sad stories. All I want to know is who are you calling tomorrow.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will be as brief as I can. When we are told this morning that 11 of our subpoenas are quashed we have to do a little scrambling.

THE COURT: You were told that yesterday, Counsel. Don't bring up that material again. The only reason you got it today is because I didn't have the order to sign yesterday. But orally in the Courtroom I told you that.

Now, please, you have two. Come on, elect somebody else. Who else do you want?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have entered into a stipulation I believe with the Commonwealth on three witnesses: Darlene Sampson --

Page 257.

THE COURT: Wait awhile.

MR. WEINGLASS: Beverly Greene.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. Darlene Sampson: You don't have her on your list, I don't believe.

MR. WEINGLASS: She was one of the suppressed, she was one of the quashed-subpoenaed witnesses. But we have entered into a stipulation which --

THE COURT: Where is that on your list? I am trying to find it on my list.

MR. GRANT: Judge, these were people that they offered earlier on before they even began giving us lists.

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MR. GRANT: Jurors who would say I was on the panel that was impaneled for selection in the case of Commonwealth versus Mr. Jamal. And they would, our stipulation is that they would come into Court and they would say -- and we are not verifying the accuracy of it -- that they would come into Court and they would say I was voir dired and I was released, I am a black person.

THE COURT: Okay.

Page 258.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, they would say I was peremptorily challenged.

MR. GRANT: Peremptorily challenged.

MR. WEINGLASS: By the District Attorney.

MR. GRANT: No, that is not the stipulation.

THE COURT: What is the last name: Darlene what?

MR. WEINGLASS: Sampson.

MR. GRANT: Sampson.

THE COURT: S-A-M-P-S-O-N.

MR. GRANT: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Who is the other one?

MR. WEINGLASS: Beverly Greene.

THE COURT: Wait awhile.

MR. WEINGLASS: Alma.

THE COURT: Beverly Greene. Go ahead.

MR. WEINGLASS: Beverly Greene and Alma Lee Austin.

THE COURT: Alma Lee Austin. How do you spell that?

MR. WEINGLASS: A-U-S-T-I-N.

THE COURT: Austin, A-U-S-T-I-N. What is your agreement?

Page 259.

MR. GRANT: The stipulation is that these three individuals would under oath state to Your Honor that they were among the venire persons drawn and congregated in 253, that they were voir dired by both sides, and that they were all three peremptorily struck. And they would identify themselves as African Americans, at that time. And the record will reflect who struck them.

Correct?

MR. WEINGLASS: Agreed, that stipulation we will agree, including the reference to the record.

THE COURT: Then we don't need them.

MR. WEINGLASS: We don't need them, that's why --

THE COURT: We have two we need.

MR. GRANT: Of course, we are not saying these people are them.

THE COURT: I understand that. Of course.

MR. WEINGLASS: You are not saying that they are them?

MR. GRANT: No, I am saying that they are saying they are them. What else are you going to do, bring in fingerprints and ID's? I don't know.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

THE COURT: All right, who else besides Dr. John Hayes and Ward Churchill? I mean who else? Live witnesses, now. I am trying to...

MR. WEINGLASS: Yeah, Ward Churchill. Is Ward Churchill --

THE COURT: You gave us that already.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is he an agreeable witness?

MR. GRANT: No, disagreeable.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, could I hear, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Well, give me all you are going to call and we will worry about it tomorrow. Who else are you going to call?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

THE COURT: How about, you have an Alma Rachael. Who is that?

MR. GRANT: That is the same person with a married name. Alma Lee Austin. She's off.

THE COURT: Oh, that's Austin.

MR. GRANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Oh. That's Alma Lee Austin. Who is this Debbie Sampson?

MR. GRANT: That's Darlene Sampson with a married name. She is off. That's one of the three.

THE COURT: Darlene Sampson?

MR. GRANT: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: But it says Debbie. All right, Darlene Sampson. I am trying to find out who is George Ewalt?

MR. GRANT: He was the fore person whose subpoena was quashed.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. Who is William Harmon?

MR. GRANT: That's this person that they found who is going to prove --

THE COURT: The one in prison?

MR. GRANT: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's where the other attorney is today? Okay. And who is John Lambert?

Page 262.

MR. GRANT: Apparently he is a --

I am giving all the information about your case.

He is a Temple professor who is going to say that --

THE COURT: Temple professor?

MR. GRANT: Psychiatric kind of stuff about jury deliberations.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am told the professor can't be here until Monday.

THE COURT: Well, he may not be here at all, period. So while you guys argue it out look up the law on this.

How about Arnold Howard: Who is he? That is the last one on the list that I have here.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is not available. We are trying to locate him.

THE COURT: Who is he? You see, you don't give me anything, I don't even know who he is.

MR. GRANT: I will tell you who he is.

THE COURT: Who is he?

MR. GRANT: When Police Officer

Page 263.

Faulkner was found dead, apparently he had taken somebody's identification, that temporary tag from Bassett's travel or Bassett's car tag place up on Broad Street. And they were asking people who is this guy, is this yours. And he said yes, I lost it in the back seat of -- I believe it was... hmm.

(Discussion held off the record at this time among Commonwealth Counsel.)

MR. GRANT: In Mr. Jamal's brother's vehicle. So of course that's going to be the person that committed the crime, I'm sure.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. He is the owner of the car or --

MR. GRANT: He is the owner of the tag that belonged to, the tag on the license plate.

THE COURT: The owner of the tag. On the car?

MR. GRANT: I will tell Your Honor exactly what --

THE COURT: Just roughly.

MR. GRANT: Let me just check, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

Well, are you going to call him?

Page 264.

MR. WEINGLASS: We don't have him available for tomorrow.

MR. GRANT: Of course we are going to ask for his relevance. Photostatic copy of an application for a duplicate driver's license is what was found. And they merely inquired when he lost it, and when did he realize it was lost, Judge. That's basically it. And this apparently was lost from November 30th, 1981, three weeks before this crime occurred. And he lost it in Mr. Cook's Volkswagen that was involved in this incident. That is the vehicle that was stopped by Police Officer Faulkner.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. GRANT: And I would object to evidence of this nature: It doesn't support any of their Petition.

THE COURT: All right. Anything else?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I want to ask if Mr. Churchill will be permitted to testify, Your Honor. He is a, he is a native American writer, author, lecturer, and --

THE COURT: Well, did you tell him what you wanted him to testify to or why?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

Page 265.

MR. GRANT: First, let's reach the threshold question first. Is that going to be your last witness, sir?

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

MR. GRANT: Who are your witnesses?

MR. WEINGLASS: There are other witnesses.

THE COURT: Who are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: We are in the midst of --

THE COURT: Well, Counselor, I asked you for a complete list.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. And then you quashed 11 subpoenas.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: And now we are reassembling our case.

THE COURT: Reassembling?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we would have had 11 more witnesses that would have gone until next Wednesday. Now that we found ourselves with quashed witnesses we have to remake our case.

THE COURT: Counselor, this PCRA is taking longer than the trial. The trial I don't think was this long. But go ahead. You don't have anybody else, then?

MR. WEINGLASS: It was run with about the same speed.

THE COURT: Counselor, do you have anybody else?

MR. WEINGLASS: No. For tomorrow.

MR. GRANT: And we will not agree to Mr. Churchill. That is a lot of mumbo-jumbo as far as we are concerned.

MR. WEINGLASS: What is going to happen to Mr. Churchill?

THE COURT: I don't know. Be prepared to give me some cases on it.

MR. GRANT: Could we have anybody else that they are going to call tomorrow, Judge?

MR. WEINGLASS: That's it for tomorrow.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court will now stand adjourned until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow morning. And Court will be held in Courtroom 653.

(The hearing was adjourned for the day at 5:45 p.m.)

(At 10:25 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WILLIAMS: Two matters before we call our first witness. The first concerns what occurred yesterday regarding the introduction of results of a polygraph examination of Mr. Dessie Hightower. We are endeavoring at the moment to retain a qualified polygrapher to perform a competent examination of those results. I am referring to the polygraph results.

I've requested of the Commonwealth the opportunity to have an expert retained by the Petitioner to examine those results. And we agreed, assuming we reach the threshold issue regarding discovery of the polygraph results, we have agreed that we would work out an arrangement whereby our expert would examine those results. We think that we are entitled to have an expert retained by the Petitioner to examine the polygraph results and to come up with an analysis that we can include in the record.

THE COURT: Well, let me say to you the same thing I have said all along: Give me a case on it.

The District Attorney, if you don't agree with it, you give me a case on it, and I will study it.

MS. FISK: Good morning, Your Honor.

I would be happy to respond at this juncture with regard to that request. The issue in this case is not whether or not Mr. Hightower passed or did not pass a polygraph test. Mr. Grant's statement to the Court yesterday prior to Mr. Hightower's testimony was that it was the Commonwealth's position that the entire issue regarding the polygraph test was not relevant at this juncture but nevertheless we were conceding to his being called, and permitted it without waiving our objection.

The issue in this case is not whether or not Mr. Hightower passed; it is whether or not Mr. Hightower was told he was passed or whether he was told that he did not pass. The documents which were shown yesterday clearly reflect that it was written by the person who performed the polygraph that deception was indicated and that Mr. Hightower was so advised. That was the sole issue with regard to impeaching Mr. Hightower's credibility with regard to his affidavit. The actual results of the test are irrelevant. They are inadmissible, not scientifically accepted, and therefore it is completely unnecessary and irrelevant.

THE COURT: Basically, what you are saying is true. Because I would not have permitted it to be brought out at the time of the trial. And Hightower testified at that time. So whether he passed it or flunked it is of no moment as far as the PCRA Petition is concerned.

I am denying it but I will let you research the law, do whatever you want to. Give me the cases and if I think I'm wrong I'll reverse myself.

What is your other problem?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, without quarreling with the Court's order, let me just --

Page 6.

THE COURT: Well, please don't.

MR. WILLIAMS: I just want to have the opportunity --

THE COURT: Counselor, please, I have already ruled. That's it. You have an exception. I told if you have got a case that says it's important, fine. Counselor --

MR. WILLIAMS: Fine. The Commonwealth --

THE COURT: Counselor, I have ruled on it. What is your next problem?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it is not so much a problem, it is a request. We would request that our witness Ward Churchill -- who we have informed the Court we would intend to present -- be permitted to testify on Monday. He is unavail --

THE COURT: No, absolutely not. You told me he was going to testify today. Well, I don't even know whether the defense is objecting to it.

MR. WILLIAMS: You mean the Commonwealth.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, the Commonwealth. Let's do this. You have a witness here, let's get that witness on. He is a doctor, you are holding him up. I am sure he's got a lot more things to do. Put him on, let's get finished with him, and if you want to bring it up at that time, bring it up at that time.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Because he is not here. Counselor, I have said what you are supposed to do. Don't stand there and argue with me. Counselor, please, sit down. Let's bring in the doctor, finish with the doctor and then I will take up whatever you want to bring up at that time. I don't want to hold up the doctor, it's not fair to him.

MS. FISK: I believe the doctor is in the Courtroom, Your Honor. I have no objection to him being presented.

THE COURT: He has been here, I am sure he has a lot of other things he could be doing. So let's put him on so we could excuse him to go back to work.

MR. WEINGLASS: At this time the Petitioner calls Dr. John A. Hayes. H-A-Y-E-S.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I proceed?

DIRECT EXAMINATION ON VOIR DIRE

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Dr. Hayes.

A. Good morning.

Q. Dr. Hayes, what is your current occupation and employment?

A. I'm an associate city medical examiner in New York City.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is the microphone on?

THE COURT: It's on.

THE COURT OFFICER: There you go, sir.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, Counselor. I am an associate medical examiner for New York City.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And do you have any particular office within the medical examiner's office of New York City?

A. I'm, I don't understand the question.

Page 9.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct on Voir Dire

Q. Yes, are you a senior?

A. I'm one of the senior staff forensic pathologists in the Manhattan office.

Q. They have senior and junior?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you are a senior forensic pathologist?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you also maintain an office for the private practice of medicine?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And could you just briefly describe the function of that office?

A. For consultation in legal issues relevant to forensic pathology. This may involve malpractice cases, this may involve cases of assault. This may involve homicide.

Q. And, Doctor, how long have you been a forensic pathologist?

A. I've been a forensic, this is my sixth year now.

Q. Are you Board certified?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And just briefly, at what institution did you receive your education?

A. I trained in medicine at the University of

Page 10.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct on Voir Dire

London. After graduating I did internships in medicine and surgery in the Greater London area.

I then moved to the United States to Boston. I trained in pathology at Boston University Medical Center for three years. And in my final year there I was the chief resident in anatomic pathology.

Subsequent to that I took a fellowship in Miami, Dade County, Florida, which was a one-year position.

Q. So you've completed an internship, a residency, and, as I understand it, a fellowship?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is it all in the field of pathology?

A. Yes, it is. With sub-specializations in forensic pathology.

Q. Are you a member of any professional associations?

A. I am a member of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences.

Q. Doctor, are you presently teaching at any institution?

A. Yes, I am. I am lecturing in pathology in Boston University School of Medicine. I am a clinical assistant professor of forensic medicine in New York University School of Medicine. I run a course in forensic pathology at the Mt. Sinai Hospital Medical Center in New York. I teach frequently to the New York City Police Department and elsewhere.

Page 11.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct on Voir Dire

Q. Do any of the courses you teach or any of your lectures specifically deal with the area of gunshot wounds?

A. Yes, they do.

Q. Now, have you attended any specialized courses on basic or advanced pathology offered by any agency of the government of the United States?

A. Yes, I have. I attended a course in basic forensic pathology at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington, D.C. I attended a course in advanced forensic pathology at the FBI Academy in Quantico, Virginia.

Q. Have you been previously qualified as an expert in the field of forensic pathology in any court of the United States?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And just approximately on how many occasions?

A. I would estimate a little bit over 100 times.

Q. And on how many occasions have you testified as a forensic pathologist for the prosecution in a criminal case?

Page 12.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

A. Ahh, the great majority of those times, probably about 100.

Q. And on how many occasions have you testified for the defense as a forensic pathologist in a criminal case?

A. I think this will be my fourth time.

Q. So it would be fair to say that in the great majority of cases, the overwhelming majority of cases you are an expert witness for the prosecution?

A. That's correct.

Q. Have you ever been denied qualifications as an expert in the field of forensic pathology in any court of the United States?

A. No, I have not.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, at this time the Petitioner tenders Dr. Hayes as an expert in the field of forensic pathology. And I turn Dr. Hayes over to Counsel for cross-examination.

MS. FISK: I have no questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead. He is accepted. Go ahead.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Page 13.

- - - - -

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, have you been retained by Counsel for Mr. Jamal in this case to render expert opinions in the field of forensic pathology?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And pursuant to your being retained, were you asked to examine certain written materials for the purpose of rendering such an opinion?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And based upon your reading of the materials that were provided to you, were you asked to render opinions with respect to the cause of death of Police Officer Daniel Faulkner?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And based upon your reading of the materials, were you also asked to render an expert opinion respecting the gunshot wound sustained by Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Incidentally, Doctor, did you have occasion or an opportunity to examine the body of the deceased in this case?

A. No, I did not.

Q. And have you had an opportunity to examine

Page 14.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct photographs of the deceased?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And we'll come back to that momentarily. Now first directing your attention to the gunshot wound sustained by Mr. Jamal: Do you recall what records you examined to assist you in the formulation of any expert opinion with respect to the gunshot wound sustained by Mr. Jamal?

A. Umm, I reviewed the Jefferson Hospital medical record from Mr. Jamal. Trial testimony and statements made by Mister -- Dr. Colletta, the examining physician at the time.

Q. Have you had an opportunity to examine portions of the trial testimony of a Charles Tumosa, criminalist?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Now, based on your review, were you able to reach certain medical conclusions to a reasonable degree of medical certainty?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Doctor, I will now proceed to ask you a series of questions pertaining to those conclusions. And all the time at this moment we are speaking of the gunshot wound sustained by Mr. Jamal.

First, were you able to ascertain from

Page 15.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

the records and the materials made available to you whether or not Mr. Jamal in fact sustained a gunshot wound?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And would you tell the Court where on his body the gunshot wound was inflicted?

A. Mr. Jamal was shot once in the right side of the chest, just below the right nipple [indicating).

Q. And were you able to ascertain from the materials that were provided to you the parts of the body that were impacted by the bullet projectile?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And could you describe what parts of the body were impacted by the bullet projectile?

A. The bullet passed just below the fifth rib. It goes through the right lung (indicating), through the diaphragm muscle, which is a sheathe-like muscle dividing the chest and the abdomen region. It passes through the right side of the liver, and then it strikes the twelfth rib towards the back, with the bullet ending up next to, between the twelfth vertebrae of the spine, of the thoracic spine, and the first lumbar vertebrae. That is to say towards the back, just on the right-hand side.

Q. Now, were you also able based on the materials

Page 16.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

that were provided to you to trace the direction or the pathway of the bullet as it passed through his body?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And what did you find with respect to direction and pathway?

A. The bullet passes from the right side of the chest backwards, downwards, and towards the left (indicating).

Q. Incidentally, did the bullet exit his body?

A. No, the bullet stayed inside his body.

Q. From your reading, was the bullet recovered?

A. Yes, the bullet was recovered by the surgeons at Jefferson Hospital.

Q. Now, did the bullet -- and we'll deal with this in more detail later -- did the bullet go through the body in a straight line?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Now, did you have occasion to draw a diagram indicating the point at which the bullet entered the body, where it came to rest, and describing the pathway through the body?

A. Yes, I did.

MR. WEINGLASS: May the witness be shown D-22.

Page 17.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

And I first want to hand it to Counsel (handing).

This particular exhibit was appended to a report of Dr. Hayes and it is, it is contained in exhibit 4 to the Petition.

(Diagram was marked Defense Exhibit D-22 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-22, Your Honor. D-22, sir (handing).

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Showing you D-22, is that the diagram that you drew based upon your examination of the written materials?

A. Yes, this is a standard diagram which I've labeled based on my examination of the written materials.

Q. And does that diagram as you see it now comport with the testimony you have just given?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Did you become aware of any testimony offered in this trial in 1982 which indicated the range of fire or the distance from the shooter to Mr. Jamal at the time he was shot?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 18.

Q. And could you indicate what information you received in that respect?

A. Mr. Tumosa, the criminalist, testified that the range of fire was approximately 12 inches.

Q. And was that a fact you have taken into account as well in formulating your opinions?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on the findings which you've just recited, and your diagram which is D-22, were you able to reach any conclusions to a reasonable degree of medical certainty respecting the relative positions of the shooter and Mr. Jamal at the time that the shooting occurred?

A. Umm, the gunshot has to be angled downwards towards Mr. Jamal. This would be consistent with a shooter above Mr. Jamal, possibly with Mr. Jamal slightly bent and a standing shooter firing horizontally.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I did not hear the second part of that response.

(The Court reporter read back the last answer.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, do you have an expert opinion based on your review of the materials to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to whether or not a standing Mr. Jamal could have been shot by a falling shooter?

A. If Mr. Jamal is standing, he sustained a gunshot wound which goes downwards, backwards and from right to left, a falling shooter would be firing upwards at a standing man and therefore the wound pathway would be upwards through Mr. Jamal's body. That would be inconsistent with the scenario you just proposed.

Q. So it would be inconsistent with your findings?

A. That is correct.

Q. In short, would it be fair to say that your findings indicate that Mr. Jamal could not have been shot by a falling shooter?

A. While --

Q. Pardon?

A. While he was in a standing position, that is correct.

Q. Now, is it possible, Dr. Hayes, for a bullet to ricochet or tumble as it passes through a body?

A. Those are two separate things. Ricochet is what happens when a bullet strikes a hard substance or an object inside the body and is deflected. So that sometimes does happen and typically the situation in which you see a ricochet is when a bullet strikes a hard bone and is deflected and changes it's angle.

As far as whether bullets tumble inside a body, this is more debatable. Bullets, while the bullet itself may tumble, that won't change the angulation of the wound tract. So the bullet itself may rotate as it passes through a wound, as it causes a wound cavity, but that won't change the overall direction of the bullet.

Q. And was there any evidence in your review of the written materials with respect to the wound suffered by Mr. Jamal that would indicate that the bullet that struck him ricocheted?

A. No, there was not.

I'm sorry, could you repeat the question, please? I may have misunderstood it.

THE COURT: Repeat the question, he said, he may have misunderstood you. Will you repeat the question for him.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I understood that the witness was gesturing to have the same. But to save the Court reporter the effort I will ask the question again.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was there any evidence in the materials that were submitted to you for examination that indicated that as the bullet entered Mr. Jamal's body and passed through it it had ricocheted?

A. No. Dr. Colletta on the witness stand testifying speculated that there might have been some sort of ricochet. There is nothing in the evidence available to indicate that there was any form of ricochet.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Except that Dr. Colletta testified to it and that is certainly evidence available.

THE COURT: I will let you bring that up on cross.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In your review of the written materials, putting aside Dr. Colletta's testimony, did you find in the hospital records, the medical records of Mr. Jamal, any evidence that would indicate to you as an expert forensic pathologist that the bullet had ricocheted after it entered Mr. Jamal's body?

A. No, the bullet goes into the chest and passes through soft tissues until it strikes the rib at the back of the body. There is no point of ricochet inside there, inside that wound pathway.

Q. As a matter of fact, as it strikes that rib at the back of the body, the twelfth rib, does it fracture that rib?

A. It fractures that rib, yes.

Q. Is that the kind of evidence you would expect to see if the bullet had struck a rib in the upper portion of the body before it passed through the body?

A. If the bullet had struck a rib in the upper portion of the body you would expect that rib to be fractured too. And possibly the bullet would have been slowed and would have not fractured the rib at the back.

Q. So since you found no evidence of fracture or any markings on any of the upper body ribs, did that lead you to deduce in part that the bullet passed in a straight line and did not ricochet?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you indicated in your reading of Dr. Colletta's testimony -- strike that. Did Dr. Colletta in your reading of his testimony indicate that he himself was merely speculating?

A. Yes.

Page 23.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, he is your witness, why don't you let him testify. Stop leading your own witness, will you please. Rephrase your question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was there anything about your reading of Dr. Colletta's testimony that indicated to you as an expert forensic pathologist that he was testifying without a basis in the medical record?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He is asking this defense witness to speculate as to the basis of another defense witness' testimony. The record speaks for itself as to the substance of Dr. Colletta's testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I think Counsel misunderstands it. Perhaps it was lack of artfulness on my part.

THE COURT: Well, rephrase your question so she'll understand it, will you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you find anything in the hospital records of Jefferson or in any of the medical records that supports any opinion by Dr. Colletta that there was a ricochet here?

Page 24.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

A. No, I do not.

Q. Now turning your attention to the Medical Examiner's report authored by Dr. Hoyer with respect to the autopsy of Officer Faulkner. Did you have occasion to read portions of Dr. Hoyer's testimony that was offered in the trial?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was Dr. Hoyer Board certified at the time he did the autopsy?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: It's in the record.

MS. FISK: Precisely the reason for my objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, it is a lead-in question, Your Honor. I asked him did he see that there was a wound here and that leads into the whole discussion of his expert opinion. I am now asking him if he read the doctor's report, the doctor's testimony, who performed the autopsy, and in his testimony did he indicate if he was Board qualified.

MS. FISK: I didn't object to those first questions because they were proper. Whether or not Dr. Hoyer stated to the Court he was Board qualified is not relevant to the affidavit submitted with regard to this doctor.

Page 25.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: I submit it is because in his affidavit Dr. Hayes offers an opinion as to the efficacy of Dr. Hoyer's work. And part of that opinion is based on the fact that Dr. Hoyer was not a Board-certified pathologist at the time he did the autopsy. It's part of the facts he considered. Clearly it's admissible.

MS. FISK: I would note first, Your Honor, that according to Dr. Hayes' report, Dr. Hoyer's testimony at trial was not considered by Dr. Hayes in rendering his opinion. He lists only the pathology report from the Office of the Medical Examiner as a basis for any opinion he gave with regard to the cause of death of Officer Faulkner.

MR. WEINGLASS: But it is in the affidavit. And he is testifying from his present --

THE COURT: Well, read where it is in the affidavit.

MR. WEINGLASS: Although I am not familiar with the full trial record, it would appear that since I disagree with the Medical Examiner's findings with respect to cause of death, and Dr. Colletta's postulation of a ricochet. So in his affidavit he indicates that he disagrees.

Page 26.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: Well, that's all right, he could disagree. But the question you have asked she is objecting to.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: And I sustained the objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the --

THE COURT: He could disagree because he could make his own decision. I have sustained the objection. Now ask him whatever other questions you want.

MR. WEINGLASS: His disagreement is based in part on the fact that --

THE COURT: He doesn't say that in the affidavit, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: It does.

THE COURT: I have made a ruling, Counselor. The objection is sustained. He could disagree with anybody that he wants to. That's his privilege.

MR. WEINGLASS: But he disagrees because he is not Board certified.

Page 27.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: You are not testifying here, he is. He didn't have that in his affidavit.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is in the trial record.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. Now come on, let's proceed, will you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. To your knowledge, based on your review of the record, how long had Dr. Hoyer been in the Medical Examiner's Office at the time he performed the autopsy?

A. Six months, I believe.

Q. Six months?

A. From, I believe he began in June of 1981 and performed the autopsy in December of 1981.

Q. In your opinion, was Dr. Hoyer qualified to render an autopsy in this particular case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain that. He has his own opinion. Let him give us his opinion. He can't decide whether or not somebody else is qualified. The Court had accepted him as being qualified at the time, so.

Page 28.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: That doesn't preclude --

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- Dr. Hayes having an opinion.

THE COURT: He could have his opinions, I am not disputing that. Ask his opinion. But not his opinion about another pathologist. He can disagree with him and the Court will make that factual decision. But let's go ahead. Let's find out what he thinks, what his opinions are as to the cause of death.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In making whatever opinions you made concerning cause of death, did you take into account Dr. Hoyer's lack of qualifications and his lack of tenure in the office?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain that again. Now, come on, Counselor, you can't get in the back door what I am not letting you get in the front door. Now cut it out.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am only asking if he took it into account.

THE COURT: I don't care if he took it

Page 29.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

into account or not. He is a pathologist, he could give his own opinions. Let him give us his opinions. I will listen to him.

MR. WEINGLASS: His opinions are based on facts.

THE COURT: His opinions are based on what he read.

MR. WEINGLASS: And what he read about Dr. Hoyer.

THE COURT: Well, he didn't give that in his affidavit. Now, come on. Just as it is not proper for one lawyer to criticize another lawyer, it is not proper for a pathologist to criticize another. He could give us his opinion as to the cause of death, that's fine. But let him do that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, did the Medical Examiner's report indicate the cause of death?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. And what was indicated?

A. Gunshot wounds of face and back.

Q. Now, based upon your reading of the Medical Examiner's report, and your reading of the hospital record, and your reading of Dr. Hoyer's testimony, were you able to reach an expert opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to the cause of death of Officer Faulkner?

Page 30.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And what was that opinion?

A. Umm, that Officer Faulkner died as the result of a gunshot wound of the face.

Q. And what do you base that opinion upon?

A. The gunshot wound of the face is a, as Dr. Hoyer says, is an instantaneously lethal injury. The bullet strikes the brain and causes instant death.

Q. Now, in your expert opinion, Dr. Hayes, was the gunshot wound to the back a contributing cause of death?

A. No, it was not.

Q. And on what do you base that opinion?

A. The fact is that this gunshot wound of the back, the bullet just goes underneath the skin and causes no injuries other than soft-tissue injuries. There are no injuries of nerves or vital structures. As a result, it could not by itself cause death.

Q. Did that bullet exit the body?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. But did it exit the body after striking any major portions or vital organs of the body?

A. Not according to Dr. Hoyer's report. Dr. Hoyer says there is no significant injury in association with that wound.

Q. So a bullet that passes through the body as Dr. Hoyer describes in his report is a bullet that could not be a contributing cause of death?

A. Well, this particular gunshot wound the bullet just passes underneath the skin and exits the body. So, no, it does not contribute to death, particularly in the presence of a gunshot wound which is instantly lethal.

Q. Now directing your attention for the moment to the neck of the deceased: Was there any mention of a wound to the neck of the deceased in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. And what is reflected in the Medical Examiner's report with respect to the wound to the neck?

A. The Medical Examiner's report describes a bullet entry wound of the back of the neck and a bullet exit wound on the left side of the neck on the front (indicating).

Q. And having read the hospital reports, having examined the photographs, and having read the testimony of Dr. Hoyer, in your opinion how many wounds appear on the neck of the deceased?

A. There are actually not one but two wounds on the front of the neck of the deceased (indicating).

Q. Is it therefore your opinion that the Medical Examiner's report missed a wound?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is that an unusual occurrence in your experience?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that, whether it's unusual or not. He has said that he missed it, let it go at that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Without categorizing it as unusual or not, have you before in your experience come across a medical examiner's report that missed a wound to the deceased's body?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, looking at the available medical materials, could you determine whether or not the second wound to the neck, not described in the Medical Examiner's report, was an exit wound or an entry wound?

A. The slide photographs of it aren't very clear. I can't say whether it is an entrance or an exit wound.

Q. So based on the information that's available in the Medical Examiner's report, and the other information available to you, can you tell if Officer Faulkner, how many times, how many times Officer Faulkner was shot?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. My objection, Your Honor, is based on the fact that Counsel is far exceeding the offer of proof which is included in Dr. Hayes' affidavit, which was limited to two points, one having to do with the wound to Mr. Jamal, and the second having to do with an allegation that Dr. Hoyer's report defining the gunshot wound to the back as a cause of death was inaccurate. There is no allegation that there was any error with regard to failing to cite additional wounds or whether there was an additional exit or entrance wound. For that reason I make my objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, we have Dr. Hayes here. He has --

THE COURT: I know.

MR. WEINGLASS: He has now examined the photographs.

THE COURT: I know, but he gave an affidavit and we will stick with that.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the affidavit doesn't limit him.

THE COURT: Oh, yes, it does.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Counselor, look up the law. Give me a case.

MR. WEINGLASS: The case is elemental. You have an expert on the stand.

THE COURT: That's why I am sustaining the objection. It is so elemental that I'm sustaining the objection. If you could get a case on point, I will be glad to let you bring the doctor back and we could proceed into that area.

MR. WEINGLASS: As elemental as giving the defense time to prepare a hearing, Your Honor. With all due respect. So found by the Supreme Court in an extraordinary writ.

THE COURT: Oh, yes, sure. They gave you half of the apple and they gave me half of the apple.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, they reversed Your Honor when you said no stay.

THE COURT: No, they did not.

MR. WEINGLASS: They did.

THE COURT: They reversed you because you wanted August the 1st and they said no.

MR. WEINGLASS: You wanted the hearing to begin the next day.

THE COURT: Right, so they gave you half an apple and they gave me half of an apple.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, sir.

THE COURT: Now, Counselor, no more arguing with the Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show --

THE COURT: Let the record show that if you do it is a thousand dollar fine. Now cut it out. I am not going to fool around with you anymore. We have a witness here, now let's get his testimony on record.

(Photographic slides were marked

Defense Exhibit D-23 for identification.)

MR. WEINGLASS: I am doing my best.

THE COURT: Okay, fine. Do your best. Counselor, you will do it according to the rules of law of Pennsylvania. I don't know what you do in New York. We are in Pennsylvania now.

Page 36.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show another reference to the fact that I'm an out-of-state Councel.

THE COURT: Well, you are. You may not know the procedures here. But come on, start asking questions.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-23, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, D-23.

MR. WEINGLASS: I make this offer of proof for the record, while Counsel is examining. If Dr. Hayes were permitted to testify, he would have indicated that there is no way of -- it is an offer of proof.

THE COURT: No, Counselor, please. You do that back in chambers if you want to. You have given us something, D something. D-23. Whatever it is it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no jury here, Your Honor, I can't make an offer of proof?

THE COURT: Well, Counselor --

MR. WEINGLASS: It's just for the record. I have a doctor here, he is being precluded. May I make an offer of proof as to what he would say?

Page 37.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: Counselor, if you want to take the doctor back in chambers and we have an in camera as to what he is going to say, fine, okay. I am not making it part of this record as to what he is going to say because I've already ruled that it's not proper what you are trying to do. Now come on.

MR. WEINGLASS: But it is part of the record if he testifies in camera.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, Your Honor, if we could move forward I will withdraw the objection. I will not object to Counsel going beyond the scope of the affidavit. Let's just go on.

THE COURT: All right, if she is willing to waive it, fine. If there is no objection I don't have to make a ruling. She is withdrawing her objection, do whatever you want.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-23 (handing).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, based on your examination of the Medical Examiner's report, can you tell how many times Officer Faulkner was shot?

A. No, I can not.

Page 38.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

Q. Now, in your experience --

A. Wait, may I expand on that answer? According to the Medical Examiner's report, two separate gunshot wounds are described. And examining the photographs from the autopsy, a third wound is, is mentioned, a separate wound is mentioned on the neck (indicating). This is what really causes problems for me.

Q. Right, and you can't tell whether that is an exit wound or an entry wound?

A. No, I can't. It is not described in the autopsy report and the photographs of it are unclear.

Q. And so as an expert you can't tell how many times he was shot?

A. Yeah, I can't give an opinion as to the nature of the third wound. The second neck wound (indicating).

Q. Is that unusual for an autopsy to be completed and for a forensic pathologist examining it not to know how many times the deceased was shot?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. I think you asked him whether or not he could tell.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 39.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

Q. In your experience, have you previously examined the Medical Examiner's report and found that you couldn't tell based on the information in the report how many times the deceased was shot?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: What is the basis of your objection?

MS. FISK: I would ask that the question be limited to this doctor's opinion with regard to what he has seen, not his analysis of what other people might have, could have, or should have or would have discovered.

THE COURT: Based on that the objection is sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, as a forensic pathologist, is it important in your field of expertise for the report of the medical examiner to be complete?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Did you find the report of Dr. Hoyer to be complete?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. My understanding at this point is that this Court ruled that the doctor could not give his opinions as to the qualifications or opinion of another expert, he was simply to give his opinion.

Page 40.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: That's right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Simply to --

THE COURT: All I want is his opinion as to what he sees and what he finds. What his opinion is as to the cause of death. No criticism of somebody else. The fact-finder will decide what value it has.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, I am trying to give the fact-finder facts.

THE COURT: Just give me the facts. Just let me know what he thinks.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, I will try right now.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was the Medical Examiner's report complete?

THE COURT: Well.

THE WITNESS: No, it was not.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. It was not, okay. Now, was it noted in the Medical Examiner's report that a fragment was found as well as the bullet in the deceased's body?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And did the Medical Examiner, according to his

Page 41.

John Hayes, M.D. - Direct

report, measure the fragment?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And was the fragment a small fragment or a relatively large fragment?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Again we've gotten into yet another area that is completely outside the scope of the offer as is included in this doctor's affidavit.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not at all. We are talking about the Medical Examiner's report and what was in the report. That's completely within the scope of what is in the affidavit.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am talking about the report, the Medical Examiner's report.

MS. FISK: And this doctor's affidavit is with regard to the death of Officer Faulkner.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

MS. FISK: It is his opinion that the cause of death was incorrectly stated as gunshot wounds to the back and head and in his opinion only the gunshot wound to the head was the cause of death. That is the sole expression of opinion that this doctor gave in his affidavit.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right.

Page 42.

THE COURT: Let's limit it to that.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right, we are talking about the bullet that caused the death.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is the bullet that caused the death of Officer Faulkner indicated in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And was there also a fragment with that bullet?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. And that fragment was measured by Dr. Hoyer?

A. Yes, he did measure it.

Q. And how would you describe the size of the fragment?

A. He described it as I believe 10 millimeters by 3 millimeters by 2 millimeters.

Q. Now, was that fragment submitted to the ballistics laboratory, if you know?

A. I do not know.

Q. Should it have been?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, it has been. The records will show that. Now come on. The objection is sustained. Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

Page 43.

THE COURT: He doesn't know. He didn't read it. He wasn't here for the trial.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In your experience do you submit fragments of bullets?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, to your knowledge was the deceased's body X-rayed by the coroner?

A. I do not know.

Q. When you do an autopsy do you X-ray the body?

A. If there's a penetrating injury such as a gunshot wound or a knife wound, yes, we do.

Q. And what is the purpose of X-raying the body?

A. To determine the location of, or the presence and location of ballistic evidence.

Q. And there is no indication here it was done in this case?

A. Ahh, no.

Q. Is that part of the reason why you find the Medical Examiner's report incomplete?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 44.

Q. Now, did you render a report on your findings in this case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you sign an affidavit --

A. Yes, I did.

Q. -- for the Court? And have you examined exhibit 4 of your affidavit and does your --

A. Could you repeat that?

Q. Does your report, your affidavit and your vitae appear as exhibit 4 attached to the Petition?

A. It is an exhibit in the Petition; I'm not sure what the number is.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have a moment.

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, at this point I would ask for discovery of the District Attorneys with respect to the X-rays, if any, that were performed on the deceased's body. And I ask that they turn over those X-rays which we have not received so that those X-rays may be examined by a qualified expert.

MS. PERKINS: Your Honor, if I may: First of all, there is no evidence that there were any X-rays taken of Officer Faulkner's body.

MR. WEINGLASS: They could represent that and I will accept the representation.

THE COURT: Counselor, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will accept the representation.

MS. PERKINS: If I may, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MS. PERKINS: Counsel has already requested from the City Solicitor's Office the Medical Examiner's Office, the complete record that they have in this case. Everything that was done. They have the slides that were recorded of Police Officer Faulkner's body. I don't know if they told them there were any X-rays taken. I doubt it seriously because I don't believe that today there is even a practice in the City and County of Philadelphia to X-ray deceased people. But if they have the information they should find it out or they should present it to the Court. I don't have any information to that effect. And it's not our responsibility to find it out for them.

MR. WEINGLASS: All I wanted was a representation that the District Attorneys do not have any X-rays of the deceased's body. And I accept that representation.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: (Handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: We have completed. Thank you, Dr. Hayes.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Dr. Hayes, let me start with this, sir. Your curriculum vitae, which is attached to your report, sir --

A. Yes.

Q. -- is very specific with regard to the years of your internships and residences. There is no date, however, next to the first mark, which is the date, I assumed, of your graduation from medical school?

A. It was July 1985.

Page 47.

Q. In June 1982, then, Doctor, would I be correct that you were a university student?

A. I was in medical school at the time.

Q. You were in medical school at the time?

A. Yes.

Q. I take it, then, in June 1982 you were not a doctor?

A. That is correct.

Q. You did not have expertise in the field of forensic pathology?

A. That is correct.

Q. And in fact could not have testified at the trial of the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal as an expert?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, your graduation in 1985 from medical school led to subsequent internships and residences and a fellowship. And led to your becoming a forensic pathologist in 1990, a full-time employed forensic pathologist; is that correct?

A. Yes, 1989, the summer of 1989, I believe.

Q. 1989?

A. I'm sorry, after fellowship, yes, yes.

Page 48.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

Q. Your curriculum vitae reflects your current position as associate medical examiner in New York beginning in 1990; is that correct?

A. Yes, that is accurate.

Q. So your experience in terms of the practice of the field of forensic pathology and the manner in which the science of forensic pathology is conducted results from this last six years of experience you have had in the field as a full-time employed forensic pathologist; is that correct?

A. That's correct. In addition to exposure during my general for -- during my general anatomic training, yes, that is correct.

Q. I'm sorry, you said in addition to your exposure...?

A. During my general anatomic pathology training. When I was in Boston University Medical Center.

Q. Which began in 1986?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. So for the period 1986 to now is what you based your opinions on as to what a proper, qualified forensic pathologist should do in the course of post-mortem examination; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. I take it, Doctor, that you have not done

Page 49.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

historical studies into your science; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. When, Doctor, when you arrived at the medical examiner's office in New York, did they have the X-ray machines up and running?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Do you know when they arrived in New York?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know whether in fact even in New York they had the technology available to X-ray bodies of deceased victims in 1981?

A. I do not know.

Q. Well, Doctor, let me ask, then: You just gave an opinion just a moment ago that in your opinion the body of Officer Faulkner should have been X-rayed, was that your opinion?

A. Ideally, every victim of a penetrating injury should be X-rayed.

Q. Ideally, and as the technology allows in August 1995, certainly the state of the art permits you to do that in New York City; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have any idea as to whether or not technology permitted that to be done or was available to have that done in 1981?

Page 50.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

A. In 1981 I think the technology permitted it but I don't know if it was available to the Medical Examiner's office here.

Q. So in suggesting that any other person who would not have performed such an examination, that is X-ray examination, was not doing a sufficient job or a proper job is in fact incorrect on your part; isn't it?

A. I don't recall suggesting that.

Q. And you certainly would not, would you? If, if the X-ray machine wasn't available? My question is you don't even know whether it was?

A. That is correct, I don't know whether it was.

Q. So you can not possibly suggest that it was ineffective for a pathologist in 1981 not to perform an X-ray; isn't that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Now, Doctor, you told us, and let, we will stay with Officer Faulkner's wound. That wound's first. You told us that there were two gunshot wounds on the body of Officer Faulkner?

A. As described in the autopsy report, yes.

Q. And as evidenced by -- I'm sorry. You said

Page 51.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

it's described by the autopsy report; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact you prepared a report in this case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And I take it that you were as thorough as you can be in that report to make sure that it was complete and accurate?

A. That is correct.

Q. I note that that report does not have a date on it. Could you provide me, please, with the date on which that report was prepared?

A. I don't have a date for it but it was mid 1992.

Q. I'm sorry, you said you don't have?

A. I don't know the date I prepared it but it was in mid 1992. Early autumn.

Q. Is it typical that you prepare reports that are undated?

A. No, generally I date my reports.

Q. Can you explain why this report does not bear a date?

A. Well, my private business is not very active so I'm not used to doing reports. So it wasn't an intentional omission.

Page 52.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

Q. Now, since the date you prepared that report, have you received additional information?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. As a result of receiving additional information, have you prepared an addendum to this report?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Now, I note, for example, that your report reflects that with regard to your opinion on Officer Faulkner, that the materials reviewed include the Medical Examiner's findings. That would be the Medical Examiner's report, would it not?

A. That is correct.

Q. Since preparing that report, what additional, if any, materials have you received relative to your opinion regarding doctor Faulkner?

A. I received --

Q. I'm sorry, Officer Faulkner. I apologize.

A. I received Dr. Hoyer's trial testimony; I received the Jefferson Hospital records on Officer Faulkner. And I also received... I saw the photographs for the first time.

Q. When did you receive Dr. Hoyer's testimony?

A. I first saw it yesterday.

Page 53.

Q. Had you asked for it prior to yesterday, sir?

A. No, I had not.

Q. Were you aware prior to yesterday that Dr. Hoyer had testified in the trial?

A. I don't recall.

Q. In your private business, Dr. Hayes, is it generally your practice to ask the person who is retaining you to provide you with all documents and records that would assist you in reaching an opinion?

A. That is my practice, yes.

Q. Now, your affidavit reflects that you were retained in this matter sometime in midsummer 1992; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And at that time in midsummer 1992, after being retained, did you make that request of defense Counsel in this case, that you be provided with any and all records relating to the area that you were being asked to give an opinion on, specifically the cause of death of Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, am I correct that in response to that request, the sole document which you received was the Medical Examiner's report of Dr. Hoyer?

A. I got Dr. Hoyer's medical -- the Medical

Page 54.

Examiner's report, and some statements from Dr. Colletta.

Q. But the statements of Dr. Colletta -- I am not trying to confuse you -- those related to Mr. Jamal's injuries, did they not?

A. That is correct.

Q. We will just break it down. We are focusing now only on the request to evaluate the cause of death on Officer Faulkner.

A. That's correct.

Q. So I am correct, then, that you asked for any and all documents relating to the cause of death of Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes.

Q. You were provided with the post-mortem examination report prepared by Dr. Hoyer?

A. That's correct.

Q. And from 1992 until yesterday you never received any additional documents or information?

A. I received the documents within the last week. But --

Q. The records from Jefferson Hospital you also received within the last week?

A. Yes.

Q. And the photographs and slides you also received within the last week?

Page 55.

A. Yes.

Q. And Dr. Hoyer's testimony you received within the last week?

A. Yes.

Q. Does that strike you as a little odd, Doctor?

A. I assumed it was unavailable until that time.

Q. You have no idea whether or not in fact it was unavailable?

A. Ahh, no, I don't.

Q. Now, your testimony in this case is that Dr. Hoyer was incorrect, as I understand your testimony, in stating in his Medical Examiner's report that the cause of death were the gun shot wounds to the face and back of Officer Faulkner; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Am I correct, however, that the -- bear with me for a moment, sir. Am I correct, sir, that that back wound to Officer Faulkner was not a significant cause of his death, would you agree with that statement?

A. Yes, I would.

Q. And if Dr. Hoyer so testified at trial, that that back wound was not a significant cause of death, would he be correct in so stating?

Page 56.

A. It isn't a contributing factor in his death.

Q. No, my question, Doctor, was if Dr. Hoyer testified that the back wound to Officer Faulkner was not a significant cause of death, would he have been correct in so stating?

A. It was not a significant cause of death.

Q. So is your answer that he would have been correct in so stating?

A. He would have been correct, yes.

Q. And in fact, Dr. Hayes, when you were provided Dr. Hoyer's testimony within the last week, did you in fact read that that was precisely Dr. Hoyer's testimony?

A. That it was not a significant -- I can't remember the exact wording. He maintained that it was a contributing factor in the death.

Q. Let me read it to you, then, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could I have the page?

MS. FISK: Certainly, as soon as I get to it.

June 25th, 1982. Last question starting on the bottom of page 8, 183.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Question -- and this is on cross-examination of Dr. Hoyer by Mr. Jackson. Of Dr. Hoyer. Now, when you indicate that your finding of death is gunshot wounds, it's really just the facial wound, isn't that true.

Dr. Hoyer answered: There is a small contribution from the back wound, it would not be a large contribution. But there is a small, finite contribution from the back wound.

Next question: Well, if you could venture some estimation in terms of percentage, would 99 percent of the death be caused by the facial wound. Would that be fair to say.

Answer: I tend not to put percentages. I don't think these things are well suited to put percentages on.

Question: Okay, forgive me. Well, let me try it this way, sir.. Would the cause of death, the contributing nature of the back wound be a result of the loss of blood only.

Answer: That would be a major component of it.

Would you agree with that testimony, sir?

A. That, that the -- specifically which part of that testimony?

Q. Is there any of that testimony that you agree with?

A. I, I... I don't, I don't agree that the blood loss would be a major component of his cause of death there.

Q. Did Dr. Hoyer say it would be a major component, is that how you understood it?

A. As I understood you from that reading.

Q. Oh. Other than not agreeing that the blood loss would be a major component of the cause of death, did you agree with Dr. Hoyer's statement that the gunshot wound of the back, that there is a small contribution from the back wound, it would not be a large contribution but there is a small, finite contribution from the back wound?

A. I disagree: There is no contribution from the back wound.

Q. No contribution at all?

A. No contribution from the back wound.

Q. Is it your experience, Doctor, that in treating individuals who have gunshot wounds to the head, that a form of the treatment includes a gunshot wound to the back?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. Is it your experience, Doctor, that in treating individuals who are suffering from a gun shot wound to the head, that they be given a gunshot wound of the back?

A. Of course not.

Q. So the gunshot wound to the back doesn't help, does it, sir?

A. It doesn't help but --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor, to the form of the question. We are talking about cause of death, not treatment of wounds. Obviously if someone is wounded the wound is treated, but that doesn't mean that it is a contributing cause of death. So I object to Counsel's form of the question. It's way off the mark.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question.

MS. FISK: All right.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The gunshot wound to the back did not help; is that correct, Doctor?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor. Of course someone isn't helped by a gunshot wound to the back.

MS. FISK: And I believe that was precisely Dr. Hoyer's point, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Dr. Hayes has to be questioned on contributing causes of death. That is a separate category.

MS. FISK: No, he doesn't, Your Honor. I am permitted to cross-examination based on his opinion.

THE WITNESS: Counselor, Officer Faulkner died as a result of the gunshot wound to the face and injury to the brain. As Dr. Hoyer says, this is an instantaneously lethal thing, I think is his expression. It doesn't matter whether or not he was bleeding from the injury of the back, he died as a result of brain injury.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. How do you define instantaneously lethal, Doctor?

A. Resulting in effective immediate death.

Q. At the moment the wound is received?

A. That is correct.

Q. You just advised us that you are in receipt of Officer Faulkner's hospital records?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Do they reflect his time of death?

A. They reflect his official time of death, yes.

Q. What is the time of death reflected as?

Page 61.

A. I don't have the record with me, Counselor, but as I recall, it's approximately 5:00 a.m.

Q. And based on the information that you have received in this case, at what time did Officer Faulkner receive that instantaneously fatal gunshot wound to the head?

A. Around four o'clock in the morning.

Q. So the instant lasted approximately an hour; is that your testimony?

A. No, he was pronounced dead at five o'clock in the morning. When he is admitted to the hospital he has no blood pressure, no pulse, no respiration. His pupils are fixed and dilated. He is clinically dead. They attempted to resuscitate him for one hour but were unable to do so.

Q. That's correct, lifesaving measures were being taken for the period of time of an hour; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And he was not pronounced dead, that is he was not found to be beyond any hope of having life until one hour after receiving the gunshot wound to the head; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that meets your definition, Doctor, of instantaneously fatal, is that my understanding?

A. Yes, it is, when he is admitted to the hospital he is effectively dead.

Q. Effectively dead?

A. Yes.

Q. And that is the same as pronounced dead?

A. No, he is pronounced dead one hour later.

Q. Yes. Now, the gunshot wound to the back that Officer Faulkner received I take it caused there to be a hole in his body; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that gunshot wound so far as you can tell from the report and the slides exited in the vicinity of Officer Faulkner's neck; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. The gunshot wound to Officer Faulkner's head caused a projectile, and a fragment, according to the report, to be lodged in the area of Officer Faulkner's head; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And then you have given testimony today that there is an additional wound on Officer Faulkner's neck?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you have advised us that you are unable to give an opinion as to whether or not that additional wound is an exit or an entrance wound, that is your testimony?

A. That is my testimony.

Q. Are you certain that that wound is in fact related to a bullet?

A. No, I'm not.

Q. You don't know what Officer Faulkner was doing 45 minutes or an hour prior to being shot, do you, sir?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You have no idea whether or not on the evening of his death or the morning of his death, he had sustained wounds or injuries to his body unrelated to his being shot and killed, do you, sir?

A. I do not have any idea.

Q. Now, is it your experience, Doctor, that when a projectile, a bullet is fired at a human being, the bullet does one of two things: It either stays in that human being's body or it exits that human being's body?

A. That is correct.

Q. Those are the only two options; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Page 64.

Q. Am I correct as well that the hole in which a bullet enters a human being's body is never the same hole from which the bullet exits?

A. On rare occasions that can happen but those are exceedingly rare occasions.

Q. Okay, let's put those rare occasions aside unless you see the need to address it again. Would it be correct to say that if that wound which you saw on doctor -- I'm sorry -- on Officer Faulkner's body was an additional entrance wound, that you would expect to see either an additional exit wound, or an additional bullet in the officer's body?

A. That's correct.

Q. And are either of those two things seen?

A. None are described.

Q. If that wound on Officer Faulkner's body was another exit wound from a third projectile, am I correct that you would expect to see another entrance wound?

A. You would.

Q. And do you see another entrance wound?

A. It's not described in the autopsy report and examination of the slides, I don't think the back is properly shown, and the right side of the body. But no, I do not see another entrance wound.

Page 65.

Q. Well, would it be correct, then, Doctor, that since it does not likely appear to be another entrance wound because there's no other exit wound or any other projectile, or it does not appear to be another exit wound because you don't see any or read a description of any other entrance wound, that this other wound on the neck is either, A, unrelated to the wounds Officer Faulkner had, or related to one of those two gunshot wounds that he suffered?

A. Assuming that there are no other injuries?

Q. Well, I am not asking you to assume: You have all his records and reports?

A. His records also don't reflect the injury on his neck and I know that's there.

Q. Well, you see it in the picture, right?

A. I see it in the picture but I am saying I can't see pictures of the right side of the head or the back so I don't know if there are any others. What I am saying is I can't evaluate that injury properly, it is not properly described in the autopsy report.

Q. So you are suggesting that a bullet entrance wound was not described, is that --

A. No, I am suggesting that there is a wound, I am stating that there is a wound in the left side of the neck which is not described. I don't know whether it is an entrance, I don't know whether it is an exit, it could even possibly be unrelated. I just don't know because the pathologist has not described it and it is not properly photographed.

Q. Well, in fact the pathologist at trial didn't describe it because the defense attorney objected to him describing it; is that correct, sir?

A. I believe that is correct.

Q. Now, you've described that neck wound as just going through really underneath the skin and then exiting; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And is the skin in the area of the neck generally very flexible, that is that it folds when one moves one's head?

A. It's fairly lax, yes.

Q. Would you, would it be possible when, would it be possible that when a gunshot wound is exiting an individual's neck, that the folds of the skin would cause a single projectile to eject itself from more than one part of that individual's neck?

A. You mean for the bullet to split over the skin?

Q. No, the skin is folded over in the area where the bullet is leaving the body (indicating)?

A. You mean, you mean on occasion if the skin, if the skin is folded like that the bullet may leave one part of the body and reenter to cause a separate, second wound?

Q. Yes, like when a bullet goes through the arm and reenters the chest (indicating)?

A. That's correct.

Q. My next question is, then, if the bullet is exiting the portion of the neck where Officer Faulkner's neck were folded over in this way, isn't that also a part of the body where the skin could fold over and cause the bullet to, in effect, exit two parts of the skin at one time?

A. Well, not really. One bullet can not only go out once, it can go back into the body and then leave a second time?

Q. That's right. And if the neck were folded in such a fashion to cause a bullet to exit and then reenter and exit again, wouldn't that cause more than one hole in the area of the neck?

A. I would expect three holes there.

Q. You don't see that in the photographs?

A. I don't see three holes in the neck.

Q. If a bullet which entered an individual's body were to fragment and both fragments were to leave that individual's body, would that cause two exit wounds?

A. Yes, it would.

Q. And are you able to determine whether or not that occurred with regard to the bullet which exited Officer Faulkner?

A. Ahh, that scenario describes a completely subcutaneous pathway, a short subcutaneous pathway with no description of any injury of a solid structure so there is nothing there to cause the fragment to stop during it's short course.

Q. So in your opinion that did not occur?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Now I would like to turn briefly to the injuries on Mr. Jamal. You told us today that in your opinion -- oh, I'm sorry. Let me start by again going back to your report which was prepared sometime in 1992. In your report you reflect that the materials which you reviewed regarding the injury to Mr. Jamal were medical reports from Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, the Philadelphia Police Department interview of Dr. Colletta, and Dr. Colletta's trial testimony. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. So you received those items back in, prior to mid 1992?

A. That's correct.

Q. Apparently Dr. Colletta's trial testimony was available; is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. And you received those items in response to your request again that you be provided with any and all records that you could utilize?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have any idea -- and I am going to jump back to Officer Faulkner -- why you were not given Dr. Hoyer's testimony, then, back in 1992?

A. I don't know what was available to the defense at that time.

Q. When you received it earlier this week did you ask about that?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. That did not puzzle you in any way?

A. It didn't occur to me to be puzzled about it, no.

Q. Now, am I correct that since receiving -- again back to Mr. Jamal's injuries -- since receiving those three items, which you relied upon for rendering an opinion regarding Mr. Jamal's injuries, have you received anything else?

Page 70.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

A. In regard to Mr. Jamal?

Q. Yes, sir.

(Pause.)

A. Oh... no, I don't think so.

Q. Well, earlier in your testimony didn't you refer to having reviewed the testimony of Dr. Tumosa?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you receive Dr. Tumosa's testimony?

A. Last night.

Q. Last night?

A. Yes.

Q. So that is information that you have received since preparing that report?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Did you receive that last night based upon an additional request that you made to review that or was it just provided to you?

A. Umm, I asked if there was any information about the clothing of Mr. Jamal.

Q. Was last night the first time that you asked that question?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Doctor, in your career as a forensic pathologist, clearly you rely upon the bodies of the

Page 71.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

deceased: I mean they are before you; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. But am I correct that forensic pathologists by definition rely upon other items of information in giving opinions with regard to cause and manner of death?

A. That's correct.

Q. And am I correct that, for example, the, well, the toxicology results are included in that?

A. That is correct.

Q. Interviews of witnesses as to what happened or how someone's injuries happened are considered by forensic pathologists?

A. That is correct.

Q. No forensic pathologist's opinion or report would be complete until they had at least an opportunity to know what those interviews said; isn't that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And included within those kinds of standard items that a forensic pathologist considers prior to giving an opinion, would you agree with me that one of those items, particularly where a victim has suffered a gunshot, would be the clothing of that individual?

Page 72.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

A. That's always useful information.

Q. Because the clothing of that individual could disclose a great deal about the distance of muzzle to target?

A. That's correct.

Q. It could also even provide information about the direction of fire, depending on the kind of clothing the individual had?

A. That's a bit less likely but on occasion, yes.

Q. So that was certainly the kind of information that you as a trained forensic pathologist would always want to see before rendering an opinion as to the nature of or cause of a particular wound; isn't that right?

A. It's best to have as much information as possible, yes.

Q. No, my question was, that information regarding the clothing of the individual would always be the kind of information that you as a forensic pathologist would want prior to rendering an opinion as to the cause of an injury?

A. Not so much the cause but in the issue of the gunshot wound, yes, it is useful information in determining the range of fire and would be useful in determining --

Page 73.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

Q. That was not my question. My question is not would it be useful, my question is is it the kind of information which you determine is or is not available so that you could have it before rendering an opinion?

A. I don't routinely ask for the clothing but on occasion I will.

Q. You don't routinely ask for the clothing, Doctor?

A. I don't routinely ask for the clothing.

Q. Did you not say just a few moments ago that you got as much information as you can?

A. Yes.

Q. And that the clothing of the individual is certainly among those items of information if it existed you would want to know about?

A. That's true.

Q. Yet what you are telling us is that as a trained forensic pathologist who was asked to under oath render an opinion in courts of law in New York and around the country, you only take what people give you?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you don't request whether or not there is

Page 74.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

any other specific information which you know in your opinion as an expert would assist you in giving a more complete and thorough opinion?

A. Okay, well, I did ask for it last night.

Q. And from 1992 until -- today is August 4th -- until August 3rd, 1995, you never made that request?

A. I did not.

Q. And last night you did for the first time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Why is that?

A. Because I was considering possible different positionings of the body with different circumstances for the shooting.

Q. That's because the clothing of the individual might give you some information inconsistent with the opinion that you've rendered; isn't that correct?

(Pause.)

A. Could you repeat that question, please?

Q. You advised us that you asked last night whether or not there was any evidence regarding the clothing of Mr. Jamal; isn't that right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Because you were concerned about -- I don't want to misstate you -- you were concerned about the different positions of the shooter and the victim?

Page 75.

John Hayes, M.D. - Cross

A. More a question I was concerned about range of fire.

Q. I can not hear you.

A. All right, I'm sorry. It was more a question I was concerned about the range of fire.

Q. Why was that, sir?

A. Why was I concerned about the range of fire?

Q. Yes.

A. Because it would be relevant to determining the positions of the, of the victims -- I mean the distance from the shooter and victim at the time of the incident.

Q. So the distance of the shooter to victim would affect the position of the relative bodies, that is the gunshot of Officer Faulkner and the body of Mr. Jamal; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. You did not have that information regarding those, that item when you issued your report in 1992?

A. That is correct.

Q. Yet you were comfortable in putting your name on that report and noting that it was correct; is that right?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And you merely checked yourself last night when you asked to see whether or not there was evidence which showed you were right, is that --

Page 76.

A. Essentially. I should have asked for it before, yes.

Q. Now, am I correct that, or is there anything in the testimony of Dr. Tumosa which causes you to change your opinion?

A. No, there's not.

Q. Okay, you lucked out on that one?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. Ask that it be struck.

THE COURT: Well, the last comment is struck.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, you told us, Doctor, that in your opinion... the gun which fired the bullet which struck Mr. Jamal had to be angled downward towards Mr. Jamal; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you have described the relative positions of the Defendant and Officer Faulkner as being the Defendant was slightly bent and the shooter was firing horizontally?

A. That was one alternative I suggested.

Q. And the other was, as noted in your report as well... includes a standing shooter firing down at a prone Mr. Jamal?

A. Or kneeling, yes.

Q. Pardon me?

A. Or kneeling.

Q. Kneeling shooter or kneeling Mr. Jamal?

A. Standing shooter firing downwards towards Mr. Jamal, who was in the lower position.

Q. I see. Now my question to you, sir, is what do you mean by slightly bent? You said in your direct examination that the Defendant Mr. Jamal would have been slightly bent and the shooter firing horizontally?

A. The shooter is firing horizontally, Mr. Jamal is bent over like this (indicating) at perhaps a 30-degree angle from the vertical, maybe a little bit more, 40-degree angle from the vertical, that would account for a wound like that.

Q. You are indicating bent at a 30 or 40-degree angle from the waist bending forward?

A. That is correct.

Q. And when you say a shooter firing horizontally, what do you mean by that?

A. Where the weapon is held with the barrel pointing horizontally, parallel to the ground.

Page 78.

Q. Now, any change or deviation of the weapon could of course be matched by a change in the position of Mr. Jamal to keep the course of the wound as you observed it consistent, wouldn't that be?

A. That is correct.

Q. So if Mr. Jamal, if the barrel were slightly downward, Mr. Jamal's body could be slightly less bent and the track of the wound would still be consistent; is that accurate?

A. That is correct.

Q. And if the barrel were more slightly upward, Mr. Jamal's body could be more significantly bent forward and perhaps in a 45-degree angle and the course of the wound would still be consistent with what you saw?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, am I correct, Dr. Hayes, that other than those items of trial testimony which you have told us about -- testimony of Dr. Hoyer, the testimony of Doctor... Colletta, and the testimony of Mr. Tumosa -- that you have not reviewed any other trial testimony?

A. That is correct.

Q. Well, let me pose this to you, then, Doctor. If an individual with a gun came behind another individual and fired a gunshot wound into the back of that individual consistent with the gunshot wound that Officer Faulkner suffered, that the person who received that gunshot wound to the back as a result of feeling that gunshot wound took a weapon, spun around and fired at the person who had shot them before that person then falls as a result of the impact of that wound, could such a person cause a wound on the original shooter consistent with what you saw on the body of Mr. Jamal?

A. Turning around and firing...

Q. At the person who has just fired upon him?

A. If, if Mr. Jamal were bent over, were bent over, bent forward, it's possible.

Q. Did you ask, Doctor, to see any of the transcripts from trial relating to how Mr. Jamal received the wound -- I'm sorry -- relating to what witnesses observed between Mr. Jamal and Officer Faulkner at the time Officer Faulkner received his injuries?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you think, Doctor, that the review of such information would assist you in more definitely being able to state the cause and nature, manner of Mr. Jamal's wounds?

Page 80.

A. It would depend upon the reliability of the witnesses.

Q. Just so I'm clear: Your definition of a standing shooter is the shooter who is not down on the ground?

A. Who is standing vertically, yes, who is standing vertically.

Q. But not necessarily in a full upright, erect posture, they could be moving in some fashion?

A. Yes.

Q. Because really what you are looking at is the direction the barrel is facing: The relative position of the person holding the barrel is less relevant?

A. That's correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you. Thank you, Doctor. I have nothing further.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, with respect to the last part of the questioning: Were you informed that in the trial record, and did you rely on this information, that there was only one witness who claimed that she might

Page 81.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

have seen Mr. Jamal get shot by Officer Faulkner?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to whether he was informed.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am asking if he relied on it. The same question.

MS. FISK: I withdraw that objection.

THE WITNESS: I was informed that there was only one witness who had said that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Only one witness?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you informed and did you rely on the fact that that witness stated that Officer Faulkner appeared to be grabbing at something as he was falling?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Did you rely on that information.

MS. FISK: I will withdraw that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you rely?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you rely on the fact that that witness never said that she actually saw the weapon if Officer Faulkner retrieved the weapon from whatever

Page 82.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

he was grabbing at?

A. That wasn't the verbatim part of my conclusion.

Q. And did you rely on the fact that the witness said she never actually saw Mr. Jamal get shot?

(Pause.)

Q. Let me withdraw that and ask it, break it down.

MS. FISK: I would ask that the witness be permitted to answer.

THE COURT: Let him have time to think about it.

MR. WEINGLASS: I can withdraw, as a questioner I could withdraw.

THE COURT: Let the record show he is now withdrawing that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course the record shows that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the Court needn't add relish to what it perceives to be something that the Court enjoys.

THE COURT: Let the record show I am not enjoying anything, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 83.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

Q. Let me ask you this. The only information that you were given and relied upon was that the only witness to observe a possible shooting of Mr. Jamal at the moment said that she saw the officer as he was falling grab at something?

A. That is correct.

Q. And so when you gave your opinion, did your opinion rely on that information that Mr. Jamal was shot by a falling officer?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: All that's in the record.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. It is obviously not all that is in the record. The Jury found that there was sufficient evidence to support a finding that Mr. Jamal was shot by Officer Faulkner.

THE COURT: I will let you cross on that issue. I don't know of --

MR. WEINGLASS: The Jury made no such finding. The Jury made no such finding.

MS. FISK: Judge --

MR. WEINGLASS: That Mr. Jamal was shot by Officer Faulkner. They made no such finding. No one has been able to explain how

Page 84.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

Mr. Jamal was shot and it was no part of the Jury's finding.

THE COURT: What do you mean it was --

MR. WEINGLASS: It was no part.

THE COURT: Nobody asked. Well, nobody asked him a question but the Jury heard it and I'm sure they considered it.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the Jury heard one thing. And if Counsel --

MS. FISK: I withdraw my objection to the question.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: That's correct.

THE COURT: What is correct? Wait a while. I don't know that there is anything pending here yet.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is.

MS. FISK: There was a question.

THE COURT: Give him a question. So I find out what he is talking about being correct.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you rely on the fact that the information that was given to you was that Mr. Jamal was shot by Officer Faulkner as he was falling?

Page 85.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

A. Yes, I did.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, if Counsel has anything in the record that indicates otherwise she may question on it.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. When she gets to cross let's find out what she wants to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: I represent to the Court that all that's in the record.

THE COURT: Counselor, please, just ask your questions. No more comments, will you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So your opinion that it could not have happened that way was based on information which you relied on that the only witness to see Mr. Jamal being shot said that he was shot by someone who was falling?

A. That is correct. That is addressed in my affidavit.

Q. Now, you're here giving your opinions today; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Based on your preparation for this appearance?

A. That is correct.

Q. Correct? In your affidavit did you say the

Page 86.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

following? I was advised that Mr. Jamal did not have the services of a forensic pathologist available to him at trial. Although I am not familiar with the full trial record, it would appear that since I disagree with both the Medical Examiner's findings with respect to cause of death, and Dr. Colletta's postulation of a possible ricochet to explain the trajectory of the bullet through Mr. Jamal's body, Mr. Jamal's defense required and would have been well served by the testimony of a qualified forensic pathologist?

A. That is absolutely correct.

Q. And that was the limited purpose for which you were brought to Court today; isn't that correct?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, it was a lot more than that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That was the limited purpose, weren't you told that?

A. That's correct.

Q. So you weren't told to recreate completely what happened in '82, you were asked if based on what was available to you --

THE COURT: Counselor.

Page 87.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. -- Mr. Jamal should have had a forensic pathologist?

THE COURT: Counselor, that's '81.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the trial was '82.

THE COURT: I know, but the incident occurred in '81.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I know but Mr. Jamal needed a forensic pathologist in '82?

A. Yes, he certainly did.

Q. Yes. And so the fact that you, what you had available to you in 1992 to examine helped you to the conclusion that Mr. Jamal should have had a forensic pathologist?

A. Most definitely.

Q. Is there anything that you've seen since that changes your mind?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. As a matter of fact, what you have seen since, does that even further fortify the fact?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. That he should have had a forensic pathologist?

A. He most certainly should have had a forensic pathologist.

Q. Now, the photographs that you looked at which are D-23: Do you know when the defense obtained them through subpoena?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know if they were obtained last week?

A. No, I don't.

Q. If a forensic pathologist were available to Mr. Jamal in 1982, would his Counsel have been able to subpoena those photographs and show them to the pathologist before he testified?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. How could he know that?

THE COURT: Well, I only thought he was a pathologist. That's something for an expert in the legal field.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, let me just, I will withdraw that and ask this.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The hospital records that you've seen for Officer Faulkner, the photographs that you've seen just recently, and the testimony that was offered at trial by Dr. Hoyer, would that in your experience have been available to the forensic pathologist in 1982 at the time that he was called by the defense?

Page 89.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. What forensic pathologist? This doctor was in medical school then.

THE COURT: I don't think --

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not asking for him. He is not Mr. Fassnacht. Of course Dr. Hayes wasn't available. I'm asking if a forensic pathologist in 1982 would have had all those things available to him, to a forensic pathologist.

THE COURT: Well, Counsel, he is not qualified to testify on that. He is no legal expert.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, he's looked at three --

THE COURT: I know that. He's here only as a pathologist.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: And he is an expert in that field. That's the only field in which I have allowed him to testify.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would the photographs have been available in 1982, to your knowledge?

MS. FISK: Objection.

Page 90.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would the hospital records of Officer Faulkner be available in 1982?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain those objections, Counselor. Please. How could he answer that, he wasn't even a doctor yet in '82.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is there a difference in your view, Doctor, between what is recorded as an official time of death and a time at which a person is medically dead?

A. Yes, most definitely.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, could we perhaps turn the doctor's microphone back on.

THE COURT: It's on.

MS. FISK: Well, it stopped picking up.

THE COURT: Did you check that? To make sure that thing is on.

THE COURT OFFICER: It's on, sir.

THE WITNESS: Maybe a loose connection there, I will try not to touch it.

Page 91.

THE COURT: Go ahead. Did you hear the last answer? Did you hear the last answer?

MS. FISK: I heard it, Your Honor. I was just asking that we make the rest of the answers easier. Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: You were asking me about the official time.

THE COURT: He hasn't asked you anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: I was, he was in the middle, he was cut off.

THE COURT: No, he had already answered that, she heard that. Do you have another question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right. Is there a difference between the official time of death that's recorded by a hospital and the medical time of death?

A. Yes, there is.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, is this working still?

THE COURT OFFICER: One second, Your Honor. One second.

Page 92.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is there a difference between the two times of death?

A. Yes, there is. Yes, there is the official time of death, is the time in which the person is pronounced dead. And that can be up to years from the time of actual death. For example, in the case of a skeleton found in a wood. When the skeleton is found the body is pronounced death. That is the official time of death. Obviously, in an extreme example like that death would have occurred much earlier.

Q. I see. And in your view, when was the time of death of Officer Faulkner?

A. It would be instantaneous on sustaining the gunshot wound. When he was admitted to the hospital his heart wasn't beating, he wasn't breathing, and his pupils were fixed and dilated. They went all out but there was nothing they could have done because he was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Q. Was this literally an attempt by the hospital personnel to bring someone back to life who was actually dead?

A. Effectively, yes.

Page 93.

Q. Now, you were questioned about that second wound on the neck, whether that wound was an entry wound or an exit wound or a nick that was caused by shaving in the morning, or something that was inflicted in the mid-afternoon prior to the occurrence. Should that wound have been noted by the Medical Examiner?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You were questioned about if you knew when that second wound was inflicted. Or when it occurred. Is that difficult for you to answer because the Medical Examiner failed to note the wound in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. Yes. And he has failed to describe it.

Q. He failed to describe it?

A. Yes.

Q. If there would have been an adequate description of that second wound, would you have been able to give an expert opinion as to what caused that second wound and whether or not it was related to the incident?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: That calls for speculation.

Page 94.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Experts are paid to speculate, as long as they have the expertise.

THE COURT: Expert opinions are within a reasonable degree of medical certainty. No speculation.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, would you have been able to give an opinion if that wound had been described in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. If the wound had been described and appropriately photographed, I would have been able to give more information, at least some information.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could I have just a minute.

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, is one of the functions of the medical examiner's report to inform the reader so that various hypotheses can be developed as to what occurred at the time of the incident?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. If it's there

Page 95.

it's there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Whatever is there is there. And if you are a good attorney you will be able to cross-examine. Go ahead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Does the medical examiner's report serve to inform the reader as to what occurred at the time of the incident?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And would an incomplete medical examiner's report fail to accurately provide information to the reader so that hypotheses could be developed as to what occurred at the time of the incident?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Will a medical examiner's report that is properly and fully prepared inform the reader as to the possible positions of the parties involved in the episode?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to the form of the question.

Page 96.

THE COURT: Sustained. It takes a lot more than a medical report, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: The medical report is a good place to begin.

THE COURT: It goes to the cause of death. There are a lot of other things that go into determining positions and everything else.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, it describes the wound.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: The wound, the path of the bullet.

THE COURT: That's all. And as to the cause of death.

MR. WEINGLASS: And if it doesn't describe the wounds --

THE COURT: But there are other factors that will enter into it, Counselor. You can't just look at the medical report.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is one of the reasons why you've given us the opinion and you have asserted in your affidavit that Mr. Jamal needed the services of a forensic pathologist at his trial in 1982 was because the opinions of that forensic pathologist would have contradicted the testimony offered by an eyewitness?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that, that's really speculation now.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In any event, in your view, any testimony that Mr. Jamal was shot by a falling Officer Faulkner would have to be false; isn't that true?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: That's been asked and answered.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not in that form.

THE COURT: Yes, it has. We are going over the same thing over and over. This is redirect. Come on, Counselor, move on. We are not going to be --

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: I have a couple, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. As I understood it, about five questions back you were asked whether, had the nature of this other neck wound on Officer Faulkner been more specifically described, whether you could give an opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to it's cause. Do I understand your answer to that question was no, you could not assure us of that?

Page 98.

A. I would be able to give more information. I may not be able to identify it, but if they evaluated the wound properly I would also have been able to give input.

Q. So your answer to that question was no, you could not assure us you could give an opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to it's cause; is that correct?

A. If it included adequate information about the wound, yes, I could have.

Q. Now, you could have, but when Mr. Weinglass asked you you said you could give more information but you did not say that yes you could give an opinion?

A. I said if I had more information about the wound I would be able to give an opinion about the wound.

Q. Well, that is not what you said, is it?

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

Page 99.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Argumentative. The record speaks for itself. And Counsel is misstating the record.

MS. FISK: Oh, I am not, Your Honor. The witness testified he might be able to give more information. He did not say he might be able to give an opinion, but he could give more information. But I will move on.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Let me go back again to the information you were provided as to the manner in which Mr. Jamal may or may not have received a gunshot wound. It is clear, do I understand, that Mr. Jamal received a gunshot wound?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in fact that he received a gunshot wound close in time as to when Officer Faulkner received two gunshot wounds; is that also clear from the record you have received?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you told us that and you agreed that a forensic pathologist in addition to looking at slides and bodies also looks at interviews and reports and chemical analyses and the like in order to more thoroughly create an opinion as to what occurred and what caused a particular injury?

A. That is correct.

Q. And in fact when I asked you earlier about whether certain information would be helpful to you or not, your response to me was well, it depended upon the reliability of that information; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And the reliability of that witness?

A. That is correct.

Q. Is that correct? All right. Now, as I understand your testimony today -- and correct me if I am wrong -- you have in this case accepted all the representations regarding how the shooting occurred from a summary that Mr. Weinglass or some other persons retained on behalf of Mr. Jamal have presented to you?

A. I was informed of the prosecution theory of the shooting and I addressed that in my response -- in my report.

Q. Was it a prosecutor who informed you of the prosecution theory?

A. No, it was not.

Q. Who was it, sir?

A. Mr. Weinglass.

Page 101.

Q. Oh, so Mr. Weinglass knew what the prosecution theory was?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. You believe so?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you certain?

A. Umm, as I understood it, the summary of the testimony was that a witness claimed to have seen Officer Faulkner reaching for his gun and, and apparently while falling, and then Mr. Jamal was shot.

Q. Is that the extent of the information that you were provided by Mr. Weinglass?

A. Effectively, yes. I don't remember the specifics.

Q. Do I take it, then, that you were unaware that that witness was on the witness stand for something in excess of two days?

A. I was unaware of that.

Q. Do you believe that perhaps in the course of the two days of that witnesses' testimony some additional details might have been gleaned with regard to her description of how that shooting occurred?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection to the form:

Page 102.

Do you believe that perhaps some information might have been. Double speculation in one question.

THE COURT: Make it into two questions, then, will you.

MS. FISK: Okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. In the course of two days of testimony, does an individual say more than what you just told us Mr. Weinglass told you?

A. Yes.

Q. Might there be more details in that witness' testimony than that which Mr. Weinglass gave you?

A. There might be but I was asked specifically to respond to a scenario how would the findings as reflected in the information I was provided relate to a scenario in which that occurred.

Q. So that I'm clear, then: You were asked expressly to give an opinion based upon the summary of a witness as interpreted by Mr. Weinglass; is that correct?

A. Mr. Weinglass asked me if those wounds would be consistent with a falling shooter shooting the victim.

Q. That being Mr. Weinglass' interpretation of how the wound occurred?

Page 103.

A. Perhaps.

Q. As a forensic pathologist, do you ordinarily accept such secondhand information when firsthand information is available?

A. You mean the witness' testimony?

Q. Yes.

A. I was responding specifically to a hypothesis. I didn't need to see anymore detailed witness testimony. It is a specific hypothesis.

Q. So that all of the testimony that you have given today is merely hypothetical; is that correct?

A. No, it is on the basis of the records that were supplied to me that I have available.

Q. Well, isn't it also based -- I thought you just said, Doctor, and perhaps I'm not hearing correctly -- that it was a hypothesis --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. -- based upon the description of a falling shooter; is that right?

A. The hypothesis of how the injury occurred?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. So that the opinion that you have provided is hypothetical because you're relying upon a hypothesis?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor. Counsel is confused and is trying to confuse the witness.

THE COURT: No, this is cross-examination, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

MR. WEINGLASS: Judge --

THE COURT: He could answer that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is a difference between hypothesis and hypothetical. The witness --

THE COURT: If he doesn't understand it, he is a doctor, he'll say I don't understand the question. Rephrase it.

MR. WEINGLASS: That doesn't mean an improper question may be asked.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I withdraw the question. I have no further.

MR. WEINGLASS: Good.

Page 105.

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, you are here in Court today, would you offer an opinion based on a hypothesis of what the testimony of Cynthia White was offered right now by the Commonwealth's Counsel?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you know that the transcript --

THE COURT: You have to understand now this is redirect for the second time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: For the second time.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am talking about hypothesis, which Counsel brought up.

THE COURT: She withdrew the question and there is nothing more to say about that. She withdrew her question.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, and I am entitled to go within the realm of those questions.

THE COURT: No, she withdrew that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: She asked three or four before it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes --

THE COURT: Oh, boy.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. If Counsel right now seated at this table for the District Attorney's Office gives you page and chapter and verse of Cynthia White's testimony, as to what she saw when Mr. Jamal was shot, would you offer an opinion based on your reading of the medical evidence that's before you?

MS. FISK: With all due respect, Your Honor, I do not recall hiring Dr. Hayes as my expert witness. Therefore, I do not recall obtaining an obligation to adequately prepare him for his testimony by providing all records of the trial.

THE COURT: I understand that. The objection is sustained. Now, if you don't have anything further, something new to bring up, Counselor, I am going to break for lunch. If you want to bring him back. If you won't --

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I just have a few.

THE COURT: Well, wait awhile. Wait awhile. It's 20 after 12:00. We will recess until --

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: We will recess until --

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

THE COURT: We will recess until 2:30 for lunch.

MR. WEINGLASS: In light of the Court's observation, I have no further questions. And I do so under protest.

THE COURT: No, you are not going to do that under protest. We are breaking for lunch.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions. I ask that the witness be excused.

THE COURT: You are not excused.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: You are not excused. Until 2:30, we will bring him back here if you want to ask him more questions.

Page 108.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is simply punitive.

THE COURT: No, it is not punitive.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is punitive. I have no further questions of the witness.

THE COURT: But you are saying it is under protest.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions. Let the record speak for itself as to what is happening here.

THE COURT: Well, I am giving you an opportunity to go further but we will do it at 2:30. I want lunch.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions of the witness. The Court can have it's lunch.

THE COURT: And you don't want to call him back?

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: Then you are doing it at your own peril.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show why I am doing it.

THE COURT: Let the record show that I made him available to you after lunch to continue your redirect. We will recess for lunch.

MR. WEINGLASS: No further questions. The witness is excused.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I inquire as to what other witnesses Counsel intends to produce this afternoon?

THE COURT: I don't know, I will wait until 2:30, we will be back.

MS. FISK: Mr. McGill is entitled to know.

THE COURT: As far as I am concerned, he is still here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I ask that he be excused.

THE COURT: If you want to excuse him you do it at your own peril. I am making him available for further questions at 2:30.

MR. WEINGLASS: I ask he be excused. I have no further questions. This is an extraordinary exercise of punitiveness on the part of this Court.

THE COURT: No, you could do whatever you want to do at 2:30. Bring him back at 2:30.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court is recessed until 2:30.

(Luncheon recess was held at this time.)

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone.

John A. Hayes, Junior, M.D., having been previously sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hayes, were you given a factual hypothesis to direct your work in this case?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And what was the factual hypothesis?

A. That --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. That was previously testified to.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Reopened on cross. Opened on cross.

THE COURT: Yes, but it was opened on cross because on redirect, the first redirect you brought it up.

Page 111.

John Hayes, M.D. - Redirect

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I didn't complete my first redirect, I was cut off by lunch.

THE COURT: No, no, you are on your second redirect now when we broke for lunch, not your first. You are forgetting the scenario here. This is the second redirect.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I continue?

THE COURT: Yes, but the objection to that question is sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And what was the factual hypothesis?

MS. FISK: That was the objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That was sustained, Counselor. We have gone through that already. This is the second redirect. Please.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were your answers that you gave here today, Dr. Hayes, hypothetical answers?

A. Umm, to which questions?

Q. To your expert opinions, were your expert opinions hypothetical?

A. No, they were not.

Q. Were your expert opinions based on a

Page 112.

John Hayes, M.D. - Recross

reasonable degree of medical certainty?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And were they based on your review of the written materials that were provided to you?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Is there a difference between a working hypothesis and hypothetical answers?

A. A hypothetical answer -- I mean this is, I think, legal talk -- but a hypothetical answer I think... I'm really not sure how to answer that question, I'm sorry.

Q. Okay. In any event, what you testified to today as an expert has been in response to the working hypothesis of whether or not Mr. Jamal could have been shot by a falling Officer Faulkner?

A. That's correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And so I understand your testimony, Doctor: Your answers which are not hypothetical include your opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Mr. Jamal could have been shot if, after he shot

Page 113.

John Hayes, M.D. - Recross

Officer Faulkner from behind, Officer Faulkner spun around with his gun in hand and fired a shot at Mr. Jamal who was standing anywhere from a 30 to 45-degree angle from his waist before Officer Faulkner fell to the ground; is that correct?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. Objection. There's no record, there is no factual predicate for that question. If Counsel can cite Dr. Hayes --

THE COURT: Not on yours either, Counselor. The objection is overruled. I think he already answered but for one more time I will let him answer.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is a lay question without a factual reference to the record.

THE COURT: Frankly, I don't even know why we are so concerned about how he got shot, but go ahead. Go ahead, ask the question. Answer it and let's go.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now --

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. Please.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I am not quite clear on the difference between --

THE COURT: Well.

Page 114.

John Hayes, M.D. - Recross

THE WITNESS: I don't quite understand the difference between a hypothesis and a hypothetical here.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I will eliminate all those words. Is it your opinion that Mr. Jamal could have sustained the gunshot wound which he sustained in the following manner? And that is that he approached Officer Faulkner, fired a shot at Officer Faulkner in the back, that Officer Faulkner turned around with his gun in his hand and fired a shot at Mr. Jamal, who was standing and bent forward at the waist anywhere from 30 to 40 degrees, 30 to 45 degrees?

A. Well, Officer Faulkner was standing.

Q. Yes, sir?

A. And so Officer Faulkner was standing and Mr. Jamal would be bent over.

Q. From 30 to 45 degrees was your testimony; is that right?

A. Could be consistent with that.

Q. And by standing you mean not lying on the ground, and not in the process of falling; is that correct?

A. Standing.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: That

Page 115.

John Hayes, M.D. - Recross

question is compound. I have no objection to ask while standing he means not falling.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. We have established, Doctor, that you mean by standing postures other than completely erect; is that correct?

A. You mean by standing vertically.

Q. Standing in an upright fashion?

A. Correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. But if he was falling --

THE COURT: All right, that's enough. We have gone through this too many times. That's finished.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. But if he was falling, Doctor --

THE COURT: Counselor, that is all. You won't have a third redirect. It is not a question of who has the last say here. You have gone over this ad infinitum.

MR. WEINGLASS: We brought the doctor back from lunch.

THE COURT: Yes, because she had not had a chance to cross on your second redirect.

Page 116.

This is the completion of the second redirect.

MS. FISK: I had advised Counsel prior to lunch that I had no objection to the doctor leaving and I had no further questions, but that's fine.

THE COURT: That is a different issue. The issue was you had not been given that opportunity. Doctor, you are excused. Thank you very much.

MR. WEINGLASS: Over the defense objection.

THE COURT: Sure. You paid for his lunch, what are you complaining about? Do we have any other witnesses for today?

MR. WEINGLASS: The other witnesses on our list included 11 witnesses whose subpoenas were quashed.

THE COURT: I know that, forget them. Do you have any witnesses here that you want to put on?

MR. WEINGLASS: Those are the witnesses we would have called.

THE COURT: Well, you would have called them long ago. But their subpoenas were quashed.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, they were on our list for Thursday and Friday. Today is Friday.

THE COURT: No, the only two you have on Friday, for today, was Dr. Hayes and Ward Churchill. Now you are telling me Ward Churchill is not here?

MR. WEINGLASS: Ward Churchill is in Colorado and he could be here if the Court permits him on Monday.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. FISK: That is a witness whose testimony we object to but we will take it up when he is presented.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I did advise --

THE COURT: Then you have no other witnesses for today?

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I previously advised Counsel, and I will make an issue of this, Counsel has on it's witness lists Mr. Joseph McGill, the prosecutor who handled this trial. Because Mr. McGill has been advised that he is a potential defense witness he has remained available on call throughout the pendency of these proceedings. Mr. McGill is now an attorney in the private practice of law. He does not have the facility, Your Honor, to stay on call forever. He is available this afternoon. I would like word from the defense whether or not they are going to call him. If they are, he is available this afternoon. And obviously so is the Court. If he is not, Mr. McGill can be advised so he does not have to hold himself available.

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, you will recall, and Counsel wasn't here yesterday afternoon --

MS. FISK: Indeed I was.

THE COURT: She was.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry. Mr. Grant agreed to a stipulation on the record so that three of the jurors who we wanted to call were excused.

THE COURT: I know, he said that yesterday, Counselor. Counselor, will you stop rehashing old stuff.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: It is on the record already, I know about that. Now she says do you want to call Joe McGill.

MR. WEINGLASS: That was precisely what I am attempting to address. That precise question. And I would appreciate me being given the opportunity to address it.

THE COURT: Do you want him or don't you?

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to address that issue. Mr. McGill --

THE COURT: Do you want him or don't you want him?

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. McGill was going to be called here for the following reason. He was going to be called to ask him questions pertaining to the jurors he struck and the representations made to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. We now have a stipulation in the record as of five o'clock yesterday, I believe, that the three jurors who he struck were all African American. With that representation in the record, we don't need the testimony of Mr. McGill.

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, I will note if I am allowed, I would note however that Counsel did misrepresent the stipulation. The stipulation was that those three individuals would testify that they were the persons who were on that panel.

I will so advise Mr. McGill, Your Honor, that he is no longer considered a potential witness in this proceeding.

THE COURT: All right, fine. What do we have, then, for Monday?

MS. FISK: If the Court wants to save some time I have a Commonwealth witness who is available this afternoon if you would like to do that.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: He said he would be here, he thought he would be here around two o'clock. If they could find out.

THE COURT: Well, it almost two o'clock, but.

THE COURT OFFICER: Name?

MS. FISK: Lieutenant Sterling.

Page 121.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, he is here.

MS. FISK: It would be very brief, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: Should I bring him out, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: May I have those Commonwealth Exhibits that were marked when Mr. Hightower testified? I think it was 9, 10, 11, 12.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, sure. 11 to 15, Counsel.

MS. FISK: Yes, that sounds about right.

Philadelphia Police Lieutenant Craig Sterling,
Badge number 330, Internal Affairs Division, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Lieutenant, we are proceeding a little bit out of order. You are being called as a Commonwealth witness because we have a break in the proceedings. But you are being called as a Commonwealth witness. Lieutenant, by whom are you employed?

A. City of Philadelphia Police Department.

Q. And how long have you been employed in that capacity?

A. A week from today it'll be 25 years.

Q. Happy anniversary. Back in 19, let's see, back on December 15th, 1981, then you were a police officer?

A. I was a detective.

Q. Detective. And what was your assignment?

A. Polygraph unit.

Q. When did you get to the polygraph unit as a detective?

A. In October of 1979.

Q. And when did you stay in the polygraph unit until?

A. Until I was promoted to sergeant in 1984.

Q. Now, Detective -- I'm sorry -- Lieutenant Sterling, in your capacity as a detective in the polygraph unit on December the 15th, 1981, did you have occasion to administer a polygraph test to a Mr. Dessie D. Hightower?

Page 123.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Direct

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did that test take place?

A. In the polygraph unit of the Philadelphia Police Department, in the basement of the Police Administration Building.

Q. Who brought Mr. Hightower to you for the purpose of your conducting that examination?

A. Homicide Detective William Hart. William McCarthy.

Q. William. Now, did you conduct a polygraph examination of Mr. Hightower?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was it along subject matter lines that you chose or that someone other than you proposed?

A. The Homicide detective would explain to me what they were trying to determine from examination and I would determine the questions from what they wanted to know.

Q. And what were you told they were trying to determine?

A. Whether Mr. Hightower had been a witness to the shooting of Officer Faulkner or whether he had seen Mr. Jamal with a gun in his hand just prior to the shooting.

Q. And based on being told that was the area of

Page 124.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Direct

inquiry, did you then design the relevant and necessary questions of Mr. Hightower?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And were you able to perform a polygraph examination on Mr. Hightower?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How long did that take?

A. The whole procedure takes approximately two hours.

Q. At the completion of the procedure, where did Mr. Hightower go, at the completion of the actual asking of questions when the little needle is going back and forth?

A. He would have remained in the examination room until the Homicide detective took him back out of the polygraph unit.

Q. Now, when the procedure was completed, what did you do? That is, when the questioning of Mr. Hightower was completed, what did you do?

A. After I analyzed the charts I would explain to him that the test showed that he was deceptive, that he hadn't been telling the whole truth about what he knew about the shooting.

Q. And did you so advise Mr. Hightower?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 125.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Direct

Q. Where did you advise Mr. Hightower?

A. In the examination room.

Q. Now I'll have shown to you -- and I believe that you might have brought your own copies -- but I will show to you Commonwealth Exhibits 11 through 15 (handing). With particular emphasis on Commonwealth Exhibit 13 (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And ask whether -- I will stick with Commonwealth Exhibit 13. Do you recognize that document?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And is that the document which shows that in fact on the date that I gave you the polygraph examination was administered to Mr. Hightower?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you place on that document, or on the original of that document, the results of the polygraph examination, or your conclusion as to the results of it?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Of the polygraph examination? Was it before or after you placed your conclusion as to those results on that document, Commonwealth Exhibit 13,

Page 126.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Direct that you told Mr. Hightower what the results were?

A. This is the typed report which was done maybe a few days after the examination. The larger sheet, which is called a pre-test background interview, at the top of that I have circled the results.

Q. Would you look through the documents that you have and tell me --

A. That would be C-12.

Q. On C-l2 the results are circled?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you circle?

A. It's called specific responses, which is deception indicated.

Q. Following your circling specific responses, as best you can recall, what did you tell Mr. Hightower?

A. That he had not told me the whole truth about the shooting.

Q. Where was Mr. Hightower when you said that to him?

A. In the examination room of the polygraph unit.

Q. How far away from you was he?

A. Ahh, across the desk (indicating).

Q. Did you speak to him in the same manner that you had been speaking to him over the course of the polygraph examination that you conducted of him?

Page 127.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Did he give you any indication that he didn't understand the words that you were saying to him?

A. Not at all.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Detective, did you ever write up a report in which you wrote that you told Mr. Hightower that he had failed the test?

A. In those words, no.

Q. You never wrote that up; isn't that right?

A. I never wrote down that I told him that he failed, no.

Q. Right. And now 14 years later you're relying on your recollection that you told him; isn't that true?

A. I know what I did when someone fails a test, yes.

Q. How many tests have you administered?

A. Approximately 1300.

Q. You have administered 1300 tests and 13 years later you can recall without notes what you told Mr. Hightower?

Page 128.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

A. I know what the results of the test were and I know what I would have told him, yes.

Q. All right, you know what the results of the tests were, you say, because it's written down in a document; isn't that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. But what you claim today you told him is not written down anywhere; isn't that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, were you an investigator on the case?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were just in the polygraph unit at that time?

A. That is correct.

Q. And as you told us on your direct, you were told by the Homicide detective what area they wanted you to test in?

A. That's correct.

Q. And then it's your role to prepare or, as you say, design the questions?

A. Yes.

Q. And you do that within the realm of your understanding of the art or science of giving

Page 129.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

polygraphs?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, did the detectives ever say to you words to the effect that they wanted you to test Mr. Hightower to see if he was truthful in his statements that a male ran from the scene of the shooting?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. They never asked you to test for that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Incidentally, Detective, do they show you his prior statements that he's given to the police, or do they merely inform you orally in a conversation what the area is they want you to test?

A. They would normally show me previous interviews.

Q. Did you look at his previous interviews?

A. Before the test.

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw where he said he saw a male running away?

A. If that was in the interview then I would have seen it, yes.

Q. Don't you recall that?

A. No, I do not.

Page 130.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

Q. I'll read the portion to you and if you want you could examine the document in it's entirety.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The lieutenant has testified that he designed questions based on a field of inquiry provided to him by detectives. Whatever Mr. Hightower said was not the basis on which he designed his questions. That was his testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: But he said --

THE COURT: Designed his questions?

MS. FISK: Of Mr. Hightower, yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: He said he read the statements before he gave the test and I am now going into it to see what he read.

THE COURT: He may have read it, there is no question about that. But he said he designs his questions based on the area that the detective wanted him to inquire about. He doesn't decide that area on his own. So whether it's in there or not makes no difference. He designs these questions based solely on what the detectives say they are interested in. If they didn't tell him they were interested in that particular phase, he's not going to ask any questions about it.

Page 131.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What was your purpose in reading the reports?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I'm sorry I interrupted Counsel's question but I object.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know that he said that he read them. He said sometimes they show it to him. And if they are interested, I guess, in a specific area, they'll say I'm interested in this area here and then he will design his questions accordingly.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now I understand.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So it's the detectives who are doing the investigation who determine what's important to be tested?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did those same detectives bring to you for testing a witness by the name of Cynthia White?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It is beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: I have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I'll sustain that. He is in here only for Hightower.

Page 132.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, he's here for the broader question of the way polygraphs were used in a biased investigation.

THE COURT: No.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I beg to differ. And furthermore, there was a stipulation yesterday by Mr. Grant, he agreed that no other witnesses were even polygraphed, as I recall, so it would be completely unnecessary to ask the lieutenant something which we've all agreed did not occur.

THE COURT: Not only that, I don't think he's here today to even answer any questions on that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, you indicated -- and by the way, Detective, what is your background in polygraph?

A. Excuse me?

Q. What is your background? Have you been trained, educated on the polygraph?

MS. FISK: I object.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I have.

MS. FISK: Well, I don't object to that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 133.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

Q. Go ahead, I think you were interrupted by Counsel, when she heard you she liked what you were saying so you could continue.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, I did not object to whether he was trained, but the description of his training I do object to. The lieutenant has not been called as an expert in any post art or science of polygraphy. He has been called solely as a witness with regard to the credibility of Dessie Hightower, who signed an affidavit swearing under oath, and testified, that he had been told that he passed a polygraph test. This is a witness who is testifying that he told Mr. Hightower that he did not pass. Rather, that he was not telling the truth. He is not being called as an expert in any field.

MR. WEINGLASS: My notes on the direct indicate he was asked the following question: Do you analyze charts. Yes. Did you analyze this chart. Yes. Did you determine that Mr. Hightower had not told the truth. Yes, I determined he hadn't been telling the truth. All of that he testified to on direct.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am now asking him

Page 134.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross questions about whether or not he can analyze charts.

THE COURT: No, whether he can or can't makes no difference. I will assume for the sake of argument that he can't. He's only up here as a witness to say I told him a certain thing. Whether that thing is right or wrong doesn't make any difference, he is just saying that's what he told him. And that's the only issue for which he was put on this stand.

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Hightower said he was told he was telling the truth and he was extensively cross-examined for credibility. Now this witness says I never told him that.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I told him he was not telling the truth. Now I'm examining the witness on the issue of his credibility. And the question of his credibility is --

THE COURT: I am telling you, assuming that he is not competent, right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Strike competence. Assuming, assuming he is not telling the truth. Then --

THE COURT: Wait awhile. The truth is

Page 135.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

did he tell him or didn't he tell him. That's the thing.

MR. WEINGLASS: How do we determine his credibility on that issue?

THE COURT: I am not here to tell you how to do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I am examining him now.

THE COURT: You tell me. But I'm sustaining her objection because he was not put on here as an expert in this field. He was put on only for one purpose: To rebut Hightower's assertion that he wasn't told.

MR. WEINGLASS: With all due respect, Your Honor has much too narrow a view of this issue. If in fact, if in fact -- Your Honor, just bear with me a second. If in fact the test results indicated that Dessie Hightower was telling the truth in the test, wouldn't that support Dessie Hightower's claim that he was told that? How do we get away from that?

THE COURT: Not necessarily.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course it would.

THE COURT: No, it wouldn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because if he passed

Page 136.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

then the likelihood is Dessie Hightower is telling the truth.

THE COURT: Let's say he passed and he was wrong but he said that to him, that's the issue.

MR. WEINGLASS: But if he passed it increases the likelihood that he was told he passed. And that's what we're questioning him on.

THE COURT: No, it isn't. It's just one person saying he wasn't told and another person saying he was told.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we have the test, we have the test which will support Dessie Hightower. That's why we have to get into the test.

THE COURT: Why, do you have an expert that's going to come in here and support that?

MR. WEINGLASS: We are about to. We've asked --

THE COURT: Why don't you wait until you do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well.

MS. FISK: Because, Your Honor, the test and the actual results of the test are irrelevant to the issue of what Mr. Hightower was told. The records which are relevant are the police records which were signed by the officers, by the detectives, by the lieutenant which indicates that deception was indicated, that was circled while Mr. Hightower was down there, that was typed several days later. Which all refreshed this witness' recollection of the fact that that is what he told this witness.

Page 137.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

Sixteen people, the reason polygraph results are not admitted in court is because 16 people can look at the same results and come up with 16 different results. What only is relevant is the fact that this witness is testifying that it was his perception of the results that caused him to believe deception was indicated, leading him to tell that to Mr. Hightower, not in fact what the results were.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are prepared to produce an expert who will examine this test and come into court and testify that Mr. Hightower passed this test. And in all likelihood from that Your Honor could infer that he was telling the truth when he was told that.

THE COURT: Well, we will take that up

Page 138.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

at a later time, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Take that up at a later time. He is here for just one thing. Let's get finished with that one thing so he could go. If we want to bring him back later on we will bring him back later on, okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, Detective, you indicated that you analyzed the charts; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you personally analyzed them?

A. That is correct.

Q. And in the art of polygraph, the analysis of the chart is a critical function of the polygraph operator?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I suppose it is subjective to a certain extent, isn't it.

MS. FISK: Again, whether or not it is a critical function, an important function, a relevant function, does not allow us to go forward in the inquiry for purposes of this witness.

THE COURT: I agree with you. We have gone far afield here. This is a PCRA Petition in which you have alleged that the Defendant is innocent, okay. Number one. And second, that somehow trial Counsel was ineffective. Let's stick to those issues. I'm not here to judge his qualifications. He's here only for one purpose: To refute what your witness Hightower said that he was told that he passed. He says he told him he flunked it, okay. Let's go with that, for whatever it's worth.

Page 139.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, what training have you had, Detective, in the analysis of polygraph charts?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. For the reason I've already indicated to you, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when you conduct a polygraph test, do you write out the questions?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And those questions are in your hand, are they not?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. Now, in your experience, are the written-out questions given in discovery when a polygraph test is used to defense counsel as part of the materials that are to be turned over in discovery?

Page 140.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: Yes, sustained. He has no control over that. Whether it is given over depends on the court's order and the issues. He has no control. It is not his decision whether or not it's turned over.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Am I correct in assuming that Mr. Hightower was brought to the precinct at the time indicated in the report that's in your hand, which is approximately, I believe, 4:15 p.m?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Unless the lieutenant has personal knowledge. My understanding is that the polygraph unit is in a different place from where Mr. Hightower is.

THE COURT: Yes, they are separate, Counselor. I could tell you that, they are separate units.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What time of day did you see Mr. Hightower?

A. He came into the polygraph unit at 7:33 p.m.

Q. Did you know that he had already been

Page 141.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

questioned for about three hours before he was brought to the unit?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Would that fact, if you were told that he was subjected to interrogation for three hours, have affected the results of the polygraph test?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you know what he was questioned about?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I have to sustain that. I am sure he wasn't told what he was questioned about. The detective comes in and says I want you to polygraph this man and he tells him whatever he wants to cover. That's it, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. But they didn't come in until 7:30; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you polygraphed him for two hours?

A. The actual running of the charts is not two hours. He was in the polygraph unit for approximately two hours.

Page 142.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

Q. Were you alone there with him?

A. During the actual testing I was alone in the examination room with him.

Q. Prior to that time?

A. Prior to that time the Homicide detective and whoever else was working in the polygraph unit at the time would have been in the outer office.

Q. Is that where you saw him first?

A. When he came in the door, yes.

Q. So you spent about an hour and a half with him in an outer office?

A. No.

Q. How long did you spend with him?

A. He came in the door, he would immediately be taken into the examination room. And then I would discuss with the Homicide detective what they wanted to know and then I would enter the examination room with Mr. Hightower.

Q. And that took two hours?

A. From the time he came in until the time he left, a little over two hours.

Q. And to your knowledge he was let go, right, after you finished, or shortly thereafter? If you know.

A. I have no idea.

Page 143.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

Q. Well, what happened after your conversation with him that you were able to see if anything?

A. The Homicide detective would remove him from the polygraph unit.

Q. And who was that?

A. Detective McCarthy that brought him down.

Q. And was he the same who removed him?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where he was taken to, if you know?

A. No idea.

Q. Now, in your work in the polygraph unit do you work mainly with homicide cases?

A. It might be the majority of the cases we handle, yes.

Q. And in the typical homicide case do you polygraph more than one person?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. I am sure he does. A lot of people he interviews, Counsel, over the course of how long he's been there. Come on.

MS. FISK: There is also no such thing as a typical homicide.

THE COURT: I don't know. Homicide

Page 144.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

case is a homicide case.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, there are factors, are there not, that you know of that affect the validity and the accuracy of a polygraph test?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He is not here for that purpose. She did not bring him in as an expert in that field. He is here for a limited purpose only, Counsel.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. To your observation, was the polygraph test you administered to Mr. Hightower one that caused stress in Mr. Hightower?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: I don't know how he could tell whether there was stress on Hightower. Only Hightower could tell us if he had any stress.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor --

THE COURT: He is not a doctor.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, he is a polygraph person, I'm told.

THE COURT: That's right. But he doesn't know whether he was under stress. You should have asked that of Hightower. He could tell us.

Page 145.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you observe anything about Mr. Hightower when you gave him the test that indicated that he was under stress, did you observe anything about him?

A. Not that I recall, no.

Q. Do you recall him?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Now, was it your decision to have Mr. Hightower polygraphed?

A. No, sir.

THE COURT: He already answered that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. It was someone else's decision, the detectives?

A. Normally, we need the approval of a supervisor.

Q. The supervising detective or the supervising polygraph person?

A. No, some supervisor from the detective bureau.

Q. So in the way you were working in 1981, December, the detectives who were working the case would have to gain approval from a supervisor in order for the polygraph to be undertaken; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And do you know, do you recall who the supervisor was?

(Pause.)

A. Let me see if I have it on my report.

Lieutenant Smith.

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

THE COURT: Counselor, did you hear him? Detective Smith.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I heard. Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And you saw that on the documents that are in front of you?

A. That is correct.

Q. Could you identify the document by C number?

A. It's C-12, and it's also on C-13. The supervisor was notified of the test results and the request by him.

Q. And you had to refer, though, to those documents to remember who the supervisor was; am I right?

A. That is correct.

Page 147.

Q. And yet you're telling this Court that 13 years later, 14 years and 1300 tests later, you can remember who Dessie Hightower is?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you don't remember who the supervisor was?

A. No, sir.

Q. In your field of performing these polygraph tests, these tests are sometimes used, are they not, in the interrogation process as a way of intimidating a witness?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have you seen the printout of the test recently?

A. The charts?

Q. Yes.

A. Ahh, last week sometime.

Q. Last week? To your knowledge they still exist?

MS. FISK: It was marked in the Courtroom yesterday, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: That's correct.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And in the form that you've seen them, they could be examined by a polygraph expert and an analysis could be performed on your charts to see if Mr. Hightower was deceptive or telling the truth?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, sustained. The objection is sustained for reasons I've already gone into a number of times.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I'm asking that question --

THE COURT: I told you the only issue he is here for is one issue and that's it.

MR. WEINGLASS: But you have a credibility contest.

THE COURT: No, you don't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. You have Mr. Hightower saying --

THE COURT: I am assuming for the sake of argument that maybe he is wrong. So what? The question was did he tell him something.

MR. WEINGLASS: Assuming for the sake of argument maybe he's untruthful, how is the Court going to determine if Dessie Hightower is telling the truth or he is?

THE COURT: Because I see him on the stand, I see Hightower on the stand, and I will make a decision accordingly.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now having just looking at two people Your Honor has a scientific graph which will indicate who is telling the truth?

THE COURT: Well --

MR. WEINGLASS: You are depriving us --

THE COURT: That's what the fact-finder is supposed to do, Counselor. That's what a jury does when they hear a case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: So this is an aid here to the Court.

THE COURT: Counselor, Counselor, you do whatever you want to do. If the law permits you to do it. And I want to remind you one more time: We are proceeding under a statute which designates what you can bring forward in a PCRA matter. If you're within that PCRA as it's laid out in the statute, you certainly could bring it in. If you can not then you can't bring it in, it is as simple as that.

MR. WEINGLASS: We brought in Dessie

Page 150.

Hightower.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't care who you bring in. I'm saying you are operating under the statute of a PCRA, a Pennsylvania statute.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Now, I suggest you read that statute again and see if you could do what you are trying to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: I --

THE COURT: If you could find any cases that say you can do it, Xerox the case for met bring it in here, and we will act accordingly. In the meantime, whatever you want to do, you go ahead and do. You got money to spend, spend it.

MR. WEINGLASS: I suggest most respectfully that the Court --

THE COURT: I am not talking about your PCRA Petition. I'm talking about the statute itself.

MR. WEINGLASS: We lay out --

THE COURT: Go and read that statute, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: We lay out in the

Page 151.

Petition --

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- why we brought in Dessie Hightower.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not here to argue about why you brought anybody in here. What I am telling you: You are proceeding under a specific statute. Limit yourself to that statute. And don't tell me about your PCRA Petition. I'm talking about the statute itself. You have Philadelphia Counsel here who will be glad to provide you with that statute and give you his opinion as to what you could do.

MR. WEINGLASS: What we are attempting to do -- and all PCRAs so far as I know across the United States permit it -- you can show a Brady violation.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: A Brady violation in any PCRA.

THE COURT: Counselor, you show me a Pennsylvania statute that you can do this, if that's what you are dealing with here, Xerox the case for me and I will be glad to read it. If you are right then I will let you do whatever you want to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: Violations of Brady may be shown at any time. Any time.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. Fine, get --

MR. WEINGLASS: In any Court.

THE COURT: Give me a case that says what you want to do, that you could do it. That's all I am asking.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is elemental. It is elemental.

THE COURT: Fine, if it is elemental then I will determine elemental. But I am telling you give me a case. And I don't know how many times I have to tell you that.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will give you a case: Brady V Maryland. Brady V Maryland.

THE COURT: Xerox it for me and --

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, don't indicate you haven't read Brady. Everyone in law school has read Brady.

THE COURT: Counselor, Xerox whatever case you want and give to it me. And the Commonwealth will have an opportunity, you give her a copy. If she wants to give me some cases

Page 153.

I will read those too. But there is no sense in you standing here and arguing with me. Do whatever you want to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: Here is a case, Your Honor: Commonwealth versus Smith. We have the Xerox copies all ready for you.

THE COURT: Fine. But that has nothing to do with this witness on the stand now. Right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Supreme --

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't want you to read anything for me. I went to law school too. Allow me to read it on my own.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right (handing). Commonwealth V Smith, coming up.

THE COURT: Let's get finished with this witness, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court has the case before it.

THE COURT: I don't have the case in front of me. And I've already made certain rulings as to what he was brought here for and what you could cross-examine him on. That's it, period.

MR. WEINGLASS: Commonwealth V Smith stands for the proposition that the defense in a PCRA may show prosecutorial misconduct and the failure to comply with Brady V Maryland. And that's what we are doing by bringing Dessie Hightower in and that's what we are doing by cross-examining this witness.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the case law on this in the Commonwealth makes it abundantly clear that unless a polygraph is administered of the defendant, that the defense is not entitled to discovery of polygraph test results of witnesses. There was no Brady violation. That has been determined in the discovery matters in this case. And the failure to provide, as Counsel cites, the polygraph examination is clearly settled by the appellate laws in this Commonwealth as not being a Brady violation.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may continue.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So, Detective --

MS. FISK: Lieutenant.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just so that we're clear: The physical evidence of the test that still exists is something that could be read by any analyst even at this date who could tell whether or not Dessie Hightower passed that test; isn't that true?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Unless I have missed something, polygraph results have not yet been admitted in a court of law.

THE COURT: At least not so far in Pennsylvania that I know of. But you could get anybody you want to look at it. Counselor, be my guest. But the thing is, he's not here to testify to that.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the Commonwealth has admitted a polygraph test. Why have they done it? They have done it to support the testimony of their witness.

THE COURT: No, they only did it, they only did it to show that this is what he said to the gentleman.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, exactly.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, if it turns out that Dessie Hightower passed, then the likelihood is he never told him what he is saying he told him.

THE COURT: Well, that doesn't necessarily follow, but if you could --

MR. WEINGLASS: It is helpful to the fact-finder.

THE COURT: Well, you can argue that to the fact-finder, fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: But we need the facts to argue to the fact-finder.

THE COURT: Well, the facts, you will have to get it some other way. He was not brought in here as an expert for that purpose.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will try to get the facts another way.

THE COURT: Okay, get it another way.

MR. WEINGLASS: So I renew my request that I be given the chart so our expert could come in and testify from the chart.

THE COURT: Well, you will have to do that somehow. I don't think they could give it to you, it is part of the Court records now. If you want to bring your expert in here and have him look at it while it's here.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the customary way is you copy the chart and you send it to your expert who gives you an opinion, then you bring in the expert. That's the way we want to proceed.

THE COURT: Well, do you have any objection to that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we copy the chart?

MS. FISK: It is clear to me, Your Honor, that there is no testimony from anybody which would be relevant and admissible in this proceeding, so the answer is yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The answer is yes.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. Why don't you just give me Xerox cases on the point that you are arguing now. And you the same. If you have any against what she's saying.

MS. FISK: Fine, sir.

THE COURT: Give me the cases. Xerox the cases, I'll read them and I will make a final decision. At the moment my decision stands. But I will be glad to correct it and reverse it if you can prove that you're right.

MR. WEINGLASS: That we are entitled to the chart?

Page 158.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

THE COURT: Right. Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: So that our expert could test it?

THE COURT: Yes, that you are right. She said that it's not admissible in Pennsylvania under the circumstances. We will see. I am going to have her give me Xerox copies of the case, you can also do the same. Now let's go forward.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are seeking the admission for the limited purpose of supporting the credibility --

THE COURT: Counselor, whatever you want to do, just give me the cases first, will you please. And I will read them. Let me read her cases. She's made statements, you've made statements. I want you both to shut up and just give me cases. Let me look at the law. Let me read the case. Because you can cite the case and you interpret the case your way, and she can cite the case and interpret it her way. What I want you to do: Give me the cases and let me interpret it my way. I went to law school just like you did and just like she did. And I've been a lawyer longer than you. I've been a judge for a good many years. So I'm one of those, how do I say -- what would you call them?--- Senior Judges or something...

Page 159.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Retired.

THE COURT: No, a Senior Judge. I'm not retired, I'm in here everyday. I'm not retired.

MR. WEINGLASS: Under the Constitution --

THE COURT: Under the Constitution I get a pension. But under the Constitution --

MR. WEINGLASS: You are retired.

THE COURT: -- I could work everyday. As long as the Supreme Court wants me to work.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. But you are --

THE COURT: And that's what I've been doing. I am an active Senior Judge. Active. A-C-T-I-V-E. I'm here everyday, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: By special appointment after retirement.

THE COURT: Right. Right, I understand that.

MR. WEINGLASS: You have been retired by the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

THE COURT: Right, I understand that.

Page 160.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Cross

I understand the Constitution of Pennsylvania very well, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Good. Then you understand you're retired.

THE COURT: I am an active Senior Judge, period. If you don't understand that --

MR. WEINGLASS: Special designation.

THE COURT: -- go back and read the Constitution. You could take that argument up with the Supreme Court too. Now let's go forward. Do you have anymore questions of him?

MR. WEINGLASS: To assist the Court I just want to say this -- and it's just a clarification. We are going to bring the Court a case which will support the fact that we can show Mr. Hightower was telling the truth.

THE COURT: Whatever you could do, fine, do it. Anything else? Anymore questions, Counselor?

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

MS. FISK: I just have one or two.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not at this time.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Page 161.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Redirect

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Lieutenant Sterling, Mr. Weinglass was asking you a number of questions regarding the period of time Mr. Hightower spent in polygraph and how the detective brought him down and then how you then spoke to the detective about the areas of inquiry and then conducted the examination; do you recall those?

A. Yes.

Q. And was your answers to Mr. Weinglass that he elicited based upon the custom and practice that you have utilized as a member of the polygraph unit for the five years that you were employed there?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. And is it further your testimony regarding the manner in which you alert someone, an individual who has been polygraphed to the results of their polygraph, is based upon that same custom and practice that you utilized over those five years?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, were you here outside the Courtroom yesterday, Lieutenant?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And did you have occasion to see yesterday Mr. Dessie Hightower?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 162.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Recross

Q. Did the seeing of Mr. Dessie Hightower outside the Courtroom yesterday refresh your recollection and enable you to remember something about him?

A. Yes, it did.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

- - - - -

RECROSS EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you saying that your seeing him yesterday outside the Courtroom -- for how many minutes?

A. It was in the Courtroom.

Q. In the Courtroom when you stood right here where I'm standing?

A. That is correct.

Q. Less than five minutes?

A. Approximately.

Q. At a distance of 20 feet?

A. Yes.

Q. And that view for less than five minutes at a distance of 20 feet caused you to remember that 14 years ago you told him something in a conversation?

A. No, sir.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing

Page 163.

Lt. Craig Sterling - Recross

further.

THE COURT: Anything further?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, you are excused.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Anyone else?

MS. FISK: I have no other Commonwealth witnesses available, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, I guess it's going to be an early day off today.

MS. FISK: I would ask for notices as to --

THE COURT: Well, how about who you are going to bring next on Monday, Counselor?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, with respect to that, I want to inform the Court that we have now taken the photographs of the evidence, the ballistics evidence, we have sent the photographs to be analyzed. We expect a report on that probably on Monday. That's working expeditiously, as expeditiously as we can. That we have gone to get the Quarter Session file, so that we could have a copy of the Quarter Session documents on this case. And we are told, we don't have them yet but we are told that we'll get copies shortly.

(Pause.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is clear we need to have access to the file during non-working --

THE COURT: Well, you could do that in the Clerk of Quarter Sessions Office. Bring in your own copier or whoever he is, let him Xerox the things there.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could we have permission, Your Honor?

THE COURT: To leave?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, Your Honor, for the file to be able to be removed from Court during Court time. We are willing to go to try and do that now, after the Court is over.

THE COURT: No, you go up to Quarter Sessions, then call whoever you are going to get to do it, to do the copying, and you could do it up there.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The file's in the Courtroom now.

THE COURT: Well, the file's going to leave the Courtroom, it goes back to the Clerk of Quarter Sessions. They don't stay in here overnight. Go to the Clerk of Quarter Sessions.

Page 165.

It doesn't stay here. It's within their control at all times. It's not left in the open courtroom, the courtroom is closed.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: If we can do it this afternoon that would be just wonderful.

THE COURT: I don't care when you do it, but go to the Clerk of Quarter Sessions and they will make arrangements for whoever you are going to have to bring in and you could Xerox it or whatever you have to do with whatever is in there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, we are also attempting to obtain the photographs that were introduced into evidence at the trial. And we're having a little difficulty, we are trying to track them down. We're told now that they are in the Police Evidence Room. These are photographs of the scene. They are important for our witnesses. And we're still trying to get them.

THE COURT: Well, Counselor, I am trying to find out who your witnesses are and why it's so important for all of this information for you to have.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

Page 166.

THE COURT: Who are your witnesses? I asked you for all the witnesses. Not only just for today, but all your witnesses. You haven't given them to me.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we have. At the Court's suggestion we've gone to see a potential witness in the western part of the State of Pennsylvania who was incarcerated, we are awaiting a report on that witness. We will be evaluating it over the weekend.

THE COURT: Okay. But what I am concerned with: Who are you going to call on Monday, and have you given the D.A. either an affidavit or a written summary or something so that we don't have to have all of this hassle about whether they are prepared to go forward on this case.

MR. WEINGLASS: On the amendment, an amendment to the Petition which we will file on Monday --

THE COURT: Counselor, I didn't ask you what you are doing. Do whatever you have to do. You don't have to confess to me what you are doing. All I want to know is what witnesses are you going to call on Monday.

Page 167.

MR. WEINGLASS: All of the witnesses that we are going to call on Monday depend on the work that I'm laying out for the Court.

THE COURT: Well, then maybe --

MR. WEINGLASS: This is a work in progress!

THE COURT: Well, maybe you are saying we should start on Tuesday?

MR. WEINGLASS: That would be helpful.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would then have the photographs, the Quarter Sessions --

THE COURT: Are you telling me you don't know at this time who you are going to call on Monday?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have to go over --

THE COURT: I am saying, are you saying to me you can't give me the names of anyone that you could call on Monday?

MR. WEINGLASS: I can't give you a definitive list until I have my witnesses look at the materials we are now in the process of procuring.

THE COURT: Yes, when you do --

MR. WEINGLASS: We don't have the material.

THE COURT: When you do that, give a copy to the D.A. so that they'll know the witnesses you want to call on Monday. And you give them either an affidavit or a summary or whatever it is that they need in order to prepare to go forward. Give it to them.

MR. WEINGLASS: If we have until Tuesday.

THE COURT: They may be ready to go Monday, I don't know. Counselor, I will see you back here on Monday, okay. And give them whatever you have over the weekend. If you want to work over the weekend, they want to work over the weekend, fine.

MR. WEINGLASS; We are working over the weekend.

THE COURT: Okay, so is the D.A.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do want to ask for a continuance until Tuesday so I could comply with the Court's request.

THE COURT: No, because maybe they will be ready. Maybe they will call some of their witnesses on Monday.

MR. WEINGLASS: I know the Court's concerned about the D.A.'s but there are two parties here.

THE COURT: No, I am concerned about getting witnesses on that witness stand and testifying under oath in this Courtroom as to what they know about this case. That's what I'm interested in. I'm not interested in a lot of hot air. I've had enough of that. It's hot enough outside, I don't need anymore. What I need, what I need is some live witnesses to take that stand and tell us what they know.

MR. WEINGLASS: I wish the Court wouldn't characterize advocacy as hot air. I think it's inappropriate.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I think it is injudicious and I cite the Court to the Canon of Judicial Ethics which prohibits this Court from doing --

THE COURT: Counselor, what I am saying to you, and --

MR. WEINGLASS: No, you are saying it to the media, which you read regularly.

THE COURT: You say everything to the media. You leave here and you have the whole thing out here. Let the media come in here and listen to the witnesses and let them write down what the witnesses say.

MR. WEINGLASS: They have been doing that.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know.

MR. WEINGLASS: They have been writing down --

THE COURT: I have read some of the articles. I don't know that they are here. I think they are writing down what you tell them. And if anybody is talking to the media, you are.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, let the record reflect the Court pointed an accusing finger.

THE COURT: Well, sure. It wasn't me.

MR. WEINGLASS: And directed it to me at an angry voice.

THE COURT: You didn't talk to the news media?

MR. WEINGLASS: The use of the words hot air.

THE COURT: You didn't talk to the news media?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is designed for media consumption. It is injudicious, it is inappropriate.

THE COURT: No, you already used that terminology, Counselor. I am only picking up what you have said. Counselor, be back on Monday.

MR. WEINGLASS: You have a robe on and they don't.

THE COURT: Right, I don't talk out of Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: You should conduct yourself as the Canon of Judicial Conduct requires.

THE COURT: Don't tell me how to conduct myself. You are a New York attorney. When you come to Pennsylvania you show the proper respect to this Court. And I am telling you one more time I am not only going to evict you but I am going to fine you a thousand. As I told you before: That's not a threat, that's a promise. Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, is it my understanding that the Commonwealth is to be provided a list by the end of work today or --

THE COURT: Well, before, if you get it on Monday we'11 take it up on Monday.

Page 172.

MS. FISK: Very well, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, see you on Monday.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court stands adjourned until 9:30 Monday morning.

(The hearing was adjourned for the day at 2:45 p.m.)

(At l0:15 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone. I see that you have a petition here to bring in a prisoner from Pittsburgh. I don't see what they say, they talk in generalities.

MS. FISK: Now apparently the affidavit of the witness is missing from my copy.

THE COURT: I don't have any either, that's what I was looking for. Do you have an affidavit from this person?

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, as I think the Court is aware, I went to S.C.I. Mercer to see this new potential witness. We had learned about him only a day or so before and I went to see him. I had a meeting with him that was cut short. I discussed with him what he saw. He indicated to me that he has information that is exculpatory, specifically that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter. And that somebody else shot this police officer.

THE COURT: Is he willing to testify as to what he saw?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: He would testify as to what he saw.

THE COURT: In other words, he was saying he was there at the time?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, he has told us that he is a witness.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you fill out an affidavit? If he can't sign it, you sign it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, Your Honor, it was not my understanding that was the procedure.

THE COURT: Yes, it is.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I checked with local Counsel. In fact I was told that the normal thing was to simply come in and make a request. And the fact that we were doing this in writing was even much more formal than what is normally the practice in this Court.

THE COURT: Everything else you filed was by an affidavit either by the persons themselves or someone on your staff. So you talked to him, why don't you write out an affidavit.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I am happy to do a handwritten verification.

THE COURT: That's okay. I will be glad to bring him in, but you are going to have to sustain the cost.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Have to what?

THE COURT: You are going to have to pay the cost.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What does that mean, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You have to pay. Take it up with the Sheriff. I don't know what their costs are to go out there and bring them in. I suggest you talk to the Sheriff and find out what their cost will be.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The Court is requiring the Defendant to pay for bringing in a witness who is exculpatory during the course of this hearing?

THE COURT: Yes. Because you have the funds to do that.

Page 6.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there is nothing on the record to indicate that we have the funds to do anything.

THE COURT: You are not Court appointed. You are privately retained.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Is this in some regulation that says that?

THE COURT: Yes, it is. It has been done. Talk to the Sheriff and he will explain it to you. Otherwise, I could have the prison itself bring him down but I don't know when they do that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The prison would have to bring him down, there is no way we could bring him down.

THE COURT: I know that, I am not saying you personally. The Department of Corrections does make transfer of prisoners. I don't know when they will be doing that. I would have to call them and find out. In other words, if you don't want to pay the cost, if you don't want the Sheriff to run up there immediately and get him and bring him down here immediately for you, we could have him transferred by the State. You see, they make transfers every week. I just don't know. Years ago I know it was on a Wednesday but I'm not too sure what it is today, I would have to call them and find out. Do you know anything about that?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, upon receiving this petition this morning I did ask one of the Sheriffs who were present to check. My understanding is that the Sheriff does make regular visits to each of the State prisons.

THE COURT: This is something special. He wouldn't be making --

MS. FISK: I've asked them to check when the next regularly scheduled trip to this facility is.

THE COURT: That's why I say take it up with the Sheriff, they will let you know.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we will talk with them in the course of the morning or the lunch break.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And I would renew the application.

THE COURT: I have it here, no problem.

Page 8.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: A continuance for enough time to bring him in here in whatever fashion that is.

THE COURT: Well, okay. In the meantime check it out and find out and let me know. Otherwise, I'll call the Sheriff when I get a chance if you want me to.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That's fine.

THE COURT: But get that affidavit together for the D.A. Any preliminary things that you have that are still in abeyance?

MR. WILLIAMS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Besides my stay order.

MR. WILLIAMS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WILLIAMS: We have filed this morning and handed to Your Honor, to your law clerk, a courtesy copy of our Amended Petition and the motion attached to that Amended Petition. The motion for leave to file the Amended Petition. I just want to make clear for the Court that we have yet to receive the minutes for a proceeding in March 18th, 1982. We expect to receive that on Wednesday or Thursday. And we want to make clear that we reserve the right to then amend the Petition further if it's necessary. If upon reviewing the March 18th, 1982 transcripts there is matters of substance that bear upon any of the claims in the Petition.

The other thing, Your Honor, that we have filed is, pursuant to Your Honor's directive, we have provided the Court with a series of cases, photocopies of cases, that are applicable to various issues and controversies that have arisen during the course of the evidentiary portion of this hearing. And we attached a cover letter dated August 7th, 1995, filed that as well along with a courtesy copy to Your Honor.

And in order to proceed in a expeditious fashion, which we are all interested in doing, we have a lot of witnesses that are in abeyance at the moment and that's precisely why we've complied with Your Honor's directive. We've outlined in our letter what issues each case goes to and what witnesses are impacted by each of those cases. So we would need a ruling so as to determine which witnesses to prepare and proffer for the Court. In light of the fact that Your Honor has the photocopies of the applicable precedent.

And that's especially true, I'm informing the Court, of one of the witnesses: Savannah Davis. For internal logistical reasons we need a ruling for her. But actually we need a ruling for all of our witnesses. In order for us to be able to put the witnesses on in some kind of coherent fashion.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, it is not clear whether Counsel is referring to exclusively witnesses who have had subpoenas quashed by the Court. And if so I think the Court has already ruled on that.

We just received this document this morning. We would like some time to have a look at it. Perhaps file a response if necessary. But I think we need a clarification as to whether the references are to people who have had their subpoenas quashed, people who have had their subpoenas quashed and additional witnesses who haven't yet been presented.

Page 11.

THE COURT: Well, they have to be more specific. If it is not specific just let me know.

And I'm telling you, defense, to be as specific as possible.

So that you will know where they are going and what they hope to prove.

MR. WILLIAMS: I can enlighten Mr. Burns. I think the letter is very specific; and we are not seeking to re-adjudicate the quashed subpoenas, except I think for one exception and that is on the issue of the jury, the jury pool. That entails calling the Commissioner of Jurors, which I believe the Court has quashed that subpoena. If I'm not mistaken. If I am the record will correct me.

THE COURT: That's right, yes, I have.

MR. WILLIAMS: And Judge Ribner. Other than that, all of the other witnesses that are addressed in this letter are witnesses that Your Honor has held in abeyance pursuant --

THE COURT: Until you specified which witness you are talking about.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exactly.

THE COURT: He says in the letter,

Page 12.

Counselor, that he has specified which witnesses he is talking about.

MR. BURNS: Well, for instance, there are certain references to police officers. They were subpoenaed.

THE COURT: He has to be more specific than that.

MR. BURNS: Their subpoenas were quashed. They were specifically mentioned in the letter which, as I said, we just received this morning.

THE COURT: Well, you look it over and if you think it's not specific enough for you to answer it, just let me know.

MR. BURNS: I am sure the letter is specific enough so that we could answer it. Is Counsel saying that they have other witnesses that they are presenting now?

THE COURT: Oh, I don't know. They don't take me into their confidence, I don't know. They would have to tell you that.

MR. WILLIAMS: What we have done, Your Honor, is one of the witnesses -- and we regard this as a crucial witness on several of our Constitutional claims -- that we've not yet proffered but we took the liberty of mentioning that witness in this letter. And I am referring for Mr. Burns' benefit as well as for the Court's, the proffered testimony of Dr. John Lambert, a psychology professor here at Temple University. He is relevant to three of our Constitutional claims relating to Jury matters. And on page 10 and page 11 of our letter we set forth precisely what he would testify to.

THE COURT: Yes, I know that, but are you saying that somehow the trial attorney was ineffective for not doing something?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, those are not, Dr. Lambert will not testify on the ineffectiveness claim except as to the impact of the failure to present mitigation witnesses. That is one prong of his testimony. The other two prongs --

THE COURT: Well, I will let the D.A. answer it. If you answer it I will look at it.

MR. BURNS: As Your Honor knows, it is well established that expert testimony, or so-called expert testimony, is inadmissible on the question of whether or not an attorney was ineffective. That is a question for the Court. The Court is the expert in that area. As to whether or not evidence was to have a greater or lesser impact on the jury, that too is an area in which the Supreme Court has repeatedly held that expert testimony is inadmissible because it is the jury's sole and exclusive function to determine what weight evidence is going to have. The jury is not permitted to be contaminated by expert testimony in this area.

Furthermore, the Supreme Court has held that the jury does not require the assistance of an expert witness in order to determine what weight to give evidence.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, let me just address what Mr. Burns has just noted.

THE COURT: Do you have cases on that?

MR. BURNS: I do, Your Honor. I will hand them up now.

THE COURT: Okay, and you have contra cases on that?

MR. WILLIAMS: We do.

THE COURT: Okay, then submit it and I will read it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let me just be clear on this because I am now apprised of their position for Your Honor's benefit. On the issue of the mitigation witnesses, we are not asking the Court to consider expert testimony on the first prong of the Strickland test, which is whether counsel is, counsel's performance was objectively deficient. We agree with Mr. Burns and the Commonwealth that expert testimony on that question is not allowed, that Your Honor under the case law is competent to consider the objective unreasonableness of Mr. Jackson's performance.

However, on the Issue of the prejudicial impact of that deficient performance, expert testimony is allowed and has been allowed by many courts.

THE COURT: Well, are you saying I need that expert to tell me something?

MR. WILLIAMS: To assist you on the prejudicial impact question, yes.

THE COURT: I don't think I need an expert to tell me that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I think whether you need --

THE COURT: But I will let you present any case that you have on the issue. I will be glad to read it.

Page 16.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

MR. BURNS: Cases we have introduced, Your Honor, have to do with whether or not an expert can testify as to credibility. Which of course is the question of weight. That largely being the area which the cases talk about. There's also the fact that experts are unnecessary in the area of determining what weight a jury is going to give whatever evidence they are presented. And this is of course a feature of Pennsylvania law. I'm sure Counsel may be able to find cases from other states in which courts reached different conclusions. In Pennsylvania this kind of evidence is not admissible.

MR. WILLIAMS: Nonetheless, I think the case law as well as our submissions and Mr. Burns' submissions speak for themselves and we proffer them for the Court's consideration.

MR. BURNS: Just as an addition, Your Honor: The defense offer says that Dr. Lambert would also testify that jurors harbor the misconception that life imprisonment means incarceration for 12 years. That is a fact question.

Page 17.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, he has done studies in Philadelphia with Philadelphia capital jurors. And as I understand it, he had the imprimatur of Judge Jackson here in Philadelphia. He is a Temple University professor. We are not talking about somebody who has done research in Los Angeles.

THE COURT: We are talking about 1982.

MR. BURNS: And what this particular Jury understood.

THE COURT: That's right, we are talking about 1982, we are not talking about 1995.

MR. WILLIAMS: And he will not comment about the jurors' understandings at this juncture in history. But he will be able to comment on jurors' understanding of what life imprisonment meant at the relevant time period. And that's why we proffer him.

THE COURT: What do you think it meant?

MR. WILLIAMS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: What do you think it meant?

MR. WILLIAMS: That life -- well, as a lawyer I have an understanding of what life imprisonment means.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: The question is what do 12 lay people --

THE COURT: What do you think it means?

MR. WILLIAMS: What do I think it means?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, in New York City life imprisonment --

THE COURT: I am not talking about New York City. We are in Pennsylvania.

MR. WILLIAMS: You are asking a lawyer to comment on a legal concept of life imprisonment. I look at a statute. Lay people hear life imprisonment and they have understandings that are colored by the media, by what they read.

THE COURT: Are you saying, then, that Jackson was ineffective for not asking for some detailed explanation of what life imprisonment meant?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, we do make

Page 19.

that --

THE COURT: In 1982.

MR. WILLIAMS: We make that argument, among others.

THE COURT: You could ask. You didn't ask Jackson that question.

MR. WILLIAMS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: You didn't ask Jackson that question.

MR. WILLIAMS: We also raised, I think it is in claim 15.

THE COURT: Counselor, we could stay here and argue forever. I don't have time to read all this material you are giving me. Give me any cases you have on it, I will be glad to read it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we have done so, it is attachments to our letter.

THE COURT: Okay, I will read it. I will read it and then I'll be able to better understand it. If you have any additional cases, though, one way or the other, submit them.

MR. WILLIAMS: Is Your Honor in a position to rule on any of the other witnesses for which we have attached cases?

THE COURT: Well, how am I going to do that? I haven't even read your cases. You waited until now to give it to me this morning and you think I could read through all of that that you have there in 10 seconds?

MR. WILLIAMS: No.

THE COURT: 20 seconds?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not suggesting that at all.

THE COURT: Well, okay, let me read it, Counselor, then I will be in a better position to answer your questions. I can't answer them now. You just handed them to me. You should have given it to me long ago. Long ago.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor asked for these cases last week.

THE COURT: I know, I asked for them long ago. I said if you did your job properly you would have had these cases available to me at the time you wanted to present these witnesses and handed it up and I could have read it. But you gave me a whole big bundle now and you are going to have me read through all of that. I don't know what you have there.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's because Your Honor ruled in quashing the subpoenas on Thursday.

THE COURT: I cautioned you in the very beginning, let all this stuff out that you say that you have.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is laid out here.

THE COURT: I know that, but you are just giving it to me this morning. What do you think I am?

MR. WILLIAMS: That's because you quashed the subpoenas on Thursday.

THE COURT: Well, sure I quashed them long ago. And I'm still quashing them. But that's not the point. You are asking me to read through that stuff. And I'll read through it but give me time to read through it.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, we would also request an opportunity to review, we have not even finished reading the documents handed to us this morning by Counsel.

I would also note for the information of the Court and Counsel, in response to my request to the Sheriffs, I'm advised that the trip, the scheduled Sheriff's trip to the State Correctional Institution at Mercer is a scheduled two-day trip.

THE COURT: When they --

MS. FISK: Yes, I am advised that the Sheriff's Department is scheduled to go to Mercer tomorrow and that the witness could be picked up Wednesday to be available for Court on Thursday. And if he is sought by the defense, they need to provide his name and state number to the Sheriff's Department as soon as possible. They will need a writ from this Court to permit the Sheriffs to transport him but he could not been here --

THE COURT: You have a number here: CK2563.

MS. FISK: That information will need to be given to the Sheriffs. My understanding is that this Court will have to sign a writ but the witness in the ordinary course of the Sheriff's duties could be presented to the Court not before Thursday.

THE COURT: On Thursday.

MS. FISK: Yes, that is my understanding from the Sheriffs.

Page 23.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: In light of Miss Fisk's information, I propose the following. Because we are all under enormous time pressure as well as just the nature of the case, I propose that, to give Your Honor the benefit to read through a voluminous submission, there be a continuance.

THE COURT: We are only talking about this guy, I could have him in here by Thursday.

MR. WILLIAMS: Fine, we would ask for a continuance while we await this witnesses' appearance.

THE COURT: No, because we may have somebody else you could put on.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what this submission is all about. And Your Honor would then be given --

THE COURT: I am saying, you have no additional witnesses to present? Is that what you are saying?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not saying that.

THE COURT: Well, then say something that the Court could understand where you are going.

MR. WILLIAMS: The witnesses that are the subject of this submission are covered by the parameters of the evidence that we submitted thus far.

Page 24.

THE COURT: I know that. I understand that.

MR. WILLIAMS: We are talking about a way of presenting our evidence in a coherent fashion.

THE COURT: Well, all I am asking you: Do you have any new witnesses other than the ones that you are hoping to bring in after I read all of this material that you are giving me? If you have any, would you please give the District Attorney notice of who they are together with an affidavit as to what they are going to say so that they could be prepared to go through with that witness, whoever that witness may be?

MR. WILLIAMS: (Handing) I have just served and handed up to the Court a list of witnesses pursuant to Your Honor's directive. But I think the point still remains that --

THE COURT: Well, Counselor, is this the list that you are talking about?

MR. WILLIAMS: This is the list of witnesses that are not engraved by our submission (displaying).

THE COURT: I know, but you have FBI documents. How are we going to put the documents on the witness stand?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, we have a, they are authenticated by the FBI. And if the Court requires we'll have an authentication witness. Nonetheless, we do have an authenticating document to authenticate these FBI exhibits.

THE COURT: Well, what's the relevancy of it? We are here on a murder case. I'm not here to decide what the FBI did or whether it was proper or whether it was improper, or whatever it was. What does that have to do with the murder case here of this officer?

MR. WILLIAMS: I could only tell the Court we addressed that in our Petition, our Amended Petition, and in the written letter.

THE COURT: I know that.

MR. WILLIAMS: The submission we have given the Court today.

THE COURT: I know, but the D.A.'s answer says it's not relevant.

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, but there are two sides to this litigation. They say it's not relevant.

THE COURT: They are one side. The question is who shot and killed Officer Faulkner. That's the only issue here. You say that the Defendant didn't shoot him, that he's innocent. I say to you fine, you've said that to the news media plenty of times. You said you had plenty of witnesses to prove it. Well, bring those witnesses in. FBI documents are not going to tell us who killed Officer Faulkner.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor is suggesting that without having read the documents or having heard any evidence concerning the documents.

THE COURT: Well, you tell me how it's relevant? I don't know how it's relevant. What is the relevancy of those documents, or what the FBI did? Let's say the FBI had him under surveillance for years. So what?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it raises two, it addresses two issues.

THE COURT: What's that?

MR. WILLIAMS: The first issue -- and I will go with the penalty phase issue first.

Page 27.

The FBI documents reveal that Mr. Jamal was under intensive surveillance for several years. During that, that time frame when he was under surveillance, the FBI and local law enforcement never discovered that he engaged in any kind of criminality or he was never convicted.

THE COURT: I know. The Jury knew that. Nobody brought anything in here that said he committed any prior crimes.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will tell you why the Jury should have heard about the surveillance. It is one thing for the jury to hear that a person has no criminal history. It's quite another to say he has an unblemished criminal history and he's been surveilled by law enforcement.

THE COURT: Well, you show me a case that says that, Counselor. Show me a case. Xerox the case and give it to me that says that, okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Kyles V Whitley, Your Honor, which is attached to the documents that you've been, that you've been handed, deals with all Brady questions. And one of the Brady questions gone into in the Kyles case, a recent

Page 28.

Supreme Court decision, is the question of bias in the prosecution. Bias in the police investigation. What these FBI files show is that the Philadelphia Police Department, we are submitting them because they indicate the activity of the Philadelphia Police Department in surveilling Mr. Jamal around the clock from a period of 1968 now through 19, the 19, early 1980's. The point of this is that there has been intensive activity, intensive bias against Mr. Jamal. Because all these files show is that he engaged in political activities, speech and association, but nonetheless it made him a subject of massive surveillance, eavesdropping, attempts to frame him up on other charges, including another murder charge.

THE COURT: Their police investigation didn't help any, because if it had he wouldn't have been able to shoot Officer Faulkner.

MR. BURNS: The problem we have here is one of laying a foundation.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The fact is it lays the question of whether or not there is information in the police files that Mr. Jamal did not shoot this officer.

Page 29.

THE COURT: Submit a case.

MR. WILLIAMS: We have submitted a case: Exhibit V, Spaziano versus Florida is the case we are referring to.

THE COURT: Okay, I will read the cases, Counsel.

MR. WILLIAMS: What troubles us, Your Honor, is that you seem --

THE COURT: I want to hear what is the position of the District Attorney's Office in this.

MR. BURNS: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, Counsel have made, not for the first time, a number of factual statements about police surveillance, about an FBI conspiracy. And what they offer to do is put documents into the record without any kind of foundation. They don't want to produce any evidence saying that any of the specific officers were involved in this case. Or were somehow cognizant of the alleged information in the FBI documents. Your Honor, what they need to do is put on a witness to testify to some sort of fact that would establish a foundation for talking about FBI documents.

Page 30.

This was a murder case that happened in Philadelphia, that was investigated by specific officers of the Philadelphia Police Department. And absent some showing that any of these officers were aware of the alleged information that exists or purportedly is shown from these documents, there is no basis for introducing the documents. And of course there is no way to introduce the documents without a witness who will testify as to how they pertain to the case. So we are just running around in circles here. The defense assumes that something is true, and then they would like to put evidence in and put witnesses on to talk about it as though it was true without actually proving that it's true.

THE COURT: All right. Whatever cases you can give me on it I will be glad to read the cases. In the meantime, I will take it under advisement.

MR. WILLIAMS: For the benefit of the Court and for the Commonwealth, I would, I am serving on the Court a letter dated August 3rd, 1995 from the United States Department of Justice, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which authenticates our proffered exhibits. And I would like to make this part of the Court file, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, I know. I am telling you, give me cases that say it's admissible and what's the value of it.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking the Court to look at Exhibit V: Spaziano versus Florida.

THE COURT: I know. If you gave me a case I will read it. Is that for me?

THE COURT OFFICER: D-24, sir.

(Letter was marked Defense Exhibit D-24 for identification.)

MR. WILLIAMS: D-24.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: D-24.

THE COURT: Is that for me?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor. As D-25 we have the FBI files here. We have 600 pages that have been authenticated by the FBI that I want to submit into evidence as well.

MR. BURNS: We object to that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, I will take it under advisement.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

Page 32.

MR. BURNS: As to the additional witnesses on the list, Your Honor, we would like to have some kind of offer of proof. We would like to have the offer of proof in writing for the witness they will bring in from Mercer in the absence of an affidavit.

THE COURT: Somebody has to present an affidavit of some sort.

MR. BURNS: We would also like an offer of proof as to all of these witnesses on this handwritten list which we obtained five minutes ago.

THE COURT: I know, that's what I asked them to do.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Ward Churchill is a witness we have raised several times.

THE COURT: Put it in writing.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is in writing. It was submitted several days ago in writing.

MS. FISK: Ward Churchill is a witness we have been given a one or two-sentence review of which we have advised the Court that we would object to at such time as he is called. We are advised that he is an expert in the field of domestic surveillance who was going to proffer testimony regarding the relationship between Federal, State and City undercover surveillance.

MR. BURNS: This is the same situation as before. The witness is going to talk about something that doesn't exist. He is going to talk about something that the defense assumes is true without actually having any foundation evidence to prove it is true in the first place. He will just talk about this fantasy scenario.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we have 600 pages from the FBI that in every single page documents the truth, the truth that the police worked hand in hand with the FBI here.

THE COURT: Counselor, you are proceeding under a PCRA statute. Show me the relevancy of that to this proceeding, okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Brady. Brady, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, Brady. Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And the prosecution has admitted that Brady is applicable to this proceeding.

THE COURT: Give me case, will you please. Xerox a case for me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It has been done.

Page 34.

MS. FISK: I would note, however, Your Honor, that my understanding of Brady is that it applies to documents which are wholly within the control of the Commonwealth which the Commonwealth fails to provide. It appears to me that the 600 pages of documents are currently sitting in front of Miss Wolkenstein, who is, or is attempting to provide them to the Court. They are apparently documents which the defense has been able to obtain on it's own through it's own request or subpoena. And therefore I presume they are available and have been available to the defense. Brady does not cover those kinds of documents.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I am glad Counsel raised this. What this goes to is the fact that our subpoenas for the Police Department records have been quashed. And we believe these documents establish absolutely that the Philadelphia Police Department maintained records that were under the control of the Police Department and of the Commonwealth during the time of this prosecution. Those records should have been turned over to the defense as Brady material. They show both bias and, as was also gone into, they also show mitigation. That is the proof.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is the purpose of these FBI files.

THE COURT: Okay, give me some cases on it and I will read it and make's second decision.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As indicated, they are also in Your Honor's possession, several times over.

THE COURT: Not several times over, I just got it this morning.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, with respect to an unrelated matter: Present in Court this morning from Chicago is the Reverend Jesse Jackson.

THE COURT: All right. Counselor, why don't you save that for the news media outside. Unless he has something to offer this Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I want to make a request of the Court. Reverend Jackson is here to offer counsel to Mr. Jamal. Your Honor knows an execution date is set 10 days from today.

THE COURT: I am going to take that up today. Go ahead.

Page 36.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: I am going to take that issue up today.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Would the Court order the opportunity for the Reverend Jackson to meet with Mr. Jamal during a break that we have today? Without interrupting the proceedings of the Court.

THE COURT: Counselor, you have to take that up with the Sheriff. The Defendant is not in my custody. He is only in my custody when he is in this Courtroom. The rest of the time he is in the custody either of the State Correctional Department or the Sheriff. Take that issue up with the Sheriff or the State Correctional Department. It's not for me to order the Sheriff to do anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the Sheriffs, as I understand it, will follow the orders of this Court. If the Court requests it I am sure the Sheriffs will see to it that it can happen.

THE COURT: Why don't you go to the Sheriff and ask him. And let him deny it and then come back and see me, okay.

Page 37.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, Reverend Jackson is here from Chicago and we don't have that much time.

THE COURT: Counselor, I will be here all day long. So what I am saying to you: Please go to the Sheriff first and ask him. If he allows it he allows it. If he doesn't then come back to me. We already had this spiritual advisor thing decided and you know that the State Correctional Department took the position that I was wrong in ordering them to do something. And you agreed with them and you entered into an agreement. And whatever agreement you entered into is fine, I have no objection to that. Take it up with the Sheriff. Let's give the Sheriff an opportunity before we jump to conclusions.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have five minutes so that I can confer with the Sheriff and report back? Reverend Jackson has a busy schedule. He has come here, it is a specific mission.

THE COURT: I know that.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just want five minutes to talk to the Sheriff's personnel to see that this is resolved.

THE COURT: Not the personnel, talk to the Sheriff. He is down on the third floor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would be pleased to go down there if the Court would give me just a few minutes.

THE COURT: Why don't you wait until we finish up what we are going to do today. I am trying to find out where we are going.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we have a witness. We have a witness here, I'm told. And the witness will testify.

THE COURT: What witness is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Who is that?

THE COURT: Pardon? Who is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Sharon Greely Smith.

MS. FISK: We have no offer of proof with regard to that witness, as I understand it.

THE COURT: They don't know a thing about this. This is what I keep telling you. Give them notice and give them an affidavit or a statement or something so they know what you are going to do. That's what I have been telling you from the very beginning. But you have been ignoring that. So I don't know that you have anybody to testify today.

MR. WEINGLASS: We do.

THE COURT: Well, give them the information first.

MR. WEINGLASS: They have been given the list.

MS. FISK: We received that five minute ago, Your Honor. And we have not yet received an offer of proof with regard to Sharon Smith, Vernon Jones and C --

THE COURT: All right, I will hold it in abeyance until you get that information.

MR. WEINGLASS: In five minutes we could give them all the information. We will be glad to confer with Counsel. If the Court will give us just a few minutes we can settle this whole thing of their not being prepared. We are all under pressure.

MR. BURNS: I object to that characterization. We got this handwritten list 10 minutes ago and he is saying we weren't prepared for a witness when we don't know who they are or what they are going to say. It is a little silly, a little facile.

MR. WEINGLASS: We got their response at two o'clock and we were told to proceed the next morning at 9:00. Their response was over 40 pages and we had to be ready to go the next morning. Something which the Pennsylvania Supreme Court found to be egregious.

THE COURT: No, they didn't. They didn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: They stopped this Court.

THE COURT: No, no, no, you keep forgetting what they said. You wanted until August 1st and I wanted you to go on July, I forget the date, but immediately. They cut it in half and they said start on the 26th of July. So we started on the 26th of July, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: After Your Honor wanted to start on the 18th they said no.

MS. FISK: We have been over this, Your Honor, at least five times in the last two days. May I ask if we could have an offer of proof?

MR. BURNS: On the record.

MS. FISK: For Sharon Smith on the record so we could know whether or not this is a witness that could be proffered.

Page 41.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we have just the five minutes to make the offers to Counsel directly, to confer with the Sheriff, so that the Reverend Jackson could be admitted and then be on his way?

THE COURT: Well, the thing is he won't be able to see him until we break because he is going to have to go back upstairs.

MR. WEINGLASS: I agree. But we have to get the permission so that the Reverend will stay here for the break. I'm not asking to interrupt the Court's time for that.

THE COURT: Well, it is going to interrupt it because it will take time for him to go back up for the interview, whatever it is going to be. I have no objection to it.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is the lunch hour.

THE COURT: It is not lunch, it is eleven o'clock.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I mean, okay, at that point.

THE COURT: It is eleven o'clock, you are asking me to break now.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just for a few minutes.

Page 42.

THE COURT: You just want to ask the Sheriff if he could see him in the lunch hour?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: At the lunch hour.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay I we will take a short recess while he calls the Sheriff. Call him on the phone back there if you want. Or if you want to go downstairs and see him it's perfectly all right. But I don't know how you are going to do it in five minutes.

MS. FISK: I assume there is someone who could provide us with the offer of proof during the same period of time.

MR. BURNS: I would like the offer of proof to be on the record because if we have any objection we will just have to put it on all over again when we're done.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT: Do you want to use the phone back there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine.

THE COURT: Okay, we will take a short recess.

Page 43.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court will take a short recess.

- - - - -

(Brief recess.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: I understand the Sheriff agreed to let him see him?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, Your Honor. I've had a conversation with the Sheriff and the Sheriff has agreed to make a room available at twelve o'clock for purposes of having a consultation.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, with regard to the offer of proof regarding this Ms. Smith: I have been advised that Ms. Smith is being offered to the Court for two purposes. It is being alleged that she apparently is a witness who on the morning of December the 9th, 1981 heard gunshots, looked out a window and saw police officers beating up a black man severely. And this is being offered to show bias in the investigation on the course of the police. I would argue first that this is, this does not show bias in the investigation. There was evidence proffered at trial by Mr. Jackson through cross-examination as well as through direct witnesses alleging that Mr. Jamal was beaten. This is evidence which was presented to the Jury and that portion of Ms. Smith's testimony presents nothing new that was not presented at time of trial.

In addition, it is being alleged that Ms. Smith would testify that she knows a street vendor who used to hang out in the intersection near where Officer Faulkner was shot. It is alleged by the defense that this is the same street vendor that Mr. Greer the investigator referred to as being the priest whom he knew who hung out at that intersection. And Ms. Smith would testify that said person has been conspicuously absent since this incident. It is alleged by defense that this offer goes to the claim of actual innocence because it is possible, I'm advised, that that person, since he hasn't been there since that might, might in fact be the actual shooter.

With regard to that allegation, first, that is mere supposition and does not come near to the standard required of the defense at the Post-Conviction Relief Act stage.

Secondly, there has never been any affidavit signed by this woman that has been provided to the Commonwealth.

And third, with regard to both of these claims, there is absolutely no allegation that, A, she was unavailable at time of trial and is after-discovered; or she was available at time of trial and that Mr. Jackson did not have a legal or a rational strategy basis for not calling her. I note that Mr. Jackson was not questioned, as I understand it, with regard to whether or not he knew about this witness and why he failed to call her.

For all those reasons there is currently not sufficient notice and there is absolutely no adequate basis on the record which would permit defense to present this testimony.

THE COURT: Well, I will delay ruling on that pending further research by the defense team. I don't know what, get some affidavit or something in here or do whatever you have to do to fit it within the PCRA statute. At the present time, it's not of any use to the Court.

Page 46.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I would then direct Your Honor's attention to exhibit A in our letter submission to the Court: Kyles versus Whitley. And the issue of actual innocence is addressed in the PCRA explicitly. And we invoke that.

THE COURT: Did she sign that affidavit?

MR. WILLIAMS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: Did she sign that affidavit?

MS. FISK: There is no reference to this witness anywhere in the affidavit so far as I am aware.

MR. WILLIAMS: Precisely, because she is newly discovered and she would testify --

THE COURT: Okay, get something from her. Get something in writing, an affidavit from her. And give it to the District Attorney, a copy of it, and let's see if it applies. So we'll have to just hold up on her for the time being until you do this thing properly.

And I would like to know: I have told you before time and time again, please give me a list of all the witnesses that you intend to call together with the necessary affidavits attached to them. So that the Court can properly rule on whether they are admissible or not admissible. And the District Attorney is then on notice as to how to be prepared to proceed with cross-examination of these witnesses. If you don't do that, I'm just going to prevent you from presenting these witnesses.

I have told you that in the very beginning and I've asked you that time and time again. But I don't seem to be getting anywhere with you, so. I will have to take that position.

We still have the question of the stay of execution here. And today is August 7th. The execution date is August 17th. It's getting rather close. And at the rate we're going I don't see when, I don't even know when we're going to finish. And then from here it is an automatic appeal to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. I am sure they are not going to be able to resolve that issue before August the 17th. And from there you are going into Federal Court. And I'm sure no one along that line is going to be able to make all of these decisions before

August the 17th of 1995.

Based on that reason alone, because this is his first PCRA Petition, as I understand it, he is legally permitted to argue that one all the way up to the highest Court in the land, including the United States Supreme Court. And I can't see that happening before August the 17th of 1995, and for that reason and that reason alone, I will grant your stay of execution.

Calm down, don't be too happy because that's only for this one. And that's, as I said to you, solely because this is his first PCRA Petition. And he has an absolute right to be heard by the highest Court in the country. That's the United States Supreme Court. And that can't possibly be done by August the 17th. And that reason and that reason alone is the only reason why I'm granting the stay at this time.

Is there anything else that we have to take up at this time?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there is one other matter which is outstanding. We had requested getting copies of the photographs that were Exhibits. And we've tried, we have done all the things requested by the District Attorney's Office. We've gone to Room 685. The Quarter Sessions Clerk. They have told us that they do not have the photos there. They have told us again to go to either the Police Evidence Room, where we've already been told the photos are not, or in fact they've sent us back to the District Attorney's Office.

I request the Court to request that the District Attorney search their files, find the proofs that I was already informed that they had in their possession. We would gladly pay the cost for the reprinting of those photographs.

THE COURT: What photos are you talking about?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: These are photos of the scene taken sometime shortly after the event.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. Your own photographer took photos of the scene.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, it is changed --

THE COURT: No, I am talking about the investigator Mr. Greer.

Page 50.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Greer did not take photographs, to my understanding.

THE COURT: He had a photographer. He submitted a bill to the Court which was paid.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we do not have them.

THE COURT: Counselor, the defense's own photographer took pictures. Why don't you go to him and ask him to give you copies.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we have. Mr. Jackson does not have them. The appellate Counsel does not have them. Mr. Greer does not have them.

THE COURT: You know who the photographer was, don't you?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There are photographs --

THE COURT: Counselor, do you know who the photographer was?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there were photographs.

THE COURT: Counselor, answer my question, will you.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, we know, Your

Page 51.

Honor.

THE COURT: All right, go to that photographer and ask him if he has copies. Please.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, they were Commonwealth Exhibits. They were photographs, I believe, taken by the Commonwealth --

THE COURT: Well, this is part --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- that night. That night. We want the Commonwealth Exhibits. We have no access to them absent the District Attorney's Office.

THE COURT: I don't know where they are. You say they were admitted into evidence?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, they were.

THE COURT: Well, they should have been with the Clerk of Quarter Sessions, they should have been with the files.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: But they are not, Your Honor, and we have --

THE COURT: Well, I can't help that, and I can't help you. I can't create photos for you. Go to the Clerk of Quarter Sessions and ask them what they did with the photos.

Page 52.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we have. We've also been told, I was informed by the Detective Welsh about a week and a half ago that there were proofs that the District Attorney's Office had. I ask for the District Attorney's Office to be requested to print those proofs so we can have a copy of what were Commonwealth Exhibits during the trial.

THE COURT: Okay. All right, I heard enough from you. What's your answer to that?

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, we will refer the defense to the Supreme Court's order of several weeks ago denying discovery.

THE COURT: Oh, they denied that? They denied the discovery.

MR. BURNS: They affirmed your ruling in denying discovery.

THE COURT: Okay, that's.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: These are part --

THE COURT: Counselor, that is it. If the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has denied your discovery motion then that's it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, your file is absent exhibits.

Page 53.

THE COURT: Counselor, Counselor, if the Pennsylvania Supreme Court already ruled on it, go back up to the Supreme Court if that's where you want to go. But as far as I'm concerned, they've ruled on it and that's it. I am not fighting with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. I'm only a little Judge here in Philadelphia, I'm not a Supreme Court Justice.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This isn't discovery, this is to get a copy of what is supposed to be a part of the Court record.

THE COURT: Tell the Supreme Court it is not discovery. As far as I am concerned it is discovery.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: These are missing Exhibits from the Court file.

THE COURT: Argue that when you get back up to the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, on the list of proffered witnesses for today also included is Paul Hoyer, who is the Medical Examiner in this matter, and Vernon Jones.

THE COURT: Is that what that says? I can't even read his writing.

MS. FISK: That's my best guess, Your

Page 54.

Honor.

THE COURT: Would you please either print or have it typed. I can't read this.

MS. FISK: And there is also a Vernon Jones, who I am assuming is the Vernon Jones who was a police officer who was on Locust Street the morning of Officer Faulkner's death. I would ask with regard to each of those witnesses that the Commonwealth be provided with a written offer of proof and an affidavit.

THE COURT: Well, I told them that if they don't give it to you I won't let him testify. I told them that in the very beginning. I keep telling them time and time again but they don't listen. I guess the only way to make them listen is to say I won't let them testify.

All right, is there anything else? Because I want to break for lunch in order to give him an opportunity to see...

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Your Honor. We would appreciate that.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, is there anything that's being offered this afternoon?

THE COURT: I don't know, I will come back and see if they have anything to offer by then.

Page 55.

MS. FISK: My understanding, Your Honor, is that we have not -- I made a response with regard to Sharon Smith. We object to her being called based on the current state of the record.

We have not received any offer of proof with regard to Vernon Jones and Paul Hoyer. I understand that the Court has already made it's rulings barring Dr. Lambert or Mr. Churchill and the FBI documents from testifying. Those appear to be all the proffered witnesses that the defense has on this day.

THE COURT: Well, maybe they don't have anymore witnesses, I don't know.

MR. WEINGLASS: May we have the break for lunch and we will inform the Court immediately after lunch?

THE COURT: All right. Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Recess for lunch until one o'clock.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

Page 56.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's fine. Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: Court will take a luncheon recess until 1:OO p.m.

- - - - -

(Luncheon recess was held from 11:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have an application to make with the Court.

THE COURT: Well, before the Court takes any applications: I understand that there is some misunderstanding about my order this morning. So for the benefit of everyone that's here, including the news media, I will read you my order as I signed it. If anyone wants a copy of this order, we will be glad to give it to them.

The order reads as follows. And now to wit, this 7th day of August, 1995, it is hereby ordered and decreed that the Petitioner's motion to stay his execution scheduled for August 17th, 1995 is hereby granted. While this Court's order is not an expression of an opinion on the merits of Defendant's motion for Post-Conviction Relief, the law dictates that this Court grant the Defendant ample time to have these proceedings reviewed by the highest Court of this Commonwealth, and the highest Court of the United States. Therefore, since further appellate review is certain, the necessity of this order is obvious. By the Court, Albert F. Sabo.

The Court will make this a part of the original records. And if any news media wants a copy of this order I will be glad to give it to them. I think we have given copies to the Commonwealth and the defense.

Now, what is your position?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have an application and it is with regard to the right of the defense to file subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum on witnesses in this matter. It has been previously raised by the Commonwealth in this case that there is a process which it appeared to the Commonwealth was being abused by the defense, and I have another instance of just that abuse of subpoena power.

We received a telephone call, it was received in the District Attorney's Office this morning while we were in Court. It was a telephone call from a Mr. Al Giordano. Mr. Giordano was a police officer in 1981, was a lieutenant who arrived on the scene where Mr. Jamal was in custody in the police wagon before being taken to Jefferson Hospital. Mr. Giordano in fact as a lieutenant heard a confession from Mr. Jamal on the night of the incident which was recorded and that at a motion to suppress prior to trial this Court ruled that that statement of the Defendant would be utilized at time of trial. Nevertheless, Officer Giordano, Lieutenant Giordano was not called at trial. Mr. Giordano is no longer on the police force. He is a businessman, he owns his own small business.

He advised me when I spoke to him at lunch this afternoon that at 10:55 this morning a man walked into his small establishment, handed him a subpoena for 9:00 a.m. this morning, and advised him to be in this Courtroom at two o'clock this afternoon as a defense witness in this matter.

I advised Mr. Giordano simply to call the Courtroom because he was not on the list of witnesses being proffered for today by the defense, which list was received by the Commonwealth at 10:15 this morning.

This is just another example of the abuse the defense is making of their subpoena powers. The fact that at 10:55 they feel that they are permitted to serve someone with a subpoena for 9:00 a.m., tell them to show up, and it has already been conceded in this Courtroom by the defense that he is not a witness in the case, certainly not a witness for today, was not on the list for today. And I would note that as far as Lieutenant Giordano's statement, there is no affidavit from Officer Giordano, no averment of a recantation, and absolutely no mention in either the original Petition or the Amended Petition regarding Mr. Giordano's testimony and the effect if any that it would have on this proceeding.

For all of those reasons I would ask that at this moment the Court advise the defense that they are no longer permitted to issue subpoenas upon individuals unless they have express permission by this Court.

Page 60.

THE COURT: I thought I said that on Friday.

MS. FISK: Unless this Court gave them permission to subpoena Mr. Giordano --

THE COURT: I didn't give them permission at all.

MS. FISK: -- apparently, that is not being abided.

THE COURT: I told them on Friday I didn't want them to abuse the process any further. That they would have to first give me a list of everybody that they wish to call, and an affidavit from that person as to what he would say. Or why it's material in these proceedings. Evidently they are not doing it. So any subpoena that they issued for him is quashed.

And it will be quashed for any other witness unless you follow the procedure that I told you to follow initially. If you don't do that I am just going to quash them all.

Now if you want to go see the Supreme Court about that one, go ahead. If they want to listen to you, that's their prerogative.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is the Court

indicating it is going to quash all of our subpoenas?

THE COURT: I am going to quash them unless you follow my orders. I want from you, and I told you, I want a list of the witnesses you're going to call. And attach affidavits to those so that the Commonwealth will know what you are going to do, so the Court will know what you are going to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: The local rule requires 30 days and we indicated that to the Court in the beginning of this proceeding.

THE COURT: It is not required 30 days now for a subpoena. We are now in the process of calling witnesses. I told you I want a list from you of what witnesses you intend to call. For instance, give us a list, what witnesses you hope to call tomorrow. And attach affidavits to that so that everybody knows what those witnesses are going to testify to. And to see whether or not it's relevant so that the Court can make a logical and correct decision. But you're not doing that. You're just going ahead and doing whatever you are pleased to do. And I said to you then that I would quash any such subpoenas. And that's what I am doing with this one that you just filed. I don't know if the witness is here or not but if he is not it's quashed. Follow the directives of the Court. If you don't do that, I'm not going to let you call these witnesses.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think the record --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The record should show we did talk to Officer Giordano over lunch as well.

THE COURT: You may have talked to him. But you have not filed in advance with this Court the witnesses that you hope to call. Now I'm asking you give us a list of the witnesses that you hope to call tomorrow. Attach to that list the affidavits as to what they are going to testify and why it's relevant to the proceedings we're now going through: The Post-Conviction Hearing Relief Act. That's what I am asking you to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: We can't do that under the time constraints that have been imposed upon --

THE COURT: You don't have any time constraints. You haven't been doing anything all day. We have been sitting around doing nothing. You said at the very beginning of this case you had a lot of witnesses. Well, where are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor denied us --

THE COURT: As I told you in the beginning, I want a list.

MR. WEINGLASS: You denied us our two witnesses this morning.

THE COURT: What two witnesses? You never told me on Friday which one you were going to call. You never attached to it any affidavit as to what they are going to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we informed the Court by writing today of our list of witnesses.

THE COURT: You don't --

MR. WEINGLASS: And the Court has quashed them.

THE COURT: What witness have you given me today? This little piece of paper here?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, it is a list of the witnesses.

Page 64.

THE COURT: No, I want a list of the people that you are going to call in the future, including tomorrow. And attach to it an affidavit as to each one. So I know exactly what that witness is going to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: The problem --

THE COURT: The reason you are bringing them. So in case the Commonwealth has any objections to it they could raise the objection and then I could make a ruling. And you have an automatic exception and you take it up with the Supreme Court when this matter gets up there.

MR. WEINGLASS: The problem we ran into was on Thursday morning the Court quashed 11 witnesses and we have been trying --

THE COURT: Right. I cautioned you. You didn't do exactly what I told you to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: We gave you their names and we gave you what they would testify about.

THE COURT: If I quashed it it was because of legal reasons. And I told you then you have an exception to that. You don't have to even ask for it. You have an automatic exception to any ruling I make. And you could take it on appeal to the Supreme Court. If the Supreme Court feels that this Court should hear those witnesses, they'll send the matter back down to me to hear them.

But at this moment I have ruled that they are, the subpoenas are quashed, okay. All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not rearguing those quashes.

THE COURT: All right, because all you are doing is wasting a lot of my time. Why don't you for tomorrow, we don't have anything for today as I could see it here. Why don't you for tomorrow give us a list of who you hope to call tomorrow. Attach affidavits to it so that the D.A. could look it over. And if they are going to object for any reason to the legality of those proceedings, let them do it. And then I will make a ruling on it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I do have an affidavit for the Court. I hand it up to the Court.

THE COURT: Well, give the defense --

MR. WEINGLASS: I have given the D.A.

Page 66.

a copy.

THE COURT: Oh, all right.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is Dr. Charles Honts.

Would you please stand.

This is an affidavit of Dr. Charles Honts. Dr. Honts is a professor at Boise State University in Idaho. He is a Ph.D psychologist and he is a member of the faculty. And he's here to testify about the polygraph test that was administered to Dessie Hightower, where the Commonwealth contends that Dessie Hightower failed that test. Dr. Honts is here to examine the test results and to offer expert testimony to the Court on whether or not Mr. Hightower in fact failed or passed that test.

We feel this is very important evidence. And we've brought Dr. Honts here, he flew in today. He's not on our witness list for today because he got here at approximately ten o'clock this morning. But he's here nonetheless. The Commonwealth has the test results and we would like the Commonwealth to provide the graph results to Dr. Honts so that he could make an analysis of the graft results and then before the Court as to whether or not Dessie Hightower passed that polygraph exam.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this was the basis of my second application before the Court this afternoon. I would note first that Dr. Honts' affidavit, which apparently was signed yesterday, was handed to the Commonwealth about four-and-a-half minutes ago. And attached to his affidavit is a 24-page curriculum vitae of the doctor's which we have never been given an opportunity to review.

I would note as well that the affidavit of the doctor which has been given is that the doctor at this point is unable to render an opinion as to the result of Mr. Hightower's polygraph examination for stated reasons, so at this point his testimony is irrelevant. First.

Second, the Commonwealth does not have possession of the polygraph results. As the Court and Counsel reflects, they have been marked and entered into evidence, they are part of the Court file.

Third, it was raised last week: Whether or not Dessie Hightower passed the polygraph examination or did not pass the polygraph examination is not the issue before this Court. The issue before this Court is whether or not Dessie Hightower was told he passed the polygraph examination or whether or not whether he was told he did not pass the polygraph examination. And there is no scientific test which any expert can conduct which could bring us any closer to that determination. The sole determination with that is a credibility determination for this Court to make between the testimony of Mr. Hightower and Lieutenant Sterling, the two parties who had the conversation, Mr. Hightower saying that he was told he passed, and Lieutenant Sterling saying he told him a deception was indicated.

For all those reasons the Commonwealth on Friday addressed the Court and argued that a polygraph expert cannot in this case come in and tell us whether or not Dessie Hightower passed that polygraph exam. That is not relevant to any of the issues currently before this Court as raised by the defense at this stage.

THE COURT: I thought that's what I said on Friday.

Page 69.

MR. WEINGLASS: The argument on Friday, as I recall it, Your Honor, was that we asked for the polygraph results to be given to us so that we could send them to Dr. Honts.

THE COURT: I know that, but the issue --

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: -- before the Court was not whether he passed or flunked that, because I don't see the relevancy in the PCRA Petition, but whether or not he was told. That was the issue. That was the issue why you brought Hightower in here in the first place. He alleged that he was not told that he flunked the test but rather was told that he passed it. And that was the only issue why Hightower was here.

And then the Commonwealth in reply to that brought in the lieutenant solely for the purpose of saying that he did tell him that. And that's the only issue here. The Court is not concerned with whether he passed or flunked it. Because Hightower took the stand during the course of the trial. He testified. And he was cross-examined by the Commonwealth. And nothing came up about a polygraph, and rightfully so.

Page 70.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was hidden by the polygraph unit.

THE COURT: It doesn't make any difference, it did not come up during the course of the trial.

MR. WEINGLASS: They didn't tell his lawyer about it.

THE COURT: The Jury never had that. And even if the Jury knew about it, if anybody tried to introduce it I would have denied permission to introduce the results of a polygraph test. Because that's the law here in Pennsylvania so far. Unless the Pennsylvania Supreme Court is going to change the law on that subject.

Now, I have said enough about it. The subpoena is quashed. I'm not going to allow him to testify as to that. And you have an automatic exception, you could take that up with the Supreme Court. If the Supreme Court says I'm wrong they'll send it back down again to hear his testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, this witness, Dr. Honts, is not subpoenaed.

THE COURT: Well, whatever he is --

Page 71.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court on Friday, I asked to be able to take out the results of the polygraph test and the Court said to me bring your expert here.

THE COURT: No, the D.A. said to you when he was brought here properly and you offered him to testify he will then make his objections noted. But I understood that he was going to be solely on the grounds, as I have just already said, as the District Attorney has said here. And that's the only reason why I'm denying him the right to take the stand.

You have an exception, Counselor. The Supreme Court will review it. If they think I'm wrong they will send it back down and then we will have it.

MR. WEINGLASS: If the Court permits, since it's been marked in evidence, Dr. Honts to take the graph of the polygraph into a room and examine the graph?

THE COURT: No, for the simple reason that I am not going to hear any evidence as to what was on that polygraph test. That's not the issue here. I don't care whether somebody said he passed it or flunked it. That's not the issue. The issue is whether or not he was told a certain thing by the officers, okay. And the officer denied that he said anything like that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Hightower said the other thing. I don't need, I don't need a polygraph operator to tell me how to resolve that issue.

I've ruled, Counselor. You have an exception. Please don't argue anymore with me about it. Give me a list for tomorrow, will you. So we could see where we are going to go tomorrow.

MR. WEINGLASS: Will the Court just give me a moment to release Dr. Honts?

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: He's come here, he's flown here.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: He arrived this morning.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Just so that's clear: The affidavit of Dr. Honts and his curriculum vitae, I assume, are now part of the record.

Page 73.

MS. FISK: I would object to that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, it is not part of the record.

MS. FISK: This conversation is a part of the record.

THE COURT: This conversation is part of the record, yes. But --

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, then may we have his affidavit marked as the next exhibit for the defense?

THE COURT: Well, if you want to mark it for identification purposes, all right. But it is not being admitted as evidence.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right. May we have the Court's copy?

THE COURT: You mean you don't have a copy for them?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There are two copies, Your Honor.

THE COURT: There are two copies here?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes.

THE COURT: I guess, yes, that looks like there's two copies.

(Affidavit and c-v. was marked Defense Exhibit D-25 for identification.)

Page 74.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we proceed: I submitted to the Court and to the District Attorney's Office my affirmation as requested this morning. Under penalty of perjury I state the following. On August 3rd, 1995, I interviewed William Harmon, CK2563 at S.C.I. Mercer. During that interview Mr. Harmon told me, one, that he was present at 13th and Locust Streets at approximately 3:50 a.m. on December 9th, 1981. Two, that he witnessed the shooting of Mr. Jamal by Police Officer Faulkner. Three, that another black male shot the police officer. And four, that Mr. Jamal did not shoot the police officer. Dated that today, signed it.

Your Honor, that's our submission for the habeas corpus testificandum.

THE COURT: Where is that writ? Where is the Clerk of Court?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I have another copy.

THE COURT: No, no, no, I have one up here. I had it up here.

MS. FURIA: We don't have a copy.

THE COURT: All right, get another copy and she will prepare a writ on that. Give it to the Clerk of Court.

Page 75.

Give it to the Clerk of Court, she'll make a writ from that.

Where is he now?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mercer, Your Honor, Mercer.

THE COURT: Mercer County. And he will be here on Thursday.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note that the Amended Petition filed by defense this morning includes as well as Mr. Harmon an averment to additional newly-discovered evidence which includes allegations of statements made by Ms. Sharon Smith, the woman whose offer of proof was made to the Commonwealth this morning. We would ask in compliance with Post-Conviction Relief Act requirements that we be provided with a signed and sworn affidavit by Ms. Smith.

THE COURT: I told them that. How many times am I going to tell them. I am only going to tell them once. This is it. I mean this is the last time I am going to tell them. If they don't give it to you, just let me know and I will quash the subpoena or anything else that has to be done. I am tired of saying the same thing over and over again.

MR. WEINGLASS: The rule that Counsel cites is the rule we asked the Court to abide by and the Court said that rule doesn't apply to this Court.

THE COURT: No, that rule does apply. As for giving the affidavits, it does apply.

MR. WEINGLASS: Then we have to have a 30-days continuance.

THE COURT: They are not asking for a 30-day continuance to answer it. Just give it to them. If they want 30 days they will ask me for 30 days.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are asking for the time that is needed to prepare --

THE COURT: No, no, no.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- the affidavits of witnesses.

THE COURT: No, you have to do that before. You do that first. They have 30 days to respond. But if they don't ask for the 30 days, I'm not going to give them 30 days.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: But it's up to them to ask

Page 77.

for it.

MR. WEINGLASS: We have to be given the time to prepare the affidavits.

THE COURT: What time? How long does it take you to prepare an affidavit for somebody to sign it? You did it on all those other 19 issues that you have raised.

Counselor, I am not going to sit here and argue with you anymore. This is getting a little too much. Please follow my orders. Attach an affidavit to the witness you're going to call, serve it on the Commonwealth. If the Commonwealth needs time to answer that, they will ask for time. If they don't ask for time I'm not giving them time, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, this is a --

THE COURT: But that's not for you to ask for time for the Commonwealth.

MR. WEINGLASS: The affidavit rule being imposed on us is a new rule.

THE COURT: No, it is not a new rule. Counselor, please. The Supreme Court has said start this matter July 26th. It's now August 7th. We're not going to be delaying anymore. Give them whoever you want to call. Whoever you want to call, give it to them and attach the affidavit to it. Please.

MR. WEINGLASS: From July 26th to today, we have over 30 witnesses. The Court has quashed approximately 20.

THE COURT: Don't worry about what I quashed. Worry about the ones you still want to call. Give them notice on that and the affidavit. And they'll, if they need time to answer they'll ask for it. I am not saying I am going to grant them time, but they'll have to ask for it, not you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we're asking for time.

THE COURT: I am not giving anybody time. I may not even give the Commonwealth any time. But this is what you'll have to do. Look, we are not going to be here until Christmas, Counselor.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I understand further that based on Ms. Wolkenstein's allegation this morning that the photographs were missing from the Quarter Sessions file that in fact a check was made by Your Honor's clerk and in fact they are in the PCRA unit, where they have always been and they were available. They have been obtained by your clerk. I understand that your clerk is available to provide testimony if that is needed but that she was able to find them at the luncheon recess where she had seen them some two-and-a-half or three weeks ago. And apparently those are available.

THE COURT: Do you want to put on the record whatever you did, Gina, please. Do you want her to take the stand? I don't care. Either.

MS. FISK: I wasn't calling her as a witness, Your Honor, but fine.

- - - - -

Gina Furia, Esquire, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Would you please explain for the record whether you have in fact found the photographs that were introduced at trial and if so where you have located them?

A. The photographs called Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal a/k/a Wesley Cook, were found upstairs in Room 788, the PCRA unit, where they have been for the last three weeks at least. I saw them there when I reviewed the file several weeks ago. I brought this to the attention of Detective Walsh. I told him to please tell the Defendant's, or the defense team to look in 788, in order not to get involved with either side of the case. I was informed in Court he did tell them to look in 788.

I spoke with Miss Wolkenstein during our break and indicated that she should probably look in 788. She told me she did. I went up at lunch and the pictures were there.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Do you want my testimony now, Your Honor? I don't think it's necessary. I just want to indicate thank you very much for finding them. What we need to do is get copies of them made. We will do whatever is necessary to secure copies of them, as opposed to simply Xeroxes, which are absolutely unusable.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this evidence, as with all the others, will be placed into the custody of Detective Walsh who has been acting as liaison with regard to defense access to all --

Page 81.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Why weren't they in the custody of Detective Walsh when I went to the evidence room when I wanted to see them? You can't have it both ways.

THE COURT: You should have taken the advice of my law clerk when she told you where to go.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, she didn't, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You did? As a matter of fact, what did she say to you when you told them?

THE WITNESS: That somebody had gone to look for them but they were not there.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I was told by Detective Walsh that they were not findable and that there was proofs. That is the last conversation I had with Detective Walsh except for him telling me to talk to the District Attorney's Office. Now, we could each get sworn on this. I don't really think this is necessary.

THE COURT: I don't think it is necessary either.

Page 82.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right.

THE COURT: My law clerk was able to get them for you. We will turn them over to Detective Walsh. They will be in his custody. And make arrangements to see them or do whatever you want with them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I would like copies of them.

THE COURT: Detective Walsh will make copies for you. I don't know, I assume.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Thank you very much, Detective Walsh.

Is there any objection to copies being made from the District

Attorney's Office or from Detective Walsh?

THE COURT: I don't care who makes copies of them, to tell you the truth. They are here, we found them for you. Give them to the detective, they will be in his custody. Because I have to have somebody who is going to be responsible for all this evidence.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, I trust the Court has no objection to copies being made.

THE COURT: No, you could go, you could get your copier, in his preference you could make copies.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I need copies, Xeroxes of the photographs just simply done --

THE COURT: Well, I don't know if he could make copies of that. You talk to him about it. I'm not here to do these things. I gave it to him. Get in touch with him and see if you could work out whatever you have to work out, okay.

Anything else we have to take of outside of that? I don't see anything else.

How about the list of the names for tomorrow, do you have any?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will provide that.

THE COURT: When, tomorrow morning?

MR. WEINGLASS: They will be provided tomorrow morning.

THE COURT: No, that's too late. That's what I am trying to tell you. Do it now.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, today we had Dr. Lambert, Ward Churchill, Dr. Honts, Sharon Smith. They have all been eliminated.

THE COURT: Yes, because you didn't follow my instructions to let us know in advance who you're calling.

Page 84.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we did.

THE COURT: No, you didn't, Counselor. Don't tell me you did. You didn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Ward Churchill was on that last list for three days. He was on the list for Thursday. He was on the list for Friday.

THE COURT: When did you hand this to the D.A.'s Office? Just a while ago.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Wednesday.

MR. WEINGLASS: Wednesday.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Those names were on Wednesday.

THE COURT: I am talking about the affidavit.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Along with offers of proof. Very similar to the District Attorney's Office.

THE COURT: So she could now argue whether or not this is a permissible witness. That's why I am telling you to do it in advance. You are going to wait until tomorrow morning. I could see we are not going to do much tomorrow either. You should do that today. File it today so that she knows. When she comes in tomorrow morning she could argue whatever she wants. Or be prepared to cross-examine whatever witness the Court allows you to present. I don't know what their position is. So give her the list today. And attach the affidavits or whatever you have to attach to it. Will you get it to her today?

MR. WEINGLASS: We'll do our best.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it might be, in light of the fact that Mr. Harmon is not going to be available until Thursday, and we have not received what we consider to be timely notice of any additional witnesses, that a recess might be in order for a day.

THE COURT: You mean until when? Today is Monday.

MS. FISK: Perhaps until Thursday, or until Wednesday if we could be given a list tomorrow for witnesses being proffered for Wednesday.

MR. WEINGLASS: It's possible. Also, we are getting the transcript of the pre-trial hearing of March 18th on Wednesday. That will be of assistance to us.

Page 86.

THE COURT: Well, we will adjourn, then, until tomorrow to wait for the list. And then see who is going to testify on Wednesday. Because you know the other one will be available on Thursday.

But where is that writ for him? Is this it?

THE COURT CLERK: I have it.

THE COURT: You prepared a writ?

THE COURT CLERK: I have two.

MR. BURNS: I understand, Your Honor, that we will receive a list of witnesses tomorrow for Wednesday?

THE COURT: Tomorrow, as I understand it, because he doesn't have it today, so.

MR. BURNS: Tomorrow morning specifically, Your Honor?

(Pause.)

THE COURT: We're going to need a commit for this witness for Graterford.

THE COURT CLERK: We do get the commit, you don't have to sign that.

THE COURT: And a bringup.

THE COURT CLERK: Yes.

THE COURT: It's not necessary for civilian clothes but if he's got them it's all right. If he doesn't it's okay too. I don't care, there is no jury here.

All right, then we will adjourn until tomorrow. Have your list prepared, please, so that she can argue.

MR. WEINGLASS: I thought Counsel had asked that we adjourn tomorrow and meet on Wednesday.

THE COURT: No, we adjourn until tomorrow so that you could give them the list and we decide which ones are to be called on Wednesday. And which ones you are going to call -- well, Thursday we are going to allocate, I guess, to Mr. Harmon.

MR. BURNS: May it please the Court: It is probably not necessary for us to gather here tomorrow just for defense Counsel to present us with a list. I think it would be satisfactory, if it please the Court, for the defense to convey the list to us out of Court. As long as it arrives in the morning. And that we reconvene on Wednesday.

THE COURT: What time do you want the list?

Page 88.

MR. BURNS: I think 10:00 a.m. would be fine.

THE COURT: Could you have the list to them tomorrow morning by 10:00 a.m?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will have the list by 10:00 a.m.

THE COURT: Okay, then we will adjourn until Wednesday.

MR. BURNS: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BURNS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: We will adjourn until Wednesday.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court is recessed until Wednesday.

(At 10:15 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys.)

- - - - - -

THE COURT: Before we begin I just want to make a comment. I see Mr. Weinglass has scooped the news media once again: He's telling them why I issued the stay. I did not issue the stay because Jesse Jackson had anything to do with it. Nor did I issue the stay because of any national or international pressure. I did it because the law required it to be done. Or dictated that should be done. And that's the reason. It was part of my order.

I told you at the very beginning, Mr. Weinglass, that this little old Judge in this little old Courtroom will not buckle under any kind of pressure, whether it be national or international. And I repeat that once again for your benefit.

All right, we will proceed. I see you have a list here of witnesses. Which one is first?

MR. WEINGLASS: Defense calls Arnold Howard.

- - - - -

Arnold Howard, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Howard.

A. Good morning, Mr. Weinglass.

Q. Mr. Howard, have you and I spoken before?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall when was the first time we talked?

A. Umm, Monday.

Q. This past Monday?

A. Yes.

Q. That was the first time in person; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. First time you met me?

A. yes, sir.

Q. Prior to that time did we have occasion to talk on the telephone?

Page 5.

Arnold Howard - Direct

A. Yes. Just once.

Q. And was that call initiated by you or by me?

A. By the both of us.

Q. I see. But did you call me or did I call you? If you can recall.

A. No, you called my mother and she got in contact with me and I called you back.

Q. And do you recall how long ago that was?

A. Friday, I think it was.

Q. Now, do you know Mr. Jamal, the Petitioner in these proceedings?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And how long have you known Mr. Jamal?

A. All my life. We grew up together in the same neighborhood.

Q. And in 1982 did you know Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now directing your attention to the day of December 9th, 1981, what do you recall if anything of an unusual occurrence happened to you on that day?

A. Yes, I was taken down to, umm, Homicide.

Q. And when you say you were taken down, were you accompanied by officers?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Were you arrested?

Page 6.

A. No.

Q. And what occasioned, did they indicate to you why they asked to you come down to Homicide?

A. Yes, they had came to my home and said my license was found in Officer Faulkner's hand.

Q. In Officer Faulkner's hand? And it was your license?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And did you go to Homicide that day?

A. I had no choice.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. They came and got me.

Q. How many of them were there?

A. About five of them.

Q. Were they in uniform or out of uniform?

A. Cars outside in uniform and a couple detectives came to my home.

Q. Do you recall what time of day it was on December 9th that they came to your home?

A. No, I can't remember, that's too far back.

Q. Was it in the afternoon?

A. No, it was in the evening, at night. Before daybreak.

Q. Before daybreak. So would that be the early morning hours?

Page 7.

A. Yes, sir, the early morning hours.

Q. And how long did you remain at Homicide?

A. It was the thing that they were shifting me around for about 72 hours.

Q. 72 hours?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you then released?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Now, when you were at Homicide were you questioned?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And where you asked to sign a statement?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And were any tests performed on you while you were there?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you describe the test?

A. They looked at my hands and put some kind of powder on my hands.

Q. They put powder on your hand?

A. Right.

Q. And when you say they looked at it, could you describe what they did?

A. They was checking my hands for to see if I fired a gun or something of --

Page 8.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to why.

THE COURT: Yes, that part will be stricken.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did the officers tell you why they were checking your hands?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I will withdraw that objection.

THE WITNESS: Yes, they said by my license being found at the scene of a homicide, that I was somewhat involved in it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I'm sorry, that you were...?

A. Somewhat involved in it. They was thinking that I was some kind of fourth person that was supposed to be down there.

Q. The fourth person?

A. Right.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, how tall are you?

A. Six-three-and-a-half.

Q. And back in 1981 in December, how would you describe your build?

A. About the same build, I don't gain no weight or lose no weight.

Page 9.

Q. And approximately how much do you weigh now?

A. 160.

Q. Would you say that you were on the thin side?

A. Yes, on the thin side.

Q. Now, besides this test of your hands or whatever was done with your hands, were you asked to participate in any other kind of a process?

A. Yes, they put me and a Kenneth Freeman into a lineup.

Q. In a lineup?

A. Yes.

Q. And you mentioned another name?

A. Kenneth Freeman.

Q. And who is Kenneth Freeman, if you knew then and know now?

A. That's, he's known as Poppy.

Q. Poppy?

A. Right.

Q. And did you see him down there when you were in Homicide?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what relationship did you have to Kenneth Freeman at that time?

A. We all grew up together in the same neighborhood.

Page 10.

Q. And did he have any relationship to your driver's license?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What was that?

A. I lent it to him.

Q. You loaned him your driver's license?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And that was the license that they told you was found with Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Kenneth Freeman indicate to you what he had done that night with the driver's license?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to anything beyond a yes or no.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay, did Kenneth Freeman indicate he had driven the Volkswagen that night?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: On what basis, Your Honor?

MS. FISK: It's hearsay.

THE COURT: I will base it when it is time for me to explain to a higher Court. For now I am sustaining the objection.

Page 11.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you sign an affidavit, Mr. Freeman?

A. I'm Howard.

Q. I'm sorry. Howard.

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Yeah. And when did you sign the affidavit?

A. Yesterday.

Q. Are the statements in the affidavit true?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. Now, was Mr. Kenneth Freeman there to your knowledge for the same reasons you were there?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he there before you got there?

A. Yes.

Q. And was there anyone else who was in Homicide connected to the shooting of the officer?

A. Yes.

Q. Who else?

A. Some guy named Sweet Sam, that's all I know him by.

Q. Sweet Sam?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Mr. Sam remain with you throughout the 72 hours?

Page 12.

A. Not he didn't.

Q. What happened to him that you could see?

A. All he said, he'd been in about an hour.

MS. FISK: Objection to what he said, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Objection sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What did you see happen to Sweet Sam?

A. Two people came to the door and took him out and I haven't seen him since this incident.

Q. You haven't seen him since?

A. No, sir.

Q. How were those people dressed?

A. In suits.

Q. Now, in the course of being interviewed, did the detectives who were interviewing you indicate why you were being questioned?

A. Yes.

Q. What did they say?

A. That I was supposed to have been the fourth person that was there.

Q. Did they indicate what if anything they believed you had done?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 13.

Withdraw that objection.

THE WITNESS: They said I was implicated into an officer's homicide.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did they indicate whether or not they thought you were the person who ran away?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Howard, were you there?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you produce proof to the detectives as to your whereabouts at the time of the occurrence?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What did you offer them?

A. A sales receipt from Pathmark on Aramingo Avenue.

Q. And the sales receipt from Pathmark, did it indicate what time you had been at Pathmark?

A. It had the time I checked out the same time as the incident happened.

Q. About 4:00 in the morning?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you asked to take a polygraph?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you take a polygraph?

A. I can't remember back that far if I took it or not.

Q. Did you agree to take a polygraph?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Were any photographs taken of you that night?

A. Yes, some man came. Of Kenneth Freeman they were.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry?

THE WITNESS: Yes, there were two photographs taken of me and Kenneth Freeman.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. To your knowledge was Ken Freeman a friend of Billy Cook at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they have a vending stand together?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it a stand that you occasionally worked at?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you recall where that stand was?

A. 18th Street. I mean 16th Street, excuse me.

Q. And Chestnut?

A. Yes, 16th and Chestnut.

Q. Could you describe for us this man who you referred to as Sweet Sam?

A. Ahh, he was tall, he was a pimp down there on

Page 15.

Locust Street.

Q. He was tall?

A. Right, had a Jerry curl.

Q. Pardon?

A. He had a Jerry curl.

Q. A Jerry curl hair?

A. Yes.

Q. His race?

A. A Negro.

Q. And so far as you knew, at the time you indicated that he was a pimp, is that --

A. Yes.

Q. In the area of 13th and Locust?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, do you know any of the women who worked for him?

A. The girl that's, umm, involved in this case.

Q. Is that Cynthia White?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Counselor, please stop leading. You are not testifying. You didn't take the oath here. Stop leading. He is your witness, let him tell us, will you.

MS. FISK: I move to strike, Your

Page 16.

Arnold Howard - Direct

Honor.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. FISK: I also, Your Honor, object because this goes beyond the affidavit of the witness and which I presume, therefore, is the offer of proof for which this witness was being called. There is no reference to Sweet Sam being a pimp and having any relationship to any prostitutes who have any relationship to this case. I therefore object.

MR. WEINGLASS: Sweet Sam is named in paragraph 8. That doesn't mean that we are limited to the precise words of the affidavit. He is referred to, and he is referred to as a person who was in custody that night. Now I am entitled to ask him who is Sweet Sam.

THE COURT: He said he was a pimp. So what?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Does he have any relationship to your knowledge to anyone that's involved in this case?

A. Yes, the girl.

Q. Do you know her name?

A. I forgot her name, actually, now.

Q. You forgot it?

Page 17.

Arnold Howard - Direct

A. Yes.

Q. Does the name Cynthia White aid you in your recall?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the name of the girl?

A. Yes.

THE COURT: I said you testify very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: You testify very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I testify well?

THE COURT: Yes, you are doing a pretty good job.

MS. FISK: He said you testified very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, I testified.

THE COURT: Yes, that is what you have been doing. Come on, let's go.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have I shown you the police report that the police typed up and had you sign?

A. Yes.

Q. Was the police report accurate?

A. Some of it was but they added on a lot of stuff. And somebody signed my signature on one of

Page 18.

Arnold Howard - Direct

them things.

Q. They added on to the police report?

A. Yes.

Q. Some of it is accurate?

A. Right.

Q. Do you know how long you were questioned?

A. Like I said, I was on ice for 72 hours. Transferred from police station to police station, asking the same thing over and over.

Q. So you were questioned for hours?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you estimate how many hours?

A. More or less 72 hours, that's how long I was gone.

Q. Did you mention Kenneth Freeman to the police?

A. Huh?

Q. Ken --

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you mention Sweet Sam to the police?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if their names appear in this report (displaying)?

A. No.

Q. Do you know, did you appear in a lineup once or more than once?

Page 19.

Arnold Howard - Direct

A. It was once.

Q. One. And was there anyone in the lineup with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Who you could recognize?

A. Kenneth Freeman.

Q. To your knowledge, did he appear more than once in a lineup?

A. I don't know, he kept getting picked out, they put me in a separate room.

Q. He got picked out?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who was looking at you?

A. All I know, he said that girl behind that glass.

Q. There was a girl behind the glass?

A. Right.

Q. And her race?

A. African American.

Q. And Ken got pick out?

A. Yes.

Q. To your knowledge where is Ken Freeman today?

A. Deceased.

Q. Do you know approximately when he died?

A. Around '83, '4.

Page 20.

Arnold Howard - Direct

Q. Do you know anything about the circumstances of his death?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, unless it bears any relevance to these proceedings.

THE COURT: The relevancy is, he is dead?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, do you have a death certificate if you want to prove how he died? But that's not relevant. You can't bring him in now, can you?

MR. WEINGLASS: Unfortunately, it's true.

THE COURT: Okay. So he's dead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What is your understanding of the way he died?

A. He was --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, unless it bears any relevancy to these proceedings.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: My understanding is that the witnesses' answer will bear relevancy.

Page 21.

Arnold Howard - Direct

THE COURT: I don't know, unless you want to see me at sidebar.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we don't have a jury here, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I know that, but.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court could accept or not accept or disregard.

MS. FISK: Oh, fine.

THE COURT: But the thing is, by you saying it in open Court he could hear what you are saying.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, I have interviewed the witness. I know what his answer's going to be. He has told me.

THE COURT: All right, what is your position? Still objecting?

MS. FISK: I will withdraw the objection based on Mr. Weinglass' representation that it is relevant to these proceedings.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What is your understanding?

A. My understanding is he was handcuffed and shot up and dumped up on Grink's lot on Roosevelt Boulevard buck naked.

Page 22.

Arnold Howard - Direct

Q. He was handcuffed?

A. Yes.

Q. And shot?

A. No, shot up with drugs.

Q. Oh, shot up with drugs.

What is the state of your health now?

A. I was shot in '89 five times. It's not too well.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, shot in '89 by...?

I missed it. You said you were shot in '89 by...?

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

MS. FISK: Oh.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you suffering any after effects from that wound?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And just briefly, could you describe what it is?

A. I have a reconstructed stomach.

Q. Now, when you were questioned by the police on December 9th and thereafter, 1981, or by the detectives, I should say, were any, were there questions suggesting the answers to you?

Page 23.

Arnold Howard - Direct

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And prior to December 9th, 1981, what if anything did you do with your license?

A. Like I said, they had, when I lent my license out I never got my license back, they were suspended for 13 years behind the incident.

Q. But before the morning of December 9th, 1981, what did you do with your license?

A. I lent it to Kenneth Freeman.

Q. You lent it to Kenneth Freeman?

A. Right.

Q. And to your knowledge did he have it on the night in question?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. To your knowledge was he driving on the night in question?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection and move to strike. He has told us he wasn't there.

THE COURT: Come on, Counselor. Unless you want to take the stand and testify for him.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I just have a moment?

Page 24.

Arnold Howard - Cross

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: Excuse me, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Commonwealth Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Mr. Howard. I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

- - - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Howard, before I begin: Are the glasses that you are wearing prescription glasses?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. Would it be possible for you while at least you're answering questions to remove them.

A. (Witness complies with request.)

Q. I am asking, for the record to reflect, because they are sunglasses, so I could see your face.

A. They are not sunglasses, they are prescription glasses.

Q. They have dark glass, right?

Page 25.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. All right.

Q. Thank you, sir. If in the course of any of the questions that I have there is something you need to read or review, obviously I have no objection with your utilizing those glasses. All right, sir?

A. All right.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, you have identified yourself today as Arnold Howard. Is it correct, sir, that you have a date of birth of 4-2-54?

A. That's my wrong birth.

Q. That is your wrong birth?

A. Right, it is an error, it is a computer error. My birthday is 4-2-52.

Q. When you say it is a computer error, was a computer --

A. Some way '54 keep jumping up every date on my birthday.

Q. Comes jumping up every time where?

A. On the back of my birth date.

Q. Where does your birth date jump up wrong as a result of computer error, sir?

A. For some reason, like I said, it jumps up '54. I was born in '52.

Q. Right. I understand. Where does it jump up?

A. On a lot of applications.

Page 26.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. I see. Also, Mr. Howard, do you reside --

MS. FISK: May I read his address in open Court?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor. Objection.

MS. FISK: May I approach the witness and show him his address so he could tell me whether or not that is his address?

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: Thank you. I will have to show it to Counsel first.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: You may need your glasses, Mr. Howard, I don't know.

THE WITNESS: I am totally blind.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is that your address, sir (displaying)(indicating)?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. All right. I have just shown you a document, Mr. Howard, and you have advised us that the address on the document is in fact your address?

A. Yes, it is.

Page 27.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Am I correct, then, sir, that you were arrested in April 1976 and subsequently found guilty and sentenced in May 1976 for the crime of forgery; is that correct, sir?

A. I've been locked up a lot of times.

Q. All right. And particularly you were sentenced in May 1976 and convicted of forgery and also of theft by receiving stolen property; is that correct, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And is it also correct, sir, that you were arrested in August 1975 and convicted and sentenced on April 23rd, 1976 for the crime of burglary?

A. It's criminal trespassing.

Q. No, sir, it was criminal trespass in -- if I could refresh your recollection... Do you recall being arrested on January 28th, 1974 and pleading guilty in front of Judge Smith, and in May 1974 being placed on probation for criminal trespass?

A. Yes.

Q. But I was asking you, sir, about an arrest... on August l0th, 1975, which lead to a negotiated guilty plea in front of Judge Jenkins?

A. Yes.

Q. And a sentence on April 23rd, 1976 for

Page 28.

Arnold Howard - Cross

convictions of the crime of burglary? Burglary?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were placed on, in fact you were given a prison sentence at that point by Judge Jenkins; is that correct?

A. Yes, the plea.

Q. So that wasn't criminal trespass, that was burglary?

A. Yeah, that was burglary.

Q. Do you also recall, sir, being arrested on December the 29th, 1975 and being charged again with burglary and pleading guilty in front of Judge Kane and being sentenced on May the 3rd, 1976, and also receiving a prison sentence for that guilty plea?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

THE WITNESS: It was time served on that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, objection. References to burglary, as I understand, it is not proper cross-examination unless it can be shown that burglary, the underlying circumstances was crimen falsi. And there's been no showing here. We've only been talking thus far about burglaries which, I understand, are not proper impeachment. unless there is a representation to the underlying circumstance.

Page 29.

Arnold Howard - Cross

MS. FISK: It is my understanding of the law, Your Honor, that the crime of burglary is a crimen falsi.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is the Court going to permit it?

THE COURT: I will strike it if I research the law and it's not crimen falsi, okay.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Howard, were you also arrested -- and we will move away from burglary if Counsel would like -- let's turn to your most recent arrest on August -- I'm sorry -- on November the 16th, 1991. Were you arrested then and charged with two counts of forgery, to which you pled guilty in front of Judge Gordon and were sentenced on August the llth, 1993?

A. Yes, to the two years probation, right.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. Two years probation, right.

Q. Would it be accurately three years probation, sir?

A. I say two years.

Q. Were you in fact given three years?

Page 30.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Two years.

Q. Are you still on that probation, sir?

A. I'm off probation next year.

Q. I can't hear you, sir.

A. I come off probation next year.

Q. So you are still on probation?

A. Yes.

Q. And those were for two, or at least one of those counts of forgery is marked, well --

A. It was job related.

Q. Job related?

A. Yes, I was being paid with bad paychecks.

Q. Yes, sir. Now, Mr. Howard, you have told us that in the very early morning of December the 9th, before the sun came up, you were taken out of your home?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And was that home the same address which I just showed you on the document when I came up to where you are sitting?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And that is the same address as, the address you are living at now is the same address you were living at back in 1981?

A. I'm not saying where I'm living at.

Page 31.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. The address which I showed you was your address; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Oh. And was your address back in December 1981; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you have told us that sometime before the sun came up that morning, both uniformed and non-uniformed officers came to your home?

A. Yes.

Q. How many non-uniformed officers came to your home?

A. I didn't count them, they all came and got me.

Q. Was it more than two?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how many more?

A. A whole lot more.

Q. Were you handcuffed when they came for you?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And did they put in you an unmarked car? A marked car? A wagon? How did they transport you when they came and got you from your home?

A. In my drawers.

Q. I'm not asking what you were wearing, I'm asking what kind of vehicle you were transported in?

Page 32.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Huh. A wagon.

Q. A wagon. So you were handcuffed and placed in a police wagon?

A. I was thrown back in the wagon.

Q. And that police wagon then drove while you were in it, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And when the police wagon stopped and the doors were opened, where were you?

A. In the basement of the Roundhouse.

Q. And what did you do, or what happened to you after you found yourself in this wagon in the basement of the Roundhouse while you had handcuffs on?

A. I asked for my pants.

Q. All right, did you get your pants eventually?

A. Yeah, they gave them to me.

Q. Fine, sir, I am not asking you questions about your clothing, I am asking you about physically where you moved from place to place.

A. From there to Homicide.

Q. How did you get from the basement of the cell room up to Homicide?

A. Through the door.

Q. Through the door?

Page 33.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Right.

Q. Did they put you on an elevator from the cell room, took you right up to Homicide?

A. They took me through the door, they put me on an elevator.

Q. So you went, so I understand, you went from the cell room up to Homicide?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you remain in handcuffs that entire time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. So when they took you up to Homicide, you still had those handcuffs on; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I thought, sir, that when Mr. Weinglass on direct examination asked you whether or not you had been arrested that morning you said no?

A. After they came and got me.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Weinglass asking you whether or not you were arrested?

A. All he came and got me.

Q. Were you arrested that morning?

A. All he came and got me. He didn't say nothing. They stomped up my mother's steps.

Q. My question is --

A. I am giving you the answer. They never said

Page 34.

Arnold Howard - Cross

if I was arrested or not.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Did you sign an affidavit for Mr. Weinglass...

When was this signed, yesterday?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you on that, on that affidavit say that at approximately 6:00 a.m. on December 9th, 1981 I was arrested by Philadelphia Police and taken to the Homicide Department for interviews?

A. What you call it, they came and roust you that time of the morning and put handcuffs on you and take you out of the house?

Q. That's why I was asking you the question, sir, were you arrested?

A. All they told my mother, they was taking me down to the Roundhouse.

Q. But you signed an affidavit yesterday in which you swore before a notary that you were arrested?

A. They didn't say I was under arrest when they came to my home.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, after they took you up to Homicide -- and this was still, I assume -- or correct me if I am wrong -- before the sun fully came up, very early in the morning of December 9th?

A. They don't have any windows up there, I don't know if the sun was up or not.

Page 35.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. They have no windows up in Homicide?

A. No, not where I was.

Q. And where were you?

A. In a room, handcuffed to a chair.

Q. And how long were you in that room up in Homicide?

A. I didn't have no watch on.

Q. Well, you have been able to tell us today that you were kept on ice, as you put it, for 72 hours?

A. Right.

Q. So you were able to estimate?

A. Right.

Q. How long were you in Homicide before --

A. A good while.

Q. Well, when you say a while, were you still there at lunch time?

A. They didn't bring me no lunch, I wouldn't know.

Q. Well, were you still there at dinner time?

A. No, they didn't bring me no dinner, I wouldn't know.

Q. Well, did you get hungry while you were there?

THE COURT OFFICER: Order in the Court.

Page 36.

Arnold Howard - Cross

THE COURT: Be quiet or you will be moved out of here.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Before you got hungry?

A. Say that again.

Q. Did you get hungry while you were there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. So you got the impression that you missed a meal?

A. Yes, I did, a lot of meals.

Q. A lot of meals. You got the impression that while you were in Homicide you were missing a lot of meals?

A. Yeah.

Q. Is that right?

A. Right.

Q. Would you estimate, or could you estimate what portion of the 72 hours that you were kept on ice you spent in Homicide? Most of it? Half of it? A third of it?

A. About a day of it.

Q. About a day. So your estimate is that you were in Homicide for about 24 hours; is that right?

A. More or less.

Q. How much more or less? I mean you are approximating, right, you could be off an hour or two; is that right?

A. Look here, I went to sleep in there, so I was bored.

Q. All right. All right, so your best estimate is that you got there sometime early in the morning of December 9th, 1981 and you remained there until sometime early in the morning of December l0th, 1981; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Where did you go after that?

A. They took me to another police station.

Q. How did you get from Homicide to another police station?

A. In the back of a wagon.

Q. So do I take it again that you left Homicide -- are you still in handcuffs at this point?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And are you taken directly then back down to the cell room, to the cell room, the basement of the Roundhouse?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you put back into another wagon?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were then driven someplace?

A. Right.

Q. Where?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know?

A. Unh-unh, I'm not a police station freak.

Q. Well, when you got out of the wagon were you able to see where you were?

A. No. All I know, I was in another police station.

Q. Another police station?

A. Right.

Q. Now, the persons that you spoke to at this second police station, were they the same persons you had seen in Homicide or different persons?

A. They just put me in a cell.

Q. Yes?

A. And kept me there.

Q. Oh, you weren't questioned at the second police station?

A. A cop came back there and asked me some questions, I looked at him like he was dumb.

Q. So you didn't answer any question?

A. Right.

Q. Was the cop who came back there the same cop that you had seen in Homicide or somebody new?

A. Another cop.

Q. New cop?

A. Yeah.

Q. How long did you remain at this second police station?

A. Awhile.

Q. Did you see any persons at the second police station that you recognized?

A. No.

Q. Do you know the names of any of the police officers from the second police station?

A. No.

Q. And as I understand it, you are unable to tell us even in what part of the City this second police station was?

A. I know I wind up at Harbison and Levick. I know that one because I've been out in that one before.

Q. You wound up at Harbison and Levick when?

A. Huh?

Q. Is that the second police station or a later police station?

A. It's one of the police stations I was at. I remember that one.

Q. Okay. Well, is that this one that we are talking about, the second one? The one that you went to directly from Homicide?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So you were at this second police station awhile?

A. Yeah.

Q. And again, can you tell us what percentage of the 72 hours that you were at this second police station?

A. I was there awhile, that's all I could tell you.

Q. And other than this one officer who you had not seen before asking you questions, and you're looking at him like he was dumb, did anyone else speak to you at the second police station?

A. They would come back there and look.

Q. But you never answered anything?

A. No.

Q. At some point you were then moved someplace else?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is that, sir? How did that occur?

A. The same way, in a wagon.

Q. All right. And the same way you ended up in another police station?

A. Right.

Q. And was it basically the same thing, you didn't see anyone you recognized?

A. No.

Q. You don't know the names of any of the cops?

A. No.

Q. Was Harbison and Levick this third --

A. Harbison and Levick was the last one I wind up at.

Q. Well, was this one the last one you wound up at or were you at more than three?

A. About three of them.

Q. Pardon?

A. I think it was about three of them I wound up at.

Q. Okay, so you started at Homicide, you were taken to a second one, and now you were at the third one, is that Harbison and Levick?

A. Yeah, Harbison was the last one, I was there too. Then I was brought back to the Roundhouse.

Q. Wait, we are not up to there yet. At Harbison and Levick, did you see any officers you knew there?

A. No.

Q. Did you see any other persons you knew there?

A. No.

Q. Did you speak to anyone there?

A. No. The cop just came back and asked me questions.

Q. All right. A new cop?

A. A cop.

Q. Was it a new cop, was it one that you had not --

A. It was a detective, that's all I knew he said he was.

Q. My question to you is was it someone that you had seen either at Homicide or at your home or in the second police station, or was it a new cop?

A. It was another cop, that's all I know it was, a cop. I didn't pay no attention to him.

Q. Well, had you seen him in those prior 36 hours?

A. No.

Q. Okay. You didn't answer his questions, though, right?

A. No.

Q. How long were you at Harbison and Levick?

A. Awhile before they took me back to the Roundhouse.

Q. Okay. They bring you back to the Roundhouse again, sir, in handcuffs, right?

Page 43.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Right.

Q. Wagon?

A. Right.

Q. Into the basement of the Roundhouse?

A. Right.

Q. And then taken directly from the cell room up to Homicide? Is that right?

A. They didn't put me in the cell room, they took me straight through the doors straight up to Homicide.

Q. Straight through what doors?

A. The doors -- when you come into the Roundhouse they have a door. You go through the door and go to the elevator to take you up to Homicide.

Q. Now, were you handcuffed when --

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Now, do I understand, sir, that you were in the wagon, yes?

A. Yes.

Q. The wagon this time did not go into the basement of the Roundhouse?

A. Yes.

Q. Oh, it did. It went into the cell room?

A. The same way going all the time.

Q. Oh, you will agree with me, sir, that the

Page 44.

Arnold Howard - Cross

wagons that go to the Roundhouse go to the cell room, or the tank, which is in the basement of the Roundhouse?

A. Right.

Q. But they didn't put you in any cells?

A. No.

Q. They took you directly from that open area, into the tank, on the el --

A. I never was in the tank.

Q. Oh, they took you from the basement of the Roundhouse --

A. Right.

Q. -- straight up to Homicide?

A. Right.

Q. Got you, okay. You are still handcuffed, taken to Homicide and put back in the little room again?

A. Right.

Q. All right. Then what?

A. I was there awhile. The next day they opened the door and told me I could leave.

Q. You stayed there awhile?

A. Right.

Q. Now, how long were you there at Homicide this second time?

Page 45.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Awhile, that's all I know, awhile.

Q. Was it less than the first time? You told us the first time was about 24 hours, right?

A. I say a couple hours I was there.

Q. A couple hours?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did anyone speak to you this second time now that you are at Homicide -- in your estimate which is approximately three days later, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Anybody speak to you?

A. The same detectives that was talking to me.

Q. The same ones that had spoken to you?

A. Right.

Q. And did they take any further statements from you?

A. I wouldn't say nothing else to them.

Q. Pardon?

A. I wouldn't say nothing else to them. I told them I told them all I knew.

Q. All right. Now, these same detectives, can you describe these detectives in any way? Were they black men or white men? Or were they men, let's start with that? Were the detectives men at Homicide?

Page 46.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Yeah.

Q. Black or white?

A. White.

Q. Both of them?

A. Yeah.

Q. Yeah. And were there two of them, in fact?

A. There was a couple of them.

Q. Oh. A couple means two: Would you agree with me?

A. No, more than two.

Q. More than two?

A. Yeah.

Q. Who took your statement the first time?

A. Two took my statement.

Q. Oh.

A. They played the game good cop-bad cop.

Q. That was when they took the statement?

A. Right.

Q. Now, when you're brought back to Homicide after having been in this other police station in Harbison and Levick for a period of days, now end up at Homicide the second time, is it my understanding from you that these same two white cops who played good cop-bad cop with you the first time you had been there, are coming in to try to talk to you more this second time?

Page 47.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Yeah.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And as I understand it, this would now be December 12th, approximately, right, three days --

A. I don't know.

Q. -- after December 9th?

A. Yes.

Q. By your estimate of 72 hours?

A. Right.

Q. Did you see anyone else at Homicide that you recognized other than these same two detectives that had interviewed you initially?

A. Yeah, the same, a lot of cops was when I first came they was there.

Q. But the only two that came to speak to you were the same two that had spoken to you the first time?

A. A couple other cops.

Q. A couple other cops did too?

A. Yes.

Q. But this time you gave no additional statements?

A. Right.

Page 48.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. At some point, you said, they released you?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you released from --

A. There.

Q. From Homicide?

A. Right.

Q. So they took your handcuffs off?

A. Right.

Q. This is the first time your handcuffs were off in 72 hours?

A. I was handcuffed to a chair the majority of the time.

Q. Oh. And when they took your handcuffs off from the chair, how did they have you leave the PAB, the Roundhouse?

A. They took me down.

Q. They took you down?

A. Right. Asked me did I want a ride home. I told them I didn't want.nothing from them.

Q. Okay. When they took you down did you go back through the cell room?

A. No.

Q. You went out through a different door?

A. Right.

Q. And what door is that, sir?

Page 49.

Arnold Edward - Cross

A. They take you down, they bring you down, you go down on... let's see. Race. No, behind the Roundhouse, you go through where the bail room at.

Q. And so I'm clear, in all of your visits to the Roundhouse in that period of three days, that was the first time that you were in that doorway, right, the one that goes behind the Roundhouse, because all the other times you had come in and out on a police wagon that pulled into the basement?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. So you left Homicide for the second time approximately December the 12th, and you left through that door that opens up onto the parking lot behind the Roundhouse?

A. Right.

Q. And you chose not to take a ride from the police?

A. Right.

Q. And you left?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. That doorway -- incidentally, Mr. Howard, had you been in that doorway before?

A. A lot of times.

Q. And that was when you were coming in perhaps to speak to police officers and the like?

Page 50.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. No, when I be getting out of being incarcerated.

Q. I can't hear you?

A. From being incarcerated in the Roundhouse, you go out that doorway.

Q. You go out that doorway?

A. Right.

Q. Would that be after you make bail or something?

A. Right.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. When you are incarcerated, would you agree with me that you have never come into the Roundhouse from that door?

A. Huh? Say that again.

Q. When you've been incarcerated?

A. Right.

Q. Would you agree with me that you never entered the Roundhouse through that door?

A. I don't go down there and look.

Q. You just told us that you have been in that doorway before?

A. Coming out that doorway. Coming out that doorway.

Q. Right. You had come out that doorway?

A. Right.

Page 51.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. And because, and so the record is clear, in times past when you've been incarcerated, you are taken down to the Roundhouse so you could have your preliminary arraignment?

A. Right.

Q. At the arraignment Court there, right?

A. Right.

Q. And you are transported to the Roundhouse from whatever district in the City you were arrested in?

A. Right.

Q. And you're taken by a wagon, presumably, or in some fashion you are taken to the Roundhouse and you are taken to the cell room in the basement of the Roundhouse?

A. Right.

Q. Yes?

A. Right.

Q. And you're held down there in what is commonly referred to as a tank, but there are cell rooms down there, right?

A. Right.

Q. So all times that you have entered the Roundhouse, including on December the 9th and within 72 hours after that, you always came in through that basement entrance into the cell room area?

Page 52.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. The only times you left the Roundhouse through that door which opens onto the parking lot is when you were not in custody?

A. Right.

Q. Because you can't come into that door in custody, right?

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, whenever you have been in custody you have come in through the cell room, right?

A. I always come through the basement.

Q. Right. Have you ever come to the Roundhouse, Mr. Howard, at a time when you were not in custody?

A. Yes.

Q. Arrived in the Roundhouse?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that, sir?

A. I came down to bail people out before.

Q. Okay. And when you came to the Roundhouse when you were not in custody, to bail people out before, am I correct that you entered the building through that same door that we're talking about that you exited from when you were not in custody?

A. Right.

Q. And again, you were talking about the entrance to the Roundhouse which opens to the parking lot behind, was that behind Race Street, right?

Page 53.

A. Yeah, behind Race Street.

Q. You know what parking lot I'm talking about?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, when you came in to bail people out, you walked in that door and you turned to the right to go to the arraignment Court, right?

A. Right.

Q. And that's where the bail window was?

A. Right.

Q. And you didn't have to sign anything to get into that because that is a courthouse, right?

A. Right.

Q. Now, did you ever when you entered that building to bail somebody out, after you entered the little foyer area, try to turn and go to the left through the glass doors?

A. No.

Q. Into the main lobby of the Roundhouse?

A. No.

Q. Now, you would agree with me, sir, that when you walk into that door of the Roundhouse there has always been a police officer in that foyer area behind that little window?

Page 54.

A. Yes, there was.

Q. Checking people in, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And people who want to go to the right to arraignment Court are free to do that, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. But the doors that permit you to go to the left are blocked?

A. Right.

Q. They're locked?

A. Not all the time, I've seen them open.

Q. But there is a police officer there?

A. Right. At the window.

Q. Okay. Have you seen, when you have been there, sir, that people who want to go to the left into the building who were not police officers are presented with a book so that they can sign their name?

A. I don't pay no attention when I go out of there.

Q. Mr. Howard, let me ask you this. You told us, sir, that when you were brought to Homicide at about sometime before the sun came up on December the 9th, 1981, you were put in a little room and you were kept there for about 24 hours, right?

Page 55.

A. Yeah, more or less.

Q. Okay. Now, you've also told us that at some point during those 24 hours two white men who played good cop-bad cop questioned you and took a statement from you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Within those 24 hours that these officers took, that is, typewrote a statement from you, was it in the first half of your stay of those 24 hours or the second half?

A. Just around the second half. Because I wouldn't say nothing after that.

Q. Pardon me?

A. I wasn't saying nothing.

Q. So for the first 12 hours you were at Homicide you didn't say anything to them?

A. No.

Q. So it wasn't until in your estimation 12 hours passed?

A. No, I don't know how many hours passed.

Q. Well, you said the second half, right?

A. Like I said, I don't know how many hours passed.

Q. Well, am I correct that you just estimated it was in the second half of your stay in Homicide --

Page 56.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: The question has been asked and answered three times. The witness has indicated he doesn't know.

THE COURT: No, she hasn't really gotten a definite answer.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, you are questioning a witness about 14 years ago, asking specific times. And Counsel has the time right there on the statement. And trying to pin the witness down when she's already gotten three answers to the same question.

MS. FISK: I also have a statement which is completely contrary to the testimony of the witness, Judge. So I am not sure what Counsel wants me to rely on and what he doesn't. And that is precisely why I am asking those questions, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: The hour was noted by the investigating detectives and it is right there. I won't mention it but for her benefit her detectives wrote --

MS. FISK: Is Counsel going to agree that the entirety of this statement is accurate? And if not, I have a right to question the witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness said some of it is and some of it isn't.

THE COURT: Are you saying that the time that's listed on that is correct?

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm not sure but it might refresh the witnesses' recollection.

THE COURT: Well, she is trying to find out from this witness. If you are willing to admit the time listed on there is correct then there is no sense in going into that line of questioning.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, I think the witness should be shown and asked if it refreshes his recollection. He obviously doesn't have a recollection.

THE COURT: Counselor, before that she has the right to try to do whatever she wants to do. You have redirect.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have an objection.

THE COURT: On redirect you could do whatever you want to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I didn't object.

THE COURT: All I am asking you, if you are willing to admit that that time on there is correct then I will agree with you, I will stop the questioning.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no idea. I think it should have been shown to the witness.

THE COURT: Well, you may think that but you are not running the Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: No. I object. When it was asked twice, the third time it was asked I objected.

THE COURT: I haven't had a definite answer here, either. I am listening too, I am trying to find out what he really remembers. Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Howard, am I correct that a moment ago I asked you whether the statement which you gave to these two white detectives who played good cop-bad cop was recorded by them, typewritten in the first half of your stay in Homicide or the second half, and that your estimation was that it was given in your second half of your stay at Homicide because for the first half you remained silent?

A. I don't know the second -- I told you I went to sleep. Didn't I tell you that? I told you that. Wait a minute. I told you I went to sleep.

Page 59.

Q. So you went to sleep --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor. The witness isn't being given the opportunity.

THE COURT: He said he went to sleep. Now let's find out when he went to sleep. Come on? Counselor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And my question to you is did you go to sleep before you ever gave the statement? That's what I am trying to find out. I am just trying to find out the times, Mr. Howard?

A. Like I said, all I know, they asked me some questions.

Q. Right.

A. I don't know what time it was. They don't have no clock in Homicide.

Q. Right.

A. When you're in there you're in a room.

Q. Right.

A. Don't know what time it is. They could tell you it's daytime, it might be nighttime.

Q. Right. But you know that you got there very early in the morning before the sun went up, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you estimate that you were there for approximately 24 hours, right?

Page 60.

A. Right.

Q. And you know that at some period while you were there you went to sleep because you were bored, right?

A. Right.

Q. Was the time when these officers came into that room and asked you questions which resulted in a statement, which Mr. Weinglass asked you about, did that occur early in your time there or towards the end of your time there?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

MS. FISK: In the first half or second half. It is a reasonable question, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Asked and answered no matter how reasonable it is. It's a continual process of cross-examination by browbeating a witness by repeatedly asking the same question. I object to it. Counsel has the time on the statement, the witness said he can't recall.

THE COURT: I know that, Counselor. I said to you, are you admitting that the time on the statement is correct?

MR. WEINGLASS: I think if it's in there it should be shown to the witness.

Page 61.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I don't know what kind of a game we are playing here. They have the time on the statement.

THE COURT: You put him on, Counselor. She has a right to cross-examine.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, she can't ask the same question over and over.

THE COURT: I will decide what she can do.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the law indicates that you are not allowed to ask questions over and over again. And that's the basis for an objection. Asked --

THE COURT: Counselor, I haven't heard a true answer yet as to when it happened. That's what I am trying to find out for my benefit. Did it happen in the first half or the second half, in the beginning or at the end. I would like to know that. Now, he's the only one that could tell us, unless you are willing to admit that's correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: He said he can't remember.

Page 62.

THE COURT: Okay, he can't remember. But she in cross-examination could try to find out if he can remember. This is cross-examination, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: You can't ask the same question over and over and over.

THE COURT: Counselor, please.

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, that this witness has already testified that it was in the second half of his stay in Homicide. That was an answer some 10 minutes ago that is on the record by this witness. And what I am attempting to do is try to pin that down further. That's what I am trying to find out, Judge.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, and then in a follow-up question the witness indicated he didn't know what hour it was.

MS. FISK: Which is why I am trying to explore the contradictions in the witnesses' testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no contradiction and the time is in the statement.

THE COURT: Counselor, the objection is overruled.

Page 63.

Come on, let's go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Are you able to answer the question, sir?

A. I answered to the best of my knowledge.

Q. Which is what?

A. I don't know what time it was.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, I understand from your questioning on direct examination that Mr. Weinglass has at some point shown you the statement which was recorded?

A. Right.

MS. FISK: May I ask that this copy be marked, Your Honor, Commonwealth Exhibit...

THE COURT OFFICER: 16.

MS. FISK: 16. And shown to Mr. Howard.

(Investigation interview record was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-l6 for identification.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Is that for identification?

THE COURT: Well, at this time it's for identification.

MR. WEINGLASS: For identification.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Displaying).

Page 64.

Arnold Howard - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-16, Your Honor (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Howard, please look at that document, each of the pages, and tell us whether or not you recognize that as a statement given by you on December the 9th, 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that your signature which appears at the bottom of each page?

A. Two of the top ones are but the other ones I'm sure are not.

Q. Tell us, please, which two pages do not bear your signatures?

A. These two (displaying).

Q. Well, when you say these two, start from the Page 1 -- you have page 1, page 2, page 3 and page 4, do you not, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. What numbered pages -- 1, 2, 3 or 4 -- do not bear your signature?

A. 4.

Q. All right. Any others?

I thought you said that there were two

Page 65.

Arnold Howard - Cross

pages that didn't?

A. Right, I'm telling you the other pages. And the bottom of number 5.

MS. FISK: May I have the document back, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, so I understand, Mr. Howard, Commonwealth Exhibit 16 -- I misspoke -- is a five-page document; is that right?

A. Right.

Q. And what you have told us is that the signature which appears at the bottom of page 4 is not your signature?

A. No.

Q. Now, on page 5 there are two places where a signature appears?

A. Right.

Q. And as I understand your testimony, the bottom one is not your signature?

A. No, it's not.

Q. But the top one is?

A. Right.

Q. Oh. Now, am I correct, then, that the signature which appears at the bottom of pages 1, 2

Page 66.

Arnold Howard - Cross

and 3 are your signatures?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you place your signature on those pages after the words which appear on this document were typed there?

A. On the top one I did.

Q. On those three pages I am talking about?

A. Right, there's only three pages I signed.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yeah.

Q. And my question is with regard to those three pages, did you sign them after the words were typed in?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Or did you sign a blank piece of paper?

A. I signed a piece of paper, he had wrote the stuff down I said to him and I signed it.

Q. Before you signed it did you read what was typed on those pages?

A. All he asked me did I have, did I knew who I had lent my driver's license to and I told him.

Q. That is not my question. My question is, before you signed the first page, the second page and the third page, did you read what was written on those pages?

Page 67.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Not really.

Q. Did you look at it at all?

A. I read the top page.

Q. And you were given, I take it, then, an opportunity by these detectives to read it?

A. I threw it at them.

Q. You threw it at them?

A. Right.

Q. After you signed these three pages?

A. Right.

Q. Now, you have told us that this is not your signature on page --

A. The bottom one isn't. You can look at that and see.

Q. On page 4 is not your signature, right?

A. No.

Q. But on page 5 you said that your signature does appear, the top signature is yours?

A. Right.

Q. Did you sign that page at the same time that you signed the other three?

A. I don't remember back that far, okay. All I remember is signing the top paper. Statement of who I gave my license to.

Q. I see. So now you are telling us that the

Page 68.

Arnold Howard - Cross

only signature --

A. They got a lot of stuff added in on that statement.

Q. And we are going to get into that and you will have an opportunity to tell us what is correct and what isn't, Mr. Howard. But am I understanding you correctly that the only page which you know you signed was the first page?

A. No.

Q. So you know that you signed the second page and the third page?

A. Right.

Q. And you know that you signed the fifth page, or one time, the top part, right?

A. Right.

Q. Well, let me ask you this, Mr. Howard. Am I correct that the two white detectives who played good cop-bad cop were there while this statement was being --

A. No, one left out.

Q. One left out? The good cop or the bad cop?

A. I don't remember who left, all I know, one of them left out.

Q. And the one who remained, did he type, was he typing while he was talking to you and while you were talking to him?

Page 69.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. He was writing.

Q. Well, you would agree with me that this is a typewritten statement?

A. Yes.

Q. And is this the statement that was shown to you by the detective after he spoke to you?

A. I'm not even sure. All I did was sign, I thought I was signing what I told him.

Q. Did you tell the detective -- I will start at the beginning, I will start at the very top. Does this document, which has your signature on it on the first page which you remember signing (displaying) -- (indicating), does it reflect that you were brought into Homicide by Detective D'Amato and Detective Williams at 12:25 p.m. on December the 9th, 1981?

A. Say that again.

Q. I'll come show it to you.

MS. FISK: If I may, Your Honor?

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Does this document, sir, reflect that you -- Arnold Howard -- were brought in, that is brought into Homicide, by Detective D'Amato and Detective Williams on 12-9-81 at 12:25 p.m., or 12:25 in the afternoon?

Page 70.

A. No.

Q. Is that what it says?

A. That's what it say but it wasn't, that is the wrong time you got down there.

Q. Because you were brought in when it was still dark out, right?

A. Look here, I know I was in the bed.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. When they came and got me.

Q. Well, was it dark out or was it light out?

A. It was before daybreak.

Q. Okay. Do you also note that it shows the place of interview is Room 104 PAB, which is Homicide, at the Police Administration Building?

A. Right.

Q. That is correct, that's where you were questioned?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. And does it show that the date and time when this is now being taken is 12-9-81 at 12:35 p.m?

A. That's what it say.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection as to what time you were interviewed?

A. No, it doesn't.

Q. All right. Now, do you remember, sir, being asked by the detective, Arnold, last night a police officer was shot and killed at 1200 Locust street. What can you tell me about the shooting. And you said nothing.

A. Right. Because I wasn't there.

Q. Right. That's what you were asked and that's what you said?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, do you remember being asked this? Arnold, I'm going to show you a photostatic copy of the application for a duplicate driver's license. What can you tell me about this application. And then it shows in parentheses, Howard was then shown by Detective D'Amato a copy of a Bassett's application for a duplicate operator's license made out in his name. And your answer was it's mine?

A. Right.

Q. So that's what you were asked and that's the answer you gave?

A. Right.

Q. Now, were you then asked the question, when and where did you get it, and your answer was I got it from Bassett's at Broad and Poplar on the 27th of November?

A. Right.

Page 72.

Q. That's right?

A. Right.

Q. And this is the first page, which you read before signing, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, do you remember being asked the question, when was the last time you saw this Bassett's application, and you answered the Monday before last. And then it shows Howard was then shown a calendar by Detective Williams and stated the 30th of November. Do you remember that, sir?

A. No, I do not, it is too far back for me to remember.

Q. Do you remember saying that it was the Monday before last?

A. No.

Q. Well, do you remember being asked this? Where were you when you saw this application on November 3Oth, and your answer at 18th and Chestnut at the Chuckwagon, I was eating inside there?

A. Right.

Q. Do you remember giving that answer, sir?

A. Right.

Q. And that was correct?

Page 73.

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Do you remember being asked, what did you do with this Bassett's application at the Chuckwagon, and giving your answer, I had it in my pocket then, I didn't discover it missing until this past Saturday, the 5th of December?

A. No, I told them what I did with my license.

Q. That you what?

A. I told them who I gave my license to. A copy of my license to.

Q. My question, sir, is did you say to them I had it in my pocket then, I didn't discover it missing until this past Saturday, the 5th of December?

A. I'm telling you I told the officers who I gave my license to, they put that in there.

Q. Well, Mr. Howard -- I'll be happy to come show you -- I am still reading, sir, from the first page of this document.

A. Right.

Q. Which is the page which you have told us you read before signing it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, he didn't indicate he read it. The witness indicated otherwise, as a matter of fact.

MS. FISK: I thought he said he read the first page.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: The record will show, Counselor, all right. Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you remember being asked this question? Sir, do you know how you lost it. And your answer was I believe I had lost it in the back of that Volkswagen. Do you remember saying?

A. Wait a minute. No, no, no, no. I said who I gave my license to. You ain't putting no words in my mouth with that.

Q. My question is --

A. You can't put words in my mouth. I told you who I gave my license to.

Q. My question, Mr. Howard, is whether you remember being asked this question and giving this answer. I am not asking you right now whether or not it was truthful, I am just asking you if you remember being asked the question and giving the answer, okay.

So do you remember being asked do you know how you lost it and answering I believe I had lost it in the back of that Volkswagen?

A. They never was lost.

Q. So do I understand from that that you don't

Page 75.

Arnold Howard - Cross

remember giving that answer?

A. No, I told them who I gave my license to.

Q. Okay.

A. Over and over. That's why my license was suspended for 14 years.

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Howard -- and I will get back to the document C-l6 in a moment. You told us on direct examination that in addition to being put on ice for these 72 hours -- and you have now described to us where you went and how you went there -- that there was a period of time when you were placed in a lineup with Kenneth Freeman, yes?

A. Right, and me and Ken Freeman's picture was taken together.

Q. All right. Well, I am going to ask you about that picture in a minute. Let's focus on the lineup for a moment. You say that you and Kenneth Freeman were placed in a lineup?

A. Right.

Q. Now, was that at Homicide, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Was that while you and Kenneth Freeman were in one of the little rooms in Homicide, or were you and Kenneth Freeman out in the open area of Homicide?

Page 76.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. No, there ain't, they don't put you in the open area in Homicide.

Q. I'm sorry, I didn't understand you?

A. They don't put you in an open area in Homicide, they put you in a little room like you're an animal.

Q. So you and Kenneth Freeman were in a little room?

A. He was in one room at first and I was in the other room. And then they put us together.

Q. You told us, sir, that you were in a lineup. Were you with Kenneth Freeman when you were in a lineup?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And how is it, sir, that you know that you were in a lineup?

A. It ain't the first lineup I've ever been in.

Q. My question, Mr. Howard, is did the people who were viewing the lineup come into the same room you were in?

A. No, they didn't come inside the room, they was behind the glass.

Q. So were you able to see persons who were behind the glass?

A. No.

Page 77.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. My question, then, is how do you know that there were persons looking at you from behind the glass?

A. Because I've been in a lineup before.

Q. So you're telling us that you are assuming that people were looking at you because you and Kenneth Freeman were in a room that had glass?

A. It was five other people, I think it was about four other people in that room with us. Up standing up on like a stage.

Q. Oh. Oh.

A. I didn't know what it was.

Q. There were --

A. Other people in the lineup.

Q. There were a total of six of you in sort of like a big area that was enclosed by glass; is that it?

A. Enclosed by glass. Glass was in front of us.

Q. Pardon?

A. The glass was in front of us.

Q. And is there a wall behind you that has a series of lines on it which shows how tall the people are?

A. Let me explain something to you.

Q. What?

Page 78.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. I don't remember back that far. All I know, I was in a lineup down there.

Q. And you were in the lineup at Homicide?

A. Yeah, I don't know if it was Homicide, they took us on the other side.

Q. Pardon?

A. They took us out the room and took us on the other side.

Q. I'm sorry, I didn't understand what you just said?

A. They took us out of the little rooms we were in.

Q. Right?

A. And took us to the other side of the room in Homicide.

Q. Right?

A. It's glass like.

Q. All right.

A. They put us in another room, it has a wall, had all of us standing up against the wall.

Q. And it had a little stage?

A. It looked like a stage, you had to walk up on it, something.

Q. I see. Now, you have been in other lineups before, Mr. Howard, in the course of being arrested

Page 79.

Arnold Howard - Cross

in the past; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact you have told us you knew what it was because you have been in lineups before?

A. Right.

Q. Now, am I correct, Mr. Howard, that when you have been in lineups before that time, and in fact since that time --

A. Whoa. Not since that time.

Q. Not since that time. All right, so before that time, you walked into a little room and up on a stage that was surrounded by glass, right?

A. Right.

Q. And that little room is up at the Detention Center on State Road?

A. They got one up there and they got one down Homicide. They took it out of there. It is a room up in there. They put you up against the wall and they look at you like you're an animal.

Q. Now, did someone take your picture as you were standing in that lineup?

A. No, they did not. They took me and Ken Freeman' picture separate.

Q. So was your picture taken while you were standing in the lineup, to the best of your

Page 80.

Arnold Howard - Cross

knowledge?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. But you do remember that your picture with Mr.

Freeman was taken when the two of you were together?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, were the two of you together in this area where the lineup was conducted or were you together someplace else?

A. On the other side.

Q. When you say the other side, are you talking about the side of Homicide where the interrogation rooms are?

A. The rooms.

Q. Were the two of you in one of those rooms?

A. Yes, we were.

Q. And who took your picture?

A. How am I supposed to know?

Q. Did you see your picture get taken?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. All right, who took your picture?

A. A man, that's all I knew, took my picture.

Q. Black man or white man?

A. A white man.

Q. In uniform or in plainclothes?

Page 81.

A. Plainclothes.

Q. Was he using a Polaroid or an insta-matic; do you remember?

A. I don't know nothing about no cameras.

Q. Did you see a piece of (indicating) --

A. Yes, the film came out.

Q. You saw the film come out as soon as he took it?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you get to see the picture?

A. Yeah, I seen the picture.

Q. And it was a picture of you and Ken?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was shown to you immediately after it was taken?

A. Not immediately. They had them on the desk when they brung us back out.

Q. Now, did this all occur, sir -- the taking of your picture with Kenneth Freeman, the placing of you in the lineup with five other men -- did this all occur before you gave this statement Commonwealth Exhibit 16 (displaying) to the detective or after?

A. First of all, I don't remember when exactly that statement --

Q. You don't know what?

Page 82.

A. I don't know when.

Q. You don't remember?

A. I don't remember what date I gave that statement.

Q. I thought, sir, that you told us that it was that morning that you were awakened up out of bed before the sun came up and taken to Homicide that you gave the statement?

A. I didn't give no statement right away in the Homicide.

Q. Mr. Howard, maybe I'm confused, but let me go back a little bit. Didn't you tell Mr. Weinglass on direct examination that after they woke you up that morning and took you to 8th and Race, and you spent some 24 hours there --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- at sometime during that period of time when you were taken out of bed and taken to Homicide, that you gave a statement to detectives?

A. Yes.

Q. All right?

A. But I don't know when I gave it to them.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. Objection, Counsel might be confused. She inadvertently added in her question that the statement was given in the morning. And the witness had never said that. I think if Counsel could have the question read back you will see that you made an inadvertent error which threw the witness off. I will ask that that question be read back.

MS. FISK: I have no problem with that.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was that the problem, Mr. Howard, is that what I said that confused you?

A. I believe so.

Q. Fine. My question, then, sir, is the statement which you gave at Homicide sometime that day when you were brought there after being woken up in your house, was that, was that given by you before you were placed in this lineup and had your picture taken with Mr Freeman or after you were placed in this lineup and had your picture taken with Mr. Freeman?

A. It's hard to say when.

Q. Okay. Now, do you remember being asked, sir -- and I am going back to Commonwealth Exhibit 16, this statement -- I am now starting to read from the top of page 2. Which is again a page that bears your signature (displaying) (indicating). Do you remember being asked by the detective who was questioning you -- I'm sorry -- well, what Volkswagen would that be. And your answer was William Cook's Volkswagen?

A. Yeah, I know William had a Volkswagen, he used to take me to work in it.

Q. Did the detective ask you what Volkswagen would that be, and you said to him William Cook's Volkswagen?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember being asked when were you in William Cook's Volkswagen?

A. I never was asked was I in William Cook's Volkswagen.

Q. Pardon?

A. I never was asked if I was in that Volkswagen.

Q. Okay, let me read the entire question and answer and you could say that again. Do you remember giving this answer to that question? The Monday I was in the Volkswagen, William is a vendor in Center City, I ran into him when I left the Chuckwagon. In front of the Duke and Duchess Movie. He gave me a ride to 8th and Spring Garden.

Did you give that answer to that question?

Page 85.

A. I can't remember.

Q. Oh. Do you remember being asked this question? Who was in William Cook's auto besides you and him when he gave you the ride on that Monday, and your giving this answer, just him. He had a lot of stock in the car, incense and gloves and umbrellas. Do you remember giving that answer to that question?

A. I may have.

Q. Was that accurate: Is that the kind of stuff William Cook kept in his car?

A. It wasn't his stuff.

Q. Well, was that the kind of stuff he kept in his car?

A. Not normally.

Q. But you may have given that answer?

A. Yeah, I may have.

Q. Do you remember being asked this question? Where did you sit in the Volkswagen when he gave you the ride, and your answering

I sat in the back. The front seat was full of stuff. Do you remember that answer to that question?

A. No, not really.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Do you remember

Page 86.

Arnold Howard - Cross

being asked when was the last time you saw William Cook, and your answer was that was the last time, that Monday about five o'clock in the afternoon?

Did you give that answer to that question?

A. I may have.

Q. Do you remember being asked do you know Wesley Cook?

A. Yes.

Q. And answering yes, I know them both?

A. Right.

Q. And that's correct?

A. Right.

Q. Do you remember being asked how do you know Wesley, and you answered we all grew up together in the Spring Garden project, do you remember that, sir?

A. Right. Yes.

Q. And that is the answer that you gave?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember being asked when was the last time you saw Wesley Cook, and answering I ain't seen Wesley in almost a month?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you give that answer?

A. More or less.

Page 87.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. More or less?

A. I seen him and I didn't see him.

Q. Was that the answer you gave?

A. More or less.

Q. And it is correct?

A. It may have, maybe not.

Q. Do you remember being asked this question, or the next question? Did you know where your driver's license application was before today. And your giving an answer no. I thought I had lost it on the street because I lost a phone book with it. I thought my wife had it because I had a lot of girls' phone numbers in it?

A. First of all, I told them who I gave my license to.

Q. So my question, then --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor: The witness has to be given an opportunity to answer.

THE COURT: No, he is not answering that question. He could then proceed if he has to. It is a specific question. Let him answer that and then he could go on with whatever he wants. But answer that question.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 88.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. My question is did you give that answer to that question?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked, do you know where Wesley Cook lives, and answering he was living with his mother at 7th and Wallace?

A. Yes.

Q. I think 704 Wallace?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that correct?

A. Hmm, I think so.

Q. Do you remember being asked do you know where William Cook lives and answering in the same place with his mother?

A. Yes.

Q. And you gave that answer?

A. More or less.

Q. And that was correct?

A. More or less.

Q. Do you remember being asked at the -- I am at the top of page 3 -- when did you hear about the officer being shot last night. And answering this morning on the radio?

Q. Did you give that answer?

A. No.

Page 89.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. To that question?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked, did you know then that Wesley and William Cook had been arrested, and giving this answer, no, but I heard on Mary Mason that Mumia had been arrested and I know Mumia to be Wesley Cook, that's his Muslim name?

A. Huh. No.

Q. You never gave that answer?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember giving this question and giving this answer to it? When did you know that your driver's license application was found, and your answer being after I got your message to call the Roundhouse and I spoke to a Detective Thomas. He had asked me my phone number?

A. No, they came and got me. Nobody didn't call my house.

Q. So you never gave that answer to that question?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked do you know where we found your Bassett's application and answering no?

A. When they came and got me they told me my license was found in the officer's hand.

Page 90.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Do you remember being asked, when I first asked you if you knew how you lost your application you answered I believe I had lost it in the back of that Volkswagen. What made you say that. And answering, because of what the officer had said to me on the phone, he said you found a duplication license with my name on it. Do you remember giving that answer to that question?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked, did he say where we found it, and you said no, all he said is that you found it. Do you remember that answer to that question?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked how did you know about a Volkswagen, and answering I read it in the Daily News and I know the Volkswagen was William's?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked what can you tell me about Wesley Cook? And your answer was all we did was grow up together, gang warred together. We were in the Black Panther Party together around '69 or '70?

A. No.

Q. You didn't give that answer?

Page 91.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. No.

Q. Is that true?

A. Yeah, we all hung out together. But I'm not saying what we were in.

Q. Were you in the Black Panther Party?

A. I'm not saying, I'm in no party.

Q. So you never gave that answer?

A. I'm not saying I was in no party, put it like that.

Q. Did you ever give that answer?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked is there anything else you could think of that would help us in our investigation of the shooting of Police Officer Faulkner, and your answer was that's all I know, what I read in the paper?

A. How could I read it in the paper and I was incarcerated.

Q. So you didn't give that answer?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked do you know Officer Faulkner and your answer was I may know him. I'm the secretary of the Town Watch in Spring Garden and I know Officer Redden at 11th and Winter?

A. Who?

Page 92.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Officer Redden -- R-E-D-D-E-N -- at 11th and Winter?

A. Right. I know Officer Redden.

Q. Did you give that answer to that question?

A. Yes.

Q. Now I'm going to page 4, sir, which you said is the page which, which you did not sign; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you remember being asked this question? Did you see Officer Faulkner's picture in the paper today and your answer was yes?

A. No.

Q. You weren't asked that question, didn't give that answer?

A. No. I didn't know.

Q. Do you remember being asked did he look familiar to you and your answer was somewhat?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember being asked do you know how police, Police Officer Faulkner would have your Bassett's application, and your answer was no?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember being asked that question?

A. I might have been asked it.

Page 93.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Did you say no?

A. I don't remember what I said back then.

Q. Do you remember being asked, have you been stopped by the police recently for anything?

A. Back then I was stopped a whole lot.

Q. Do you remember saying yes, this past Monday night?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Well, do you remember this? Do you remember being asked where was that that they stopped you, and your answer was at 7th and Fairmount. The question was what time was that. And your answer was about eleven o'clock that night. We were making our rounds at the project, me and some people from Town Watch. They saw my walkie-talkie and stopped me. I showed them my Town Watch card with my name on it and they let us go after they listened to our walkie-talkie and heard our base station?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. Does that sound familiar, sir?

A. I know we had a Town Watch back then.

Q. What?

A. I know we had a Town Watch back then.

Q. You know you were in Town Watch back then?

A. Right.

Page 94.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. So is that the answer that you gave to those series of questions?

A. Nah... no.

Q. You don't know?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember whether or not you ever told the detective who was questioning you that you were in Town Watch?

A. They might have found that card in my wallet.

Q. Do I understand that you never told them you were in Town Watch?

A. I am not saying what I told them, I don't remember what I told them since '81. I don't have a photostatic memory.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, does the name Detective D'Amato sound at all familiar to you?

A. No. I don't know.

Q. How about the name Detective Williams, Jim Williams?

A. I don't remember them cops' names, I don't want to remember their names.

Q. Do you think that you would recognize any of those cops or any of the cops who were the good cop-bad cop that questioned you these two times at Homicide?

Page 95.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. I might, I may not.

MS. FISK: Can Detective James Williams please be asked to come into the Courtroom. I believe he is out in the hallway.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: May I simply ask the Detective to state his name for the record.

DETECTIVE WILLIAMS: Detective James Williams, number 730, Central Detective Division.

BY MS. FISK:

Do you recognize this man, Mr. Howard?

A. (Witness shakes head.)

Q. You are shaking your head, we have to write it down.

A. No. I wouldn't know what he looked like if I seen him today.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. If I seen him after he left this Courtroom I wouldn't know who he looked like.

MS. FISK: All right, thank you.

May I ask, Your Honor, that this document be marked Commonwealth Exhibit 17, a copy for defense Counsel if they would like.

(Excerpt from PAB logbook was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-l7 for identification.)

Page 96.

Arnold Howard - Cross

THE COURT OFFICER: C-17, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: (Indicating).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Howard, you are being shown a photocopy of a sheet of paper. I want to ask you whether you see about halfway down your name written in the second column which says name? Do you see the name Arnold Howard?

A. Yeah.

Q. You have to speak into the microphone.

A. Yes.

Q. All right, I just want to make clear: Let's go two names above where the date is 12-9-81, all right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, next to your name it just says 12-9; is that correct, sir?

A. That's what it say on that piece of paper.

Q. Is your name Arnold Howard?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. The next column over, sir, on the top says Unit; do you see that, sir?

Page 97.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And next to your name there is the letters H-O-M?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, the next column there are two columns, time in and out; do you see that, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And the enter column next to your name shows 12:30; do you see that, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And the out column next to your name shows 2:30; is that correct?

A. No.

Q. Pardon?

A. No.

Q. It does not show 2:30?

A. I can't even see that.

Q. Why don't you look.

A. That looks like a seven.

Q. That looks like a seven?

A. Yes.

Q. There is a line -- fine. And then on the third column -- I'm sorry -- the final column, which is at the top marked escort, there is a signature?

A. Looks like a signature.

Page 98.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. And that is not your signature?

A. Right here?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. That's not my signature.

Q. No, that is not your signature?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever seen this piece of paper before?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever seen the logbook which is at the front window of the Roundhouse by the door which opens up to the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this what pages in that logbook look like?

A. I wouldn't, I wouldn't know. I just know there is a book right there.

Q. Pardon?

A. All I know, there's a book right there.

Q. Now, sir, you also testified that at some point your hands were tested, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that also at Homicide?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that the first time you were at Homicide, as opposed to the second time?

A. The first time I was there... I don't remember

Page 99.

Arnold Howard - Cross

when they did it, all I know, they put this stuff on my hands.

Q. You don't remember, am I correct, that it was the first time you got there or the second?

A. It was the first time when I was there.

Q. Do you remember how long you were at Homicide when they put that stuff on your hands?

A. I didn't have no watch on.

Q. Well, was the stuff put on your hands, if you know, before you were in the lineup or after you were in the lineup?

(Pause.)

A. Before, I think, I'm not sure.

Q. Do you know whether or not the stuff was put on your hands before or after you spoke to the detective and gave a statement (displaying)?

A. So much was going on in there, I didn't remember.

Q. Who was the person who put the stuff on your hands -- I recognize you don't know anyone's names -- but, again, was it a detective?

A. I don't know if it was a detective or not.

Q. Well, was it a person in a uniform or not in a uniform?

A. Out of uniform.

Page 100.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Pardon?

A. Out of uniform.

Q. Out of uniform. Was it a male or female?

A. A man.

Q. White or black?

A. White.

Q. Now, I take it, Mr. Howard, that you were pretty angry about being kept on ice for these 72 hours?

A. Yes.

Q. So when you were finally released from Homicide you made an immediate complaint to someone?

A. I might have.

Q. Pardon?

A. I might have, I don't remember. I told my people about it.

Q. And who are your people, sir?

A. My family.

Q. Did you make any complaint to the Police Department?

A. I don't really remember.

Q. You don't remember?

A. No, it's been since '81, how would you remember something that far back?

Q. Would you agree with me that when a person who has done nothing wrong such as yourself is woken up out of his bed at 6:00 in the morning and kept on ice for 72 hours, that your response naturally would be to complain to the Police Department?

Page 101.

Arnold Howard - Cross

A. No, they don't have no win at the Police Department.

Q. Pardon?

A. They don't have no win at the Police Department.

Q. Don't have no...?

A. Win.

Q. Win?

A. Right.

Q. How about an attorney, did you contact an attorney?

A. My family asked me to leave the matter alone.

Q. Oh. And based on that request by your family you left the matter alone?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't tell anyone about it, as I understand it, until you spoke to Mr. Weinglass about it on Friday?

A. No, there were a lot of people who knew about what went on because I told a lot of people what went on.

Page 102.

Arnold Howard - Cross

Q. Okay. And you told a lot of people when it occurred about it, is that it?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, when you were interviewed by Mr. Weinglass in person the other day, did he take a statement from you?

A. I told him what I knew.

Q. And was he writing down what you told him?

A. Some things.

MS. FISK: I would ask, Your Honor, access to that statement.

THE WITNESS: It wasn't no statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: These are obviously, if you are referring to my notes, they are work product. I'm Counsel for the Petitioner.

MS. FISK: I am asking, Your Honor, for, if there are any verbatim records of the contact that Counsel had with the witness, that constitutes a statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: No verbatim.

MS. FISK: That's what I am saying.

MR. WEINGLASS: No verbatim record.

MS. FISK: Very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: While we're on it: With respect to C-17, could I have a

Page 103.

Arnold Howard - Cross

representation from Counsel as to what this document is from? It's just --

MS. FISK: Certainly. This is a photocopy from the logbook maintained at the front door of the Police Administration Building. That is the public door of the Police Administration Building. Those books being maintained over the years in the custody and control at the Police Administration Building. This is a photocopy from the page which records on, starts from some persons coming in on December the 8th, and runs through December the lOth, 1981, making a record of those persons coming in through that public door of the Roundhouse, reflecting the time that they are coming in and out, if that time is available when the person is so ready to leave.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. What troubles us, number one --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, could I complete my cross-examination?

MR. WEINGLASS: Talking about C-l7 for a moment.

MS. FISK: I understand. Could I complete my cross-examination?

Page 104.

Arnold Howard - Redirect

THE COURT: They introduced it for identification at this time. If you have a problem about it, let's take it up later. Let's get finished with the witness so he could go home or wherever he wants to go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, Mr. Howard, just so I'm clear: You were never arrested, that is in any formal fashion, on December the 9th, December the lOth, December the llth, or December the 12th of 1981; is that right?

A. Say that again.

Q. Sure. You were never formally arrested on any of those dates that I just gave you?

A. I never was charged with nothing the whole time they had me down there. They just had me down there.

Q. Right, for the 72 hours you were kept on ice?

A. Right.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have no further questions of this witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just a few questions, Mr. Howard.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 105.

Arnold Howard - Redirect

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was it an application for a driver's license or the driver's license itself that you testified to that you gave to Kenneth Freeman?

A. I gave him the license. Because back then you could get photostatic copies of your license.

Q. And so when the statement that was read to you by Counsel indicated that it was an application, that isn't what you recall telling the police?

A. No, I told them I gave to him my permanent driver's license, a copy of my driver's license.

Q. And you gave him the name of the person you gave it to?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the person you saw in the precinct that night?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The person who was in a lineup?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the person who they photographed with you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you were asked about being interviewed by me. Has anything happened with respect to your mother or your family since you've been in contact with me?

Page 106.

Arnold Howard - Redirect

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. It's beyond the scope of cross-examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the question, he was specifically asked about meeting me and my taking a statement, etcetera.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I'm asking him now as a result of that has anything happened?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Wait awhile.

MR. WEINGLASS: Personal knowledge.

MS. FISK: I would note as well that when he was interviewed by Mr. Weinglass is irrelevant in light of the fact that we received this affidavit at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. He could have been interviewed a year-and-a-half ago, we were notified as to the subject of this witness' testimony 5:30 yesterday afternoon.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Counsel wasn't listening to the direct very carefully because I asked him when was the first time he had any contact with me. And it wasn't a year ago.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

MS. FISK: It was last Friday.

Page 107.

Arnold Howard - Redirect

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

MS. FISK: But I still don't understand the content of the question and why it is at all relevant to cross-examination. It is beyond the scope and I object.

MR. WEINGLASS: Find out in a moment.

MS. FISK: I object, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. What has happened to you and your family since I've had contact with you?

A. I don't appreciate my mother being brought to the police station.

MS. FISK: I am objecting. You have to wait, sir. Thank you. I object, Your Honor: It is beyond the scope of cross-examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let me ask the question more specifically, I will withdraw it.

THE COURT: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Has your mother been harassed by the police since you talked to me?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: You see, Your Honor, that was an improper question. I objected to the first so Counsel instead is introducing the improper question. And I object to that and ask that that be stricken.

THE COURT: I will have to strike it too. If you want to call his mother, fine. Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you have personal knowledge of what was happening to your mother?

THE COURT: I said if you want to call his mother, fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am going to ask him of personal knowledge.

THE COURT: No, no personal knowledge.

MS. FISK: I object. I don't care if Martians have landed on this man's roof. This is a man that we were notified about at 5:30 last night. To suggest that anything that has happened to him or his mother since he spoke to Mr. Weinglass is attributable to anybody other than Mr. Weinglass is to misrepresent the truth.

MR. WEINGLASS: They had a statement for 14 years.

MS. FISK: That's right, and he wasn't called to trial because this man doesn't know anything about the murder of Officer Faulkner, has nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of this Defendant, which is the purpose of this hearing, is nevertheless called by the defense. And we didn't care about speaking to him and did not.

THE COURT: I sustain the objection. You have an exception. Let's go. Anything further with this witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Howard. You are excused.

All right, who is your next witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I do want to bring up the question of C-17.

THE COURT: Well, bring it up later, please. I want to know now who is your next witness. You have people here. For instance, you have Dr. Hoyer. Are you going to call him?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have Professor Lambert as our next witness.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, Professor Lambert is a witness we have previously objected to, I understood.

THE COURT: Did I rule on that

already?

MS. FISK: I thought you did, Your Honor, but I will re-raise our objection on the basis of the offer of proof that we have been presented. Apparently, Dr. Lambert is a person who in the nineties interviewed about 35 people who were jurors on Judge Jackson's death penalty cases. And as a result of those interviews has opinions about jurors in general. That is irrelevant and inadmissible testimony with regard to what was in the minds or retentions of the 12 Jurors on this Jury in 1982. We, therefore, object.

THE COURT: All right. He's out.

MR. WEINGLASS: He's out, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, I believe the Court previously ruled on this witness.

THE COURT: I probably did. The notes will tell us that.

I hope you are typing up all of these notes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court wanted an affidavit and we gave the Court a long

Page 111 is missing. We will attempt to locate it.

Page 112.

MR. WILLIAMS: We don't have any problem with him being released during the lunch hour.

THE COURT: If Dr. Hoyer is around tell him he could go until two o'clock.

Okay, call Sharon Gaines Smith.

- - - - -

Sharon Smith, having been duly affirmed, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MR. WILLIAMS: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Miss Smith, thank you for coming in. Can you tell us where you live?

A. Philadelphia.

Q. How long have you lived in Philadelphia?

A. All my life.

Q. Back on December 9th, 1981, were you living in Philadelphia on that date?

A. Yes.

Page 113 is missing. We will attempt to locate it.

Page 114.

Q. Did it sound like more than, obviously more than one person, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you said you heard gunshots?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember about how many gunshots you heard?

A. I'd say two, maybe three.

Q. What happened next?

A. I looked. When I looked out the window I seen a lot of police officers beating a black man with dreadlocks.

Q. Okay, you are talking about the window to your apartment?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were looking where, down on the street?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said you saw police officers?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many police officers did you see?

A. About five, maybe six.

Q. Five, maybe six. And again tell us what you saw these five or six police officers doing?

A. They were beating the black man with the dreadlocks with them sticks they carry. And with their feet.

Page 115.

Q. With sticks and their feet?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they kicking the man?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you hear if these police officers were saying anything while they were hitting him with the sticks?

A. Yes.

Q. And kicking him?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of things were they saying?

A. Kill the black mother fucker, beat the shit out of the black mother fucker.

Q. So it was racial in nature?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have an impression back in December, on December 9th, 1981, as you were looking on this scene, as to who was being beaten? Talking about your impression now.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, it is directly relevant to why we're calling this witness. This is the crucial aspect of her testimony.

MS. FISK: It may be crucial but if it's her impression, that is not a fact that the witness can attest to.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is her state of mind. Witnesses always testify to their state of mind, or often testify.

MS. FISK: It is offered for the truth and not for any purpose --

MR. WILLIAMS: That's why it is admissible.

THE COURT: Isn't that for the fact-finder to decide? Just give me the facts and I will go from there.

MR. WILLIAMS: One of her facts is her state of mind. I am asking for state of mind. We all know the state of mind exception to the hearsay rule. State of mind is often relevant.

THE COURT: Are you still objecting?

MS. FISK: Yes, this is not hearsay. This is simply not a fact known to the witness. It is a guess and an impression.

THE COURT: Okay, I will let it in. If I rule that it's inadmissible I will just disregard it and strike it from the record later. Let's go.

MR. WILLIAMS: Fair enough, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, as you were looking out that window on December 9th, 1981, did you yourself have an impression as to who was being beaten?

A. I thought it was the man that we usually see in the neighborhood giving out pamphlets talking about black people.

Q. So you thought it was a man who you have seen in the neighborhood on other occasions?

A. Yes.

Q. And what kind of hair did this man have?

A. Dreadlocks.

Q. And the man you saw being beaten had dreadlocks?

A. Yes.

Q. And this man with dreadlocks that was being beaten you thought was a man who in the past had handed out pamphlets?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said talked about black people?

A. Yes.

Page 118.

Q. And did this man hand out pamphlets and talk about black people with the dreadlocks in the vicinity of 13th and Locust?

A. Yes.

Q. By the way, what was your reaction when you saw the beating taking place?

A. I was real scared and nervous and I started vomicking.

Q. You started vomiting?

A. Yes.

Q. It was that upsetting to you?

A. Yes, I've never seen anything like that before.

Q. You've never seen anybody being beaten like that before?

A. No, no.

Q. Now, after this incident that you saw on December 9th, 1981, did you ever see this man with the dreadlocks selling, giving out pamphlets in that area again?

A. No.

Q. Never have again?

A. No.

(Discussion held off the record between Defense Counsel.)

Page 119.

MR. WILLIAMS: Miss Smith, thank you very much. The prosecutor's going to now ask you some questions.

THE WITNESS: Oh, okay.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Miss Smith.

A. Good morning.

Q. Miss Smith, may I just determine: Are you the woman who is currently on probation for a guilty verdict finding you guilty of simple assault before Judge New?

A. Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am going to object to that and move to have it stricken:, It deals with an alleged assault.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Not crimen falsi.

MS. FISK: That is correct, the fact that the witness is currently on probation is relevant as it does go to the bias of the witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: Oh, we agree with that, certainly.

Page 120.

MS. FISK: That is correct, and she is on probation, that was the extent of my question.

MR. WILLIAMS: The point is so was Mr. Chobert when he testified at trial.

THE COURT: Counselor, are you withdrawing that objection?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am withdrawing it.

THE COURT: Well, if there is nothing for me to rule on let's go.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, Ms. Smith, you were so horrified by this beating; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you had never seen anything like it before?

A. No.

Q. You, I take it, have never seen anything like it since: It was that horrible?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. So I take it, ma'am, that in the hours that passed that beating you saw a huge number of additional police officers remain at that intersection?

A. Yes.

Q. And I take it that you went down to report that to someone?

A. No.

Q. And that was because you were afraid of the police now: They had beaten someone?

A. Yes, plus my husband told me to stay out of it. Mind my business.

Q. Told you to stay out? In the 14 years since that time, have you made a formal report or a formal complaint about that beating to any person?

A. No.

Q. To any attorney?

A. No.

Q. To any judge?

A. No.

Q. To any committee investigating police brutality or police conduct?

A. No.

Q. How is it, Miss Smith, that you have come to be a witness here today?

A. Well, I feel as though he shouldn't be executed. You don't know if he did it or not.

Q. Yes, ma'am. All right, you feel as though Mr.

Page 122.

Jamal should not be executed because you don't know whether he did it or not?

A. You don't know.

Q. I don't know whether he did it or not. Yes, ma'am, how does that lead to your being a witness today?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Having said that, how does that lead to your being a witness here today?

A. Well, I was talking with friends and family and they introduced me to him, to the lawyers.

Q. Introduced you to...?

A. The lawyers (indicating).

Q. To which? To Mr. Weinglass or Mr. Williams? To Miss Wolkenstein? One of these lawyers here?

A. All three of them.

Q. All three of them. And when is it that you were introduced to them?

A. Last month.

Q. And was it last month after you were introduced to them that you told them what you have told us today?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the first time that you had ever told any person what you had seen?

Page 123.

A. No, that's not the first time I told anybody what I had heard.

Q. Who had you told?

A. My neighbor Jerry. My family members.

Q. Incidentally, when you heard these shots and this argument out your window from the Midstown Hotel, what floor were you on?

A. Third.

Q. And were your windows open?

A. Cracked just a bit.

Q. And it was the winter: Was it cold outside?

A. Yes, the rooms are very hot.

Q. I see. And you were able to through the crack open in the window to hear these things that were taking place?

A. Yes, we could hear, they were very loud.

Q. Well, could you hear what the argument was before you heard the gunshots?

A. No.

Q. Could you hear how many voices you heard?

A. About three, maybe four.

Q. Could you tell if they were male or female voices?

A. Sound like men.

Q. Now, did you look out the window when you heard the argument?

A. No.

Q. Then you told us you heard gunshots, two or three, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, did you then look out the window immediately after hearing those gunshots?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, is it my understanding then that, well, what is your definition of immediately?

A. Excuse me?

Q. I asked you if you looked out your window immediately after hearing the gunshots. And by that I mean you heard the gunshots and within a second you were looking out your window?

A. I'd say about three seconds.

Q. Okay, so within three seconds of hearing these two to three gunshots you looked out and saw five to six police officers beating this black man with dreadlocks using their sticks and their feet?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you see any police vehicles or just these?

A. Yes, it was police cars outside.

Q. How many police cars?

Page 125.

A. Say about four.

Q. Did you see any other person on the ground other than the black man with dreadlocks who was being beaten?

A. No.

Q. Now, the nature of the beating that you saw, you said that it was so horrible it made you ill?

A. Yes.

Q. What part of this man's body was being kicked and hit with the sticks?

A. Everywhere.

Q. Did it appear to you that every bone in this man's body is going to be broken by this beating?

A. I thought he was going to die.

Q. So that the force of the beating was so horrible that you thought he was going to be killed as a result of the force of being beaten?

A. Yes.

Q. And do I understand it he was being kicked in the head, yes?

A. Everywhere.

Q. Everything that you could see was being kicked and hit, multiple times?

A. Yes.

Q. And am I correct that it appeared that it

Page 126.

Sharon Smith - Cross

looked like every bone in this man's body was being broken?

A. Yes.

Q. But you are not a medical doctor, you can't make that determination?

A. No.

Q. But the force was that brutal?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, the man that you thought it was, this man who sold pamphlets, did he usually sell pamphlets during the day?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Well, when would you see this man who sold pamphlets?

A. During the evening.

Q. When you say evening, what do you mean?

A. Say around 4:30, five o'clock, in that time.

Q. In the afternoon?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the period of the day that you had seen this man with pamphlets at that intersection before?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was generally the time of day you saw him?

Page 127.

Sharon Smith - Cross

A. Yes; it was usually the time we were going in the building.

Q. Pardon?

A. That's usually the time we were going in the building with our children.

Q. Oh, all right. How long had you been living at that building about?

A. Ahh, about seven, eight months.

Q. And in the seven to eight months you would see this man selling pamphlets at about 4:30 or five o'clock in the afternoon?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's the only time of day you would see that man?

A. Yes.

Q. You had never seen that man out on the corner at three o'clock in the morning?

A. No.

Q. Is that right?

A. Excuse me?

Q. You had never seen that man outside on the corner at three o'clock in the morning; isn't that right?

A. No, I wasn't outside at three o'clock in the morning.

Page 128.

Sharon Smith - Cross

Q. And you never looked out your window at three o'clock in the morning?

A. Sometimes.

Q. And on occasions that you had looked outside of your window at three o'clock in the morning, you had never seen him out there?

A. I don't know. I don't know. There was a lot of people out that time.

Q. Now, I take it that you discovered sometime in the course of that morning that a police officer had been shot?

A. I found out during the news, yes, the next couple days.

Q. Did you call the police officers and let them know that there was a man who sold pamphlets at that corner with dreadlocks?

A. No, I just told you I didn't inform any police officers.

Q. Well, when you went to the window after hearing the gunshots, was your husband awake?

A. Excuse me?

Q. When you went to the window after hearing the gunshots -- I will rephrase that question. When you went to the window after you heard the gunshots, did anyone else in your family go to the window with you?

Page 129.

Sharon Smith - Redirect

A. My husband.

Q. Now, what is his name?

A. Wendell Gainey.

Q. MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Just briefly, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Miss Smith, where were you inside your hotel room when you heard the gunshots?

A. We was laying down.

Q. You were laying down in bed?

A. Yes.

Q. And was your husband in bed with you?

A. Yes.

Q. And your children were there?

A. Yes.

Q. How old are your children?

A. Now?

Q. Back in 1981.

A. My oldest daughter Sharon was getting ready to be a year. And my daughter Shawinda had just turned two months.

Q. Okay. And what was your physical condition on December 9th, 1981?

A. I was pregnant.

Q. You were pregnant?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you heard the gunshots did you comment about it with your husband, to your husband?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he say something back to you?

A. He told me to lay back down and mind my business.

Q. He told you to lay back down and mind your business. And what did you say back to him?

A. Nothing, I just scooted down (indicating). But I was still looking out the window.

Q. You were curious?

A. Yes.

Q. So you heard the gunshot and then you talked about it with your husband?

A. Yes.

Q. And then he said mind your business?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't want to mind your business?

A. No.

Page 131.

Sharon Smith - Redirect

Q. So that eventually you got out of the bed?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. That was not her testimony.

MR. WILLIAMS: This is redirect, Your Honor. Following up from the --

MS. FISK: But it's also non-leading direct examination. And it's misrepresenting the testimony.

MR. WILLIAMS: Fine, I will rephrase it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. At some point after your husband told you to mind your business, I take it you got out of bed?

A. I was just scooting on the end of it, peeking out the window.

Q. Okay. Scooting out of the bed?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, about this man who had dreadlocks and sold, or gave out pamphlets. Did you ever have a reason, before December 9th, 1981, ever have a reason to look out the window at three o'clock in the morning to see if this man giving out pamphlets is out there in the street?

A. No.

Q. No reason to do that?

Page 132.

Sharon Smith - Recross

A. No.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

MS. FISK: Just a couple.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Ms. Smith, how many months pregnant were you in December of 1981?

A. Hmm... I was almost two.

Q. So your sleep was already being interrupted by your pregnancy?

A. No, I wasn't asleep. I wasn't asleep.

Q. When you heard the gunshots?

A. I wasn't asleep, I was laying down.

Q. I understand that. But on the night, you told us on cross-examination that there had been other nights that you had looked out the window, right?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. I don't know.

Q. More than five?

A. No, I don't know.

Q. On none of the occasions that you had ever looked out the window before do you remember ever

Page 133.

Sharon Smith - Redirect

seeing that man with dreadlocks?

A. I wasn't really looking to see him.

Q. So you don't know if he was there or not?

A. True.

Q. So the only time you know he was there was about 4:30 or five o'clock in the afternoon when you would come into the building?

A. Right.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I just have one question.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Were you aware, Miss Smith, or were you living in Philadelphia in June and July 1982?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you aware that the trial for Mr. Jamal involving the murder of Police Officer Faulkner was going forward?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Q. Well, picking up from that: Did you voluntarily ever step forward to tell a lawyer that you had seen this man being beaten?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Can you explain to us why?

A. I was afraid.

Q. You were afraid?

A. Yes.

Q. And did your husband encourage you to step forward?

A. No.

Q. Did he -- I'm sorry, go ahead.

A. No.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused.

We will take a luncheon recess until 1:30.

THE COURT OFFICER: Court stands in recess until 1:30 p.m.

Luncheon recess was held until 2:00 p.m.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before

Page 135.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

we begin the next witness, I want to on behalf of the Petitioner review our motion for discovery. I want to note several things that were obtained very --

THE COURT: Could we do that after we finish with the next witness? Let's take the next witness so he could leave. If that's Dr. Hoyer, I am sure he has much more important things to do than just sit around and wait to be called.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I will wait until the witness is completed.

THE COURT: Okay. Dr. Hoyer.

Paul J. Hoyer, M.D, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Dr. Hoyer.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Dr. Hoyer, are you the same Paul J. Hoyer who testified in this proceeding during the trial on June 25th, 1982?

Page 136.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. I have no specific recollection of appearing.

Q. You have no recollection of appearing and testifying in this case?

A. That's correct.

Q. Right. Were you serving in any capacity with the City of Philadelphia in June of 1982?

A. Yes.

Q. And what capacity was that?

A. Assistant Medical Examiner.

Q. And would it refresh your recollection if I handed you what purports to be a copy of the transcript of June 25th, 1982 in which a Paul J. Hoyer, Assistant Medical Examiner for the City of Philadelphia, was duly sworn and testified?

A. I'll have to look at it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The record reflects that I'm handing a -- I should show Counsel...

THE COURT OFFICER: I'm sorry (handing).

MS. FISK: Thank you very much.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record reflect I'm handing a copy of what purports to be a copy of the transcript of June 25th, 1982, having shown a copy of that transcript to Counsel.

MS. FISK: A portion of that day's transcript, I would add.

Page 137.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's correct.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: No, it does not.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. It does not refresh your recollection?

A. That is correct.

Q. Having looked at the transcript you still can't say that you were the Dr. Paul J. Hoyer who testified in this trial?

A. Not of my own, not of my own memory.

Q. Well, but having looked at the transcript, the transcript does not serve to refresh that recollection?

A. That is correct.

Q. Strike it. Did you maintain a daily diary of your activities as the Assistant Medical Examiner of the City of Philadelphia in June of 1982?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Were you subpoenaed here today?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the subpoena ask you to bring any documents with you?

A. Yes.

Page 138.

Q. What did it call for?

A. It called for me to bring any documents or photographs that are in my possession.

Q. All right. Is there anything in your possession?

A. Pursuant to that subpoena?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. There is nothing. And when you came to Court today were you provided with any documents by Counsel?

A. I was provided with some photocopies of documents from the file of the Medical Examiner's Office.

Q. Right. Did you recognize those documents?

A. As to form, yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: And may this be identified as the next Exhibit in order.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-26. D-26, Mr. Porterfield.

(Medical Examiner's report was marked Defense Exhibit D-26 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Handing you D-26: Is that the document that you were shown this morning?

Page 139.

(Pause.)

A. This might be a similar photocopy but it's not the document.

Q. And what differences do you notice, Doctor?

A. Well, I initialed, initialed and dated the upper right-hand corner of the front page of the document that I was given this morning. And this is not initialed and dated so I know it's not, not the identical document. It may well be a photocopy, but it's not the identical thing you gave me.

Q. Other than your initials in the upper, right-hand corner of the first page, do you notice any differences in that document?

(Pause.)

A. I do not see any differences but since I didn't keep a record of exactly what was present I couldn't say it was identical.

Q. Right. Now having looked at both the document you were shown this morning and now D-26, does that refresh your recollection at all that you were the Dr. Paul J. Hoyer who conducted the autopsy examination on Officer Daniel Faulkner in December of 1981?

A. I have no refreshed recollection. It appears to be my signature on the report but I have no recollection of performing the autopsy.

Q. You have no recollection, even having read your Medical Examiner's report?

A. That is correct.

Q. But that is your signature on the report, is it not?

A. It appears to be a photocopy of my signature, that's correct.

Q. Now, Dr. Hoyer -- incidentally, how many autopsies have you done of police officers?

A. Ahh, I'm sorry, as to what, as of what date?

Q. As of now, today.

A. Ahh...

Q. Could it be one?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Two?

A. I don't recall an exact number.

Q. Under three?

A. You could slice it and dice it, I don't remember an exact number.

Q. Give us the name, if you can, of one other police officer whose autopsy you have performed since you were Board certified?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 141.

THE COURT: What is your objection?

MS. FISK: It's not relevant, any autopsy of any other police officer that the doctor autopsied since he was Board certified is not relevant to these proceedings.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm trying to attempt to refresh the doctor's recollection. In this instance he performed an autopsy of a police officer. I'm trying to indicate to the doctor if it's possible that he's only done one of these in his entire career and therefore that might help him refresh his recollection.

THE COURT: I'm sure it must have been more than just one police officer. But don't you have the original thing he saw this morning? He said you gave him something and he reviewed it. Where is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Where is that?

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You were given a document this morning, were you not?

A. Yes.

Page 142.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. What did you do with that document?

A. I handed it to the Court Officer when I was told I could leave for lunch.

MR. WEINGLASS: May we have that document?

THE COURT: Does anybody have the document here?

MR. WEINGLASS: While that's being found.

THE COURT: Wait awhile.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: I will now hand you another document which -- could we mark it --

THE COURT: Let's mark it the same number. What is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: D-26.

THE COURT OFFICER: The next one is D-27.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. What was the one that was just handed to him, what is the number on that?

THE COURT OFFICER: D-26.

THE COURT: All right, put D-26 on this one and let's just make an exchange.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

Page 143.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: That should be very difficult for anybody to do.

(Copy of report was re-marked Defense Exhibit D-26 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-26.

THE COURT: Same as that other piece of paper? All right.

Look, please, let him give it to him, see if that is his document, then we could move along here. He got the document for you, let's just go ahead.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I've not had an opportunity to view it but the representation from Counsel is that that is identical to the document initially marked D-26.

THE COURT: Well, he is not using that one, so.

MS. FISK: Then I need to see that one.

THE COURT: Alright, let him first look at it and tell us if that is the one he looked at.

THE WITNESS: Yes, this is the document that I looked at this morning.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 144.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. Is the document --

THE COURT: Just a minute. Let the D.A. see it.

MS. FISK: Mr. Weinglass has assured me that that is identical to the document previously marked as D-26. I am satisfied with that.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would offer both.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, you said the document that you were shown this morning has your initials on it; is that right?

A. Yeah.

Q. You don't mean to imply that the original document had your initials on it, did you?

A. No, only the copy that you gave me.

Q. Oh. So as a matter of fact, you wrote your initials on it just this morning?

A. Yes, when you gave me the copy, right.

Q. Fine. So --

THE COURT: That's what he said, Counselor. He said that before.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, the record --

THE COURT: He said that before.

Page 145.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Because you gave him a copy that didn't have his signature on there and he was questioning whether that was the same one you gave him this morning. He now has said that's it. Now let's go ahead.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but, Your Honor, the fact of the matter is he put his signature on it this morning.

THE COURT: Right, so he would remember what he looked at.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, okay.

THE COURT: Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now that you have --

THE COURT: He wanted to make sure you didn't slip him a different one later on so he had his initials on there.

MR. WEINGLASS: I see.

THE COURT: Now he says that's it so let's go forward.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now having looked at the one that bears the signature you put on it this morning, does that refresh your recollection?

A. That I saw it this morning. Beyond that, no.

Page 146.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. Beyond that no?

A. Correct.

Q. So having looked at the transcript of your testimony on June 25th, and having looked at 11-26 now, which is an autopsy report which bears your signature, you have today no recollection?

A. That is correct, Counselor.

Q. Do you have any problems with your memory, Doctor?

A. Involving things that happened 13 years ago? Yes, I do.

Q. And in the 13 years since, how many autopsies of police officers have you performed?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I thought that was asked and answered.

MR. WEINGLASS: It wasn't answered, as a matter of fact. The witness indicated he couldn't answer it so I am asking it again.

THE COURT: He said he didn't know how many.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you do one?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: He has already answered that: He said he doesn't know how many.

Page 147.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I ask for the same privilege accorded Counsel this morning with a witness who is having difficulty recalling.

MS. FISK: Except I was cross-examining a witness and this is Mr. Weinglass' witness.

THE COURT: Yes, this is your witness. I mean you understand that. You are calling him as your witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have you done one examination of a police officer in the last 13 years other than the one that's indicated in this case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He has already answered that and said he doesn't know. I'm sure he must have done many, many autopsies. And I don't know that anybody could have a memory. Even I don't remember specifically every one that I've handled.

MR. WEINGLASS: Please, I would appreciate it if the Court would not offer testimony in the presence of a witness.

THE COURT: I am not offering

Page 148.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

testimony, Counselor: He has already answered the question.

MR. WEINGLASS: As a matter of fact, Your Honor, my question wasn't how many autopsies, it was how many autopsies of a police officer.

THE COURT: I know.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's a very particular question.

THE COURT: I know that but he said he doesn't know, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: But he didn't say he's done many.

THE COURT: I didn't say he did many either. He said he doesn't know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have you done one?

A. I'm done more than one.

Q. Have you done three?

A. I don't have an exact count.

Q. Give me the name of the one that you did other than this one?

A. I don't recall his name at this point.

Q. Did you have occasion since you have been subpoenaed to talk to any of the attorneys

Page 149.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct representing Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. Umm, yesterday and, yesterday and today.

Q. And did you discuss Mr. Jamal's case and the autopsy you performed in that case with that attorney?

A. I answered some questions that I was asked.

Q. And so yesterday you did recall the autopsy in this case?

A. No.

Q. You were answering questions without recalling; is that your testimony?

A. No.

Q. Well, on what basis did you answer questions?

A. That I had, that I had a copy of the transcript, or what purported to be the transcript. I also, umm, I'm not sure that I was answering them to the level of certainty that's required in Court.

Q. Are you saying, Dr. Hoyer, that talking to a lawyer in this case you were giving information that you're not even sure of?

A. That may be the case, yes.

Q. Do you do that as a matter of practice?

A. Ahh, where I occasionally give information

Page 150.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

that I'm not sure of but where I believe it to be accurate.

Q. Did you believe what you said to this lawyer yesterday was accurate?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Let me ask you this. In 1981, December of 1981, did the Medical Examiner's Office of the City of Philadelphia have X-ray equipment?

A. I believe so.

Q. And were X-rays used in the performance of autopsy examinations on occasion?

A. I believe so.

Q. Now referring you to D-26. If you will bear with me for just a minute. Do you find in your examination of D-26 today that there was an injury that the deceased officer sustained in the area of the head?

A. Yes.

Q. And in that report do you indicate whether or not you had recovered a bullet missile from the skull or the head portion of the officer?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you indicate whether or not there was a fragment which you recovered as well as the bullet missile?

Page 151.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: I object, Your Honor, to the use of the word fragment. The report refers to a separate piece of lead.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I will adopt that.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So you found, so the record is clear, you found a bullet specimen and a separate piece of lead?

A. Yes.

Q. And you measured that piece of lead, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was the measurement of that separate piece of lead?

A. 10 by 3 by 2 millimeters in greatest dimension.

Q. Was it your belief then as indicated in this report, that that separate piece of lead was related to the bullet?

A. Ahh, I don't know what my belief was then.

Q. Well --

A. I mean I have the report in front of me. I could hypothesize based on the report but I have no

Page 152.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

recollection.

Q. What's your hypothesis, Doctor?

A. That would be based on an expert opinion. I'm not here to offer an expert opinion.

Q. Well, you have no expert opinion or you're not here for that?

A. I haven't formed one on this, issue.

Q. You haven't formed one?

A. Not on this issue, no.

Q. Oh. Okay. Doctor, in the course of the autopsy you examined the brain area of the deceased; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you found a bullet in the brain area; is that right?

A. That's what is described in the report, yes.

Q. And you found a separate piece of lead also?

A. Yes, that's described in the report.

Q. Is it your testimony that you don't have an opinion as to whether that separate piece of lead was related to the bullet?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I believe the doctor has said he could only hypothesize with regard to it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 153.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. Within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Doctor, do you believe that that other piece of metal, lead, belonged to the bullet?

A. I'm not here as an expert, sir.

Q. Well, you're testifying on the basis of a report that you gave as an expert. Could you give us the benefit of your opinion?

A. I didn't express an opinion then. I'd have to review all the available materials to be able to express an opinion now.

Q. I see. And your review of the materials this morning -- by the way, how long were you in the witness room?

A. From ten, approximately ten o'clock this morning until noon.

Q. So you had two hours with this document, which is D-26?

A. I said all the materials in the case, sir.

Q. Yeah, Doctor, you keep glancing over at the table for the District Attorney. Would you mind just looking in this direction.

A. I try and pay attention to what goes on in the Courtroom, but I will direct my attention to you.

Q. What is going on is you are being questioned by myself. So you should look in this direction, please.

Page 154.

And in those two hours did you read D-26?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times did you read it?

A. Once.

Q. And in reading it once were you able to form any opinion as to whether or not that piece of metal, the lead that was taken from the brain, was related to the bullet missile?

A. Ahh, not, as I just said, I have not been given an opportunity to review all the materials in the case. And I would choose not to form opinions until I've reviewed all the available information.

Q. Right. What other information would you want to review, Doctor?

A. Photographs, the full file of the Medical Examiner's Office, any expert reports that are available.

Q. And you would review those materials if they were made available to you?

A. If, if I were required to do so I would.

Q. Okay. Where are these materials ordinarily kept?

A. Ahh, photographs are normally kept, filed in the record room of the Medical Examiner's Office. Expert reports could be in the Medical Examiner's files, it could be in other places, I couldn't specify --

Page 155.

Q. But when you complete an autopsy, you then turn the material, the written materials that you've generated over to a file in the Medical Examiner's Office?

A. Yes.

Q. And that file has a name on it, does it not?

A. Yes.

Q. It's the name of the deceased?

A. Yes, it does have that name.

Q. And if you had tape recorded during the course of your autopsy, that would be in there as well?

A. No.

Q. Why would that not be?

A. Because the recordings are, the tapes are routinely erased and reused.

Q. Well, are you saying, Doctor, that the Medical Examiner's Office erases the tape you made in the course of an autopsy?

A. Absolutely.

Q. That's as a matter of practice?

A. Yes.

Page 156.

Q. Are the X-rays saved as well if there were X-rays?

A. Ahh, X-rays have been saved in an irregular fashion and are not saved in an organized file.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. The last time I saw X-rays they were arranged in a giant heap.

Q. In a giant heap?

A. Yep. Exactly.

Q. You mean there's just a stack?

A. Yep.

Q. And they don't take the X-rays and put them in the file of the deceased?

A. No, they do not.

Q. Do you know -- strike that. If you find a bullet and what appears to be separate piece of lead with the bullet, is that an instance where you might X-ray, for instance, a brain in order to see if there are other fragments in the brain?

A. I'm sorry, are you asking about my practice now or my practice then?

Q. The practice in December of 1981.

A. Ahh, my vague recollection is that we did not.

Q. You would not X-ray?

A. That's correct.

Page 157.

Q. And why would that be?

A. Didn't have time, didn't have resources.

Q. Just a question of time and money; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. But --

A. Not -- I didn't say necessarily money, I said resources.

Q. Resources. But as a matter of medical practice, you would agree, would you not, Doctor, that if the resource were available, it would be best to X-ray a head where there is an indication of two fragments found in the head?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to what would be best and what would be perfect. It is all wonderful but that is not the question or the issues in this hearing.

THE COURT: Can you answer that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Do you want to answer what she's saying?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: No, answer what she said.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, it's our contention that the Medical Examiner's report in this case, which was turned over to the defense, was so incomplete and deficient that it amounted to a Brady violation and possibly evidence of prosecutorial misconduct. So I'm questioning the doctor on why what was acceptable medical practice was not followed in this case.

MS. FISK: And I object, Your Honor. The doctor has not testified that he did not do something which was proper or standard procedure. What he has testified to is the standard procedure in 1981 was not to take X-rays under these kinds of circumstances. Now, whether in a perfect world they would be done does not establish whether or not it was intentionally not done in this case. The doctor's already testified as to the standard practice in these kinds of procedures back at that period of time.

MR. WEINGLASS: He has testified that it was not done because of lack of resources, not because the Medical Examiners didn't think it was necessary or important, or that it was consistent with proper medical standards. But it was not done because there wasn't resources. And that fact has infected this entire case and that's what we are trying to show. That Mr. Jamal's attorneys were not given the information in 1981 and, two, that they were entitled to, because of lack of resources, because of determinations made by the Police Department, the District Attorney's Office and other experts.

Page 159.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

We now know that the Medical Examiner's report was deficient. We now know the Firearms report was deficient. We now know the polygraph information was hidden. And we know a number of other things. And this is part of it.

THE COURT: As I told you before, it was not admissible. It was not admissible, period. So you are going with a red herring here. I wouldn't have admitted it even if they had it. I wouldn't let the D.A. use it, I wouldn't let the defense use it. So to argue that is silly. You are beating a dead horse on that issue. I told you it was not admissible, period. The Court would not have admitted it even if they had it so why are we going into that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor admitted it

Page 160.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

in this hearing.

THE COURT: Well, because nobody objected to it. And it was admitted for a limited purpose. We don't have a jury here. I would not have admitted it at the time of the trial. That's the issue. That's the important issue. Not whether I heard about it now. It was admitted only for a limited purpose only.

MR. WEINGLASS: You only admitted one side we tried to put in.

THE COURT: No, I admitted it for both sides. It was admitted for a limited purpose only. Period. And it would not have been admissible at the time of the trial. So why are we going into that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, I will move on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In any event, your medical record, your Medical Examiner's report indicates only two pieces of metal that were found in the deceased's brain; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you will allow, will you not, Doctor, that there might have been others that were not picked up because the head was never X-rayed?

Page 161.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: That calls for speculation.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is an expert.

THE COURT: Yes, but even experts can't speculate.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In the course of your work, when you find two pieces of metal in the brain of an individual, do you, consistent with the standards of medical certainty and medical science, look to see if there are other fragments in the brain?

(Pause.)

A. I, at all times I attempt to do careful and though autopsies, which would include looking for bullets and bullet fragments, however many are present.

Q. And you would be assisted in that search, would you not, Doctor, if you had an X-ray?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It calls for speculation.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, that does not. If the doctor knows whether an X-ray will help him find a fragment.

THE COURT: I thought he said he didn't use one at that time. So what are we

Page 162.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

going through this for?

MR. WEINGLASS: He said he didn't do it to his knowledge.

THE COURT: So he didn't do it, period.

MR. WEINGLASS: But I don't know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor --

MR. WEINGLASS: Let me just follow up on the Court's question.

THE COURT: Not my question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you have a recollection now of whether or not you used an X-ray in this autopsy?

A. Not specifically, no.

Q. So you might have?

A. Anything is possible.

Q. But you might have?

THE COURT: That's what he said: Anything is possible, Counselor. Now we are really speculating.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, we are not talking about anything, Doctor, we are talking about you finding two pieces of metal in a deceased's brain, and do you think as a matter of practice you would have taken an X-ray to see if there were other pieces that could be located?

Page 163.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. At that time it would not have been my practice to X-ray this type of case.

Q. And that's because of resources?

A. In part.

Q. This type of case, you're talking about a police officer who was shot?

A. Counselor, every person that's shot is equally important. Every case requires the same level of care and thoroughness.

Q. And that level of care in your expert opinion requires that an X-ray be taken when fragments are found in the brain, does it not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge. I think we are going in circles. I believe that question has been answered, the doctor has answered it.

THE COURT: I think he has answered it, all right. That is the kind of argument that you give to the Court.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, Doctor, did you find indications of an exit wound on the deceased in the area of the neck?

A. There is an exit wound described in the autopsy report.

Page 164.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. Now, do you recall, Doctor, when you testified in this case you indicated that the report was in effect wrong because when you were on that stand testifying and looking at photographs you found a second exit wound? Do you recall that?

A. No.

Q. Has that ever happened to you since, that you have testified in a case where while on the stand testifying you noticed for the first time that there was a second exit wound that's not in your report?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to what has happened in any other case.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Testing his recollection. This is the only time --

THE COURT: You will have to save that, Counselor. I will have to sustain it, Counselor. I will have to sustain it. I am only interested in this case.

MR. BURNS: The question also assumes facts not in evidence. The witness did not testify that there was an exit wound separate from the one he testified to.

Page 165.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine, let's look at the transcript.

Could I have the transcript returned, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay I with respect to page 172: Do you remember being asked this question by Mr. McGill? Well, in your entire review of the report, and of your findings in reference to the post-mortem examination, did you find any other exit wounds around the neck area, and if so where.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Counsel, what is the page you are at?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. FISK: Thanks.

MR. BURNS: For the record, that's page 169.

THE COURT: 169. Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Answer: Okay I in reviewing the slides, the Kodachrome slides of this case, there is a second, smaller exit wound on the interior surface of the neck, a little above and a little closer to the midline from the major exit wound. And then there is an objection because that doesn't appear in your report.

Does that refresh your recollection, Doctor, that when you were on the stand you revealed for the first time a second exit wound that's not contained in your report?

MR. BURNS: Objection: That is not what the record says. The man was asked a question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In response to a question that you were asked, did you reveal for the first time a second exit wound?

MR. BURNS: Objection, Your Honor. The question wasn't answered.

THE COURT: He said there was an objection. Did I rule on the objection?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, there was an answer, Counsel's in error. In reviewing the slides, the Kodachrome slides of this case, there is a second, smaller exit wound. The witness testified to that fact.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 167.

Q. Now having been told that, Doctor, having that transcript read to you, did you in response to a question reveal a second, smaller exit wound that does not appear in your report?

A. That information appears in the transcript, I have no recollection of it.

Q. You have no recollection of it?

A. That is correct.

Q. Would you say, Dr. Hoyer, that it is somewhat irregular to testify about a second exit wound when a report of a Medical Examiner over your signature only indicates one exit wound in the neck?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to whether or not it is irregular.

THE COURT: I will sustain that. If you could somehow rephrase your question. You brought it out that that's what he testified to, fine. Okay. I don't know the relevancy, but.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. How many exit wounds are in your report, in the neck of the officer?

A. There's one, there is one exit wound described.

Q. One?

A. Yes.

Page 168.

Q. Do you recall now, having heard my re-reading of your testimony, that when you testified in this trial you reported a second, smaller exit wound?

A. I do not.

Q. You don't remember that?

A. That is correct.

Q. But if you did so testify, wouldn't it be irregular, Doctor, for your report to only report one exit wound and for your testimony to indicate there is a second?

MS. FISK: Objection to that question, as to whether or not it would be irregular.

THE COURT: Unless you could somehow rephrase your question I will have to sustain the objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, can you explain the discrepancy between what appears in your testimony and what appears in the Medical Examiner's report with respect to the number of exit wounds on the officer's neck?

A. On the basis of the record it appears as though there was a second, smaller exit wound that was not described in the report. I'm not sure why it wasn't described in the report but it is obviously not described in the report. It is a second, smaller exit wound that is visible in the photographs. And I mean that's what's there.

Q. Right. Now, would it be fair to say, Dr. Hoyer, that you have never before or since ever missed an exit wound on a deceased's body?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to what the doctor has done in other cases.

MR. WEINGLASS: It just goes to how irregular, unusual, inexplicable this is.

THE COURT: Counselor, maybe so, but I don't know the relevancy of it. Are you contesting that he died of something other than the one shot to the head?

MR. WEINGLASS: What I am contesting, Your Honor, is a very simple proposition. And that is that Mr. Jamal's attorneys were given a defective, deficient, incomplete medical report. And on top of that, they didn't even have a pathologist. And this is part of what skewed the first trial.

THE COURT: Well, your own pathologist that you brought in here said he died of that gunshot wound to the head.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

Page 170.

THE COURT: So what's the problem?

MR. WEINGLASS: Dr. Hayes said that this report of Dr. Hoyer was incomplete, in error.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WEINGLASS: And misled the defense.

THE COURT: But he didn't say that he died, that the officer died of anything other than the gunshot wound to the head.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm not now contesting that.

THE COURT: Well, that's the only issue here: What caused his death.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's not, with all due --

THE COURT: The fact that there are two exit wounds to the neck, superficial wounds there, what difference does it make? What difference does it make here?

MR. WEINGLASS: It makes this difference.

THE COURT: I mean he didn't die of anything else.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, an

autopsy, properly done, is a document which tells a story of what happened.

THE COURT: No, what caused the death, that's all it really tells us.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, it tells us the position of the parties at the time of the shooting.

THE COURT: Oh, yes, the position of the parties at the time of the shooting is really speculative. The examiner's not there. He could only tell us what the trajectory is and then you could assume different positions to accomplish that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: But what does that have to do with the officer? He's shot with a bullet between the eyes which is the cause of death in this case. What difference does it make if he had six other wounds to the body that didn't cause his death? That's what caused his death. He didn't die from pneumonia, he didn't die from exposure, he didn't die of poison. He died of the gunshot to the head between the eyes. That's what killed him. That's all.

MR. WEINGLASS: By the way, that's not what Dr. Hoyer found. The Court has a difference of opinion with the coroner.

THE COURT: No, I don't have a difference of opinion.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: I am saying that is the key issue here, that's all.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because that wasn't the coroner's opinion, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, I have --

MR. WEINGLASS: Maybe Your Honor hasn't read the report. But the coroner's opinion was not the Court's.

THE COURT: I was here for the trial, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I was here for the trial. And I don't know why you're bringing him in here about this issue. The proof of claim that you give me here is he will testify about what equipment was there, what is the normal practice, and whether he retained any bullet fragments from Officer Faulkner's head. Well, okay. That's what you said here (displaying). I don't know where else you are going.

Page 173.

MR. WEINGLASS: We'11 get right to the point that the Court just raised.

THE COURT: I wish you would. I wish you would get right to the point on all the issues.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Dr. Hoyer, did you make a finding as to cause of death?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What was your finding?

A. Gunshot wounds to face and back.

Q. To face and back?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it your expert opinion at that time that Officer Faulkner's injury to the back was a contributing cause of death?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that an opinion you stand by?

(Pause.)

A. I would say --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. This is beyond the offer for which the witness was called. This is also an area in which Dr. Hoyer was completely and fully cross-examined at time of trial.

Page 174.

MR. WEINGLASS: By a lawyer who didn't have a pathologist.

THE COURT: Well, you don't need a pathologist for that. When I practiced law, I defended a man in a murder case and I didn't have a pathologist. I was able to handle that very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I don't know when that was and I don't want to inquire.

THE COURT: Years ago.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court's age came up on the first day of the hearing.

THE COURT: A long time ago, Counselor. I didn't have a pathologist.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, but in this particular case you've heard from Dr. Hayes who indicated in his expert opinion Mr. Jamal needed the services of a pathologist.

THE COURT: No, he didn't, he said as to how Jamal was injured.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: That's what I remember him saying. The record will show that. He didn't need any pathologist to tell him how the officer died. Because your expert said without a doubt he died as a result of the gunshot wound right between the eyes.

MR. WEINGLASS: And our doctor said without a doubt Dr. Hoyer was in error when he said that the back wound was a contributing factor.

THE COURT: So even if he did, even if he did, the cause of death doesn't change. It's still the bullet wound to the head, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: But it goes to the completeness of the report and the misleading of the defense in this case.

THE COURT: There was no misleading. It was for the Jury to decide what caused his death. They heard it.

MR. WEINGLASS: They heard it inaccurately from Dr. Hoyer.

THE COURT: Well, whatever the notes of testimony from the first trial shows, that's what they heard.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you recall, Dr. Hoyer, being questioned about the cause of death in the first trial?

Page 176.

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you have any reason to believe today that your opinion given in December of 1981 that the wound to the back was a contributing cause of death was in fact in error?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the basis of the objection?

MS. FISK: The doctor has testified that he has no recollection of the testimony he gave. Under those circumstances I don't know how he could be asked to answer a question as to whether what he said was true or not. If he has no recollection as to it, I believe that we are left with the record from the trial.

THE COURT: That's what I said, the record of the first trial is what the issue is. Whatever he said then he said. The appellate court had that to review.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Based on your examination of D-26 this morning, do you have any reason to believe that the opinion you gave that the back wound was a contributing cause of death was in error?

A. I have no reason to believe it. But as I said, I have also not reviewed all the evidence in the case.

Page 177.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. Now, Doctor, do you recall, now having read D-26, whether or not you preserved both the bullet and the fragment that you recovered?

A. I have no recollection as to that issue.

Q. And reading D-26 does not refresh your recollection that you preserved the bullet and the fragment?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now directing your attention to... to page 3 of D-26, Internal Evidence of Injury And Therapy, do you see that portion?

A. Yes.

Q. And in describing the head injury you indicate that the hemorrhagic tract begins at the entrance of the gunshot wound of the face and the tract proceeds through the nasal sinuses and along the orbital surface of the left frontal lobe. Do you see that, Doctor?

A. Yes.

Q. Does that indicate to you, Doctor, that the bullet entered, went up through the nasal sinus and along the surface of the left frontal lobe; is that correct?

Page 178.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. I have -- no, figuring out exactly how these things look on a particular person you have to use the best evidence that's available. I have not been given that evidence to review.

Q. Right, but what do you mean -- just help me with this -- what do you mean when you say proceeds along the orbital surface of the left frontal lobe?

A. It means that it's the orbital surface of the brain, it is proceeding along the bottom of the orbital lobe. Sort of in here (indicating).

Q. Indicating slightly above the eyes?

A. Well... sort of.

Q. Does that, when you say the bullet proceeded along the orbital surface, does that mean the bullet penetrated the lobe or proceeded along the surface of the lobe?

(Pause.)

A. I believe that that means that it travels through the brain at that point.

Q. Through the brain?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you recall testifying to this effect in your testimony?

MR. WEINGLASS: Page 38, the left-hand margin.

Page 179.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The hemorrhagic tract begins at the entrance of the gunshot wound in the phase -- should be face -- received through the nasal sinuses, along the orbital surface of the left front lobe, it goes through the left bone of the face, enters the cranial cavity where the brain is and starts traveling along the surface of the brain.

Now, having heard that reading of your testimony, does that refresh your recollection that the bullet traveled on the surface of the brain as opposed to penetrating through the brain?

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, that the answer continues on the top of the next page where there is further description by the witness of the wound tract.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just answer this question and we will get to the rest of your testimony.

A. I have no recollection of the testimony.

Q. Do you know what you meant when you said that the bullet travels along the surface of the brain?

A. I don't know -- since I have no specific recollection of that time I can't specifically say what I meant, meant at that time. I believe what that means is that it makes sort of a gutter wound.

Page 180.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

Q. It makes sort of a what?

A. Gutter wound.

Q. A gut...?

THE COURT: Gutter wound.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I still don't hear the word.

THE WITNESS: Gutter: G-U-T-T-E-R.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. A gutter wound?

A. Yes.

Q. What is a gutter wound?

A. That makes, sort of like cuts a groove. Rather than drilling a hole, it's sort of like an ungrooved hole, it cuts a groove (indicating).

Q. You were indicating with your fingers but I'm not sure I understand you. Instead of penetrating directly, are you indicating the bullet does something else?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, insofar as this goes beyond the offer of proof, the issue as to cause of death was not raised with regard to the offer of proof for Dr. Hoyer.

THE COURT: I read what you said you hoped to prove by him and that isn't in there,

Page 181.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

so. I don't know where you are going.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, let me just try, I will try to make it clear.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, in your testimony and in your medical report -- I will deal with your medical report since you reviewed that... you've indicated... that the, that the wound to the head caused instantaneous disability and death.

MS. FISK: Where are you reading that?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you recall that?

THE COURT: What page is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, Your Honor, just one moment.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, without reference... without reference to the report, having read the report, Doctor, it's your opinion, is it not, that the wound caused instantaneous disability and death? To the head.

A. Is that, do you want my lay opinion or my expert opinion?

Q. Your expert opinion.

A. I'm not here as an expert. You told me that.

Q. Pardon?

Page 182.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. I'm not here to render an expert opinion. You told me that. Counselor, you told me that.

Q. Having read your report, you have no opinion as to whether or not this wound caused instantaneous disability and death?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge, that was not his answer.

THE COURT: Counselor, he said that you told him that he was not being called here as an expert.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Now, what are you asking him expert questions for? You told him he is not going to be here as an expert.

MR. WEINGLASS: At this point, Your Honor, the doctor did testify at the trial as an expert.

THE COURT: Whatever he said at the trial we already have that, it is on record, period.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: But he said when talking to you you said he was not being called here today as an expert. Now why are you trying to ask him questions about his expert opinion?

Page 183.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because he was qualified as an expert at the trial.

THE COURT: I know that but you told him he wasn't going to be called for that purpose.

MR. WEINGLASS: I never talked to him. I never talked to him.

THE COURT: Well, whoever talked to him. Somebody from your staff talked to him.

MR. WEINGLASS: That doesn't mean that we cannot now ask that he be qualified as an expert. He is here, he testified at trial as an expert.

THE COURT: I know that but then he had more material with him and he looked over more material.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm only asking him, having read D-26, does he have an expert opinion.

THE COURT: Well, what does D-26 say about that?

MR. WEINGLASS: That is his medical report.

THE COURT: What does it say about that?

Page 184.

MR. WEINGLASS: It describes the wound in detail.

THE COURT: Okay, what does it say?

MR. WEINGLASS: It describes the wound which we have just gone over as a bullet shot to the head and it describes where the bullet went in the body. And I'm asking him, having read his own description of the path of the bullet and the nature of the wound, in his expert opinion did that produce immediate death.

THE COURT: Does he say that in the report?

MR. WEINGLASS: He said it at trial under oath.

THE COURT: I know that. He is saying he doesn't remember what he said at trial, Counselor. But you are talking about the report now that you gave him to read.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Is there anything that you want that is in the report? Ask him about that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Having read the report I now ask him if that caused instantaneous death.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 185.

Q. Do you have an opinion on that, Doctor? Don't look at the prosecution's table, please. I'm asking you the questions. Did that cause instantaneous death?

A. Ahh, as a lay person I would say a bullet through the brain would kill, yeah.

Q. Pardon?

A. I haven't had an opportunity to review the full, all the records that are available. You know, preliminary reading would suggest that this is an immediately disabling and immediately lethal injury. That is an expert opinion.

Q. That's what the report suggests?

A. The report does not have that opinion in it. You've asked for an expert opinion.

Q. And that's your present expert opinion?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Discussion held off the record between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, looking at the front page of D-26, your report... toward the lower, left-hand corner of page 1 do you note under comments that this officer was shot... by or with a .44 caliber bullet by your finding?

A. I'm sorry, you are looking at the front page of the post mortem report or --

Q. Page 1 (displaying).

A. Of?

Q. D-26.

A. D-26, yes, I see the notation there.

Q. You noted that?

A. I see that notation there, yes.

Q. Is that your handwriting?

A. It looks like it but I would prefer to see the original document rather than a photograph.

Q. But it looks like your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. And that is your conclusion?

A. No.

Q. That's your opinion?

A. No.

Q. What is it, Doctor?

A. It's a notation that I made on a piece of paper that was normally, normally discarded.

Q. Right, and when you note anything in an official report of the Medical Examiner, you want that notation to be accurate, do you not?

Page 187.

A. Sir, this is a piece --

Q. Would you answer it yes or no, Doctor. Do you want your notations to be accurate?

A. Absolutely on those pieces of paper that I would expect to appear in the final work product. This is an intermediate work product. It may reflect -- I don't know why I wrote that particular thing on the report. It could have been based on something I saw, it could have been based on something I was told. I can't tell you why it's there.

Q. You mean someone told you that that was a .44 caliber bullet?

MS. FISK: That's not what he said, Judge.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you indicating that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge: That is not what he said.

THE COURT: What he said he has already said, period.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, is this a preliminary report: D-26?

A. No, D-26 is in evidence. The particular page you are talking about is the findings of the Medical Examiner. At that time those were initially handwritten and then were typed, and the typed report was the one, the typed findings sheet was the one that was supposed to go out. I don't know where the handwritten finding sheet came from. I am not going to tell you it wasn't the handwritten file sheet but I am telling you it is an intermediate work product.

Page 188.

Q. It is in your handwriting?

A. Partially.

Q. .44 caliber is in your handwriting?

A. As I already explained: It looks like my handwriting but I would like to see the original document.

Q. You wouldn't want to mislead anybody on the terms of an intermediate report would you, Doctor?

A. No, but -- as I explained to you, I don't know why I made that notation. It may have been written as a notation to myself. I can't tell you why it's there or what it means.

Q. You make independent notes, do you not, when you do an autopsy? You make handwritten notes, do you not, independent of this report?

A. I'm sorry, independent of which report?

Q. Independent of D-26 (displaying).

Page 189.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

A. At times I do.

Q. Yes. And those notes are thrown away and this report becomes the intermediary report, does it not?

A. I'm sorry, I'm confused.

Q. Doctor, on looking at D-26, it's in front of you.

A. I'm sorry, the first page of D-26?

Q. First page.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you fill out what's contained on the first page of D-26 that's in handwriting?

A. Partially.

Q. And what part didn't you fill out?

A. I did not fill out the part, the initials in the sort of middle towards the bottom. Initials in a circle.

Q. Just three letters: A-S-C?

A. Yes.

Q. Other than that you did the whole page?

A. Ahh, I'm not sure who did the check marks next to those initials.

Q. Okay. A-S-C and check marks. But you did, there is a box called comments, isn't there?

A. Yes.

Q. And in the box called comments, after you

Page 190.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Direct

finished this autopsy you made one comment, right?

A. No.

Q. Tell us what's in the box called comments?

A. It says S-H-O-T, space, C bar, 44 C-A-L, period.

Q. Right. That's all that's in the comment?

A. Yes.

Q. Shot, C, space, 44 caliber?

A. Yes.

Q. That's your only comment on the first page of the Medical Examiner's report?

A. It's my only comment on the findings sheet of the Medical Examiner.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Doctor.

THE COURT: Do you have any cross?

MS. FISK: Yes, thank you.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good afternoon, Dr. Hoyer.

A. Good afternoon, Counselor.

Q. Dr. Hoyer, in 1981 you were employed as a Medical Examiner, and that was the area of your training; is that correct?

Page 191.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Am I correct, sir, that you've never had training in the field of ballistics and firearms identification?

A. I never had formal training in that, that's correct.

Q. And am I correct that in 1981 you were by no means an expert in that field?

A. That is correct.

Q. Am I correct further, Doctor, that if you had thought that something was or was not a .44 caliber, that would not have been an opinion of an expert, that would have been, as you referred to it, a lay opinion, just a wild guess?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor, because the document speaks for itself. The doctor did not say .38 caliber, he didn't say .40. He didn't say .41.

MS. FISK: And Mr. Fassnacht when he was here called by the defense said that the description is that of a .38 caliber. So I, frankly, don't understand what Counsel's point is but he raised it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The document speaks for itself.

Page 192.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Cross

THE COURT: Not when he is not an expert in that field. Go ahead, Counselor.

MS. FISK: I had a question pending. Do you want me to repeat the question, Doctor?

THE WITNESS: Please.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Would I be correct that any statement by you as to the caliber of any projectile would merely be a lay guess and not that, not the valuation of an expert in the field of ballistics?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, am I correct, Doctor, that, and as you have stated, the notation that Counsel just asked you about with regard to 44 C-A-L is on an intermediary finding sheet of the Medical Examiner's Office?

A. Ahh, I believe I said an intermediary work product.

Q. Okay. Does that mean that it is not the final product which is reviewed by you before you sign it?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, the final work product is the post-mortem report which begins I believe on the third page of the document which has been marked in front of you;

Page 193.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Cross

is that correct?

A. No. That is a final work product. There is a, there is at that time a typed version of the findings sheet was created in homicide cases.

Q. And that typed -- no, I'm sorry.

A. It's not present in the D-26.

Q. I see. The post-mortem report, however, is also a final product?

A. Yes.

Q. Completed?

A. Yes, that is a final product.

Q. I see, and you are saying that there is also a final findings sheet which is typed?

A. Yes.

Q. I understand. And you don't see that in front of you?

A. That's correct.

Q. I understand. Now, Doctor, back in 1981 you have testified that though X-ray equipment was available at the Philadelphia Medical Examiner's Office, it would not be used in this kind of case, that is a case such as the manner in which Officer Faulkner was shot and killed; is that your testimony?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you have testified today that that was in

Page 194.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Cross

large part based on resources of time and other resources? Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, would it also be fair to say that the only time that X-rays or other kinds of means of looking inside the body would be used is when there was reason to believe that not all the projectile was being recovered? Or when the projectile could not even be found?

A. Yes.

Q. And does that even continue to be the standard today?

A. Ahh, I can't speak to the standard today in the Office because I'm not in the Office.

Q. Very well. Was that the standard back in 1981, however, that you only look if you can not find a projectile?

A. Yes.

Q. And was it a very small percentage of gunshot wound cases in which X-rays were being taken because it appeared in most cases that the projectile was being located?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on your reading of this report prepared by your which has been marked defense Exhibit 26, is

Page 195.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Cross

there anything in this report which leads you to believe that all the projectiles were not recovered from the head of Officer Faulkner?

A. Nothing.

Q. And it would have been your practice to look in the area of the wound tract; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So would that be yet another reason that an X-ray would not have been appropriate in this case: Because there didn't appear to be anything to look for?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, based upon your review of this post-mortem report, the final typewritten report, does it also appear to you that the injury caused by the gunshot wound to the officer's back was minimal in terms of leading to the cause of death of Officer Faulkner? Are you able to testify to that?

A. Based on my review of the autopsy report and my testimony at that time, I would say that it had a minimal contribution.

Q. And the primary cause of death based on your review of this report appears to have been from the gunshot wound to the face?

A. Yes.

Page 196.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Redirect

Q. Incidentally, Doctor, did...

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Incidentally, Doctor, based on the records that you have been provided today, does it appear that Officer Faulkner was afforded any medical treatment at the hospital after he received these gunshot wounds and before his remains were taken to the Office of the Medical Examiner?

A. Yes.

Q. And did that medical treatment include a tracheotomy, based on the records that you have in front of you?

A. Tracheostomy, yes.

Q. Yes, thank you, it did. And is that something that is done to the area of the neck of an individual?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 197.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Redirect

Q. Doctor, you wouldn't confuse a wound from a tracheostomy with an exit wound of a gun, would you, from a gunshot?

A. Ahh...

Q. Please don't look at Counsel's table, Doctor.

A. What setting?

Q. With respect to the last question. There was a tracheostomy performed on the deceased at the hospital. You don't mean to imply that that tracheostomy was what you later found to be a second exit wound?

A. No, I would not say that, no.

Q. Right. This autopsy that you performed, this wasn't your first autopsy, was it?

A. No, sir.

Q. You had done about 1,300 autopsies before; isn't that correct?

A. I don't recall an exact count, sir.

Q. But if you testified to 1,300 would you accept that? In June of 1982 you said you had done 1,300?

A. It's certainly possible.

Q. Right. Many of those were gunshots, were they not?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, my objection is that if Dr. Hoyer had done 1,300 in June of

Page 198.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Redirect

1982, that does not reflect what he had done in December of 1981. And it's not clear to me that Counsel is making that distinction in his questions.

THE COURT: Well, we are on redirect here and I am not quite sure I know where you are going.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. I am going to -- I will ask the doctor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You had done a number of autopsies involving gunshot wound by December of 1981, isn't that true, and participated in autopsies?

A. Yes.

Q. So by December of 1981 you knew the difference between a .38 caliber and a .44 caliber, didn't you?

A. I'm sorry, you are asking me as an expert?

Q. Yes, you knew the difference then?

A. Yes.

Q. And you wrote down .44 caliber; isn't that right?

A. Yes; as I explained, that does not necessarily represent my finding.

Q. That's what you wrote down?

A. That's correct. But often those notes were

Page 199.

Paul Hoyer, M.D. - Recross

written before I did the autopsy.

Q. And incidentally, when you testified before the Jury in June of '82, no one asked you anything about this notation of a . 44 caliber shot in your Medical Examiner's report did they?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the record will speak for itself.

MS. FISK: Precisely the basis of objection.

THE COURT: Anything more?

MS. FISK: Yes, I do have just one or two questions.

- - - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Dr. Hoyer, what method did you use to measure items and dimensions you gave in reports back in December of 1981?

A. I would have placed the item against a millimeter ruler and measured it visually.

Q. And, I'm sorry, did you just testify that the comments which appear on your intermediate sheet are oftentimes written by you before you perform the autopsy?

A. Yes.

Q. And that could have been based on other information you were receiving separate from the post-mortem examination itself?

A. Yes.

Q. And do I understand that you have, am I correct that you have no memory in this case as to when or based upon what you made that notation?

A. That is correct.

MS. FISK: I see. Thank you, sir.

- - - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just one last. If you measured the fragments you would preserve them, would you not, Doctor? Whatever you measured in terms of what was removed from the officer's brain was preserved by you, was it not?

A. Generally it would be, yes.

Q. Generally that would be the practice, would it not?

A. Yes, it would.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Thank you.

Page 201.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you have an independent recollection as to whether or not you did preserve both the head projectile and the separate, smaller l0-by-3-by-2 piece of lead, Doctor?

A. I do not.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

- - - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just last, as a matter of fact, with respect to your recollection and your indication that you might have gotten the information on the .44 caliber before you began the autopsy: That is shear speculation on your part today, is it not?

A. Yes, it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. Nothing else.

THE COURT: Anything else?

MS. FISK: No, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay, fine.

Page 202.

You are excused, Doctor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, Your Honor, there are a few additional --

THE COURT: Wait awhile. We have some more witnesses here. Which ones are we going to go for next? Are you calling anymore witnesses, Counselor?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Why not?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We thought Dr. Lambert would be allowed to testify.

THE COURT: No, I told you yesterday that he wasn't.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, Your Honor, the other witness who I believe was on our list is William Harmon, which brings me to the next point that I wanted to raise.

THE COURT: Yes, what's that?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: William Harmon is the inmate from Mercer. It is my understanding that he is being brought during the day today.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: To Philadelphia. I further understand from the Sheriff that he is going to arrive in the Philadelphia area quite late this evening. And he's going to be housed at the County facility rather than at Graterford.

THE COURT: County?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, that is my understanding, Your Honor, from the Sheriff. The request is this, Your Honor: We would like time prior to him appearing in the Courtroom to be able to talk with him.

THE COURT: You could go to the County --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is fine. That would mean, Your Honor, we would need more time, at least if not today --

THE COURT: Why don't you go there tonight.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I can't, I have already requested and tried to find out what time he would arrive. I have been told several times over that he is not going to be arriving until too late tonight to be able to visit.

THE COURT: No, that is not true. That is not true.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That was my information, Your Honor.

Page 204.

THE COURT: Do you know when he is going to arrive, any of the Deputy Sheriffs?

THE SHERIFF: We will find out.

THE COURT: Find out.

THE SHERIFF: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. And check to see if they could visit him tonight at the prison. If they need a Court order from me I will sign it. Okay?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, that was --

THE COURT: Well, see. Let's see. He'll check and find out.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Fine. Your Honor, the other matter is I want to renew the discovery request made by the Petitioner. I want to note that even this morning several items came out in the course of testimony that indicate the need for discovery. One thing is --

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't care if it came out or didn't come out. If it came out and nobody made an objection, I don't get involved.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We did object, Your Honor. We indicated that we wanted more information and to have a discussion in terms of the log that was maintained.

THE COURT: No, Counselor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: You said that we should wait until this afternoon.

THE COURT: Counselor, I said that you have no discovery under PCRA. If you have a case that says that you are entitled to it, I said to Xerox the case, give to it me and I will reconsider.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Those have been presented to the Court.

THE COURT: Well, I have not read any that said that you were entitled to discovery in a PCRA matter.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We requested, Your Honor, the logs of people who visited the Roundhouse, the Homicide logs as well. As well as information about Kenneth Freeman. As well as information about photo arrays and photo lineup identifications. All of those things were requested. There is testimony that indicates that all of those items exist. In fact, one of them is being used by the prosecution now. We are requesting discovery of those items.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am telling you unless you could show me a case that says that you are entitled to discovery in a PCRA matter, I am not granting it, period. The fact that they give you certain things or it comes out during the course of these proceedings is not up to me. I have ruled on it and that's it. You have an exception. You could take it up with the Supreme Court when you get there. And if they think that you are entitled to it, they'll send it back down to me with directions to give you that privilege.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right, Your Honor. I just want to refer you again to Mayberry V Petsock, 821, F 2nd, 179, it is a Third Circuit 1987 case. This was presented to Your Honor several weeks ago.

THE COURT: I know that, but we're dealing with a PCRA matter. That is strictly a State statute governed by State law. Now, give me a case from State law that indicates that you are entitled to discovery and you'll have it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor. That case does encompass all habeas corpus proceedings and proceedings here before this Court in this Circuit, the Third Circuit.

THE COURT: No, Counselor, it does not. PCRA is a specific State statute.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right, and, Your Honor, I want to refer you to the actual language of the PCRA statute.

THE COURT: I know about it, I read it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Which encompasses all issues and issues brought up in the Federal habeas corpus.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there is a last issue here. Petitioner requests that the caption on these proceedings be amended so that it indicates Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal. That is Mr. Jamal's legal name. He changed it by law, by application to the courts in 1970. He is not a/k/a Wesley Cook. And furthermore, I want to note that, I'm sure inadvertently, but nonetheless as a matter of fact, that the stenographer's notes of this proceedings have been indicating Commonwealth versus Wesley Cook. We would like the record to indicate and the Court to direct that the caption of this case is Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal.

THE COURT: Could you answer that? I don't know why the caption --

MR. BURNS: Because, Your Honor, I think that the case has already gone up to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. And the caption of the case in that Court is Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal a/k/a Wesley Cook. I don't know if the Court has the authority to change the caption of the case at this point.

THE COURT: Well, I wouldn't at this point. If everything has gone up there that way and it passed.

MR. BURNS: Of course Counsel could make an application to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Yes, maybe they will allow the change.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will just request to the stenographer that the Commonwealth make clear that it is Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal. So that we --

THE COURT: So that we keep the papers and the documents all the same way as they were originally and as they were when they came up to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and as they went to the United States Supreme Court. So that there is no confusion. Same caption. Supreme Court wants to change the caption, fine. But I'm not changing the caption.

All right. So then what we have for tomorrow then is William Harmon. And evidently two other witnesses. Cranshaw. Darlene Sampson. Is that where we stand?

MS. FISK: I understood, Your Honor, that Alma Cranshaw and Darlene Sampson were the subject of a stipulation.

THE COURT: Well, that's what I thought. I don't know. I didn't prepare this slip. Okay. So then what you are telling me: The only one we have for tomorrow then is William Harmon. Whatever it is, that's it then, right?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As of today, Your Honor.

THE COURT: As of today.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, we would ask to be notified before the end of business today if there is anything in addition. We found out about today's witnesses at five o'clock yesterday, despite a Court order advising them we would be notified at ten o'clock yesterday.

THE COURT: If they do that I just will not allow the witness to testify. We are not going to have this last minute deal. If we are going to call somebody, let the D.A. know in advance.

All right, since there is nothing further to do today, we'll adjourn until tomorrow morning.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court stands adjourned until 9:30 a.m.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I understand that Counsel has a request to put something on the record at sidebar if we may, please.

THE COURT: Well...

- - - - -

(Discussion held at sidebar on the record as follows:)

MR. WEINGLASS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yesterday afternoon Miss Fisk gave me a sealed envelope containing the name of a person who came forward to the District Attorney's Office indicating they had relevant information on the case. I have examined the letter and the letter contained the name and the address of the individual. And last night we went out to his home and he was not there. We are told that he is not available at the moment; but I went with an investigator who left his card and instructed people at the home to contact me as soon as they have heard from this individual.

I just wanted to make a record of it. I appreciate the District Attorney's Office coming forward immediately with an individual who came to their office and providing the information. And I just wanted to indicate for the record that we are following up on this information but we haven't had contact with this person yet.

MS. FISK: Could I borrow the letter for a minute?

Your Honor, just so the record is complete: The letter dated August 9th advises Counsel that a Mr. Michael Jones, whose address is given to Counsel as we received it from Mr. Jones, came to the District Attorney's Office yesterday. Also pursuant to our obligations established by the United States Supreme Court, we advised Counsel that Mr. Jones advised personnel at our office that he was a witness to the shooting of Officer Faulkner and that it was Mr. Jamal's brother who was the person who shot Officer Faulkner, when Officer Faulkner was shot. I also advised Counsel this morning this morning that after detectives, persons heard that information come from Mr. Jones, that Mr. Jones was advised that he would be wanted by the defense. He was provided with the address at the hotel where the attorneys -- I'm sorry -- where the detectives understood the defense attorneys were staying and was advised to go to that hotel immediately to speak to the defense attorneys.

So it was immediately after Mr. Jones left our office that we came back to Court and I provided that information to Counsel.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And we wouldn't have been there at that time, just so the record, I just want to make it clear.

MS. FISK: I didn't know where else to send them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Fine, but at that point we wouldn't have been there because we were in Court or lunch break.

MS. FISK: We assumed that this was a hotel and there was an individual we could leave a message with.

Page 6.

MR. WEINGLASS: For future reference: We do have people staffed at the Rudovsky office.

MS. FISK: We will send them there in the future.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we have this portion of the record sealed so it doesn't become public information? Is there any objection to that?

THE COURT: I don't know how anybody will know that, he is not typing it up yet. So unless somebody says something, it's there for what it's worth.

MR. BURNS: What is the point of sealing it?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I think giving this information to the public, number one, impedes our ability to contact this person. It impacts our ability to talk to other witnesses. It creates a rumor based on information that hasn't been obtained or evaluated. And I just think it's very detrimental to the defense as a whole. I just ask that it be sealed.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, I am certainly not going to tell anybody about it. I fulfilled my obligations under the law by notifying defense Counsel. I would assume, therefore, that if it becomes public knowledge it came from a source other than me. And sealing this record would not prevent any persons who already know this information from divulging information.

MR. BURNS: There are allegations that information has been hidden by the defense throughout this case. And I don't think it is appropriate to be sealing parts of the record.

MR. WEINGLASS: There already have been parts sealed.

MR. BURNS: Well, I think there is no point to sealing this part of the record.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know the necessity of sealing it. I am assuming nobody is going to talk about it. But you have put it on the record for what it's worth. I don't intend to talk to anybody. I don't talk to the news media anyway. But you people talk to the news media so you keep it quiet. I'm not going to say anything. All right?

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Do we have that witness...

Do we have William Harmon here?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we'll have to be... Mr. Harmon, William Harmon is indeed in the Courthouse today. He was made available to defense Counsel this morning. It's the first time I've met the gentleman. As the Court is aware, he did not testify in 1982. We are dealing with an individual who has written to his attorney on July 29th and his attorney made known to the prosecution and the defense Counsel his name, I believe on August 2nd or 3rd. And one of the defense Counsel, Rachel Wolkenstein, visited him on August 3rd, immediately thereafter. And I spoke to him for the first time this morning, just before Court.

He is a person who claims he was there at the time of the shooting. He claims he witnessed the shooting, both of Mr. Jamal and of Officer Faulkner. Understandably, his recollection is affected by the passage of time. He asked to see photographs of the scene so that his recollection could be refreshed. We had hoped that we would have photographs by this time. We had asked for photographs going back and when the Court was in adjournment an Tuesday, the day before yesterday, we understood that we would be hearing from inspector detective or lieutenant Walsh, and we did hear at five o'clock on Tuesday and then we were informed I believe yesterday that we wouldn't have crime scene photographs until early next week.

So I would ask that we be provided with the photographs so the witness may examine the photographs so that his recollection going back over 13 years could be refreshed by photos of the scene. I represent to the Court that the defense does not have photographs. I don't know what happened to the photographs that were taken by Mr. Peraneau and apparently given to Mr. Jackson. But in any event, I represent to the Court I have never seen them. And we do not have photographs to show this witness. There are photographs in existence. And we will have them I'm told on Monday or Tuesday.

So that I would ask first that the photographs be provided to the witness and shown to the witness prior to his testimony. I don't think that is an unreasonable request given the fact that this gentlemen is trying to recall an event that happened 13 years ago.

THE COURT: So is everyone else, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Everyone else has the same problem. Every witness that took that stand has the same problem. It's 13 years, 14 years.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, no, Your Honor, Dessie Hightower, for instance, testified in June of '82 and he drew diagrams and he was shown pictures. And it was all available to him then. And certainly he is in a much different position than this witness is.

THE COURT: Counselor, if it becomes necessary I will let him continue in that area. If it becomes necessary. But I think he should take the stand now and proceed to tell us what he can recollect as of this time, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may continue. Secondly, I want to make this point. The witness informs us that he has revealed what he saw to several people, including his daughter.

Page 11.

And he has given us the name and the address of several people. We have not been able to locate these people. We can not confirm whether or not he has told this to anyone previously. I ask for time so that we can locate the people and see whether or not his story can be confirmed.

THE COURT: Fine, you could call those people later on. If you could find them. In the meantime, let's put him on, let's find out what he has to tell us.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thirdly --

THE COURT: I have been waiting breathlessly to hear what he has to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, thirdly, I must say for the record any testimony given by this witness is utterly unevaluated by the defense. We have not had an opportunity to check his story. We have not had an opportunity to talk to confirming witnesses. He names other people who were there. We've not had an opportunity to show him photographs.

THE COURT: Well, are you saying you have no confidence in this witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am saying, Your Honor, I am --

Page 12.

THE COURT: Are you saying that he is going to lie when he gets on that stand?

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course not.

THE COURT: Well, then bring him in and let --

MR. WEINGLASS: I am saying that no lawyer, no lawyer can tell anything about any witness if he wasn't at the scene himself until he checks out the story. And we are talking about a death penalty case and the Court is very anxious to hear from a witness whose story has not been checked out. This is utterly and grossly unfair to Mr. Jamal. And this is what happened in '82, and it's happening again. Tony Jackson put witnesses on the stand who he never talked to. I am not about to repeat that same mistake a second time. This is why we're here today, because that error was made in '82. And the Court is forcing me to repeat the same error that Tony Jackson made under the pressure of the time restraints that this Court imposed on him.

THE COURT: No, I am not doing that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, you are.

THE COURT: I am letting him get on the stand and if it becomes necessary, you have to check it out or he says he has to take time or he has to see certain things, well, I will let him come back later on those issues after you have shown it to him. But let's hear what he has to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, this is not a Municipal Court proceeding with a traffic ticket.

THE COURT: I am not saying it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: I can't put a witness on whether he is truthful or not truthful until I know for myself whether what this witness is saying is truthful or not. I don't know now. I can't tell. The gentleman tells a story.

THE COURT: Well, let him tell us the story he told you.

MR. WEINGLASS: You can not --

THE COURT: That's all.

MR. WEINGLASS: You can not proceed that way.

THE COURT: Yes, you can.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am being put in a position of calling a witness whose story I can not vouch for. I am not permitted to do that.

THE COURT: You are stalling.

Page 14.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not permitted to do that.

THE COURT: Okay? if you are going to do that I am going to sequester him so nobody could talk to him. Nobody could talk to him. No one. All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: What is the purpose of that?

THE COURT: The purpose is so that he doesn't change his story. That's the purpose. I want to hear from him. I want to hear his own interpretation of what happened.

MR. WEINGLASS: 13 years ago, without looking at photographs. Without having Counsel had the opportunity to determine --

THE COURT: You called other witnesses without all of that information, so what is the difference?

MR. WEINGLASS: I hope I have not.

MS. FISK: Sharon Smith as far as I could tell never testified until yesterday and there was certainly no requests that she look at photographs before she took the witness stand. He certainly has.

MR. WEINGLASS: Her testimony was about a single event: What she saw when she looked out the window.

THE COURT: This is a single event of what he said he saw.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not that simple.

THE COURT: I am going to allow you to do that, bring your witness forward.

MR. WEINGLASS: If this Court forces me --

THE COURT: Yes, I am forcing you.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- to put a witness on the stand who I haven't evaluated, I want the record to reflect that I am being put in that position.

THE COURT: All right, let the record so show.

MS. FISK: Let this record also show that the Court has offered defense Counsel an opportunity to meet with the witness and also an additional preview but said that the witness would not be made available for further interviews until he then testifies, but that Counsel would have the opportunity to investigate the names and other information he obtained from that witness today.

Page 16.

The record should also reflect, Your Honor, that Miss Wolkenstein had the opportunity to spend I believe four hours with this witness in Mercer County Prison on August the 3rd. And in addition, Your Honor made special arrangements this morning to allow Counsel into the cell room at eight o'clock this morning. Counsel did not enter the Courtroom today until sometime after ten o'clock this morning. so I could only assume that they had access to him for another two hours this morning, in terms of preparing his testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: That assumption is utterly wrong. We were with Mr. Jamal for half the time. Counsel is making assumptions and putting it on the record.

THE COURT: Well, you asked permission to see him this morning. I made arrangements with the Sheriff so that you could see him. If you choose to spend your time with somebody else other than the witness you do so.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We have to consult with him. I also want to correct the record.

THE COURT: You had to consult with him. That's what Anthony Jackson had to do at the initial trial.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I want to make the additional point that I was not with Mr. Harmon for four hours. In fact, it was two-and-a-half hours, and it was interrupted at the very end with two guards banging on the door insisting that I leave without prior notice. That should be clear for the record. That interview was interrupted and I was given contrary instructions earlier that I would be able to be there until four o'clock. In fact, at three o'clock I had guards knocking on the door insisting they come in and pull Mr. Harmon out immediately. Let the record be clear.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Pennsylvania Department of Corrections visitor tracking system passed visitors inmate record reflects that Mr. Williams C. Harmon CK2563 on August 3rd, 1995 received Ms. Wolkenstein, Rachel Wolkenstein, an attorney, as a visitor at 11:37:47, is time in, and time out is reflected as 15:32.14.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Harmon was not produced until 12:30. The guards were knocking on the door at 3:15. Three o'clock from 3:15 was when I left there, after I was interrupted at the end by three guards. We are not talking about checkout times, we are talking about the times that one gets to actually see an inmate.

MS. FISK: And that was, obviously, part of the ongoing conspiracy being contrived by the police and the D.A.'s Office.

May I be advised as to whether Counsel is choosing to put Mr. Harmon on today or keep Mr. Harmon further sequestered so they could further investigate his story?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

THE COURT: Let the record show Counsel are conferring with the Defendant Mumia Abu-Jamal.

Has the Defendant made up his mind for you, Counselor?

MR. WEINGLASS: The choice, Your Honor -- and I object to those references by this Court.

THE COURT: Well, you are talking to him, aren't you?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am Counsel in this case.

Page 19.

THE COURT: I know.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I am making up my mind.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I object to this Court sequestering a witness and preventing us from further interviewing a witness who you are insisting we call. I want the witness --

THE COURT: I am not insisting you are calling him. I will call him. The Court will call him for you. Anybody could ask him any questions they want. I will call the witness for you, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: But it is our record and it is our claim. And we have a right to either put on testimony or not put on testimony.

THE COURT: I'm here seeking justice. The truth. And I will put him on. If you don't want to put him on I will put him on and anybody could ask him whatever they want to ask him.

MR. WEINGLASS: If you put him on in this state without him seeing the photographs, without our confirming his story, you are putting him on over our objections.

THE COURT: Okay, I will put him on over your objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we strenuously object to the Court putting on this witness. You are compromising a potential witness for the defense.

THE COURT: No, I am not.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, you are.

THE COURT: I just want to know what he remembers he saw, that's all.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: Is Counsel requesting a recess, Your Honor, so they could determine whether or not they wish to call Mr. Harmon today or at a later time after they have investigated this information?

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court made a ruling, the Court is calling the witness over our objection.

MS. FISK: No, I understood --

MR. WEINGLASS: We are not calling the witness. We are not calling an unprepared, unconfirmed --

THE COURT: All right, then.

Page 21.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- unevaluated witness.

MS. FISK: Do I understand, then, Your Honor, that Counsel is accepting the Court's proposal that the witness remain sequestered until such time as they have fully investigated his story and made a determination as to whether or not they wish to call him? If that is the case I have no objection to that. The witness can remain sequestered, unavailable to the defense; the defense can investigate whatever information they have. The Commonwealth has absolutely no information. We don't have a letter, we have nothing other than Miss Wolkenstein's two-sentence offer of proof. We have no objection waiting until Monday, Tuesday of next week. Counsel could talk to his daughter, his mother, his priest, and they can then be prepared to call the witness as their witness and we could go forward.

THE COURT: Well, I thought they gave us an offer of proof as to what he is going to say.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this is a three-point offer of proof signed by Miss

Page 22.

Wolkenstein. There is nothing under oath by this individual. And the offer of proof by Miss Wolkenstein is very general in nature. The Commonwealth also has not had access to the letter which Mr. Harmon allegedly wrote to his attorney other than we saw Mr. Weinglass standing at the bar of the Court at some point holding it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We read it into the record. It has been available since the beginning (handing).

MS. FISK: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: The District Attorney who was present at that time said a copy was handed to her at the same time I got my copy. But they didn't want it.

MS. FISK: And Miss Perkin's statement on --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The District Attorney's Office, either.

MS. FISK: That is correct, Miss Perkins' statement to the person who handed it to them was if you want this to go to the defense, you give it to them. She advised that she then handed it back to the individual and that individual walked away from her and the Commonwealth never had it in it's possession.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was offered to the Commonwealth and they rejected it.

THE COURT: They thought it was not proper to give to it them. Give it to you. That's what they told the individual to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object very strenuously to this witness being sequestered. That is a punitive act by this Court that is unprecedented in this proceeding. No one else has been sequestered. If this witness is sequestered you are interfering with the witness, you are interfering with the defense. You are not giving us an opportunity to show him the photographs. You are not giving us an opportunity --

THE COURT: Well, if he needs to look at the photographs later on we will permit that. You will be permitted to bring him in later on if this is a continuing thing.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is no way to treat a witness who is coming forward after 13 years. He should be shown the photographs before he testifies.

I do want to say one other thing, Your Honor. I did spend some time --

THE COURT: Well, the suggestion has been offered to me: Suppose you take the witness, the Sheriff takes the witness and takes him right to the scene. Not to look at any photographs, take him to the scene right now. He could look at the scene and then come back in here and testify.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What do you mean no? What do you mean no?

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course not.

THE COURT: Why?

MR. WEINGLASS: I will give you one small example, and it is a small example.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: This gentleman contends that his car was parked right near the scene.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I believe that car might be in a photograph. He also has to look at the photographs --

THE COURT: Counselor, that's

perfectly all right. He could say that.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we have to see the photographs to confirm it. Don't you see? We are being interfered with here.

THE COURT: No, no, no, no, no.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course.

THE COURT: No. He could testify that his car was parked there.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not the way the street looks now. There are photographs.

THE COURT: You mean if he looks at a photograph and his car is not there, he is not going to say that his car was there?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I'm not sure what the photographs show.

THE COURT: Well, that's what I am saying to you. What is the purpose? Is he going to say my car was there, and then if you show him a photograph that doesn't show his car there, he is going to say well, my car must have been over here, or my car wasn't there? Is that what you are telling me?

MR. WEINGLASS: Why is the Court speculating so negatively?

THE COURT: Well, because you are speculating. And I am giving you the opportunity to take him down there in the custody of the Sheriff and let him look at the scene and then come back in. That's better than the photographs.

Page 26.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, this is an utter shell game.

THE COURT: No, it is not a shell game.

MR. WEINGLASS: They have the photographs, they won't give them to us.

MS. FISK: That is not correct, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: We can't show them to a witness. The witness is being sequestered and punished. This is no way to run a proceeding. I say this respectfully.

THE COURT: Counselor, Counselor, I know you are saying it respectfully.

MS. FISK: With respect to the photographs, Your Honor, Counsel was told yesterday, and I believe before yesterday as well, that when those photographs were found by Your Honor's clerk on Monday afternoon they were given to Detective Walsh. Based on statement made by Counsel in the Courtroom on Monday, that they wanted copies of those photographs, Detective Walsh took those photographs directly to the police laboratory where they have the facility of making copies of photographs using the photographs. That process is ongoing. And are there are multiple photographs, I believe more than 30. Detective Walsh has been told that those photographs which are currently being copied will be completed on Monday. If those photographs are taken out of the chem lab, the process will stop and there will be further delay before copies of those photographs would be available for the defense. This is in fact the reason the photographs cannot be in the Courtroom, is because they were immediately taken to the necessary laboratory to be copied on Monday night. After they were finally discovered by Your Honor's clerk up in Room 788 where the defense had been told they were for the two weeks preceding the date Your Honor's clerk found them.

I would agree with Your Honor's assessment that the showing of photographs to permit a witness to conform his testimony to what is in fact the physical scene would not assist us in reaching whether or not this witnesses' testimony is the truth. I again have no objection to the Court's suggestion that the witness can remain sequestered to permit defense Counsel to further investigate his story. If they wish to do that, I have no problem with that. They can investigate other witnesses. They have had opportunity on the 3rd and an opportunity today to speak to him. According to Ms. Weinglass, they have received from the witness the names of other persons who they claim can support this witness' testimony. And if this witness remains in a sequestered state and additional persons are investigated and we come back on Monday, on that date, or on Tuesday, the photographs will have been duplicated, will be available to Counsel, and when the witness testifies they can be shown to the witness on the witness stand. I have no problem with any of those suggestions.

If Counsel doesn't want to do that, then they have the right to call that witness or not call that witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: We object strenuously to this witness being put in a sequestered state. Which will be perceived as punishment. It isolates him from us.

THE COURT: Not punishment. I just don't want anyone to get to him.

MR. WEINGLASS: But, Your Honor, as lawyers we have to talk to our witnesses.

THE COURT: I know that but you don't have to talk to him until you get the photographs.

MR. WEINGLASS: After we get the photographs we could meet with him and talk to him.

THE COURT: Do you have any objection to that?

MS. FISK: My understanding was he would be shown the photographs when he was brought in to testify.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, that is no way to hold a hearing. They would never put a witness on without showing the witness the documentary proofs or photographs. We are being asked to do that in death penalty litigation. This is unheard of.

THE COURT: I will tell you what. You better start digging up law on this subject, the both of you. I am not about to continue this matter. You told me you have a witness you were ready to bring today and all of a sudden you are not ready.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, given the surprise nature of this situation, we do not have the position prepared for the situation in which the defense was going to call a witness today and now says that they do not know whether they want to call him or do not know whether they are going to call him in the future based on whether or not they are going to be allowed to show him photographs or talk to his relatives. The Court is correct: We should have some time to find some law on this subject. And I would suggest that we recess for an hour or so so that we could do exactly that.

THE COURT: Well, it's eleven o'clock. Do you want to recess until one o'clock?

MR. BURNS: That's satisfactory, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Recess to one o'clock. Look up the law.

In the meantime, I don't want that witness to be near anybody else. Sheriff. You keep him isolated upstairs, please.

Page 31.

MR. WEINGLASS: Are we being denied the opportunity to talk to a witness?

THE COURT: Yes, because you can't talk to him now because you said you have to have the photos first. We don't have the photos so there is no necessity for you to talk to him now.

MR. BURNS: We are talking about two hours, Your Honor, in order for us to decide what we are going to do in the future. The defense has had several hours to speak to the witness already.

THE COURT: They had plenty of time to speak to him this morning. So you keep them separate, Sheriff.

THE SHERIFF: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Over our objection.

THE COURT: Of course, I know it is over your objection.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court is recessed until one o'clock.

- - - - -

(Court was reconvened at 1:15 p.m.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone. I have issued an order to get the films that are involved in this case.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: I count 33 photos. Is that right?

MS. FISK: That was the reference made, I believe, at trial, Your Honor. That was the number I remember hearing.

THE COURT: All right, we will bring the witness down and I will give him an opportunity to look at these before anybody talks to him.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, objection. We object to this process very strenuously. We do not believe that we have had an opportunity to go over these photographs with the witness. The witness is unprepared, the witness is uninvestigated, the witness is unevaluated.

Furthermore, the Court asked us to do research over the hour and I assume when the Court asks that the Court wants the product of the research. So I will give the Court the product of our research. The product of our research is contained - -

THE COURT: Well, just give it to me, let me read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court has already been given this days ago.

THE COURT: Give it to me again and I will read it again, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will give it to the Court again (handing). The case is --

THE COURT: Do you have any cases that you want to give me?

MS. FISK: No, sir. I'm sorry, on which issue, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Well, he said this issue.

MR. BURNS: For the enlightenment of Counsel for the Commonwealth, which case?

THE COURT: The Government of the Virgin Islands versus Paul Mills.

MR. WEINGLASS: Third Circuit Court of Appeals. The same Federal Circuit that governs this Court.

MS. FISK: It doesn't govern this Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, believe it or not, the Federal Circuit Court of appeals do govern this Court.

Page 34.

THE COURT: Not as far as State law is concerned.

MR. BURNS: I can refer to the relevant parts or I could simply hand them to you, if you wish. They have to do with the Court's authority to deny a continuance in order for defense Counsel to interview a witness.

THE COURT: Okay. I will look at it. Do you want to underline it or anything or pinpoint whatever you want me to review.

MR. BURNS: I will hand it up, if that is the Court's preference.

THE COURT: All right, I will take a short recess while I look them over.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court will take a short recess until the call of the Crier.

(Brief recess.)

THE COURT: The defense's case, The Government of the Virgin Islands versus Mills is not on point with the issue that we have here. There the judge didn't allow a witness to testify. It's not that I am not allowing a witness to testify, I'm encouraging him to testify. He has indicated to the Court that he has knowledge about this case and the Court wishes to hear what he has to say about it.

The cases that the Commonwealth had given me to read talk about whether or not the Court has a right not to allow a continuance, and that is on point here.

Will you give this back.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just wanted to put on the record the fact that during this 15 or 20 minute recess, at the start of it I asked the Court personnel to request of the Court that we be permitted to examine the 33 photographs which we've never seen and which were marked as Court Exhibits in the trial below, and the Court sent word back that Counsel was denied the right to look at the photographs.

THE COURT: Well. I want to be here when you are looking at them, if you don't mind.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I said I want to be here when you look at them, if you don't mind.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. May we look at them now? I don't know why the Court insists on it's presence if we look at them.

THE COURT: I want to be here and you don't mind if I am here, do you?

MR. WEINGLASS: I take it as an affront.

THE COURT: Well, take it any way you want. I want to be here while you are looking at them, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is, I think, the question of the Court's bias.

THE COURT: I am, sure, real biased. That's why I want to be here.

MR. WEINGLASS: I take it as a personal affront.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: (Handing).

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Having seen the photographs of the crime scene and just the photographs of the crime scene, I'm asking the Court that I be granted the opportunity to review those photographs with the witness for the purpose of refreshing the witness' recollection and preparing him for testimony.

Page 37.

THE COURT: I am going to give him all the time in the world he needs when he comes down here to review these photos before anyone asks him any questions, any questions at all. If he needs to refer to these photographs to help him out in any way, he has a perfect right to do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the Court is compelling this witness to testify without reviewing the photographs or reviewing them with Counsel.

THE COURT: No, he will review them.

MR. WEINGLASS: Then I protest this witness being brought here to this Courtroom to testify under these circumstances.

THE COURT: Counsel, if you don't want to call him that's fine, I will call him as my witness and anybody could cross-examine him. He says he knows something about this case. I want to know what he knows about the case. May I have my photos back, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: (Handing).

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: I did want to state one other thing which I omitted -- I'm sorry -- this morning. The witness informed me that he arrived here last night at approximately 9:00 p.m. He was told that there were no cells available. And he was given a wooden bench to sleep on. He indicated to me that he had difficulty sleeping or he couldn't sleep. And that he, he has some feeling today of sleep deprivation and is tired. And I wanted to make that statement on the record as well.

THE COURT: The Court will take that under consideration when he testifies.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: All right, I count 33. Is that correct? Okay.

All right, bring the witness down.

MR. WEINGLASS: The record should indicate that the Court counted the photographs twice after it was handed back by defense Counsel.

THE COURT: Right, I wanted to make sure there wasn't any mistake because when I hand them to him I want to tell him he has 33 photographs to look at. I just wanted to make sure I was correct, I didn't want to mislead the witness.

Page 39.

Would you bring him down, please.

Bring him down.

(Pause.)

William Harmon, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

THE COURT: Mr. Harmon, before anyone asks you any questions: I am going to hand you 33 photos that were taken at the scene to help you recollect what you may remember of this happening. And during the course of any cross-examination, or by anyone, if you need to refer to them, feel free to do so, okay. But look at them now.

(Long pause.)

THE COURT: Mr. Harmon, if you feel any of them are important just put them aside for your benefit. If you think any of them are important to you, just put it aside for yourself. But go through all of them.

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: (Indicating)

THE COURT: Hold onto them. How many have you put aside that you think will help you in this case? Count them.

THE WITNESS: 16.

THE COURT: 16. All right, will you put them over on the side there for you. And will you take a second look at those others to make sure, you might decide you want to look at one of those. Take a second look.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Is it still 16?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: All right, let me have those other ones here.

THE WITNESS: (Handing.)

THE COURT: Look, I will keep them right here. Right here. Those that you need are right over there (indicating). Now, if perchance you have to go to these again, you can. Understand?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, let the record show that the witness took 14 minutes to look at the photographs.

THE COURT: Because I asked him to a

second time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: And I had him look at all of them a second time. So that is seven minutes for each.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, it wasn't broken down that way exactly.

THE COURT: Yes, he looked through all of them including the ones he had initially selected. I am watching him, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: But we are watching the clock also.

THE COURT: You watched the clock, I'm watching the witness. He looked through the photos, all 33 photos, two times, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Also at this point, these are photos that were introduced into evidence. I would like to ask if the District Attorney's Office has in it's possession other photographs that were not produced into evidence at the trial below?

THE COURT: Well, I don't know about that, Counselor. This is not the time for any discovery. You said you wanted to look at those photos and I have gotten them for you.

Page 42.

MR. WEINGLASS: Those are the only available, but now I would like to ask if the District Attorney has other photographs. The District Attorney's staff is here, they could find those photographs. And it would assist this witness.

THE COURT: Well, if he needs any further photos he'll let us know.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, could we have a representation on the record whether they have other photographs?

THE COURT: Counselor, I had denied discovery in this matter. I have bent over backward for you. I've gotten the photos that were introduced as evidence in the case. We are not here to retry that case at this time.

MR. WEINGLASS: But we are here to attempt to assist the witness to look at all the photographs of the scene of 13 years ago. And the District Attorney's Office might have other photographs.

THE COURT: If he wants to visit the scene, we'll take him, I will have the Sheriffs take him down to 13th and Locust and he could look at the scene.

Page 43.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is 13 years later, there are photographs of 1981.

THE COURT: It is not my fault that it's 13 years later, Counselor. I can't help that.

MR. WEINGLASS: But there are photographs from 1981 which the District Attorney's Office has --

THE COURT: There are photographs that you people took and you people don't even know where they are.

MR. WEINGLASS: I represented I don't have them.

THE COURT: You don't have them. Well, I don't have them either.

MR. WEINGLASS: But they do.

THE COURT: How do you know they do?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because they are sitting quietly and not responding.

THE COURT: I don't know that they have to respond to you.

MS. FISK: We are sitting quietly, Your Honor, because the Court has ruled on multiple occasions over the past few weeks with regard to the discovery requests. We sit quietly after the Judge gives a ruling. We don't keep fighting.

MR. WEINGLASS: I take that as an admission that they have photographs.

MS. FISK: Take it however you want, Counselor. I am responding to the Judge's ruling.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is grossly unfair to the witness who asked for photographs.

THE COURT: Let's see if he needs anymore. He selected 16 of them. That ought to be enough to help him to tell us what happened. If he could remember.

MR. WEINGLASS: There are more and the witness asked me for photographs.

THE COURT: Counselor, do you want to ask him any questions? Let's proceed.

MR. WEINGLASS: Under the terms already stated.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will question the witness.

MS. FISK: I don't believe the witness has been sworn.

THE COURT: I thought he was sworn.

Page 45.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was.

MS. FISK: My fault.

THE COURT: He was sworn, wasn't he?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, sir, he's been sworn.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, when did we first meet?

A. This morning.

Q. And when did you arrive here in Philadelphia?

A. Last night.

Q. And where do you ordinarily reside?

A. Ahh, while I'm incarcerated?

THE COURT: He means out in -- where did you come from, Mercer County?

THE WITNESS: Oh, Mercer County, Pennsylvania.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you in custody now?

A. Yes.

Q. And you are serving a prison term?

A. Yes.

Q. And you came here last night?

A. Yes.

Q. By what means?

Page 46.

A. Ahh, Sheriffs.

Q. And do you recall approximately when you arrived last night?

A. Around 8:30.

Q. And did you, were you given a bed and a cell?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. You were not?

A. No.

Q. Did you sleep last night?

A. On the floor.

Q. On the floor?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Do you feel that you've had enough rest from last night?

A. No.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I request that the witness be given an opportunity to have a night's sleep and testify when he's rested.

THE COURT: Did you have any sleep up in the cell room?

THE WITNESS: About an hour.

THE COURT: An hour, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: May the witness be given an opportunity of rest so that he could testify about an event 13 years ago in a rested-up state?

Page 47.

William Harmon

THE COURT: I don't think he needs any further continuance.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, what is your age?

A. 52.

Q. And how long have you been in prison?

A. 16 months.

Q. 16 months?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. And how much longer do you have to serve?

A. 18 months.

Q. And prior to this term that you're serving, when was the last time that you were in prison?

A. '69.

Q. Approximately 25 years before?

A. Yes.

Q. So for 25 years, between '69 and about 1993 or '4, you were not incarcerated or in prison; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You understand that you're testifying here today as a Court's witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Mr. Harmon, do you understand how it is

Page 48.

William Harmon

that you're brought to Court today to testify, how that process that brought you here began?

A. Yes.

Q. How did it begin?

A. I wrote a letter to my lawyer, Mr. Joseph Capone. And I told him since there wasn't anything else he could do for me in my case, there was something that I could do for him. And would he do -- was it -- could he do something for me. And that was would he contact Mr. Jamal's lawyers for me. Because I, I didn't know anything about it. And to let them know that I knew about what happened that night in '81.

THE COURT OFFICER: Excuse me, sir.

THE COURT: Speak into that microphone.

MR. WEINGLASS: May this be marked next?

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, D-27.

(Copy of letter was marked Defense Exhibit D-27 for identification.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, I am handing you a document that has been marked D-27. And I'll ask you if you recognize that as a copy of the letter that you wrote

Page 49.

William Harmon

your lawyer on July 29th, 1995 (handing)?

THE COURT OFFICER: D-27 (handing).

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You recognize your signature on that letter?

A. Yes.

Q. And you wrote him that letter from prison, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Prior to writing that letter, had you talked to any attorneys for Mr. Jamal?

A. Prior to writing this letter?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did anyone ask you to write that letter?

A. No.

Q. Now, after you wrote that letter, were you visited by an attorney for Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that last Thursday, August 3rd?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recognize Rachel Wolkenstein (indicating)?

A. Yes.

Page 50.

William Harmon

Q. Seated here at the table? About how much time did you have with Miss Wolkenstein when she visited you?

A. About two-and-a-half hours.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

THE COURT OFFICER: Next number is 28. That letter was 27.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have this document marked D-28.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-28, sir.

(Affidavit was marked Defense Exhibit D-28 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object. This Court specifically asked -- and I haven't read this yet -- but this Court specifically asked Counsel last week if they had or could provide an affidavit from this witness. And instead of an affidavit from this witness being provided to the Court, we were advised that because the witness was out near Pittsburgh, Counsel were unable to obtain an affidavit from the witness and instead Miss Wolkenstein simply provided to the Court a three-line statement giving a summary of the information that Mr. Harmon was going to testify to.

Page 51.

William Harmon

We are now being handed a document with the caption in this case, which appears to be an affidavit of this witness dated August the 3rd, 1995. Which suggests that perhaps there was a misrepresentation made to the Court about the inability of Counsel to present an affidavit. And none has ever been presented to the Commonwealth, and certainly to the Court, prior to it being shown to me after being marked.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will correct that right now in question and answer.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. Wait awhile. Do you need time to look that over?

MS. FISK: Pardon?

THE COURT: Do you need time to look it over?

MS. FISK: Yes.

THE COURT: Take all the time you need to look it over.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, could I have an opportunity to be provided with a copy on direct

Page 52.

William Harmon

examination?

THE COURT: You don't have a copy yet?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, this is the Court exhibit which has been marked.

THE COURT: Give her a copy.

THE COURT OFFICER: Show it to the witness, sir?

D-28 (handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record reflect that the District Attorney has been given a copy of D-28.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, before you turn your attention to that document. Have you had anything to eat today?

A. A sandwich.

Q. A sandwich? And it's now after two o'clock, that's all you've had this morning?

MS. FISK: Frankly, Your Honor, that's more than I've had this morning. Could we please go forward.

THE COURT: Counselor, are we here to find out what his menu was for today or are we here to find out what he knows about this case.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, you appear to be tired. Are you

Page 53.

William Harmon

exhausted or tired or hungry?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: You didn't ask me if I was tired.

THE WITNESS: Cold.

THE COURT: You didn't ask me if I was tired. Come on. I'm tired too, but let's go. Let the record show we turned off the air conditioner for the witness: He was cold. Now let's go.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now directing your attention to D-28. A three page document. Have you seen that document before?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you first see that document?

A. When I signed it.

Q. Which was August 3rd?

A. Yes.

Q. Last Thursday?

A. Yes.

Q. And let me ask you this: Is there a notary public out at the Mercer Prison facility?

A. Yes.

Q. Was a notary public available on August 3rd?

A. No.

Page 54.

William Harmon

Q. Did you attempt to get a notary?

A. Yes.

Q. And one was not available?

A. Right.

Q. So you signed an un-notarized statement?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now directing your attention back to December of 1981: Did you know who Mumia Abu-Jamal was in December of 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you know who he was?

A. From the radio station and from a friend of mine that I used to work for. I used to work for Sonny Hopson. And he was a friend of Mumia's. And I met him through Sonny.

Q. Did you ever go to Mr. Jamal's house?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever come to your house?

A. No.

Q. Did the two of you ever go spend an evening together anywhere?

A. No.

Q. So you just knew who he was?

Page 55.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. And you could recognize him by sight?

A. Yes.

Q. Now directing your attention to December the 9th, 1981, at approximately three in the morning, or thereafter, 3:30: Do you recall where you were at about 3:30 in the morning on December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And where were you?

A. In a restaurant at 13th Street right off of Locust, between Locust and Walnut.

Q. So the restaurant is situated on 13th between Locust and Walnut?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this like a small alleyway?

A. Yes.

Q. On 13th between Locust and Walnut?

A. Yes.

Q. And where is the restaurant with respect to that alleyway?

A. Right next door.

Q. Right on the alleyway?

A. Yes.

Q. And is it on the west side of the street or the east side of 13th?

Page 56.

William Harmon

A. Hmm...

Q. Well, let me ask it this way. If you're standing on the corner of Locust and 13th and you look up 13th, would it be on your left-hand side or your right-hand side?

A. My left-hand side.

Q. Your left-hand side.

MS. FISK: I am not sure what looking up 13th means. Unless you are talking about looking north.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Looking north, okay. 13th is a one-way street that goes north?

A. Going north, yeah.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, the response was it was on your left-hand side?

THE WITNESS: Left-hand, yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And were you alone in that restaurant?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. Who if anyone was with you?

A. Ahh, at the time I had my girlfriend, Tina Santiago.

Q. Tina Santiago. Did you give Tina Santiago's

Page 57.

William Harmon

name to Miss Wolkenstein when she interviewed you?

A. Yes.

Q. Have we indicated to you whether or not we have been able to locate her?

A. Ahh, you told me that you got Tina Harmon. She's using my last name.

Q. Have we indicated whether or not we have been able to talk to her yet?

A. No.

Q. Now, you were with Tina?

A. Santiago.

Q. Santiago. And were the two of you eating?

A. Yes.

Q. And did there come a time when you left Tina Santiago?

A. Yes.

Q. And why did you leave her?

A. I seen Mumia standing out front the restaurant.

Q. And what did you do after you saw Mumia standing in front of the restaurant?

A. I got up my seat, out of my seat, excused myself. And told her, I said there go Mumia, I'm going to go out there and holler at him.

Q. Did you go out and meet with Mumia?

Page 58.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him?

A. Ahh, for about two or three minutes, maybe.

Q. Now, in that conversation, did he indicate to you why he was there?

A. No, he didn't. He said he was, I asked him what he was doing down here, because it was funny seeing him down here, you know. Big, you know, personality like that, you know, down 13th Street. So he says, he says he's coming down here to meet his friend, a friend of his brother or something. So I said okay.

Q. Did he say whether it was his brother or a friend?

A. A friend, yeah, I think he said a friend.

Q. Do you recall if you indicated to us this morning that he said that he was going to meet his brother?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Well, do you know whether he said he was going to meet his brother or not?

A. Uhh, I really I -- I can't recall. But... as I'm thinking, I think he said his brother.

Q. Now, how did you arrive to the restaurant that night, if you could recall?

Page 59.

William Harmon

A. In my car.

Q. And what kind of a car was it?

A. I got a '64 -- well, I had a '64 Electra 225, four-door, dark blue.

Q. Did you park it --

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I missed the last part of that answer. '64 Electra 225?

THE WITNESS: 225, four-door.

MS. FISK: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And blue?

A. Dark blue.

Q. Dark blue. And was the car with you that night?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Did you park it that night?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you park it?

A. I parked it in between the restaurant and... and the, the club next to the restaurant, I think it was Johnny Cadillac or --

Q. Could it be called Whispers?

A. It's in between Whispers and the restaurant.

Q. Between Whispers and the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Page 60.

William Harmon

Q. And again, as you stand on the intersection of Locust and 13th looking north, would it be on the left-hand side of the street or the right-hand side?

A. On the left-hand side.

Q. On the left-hand side. So your car would be parked on the left-hand side facing north on 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Between Whispers and the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, while you were talking to Mr. Jamal, did you hear anything unusual?

A. Well, not for that, ahh, area was it unusual, but I did hear a loud talking.

Q. Loud talking?

A. Yeah, loud voices.

Q. Did it sound like an argument?

A. Yes.

Q. It sounded like an argument?

A. Yes.

Q. And from which direction did that come?

A. Ahh, it was coming from Locust Street, at 13th.

Q. Near the intersection?

A. Yes.

Page 61.

William Harmon

Q. And when you heard that loud argument, what if anything did you see Mr. Jamal do?

A. He, ahh, he immediately stopped talking to me and started walking towards the parking lot. He walked across the street, walked towards the parking lot.

Q. Did he walk through the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. So he crossed 13th?

A. Yes.

Q. And walked through the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you do at that time?

A. I followed him, you know, to a few steps behind him.

Q. Did you cross 13th?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you walk through the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. And did anything happen while you saw him walking through the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. What happened?

A. I heard a shot. And --

Q. Was that one shot?

Page 62.

William Harmon

A. One shot.

Q. Was it a gunshot?

A. Yes. I think it was a gunshot, you know.

Q. And at that time where was Mr. Jamal?

A. He was still in the parking lot, on the way across the street.

Q. Ah-huh. And after you heard that shot, what did you see Mr. Jamal do?

A. Continued to walk across the street. I mean through the lot, through the lot, across 13th -- across Locust Street.

Q. Across Locust?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he walk to the other side of Locust Street?

A. Yes.

Q. The south side?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you walk to the south side of Locust Street?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Where did you position yourself?

A. I stopped in, in little -- I was in the parking lot but it's two entrances to the parking lot, one that comes out on 13th Street and one goes

Page 63.

William Harmon

in on Locust. And I was in between the two entrances.

Q. Right. And, Mr. Harmon, why didn't you go further on?

A. Because I seen -- I seen -- I seen -- I heard a shot. I looked over at the, the... at the place where I heard the shot at. And I seen the officer fall. I seen Mumia walking towards the officer. Then I heard another shot. And then I seen Mumia fall. So I stopped right there.

Q. Now, at the time you heard the first shot --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- where was Mr. Jamal?

A. He hadn't gotten across -- he hadn't got out of the lot yet.

Q. Right, and at the time you heard the second shot where was Mr. Jamal?

A. He was almost across the Street, on the south side.

Q. And when you heard the second shot what did you see happen to Mr. Jamal?

A. I seen him fall.

Q. Now, prior to hearing the second shot, did you see where the officer was?

A. He was laying against the wall with a gun,

Page 64.

William Harmon

with his gun out.

Q. He was laying?

A. With his back against the wall.

Q. Was he down on the pavement?

A. Yes.

Q. And his gun was out?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after -- and his gun was out when you saw Mr. Jamal walk towards him?

A. Yes.

Q. After you heard that first shot that you told us about, did you see anyone leave the area?

A. I seen somebody leave down 12th Street -- down Locust Street running towards 12th Street. I don't know who it was. And...

Q. Right, was this person on the south side of the street?

A. The person was next, talking to the cop, I believe.

Q. And you saw him run on the south side?

A. Yes.

Q. Of the street?

A. After the shot.

Q. Towards 12th Street?

A. Yes.

Page 65.

William Harmon

Q. That would be running east?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how far Mr. Jamal was from the police officer at the time you heard the second shot?

A. It may be about 10 feet.

Q. Pardon?

A. About 10 feet.

Q. Okay. But you were back in the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal front or back as he approached the officer?

A. I seen his back.

Q. His back?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. And did you see the officer's front or back as Mr. Jamal was approaching?

A. Well, I couldn't see the officer because Mr. Jamal was in front of him.

Q. Right. But just prior to your losing vision of the officer?

A. Yeah.

Q. You say you saw the officer down on the pavement?

A. Yes.

Q. The sidewalk?

Page 66.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. With his back against the wall?

A. Yes.

Q. And his gun was out?

A. Yes.

Q. And after you heard that second shot once again what did you see Mr. Jamal do?

A. Fall.

Q. Fall. Did you see any movement of his hands?

A. No. He grabbed his hands and put them to his chest (indicating) like, you know, like any ordinary person would do when they've been hit.

Q. And then he fell?

A. He fell.

Q. Having seen the photographs now, do they help refresh your recollection?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask me this morning if you could look at photographs?

A. No.

Q. You don't recall saying that to me?

A. Could I look at the photographs?

Q. Of the scene.

A. Oh, yes, I did, yes, I did.

Q. Now, let me ask you a few questions about Mr.

Page 67.

Jamal's brother Billy.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you know Billy in December of 1981?

A. Ahh, yeah, I knew him. From seeing -- he had a vending, he had a vending station I think. At 16th Street. And I used, when I got off the El I used to see him.

Q. Okay.

A. But I didn't know him personally.

Q. You didn't know him personally?

A. No.

Q. Did you see him that night?

A. I don't think I did.

Q. Do you know the young woman named Cynthia White?

A. Do I know her?

Q. Did you know her then?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you know her?

A. Well, my woman was a prostitute.

Q. She was a prostitute.

A. And that's the kind of work that she was in.

Q. Did you see her that night?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. After you heard the second shot, did you run to the scene of the shooting or what did you do?

A. After I heard the second shot and I seen Mumia fall, a car came up beside him. And a guy got out of the car and pointed a gun at the cop and shot again, got in the car, backed the car up to 13th Street, and went down 13th Street the wrong way. They went, it went south on 13th.

Q. How much time elapsed between the time you saw Mr. Jamal get shot as you described and that car arriving?

A. About 20 seconds.

Q. And did that car pull in behind the police car?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. There has been no testimony about a police car.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will withdraw the question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That night as you were in the parking lot looking south towards Locust Street --

A. Yes.

Q. -- did you see cars parked on the south side of Locust Street?

A. Ahh, yes. Ahh, one car must have been, ahh, just in front of the cop car.

Q. Did you see a cop car?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you saw another car in front of the cop car?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Did you see any cars behind the cop car?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. When this car that you have described came, where did it stop?

A. In back of the cop car.

Q. And did you see anyone get out of that car?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. The passenger side or the driver's side?

A. The passenger side.

Q. And what did you see that person do?

A. Get out the car, pull out a -- well, he must have had it out but I seen him looking at, you know, get out the car and point the gun down to the cop and shoot one time. Get in the car, the car backed up across 13th Street and went down 13th Street (indicating), the one way.

Q. Did you see what effect if any that shot had on the police officer?

A. Well, when I seen, after he was shot, he was shot, he had to be shot in the head or face or somewhere because his face was bleeding.

Q. His face was bleeding?

A. Yes.

Q. After you saw that, what did you do, Mr. Harmon?

A. I immediately backed up, went in the restaurant, got Tina, and told her let's get out of here. She said what's wrong. I said ahh, I don't know, but I'd like to get out of here. So when she got in the car, we drove down, we drove 13th and Walnut and made a left down Walnut. And I was telling her what happened. I said somebody got shot.

MS. FISK: Objection to what he said to her at the time, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I think the witness is permitted to testify as to his own statement.

THE WITNESS: The cop got shot and Mumia got shot and I don't want to be around here. Because I don't want to be involved, you know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you went to your car after you got Tina -- did you leave the restaurant immediately?

Page 71.

A. Yes.

Q. And when you got back to your car did you see police in the area?

A. As I was starting the car up to leave, they were, I seen them coming.

Q. You saw them coming down 13th?

A. Yes.

Q. But when you got in the car did you see police cars on Locust?

A. Ahh, no. Maybe it was one... coming from Broad. They got there so fast, I don't know why the guy in the car went down 13th Street and didn't get, get stopped. Because the cops was right there on the button.

Q. Okay. Now, I'm sorry to get into this, Mr. Harmon. Could you indicate to the Court what your work was, or employment at that time?

A. I was a pimp.

Q. And was Tina someone who was working with you at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that the reason why you fled the scene?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that the reason why you didn't come forward?

Page 72.

A. No.

Q. Why didn't you come forward?

A. I had a mother and, ahh, I spoke to her about it. And she said Bippy, you're downtown every night, you see everything going around, don't get involved. Don't get involved, you'll get yourself in trouble.

Q. Did you contact anyone in the Police Department?

A. No.

Q. Or in the District Attorney's Office?

A. No.

Q. Did you contact anyone on the defense side?

A. Nope.

Q. You said you told your mother about this?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell anyone else?

A. Umm... I don't think I did. Maybe... in conversation. You know, like it might have came up.

Q. How about Krystal?

A. My daughter.

Q. Yeah?

A. Well, I tell her everything. That's my baby. I told her.

Q. Right. Does she live in the State of, in the

Page 73.

William Harmon

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

A. No, she doesn't.

Q. She lives out of State now?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where Tina Santiago lives now?

A. No, I don't.

Q. With respect to the person who you saw shoot the police officer, the person who came out of the car, did you see that person's face?

A. No, I just seen the back of him.

Q. Did you notice anything with respect to his hair?

A. Yes, it was long and it hung on his shoulders (indicating).

Q. Right?

A. Straight.

Q. It was straight?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know the size of that individual?

A. No, umm, about -- I guess -- well, I wasn't paying attention to what he weighed or how big he was, I was trying to take cover.

Q. Oh. Did you know an individual at that time who went by the name of Sweet Sam?

A. The name sound familiar.

Page 74.

William Harmon

Q. Did you know an individual at that time by the name of Detroit?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you know, who is Detroit?

A. Detroit was another pimp.

Q. Was he working in that area at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. And could you describe his height?

A. Ahh, Detroit, he must have been about five-seven, 130, 140.

Q. And how did he wear his hair, do you remember?

A. Ahh, straight. Ahh, like a Johnny Mathis style.

Q. Pardon?

A. You know, how Johnny Mathis wear his hair.

Q. Yeah?

A. Yeah, straight.

Q. You are indicating with your hands that it hangs down?

A. Well, shoulder length.

Q. Shoulder length?

A. Yes.

Q. Straight down to the shoulder?

A. Yes.

Q. You saw Mr. Detroit that night before this

Page 75.

William Harmon

happened?

A. Ahh... I'm not sure if I seen him before then. I knew I seen him after. After, because we, we were in the restaurant talking. It's a meeting place for all the gang, you know.

Q. That was later?

A. Yeah.

Q. Much later. Now, you know that car that pulled up, had you seen that car around before?

A. Which car?

Q. The car that pulled up with the shooter in it.

A. I never seen the car.

(Pause.)

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal shoot the officer that night?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal get shot?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And it's your testimony Mr. Jamal was shot before the officer was shot in the face?

A. Yes.

Q. And he was shot after the officer was on the pavement?

A. Yes.

Q. And the officer had his gun out?

Page 76.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. You indicated in your statement that after Mister, after you saw Mumia fall back, he put his hands to his chest and he landed against the car. Did you see him land against the car?

A. Yes. He fell against the car and then he fell on the ground.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I could have...

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal with a gun that night at any time?

A. No.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Let me make sure I understand this, Mr. Harmon. You were at a restaurant with Tina?

A. Yes.

Q. And then at some point you see outside the door of the restaurant the man you know as Mumia Abu-Jamal?

Page 77.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. And you said you knew him from Sonny Hopson?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is Sonny Hopson?

A. He is a disk jockey on WHAT.

Q. And how did you know Sonny Hopson?

A. I used to work for Sonny. I used to drive the funny car. They used to have a car that goes around the neighborhood and he used to give records away with pictures. And he used to --

Q. When had you done that, sir?

A. This was in the late seventies.

Q. During what period of time in the late seventies did you drive that funny car for Sonny Hopson?

A. Ahh... few... '76, '75.

Q. And how in the course of that employment did you have an opportunity to meet Mr. Jamal?

A. Well, like I said, you know, I'm, I'm an all-around man, I used to go around the City, you know, with the car. And I met a lot of people. And, ahh, I think I went to the station one day and met, ahh, Mr. Jamal.

Q. When was that?

A. I, I didn't know exactly the date.

Page 78.

William Harmon

Q. Well, was that in the period of '75-'76 when you were driving the funny car?

A. No, this was like maybe '78, '79.

Q. Did you have any other opportunity to meet or see Mr. Jamal between then and December 9th, 1981?

A. Ahh, I think I've seen him in the club a couple times.

Q. Which club?

A. Whispers, Kim Graves. Ahh... ahh... all the local clubs that...

Q. Now, sir, when you would see him in the club, would you speak to him?

A. Yes, I would.

Q. I take it you knew Mr. Jamal by name?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he know you by name?

A. Not William Harmon, no.

Q. What name did he know you by?

A. Bippy.

Q. And everybody knew you as Bippy, right?

A. Everybody.

Q. And he certainly knew your name was Bippy?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when you saw Mr. Jamal outside the restaurant, you told us that you decided to go out to

Page 79.

William Harmon

holler at him?

A. Yes.

Q. What were you going to holler at him about?

A. Well, that's an expression we use. Went out to speak to him.

Q. Did you have something particular that you needed to speak to him about?

A. Yes, I wanted to, ahh, tell him that Tina loved the way he talked on the tel -- on the radio, and, you know, he had a sound in his voice and the women loved it. You know, the quiet storm type voice.

Good morning, this is Mumia, Mumia Abu-Jamal.

You know, women liked that.

Q. So when you went out to speak to him I take it you took Tina with you so she could meet him?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, so Tina went outside the restaurant?

A. No, well...

Q. Oh?

A. Right there in the restaurant, it's, the tables and the stools were right there and she didn't even have to get off the stool, you know. Like I went out there to tell him I wanted him to meet Tina. And that's when all the commotion started.

Page 80.

William Harmon

Q. Well, you told us that you were out there and talking to him for about two to three minutes; is that right?

A. Yes. I wasn't talking to him about Tina. I was talking to him about me and him, you know, like I like, I liked -- my mother even liked his voice.

Q. Well, you just told us that you were going out to tell him that Tina liked his voice?

A. Yes, I was going out there to tell him but I got cross -- I got sidetracked.

Q. You talked about something different instead, by the time you got from your stool to the front of the restaurant you forgot what you were going to go out there for and talked to him about something different?

A. Yeah, because I hadn't seen him in such a long time.

Q. How long had it been?

A. I don't know. And you, you don't see him that often in the street, so when you do see him it's a big thing, you know.

Q. But you just told us that you would often see him down at the clubs there, Whispers and the other clubs?

Page 81.

William Harmon

A. I seen him all the time.

Q. Right.

A. I'm saying but the public doesn't see him like that. And Tina wasn't in the public, she was working.

Q. Did you tell us a moment ago that you would run into him frequently?

A. Yes.

Q. At the various clubs in the vicinity of 13th and Locust Street?

A. Yes.

Q. And those clubs included Whispers?

A. Yeah.

Q. What other clubs down there?

A. The Serendipity. Ahh... on 20th and Sansom, Kim Graves. You know. In that area.

Q. Center City?

A. Yes.

Q. So it wasn't at all unusual to see him downtown because he would often be in those clubs and you knew that, right?

A. Not often. He wasn't there every night.

Q. Right?

A. Like I was. Like when you did see him it was,

Page 82.

William Harmon

you know, like you were glad to see him, you know, because he was out. He didn't come out that much.

Q. And it wasn't unusual to see him down there?

A. Yes, it was an unusual event. For most people.

Q. For you, Mr. Harmon?

A. Oh.

Q. I'm asking about for you.

A. Okay.

Q. Not for anybody else.

A. Yes.

Q. Was it unusual for you to see him down there?

A. Yes.

Q. It was?

A. Yes.

Q. Even though you saw him at these clubs?

A. On several times. But in the course of weeks, months. I mean it wasn't everyday I saw him. So if I didn't see him for like three weeks, that would have been a, a, a, you know, an event.

Q. So you went outside and you forgot to talk to him about Tina and you started talking to him about something else, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And while the two of you were out there before

Page 83.

William Harmon

there was any shooting, who else was out there on the street?

A. I can't recall who was out there on the street.

Q. Do you know?

A. Where we were at. Where we were standing at it was just him and I.

Q. Well, did you see anybody else out there where you were or within your field of vision?

A. I didn't see nobody until I heard somebody's voices.

Q. And that's the argument that you told us you heard, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, did you look when you heard the argument?

A. Yeah, I looked.

Q. And where was the argument coming from?

A. The southeast corner of 13th and Locust.

Q. And when you looked there, did you see any persons there?

A. I seen a guy talking to a, looked like he was talking to the cop.

Q. Did you recognize the cop?

A. Ahh, not right then.

Page 84.

Q. Did you recognize the guy?

A. No, I didn't know him at all. Because that's a, you know, like it's pretty far distance just to be looking and to pick out somebody. I couldn't, you know... really. Really couldn't tell you who he was if he's standing in back of the room because that's about as far as it was.

Q. What were they arguing about?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Did you see any anything other than those two persons arguing on the southeast corner?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you see any vehicles at that point when you heard the argument?

A. I seen a cop car and a, I seen a Volkswagen.

Q. Volkswagen?

A. Yes.

Q. How is it you remember that you saw a Volkswagen?

A. Because obviously the cop was talking to whoever was driving the Volkswagen. I thought it was a cab maybe at first. But a cab was on the corner. I don't know which, which direction. It was a cop car, a cab, then a Volkswagen.

Q. Let me just get it straight. You saw a cop

Page 85.

William Harmon

car. Was the cop car closest to the intersection of 13th and Locust?

A. Yes.

Q. And it had, if the cop car had been proceeding...

A. Had a cab stopped.

Q. So just so I understand the order of the cars: You had a cop car and then was the cab in front of the cop car or behind the cop car?

A. In front of it.

Q. The cab is in front of the cop car and then in front of the cab is the Volkswagen?

A. Yes.

Q. And so you had three cars. Are they all parked or all in the driving lane?

A. They're all on the right-hand side going north -- going east down Locust. But that would be in the driving lane.

Q. Oh. And as I understand it, the cop car was the car that was closest to the intersection?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the cab was further east?

A. Yes.

Q. And the Volkswagen was further east of that?

A. Yes.

Page 86.

William Harmon

Q. Now, do you know whether the person that was talking to the cop was the driver of the cab or the driver of the Volkswagen, if you know?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Okay. Well, did you see any other driver?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you see anyone in any of those cars when you looked over and saw these two people arguing?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Now, you told us that after you heard that arguing for a little bit of time, that's when Mr. Jamal stopped talking to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he say something to you before he left where you were standing?

A. Ahh, well, he was a little rude: He just walked away from me. You know. And, ahh...

Q. Incidentally, I'm sorry, I didn't mean to interrupt you. When you went out to him that night, when you went out to the front of the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you call him by name?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he call you by name?

A. No.

Page 87.

William Harmon

Q. What did he say to you?

A. Hey, man, what's up.

Q. And what did the two of you talk about in the two to three minutes before he walked away?

A. Well, like I said, I told him about, you know, the women that I was involved with loved to hear him talk, you know, and my mother even liked to hear him talk. And, ahh, just conversation like what's up, where you going, where you been, you know. Like I told him, I said I was taking the lady's breakfast.

Q. So you told him what you were up to?

A. Yeah.

Q. And, now, you said that after about two to three minutes --

A. Yes.

Q. -- is when Mr. Jamal started walking towards the sound of the argument?

A. Yes.

Q. And that caused him to walk diagonally through the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Which had been directly across the street from where the two of you were standing?

A. Yes.

Q. And you followed behind him?

Page 88.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. Now, as I understand your testimony, at some point while Mr. Jamal was still in the parking lot --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you heard the shot? Or was Mr. Jamal in the street when you heard the first shot?

A. The first shot, he was in the... the parking lot.

Q. He was in the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you told us that at the time of the first shot you were in the parking lot halfway between the two entrances; is that right?

A. It's a big parking lot.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. So by him being in the parking lot going through the entrance that comes on Locust Street, and me going in on the entrance in 13th street, it would have still made us both be in the parking lot at the same time.

Q. Yes. Now, I take it that since you are now following Mr. Jamal towards the sound of the argument --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you're watching where you're going?

Page 89.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. And you are, obviously, getting closer to the area --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you are walking towards the entire time?

A. Yes.

Q. As you were walking closer, do I understand, though, that you still were unable to see who it was that the officer was arguing with?

A. Yes.

Q. You never were able to see who that was or you would never recognize who that was, is that it?

A. Ahh, I couldn't recognize who shot the cop because when I got that close, I heard the shot and then that unidentified person ran down Locust Street. And that's when the cop was knocked back against the wall.

Q. Now, when that happened -- just so I understand -- after that unidentified person ran down on Locust Street, was the only person, so I am clear, the only single person who was on that sidewalk on the south side of Locust Street was now the cop; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. There was no one else there?

Page 90.

William Harmon

A. Maybe on the north side of 13th Street.

Q. Right. No, I am talking about that south side. The north side of --

A. No, ahh, the north side of Locust Street.

Q. Right?

A. No, the south side of Locust Street. The southwest side.

Q. The southwest corner?

A. Yes, southwest corner.

Q. Who was there?

A. Might have been somebody there.

Q. Oh?

A. But nobody was there on the southeast corner but the cop.

Q. And the cop, as soon as this unidentified person that he had been arguing with ran away?

A. Yeah.

Q. The cop you are certain fell down and up against the building?

A. Yes.

Q. And was he in a seated position sort of or was he on his stomach or was he on his side? What was his relative position?

A. He had his back against the wall, his gun out, like this (indicating).

Page 91.

William Harmon

Q. And do I take it that his --

A. He was holding.

Q. He was sitting?

A. He was holding something. I don't know if it was his chest or his stomach or what, but he was, he had the gun out like this (indicating).

Q. But so I want to understand, though, his back was in against the wall and he was in a seated position?

A. Yes.

Q. And his feet were in front of him?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you told us that you were about halfway between the two entrances of the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Jamal was some distance in front of you?

A. He was in the street by now.

Q. Oh, so he was in the street?

A. Yes.

Q. So he was in the street when you heard the gunshot?

A. No, no, no, no, after he heard the gunshot he ran towards the officer.

Q. Right.

A. The officer had the gun out looking up at him.

Page 92.

William Harmon

And, ahh, the next sound I heard was another shot. And I seen Jamal fall.

Q. Mr. Harmon, you were so far away that you were unable to see who this unidentified person was who ran down Locust Street, right?

A. Well, yes.

Q. But you were close enough that you were able to see that the cop was looking at Mr. Jamal before he fired his gun; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. So the cop was that much closer to you than this man who had shot the cop?

A. Yes.

Q. I see. How much distance was there between the man who shot the cop and the cop?

A. Well --

MR. WEINGLASS: At what point in time? Objection. I want the question clarified.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. When you saw the two men arguing?

A. Yes.

Q. That is the cop and this other man?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they standing facing each other?

A. Ahh, yes. Arm's length.

Page 93.

Q. Within touching distance?

A. Yeah, yeah.

Q. When you heard the shot fired were they still in that same position to each other?

A. Ahh, yes.

Q. And what you are telling us is that the cop, his position to you and his distance to you allowed you to see where his eyes were looking, but the guy who shot the cop who was arm's length from the cop was too far away from you to allow you to see his face, right?

A. Well, first of all, when I seen the gun I didn't look at nothing. That's number one. See. So when I heard the shot, I immediately didn't see nothing. He went one way, the cop fell down, and I stopped in my tracks. And --

Q. Did you close your eyes?

A. No, I didn't close my eyes.

Q. You kept looking, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Because you're telling us things that you saw happen after that shot, right?

A. Yeah, but I close -- I, I, uhh, I went to the point where, ahh, I watched Mumia fall. After I heard that second shot, and I looked at him, I said oh, let me get out of here. And I backed up. Went back through the parking lot to the restaurant. Before then another car sped right beside him and shot again.

Q. We are going to get to that in a second.

A. All right.

Q. Now, that was, you're getting a little bit ahead of me but that's all right. The guy who ran away after you heard the first shot?

A. Yes.

Q. You said that he went south on Locust Street? I'm sorry, he went east on Locust Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did he go when he went east on Locust Street?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Well, did you see him get to 12th Street?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you see if he went into a building?

A. No, he might have got in another car down there.

Q. Well, did you see him get into a car?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You didn't watch where he ran?

A. No, I didn't.

Page 95.

Q. Well, this was the guy with the gun, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And this was the thing that made you afraid because there's somebody down there shooting and you're real close, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact you told us that when you heard the shot what you watched was the gun, right?

A. Yes.

Q. So when the guy started running did you see where the gun was going?

A. Yeah, the gun went east on Locust Street.

Q. And how far did you watch him as he went east on Locust Street?

A. Until he went out of sight.

Q. And how far was that? Where was he when you lost sight of him?

A. He was... a little more than halfway down the block.

Q. Now, so I understand: This guy who ran, did you see this guy shoot the cop or you just heard that shot?

A. I just heard the shot.

Q. Before you heard the shot you had been hearing the argument; is that right?

Page 96.

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact before you heard the shot and you were listening to the argument you were walking towards the cop and this guy, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were watching the both of them as you are walking towards them?

A. Yes.

Q. And they were continuing to argue at arm's length to each other?

A. Yeah.

Q. Before you heard the shot?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the extent of their contact with each other?

A. Yes.

Q. They were arguing?

A. Yes.

Q. Nobody was hitting anybody, right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Nobody was handcuffing anybody?

A. No.

Q. Nobody was putting anybody up against the car?

A. I couldn't tell.

Q. Now, you told us that there was a line of three cars parked on Locust Street. Closest to 13th was the cop car, then in front of the cop car there was a cab, and then in front of the cab there was this Volkswagen?

A. Right.

Q. Where in that line of cars were the cop and this guy who eventually ran away?

A. Between... Between, between the cop car and the cab. Like when the cop pulls up on a car to stop it, it leaves about maybe 4 or 5 feet in between. So if the cop got to go around the cars, so it's right in between those two cars.

Q. And this was a typical Yellow Cab?

A. No, it was a United Cab.

Q. A United Cab?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Painted the color yellow? I didn't mean --

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Now, you told us that after the first shot and after that guy ran about half of a block when you lost sight of him, Mr. Jamal was continuing to go across the street towards where the cop was, right?

A. Yes.

Page 98.

Q. And your testimony was that he was in the street when you heard that second shot?

A. No, he was on the pavement.

Q. On the pavement?

A. Yes.

Q. On the other side of the street?

A. Yes.

Q. And at that point that you heard that second shot --

A. Yes.

Q. -- Mr. Jamal, I assume, was walking towards --

A. Towards.

Q. -- the direction where the officer was?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you define his posture as erect? He was standing?

A. Yes.

Q. And am I correct that the police officer was still in the position the officer had been in when you had seen him fall against the wall?

A. Yes.

Q. So he was down below him?

A. Yes.

Q. And how was the officer holding his gun?

A. Ahh, like he was pointing it.

Page 99.

William Harmon

Q. Well, in what direction was he pointing it?

A. Well, I couldn't tell because Mr. Jamal was standing in front of him. And when I heard the second shot, he obviously had to be pointing it at Mr. Jamal because he fell.

Q. And did you hear anyone say anything when you heard that second shot?

A. Yeah, I heard him slur some words, you know, you son of a bitch you, you know, things like that.

Q. And who was saying that?

A. The cop.

Q. The cop was?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you hear Mr. Jamal saying anything?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Now, you then saw Mr. Jamal go where after that second shot was fired?

A. On the ground.

Q. Where, did he fall right where he had been standing?

A. No, he fell on the car and then he fell on the ground.

Q. Which car did he fall against?

A. He fell between the cop car and the cab.

Q. And when he fell between the cop car and the

Page 100.

William Harmon

cab, what was the last position you saw Mr. Jamal in? Again, was he sitting upright? Was he lying flat on the ground? Was he standing? Leaning against the cab? Leaning against the cop car? As best you can describe, what was the position he was in?

A. He was laying on the side, holding his side (indicating).

Q. He was holding his side?

A. Yeah. I think. I'm not -- I can't, I wouldn't swear to it.

Q. When you say he was laying, was he laying up against something or was he laying flat on the sidewalk or laying on the street?

A. On the car. Leaning against the car.

Q. Leaning against the car. I see. And you didn't hear him say anything?

A. No.

Q. Now, am I correct that at that point where you heard the second shot, the only persons that you saw on that south side of Locust Street --

A. Yes.

Q. -- east of 13th Street --

A. Yes.

Q. -- is now Mr. Jamal and the cop?

A. Yes.

Page 101.

William Harmon

Q. And there is no one else there?

A. No.

Q. And you are certain of that?

A. I'm positive.

Q. Okay. In fact, the third person, or the next person closest to the cop, with the exception of Mr. Jamal, was you?

A. Right.

Q. And there was nobody else in your field of vision?

A. I was across the street in the lot.

Q. Yes, sir. That's what I mean.

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't see anyone else out there?

A. No, I wasn't looking for nothing. Nobody.

Q. All right, so you weren't looking all over the place?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. But you were looking where the cop was and where Mr. Jamal was?

A. Yes.

Q. And you are certain of what you saw in that area?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And there was nobody else there?

Page 102.

William Harmon

A. No.

Q. Now, after that second shot you told us that Mr. Jamal now fell up against one of the cars and was grabbing his side?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you said that a car... a car came up. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And you've told us, I believe, that in your estimate that car came up about 20 seconds after you had heard a shot, right?

A. Yes, maybe it was a little, ahh, maybe I exaggerated a little bit. It might have been two or three seconds later. As soon as Mumia fell a car pulled up. It might have been parked on the other side of the street and just turned it's lights on and came across. I don't know, I wasn't paying attention. But the car stopped right beside -- behind, beside the cop car, got out, pulled a gun out, shot the cop.

Q. All right, let me stop you for a moment. As I understand you, the car came on Locust Street, right, it didn't turn off 13th Street?

A. No, no, no.

Q. So it came from Locust Street but you don't know how far up the street it had been?

Page 103.

William Harmon

A. Right.

Q. And you saw the car pull up alongside the cop car?

A. In back of it.

Q. Behind the cop car?

A. Yes.

Q. So was it blocking the intersection?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So it pulls behind the cop car?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's lights are on?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of car is it?

A. Midsize, Malibu I think. I think it was a Malibu.

Q. Do you think you know what color it was?

A. Gray.

Q. And did you say that you thought it was a two-door or four-door?

A. Two-door.

Q. And how many persons were in the car?

A. Two.

Q. Male or female?

A. Two males.

Page 104.

Q. Black or white?

A. Black.

Q. Can you describe the driver to us?

A. No, I couldn't describe the driver at all. I wasn't focusing on the driver, I was focusing on who got out of the car.

Q. And the person who got out of the car got out from the passenger side?

A. Yes.

Q. And as I understand your position, the passenger side was the far side of the car from you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, the person got out from the passenger side, kept the door open, and pointed a gun in the direction of the officer?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, the officer was still up against the building?

A. Right.

Q. About what, 10 feet from this car now? 15? You tell me.

A. Maybe... ahh, like where you're sitting at.

Q. Yes.

A. Where that officer is sitting in back of you.

Q. This uniformed officer here (indicating)?

Page 105.

A. Yeah, yeah.

Q. So that the distance from the guy who got from the car --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- to the officer that he shot --

A. Right.

Q. -- was from where I am to the Sheriff?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Who, for the record, is in Courtroom 653 sitting at the bar, Your Honor, separating the public seating from the attorneys' area.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's what -- I'm not good -- 10 feet?

A. 10 feet, yeah.

Q. Okay. So from that distance of 10 feet this person who got out from the far side of the car from you --

A. Yeah.

Q. Who had Johnny Mathis style hair?

A. Yeah.

Q. And was about five-foot-seven?

A. Right.

Page 106.

Q. Fired a single shot?

A. Right.

Q. What was that person wearing, the part of their body you were able to see?

A. Well, it was cold so he was wearing a black leather jacket I think.

Q. Black leather jacket?

A. Yeah, I think it was black. I'm not sure of the color but it was a dark, ahh, coat of some kind.

Q. And it appeared to you to be leather?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you see whether the person had anything on their head?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. He just had his hair down?

A. Yeah.

Q. Johnny Mathis style?

A. Yeah.

Q. And the hair was loose, it wasn't in a --

A. It was straight.

Q. -- ponytail? Now, after that guy shot that shot, did that guy, the passenger in this Malibu, did he say anything when he shot that shot?

A. He called him a son of a bitch.

Q. He seemed to be directing that to the officer?

Page 107.

A. Yes.

Q. Other than saying -- did he just say son of a bitch?

A. No, he said you son of a bitch you. And got back in the car and backed up. The driver backed the car up and made a right on 13th and went the wrong way on 13th Street towards Pine, I guess that is. Pine there. Spruce.

Q. So the passenger after firing that shot got back in the car?

A. Yes.

Q. The car backs up to the other side of the intersection?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the driver made a right turn?

A. Right.

Q. Up 13th Street?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, where were you during this part of the shooting?

A. I was ducked down on the side of one of the cars that was in the lot.

Q. I have no problem with you leaning back, but move microphone closer to you if you are going to do that, okay?

Page 108.

A. Oh. I was ducking down behind the cars that was in the parking lot.

Q. Do you remember what car you were ducking down behind?

A. No, no, no. My car was across the street.

Q. Now let me ask you this. Just so I understand. The person that was arguing with the officer the first time, who fired the, or who ran after you heard the first shot, was that person wearing a black leather jacket?

A. I don't know, I think he had a... No, I'm not sure if he had a black leather jacket or not. He had a jacket of some kind, I don't know what style it was or what color it was.

Q. How did he wear his hair?

A. Ahh...

Q. Now we are talking about the first guy.

A. The first guy.

Q. Hight.

A. I think he had extensions, dreadlocks like (indicating).

Q. So it's clear to you, just so I understand, that this second guy who came out of the passenger side of the car --

A. Yeah.

Page 109.

William Harmon

Q. -- and who fired the shot, was not the same as the guy you had seen running on Locust Street?

A. No, definitely.

Q. And am I correct that the person who was the driver of this car is also not the guy you had seen running on Locust Street?

A. Well, I couldn't say. Because I didn't pay the driver any attention at all.

Q. Oh, okay. Now, how far south on 13th Street did you watch this car drive after it turned right?

A. I seen him turn left -- no, I seen him go down south, down 13th Street until he got out of sight.

Q. I'm sorry, you saw it turn what direction?

A. It must have turned right. Because that's the only street that goes, ahh, west.

Q. I'm sorry, I am confused, Mr. Harmon.

A. Pine Street goes west I think. 13th and Pine goes towards Broad.

Q. No, it doesn't.

A. No. Pine Street.

Q. Pine Street runs towards the Delaware River, Mr. Harmon?

A. Oh, okay. What's the next street from Locust?

Q. You tell me: You're the one who hung out at that corner so often?

Page 110.

William Harmon

A. Spruce, Spruce.

Q. Spruce is the street below Locust?

A. Yeah. Yeah. No, that's Pine Street. That's Pine after Locust.

Q. All right. That's your recollection?

A. Yeah.

Q. Mr. Harmon, after this car, after the shooter got back in this car, the car backed up on Locust?

A. Yes.

Q. Towards Broad Street, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the car turned on 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Right or left?

A. Right.

Q. After the car started travelling on 13th Street, did you see the car turn again?

A. I didn't, I wasn't looking.

Q. Well, what were you looking at?

A. I was looking, after I seen the car pull down the street, I said what the hell's going on here. I immediately walked over to the restaurant, got Tina and said c'mon baby, let's get out of here.

Q. All right, now let me make, let me ask you this. Where was Mr. Jamal at that point?

Page 111.

William Harmon

A. Where was he at?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. He had, he was laying against the car.

Q. So he was still leaning up against the car?

A. Yeah.

Q. Sort of in an upright position, sort of leaning up against the car, he wasn't on the ground?

A. Yeah, he was on the ground.

Q. Oh, he was on the ground?

A. Yes.

Q. Leaning against the car?

A. Yes.

Q. Which car?

A. Ahh... it was...

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show the witness is looking at the photographs. Which he hasn't looked at before.

MS. FISK: Let the record show that they have been there the entire time of his testimony and the Court made very clear he could utilize them at any time.

THE WITNESS: Yeah... he was leaning on the cop car.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The cop car. Now, after you saw this car that

Page 112.

William Harmon

the shooter went back into turn right on 13th Street and drive away?

A. Yes.

Q. Is when you turned around and went back into the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you were still, as I understand it you were still about in the middle of the parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. When you were seeing all this?

A. Yes.

Q. So you had to walk halfway back through that parking lot?

A. Yes.

Q. Across 13th street?

A. Yes.

Q. Into the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Q. You had to tell Tina that the two of you were leaving?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And she asked you what it was about?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said what?

A. I told her, I said I'll tell you when we get

Page 113.

William Harmon

out of here.

Q. Okay. I will tell you when we get out of here. The two of you stopped to pay your bill?

A. Yeah, well, I paid -- well, she paid the bill.

Q. At that point when you walked in --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you picked up the check?

A. She had paid it already. She was just waiting for me to come back.

Q. You go in, say c'mon, I'll tell you about it later?

A. Yes.

Q. The two of you walk out of the restaurant?

A. Yes.

Q. The two of you go up to your car?

A. Yes.

Q. Your car is parked on 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Closer to Locust Street than the club was?

A. No, closer, closer to the restaurant. Right, when you come out the restaurant door you could go right to my car.

Q. Your car's in front of the restaurant?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And she gets in your car?

Page 114.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. You got into your car?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you drive away north on 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, at that time, as you are driving away north on 13th Street, do you see any additional police cars?

A. Yes.

Q. And where are these additional police cars that you see?

A. Coming across Locust Street, coming down Walnut Street. Coming down 13th Street. I had to pull my car over to let them get by.

Q. Oh, so the police car drove right past you?

A. Yeah.

Q. And that was a police car, what, coming the wrong way up 13th Street?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Did you have your headlights on at that point?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And you pulled over and a police car passed you going the wrong way?

Page 115.

William Harmon

A. Yeah.

Q. Yes?

A. If I recall, yes.

Q. And you additionally saw police cars on Locust Street?

A. They were coming down Juniper Street. And coming down Locust. Pulling up on the sidewalk. And parking lot. But I was gone by then.

Q. Now, at that point, then, as you got into your car with Tina?

A. Yes.

Q. And drove north on 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. You were leaving the officer up against the building?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Jamal, who was leaning up against the police car?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. The witness indicated he was on the ground. Counsel is misstating the witness' answer.

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: I think he said his body was leaning against the police car.

Page 116.

William Harmon

MR. WEINGLASS: And then he said he went on the ground.

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. He was on the ground leaning against the police car; isn't that what you said?

A. Yeah, that's what I said.

Q. That's what I thought you said. Those were the only two people you were leaving on that section of Locust Street, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And as you and Tina drove away you knew based on what you had seen that those were the two people who were there?

A. Yes.

Q. And the police were arriving to give them assistance?

A. Yes.

Q. Because it was clear to you that these two people needed hospital assistance?

A. Yes.

Q. So where did you and Tina go?

A. We went to 58th and Hoffman Street, in our apartment. 1209 South 58th Street.

Q. Well, did there come a time after you and Tina

Page 117.

William Harmon

left this location that you learned that the officer had been killed?

A. Yes; my mother told me.

Q. Your mother told you?

A. Yes, the next morning.

Q. That next morning?

A. Yes.

Q. And did your mother also tell you that Mr. Jamal had been charged with the shooting?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I take it, Mr. Harmon, that it immediately occurred to you that this was a terrible mistake?

A. Yes.

Q. You knew that Mr. Jamal had had nothing to do with that shooting?

A. Yes.

Q. And that in fact he himself had been a victim of a horrible circumstance?

A. Yes.

Q. So as soon as you heard that Mr. Jamal, this famous person who people were delighted to listen to and happy to see on the streets, had been charged mistakenly, you immediately called the police and told them that they had made a horrible mistake?

Page 118.

William Harmon

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Not that day?

A. No, I didn't, at all.

Q. Not the next day?

A. No.

Q. And not any day for the next 14 years; is that right?

A. No -- yes.

Q. Well, you certainly called Mr. Jamal and said to him hey, you know, I could clear you on this, right?

A. No, because Mr. Jamal was in custody.

Q. Well, you knew Mr. Jamal's brother, didn't you?

A. I, I, I didn't know him personally. Like I said, I seen him before, I didn't know him personally.

Q. And you knew where his business was: You told us that?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. His business was at 16th and Chestnut Streets?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. So you walked up to his brother's business and

Page 119.

William Harmon

told his brother hey, I can be a witness for your brother because I was out there that night?

A. No, I didn't say that.

Q. You didn't do that?

A. I didn't do that.

Q. Well, did you go up to his brother and his vending business and say anything to him?

A. No, his brother wasn't around.

Q. So you went to look for his brother?

A. No, I didn't go look for him. But when you go in that area and you don't see him, you know he's not around. Because he was there everyday.

Q. Well, did you call your good friend Sonny Hopson?

A. Hopson, no, I didn't.

Q. And say hey, you know, your friend Jamal's being charged and this is a big mistake and let him know to get in touch with me, I could clear him?

A. I knew he would have found out anyway.

Q. Pardon?

A. I knew Mr. Hopson would have found out anyway like everybody else did.

Q. You knew Mr. Hopson would have found out what?

A. That Mr. Jamal was charged with a, with a shooting. Because it was on the news. And Sonny listens to the news.

Page 120.

William Harmon

Q. I am not talking about advising Mr. Hopson that Mr. Jamal had been arrested, I'm talking about calling Mr. Hopson so he could help you get in touch with Mr. Jamal or Mr. Jamal's lawyer or Mr. Jamal's family to let them know that hey, don't forget to remind Jamal that Bippy was out there with him right before the shooting and he should give me a call because I saw what happened; did you do that?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. So you never notified anyone with the exception of your mother?

A. Yes.

Q. What you saw?

A. Yes.

Q. And six months went by and then the case went to trial, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were in town when that case was tried, weren't you?

A. I'm not, I'm not -- when did the trial start? I could tell you where I was at. I'm not...

Q. Trial took place in June and July 1982.

A. Ahh, yes, I was in town.

Q. And were you aware that the case was being

Page 121.

William Harmon

tried?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. Did you have a TV set?

A. Yes, I did. Three of them.

Q. Did you have a radio?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you read the newspapers?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you see on any of those things that the case was currently on trial?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. So you were aware that the case was on trial?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, did you walk yourself down to City Hall and stick your head in and see what was going on at the trial?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you pick up a telephone and call an attorney or City Hall information or a newspaper?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And say hey, I know something about this case?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You chose to tell no one about what you knew?

A. But my mother.

Q. Except your mother? Is that it?

Page 122.

William Harmon

A. Yes. And my daughter.

Q. And your daughter?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Harmon, throughout this period, were you living in the same place?

A. Yes.

Q. You weren't a hard guy to find, right?

A. No.

Q. So if, for example, someone contacted Sonny Hopson and said hey, we're trying to get a hold of Bippy, do you know where he is, Sonny Hopson knew how to find you, right?

A. Sure.

Q. Now, as I understand it, Mr. Harmon, this information remained with you and your mother until... July 29th, 1995 (displaying)? Is that right?

A. Yes. My mother was, she died June the 3rd, 1994. And I've, I've felt as though it still didn't occur to me because it wasn't nothing in the news about that then. And when I got to Mercer County, I started hearing all these things and reading in the paper about Mumia Abu-Jamal is going to be executed on the 17th and this and that. And I said oh, no, he can't, this can't be done. I told a couple of the inmates up there that I promised my mother I wouldn't get involved. He said man, your mother's dead now, so if you could help the brother, help him. So.

Page 123.

William Harmon

Q. So as I understand it, in all those years from December 1981 until the date of your mother's death --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in June 1994, the reason you never contacted anyone was because your mother told you not to get involved?

A. Not -- yes, yes.

Q. And is that because, then, that you wanted to protect your mother or not involve her?

A. Somewhat.

Q. Well, did your mother tell you not to get involved, Mr. Harmon, when in August 1961 you were convicted of unauthorized use of an automobile in New Jersey?

A. Ah, ha-ha, she told me that too.

Q. But she knew about that conviction, right?

A. That wasn't -- that was a... yeah. Yeah.

Q. Well, did you?

A. I was a kid.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. Go ahead.

Page 124.

William Harmon

Q. Well, did your mother tell you not to get involved when you were convicted on January 30th, 1964 of forgery here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes, she knew about it.

Q. And did your mother tell you not to get involved when you were convicted on November the 2nd, 1965 and charged with uttering and publishing a forged instrument?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Did your mother tell you not to get involved on January the l0th, 1967 when you were convicted here in Philadelphia of forgery?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Did your mother tell you not to get involved when you were convicted of larceny in Haverford Township in Montgomery County on January the 13th, 1967?

A. Yes -- no, she didn't know that.

Q. She didn't know about that?

A. No, she didn't know that.

Q. Did your mother tell you not to get involved when you were convicted on December the 19th, 1967 of forgery and uttering a forged instrument here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Page 125.

William Harmon

Q. And how about your conviction of May the lst, 1969 for forgery, uttering a published instrument, and receiving stolen property here in Philadelphia: Did she tell you not to get involved then?

A. That was mine, yes, she told me, she thought, ahh, something was wrong with me. And you can't forge your own name.

Q. She thought something was wrong with you why, sir?

A. Because they were charging me for forgery. And it was my check.

Q. You were convicted of forgery, uttering a published instrument, receiving stolen property and burglary; is that right?

A. Yes. I couldn't steal my own check.

Q. Well, that is true, you couldn't?

A. Right.

Q. But you were convicted of burglary, weren't you?

A. That's what the judge said I was convicted of, burglary.

Q. I see.

A. That means I stole my own check to cash it.

Q. Stole your own check to cash it?

A. Yes. That's impossible.

Page 126.

William Harmon

Q. You had a trial, sir?

A. Yes, I did. I got one.

Q. Judge found you guilty?

A. One to two years.

Q. And how about your May 7th, 1969 conviction for larceny and receiving stolen goods and forgery: Did your Mom know about that?

A. I don't know if she knew about that because I was already in jail.

Q. Do you remember that conviction in front of Judge Jamieson, it was a guilty plea for larceny and receiving stolen goods, you were sentenced on May the 7th, 1969? You got five years probation?

A. Oh, okay, she might have knew about that.

Q. And how about a conviction on that same day, May 7th, 1969 in which you were convicted of fraudulent instruments: Did she know about that?

A. She had to know about it: She got me out on bail.

Q. How about May the 4th, 1971, your conviction for fraudulent use of a credit card for under $50: Did your mother know about that?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. How about your August 12th, 1971 conviction for fraudulent instruments and fraudulent

Page 127.

William Harmon

conversions: Did your mother know about that?

A. What, when was that?

Q. August 12th, 1971, fraudulent instruments and fraudulent conversions in front of Judge Meade, it was a guilty plea, you were placed on probation.

A. Yeah, she must have knew about that.

Q. She knew about that?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't protect her from that, though?

A. No, I couldn't protect her from that because I needed protection.

Q. How about your June 20th, 1975 conviction for theft and receiving stolen property and theft by deception: Do you remember that one?

A. '75?

Q. Yes.

A. Not guilty.

Q. Not guilty?

A. Yes.

Q. So if the Court records show that under Common Pleas Court term and number 75-02, 0981, you were arrested on January 24th, 1975 and before Judge E.S. Pawelac P-A-W-E-L-A-C were sentenced on June 20th, 1975 to a count of theft, receiving stolen property, and theft by deception, as a result of a guilty plea, and sentence was imposed of probation, the Court records would be wrong?

Page 128.

William Harmon

A. I pleaded guilty?

Q. That's what I'm asking you, sir?

A. I don't think so.

Q. You don't remember that?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. How about January 6th, 1977, a conviction in Federal Court for mail fraud: Do you remember that?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And your mother knew about that, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were also convicted for use of a fictitious name, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And, now, you were also convicted most recently on March the 2nd of 1994, weren't you, sir?

A. No.

Q. From the Morton Police Department, convicted for retail theft?

A. When?

Q. You were arrested on August 26th, 1993 and convicted on March the 2nd, 1994 for retail theft from the Morton Police Department?

A. I don't remember that.

Page 129.

William Harmon

Q. You don't remember that?

A. No.

Q. But that's because there were so many you might tend not to remember; is that right?

A. Yeah. If they wasn't forgeries I don't remember.

Q. It's only the forgeries that you remember?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Is it correct, Mr. Harmon, that throughout this period of time that these convictions occurred that you were something of a scam artist in town?

A. Will you explain what a scam artist is?

Q. Yeah. You were cheating people left and right; is that correct?

A. Out of what?

Q. Money.

A. Who?

Q. Anybody you could get a nickel from.

A. No, that's not right.

Q. Well, is it correct, Mr. Harmon, that you became so well-known throughout the City for dropping bad checks that your picture was sent to every bank in the Philadelphia area?

A. No, it's not right.

Q. That's not correct?

Page 130.

William Harmon

A. No.

Q. Well, Mr. Harmon, you were in Court back in, was it May of last year when Judge New sentenced you? Weren't you?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And that is a sentence that you are currently serving?

A. Yes.

Q. A sentence of 33 months to 10 years?

A. Yes.

Q. And that followed a conviction for possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And at the time of sentencing, do you recall having an opportunity to review the pre-sentence report that was prepared and that discussed your background based on an interview with you and other items that the pre-sentence investigator had a chance to review?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember having an opportunity to review that with your lawyer and having the judge have an opportunity to review that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And am I correct that the presentence

Page 131.

William Harmon

investigator in that report characterized you as someone who became so notorious --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: It's hearsay. If they want to put that investigator on the stand that is allowed. They can't read in an out-of-court statement which is hearsay.

THE COURT: Well, I was under the impression that he read this.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is still hearsay.

THE COURT: I know that, but the question is did he read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The objection stands, even if he read it.

THE COURT: Well, that he knew about it then.

MR. WEINGLASS: The question can be did you read the report and he could answer. But you can't read from a report.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: That was a hearsay document.

THE COURT: No, he already said he read the report with his attorney.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's as far as it could go.

Page 132.

William Harmon

MS. FISK: I will restate the question, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Let me know, Mr. Harmon, whether you agree or disagree with this characterization of you. From 1964 through 1977 the Defendant was repeatedly involved with schemes involving the cashing of stolen checks. He became so notorious at this unlawful activity that Court records reflect that his picture was sent to every bank in the Philadelphia area.

A. That's the first time I heard that.

Q. Did you read the pre-sentence report before you were sentenced by Judge New?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Oh, you didn't?

A. No.

Q. Just a minute ago I asked you if you read it and you said you did, didn't you?

A. I read what the pre-sentence investigator told me what was going to happen to me. He told me I was going to get six months.

Q. Pre-sentence investigator did?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is that person who told you that?

Page 133.

William Harmon

A. I have no idea. And I end up with 33 months.

Q. You ended up with a mitigated-range sentence, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And the pre-sentence investigator told you nevertheless that even though the guidelines called for a mitigated-range sentence of 31 to 36 months, that you were going to get six months?

A. He told me I would get six months in-house arrest for one year.

Q. Was that on the day you received sentence that that pre-sentence investigator told you that?

A. No, that was March. That was March.

Q. Right after your conviction?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell your lawyer that your pre-sentence investigator had told you that?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, as I understand it, following that conviction in March 1994, you did file a Post-Conviction Relief Act petition?

A. Yes.

Q. And you filed initially a pro se petition?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have a copy of that with you today?

Page 134.

William Harmon

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, that petition, as I understand it, was assigned to an attorney?

A. Yes.

Q. And that attorney was, you told us...?

A. Joseph...

Q. I think you told us his name is Joseph Capone?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, did you have an opportunity to meet with Mr. Capone?

A. No.

Q. He just sent you some letters?

A. Yes, sir. Letters.

Q. And were the letters letters that indicated to you or said to you that he could find no basis for you getting a new trial?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when did you receive those?

A. All last year. Umm... From October of seven -- I mean of ninety, ahh, four. Until, ahh, a couple of months ago. The last letter that I received he sent me a Finlan -- Finley letter, is it?

THE COURT: Finley.

THE WITNESS: Finley.

THE COURT: Is that what he said?

Page 135.

William Harmon

THE WITNESS: Yes, he sent me a Finley letter. Is that correct?

THE COURT: That's the term they use.

THE WITNESS: Well, he sent me a letter and told me I was denied, he didn't have any grounds. My lawyer was incompetent. I mean he was, ahh, he was straight, he knew what he was talking about. I didn't have any grounds to file.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And is that the letter that you received last October?

A. No, that was the one I received in June.

Q. In June?

A. Yes. This year.

Q. All right. So you didn't receive that letter in July of this year?

A. No.

Q. Now, after you received that letter, I understand it you wrote a letter back; is that right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. So if in that letter you said that you received the attorney's letter on July 1st you would have been wrong; is that right?

A. Yes.

Page 136.

William Harmon

Q. You didn't receive it July lst?

THE COURT: Do you have it there?

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Look at it.

THE WITNESS: I wrote, I wrote this back to my lawyer the 29th of July.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Right. And you see where it says I received your letter on July lst?

A. Oh, yeah. I received your letter on July 1st.

Q. Well, did you receive it on July 1st or did you receive it in June?

A. I received it July 1st.

Q. All right, so when you said you received it in June you were mistaken?

A. Where does it...?

Q. You just told us?

A. It says on the letter here July 29th, 1995. And it says here I received your letter on July 1st.

Q. Yes.

A. The letter, the Finley letter.

Q. So that's when you received it?

A. I received.

Q. Okay?

A. Okay.

Page 137.

William Harmon

Q. And you also say in that letter to him that the only thing that was untrue in the case history was the police officer said they had a warrant which they never had?

A. Right.

Q. And my mother nor I signed our names on a warrant. You know why. Because they never had one?

A. Yes.

Q. That is because it is your position, sir, that the police lied on you in your trial, is that it?

A. Yes.

Q. Because the police at your trial said that drugs were being sold out of the house that you and your Mom shared, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the evidence at trial, right?

A. Yes.

Q. That drugs were being sold in front of your infirm mother?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was in a wheelchair?

A. Yes.

Q. And of course that wasn't true?

A. What?

Q. That drugs were being sold in front of your

Page 138.

William Harmon

infirm mother?

A. No.

Q. Who was confined to a wheelchair?

A. No.

Q. Because you would certainly never allow drugs to be sold in front of your infirm mother, right?

A. Of course.

Q. You wouldn't even let your mother be involved with this case by reporting the fact that you had seen a murder to the police, right?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. So the verdict of the court in that case was completely incorrect; is that right?

A. Incorrect.

Q. Completely?

A. Completely.

Q. But nevertheless, you advised your attorney to tell the defense attorneys that you wanted to share the information now that you have?

A. Yes.

Q. That you have given us today?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know somebody named Vincent Silaberti?

A. No.

Q. No?

Page 139.

William Harmon

A. Vincent Silaberti?

Q. Yes.

A. Vincent Silaberti... no.

Q. A cop?

A. Oh, Vinny. Yeah. Yes, I do know.

Q. And how about somebody named Gene Geary?

A. I knew -- yeah, I knew Gene.

Q. Tell us how you know Vinny and Gene?

A. Ha-ha, oh... well, they were the first officers that arrested me.

Q. Way back in 1961?

A. No, not '61.

Q. Earlier?

A. No. '65.

Q. '65?

A. Yeah.

Q. But that wasn't the only time you ever met them, when they were the first cops who arrested you back in '65, right?

A. As I can recall, yes.

Q. The only time you ever came in contact with them?

A. I mean several times after that, I mean. They arrested me a few times.

Q. They were the check squad up in West

Page 140.

William Harmon

Detectives, weren't they?

A. Okay, yes, yes, ma'am.

Q. They investigated bad checks?

A. Yes.

Q. Fraudulent checks?

A. Yes.

Q. That was something you knew a lot about, right?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And wouldn't it be correct to say that throughout the sixties and throughout the seventies into the mid-seventies you would regularly give them information about bad check schemes that were going on in their district?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. You worked as an informant for them, didn't you?

A. No.

Q. You gave them information?

A. I told them -- ahh, they would ask me about different things in the area. And I would tell them what I knew. But I didn't inform, inform them of any information.

Page 141.

William Harmon

Q. And sometimes you would give them that, tell them what you knew by coming up to West Detectives and asking for them and going up into a room in West Detectives and talk to them, wouldn't you?

A. No, after they came and got me. I never volunteered to went up there.

Q. You never just walked into West Detectives and asked for them?

A. No, no, no, no, no.

Q. Are you sure about that?

A. I'm positive.

Q. But you did provide them with information throughout the seventies, maybe up as late as '78, about check cashing schemes that were going on, right?

A. Well, from 1970 when I get out of jail, until '78, I had a dancing school. My own dancing school. So I wasn't doing anything wrong.

Q. Is that the dancing school that you folded and took everybody's money and went out west with?

A. No, that was dancing school I had at 52nd and Spruce Street. And it was still standing.

Q. This was a dancing school that you opened and took money from people and then ran out west with the money; isn't that right, Mr. Harmon?

Page 142.

William Harmon

A. No, no, that's not right.

Q. You never did that?

A. No.

Q. Am I correct that from '71 through the seventies was when you provided what you knew to Detectives Silaberti and Geary about check cashing schemes?

A. Hmm-hmm, yes.

Q. Nothing bad ever happened to you when you gave them what you knew, right?

A. No.

Q. Incidentally, on this morning of December 9th, 1981, had you been drinking that night?

A. No.

Q. Were you high?

A. I don't drink.

Q. Oh, okay. Do you use drugs?

A. I didn't do drugs either. Then.

Q. In the period from 1979 through 1985, would it be fair to say that you smoked cocaine?

A. No, it wouldn't be fair. No, it wouldn't be fair.

Q. It wouldn't be fair?

A. No.

Q. When you were placed on probation by the

Page 143.

William Harmon

Federal Court for your mail fraud conviction in 1977, wasn't it an order of your probation that you receive treatment for your compulsive disorders?

A. No.

Q That was never a condition of your probation?

A. Never, never.

Q. So if I brought in that Federal probation file and it showed that you were sent to clinical therapy for compulsive disorders and that you were resistant to the clinical therapy programs, that would be completely incorrect?

A. Incorrect.

Q. And if the pre-sentence reports that have been prepared on you last year reflect that you had a past history of using cocaine, those would be completely incorrect?

A. No.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Hearsay.

THE WITNESS: They would be right.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Well, when did you use cocaine?

A. Umm, I stopped using -- I started in '81, '82, and I stopped in '85. I started back up in '87.

Q. Do you remember meeting Mr. William Strum, the pre-sentence investigator who interviewed you

Page 144.

William Harmon

following your conviction before Judge New?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you meet with him on the day of your conviction?

A. Yes.

Q. And he interviewed you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him that you smoked cocaine from 1979 until 1985 but never had an addiction problem?

A. I didn't, I don't, I don't remember the dates. But I did tell him that I was a smoker.

Q. My question is: Did you tell him that you smoked cocaine from 1979 until 1985 but never had an addiction problem?

A. My answer is no.

Q. You didn't tell him that?

A. No.

Q. So if he wrote that down he was wrong?

A. Yes.

Q. But you did tell him that you don't drink any alcohol?

A. Right.

Q. Because that's correct?

A. Right.

Q. Who is Dyon Anderson, Mr. Harmon? D-Y-O-N

Page 145.

William Harmon

Anderson, a 45-year-old female.

A. Diane Anderson.

Q. Oh, I'm sorry, I mispronounced it. Yes, sir, Diane Anderson?

A. Who is she?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. One of my female friends.

Q. And how long has she been one of your female friends?

A. Since the seventies.

Q. And since the seventies have you had occasion to visit her?

A. No.

Q. Never been to her home?

A. No.

Q. Do you know where she lives?

A. No.

Q. Would it surprise you to learn that she lives on the 700 block of North 8th Street, about four or five blocks away from Mr. Jamal's family home?

A. No, it wouldn't surprise me.

Q. Because you have never been to her home?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever been to Mr. Jamal's home?

A. No.

Page 146.

William Harmon

Q. Mr. Harmon, in addition to giving information to Detectives Silaberti and Geary in that period in the seventies, what other police officers or Federal agents have you shared information with in the past?

A. The Federal police, I don't recall their names. But I told them that I had information of the kidnap, the kidnaper that... that was killing them kids in Atlanta.

Q. You were able to give them information?

A. No, he asked me, that's the information he asked me about.

Q. And were you able to give him information about that?

A. No, I couldn't. He showed me pictures of certain individuals, I didn't --

Q. And when was that, that he was showing you those pictures and you were trying to help him with that information?

A. Yeah.

Q. When was that?

A. I guess back in the late seventies.

Q. I take it nothing bad ever happened to you when you spoke to that Federal agent; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Yet despite all of those past relationships

Page 147.

William Harmon

with police officers, and despite the fact that your mother was aware that you had been convicted in excess of ten times for bad things that you yourself had done --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- in order to protect your mother, you decided never to tell any police officer or defense personnel about what you saw on December 9th, 1981; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Wouldn't have anything to do with the fact that you're making it up today; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Wouldn't have anything to do with the fact that you're in it for the quick buck once again, would it, Mr. Harmon?

A. I haven't been offered nothing.

Q. You're getting out of jail in what, 18 months?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you got a job lined up?

A. I don't know.

Q. And in fact now your mother is deceased, right?

A. Yes.

Q. So you don't have that apartment available to

Page 148.

William Harmon

you, do you, sir?

A. No.

Q. Now, this guy that you saw get out of the car and fire the shot?

A. Yes.

Q. You know that is the guy --

A. Yes.

Q. -- that fired the second shot in the officer: You told us today that other than being a black man with Johnny Mathis hair, you can't describe him further; is that right?

A. Nah. Brown skin fellow. Medium built.

Q. Medium built. And his height?

A. I couldn't tell the exact height because it was on the other side of the car.

Q. Right, because you didn't have a good perspective, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Now, this affidavit that you wrote, Mr. Harmon, (displaying), when did you write this?

A. Last Thursday.

Q. Was it while Miss Wolkenstein was visiting you or was it before she came or after she left?

A. While she was visiting me.

Q. While she was there?

Page 149.

William Harmon

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. So while she was there and after the two of you had an opportunity to talk you wrote this in her presence?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you give a copy of it to her at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. So when she left the prison facility last August the 3rd, to the best of your knowledge, Miss Wolkenstein had -- what was it, a copy or the original of this affidavit, which has been marked Commonwealth -- I'm sorry -- Defense Exhibit 28?

A. She had a copy of it.

Q. Or did she have the original, that's what I am asking you?

A. I think she had the original.

Q. You gave her the original?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was on August the 3rd?

A. Yes.

Q. Last week? And you told us that because there was no notary public available when you and she were talking --

A. Yes.

Page 150.

William Harmon

Q. -- that you signed this without benefit of a notary public?

A. Yes.

Q. Miss Wolkenstein didn't offer to tell you that she was a notary public?

A. No, she didn't.

Q. Did you ask her?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you tell her you needed a notary public for it?

A. Yes --

Q. Did she tell you you needed a notary public?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you told us today that other than this man who was the shooter being a brown-skinned man with Johnny Mathis style hair, shoulder length, with a jacket which you think is leather --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- and may be black, he came out of the car, that you can't describe him further, right?

A. No.

Q. Yet last week on August the 3rd, am I correct in the middle of the second page you described him as a black man, tall and medium built with shoulder-length hair?

Page 151.

William Harmon

A. Well, anybody who is taller than me is tall.

Q So you described him last week as tall?

A. I told him that he was taller than I was.

Q. Well, is this written in your handwriting or Miss Wolkenstein's handwriting? I am talking about this affidavit. This handwritten document.

A. What part?

Q. Well, my first question is who wrote this out, you or Miss Wolkenstein?

A. Miss Wolkenstein.

Q. Turn to the second page. Well, let me ask you this, Mr. Harmon, before we talk about the second page. After Miss Wolkenstein wrote this out, did you read it fully?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you make sure that it was correct?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was it after you read it fully and made sure that it was correct that you placed your signature on the bottom?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, do you see in the middle of that second page the fourth full paragraph that begins a black man, tall and medium built with shoulder-length hair?

Page 152.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. It doesn't say taller than me, does it?

A. No, it doesn't.

Q. It just refers to him as tall?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that how you described him last week?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Yet today you told us that you couldn't describe his height at all because he was on the other side of the car; is that right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, when you drove away, sir, you told us today that as you drove away the only people you were leaving back there was Mr. Jamal and the officer, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Nobody else was out there that you saw, right?

A. That I saw.

Q. Right, yet do you see here two paragraphs down on this affidavit --

THE COURT: Is that the same page for him?

MS. FISK: Same page, two paragraphs

Page 153.

William Harmon

down.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You already talked about the black man doing the shooting and the car going the wrong way, and then the paragraph says during this time people were coming on the street from the clubs, restaurants and parking lots. Do you see that, Mr. Harmon?

A. Yeah.

Q. Well, which was it: Were people coming on the street from the clubs, restaurants and parking lots, or was Mr. Jamal and the officer the only two people back there?

A. After the shootin'?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. After the shootin' people started coming out of the building then. It wasn't nobody out there during the shooting.

Q. Mr. Harmon, were you here about 30 seconds ago?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. When I asked you whether as you were pulling away the only two people you left back there were Mr. Jamal and the officer, did you hear me ask that

Page 154.

William Harmon

question?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was my question confusing to you, sir?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. Did you understand my question?

A. No, I understood it.

Q. And when I asked that question and you understood it, did you agree that the only two people who were back there were Mr. Jamal and the officer?

A. From what I saw.

Q. So you didn't see anybody else, right?

A. After that, no, after -- I got in my car and started driving off I didn't see anybody. But when I got to the corner I started seeing people coming out of the clubs and bar and, ahh, the restaurant.

Q. When you got to which corner?

A. Just before I got to Walnut Street.

Q. So the people that were coming out of the clubs were coming out clubs on Walnut Street?

A. No, no, no, no. They were coming out of the, coming out of Whispers, the restaurant, ahh... it was... it's a sleazy little topless bar there on, right next to between Whispers and the restaurant. And, ahh, when I got to Walnut Street, you know, I looked in my mirror and I see, you know, a crowd of

Page 155.

William Harmon

people. It must have been time to let out.

Q. Now, Mr. Harmon, I understand that you had an opportunity this morning to speak to defense Counsel; isn't that right?

A. No.

Q. That's not right?

A. What, what did you say?

Q. I understand that you had an opportunity to, this morning --

A. Yes.

Q. -- to meet with defense Counsel?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, are you aware, sir -- well, let me ask you this. Did you, and as I understand it, you asked the defense attorney if you could review the photographs that were taken of the crime scene?

A. Yes.

Q. Am I correct, sir, that the reason, or one of the reasons that you wanted to look at those photographs was because you told the defense attorney that you might be able to see a picture of your car in those pictures?

A. Yes.

Q. Now let me ask you this, Mr. Harmon. If within 10 seconds or 15 or 20 of the police officer and Mr. Jamal being shot you drove your car away on 13th Street and ended up in West Philly, how could a picture of your car end up in any photos taken of that crime scene?

Page 156.

William Harmon

A. Because I have two cars.

Q. Oh. And what do you do, you have one foot on each gas pedal as you drive into the neighborhood (indicating)?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You just keep one parked down there?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Which car is it that you keep parked down there?

A. The Cadillac.

Q. What kind of Cadillac?

A. I got a, I had a '74 Coupe DeVille Cadillac. Yellow.

Q. And you let that sit parked there while you drove -- what was this car you were driving?

A. A Buick.

Q. -- while you drove a Buick around?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it too much mileage on the Coupe DeVille?

A. No. I keep the car parked in that parking lot sometime. Just in case I wanted to change up while I was in town.

Page 157.

William Harmon

Q. How would you get to town?

A. I drove one car.

Q. All right. So if you had one car that you were driving around you still needed to have a second car parked in that parking lot with your stuff?

A. Oh, I had, well, I had my buddy with me sometime and he drove one down.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Do you see your yellow Coupe DeVille in the parking lot in any of the photos?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you remember the tag of that car?

A. My Cadillac?

Q. Yes, sir, your Cadillac?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Who was it registered to?

A. Me. William Harmon.

Q. As you sit here now do you remember whether or not that Cadillac was parked in the parking lot that morning?

A. No, I don't. No.

MS. FISK: May I have a moment, Your Honor. Thank you.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Commonwealth Counsel.)

Page 158.

William Harmon

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Harmon?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see the gentleman, the gentleman right here (indicating)?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know that gentleman?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You never saw him before in your life?

A. He looks familiar.

Q. If I were to suggest to you that his name is Charles Brown and that he was also a detective at West Detectives in the seventies, would that help refresh your recollection as to who he is?

A. Not really.

Q. Not really?

A. No.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Harmon, are you a little tired?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. I won't be long with you. Your record has been read here?

Page 159.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. Quite lengthy. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. In 1969 when you were last in prison you were about 26 years old, as I recall?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And from the time that you were 26 years old until the time that you were about 50 years old, you stayed out of prison?

A. Yes.

Q. After that first experience you didn't want to be back in prison?

A. Yes.

Q. And I assume you're not enjoying your time in prison now?

A. No.

Q. And I assume you understand that coming to this Court and testifying about Mr. Jamal's innocence is going to make the rest of your stay in prison pretty miserable?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Objection, Your Honor. It might be quite the

Page 160.

William Harmon

opposite in fact.

THE COURT: Yes, I don't know that we could make that assumption.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm asking the witness if it's his assumption.

THE COURT: Oh. I don't know what he is going to base it on. But that's all right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Let me ask you this, Mr. Harmon. Are you testifying here today so that your life in prison will be a better one, or do you think testifying here today will make your life in prison pretty miserable?

A. I can't answer because I don't know what's ahead of me.

Q. Okay. Well, let me ask you this. You were giving information to the police when they asked you; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. You gave information to Federal agents when they asked you; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. You have nothing against police, do you?

A. No.

Q. You have nothing against Federal agents, do you?

Page 161.

William Harmon

A. No.

Q. And you were in part cooperating with the police and the Federal agents as a way of staying out of prison, were you not?

A. Yes. You could say, I guess.

Q. So you were trying your best to stay out of prison from --

A. Yes.

Q. -- from the time you were 26 until you were 50?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know when for sure you'll be getting out of prison now?

A. After this, I don't know.

Q. Why, do you think this might extend your stay?

A. Yes.

Q. Because you're testifying for Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. You think you might have to be in prison longer?

A. Yes.

Q. So your appearing here today is going to hurt you, is it not?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 162.

William Harmon

That's what he thinks. Not whether he will.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You think it will hurt you?

A. Yes.

Q. So what's in it for you?

A. I can sleep better at night now, knowing that I came forward and said to what I thought happened.

Q. No matter what your record is with respect to receiving money or larceny, you have a conscience?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And that's why you're testifying?

A. Yes.

Q. When you gave information to the police or to the Federal agents, did they accept your information?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: No.

MS. FISK: Withdraw the objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did they come back to you more than once?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they come back to you over a period of months?

A. Hmm, no, after the first couple of times they found out what I was telling them wasn't getting them no where, they just forgot.

Page 163.

William Harmon

Q. Okay. Have you and I had a chance to review your prior criminal record, the way it was laid out here in Court today?

A. Yes.

Q. We haven't talked about your record this morning, did we?

A. No.

Q. To your knowledge, to your knowledge did Billy Cook know that you were there that night?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. There's no testimony from this witness that Billy Cook was there that night.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. I will accept that stipulation.

MS. FISK: It is not his stipulation, that is the witness' testimony. He saw Mr. Jamal and the cop, nobody else. It's clear that Mr. Jamal knew he was there that night, though.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Why didn't you go to Mr. Jamal's brother?

A. What was that?

Q. Why didn't you go to Billy Cook and tell him what you saw?

A. Well, to tell the truth, I didn't know what to do after I seen all that. I was downtown, illegally downtown with two prostitutes. And I really didn't want to... ahh, be questioned about what I'm doing or where I'm at, you know, I didn't need all that.

Page 164.

William Harmon

Q. You didn't want to get involved in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. And you did your best to keep from getting involved?

A. Yes.

Q. That red Malibu, that two-door, red Malibu, do you recall telling me this morning that you had seen that car around that area for some time?

A. I've seen it be, I've seen it before in the area.

Q. And do you recall telling me that you thought it was involved in some kind of pimping operation?

A. Yes.

Q. When you saw the passenger get out of that car, was he moving towards the police officer when he shot at the police officer?

A. No.

Q. What was he doing?

A. He just got out the car and pointed the gun towards the officer and shot.

Q. He was standing on the sidewalk at that point?

Page 165.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. And his arm was extended?

A. Extended.

Q. Would you take a look at the photographs of the cars on Locust --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The photographs were never referred to on cross-examination. This is beyond the scope.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness did refer to photographs in cross-examination. As a matter of fact, the Court noted it.

THE COURT: I noted what?

MR. WEINGLASS: That the witness had referred to photographs on cross-examination.

THE COURT: I don't remember noting anything, but.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now that you see the photographs, does that in any way refresh your recollection about the order of the cars that were on the south side of Locust Street that night?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was the order of the cars, going from the intersection of 13th and Locust heading east towards 12th?

Page 166.

William Harmon

A. A police car, a Volkswagen. And I think this is... A Ford.

Q. And in that order going east towards 12th?

A Yes, yes.

Q. Was there anything behind the police car towards the intersection of 13th in those photographs?

A. Behind the police car?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. And looking at those photographs, does that refresh your recollection of what you saw when you were in the parking lot looking south towards Locust?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: I've got a couple more questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Just so I understand, Mr. Harmon: Before you began answering any questions today --

A. Yes.

Q. -- His Honor gave you a pile of photographs to look at; isn't that right?

Page 167.

William Harmon

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And you will recall that in fact Mr. Weinglass said when you were done looking at those photos that you had spent, you had spent 14 minutes?

A. Yes.

Q. Looking at those photos and you had gone through each of them twice?

A. Yes.

Q. And you had as much time as you needed to look at all those photos and refresh your recollection as to what that corner looked like; am I correct?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And your recollection was fully refreshed when you started answering questions about what that scene looked like; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, am I correct that having had that opportunity this morning to look at those photographs -- I'm sorry.

MR. WEINGLASS: That was this afternoon.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. This afternoon when you took the witness stand, plus your own recollection of the events, that when you started answering the questions today, you were doing so based both on your recollection and as it was refreshed by photographs that you had had 14 minutes to look at?

Page 168.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. And am I correct, sir, that having had that opportunity and that review, when I was asking you questions about the vehicles that you saw on Locust Street, that you were absolutely certain and there was no doubt in your mind that you saw a police car nearest the corner and in front of the police car you saw a, in fact a United Cab, not a Yellow Cab?

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact in front of that cab you saw the Volkswagen?

A. Yes, right.

Q. And is that how you recall it still?

A. I -- yes. I...

Q. Mr. Harmon, do you understand my question?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

THE WITNESS: Yes, yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness has to be given an opportunity to answer that question.

THE WITNESS: I see a cop car, the Volkswagen, and a cab.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 169.

William Harmon

Q. Right. In your testimony on cross-examination, do you recall saying -- and this was after you had the chance to look at these same pictures in which you see what you told us you see -- do you recall telling His Honor that you saw a cop car, a cab, and a Volkswagen?

A. Yes. I do remember seeing the opposite, the other.

Q. And that's how you remembered it, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And that recollection is as clear in your mind as everything else you recollect about that morning back on December 9th, 1981; isn't that right, Mr. Harmon?

A. No.

Q. Oh, it's not?

A. No.

Q. There are other things that are clearer than that, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. I would take it, then, that what is clearer than that was the fact that as you look at that corner and the officer is against the wall and Mr. Jamal is up against the car, that there is nobody else on that side of Locust Street, that's equally clear in your mind; is that right?

Page 170.

William Harmon

A. Yes.

Q. You were just asked about your working hard to stay out of prison after you got out in 1969, right?

A. '70.

Q. You got out in 1970?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you were arrested many times between 1970 and now, right?

A. Well, no -- yeah, okay.

Q. Isn't that right?

A. Then it didn't occur or nothing.

Q. You received probation for all those convictions in the seventies?

A. Yeah.

Q. But when you were arrested you didn't know you were going to get probation, right?

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, even when you were arrested in 1982, a case that didn't result in a conviction, there was a chance you would go to jail, right?

A. '82?

Q. Yes, sir. Do you remember being arrested in 1982?

A. No.

Page 171.

William Harmon

Q. You don't?

A. No.

Q. If the Court records reflect that you were arrested on August llth, 1982, they would be incorrect?

A. Where?

Q. In Philadelphia.

A. For what?

Q. For promoting prostitution.

A. That would have been incorrect.

Q. You were never arrested and charged with that?

A. Yeah, I was charged with it, yeah.

Q. I said arrested, sir, I am just talking about being arrested. When --

MR. WEINGLASS: It was dismissed for lack of evidence.

MS. FISK: That is correct, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: I know.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. But when you were arrested in 1982, even there there was a chance that you would go to jail because you were being arrested and charged with a criminal offense again, right?

Page 172.

William Harmon

A. Not really.

Q. No?

A. No.

Q. You figured you'd never go to jail?

A. No, not for prostitution, no.

Q. Well, when you were arrested in 1975 -- I'm sorry, strike that. When you were arrested in 1989, again in a case which resulted in charges being dismissed or discharged, but when you were arrested, you knew you faced the possibility of going to jail, right?

A. No.

Q. No. When you were arrested in 1993 and charged with these drug offenses, you knew you faced the possibility of going to jail, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you knew you had something to trade, right?

A. No.

Q. You had the information which solved one of the most famous murder trials in the City of Philadelphia, didn't you?

A. But I didn't realize I had that until two weeks ago when I read it in the paper, you know. I wasn't using that to trade for nothing because if I did I would have used it before I went to Court --

Page 173.

William Harmon

Q. Because you would have used it if you had it, right?

A. If -- not really. I wanted to help the brother out. And it didn't make any difference to me at the time what I had to do to do it. My mother's passed, she can't chastise me. So I figure I should help him, come forward.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Mr. Harmon. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Anything further today, gentlemen?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, there is one other matter. Regarding the August 7th letter to the Court where we attached numerous exhibits, in particular Xerox cases pursuant to Your Honor's directive, we now ask the Court, for our own scheduling purposes, if Your Honor's reconsidering any of the rulings that are addressed?

THE COURT: Well, what rulings are you talking about?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, for example --

THE COURT: Be specific. What do you want?

MR. WILLIAMS: For example, in the letter we ask that we be permitted to call numerous police officers concerning the confession. In particular, Police Officer Bell, Heftner, Hinkel, Cook, Dunn, Captain Bob, Security Guard Kenney. The nurse.

THE COURT: Were they the ones that testified at the trial?

MR. WILLIAMS: Ahh, well, I know that Mr. Bell, Officer Bell testified at the trial.

THE COURT: Security guard testified.

MR. WILLIAMS: But not Security Guard Kenney. I believe that was Security Guard Durham.

THE COURT: Well, who is Kenney?

MR. WILLIAMS: He was another security guard at Jefferson Hospital.

THE COURT: Well, he may have but what does he have to do with this case?

MR. WILLIAMS: It is all fully addressed in the letter.

Page 175.

THE COURT: I know the letter. What did you give the D.A. as to -- did you get an affidavit from him or anything?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, there are police reports. They know full well what Mr. Kenney would testify to. I would expect that he would testify in conformity to his police reports. And that's why we would like to call him.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Your Honor, these are all witnesses that we objected to their being called when it was suggested by defense Counsel because none of these witnesses are witnesses about whom Mr. Jackson was asked a basis for not calling.

THE COURT: Right.

MS. FISK: Our position was, without any explanation from Mr. Jackson, Counsel at this juncture has no right to call them.

THE COURT: Do you want to call Mr. Jackson back again?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, we do not. We should do that, but I did address that point in the letter. If Your Honor will recall.

THE COURT: If you want to call Jackson back again call him.

Page 176.

MR. WILLIAMS: So Your Honor is denying our application?

THE COURT: What I have done before I've done.

MR. WILLIAMS: And what about the rest of the witnesses addressed in that witness letter?

THE COURT: Anything I have done before I have done. I see no reason why I should change any ruling I have made.

MR. WILLIAMS: In light of the August 7th letter.

THE COURT: I said whatever I have ruled on I have ruled. And you have an exception.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's all I am asking: If you have reconsidered your ruling.

THE COURT: Why would I have second guesses about my ruling? I wouldn't have made it in the first place.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor asked for case law. We provided that case law.

THE COURT: Yes, I know.

MR. WILLIAMS: So I am only here asking Your Honor if in light of the case law --

Page 177.

THE COURT: I changed my opinion?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: No, it hasn't changed my opinion.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

THE COURT: Do you have any other witnesses?

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't think we have any other witnesses today. But let me confer with my Co-counsel.

(Discussion held off the record among defense Counsel at this time.)

MR. WILLIAMS: No other witnesses today.

THE COURT: All right, do you have a list of witnesses for tomorrow?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there are two other matters.

THE COURT: No other matters. I want to know, do you have a list of witnesses for tomorrow? So you could give it to the D.A. so we don't lose anymore time. If there are no witnesses for tomorrow we could take up whatever you want to discuss tomorrow.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will take it all up tomorrow, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, do you have any idea of any witnesses?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will inform the District Attorney's Office.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, the Commonwealth --

THE COURT: I had asked you for a list long ago and I would like to know where we are going.

MS. FISK: I had also advised the Court that the Commonwealth at some point when Defense rests will be prepared to rebut some witnesses raised in these proceedings. Some of those witnesses are not police officers, and it is inconvenient to keep them in Court. So I would like some indication as to when the defense will be completed with it's presentation of witnesses so I will know when to have those Commonwealth witnesses available to Court.

THE COURT: Yes, I would like to know where we are going too. By the way, are you going to call the Defendant? Or his brother?

MR. WILLIAMS: Umm, Your Honor, we don't intend to call any further witnesses. All we would ask is a witness list, if it's in any way altered from the witness list that we've already received. As well as affidavits from those witnesses.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, if defense has no intention of calling any additional witnesses --

MR. WILLIAMS: Well.

THE COURT: She doesn't want to put on her case until you say you have no more witnesses.

MS. FISK: I thought he just did say that.

MR. WILLIAMS: I may have misspoke.

MS. FISK: I will sit down.

THE COURT: You may call the Defendant?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I didn't say that. I didn't say that.

THE COURT: Okay. How about his brother?

MR. WILLIAMS: We have no intention of calling Billy Cook to the stand.

THE COURT: Okay. Then why don't you let me know tomorrow what you intend to do so I could then advise the D.A.

Page 180.

MR. WILLIAMS: Tomorrow, that's what I was referring to.

THE COURT: That's what I say, tomorrow you will let me know.

MR. WILLIAMS: Tomorrow we will not be calling any defense witnesses.

THE COURT: Tomorrow you will let me know if you have no more witnesses at all. And then I will give her a chance to prepare her list and get it over to you. We will do that on Monday.

MS. FISK: So the Commonwealth is not expected to have any witnesses available tomorrow; is that correct?

THE COURT: Well, I don't know. Are you saying that you want them to have witnesses for tomorrow?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: That's precisely what I was driving at.

THE COURT: Oh, you want her to get a list for tomorrow?

Page 181.

MR. WILLIAMS: If they could produce witnesses for tomorrow it might be a good way to use up the day.

THE COURT: I only have one question: You are not going to call the Defendant?

MR. WILLIAMS: I have already indicated.

THE COURT: I know that, but I would like to hear from the Defendant.

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't believe that that's required, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know, I don't want to have a second PCRA hearing.

MS. FISK: That was going to be my request, that at some time, Your Honor -- and I will make that request at the appropriate time when the defense indicates it is calling no further witnesses -- I would make the request on the record to establish that that is in fact --

THE COURT: I want a colloquy to make sure that the Defendant understands that he has a right to take the stand if he wishes and he also has a right not to. All I want to know is whether this is his wish. Because I don't want to get another, second PCRA against you gentlemen from New York accusing you of preventing him from taking the stand.

MS. FISK: I would also ask, Your Honor, to place on the record -- with the exception of those witnesses whom the defense offered whose subpoenas were quashed who were in the Courtroom and not permitted to testify -- I would ask whether there were any additional witnesses who they are not calling and if they are not calling them that it is as a result of an intentional, strategic decision and for no other basis?

THE COURT: Do you want to think about it until tomorrow?

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's bring it up tomorrow.

THE COURT: Okay, let's think about it until tomorrow. Okay, adjourn until tomorrow.

THE COURT OFFICER: Court stands adjourned until 9:30.

(The hearing was adjourned for the day at this time.)

(At 10:15 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

For the record, I adjourned yesterday to today to give the Defendant an opportunity to consider whether or not he wishes to testify in this case.

Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal, will you please come up here to the front.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, on advice of Counsel, Mr. Jamal has no statements to make to the Court.

THE COURT: Well, he will have a few statements to make to me. I said, I know, you can advise him all you want.

MR. WEINGLASS: And he is acting pursuant to that advice. He is not going to make a statement to the Court.

THE COURT: Counselor, I will remove you from the case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because I advise my client?

Page 4.

THE COURT: No, because you are interfering with the Court. I want to talk to him personally. I want to hear him say that he doesn't want to take the stand, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, he has verified the Petition. His position is clear in this Court.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. I don't know how you handle matters in New York, but in Pennsylvania we have a certain way of handling these matters. This is what I want to hear from your client.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think the right to Counsel covers both jurisdictions. And I think the Fifth Amendment covers both jurisdictions.

THE COURT: Counselor, we have an obligation to ascertain whether or not this is his decision. You can give him advice but he himself has to make that decision. That's what I want on the record.

So will you please get up here, please, Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could I have a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.

Page 5.

THE COURT: If you wish, Counselor, you could stand next to him. Give him whatever advice you want to.

- - - - -

Mumia Abu-Jamal, having been duly affirmed, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

THE COURT: Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal, good morning.

THE DEFENDANT: Good morning.

THE COURT: Did you have a nice night's sleep?

THE DEFENDANT: I had a fair night's sleep. A fair night.

THE COURT: Yes. You had your breakfast?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I did, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, good. You are feeling all right today?

THE DEFENDANT: I feel fair.

THE COURT: Good. Now I just want to ask you a few questions. I am required to do this.

Are you under the influence of any drugs or alcohol today?

THE DEFENDANT: I'm under the influence of Motrin.

THE COURT: What is it?

THE DEFENDANT: Motrin.

THE COURT: And when did you take that?

THE DEFENDANT: 6:00 a.m.

THE COURT: 6:00 a.m. Even though you have taken that medication, do you feel that you understand everything that's going on here?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, Your Honor, I do.

THE COURT: All right. You know that you have a right to take the stand if you wish. You also have a right not to take the stand. But that must be your decision. I know you've conferred with Counsel and Counsel tells you the benefits of taking the stand and the disadvantages of taking the stand. But ultimately you yourself have to make that decision.

Have you considered what your attorney has told you?

THE DEFENDANT: May I confer, Your Honor?

Page 7.

THE COURT: Confer, yes.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between the Defendant and Mr. Weinglass.)

THE DEFENDANT: I have, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. And is it your position today that you do not wish to take the stand?

THE DEFENDANT: It is my position today to follow the advice of Counsel.

THE COURT: Okay. That's perfectly all right, but all I want to know is is it your decision and yours alone -- because you must make that, even though Counsel is giving you advice, you must make that decision yourself -- is it your decision that you do not wish to take the stand?

THE DEFENDANT: I understand your question, Your Honor. My response is that it is on the advice of Counsel not to take the stand.

THE COURT: Well, then I assume that by that you mean you do not wish to take the stand.

THE DEFENDANT: I think I've answered, Your Honor.

Page 8.

THE COURT: No, you haven't.

THE DEFENDANT: I am following the advice of Counsel.

THE COURT: I know that. But all I want to know is following the advice of Counsel, do you wish to the take the stand or do you not wish to take the stand? It is a simple question.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Excuse me just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

THE DEFENDANT: On the advice of Counsel my wish is not really relevant. I am following the advice of Counsel.

THE COURT: Well, then I take it that you are following the advice of Counsel and based on that advice you do not intend to take the stand?

THE DEFENDANT: On the advice of Counsel.

THE COURT: Yes. But you're making that decision yourself?

Page 9.

THE DEFENDANT: On the advice of Counsel.

THE COURT: Okay. Now you are mincing words with me. But I am not going to worry about that too much. Are there any other witnesses you want to call?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE DEFENDANT: That's Counsels' decision, if I may withdraw, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Are there any other questions you want to ask him?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor. As I stated yesterday, at the time the defense is prepared to rest on this Petition, I will ask for a statement from Counsel that any witnesses whose subpoenas had not been quashed or had not been barred in testifying who nevertheless are not being called are not being called for a strategic or other reasonable basis. But at this time I have no further questions.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may, there is one additional witness who is referred to in the Petition which Counsel has had now for two months. And this is a witness who is a person whose recollection of what happened on the night in question we believe to be not entirely accurate. We believe his recollection today is not entirely accurate. We believe his recollection which was given in a sworn statement in 1990 was not entirely accurate. However, this is a witness who advises us, and we have no reason to disbelieve this, that he was with Cynthia White on the night of the occurrence.

Your Honor will recall she testified that she was with a gentleman whose name she didn't remember, she described him I believe as being about five-foot-eight to five-ten, husky build, dark-skinned, male African American. She described that man but he was not produced at trial. She didn't know his name. And Officer, a highway patrolman named Vernon Jones filed a police report that night in which he said he came upon the scene sometime shortly after the shooting in response to a radio call and while he was there he met a gentleman who was also there who he had known. And he knew this man as Dales. And upon further investigation, he indicated that Dales was William Dale Singletary, a gentleman who he saw that night, who he talked to, who had a tow truck which the Officer Vernon Jones frequently interacted with and therefore confirmed that he knew William Dale Singletary.

William Dale Singletary then went down to the police station that night and he was interviewed. And a statement exists in the record which the police took from William Dale Singletary that night. I am merely indicating that he is someone who Cynthia White I believe said she was with at the time of the occurrence, somebody which, who a highway patrolman said he saw on the night of the occurrence at the corner of 13th and Locust shortly after the shooting, and someone who was interviewed by the police a little later within the hour at the, at Homicide.

William Dale Singletary then came forward in 1990 and went to the office of Mr. Jamal's then Counsel who had completed the appeal but was apparently still Counsel for purposes of petition to the United States Supreme Court. And appellate Counsel met with him and appellate Counsel took a statement from him which is in a deposition format.

Page 12.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am going to interrupt for one reason. And that is because, I know that Counsel would like everybody to know all about this witness and how it would change the result of this trial. The problem is that Mr. Singletary was a person known to the defense at the time of trial in 1982. A person who had given a statement to the police in 1981. He therefore cannot be considered an after-discovered witness. And my understanding is that Mr. Jackson was not questioned regarding his failure to call Mr. Singletary or any basis for having called or not having called Mr. Singletary. And unless and until such a foundation is established through Mr. Jackson, no information about Singletary becomes relevant.

MR. WEINGLASS: If Counsel will just please, please, I beg you to give me the courtesy of completing my statement. Because your assumption is utterly in error. Mr. Singletary is not a newly-discovered witness.

MS. FISK: Nor is he --

THE COURT: That's what she said.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is not.

Page 13.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the assumption that she had was that that's why we were calling him. That is not why we are calling him.

THE COURT: No, she said that you never asked Anthony Jackson who was the attorney at the time why he didn't call him.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, right, right. Now let me --

THE COURT: That is the issue.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let me continue and I will explain why we didn't do that and why we are calling the witness.

THE COURT: Well, is he here?

MR. WEINGLASS: Ahh, he is, I have just been handed --

THE COURT: Is he here?

MR. WEINGLASS: He will be here momentarily. But please, will the Court let me complete?

THE COURT: Wait awhile. I don't have to worry about that.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, I have to state on the record why we are calling Mr. Singletary. You are not giving me a chance to do that.

THE COURT: Well, you said he has something to add to this case.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, he has something very precisely to add. If the Court will please give me five minutes to state on the record why we are offering the witness. The witness gave a statement to the police that night.

THE COURT: I heard that.

MR. WEINGLASS: And that statement was turned over to Mr. Jackson.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WEINGLASS: That statement, according to what the witness tells us, is a completely false statement typed in by the police. He tells us that he gave the police an entirely different statement that night. As a matter of fact, he said he wrote out in his own hand several statements which the police then tore up in his presence and forced him to write this statement. Thereafter he, he says, he tells us that he was subject to -- and I won't go into the details -- a pattern of harassment and intimidation which ultimately caused him great personal harm and disadvantage and disrupted his business. And ultimately had a very negative effect on his business and his personal life.

We contend this witness is a Brady witness. We do not offer him as a newly-discovered witness. And we contend he's Brady because the statements he gave the police that night about what he remembers which he no longer can recall with accuracy were tore up by the police and never turned over properly to the defense.

Now, if you look at our Petition, in our Petition we name Mr. Singletary and we put him in the category of a Brady witness.

THE COURT: Okay. I understand your position.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: What is your objection to that?

MS. FISK: Well, first, Your Honor, the Commonwealth has never received an affidavit from this witness. In Counsels' Petition they make reference to Mr. Singletary and claim in huge letters that because this person has been so harassed by the police for so many years, unless and until the Court issues a protective order for him, we're not presenting his affidavit or any information about him. I am not aware that Counsel has ever come into this Court and requested the issuance of such a protective order, has never sought to take the necessary action so that the Commonwealth could receive an affidavit from this witness. With the exception of a statement which was signed by him given in 1981, we have received no affidavit regarding Mr. Singletary from Mr. Singletary or any other individual.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am now asking -- I am being interrupted and then I am being --

THE COURT: Well, that's all right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Criticized. I am asking for pro --

THE COURT: She said she never received an affidavit which you are required to submit.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is a deposition for him and I'm asking for a pro --

THE COURT: Deposition for him?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I'm asking for a protective order for this witness.

THE COURT: Protective order for what? I didn't issue a protective order for the last witness. You said his entire circumstances. I didn't give a protective order for anybody.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is my impression that this man is living in fear.

THE COURT: Well, that is your impression.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we have tried to bring him to Court, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we have been unable to bring him until today. And my impression is, and it is my impression, that the man is utterly afraid to come here. Because of what he heard about what this Court has done and it's practices.

THE COURT: What have I done? I let them get on there and tell me anything they want to tell me.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yeah, you put a witness on the stand yesterday over our objection.

THE COURT: Counselor, when the whole record is transcribed everybody will know the situation, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I hope so.

THE COURT: I hope so too. Including our sidebar conference. Everybody will know.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well.

THE COURT: That was not sealed.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness yesterday, without sleep, without adequate food --

THE COURT: Oh, yes, I know.

MR. WEINGLASS: Without seeing the photographs.

THE COURT: Well, he saw the photographs, I gave them to him.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is no way to conduct a hearing.

THE COURT: Yes, that's the way. That is the way.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is a certain way.

THE COURT: Right. When all the notes are transcribed it will be obvious to everybody, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I'm asking for a pro --

THE COURT: I will not issue a

protective order. He could come in here like everybody else. What is wrong with that?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would object to the granting of a protective order.

THE COURT: I am not granting any protective order.

MS. FISK: My basis for objecting, Your Honor, is because the Commonwealth has now concluded that we can no longer accept representations of Counsel that are made at the bar of the Court. And I point specifically to the fact that the witness who testified yesterday, Mr. Harmon, was a witness who after he was discovered and after we learned Miss Wolkenstein traveled to Pittsburgh to meet with him, Counsel advised us that they were unable to provide the Commonwealth with an affidavit as was requested by the Court because the witness was in Pittsburgh.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we didn't have an affidavit.

THE COURT: Just a minute, Counselor.

MS. FISK: Nevertheless, we learned yesterday from Mr. Harmon that the document which was handed to him by defense Counsel is a document in the handwriting of Miss Wolkenstein, it is written as an affidavit, that that original was in Miss Wolkenstein's possession when she left.

MR. WEINGLASS: If Counsel doesn't know the difference between a statement and an affidavit she is going to have to learn. We were asked about an affidavit and there was no affidavit. We were never asked about a statement.

MS. FISK: I never remember hearing this Court demand that the affidavits that were submitted from any witnesses be notarized. That is an affidavit, it is simply not notarized. And as the Court would look, if you saw in the Petition, Miss Wolkenstein herself notarized some of the documents that are in this Petition and she very easily could have notarized that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I am not a notary in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This is absurd.

THE COURT: Well, she said you notarized --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This is absurd. I am not qualified in the Commonwealth of

Page 21.

Pennsylvania as a notary.

THE COURT: Well, she said you notarized some other things.

MR. WEINGLASS: All in New York State. Your Honor keeps reminding us that there is a difference between the Commonwealth and New York, but in this instance, those differences are blurred.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is the impression of the Commonwealth that Miss Wolkenstein and the defense Counsel made material misrepresentations to the Court last Friday regarding their inability to present the Commonwealth and the Court with any affidavit of Mr. Harmon.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

MS. FISK: Based on our conclusion that Counsel has made material misrepresentations at the bar of the Court, we do not accept Counsel's representations made today at the bar of the Court regarding this witness and the fact that he needs a protective order. And for that reason we object to any granting of a protective order.

Page 22.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court has already denied the protective order.

THE COURT: I am not granting any protective order.

MR. WEINGLASS: You see, there is no problem.

THE COURT: I am not granting a protective order.
MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: I see no need for it. Now, the situation is he wants to put him on the stand.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, we have a right to review whatever documents, affidavits or depositions or unsworn statements they have.

THE COURT: Do you have any affidavits from this witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we do.

THE COURT: Why don't you give it to her.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will provide it right now.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: In the meantime, there are other matters that Counsel will have an, if

Page 23.

Counsel will have --

THE COURT: What other matters?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: What other matters?

MR. WEINGLASS: Just some housekeeping and some other evidential matters that we wanted to submit for the record.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and Defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: I did also want to state for the record that yesterday, August the --

THE COURT: 10th.

MR. WEINGLASS: 10th -- thank you -- I received a copy of the March 18th transcript, 1982. It's 80 pages in length.

THE COURT: You received those a week ago, didn't you?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: You received that long ago.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I received a week ago December 2lst, April 1st and February 22nd. It wasn't until yesterday that I got March 18th.

Page 24.

And March 18th is a substantive hearing. It's 80 pages in length. It involves major issues of --

THE COURT: Well, read it. I will give you time to read it. Read it now.

MR. WEINGLASS: In the middle of a PCRA hearing?

THE COURT: Sure. You're a lawyer, you can read that in no time. Read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, this is no way to conduct a hearing.

THE COURT: We will take a short recess.

MR. BURNS: Could Counsel give us a copy so we could read it too?

MR. WEINGLASS: I only have one. Everyone is operating in the dark here. The Court, Counsel. This is no way --

THE COURT: The Court's not operating in the dark. Maybe you are but I'm not.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, maybe the Court enjoys the dark more than I.

MR. BURNS: The offer of proof is turning everything over at the last possible moment.

Page 25.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Counselor, I warned you before: Anymore snide remarks about the Judge is going to cost you a thousand dollars. Now, no more of that nonsense.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have been the recipient of some snide remarks.

THE COURT: Well, that's all right, take it up with the Supreme Court. But you don't do that to this Court in this Courtroom. A thousand dollars it will cost you. Now cut it out. I will give you time to read it.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note for the record that the Commonwealth did provide defense Counsel this morning with an amended list of witnesses for today's date listing three witnesses, all of whom are witnesses offered to rebut testimony we've heard on the last two days. And my query to the Court is whether we are going to reach that? I know we don't know that for the next 15 minutes, I am simply advising the Court of that.

THE COURT: Yes, well, if necessary we will work as long as necessary today to get it all over with.

Page 26.

MS. FISK: At least one of those witnesses today is no longer a police officer, is someone who is taking time away from his business to remain available to the Court.

THE COURT: Well, we will take him first as soon as we have the opportunity.

MS. FISK: He has to be taken second just as a matter of introducing documents.

MR. WEINGLASS: As I understand it, all the witnesses pertain to the witness Arnold Howard?

MS. FISK: No, not all of them, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, talk among yourselves. Read your transcript. And, Gina, do we have an extra copy of that?

MS. FURIA: The Court's never received a copy of it.

THE COURT: We never received it either?

MS. FURIA: No.

THE COURT: All right. If necessary we'll read it too. But go ahead. Read it. Take a short recess.

Page 27.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court will take a brief recess to the call of the Crier.

- - - - -

(Brief recess.)

- - - - -

THE COURT OFFICER: Court is back in session. Please take your seats.

THE COURT: Where is the... is he back there?

THE COURT OFFICER: She's right here.

THE COURT: You don't have to take the stand. Will you please just go down there at the front of the bar, please. Will you tell us who you are and your title.

MS. GARVIN: My name is Peggy Garvin. I'm a Court Administrative Officer for the Court of Common Pleas.

THE COURT: There is some question about some notes of testimony. Were you in charge of seeing that they were delivered?

MS. GARVIN: Yes, I was.

THE COURT: Do you have that information in front of you?

MS. GARVIN: Yes, I do.

Page 28.

THE COURT: And what was the date of that, March the...?

MR. WEINGLASS: 18th.

THE COURT: March the 18th.

MR. WEINGLASS: 1982.

MS. GARVIN: March the 18th, it was delivered last Wednesday.

THE COURT: By whom?

MS. GARVIN: I brought them to this Courtroom and I gave them to the Court Officer... I don't see him. It was a sort of stout, dark-brown-skinned gentleman. I came to the back and I was standing back there. And he said I could go and one of the Sheriffs called him over and I gave him the volume and he brought them up here to the front.

THE COURT: Whose volumes were they, do you know?

MS. GARVIN: Say that again.

THE COURT: Were they for me?

MS. GARVIN: No, sir, yours had been delivered that Monday and this was Wednesday when I brought over these.

THE COURT: Oh, you delivered mine to my chambers over there?

Page 29.

MS. GARVIN: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: On Monday. But the other two -- how many did you bring? Two? Three?

MS. GARVIN: One volume was delivered this past Wednesday and three volumes were delivered the Wednesday of August the 2nd.

THE COURT: Well, which ones were delivered? I mean what days were they for?

MS. GARVIN: This past Wednesday I delivered here to the Courtroom for attorney Weinglass a volume dated 3-18-82.

THE COURT: Okay. And how about the District Attorney?

MS. GARVIN: District Attorney's Office picks up the notes of testimony from our copy center and they've never been picked up.

THE COURT: Oh, they didn't pick them up?

MS. GARVIN: No, they didn't. I brought them with me.

MS. FISK: I was advised by a Court Officer that apparently a message was left on Mr. Grant's telephone that the notes were ready. As this Court is aware, Mr. Grant has been away this week. And I certainly haven't been collecting his messages.

MS. GARVIN: The message was left on Mr. Grant's phone that the notes were ready on 7-31 and Mr. Grant was not on vacation at that time.

THE COURT: Okay, will you give her the notes, then.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT: She is giving her copies of the notes.

MS. GARVIN: (Handing).

THE COURT: Does anybody else have any questions that they want to ask the Court administrator?

MS. FISK: Thanks (handing).

THE COURT: All right, thank you very much.

MS. GARVIN: Okay, I thank you.

THE COURT: Sorry to inconvenience you.

MS. GARVIN: No problem.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think when the witness indicated last Wednesday she was referring to August the 8th, two days ago. And I got my copy yesterday, August the 9th.

Page 31.

THE COURT: Well, I thought you said you got it today.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I thought you said you got it today.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I got it yesterday. It was delivered to my hotel room after Court yesterday. And I found it this morning.

THE COURT: Who delivered it to you?

MR. WEINGLASS: I don't know. I actually don't know. But I found it in a pile of papers this morning... and I got it.

But I just read it, and in reading it I find matters of substance in this transcript. Mr. Jackson, Anthony Jackson on March 18th, 1982, about five, six weeks before the trial, accused the prosecution of impropriety in keeping witnesses from him. And that is something that we didn't have.

THE COURT: Wait awhile. That was in front of Judge Ribner.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: I'm sure Judge Ribner took care of that.

Page 32.

MR. WEINGLASS: Ahh, no, but --

THE COURT: What do you mean no? He did. If it was done in front of Judge Ribner he took care of it, whatever the problem was.

MR. WEINGLASS: Has Your Honor read the transcript?

THE COURT: Yes, I must have, it's delivered to me on Monday. I think I went through it and I put it in the box where I have all the other notes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, then Your Honor knows that it wasn't in fact dealt with.

THE COURT: Why wasn't it?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well... the Court said to him, you're getting very close to accusing someone of impropriety.

MR. BURNS: Could we have a page, Your Honor?

MR. WEINGLASS: Page 53.

MR. BURNS: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Jackson said yes, sir, I understand I am.

> The Court: And you think somebody from the District Attorney's Office is telling these witnesses not to talk to you.

Page 33.

> Mr. Jackson: I don't know, Your Honor. You've asked me and I have said I don't know. I said someone, I don't know whether it's in the District Attorney's Office or --
> And then he is cut off by the Court: Then you know of your own personal knowledge that someone has contacted these witnesses and said don't talk to Mr. Jackson.
>
> I don't know personally.
>
> The Court: Then all this is speculative on your part.
>
> Mr. Jackson: Not totally, Your Honor.
>
> The Court: In what way isn't it totally.
> Mr. Jackson: I have reason to believe that these witnesses, or at least some of these witnesses, have been told not to talk to the defense.

Now, these are very important issues.

THE COURT: All right, go ahead, keep reading. The Judge must have said something.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay? based --

> The Court: Okay, what's your reason.
>
> Mr. Jackson: Based on some privileged investigation that has been provided to me, Your

Page 34.

> Honor.
>
> The Court: Specifically what.
> Mr. Jackson: I'm not in a position to disclose that, Your Honor.
>
> The Court: What's the big secret. You're asking the District Attorney's Office to reveal everything but the kitchen sink. What's the reason for not divulging that information?
>
> Mr. Jackson... I think the rights and duties of the Commonwealth as opposed to the Defendant are different. Whether we agree or not, we are different.
>
> The Court: What reason do you have to believe that someone in the District Attorney's Office told a witness not to say anything to you.
>
> Mr. Jackson: I've never said anyone in the District Attorney's Office has done that.
>
> The Court: If you are going to give the impression that somebody in this case is conspiring to keep information from you, let's get it out in the open. If not, you're going to have to back off. Because there is no conspiracy that I can see here.
>
> Mr. Jackson: I can't go into that > right now, Your Honor.

Page 35.

And it goes on. So it was, the point I'm making, Your Honor: There was a record made of Mr. Jackson's complaints.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Which we didn't know about until I just read it this morning.

THE COURT: Counselor, it's been resolved already through the Court there. These are pre-trial matters. I am not going to get into any of that nonsense. It's already --

MR. WEINGLASS: It's not nonsense.

THE COURT: Counselor, take it up with the Supreme Court when the case gets there, all right.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would also say this transcript contains other matters, such as Mr. Jackson's attempting to get resources.

THE COURT: I know that. We went through all of that when he was there on the stand. And you could take it up with whomever you wish at the proper time. As far as I am concerned, that issue is over, period. Now let's go forward.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, with respect to the witness Singletary, I wasn't able to complete my recitation on the witness. This morning I spoke to Mr. Singletary and I asked him if he would come to Court. He was in bed.

THE COURT: Just awhile ago you told me he was here.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I said he was on his way.

THE COURT: When is he going to get here?

MR. WEINGLASS: I asked him to come to Court. If Your Honor will please bear with me.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: He said that he was too ill to come to Court. I know the man's medical record, I have gone over his medical history. He said he was too ill, he could not testify. I said what do you mean. He said if I get on the stand today, I probably wouldn't even know your name. I said well, what's happening. He said I haven't slept in three days. He's a diabetic. He suffers from hypertension and he suffers from high blood pressure. He is on four different medications.

THE COURT: How long am I supposed to wait for him?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor.

THE COURT: How long am I supposed to wait for him? Do you have a doctor to come in here and tell me when he is going to be available to testify?

MR. WEINGLASS: I do not have a doctor.

THE COURT: Well, then you better get one, because as far as I am concerned I am not going to sit around and wait. This Court has other matters to take care of. This case is not the only case, you know. I have other cases, all right.

So is he the only other witness you are going to call?

MR. WEINGLASS: Umm... well, there are other issues around other witnesses.

THE COURT: No, don't give me other issues. Who do you want to call? Don't hesitate. Don't give me that stuff I have to decide. I am under a duty too.

MR. WEINGLASS: There are additional matters we would like to introduce into evidence which we will do right now.

Page 38.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, a couple of days ago a statement of authentication from the FBI was presented and marked for identification with the Court. They concern these six volumes of FBI files which indicate Philadelphia Police Department surveillance of Mr. Jamal in the period of 1968 through, heavily, through 1974 with other additions going up as far as 1986 and '87. These records we believe are relevant.

THE COURT: '86 and '87?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes.

THE COURT: He was in jail.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, he was. But nonetheless, activities of his defense, of people who visited him in prison, they are contained in here.

So I would like these to be admitted into evidence as part of the record, as one of our claims in our Petition dealing with the question of both bias as well as mitigation, and Brady violations. And I would submit these into evidence at this time based upon the authentication document which has already been delivered to the prosecution as well as to the

Court, as well as into the Exhibits file.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, my understanding is that this was sought and ruled on by this Court sometime within the past week. This Court ruled that these records are not relevant to these proceedings, that there has been no foundation established. The fact that the FBI has records, and whether or not, frankly, these are the records is unknown to me. And the fact that there is a letter presented saying that something is authentic does not tell me or the Court whether what Miss Wolkenstein is now contending is authentic. Or the affidavit she took from a witness last week.

THE COURT: What I am concerned about: What does that have to do with who killed Officer Faulkner?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it was on the basis of that question and the fact that these were not, there has been no relevance shown with regard to these proceedings that this Court several days ago ruled that those records are not to be admitted. That was previously ruled.

My understanding is when the Court rules you accept that ruling. You may not like it but you accept it. Your Honor has previously ruled that these records are not to be marked and not to be admitted into evidence.

THE COURT: If I previously ruled, that ruling still stands.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, your ruling was --

THE COURT: What I have already ruled, what I have said I have said. Take it up with the appellate Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor is even refusing to mark it so it could go up on appeal to make a determination whether or not this Court was in error or not?

THE COURT: Hold on to them. If the Supreme Court wants them they will ask for it. But that is my ruling, it wasn't to be admitted. That's it. What else do you have?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All right, next issue: We had a ballistics expert -- what?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, I just want to, Counsel is reminding me that I wanted to make clear for the record that this was the product of three years of attempt to be able to get information from the FBI that we believed was absolutely relevant and crucial to our defense of Mr. Jamal and for this hearing.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And I wanted to indicate to you we only got these documents in April of 1995.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: After three years of attempts. The last volume we got was while the hearing was taking place here.

THE COURT: Okay, you made your point.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could these be marked for identification only?

THE COURT: No, they will not. If the Supreme Court wants them they'll ask for them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All right. Your Honor, the next issue is the following. About a week ago, a week ago Wednesday, we had Ph.D students of Dr. Peter Deforest, who is a ballistics expert, take photographs of the bullet that was taken from Officer Faulkner's head and the other bullets and fragments that were with the evidence as well as the weapons. The purpose of this was to try and get at least a preliminary opinion as to whether or not it would be possible to measure the lands and grooves on these, on the bullet in question. The key bullet which is the one taken from Officer Faulkner's brain.

The examination of these photos, which are one-to-one photos by Dr. Deforest, indicated according to him the following, that the land impressions --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would object to what it indicated to Dr. Deforest. My understanding was there was going to be representation to whether or not any additional witnesses are being called.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I am pursuing that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, are you calling him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I have --

THE COURT: Are you calling him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There is a

Page 43.

preliminary question.

THE COURT: I don't need your preliminary question. I don't want to hear about all of this.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The point, Your Honor, is that the land impressions are wider than the groove impressions on this bullet.

THE COURT: All I want to know, Counselor, please, all I want to know is are you going to call him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Are you going to call him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, the point, Your Honor --

THE COURT: No, the point is are you going to call him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: At this point we can not call him, Your Honor, for the following reason.

THE COURT: Well, I don't want to hear anything more. I don't want to hear anything more.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The impression --

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't want to hear anymore argument from you on this issue.

Page 44.

If you are going to call him call him. If you are not going to call him don't give me any story about what he is going to do. You want to do that out on the street when you have people out there, do that out there, not in this Courtroom. You either call that witness or you don't.

Now, what else?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, Your Honor, there is another issue here which was the question of the, the question of these photographs. Various representations were made on the witness stand, sworn testimony by Your Honor's clerk. And I wanted it to be clear for the record -- and Miss West is here, she can state for the record -- that on July 18th she visited the PCRA unit and requested these photos. And she was told at that time, in the PCRA unit, on July 18th, that all exhibits, including the photos, were in the Police Evidence Room. And then the Police Evidence Room said that we needed a Court order or the D.A.' s presence to get these.

THE COURT: Well, that's what you are saying.

Page 45.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And that is what led -- well, your clerk testifies --

THE COURT: You got the photos.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That led, Your Honor, to the order, the order of this Court, dated July 2Oth, 1995, allowing us to see those photos and to do this.

THE COURT: I know that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And putting all the evidence in the custody of Detective Walsh.

THE COURT: I know that. We have gone through all of that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Following my review of the physical evidence, and when the photos were not there, I already made representations as to what Detective Walsh told me, I submitted a letter to the District Attorney's Office and to the Court on July 25th, 1995 indicating that those photos were not available. I just want --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I just wanted the record to be clear, since there has already been sworn testimony on this, that in fact we did go to the PCRA unit, we did check to see if they were there. And we were told they were not. I want that record to be clear.

THE COURT: All right. Okay I and I ordered them to recoup them and we gave them to the officer to have copies made for you. So what. Let's go forward. Do you have anymore witnesses?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All right, I had had one other matter, and then there is a couple...

My matter, Your Honor, additional one, is after Court yesterday I attempted to see Mr. William Harmon to say thank you for him being willing to come in. He had already testified. And I was told by the officers up there that I was not allowed to see him because he was still under a sequestration order.

THE COURT: So write him a letter.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I want to object to that.

THE COURT: No, write him a letter and thank him for testifying, Counselor. I am not going to get into this nonsense. I am only here now on a PCRA matter and all you are doing is stalling me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, I am making a record.

Page 47.

THE COURT: No, don't make any record. Because it doesn't mean anything. If you want to thank him write him a letter and thank him.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In point of fact for no good reason he was under a sequestration order.

THE COURT: Yes, okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: After he testified.

THE COURT: Yes, okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, these are the FBI files, I am serving this copy on the District Attorney (handing).

MS. FISK: I am not accepting service for anything from Miss Wolkenstein, Your Honor (handing). Or Defense Counsel. They can have them. I don't know what they are. I have already made a personal determination as to Miss Wolkenstein's credibility at the bar of the Court and I am not accepting anything.

MR. BURNS: Could we put an end to this childishness and begin presenting evidence and get on with this case?

THE COURT: I am hoping they are going to get to that point. I would like to get to that point.

Page 48.

MR. BURNS: This is puerile, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I know. Write a letter to Mr. Harmon. He will be glad to get your letter.

MR. WEINGLASS: There have been previously filed with the Court an Amended Petition which I ask that that be moved into evidence.

THE COURT: Amended Petition?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we filed a --

THE COURT: Well, did you file it with the Court?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Then it is in there, it is in the Court records.

MR. WEINGLASS: We filed it with an order asking the Court to grant the Petitioner leave to file the Amended Petition. Has the Court --

THE COURT: Well, it's in there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Has the Court signed the order?

THE COURT: I haven't signed any order but it's in there. All I want to know: Do you have anymore witnesses? That's all I am asking you now.

MR. WEINGLASS: The next point depends on whether or not the Court will sign the order for the Amended Petition. We have to Petition the Court for leave. And I am now asking --

THE COURT: You don't have to. All I have been asking you all along is do you have anymore witnesses.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but.

THE COURT: Who do you have?

MR. WEINGLASS: The next point, Your Honor, that I am going to go into is contained in the Amended Petition.

THE COURT: All right, don't worry about it. Who do you want to call?

MR. WEINGLASS: Will the Court grant us leave to file the Amended --

THE COURT: Who do you want to call?

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to put into evidence two affidavits.

THE COURT: Who do you want to call as your next witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am submitting

Page 50.

affidavits at this point.

THE COURT: All right. Well, who are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: Two affidavits. The affidavits of Alma Lee Austin, who now goes by the name Alma Cranshaw. And the affidavit of Darlene Sampson, who now goes by the name of Darlene Campbell. Those two affidavits are appended to our Amended Petition. That's why I wanted the Court to enter an order permitting us --

THE COURT: Don't worry about it. Did you get copy of these?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, these are two persons who were, two of three persons who were the subject of a stipulation between Counsel.

THE COURT: Oh, you mean that stipulation Grant entered into?

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Well, that is on the record already.

MS. FISK: There is a stipulation. The Commonwealth objects to any affidavit being accepted as a matter of evidence.

THE COURT: No, it's stipulated and it's in the record, that's it.

Page 51.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the stipulation wasn't to our satisfaction.

THE COURT: Well, I'm sorry about that. But a stipulation was entered into and it's part of the record and that's it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Period. That's why I am not going to sign any further orders. Do you have anybody else brought in?

MR. WEINGLASS: There is an additional affidavit, I would like to have it marked as the next defense exhibit. I am providing a copy to Counsel.

MS. FISK: Your Honor --

MR. WEINGLASS: I am submitting this into evidence.

THE COURT: Well, Counselor, submit it to the Supreme Court, I am not going to take it here. There's already a stipulation, it's there for what it's worth, and I am not going to take it.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is the affidavit of Beverly Greene.

THE COURT: I don't care who it is an affidavit of.

MR. WEINGLASS: We use it as a basis for withdrawing our portion of the stipulation.

THE COURT: No. Take it up with the Supreme Court. You entered into a stipulation, that's it, period.

MR. WEINGLASS: We feel the stipulation is no longer accurate and we want to correct the stipulation.

THE COURT: Okay, fine, correct it up at the Supreme Court. Let's go forward. Do you have anybody else?

MR. BURNS: Could we have a moment, Your Honor?

MR. WEINGLASS: I want the record to show that I attempted to put in the affidavit of Beverly Greene.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, this document states in the second page, there is a handwritten notation on whatever I was handed, it says I am not the Beverly Greene described in this paper, 8-7-95, and it's signed Beverly

Page 53.

Greene.

THE COURT: Not the person.

MR. BURNS: What kind of affidavit is this?

MS. FISK: It is not an affidavit.

THE COURT: Maybe you ought to let him put it in.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is an attempt on the part of the defense to correct the stipulation.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I have ruled already, let's go. Anything else?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Defense and Commonwealth Counsel.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I do object to a document which is, frankly, not signed by anyone being marked even for identification.

THE COURT: Counselor, if he wants to take it up with the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court wants to look at it, that's fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine, fine.

THE COURT: I don't want it here, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just for the record:

Page 54.

It is a signed document.

MS. FISK: Well, it is signed by someone other than about whom it is written.

MR. BURNS: What is signed is a statement that that is not an affidavit of the witness.

THE COURT: If it is important enough they will send it back down to me, I'm sure. Are there any other witnesses you want to call? How about the Defendant's brother, are you going to call him?

Are you going to call the Defendant's brother?

MR. WEINGLASS: Ahh, we are not.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is one other matter which is part of the Amended Petition. And it is an August 19th, 1979 news report.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of a United States government lawsuit against the Philadelphia Police alleging, among others, abuse and intimidation of witnesses.

THE COURT: Counselor, it is not a proper thing before this Court at this time. If you want to give it to the Supreme Court, if they are willing to consider it, fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would --

THE COURT: To me it is not relevant at this time. I will not accept anything about any article in the newspaper and that's it, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Then --

THE COURT: I said that's it, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is another item which I would like to have marked, which is a Philadelphia Daily News piece of August 7th, 1995 entitled Fraternal Order of Protest.

THE COURT: Fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: Which indicates that the police were --

THE COURT: That is another newspaper article, I will not except that.

MR. BURNS: If it please the Court, Your Honor: I had something from the Daily News I was planning to put on the record so perhaps we should let these things in.

THE COURT: No, no, no, if the Supreme Court is interested in reading any news article they will say so. If not --

Page 56.

MR. BURNS: It goes to the defense motion to seek reconsideration of the recusal motion. This was a notation in the August 9th Daily News saying that, saying that the defense encouraged the March on the Judge's house back in July.

THE COURT: I know, okay.

MR. BURNS: I thought that was an interesting statement.

THE COURT: Let him present it to the Supreme Court. If they think it is important they will put it in the record.

MR. BURNS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just thought I wanted it to be marked for identification only.

THE COURT: No, I am not marking any newspaper article for identification.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. This goes to the current attitudes of police activity around this case.

THE COURT: I know, I know. All right, Counselor, take it up with the Supreme Court. Any other witnesses that you want to call?

Page 57.

THE COURT: Any other witnesses? I asked you a question, Counselor, I am expecting an answer. Are there any other witnesses that you intend to call?

MR. WEINGLASS: As I indicated to the Court: I am awaiting the arrival of Mr. Singletary but I'm very concerned about his condition.

THE COURT: I know that, you told me he's sick. If he doesn't come here today, that's it.

Anything else?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

MS. FISK: The record should reflect with regard to Mr. Singletary, Your Honor, that according to this document which has been handed to us about 20 minutes ago, that they have been aware of his relevance to a PCRA proceeding since August the 3lst, 1990, when he allegedly made a statement to Ms. Wolkenstein in Philadelphia.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MS. FISK: And that today was the first time that --

Page 58.

MR. WEINGLASS: No other witnesses.

THE COURT: Then you are resting?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he is not available.

THE COURT: Okay. Then you are resting?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he is not available to us.

THE COURT: Well, then you are resting?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he is not here, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Then you are resting?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is up to the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you want to present any evidence?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Did you give him copies of whatever you want to do?

MS. FISK: I handed an amended list of witnesses to Counsel this morning, yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

Have you had a chance to look it over?

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I just didn't hear that.

Page 59.

THE COURT: She said she gave you a list of --

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, yes, we have the list.

THE COURT: And --

MR. WEINGLASS: We got it this morning.

THE COURT: I know that. Well, that's when I got it too. She didn't know when you were going to finish up.

All right, do you want to call your witnesses then?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor. Just as a matter of scheduling purposes, Dr. Hood is one of the witnesses on the list. In light of the hour, may I presume that Dr. Hood will not testify until after lunch? Or I could have him come and we could go straight through?

THE COURT: No, why don't you tell me when. What time is he available?

MS. FISK: I can call him and have him here in 20 minutes. I could have him come while the first two witnesses testify, as long as we then go forward I have no problem with that.

THE COURT: Don't you want to have lunch? Why don't you call him after lunch, then.

Page 60.

MS. FISK: All right, I will.

THE COURT: Because it's 11:30 now and we haven't done a thing all morning and I would like to get moving.

MS. FISK: Right.

THE COURT: If we tried all our cases like this we'd never get rid of any backlog. So whoever you have put him on and we'll take him up after lunch.

MS. FISK: Fine, that's just what I wanted to find out: Whether you wanted me to bring him here now. I will not.

I first call Officer Joseph Brown, Your Honor.

Philadelphia Police Officer Joseph E. Brown,
Badge number 1247, Police Security,
Police Administration Building, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

MS. FISK: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Brown, how long have you been a member of the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. Since August 15th of 1966. Approximately 29 years.

Q. And you are still an active, uniformed police officer, sir?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, what is your current assignment in the Police Department?

A. I am assigned to the Police Administration Building Security Unit.

Q. What does that mean?

A. That's to secure, make sure that the security is up to par. Checking people that come in and out of the building. Checking the parking lots and so forth and so forth.

Q. Now, when you say the Police Administration Building, is that the building also sometimes known as the Roundhouse located at 8th and Race Streets in Philadelphia?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Page 62.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. Now, how long have you been a member of the Police Administration Building Security Unit?

A. Approximately a year and two months.

Q. Now, when you talk about making sure that the security in the building is maintained appropriately, does your position at the Police Administration Building Security Unit include monitoring the front door?

A. Periodically, yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, when I say the front door, could you explain to the Court what the front door for the public is of the Police Administration Building?

A. There's two entrance doors.

Q. Could you move that microphone closer to your mouth, perhaps. Thank you.

A. There is two entrance doors. Right when you, right when you come through the two entrance doors there is a secured area where a police officer is stationed at. Anyone who enters, anyone who enters the doors will stop and talk to the police officer who is there and state their business. And whatever businesses it is, then the police officer tries to help them out with it.

Q. Now, those two doors that you enter into before coming into that secure area, do those two

Page 63.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

doors then when you exit open to the parking lot?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Which is behind the PAB?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, is that the only public door to the PAB?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, if an individual is to enter through those public doors and go to the right, would they then go to the arraignment Court?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And is that a public area?

A. They would go through either the arraignment Court area or if they were going down to post bail or someone they would go to the bail, ahh, area. And that is a public area.

Q. So anyone can enter the public doors of the PAB and turn to the right?

A. Turn to the right, right.

Q. Now, if an individual wants to, if an individual enters those public doors for the purpose of turning to the left, where would they go if they turn to the left?

A. They wouldn't go anywhere: They would be stopped, they would be stopped right at the desk by the officer that's standing right there at the desk.

Page 64.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. If the person was able to satisfy the officer at the desk that they had legitimate business going to the left, if an individual were to be permitted through to the left, where would they find themselves?

A. Where would they find -- they would find themselves in the lobby of the PAB.

Q. And then have access to the building via use of elevators?

A. No, ma'am, not unless they would have an identification card with them, or whether they were being escorted into the building by someone for whatever pertinent business. Or if they were coming in to do some type of maintenance. But they then, they are just not allowed to walk through, they have to come over, they have to sign into a book and state whatever room they're going to.

Q. Now, if an individual comes to the public doors of the PAB, into that secured foyer, and they are accompanied by police officers or police detectives for the purpose of going someplace in the building to give a statement or the like, do they still have to stop and check in and state their purpose with you or the other security officers at that front door?

Page 65.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

A. As long as the officers are in uniform, they can come through the front, they can come through the left-hand side doors. But they must stop at the front desk and sign whoever they are bringing into the building into the book and what unit they are taking them to.

Q. Now, would that signing in be done by the individual civilian or by the officers who were escorting that individual?

A. It would depend on the circumstances. Sometimes, sometimes the individual civilians will sign their names, sometimes the officers will sign their names.

Q. Based upon police directives which are in effect, is there ever a situation where the civilians could come in through those front doors with a police officer and not sign in or have their name recorded in the book?

A. No, ma'am. Under Police Commissioner's orders, if a person is being escorted into a building to go to a specific unit for an investigation or interrogation or polygraph, he has to be accompanied, the book has to be signed.

Q. Now, if the officers were to come to that front door with an individual for the purpose of

Page 66.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

taking them someplace for investigation and that individual was handcuffed, would they be permitted access through those front doors?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Why is that, Officer?

A. The Commissioner's orders that no one will be permitted to come through those front doors in handcuffs.

Q. Now, those orders, you have been at the Security Unit you have told us for one year and two months. You have been a police officer for 29 years. Based upon your knowledge as a police officer, how long has that been the Police Directive and the Police Commissioner's orders?

A. Well, I also, before I came up to security I also worked the cell room for 19 years, which is part of, almost, security.

Q. Right?

A. And that's been in effect ever since I could remember.

Q. So for even 19 years before the year and two months you have been in the Security Unit --

A. Well, for the 29 years that I have been on the police force, no one has ever been allowed to take a prisoner or a person into the Police Administration

Page 67.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Building through the front door.

Q. Well, now, you just told us prior to your assignment at the Security Unit you were assigned to the --

A. Police Detention Unit, which is called the cell room, if you want.

Q. All right. And the Police Detention Unit is the cell room also located in the Police Administration Building?

A. In the basement of the Police Administration Building building.

Q. And what was the period that you were a member of the Police Detention Unit?

A. Approximately 19 years.

Q. And were those the 19 years immediately preceding your one year and two months at the Security Unit?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. So would it be fair to say that in 1981 you were a police officer assigned to the Detention Unit?

A. I was assigned to the Detention Unit June 12th of 1975.

Q. Until sometime in 1994; would that be accurate?

A. Until 4-4-94.

Page 68.

Page 68 is missing. Attempts will be made to locate it.

Page 69.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Administration Building Security Unit the custodian, the person responsible for keeping custody of all past, completed logbooks which are maintained or have been used at the front lobby of the Police Administration Building?

A. Technically, yes, because where the logbook is, there is only one key. And that's usually locked up with the sergeant's keys. And whenever anyone requests a logbook that has already been filled up, we have to get the key, have to open the cabinet up, and then get that logbook out.

Q. Was there a situation in the last several days when there was such a request for an old logbook to be, to be obtained?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Do you recall when that request was received?

(Pause.)

A. Well, this request was received on 8-9 of '95. It was a subpoena for the book.

Q. And that would have been, then, this past Wednesday?

A. It would have been two days ago, yes, ma'am. For the appearance of this book to be here for yesterday, for the 10th.

Q. And based upon that request received on 8-9,

Page 70.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

was on 8-9 this book, or a book obtained by you from the locked facility where these old books are maintained?

A. No, ma'am, it was obtained by the sergeant.

Q. And was a photo copy of any page from that book made on Wednesday, August the 9th?

A. Not to my knowledge. I wasn't, I wasn't aware of any.

Q. All right. Do you have before you, Officer Brown, the original police logbook which covers the date of December 9th, 1981, which was maintained in the lobby of the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And can you certify to the Court that this is indeed the authentic logbook which covers persons being signed in to the Police Administration Building on the date December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, ma'am, this book covers from May 1st of '81 to October 1st of '82.

Q. So within that period is the date December 9th?

A. Right.

Q. And have you had an opportunity to look at that book and satisfy yourself that that is in fact the authentic book for that period May 1981 to

Page 71.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

October 1982.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And is it the authentic book?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Would you turn, please --

MS. FISK: Or, Your Honor, may I ask that the book be marked as a Commonwealth exhibit?

THE COURT: Well, we can't keep the book.

MS. FISK: That is true but I believe Counsel will, should have an opportunity to review the entire book.

THE COURT: Okay. We will mark it.

MS. FISK: I would agree that it can't be kept and it will have to be returned to police custody in the police unit at the completion of the officer's testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: We have no objection so long as we could examine it.

MS. FISK: And I have no objection if Counsel wishes to examine it now before I ask any additional questions. I have no objection.

THE WITNESS: It's right there (handing).

Page 72.

(PAB entrance logbook was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-l8 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: C-18.

THE COURT: Let the record show that Counsel is looking over the logbook.

(Pause.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, in order not to detain the proceedings, so we can proceed, we have examined it. The photocopy matches the original, but we may want to look further into this logbook at a time that won't interrupt the questioning. So with that...

MS. FISK: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-18, sir (handing).

MS. FISK: Can Officer Brown please be shown what has previously been marked as --

THE COURT OFFICER: C-17?

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-17, sir (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Brown, you are being shown what has previously been marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 17. Could you tell us, please, whether or not you recognize this document?

A. It's a Xerox copy of the page that I have in this book here (indicating).

Q. And does this photocopy accurately and fully reflect page 108 in this logbook?

(Pause.)

A. Yes, ma'am.

MS. FISK: May I see the log book for a moment, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Thank you. I couldn't tell from the photocopy. Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, does the notation, Officer, 108 on the upper, left-hand corner reflect that this is indeed the 108th page of this logbook?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. There are 107 pages before it dating from May 1981 up to December the 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what is the final page on this logbook? Just so the record is clear as to it's total size.

A. The final page is page 247. That is the signing in. There are other, blank pages, but the final signing-in page is 247.

Q. And these are persons signing in in October 1982?

A. They are... the last, the last signing in in this here is September the, September the 30th of 1982.

Q. Fine. All right, now returning to page 108. About, just a little short of halfway down, is there a notation for an individual being brought into the Police Administration Building by the name of Arnold Howard?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And does it reflect that Mr. Howard was being taken up to the Homicide Unit?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Does the logbook reflect the time that Mr. Howard was signed in?

A. 12:30.

Q. Does the logbook reflect what time Mr. Howard was signed out?

A. 2:30.

Q. Now, is there a notation or a signature in the column marked escort?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Are you able to read that?

Page 75.

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Now explain to us, please, sir, well, first tell us: When Mr. Howard was signed into the Police Administration Building at 12:30 on December 9th, 1981, could Mr. Howard have been in handcuffs?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And why is that?

A. As I stated earlier, it is the Police Commissioner's orders that no one will be permitted through the lobby in handcuffs.

Q. Now, is there a place to bring persons into the Police Administration Building if they're in handcuffs?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And that would be through the Detention Unit?

A. That would be through the Detention Unit, commonly called the cell unit, yes.

Q. Just so the record is clear: The person who was signed into the Police Administration Building immediately before Mr. Howard appears to be someone named Jean Broadley?

A. Bradley, Broadley or Broodley, yes.

Q. Being taken to something called SD, whatever that is; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Page 76.

Q. And does it reflect that that person Jean Bradley was signed into the Police Administration Building at twelve o'clock?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And the line directly below Mr. Howard on that same date, 12-9, a J. Jodes, being signed into the unit N-A-R-C -- Narcotics -- does the record reflect, or the sheet reflect that that person was being signed into the Police Administration Building at 1:00 p.m?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, when an individual is signed in through the lobby, you have told us that that individual could not be in handcuffs?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Are there occasions when individuals who are signed in, at some point after getting into the Police Administration Building, are placed under arrest and therefore are taken out of the building in handcuffs, or under arrest?

A. Not through, not through the police -- not through the lobby or not through the open areas or the public area.

Q. That is my question.

A. No, ma'am.

Page 77.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. My question is does it occur when individuals come into the building uncharged, not under arrest, that once entering the building they are placed under arrest?

A. Okay.

Q. Could a person who once entering the building who is placed under arrest inside the building be signed out of the building through the public door?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And why is that, sir?

A. If he was taken up to either the Homicide Unit or the Narcotics Unit, and he was placed under arrest at that time, the detectives in the Homicide Unit or at the time the Narcotics Unit would make up all their paperwork, would handcuff him, would take him from their unit to a back elevator, down into the basement and into the cell room.

Q. Now, as a member of the Detention Unit back in 1981, was that the procedure that was used back then: If an individual was arrested up at Homicide they would be taken directly down to the Detention Unit?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And would such a person be able to have their name reflected as being signed out?

A. No, ma'am.

Page 78.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. On this front logbook?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Would there simply be no notation next to the out time on the logbook?

A. Probably not. If I'm following you right, a person comes in un-handcuffed but upon investigation upstairs they -- there shouldn't be any notation, no notation of him signing himself out.

Q. Would they be able to be signed out?

A. No, ma'am, that's what I'm saying.

Q. Okay. What, therefore, does it tell you with respect to Mr. Howard's status on December 9th, 1981 as to whether or not he was in custody of police in handcuffs at 2:30 p.m?

A. No, ma'am. It tells me that he left the Police Administration Building at 2:30 p.m.

Q. And that he was not in custody?

A. I don't think we would have let him out of the building if he was in custody, no, ma'am.

Q. Now --

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, did we just indicate p.m.? Because the document doesn't state.

MS. FISK: No, it doesn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

Page 79.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

MS. FISK: No, it doesn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: How could the witness say that?

THE WITNESS: The witness did not say 5 p.m. It was brought up from the table out there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, so you don't know, Officer?

THE WITNESS: I don't know p.m. or not. I know what time it's got in the book: 2:30.

MR. WEINGLASS: It could be a.m?

THE WITNESS: I don't know that.

MR. WEINGLASS: It could be either one.

THE WITNESS: I just said I didn't know that, Counselor.

THE COURT: Why don't you wait for cross-examination instead of interrupting the proceedings.

MR. WEINGLASS: Counselor recited something that is not in the record.

THE COURT: Counselor, you have a chance to cross-examine. Bring it up then.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 80.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. Now, Officer Brown, I now want to talk about the Detention Unit at the Police Administration Building.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. To which you were in fact personally assigned from the period of 1975 until 1994, which included the period of 1981. Is that the portion of the Police Administration Building building into which an individual can be brought who is in custody?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. If an individual is brought into the Detention Unit who is in custody, but is being brought into the building just to be taken up to a detective division to be spoken to, do they still come through that Detention Unit or do they go through the front door?

A. No, ma'am, they are coming in as a potential defendant or something in handcuffs, they come in through the cell room bay area. They go through the cell room, they pass by two metal doors, they go to a back elevator. And whichever floor the unit is on that they are going to be going to, that's what floor they go to.

Q. Does the person enter their name in a logbook down in that rear area?

A. No, ma'am.

Page 81.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. There is no logbook down there?

A. Oh, yes? there is. But the only people that are entered in the logbook in the cell room area are the people that have been arrested.

Q. So people --

A. Charged, whoever has been charged with something. If someone is just bringing someone in in handcuffs to take them to Homicide or Narcotics or whatever special unit that may be up there, they just, they just walk him right on through the doors and up to the unit. Well, to the elevator and then up to the unit.

Q. Now, do those persons' names ever get transferred to the logbook at the front door?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Now, isn't it correct that there are also situations where persons who are not in custody are also brought into the building through the Detention Unit if they are being brought to the building from the scene of a crime, say, via police wagon or other police vehicle?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Would you explain to us how that occurs?

A. Well, if there's a, if there's a multitude of, say, witnesses and a police wagon would have, would happen to bring them through, they are escorted the same way as a handcuffed prisoner, but of course they are not handcuffed. They go right through the cell room, through the two doors to the back elevator and up to whatever floor that they are going to.

Page 82.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

Q. And is that because the vehicle that brought them into the building was an official police vehicle?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. If there is a situation where there are many witnesses but some of them use their own vehicles to get to the Police Administration Building, would a person who has arrived in his own vehicle be permitted to enter with that other multitude of witnesses through the Detention center?

A. No, ma'am, the person who came in their own private vehicle would have to come in through the lobby area, stop at the front desk, notify the officer that's on duty who he wants to contact. The officer on duty would contact the person, the person would come downstairs and escort this individual up to wherever they were going after signing him into the book.

Q. So that person' s name would appear in the book?

Page 83.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And these procedures that you are describing, are these all procedures that were in effect in December 1981?

A. They go back as far as since 1966, as far as I could remember.

Q. So as long as --

A. They have never been changed as far as I know.

Q. And in particular, in 1981 they were certainly the procedures in effect?

A. They were certainly the procedures, just as they are today.

Q. And that was my next question. As a Security Unit officer you are aware that those are still the procedures in effect with regard to the entrance into the building through the Detention Unit and through the front door?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, as a police officer since 1966, a police officer assigned to the Police Administration Building for 19 years, and the Detention Unit, and a police officer who has remained at the Police Administration Building in the Security Unit for the last year and two months, are you familiar with the layout of the Police Administration Building in total?

Page 84.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And have you had an opportunity in your 29 years as a police officer, more than 20 of them assigned to the Police Administration Building, to be familiar specifically with the layout of the Homicide Unit at the Police Administration Building?

A. Roughly.

Q. And have you been to that Homicide Unit?

A. Several times.

Q. And was that for the purpose of bringing witnesses up or prisoners up?

A. When I was working the street, yes, it was.

Q. So that was in the period before you were sent to the Detention Unit?

A. Right, before '75.

Q. And when you began working at the Detention Unit did you also have occasion throughout your 19 years to be up in the Homicide Unit?

A. Yes, ma'am, I had many occasions to go up to the Homicide Unit.

Q. And would your opportunities to go to the Homicide Unit have included the period of December 1981?

A. It's quite possible. I mean I'm not sure --

Page 85.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

in 1981 as I was working the cell room it's quite possible I might have had to go upstairs and deliver a message or drop something off.

Q. All right, let me ask you this, Officer Brown. To your personal knowledge, based on your more than 20 years of working at the Police Administration Building and the preceding 9 years working on the street and bringing witnesses in, has there ever been any facility at the Homicide Unit or adjacent to the Homicide Unit created for the conducting of lineups?

A. No, ma'am, not to my knowledge.

Q. Has there ever been in the Homicide Unit or at a facility adjacent to the Homicide Unit a room which has a stage and a huge piece of glass in front of it?

A. No, ma'am, not to my knowledge.

Q. Is there a stage in the Police Administration Building?

A. There is a stage in the Police Administration Building.

Q. And where is that, sir?

A. That's in the lobby.

Q. And is that as part of an auditorium?

A. That is an auditorium.

Q. And is that the only stage in the Police Administration Building?

Page 86.

Officer Joseph Brown - Direct

A. That is the only stage in the Police Administration Building.

Q. Are you aware of any facility in the Homicide Unit or adjacent to the Homicide Unit which is, has been created or established for the conducting of lineup examinations?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. With the exception of four interrogation rooms in Homicide -- I'm sorry -- are you familiar with the four interrogation rooms in Homicide?

A. I never knew how many there were, I knew there was rooms in there.

Q. And have you ever seen the inside of one of those?

A. Yes.

Q. And what are the dimensions of the interrogation rooms, approximately?

A. I guess 6-by-8, something like that.

Q. Now, do those interrogation rooms have within them a small mirror which acts as a two-way glass?

A. No, ma'am, not to my knowledge.

Q. Incidentally, how many floors is the Police Administration Building?

A. Well, counting the basement you would say four floors, but actually it's only the three floors: The

Page 87.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

lobby, first floor, second floor -- you don't even count the lobby as a floor -- the first floor, second floor and third floor.

Q. Okay. But am I correct that the lobby is not called the first floor, the first floor is what?

A. The lobby is the lobby. The first floor you get on an elevator or you walk a flight of steps.

Q. To go up to?

A. Right, yes, ma'am.

Q. But it is a total of four stories above street level?

A. Four stories above street level.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: May I have the logbook, C-18.

THE WITNESS: (Handing).

(Pause.)

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Good afternoon, Officer Brown -- is that right?

A. Good afternoon.

Page 88.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

Q. Now, do you know a man by the name -- if you could -- I appreciate it -- are those prescription glasses?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. I appreciate it. Thank you. Do you know of your own personal knowledge an individual by the name of Arnold Howard?

A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. If he were to walk into this Courtroom would you know what he looked like?

A. If I don't know him I wouldn't know what he looked like, sir, no.

Q. You have never been shown a photograph of Mr. Howard?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. So as you sit here today, of your own personal knowledge you don't know when Mr. Howard was brought into the Roundhouse?

A. I don't know whether it was -- oh, you're right, of my own personal knowledge, right.

Q. You are relying on recordings in this logbook C-18?

A. Not recordings. I am of the signing-ins, yes.

Q. Right. Now, does it indicate in C-l8 --

MR. WILLIAMS: And I will give it back

Page 89.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

to you so you can refer to it (handing).

THE WITNESS: I will be able to put my glasses back on to see?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, certainly for that.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Is there a recording on that logbook for December 9th, 1981 at 5:35 a.m., the fact that a person by the name of Albert Magilton was brought into the Roundhouse?

A. 5:35 a.m. on the...

Q. On 12-9-81.

(Pause.)

A. 5:30 in the a.m?

Q. Yes.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would agree there is no such indication.

THE WITNESS: This, this, I can --

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. The answer is --

A. The answer is the first a.m. was 10:30 a.m., it wasn't the gentleman that you just --

Q. The answer is that there is no one signed in for 5:35 a.m?

A. A.M.

Page 90.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

Q. And is there anywhere on that page that you are referring to, 108, where it indicates that an individual by the name of Albert Magilton was brought into the Roundhouse?

MS. FISK: Well, objection, Your Honor, to the form of the question. It would only relate to whether Albert Magilton came into the Roundhouse through the public door.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, and if it is not listed here then that's what it would reflect.

MS. FISK: That is correct, but let the question be limited to through the public door, not through any other.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am only asking if it is recorded here.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: Not that I could see.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You certainly couldn't answer that question from your own personal knowledge; isn't that true?

A. That's true.

Q. You would have to rely on page 108 of your logbook?

A. I would, yes.

Q. Okay. Do you know a law enforcement officer

Page 91.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

by the name of Culbreth: C-U-L-B-R-E-T-H?

A. How do you spell --

Q. Culbreth: C-U-L-B-R-E-T-H.

A. I believe I know him, yes. Know the detective, yes.

Q. Is there an indication that an individual by the name of Culbreth brought in a civilian to be interviewed at the Roundhouse?

A. On what date?

Q. On 12-9.

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, is there an indication -- again, for the sake of brevity I am going to direct your attention to 12-9-81 -- is there a notation for 12-9-81 as to whether an individual by the name of Michael Mark Scanlan was brought into the Roundhouse?

(Pause.)

A. No, sir.

Q. But you will notice down below on December 10th that an individual by the name of Mr. Scanlan was brought into the Roundhouse; isn't that true?

A. On December the l0th?

Q. On December 10th. Four lines up.

A. Four lines up from the bottom?

Q. From the bottom, yes.

Page 92.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

A. Well, if you say that last name is Scanlan.

Q. Scanlan?

A. I would have to take your word because I can not make out what the last name is. The first name is Michael but I can't make out what the last name is.

Q. Okay, it appears to be an S and then a C and then a --

A. It could be an S-E-A.

Q. Okay. Is there a notation there for 12-9 as to whether an individual by the name of Cynthia White was brought into the Roundhouse?

A. This is 12-9 now?

Q. 12-9.

A. No, sir.

Q. And what about an individual by the name of Robert Chobert?

(Pause.)

A. Not that I see in the book.

Q. And what about an individual by the name of Dessie Hightower?

A. No, sir.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 93.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

Q. What about an individual by the name of Robert Pigford?

A. No, sir.

Q. What about an individual by the name of William Singletary?

A. No, sir.

Q. What is the first, on December 9th, what time is the first sign in?

A. On December 9th, the time of the first sign in is 10:30 am.

Q. Were you open for business before that?

A. I don't quite get the question when you say open for business.

Q. Was the building open?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were there officers at the entrance door?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And if people were brought into that front door they would be signed in here; is that your testimony?

A. If people were brought in through that entrance door to go anywhere other than to the arraignment Court or the bail clerk, and came in through the left, if they were escorted by police officers or detectives, they would be signed into this book.

Q. So people who, if people were brought in earlier in the morning on December 9th, say between the times of 4:00 and 6:00 a.m., and they're not reflected in this logbook, how would they enter the building?

A. They could have entered the building if they came in in police -- if it was a multitude of people and they came in in a police van through the police Detention Unit. Which then they would walk through the police Detention Unit, walk through two metal doors after they are opened by the officer, go to an elevator and take the elevator or the stairs to whichever floor the unit that they were going to was on.

Q. And as you testified here today, you can't tell us if Mr. Howard, Arnold Howard was transported in a police van and taken in in the manner that you have just described?

A. Arnold Howard's name is in this book.

Q. I'm asking you: Can you sit here and testify today that sometime earlier on December 9th, 1981, perhaps between the hours of 4:00 and 6:00 a.m., whether Mr. Howard was brought in in the manner that you just described, can you tell us that?

Page 95.

A. Not if his name's in this book. In the manner that I just described, anyone coming in through the cell room in a multiple as witnesses of something are taken upstairs, their names are not entered into this book.

Q. I understand that. Can you tell us as you sit here today, whether among those multitude, or apart from that multitude, whether Mr. Howard was brought to the Roundhouse between the hours of 4:00 and 6:00 a.m. in the manner that you just described?

A. Not if his name is in this book, sir.

Q. Of your own personal knowledge, Officer Brown, that's what I am asking.

A. If his name is in this book he had to be either brought in through the lobby area by a uniformed officer or by a detective.

Q. Okay. Let's explore that. What you are saying is that at 12:30 or thereabouts, Mr. Howard was brought in through the front door. Right?

A. Excuse me? I'm sorry.

Q. On December 9th, 1981, you're saying that Mr. Howard was brought in through the front door at approximately 12:30 or thereabouts?

A. Yes, sir. According to this logbook.

Q. But you can't tell us as you sit here today whether Mr. Howard was there beforehand, taken out of the Roundhouse and then brought back, can you?

A. Whether he was brought into the building in which manner?

Q. Well, in the manner that you described where they are not recorded, perhaps in the same manner that all of these other individuals were brought in (displaying)?

A. In other words, what you are trying to say is that Mr. Howard may have been brought in with all these other individuals?

Q. I'm asking you, I mean.

A. I can not give you that of my own personal knowledge, I was not there.

Q. That is precisely what I am asking. So you can't tell us if Mr. Howard was there earlier, taken out of the building, and then brought in through the front entrance door at 12:30, can you?

A. No, sir, I can not.

Q. Precisely. Now...

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, as you indicated earlier, the individual by the name of Mr. Scanlan was not recorded as entering on 12-9-81, right?

A. If that's what I said, sir, that must have been what I meant.

Q. But it does indicate that sometime thereafter, on the following day there appears to be a signature by a man named M. Mark and then a last name beginning with an S, it could be an E or a C, and then an A and then a N? Four lines up?

A. I see it.

Q. Okay. Now, you testified that in addition to individuals who were brought in en mass, and they are not recorded in this logbook, that people who are handcuffed are also not recorded in this logbook; isn't that right?

A. It's true.

Q. So you can't testify of your own personal knowledge as to whether Mr. Howard was ever in handcuffs on December 9th, 1981 before 12:30?

A. Before he was signed into this logbook?

Q. Yes. Of your own personal knowledge?

A. Of my own personal knowledge I could tell you this: If he was in handcuffs he would not have been signed into this logbook. That, that is my personal knowledge.

Q. Can you tell us of your own personal knowledge whether Mr. Howard was brought in in handcuffs at some time on December 9th, 1981, before 12:30?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: I think he's already said that, Counselor. You are going over it a million times. He says only looking at this book can he tell whether he came in the front door.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: He couldn't come in the front door in handcuffs, period.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, there is a logbook for those individuals who are brought into the -- I think you called it the Detention Unit?

A. If they're incarcerated.

Q. If they are in handcuffs, you mean?

A. No, if they are incarcerated.

Q. What about people who are in custody that is in handcuffs?

A. If they are to be incarcerated in the cell room.

Q. Yes?

A. Then their names will go in the logbook. But if they are going to a special unit in handcuffs, just like I explained earlier, walking through, they go to the unit where they are going to go to and then that's where the processing starts.

Q. And processing starts. Tell me what, tell me about that processing?

A. Which, whatever they may have been arrested for, the investigation starts on that charge.

Q. Is there a logbook in the Homicide Unit?

A. I would imagine so, I don't know. I don't go snooping around in the Homicide Unit.

Q. So you can't tell us if people brought up to the Homicide Unit for questioning were signed in in some fashion?

A. In the Homicide Unit per se?

Q. In the Homicide Unit?

A. No, sir, I could not.

Q. Can you tell us... by the way, you said the people who were going to be incarcerated and brought in through the Detention Unit are recorded in a logbook?

A. No, sir, I -- you said people are brought into the cell room in handcuffs.

Q. Yes.

A. My statement was once they have been incarcerated already. Which means have been arrested, not being investigated. Which have been arrested and charged with a charge.

Page 100.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

Q. Okay. Those individuals who are arrested and brought into the Detention Unit, is there a logbook to record their entry into the Roundhouse?

A. The ones that have been arrested and come down into the cell room there is a logbook from the time that they enter to the time that they leave.

Q. Do you have access to that logbook?

A. For 19 years I did.

Q. Okay. Has anyone asked you to produce that logbook?

A. No one asked me to produce a logbook.

Q. Has anyone asked you to look into whether there is a logbook for the Homicide Unit?

A. The Homicide Unit does not fall under my jurisdiction, sir. So no one would ask me -- it would be...

Q. So you were only asked to bring in C-18, the logbook for the front door that doesn't contain the names of numerous witnesses involved in this case? Is that your testimony?

A. I brought in the book that I was subpoenaed to bring in.

Q. Okay. Now, on the entry for Mr. Howard for

Page 101.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

December 9th, it indicates a time out as 2:30, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it indicate the date at which he is released?

A. It would be the same date, I would imagine, being it's on the same line.

Q. You would imagine. What about whether it's a.m. or p.m?

A. It doesn't have that on here, sir.

Q. Look at the line above that for Jean Bradley. Does it indicate whether she was released in p.m. or a.m?

A. Released, that she was released at 1:00 p.m.

Q. And what about the person afterwards, after Mr. Howard: Does it indicate whether that person was signed out in the a.m. or p.m?

A. 1:15 p.m.

Q. And the individual after that, the individual by the name of Mr. Love or Miss Love, does it indicate when that person was signed out?

A. No, sir, it doesn't.

Q. No sign out time?

A. No, sir.

Q. And can you explain that?

A. Yes, sir. Well, maybe I can and maybe I

Page 102.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

can't. Maybe the reason --

Q. I don't want you to speculate, sir.

A. The reason that with Love it looks like she was taken to Narcotics, right. She may have been charged with a narcotics charge up at Narcotics. If she was charged with a narcotics charge up at Narcotics, she would not have signed out in the logbook, she would have been taken down to the cell room and put into the cell room's log. That's the only explanation I could give you on that.

Q. Okay. So of your own personal knowledge, you can not tell us whether Mr. Howard was released at 2:30 a.m. or 2:30 p.m. because, unlike the other individuals listed here, it doesn't specify a.m. or p.m?

A. No, sir, it doesn't specify a.m. or p.m. I am not going to speculate.

Q. Now, you said that some individuals are brought in en mass and therefore they are not signed in, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, he testified that people who come in through the Detention Unit --

Page 103.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

THE WITNESS: Detention unit.

MS. FISK: -- are not signed in, whether they are brought in individually or en mass. That's what he said.

THE COURT: He doesn't understand how the system works, so.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Through the Detention Unit they are not signed in?

A. Right.

Q. Okay, terrific.

A. They are not signed in through the logbook.

Q. Right. So for individuals brought in through the Detention Unit, referring to this logbook is of absolutely no assistance to us as to when a person is brought into the Roundhouse; isn't that right?

A. If they are brought in en mass as you are saying in a wagon through the cell room that go up to a special unit, no.

Q. Or if they are just brought in through the Detention Unit, this doesn't help us to determine if they were brought in through the Detention Unit, does it?

A. No, it would not.

Q. Now, on December 15th, 1981, can you refer to

Page 104.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

your logbook for 9:45 p.m.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It goes beyond the scope of direct examination.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes to the reliability of what he is testifying to. They are relying on the logbook and I am entitled to impeach that.

THE COURT: Well, only impeach it as far --

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes to the weight of this evidence.

THE COURT: As far as this case is concerned.

MR. WILLIAMS: And I am asking about a particular witness in this case.

THE COURT: Well, who is on December 15th?

MR. WILLIAMS: Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Oh, she signed in?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, let's find out.

THE COURT: Well, he wants to know if on December 15th Veronica Jones signed in.

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: Not that I can see in this book. I could have overlooked it.

Page 105.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. What about for 9:45 p.m?

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I didn't hear the question.

MR. WILLIAMS: What about for 9:45 p.m.

THE WITNESS: The 15th?

THE COURT: He said the 15th.

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, December 15th.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, if Counsel would look at an interview of Veronica Jones which was taken on December 15th, '81, it makes it very clear that the place of interview was 1056 Everett Street, which so far as I know is not the Police Administration Building.

THE COURT: Is that an answer for you?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, I am asking if it is recorded in that logbook.

THE WITNESS: I said I do not see it in this book.

MR. WILLIAMS: All right.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, in your extensive experience at the

Page 106.

Roundhouse, are there ever occasions where an individual is brought in through the Detention Unit either in handcuffs or not in handcuffs and then permitted to leave the Roundhouse?

A. From the Detention Unit?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Are they ever permitted to leave the Roundhouse through any doors?

A. Are you saying a person that is brought into the Detention Unit proper to stay in the Detention Unit?

Q. No, what I am asking you: Are there ever occasions where an individual is brought in through the Detention Unit -- okay?

A. Right.

Q. -- and therefore is in the Roundhouse, and then permitted to leave at some point?

A. An individual that comes into the Detention Unit?

Q. Yes?

A. And is going to another unit in the building?

Q. I am just saying that they are -- by virtue of being in the Detention Unit they are in the Roundhouse; am I right?

Page 107.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. What he is saying is they come in through the Detention Unit, they go to, say, Homicide, now they are going to be released, which way do they go out? Which way, that's what he wants to know.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: If you would ask me I would have told you that.

THE WITNESS: They go out through the way that the Homicide detective will escort them, down out through the front door. They will not come back through the Detention Unit.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Nonetheless, there are occasions where someone is brought in through the Detention Unit and then permitted to leave the Roundhouse? That's all I'm asking.

MS. FISK: Just answer that.

THE WITNESS: I would imagine, I would imagine there are several occasions where a person is brought in through the Detention Unit and upstairs and then permitted to leave the Roundhouse.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 108.

Q. And a person who leaves the Roundhouse could very well be brought back into the Roundhouse; isn't that true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that person brought back into the Roundhouse could be brought in through the entrance that's reflected in C-18?

MS. FISK: And that would be great if that's what this witness testified to three days ago. But his testimony was that he was brought in via police wagon in handcuffs, remained there for 24 hours, was taken out of the building via police wagon in handcuffs to another police station, taken to another police station, taken back to the Police Administration Building in handcuffs, taken upstairs and then released 72 hours later.

If, on the other hand, he had testified that he was brought into the Roundhouse in handcuffs, taken upstairs, taken downstairs, had his handcuffs taken off, was taken through the front door, taken upstairs and then held for 72 hours, that question would make some sense. Otherwise, it is irrelevant.

MR. WILLIAMS: What Ms. Fisk's

impassioned speech indicates is that this individual testified to an experience 13 years ago where he was rousted out of bed.

THE COURT: I understand that, but, Counselor. I understand --

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor permitted her to speak and then you are now cutting me off.

THE COURT: I just want to explain what he has been saying all along. If he comes in in handcuffs --

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- he does not come through the front door, period.

MR. WILLIAMS: Precisely.

THE COURT: He has to go through the back door through the Detention Unit.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: Now, if he is going to be released he could go out either the front door or he can go out the back door, either way.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: And that's all he could tell you because he wasn't there. He is not the officer that brought him in.

Page 110.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's precisely correct.

THE COURT: He's already said that so what are we --

MR. WILLIAMS: And the point of my question is if we have a witness who is testifying to an event some 14 years ago who testified to being brought in, hustled out, brought back in, and it's a very disorienting experience when you are rousted out of bed.

THE COURT: Okay, Counselor, that is fine for argument to the Court later on, but as far as this witness is concerned, he doesn't go out in handcuffs through the front. If he is still in handcuffs you are still going to go out the Detention Unit.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is precisely my point. So I am in a quandary as to the weight of this witness. Why would they bring in a witness who could not testify as to who is brought into the Detention Unit?

THE COURT: She just wants to show how that book works.

MR. WILLIAMS: Oh.

THE COURT: And evidently, somebody by

Page 111.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

the name of Arnold whatever his name is came in that morning not in handcuffs. Whether he left in handcuffs, whether he was ultimately charged, he didn't go out, he wouldn't have gone out that way if he's charged. Because then they would have taken him right downstairs. They would have signed him in that book, put him right in the cell room and that's where he would stay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: That's all. You could have asked me, I could have told you that.

MR. WILLIAMS: I appreciate the education on Philadelphia Police procedure.

THE COURT: Well, ask somebody who knows something about Philadelphia Police procedure and you would know this.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am learning it right now.

THE COURT: We are not here for educational purposes, do that on your own time. It is 12:30 already.

MR. WILLIAMS: I didn't call this witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I know that. But go ahead.

Page 112.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, do you know a detective by the name of D'Amato?

A. No, sir, not offhand.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And what about Detective Williams, do you know a Detective Williams?

A. Several Detective Williams. Where does he work at?

Q. I'm sorry?

A. There are several Detective Williams I would imagine in the Police Department. Do you know --

Q. What about a Detective Williams who was on duty December 9th, 1981?

A. You would still have to tell me what Williams you're talking about.

Q. Now, you indicated that there is a stage in the Roundhouse?

A. Sir, I indicated that there is a stage in the auditorium.

Q. Is that in the Roundhouse?

A. It is, yes, sir, in the lobby of the Roundhouse. In the auditorium.

Page 113.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

Q. Okay. And are there one-way glass mirrors? I think you might have testified to that on direct.

A. I did. There is none.

Q. That there is none. Okay. And is it your testimony that no lineups are conducted in the Roundhouse ever?

A. As far as my knowledge is there's no lineups conducted in the Roundhouse ever.

Q. Okay. Can you testify of your own personal knowledge as to whether any identification procedures are used up in the Homicide Unit?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The officer was called to discuss the physical layout at Homicide, not the procedures.

MR. WILLIAMS: He was asked on direct about --

THE COURT: He was asked where they conduct the lineups. And it's not in the Roundhouse, Counselor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you know of your own personal knowledge whether any identification procedures are ever used up in the Homicide Unit?

MS. FISK: He is not a Homicide detective.

Page 114.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

THE WITNESS: Pertaining to lineups, no.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Of your own personal --

A. As far as I know there's never been a lineup up in Homicide.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, so let me understand this. Your understanding is that there are no lineup facilities in the Roundhouse, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it is your understanding that no lineups are conducted in the Roundhouse?

MS. FISK: I object to that question, Your Honor. The witness was offered to discuss the physical plant, that there is no physical facility.

THE COURT: I know that.

MS. FISK: The officer is a member of the Detention Unit and the Security Unit and a 16th District Officer --

THE COURT: Just a minute. Where do they conduct the lineups; do

Page 115.

Officer Joseph Brown - Cross

you know?

THE WITNESS: As far as I'm concerned -- as far as I know they conduct the lineups up at the prisons.

THE COURT: Up at the prisons?

THE WITNESS: That's as far as I know.

THE COURT: That's my knowledge too.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Are there any station houses where lineups are conducted?

A. As far as my knowledge is they conduct the lineups up at the prison.

Q. So let me be clear, then. If somebody were to be placed in a lineup who was first taken to the Roundhouse, that person as far as you know would have to be taken out of the Roundhouse and transported to another location; isn't that true?

A. For, for a lineup?

Q. For a lineup.

A. I would imagine it would have to be true, if it was for a lineup before a charge was placed against them.

Q. Precisely.

MR. WILLIAMS: You have been very helpful, Officer Brown. Thank you.

Page 116.

THE COURT: Do you have any further questions?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, we will take a luncheon until --

MS. FISK: I had another officer present.

THE COURT: Oh. Will he be long?

MS. FISK: We could break, Judge. Could I just check with him and make sure that he is available this afternoon?

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Where is he?

MS. FISK: Well, he is he probably outside.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this is somebody taking time from his business. He would prefer getting on this morning.

THE COURT: All right, we will put him on.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor. The Commonwealth would call Edward D'Amato, please, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

Page 117.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

THE COURT: All right, I'm here, let's go.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

Philadelphia Police Captain Edward D'Amato, Retired, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good afternoon, Captain D'Amato. How many years ago did you retire from the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. About three years and two months.

Q. And how many years of service had you had on the Philadelphia Police Department at the time of your retirement?

A. 23 years.

Q. Now, we know that you were a captain at your retirement. What was your assignment in the Philadelphia Police Department on December 9th, 1981?

A. I held the rank of Detective assigned to 3 squad, West Detective Division, 55th and Pine Street.

Q. Now, Captain D'Amato, did you have occasion on

Page 118.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

December 9th of 1981 to be sent to the Homicide Division to assist in any investigation?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Q. Could you tell us how that came about?

A. I was working the midnight-to-8:00 a.m. tour of duty at West Detectives. And we received a phone call that a police officer had been shot and killed in the 1200 block of Locust Street. And that Homicide was requesting one detective from each of the seven Detective divisions to come to Homicide and give them a hand.

Q. And you were the person from West Detectives assigned?

A. Supervisor, yeah, assigned me to go to Homicide.

Q. Now, do you recall what time it was that you arrived at the Homicide Division?

A. Mid-morning somewhere, maybe 4:00 or 5:00 a.m., I don't recall.

Q. And did you receive any, did you receive any assignment with regard to an individual named Arnold Howard?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what was the assignment which you received?

Page 119.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

A. Myself and Detective Williams from Central Detectives, he was I believe detailed then from Central Detectives, we were assigned to go out to Richard Allen Homes to pick up a witness and bring him to Homicide and then interview him.

Q. Now, were you given instructions as to how to pick up that witness?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what were those instructions?

A. The best I could recall it we were told not to go to his apartment, that he didn't want the police to be seen at his apartment. And that we were to pick him up on the street, there was a designated spot out there somewhere, I can't recall the exact location, where we would park and he would get in the car.

Q. Had you made those prior arrangements with Mr. Howard or had, to the best of your knowledge, someone else made those arrangements?

A. Someone else made it and it was just forwarded to me and Williams.

Q. Now, having picked up Mr. Howard -- well, let me ask you this. On the day that you had contact with Mr. Howard, did you have occasion to make a writing regarding your contact with Mr. Howard?

Page 120.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

A. If you're referring to the interview I took of him at 8th and Race, yes, ma'am.

Q. Was that interview with Mr. Howard recorded on the date that you came in contact with Mr. Howard?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And on the date that you recorded the information regarding your contact with Mr. Howard, was that information accurate when you recorded it?

A. Yes, ma'am.

MS. FISK: May I ask, please, that the captain be shown what has previously been marked Commonwealth Exhibit 16 (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Recognizing that it has been some 14 years, Captain D'Amato, if you need to utilize that to answer my precise questions as to time please do so.

Utilizing what has been marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 16, first let me ask you: Is that the statement you took from Mr. Howard on December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, ma'am, it appears to be a photostatic copy of the five-page statement I recorded.

Q. And you say you recorded it: Are you the person who typed it?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Page 121.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

Q. Utilizing that statement, can you tell us, please, the time that you first came in contact with Mr. Howard when you and Detective Williams went to pick him up at this prearranged location near the Richard Allen Homes?

A. I don't believe this interview record reflects the time we met him on the street. But it does reflect the time that I brought him, me and Williams brought him to 8th and Race.

Q. And what time was it that you brought him to 8th and Race?

A. Ahh, according to my interview sheet it was 12:35 p.m., December the 9th, 1981.

Q. Would you look at the date, the time listed directly below that?

A. Yes, ma'am. Oh, I'm sorry. Brought in by. I stand corrected: It's 12:25 p.m., December the 9th, '81.

Q. To the best of your recollection, after picking up Mr. Howard near the Richard Allen Homes, did you go, did you and Detective Williams and Mr. Howard go directly to the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, ma'am, it was a very short ride.

Q. About how long?

Page 122.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

A. Ahh, 15 minutes, I would say, maybe 20, tops.

Q. So would it be fair to say that you picked up Mr. Howard at some moments after noon on December 9th, 1981?

A. I would guess that sometime after 12:00 noon we picked him up.

Q. Now, your statement reflects that he was brought into the Roundhouse by yourself and Detective Williams at 12:25 p.m?

A. Yes, ma'am.

MS. FISK: Can Captain D'Amato please be shown the logbook which was marked and has been retained here temporarily. And specifically turn to page 108 for the Captain.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Captain, if you turn to page 108.

A. 108?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. I call your attention to about halfway down on page 108 of this logbook which has previously been marked and identified.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Do you see on 12-9, under the column name, the name Arnold Howard written in?

Page 123.

A. Yes, ma'am, I do.

Q. And whose handwriting is that, sir?

A. That's my handwriting.

Q. And did you record Mr. Howard's name there when you and Detective Williams were bringing him into the Police Administration Building?

A. I'm sorry, ma'am, I didn't hear you.

Q. Did you record Mr. Howard's name on that line on page 108 of the logbook when you and Detective Williams were bringing Mr. Howard into the Police Administration Building on December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you write next to his name the unit where you were taking him?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what did you write?

A. H-O-M: Abbreviation for Homicide.

Q. And did you record in the time in column the time that you were taking Mr. Howard into the Roundhouse?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what time did you record?

A. 12:30.

Q. And was that 12:30 p.m., as reflected when you compare it to Commonwealth Exhibit 16, was that 12:30 p.m?

Page 124.

A. Which was the same, yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. Now, the last column, which is the escort column, could you tell us what that says?

A. That's my signature, my last name.

Q. It says D'Amato?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. All right, now the out column, if you would look at that for a moment. What does that say?

A. 2:30.

Q. Do you know of your own personal knowledge whether or not that is a 2:30 p.m., 2:30 a.m., whether or not that's 2:30 on December 9th, 1981?

A. Best recollection I have of that entire incident was that that was 2:30 p.m., two hours later.

Q. How is it is that you recall that?

A. I've been trying to remember two days to recall everything I did that day. And that is my recollection. I do have a clearer recollection of picking him up and interviewing him. The only thing I could tell you is that if that would have been the next 2:30, which would have been 14 hours later, I would have noted it. And at 2:30 a.m. that day, I was either home in bed sleeping or back at West Detectives.

Q. With the exception of that one date -- December 9th, 1981 -- that you were sent to the Homicide Division to assist in the investigation of Officer Faulkner's murder, did you return to the Homicide Division in the subsequent days: On the l0th, the llth, the 12th?

A. No.

Q. You only worked in Homicide that one day to assist the detectives?

A. I believe it was that one day, that's it. We usually go down just as help, basically, go-fors to do a lot of the leg work that might not or may be important while Homicide detectives are doing the actual field work. Or just assist them. And it's, especially since it is something that didn't happen in my division, I would have been back to West Detectives.

Q. When you say unusual, you are talking about whenever a police officer is shot and killed?

A. Or even a homicide from your division you'll go down and work with Homicide. But that's usually ones in your division. A major case like this with a police officer being killed, it just so happened that they wanted seven detectives and got them from each division.

Q. Now, when you picked up Mr. Howard and brought him into the Police Administration Building and up to the Homicide Division, was he at any time placed in handcuffs?

A. Placed in handcuffs?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No.

Q. Now, after you went up to the Homicide Division with Mr. Howard, do you recall how it came to be that you recorded a statement of Mr. Howard's?

A. The best I could recall was that we had told somebody in Homicide that we had Arnold Howard and we brought him in and somebody told us to interview him. Whether it was a supervisor, the assigned detective, I don't recall.

Q. Now, had you been provided any information regarding Mr. Howard so you knew what questions to ask?

A. Yes. Some.

Q. Now, did you conduct that interview of Mr. Howard, if you recall, in a separate interrogation room or out in the open area?

A. I can't recall that.

Page 127.

Q. Let me ask you this, Captain. As a matter of your practice, in the 23 years that you were a member of the Philadelphia Police Department, on how many occasions did you have occasion to record a statement of a person you were interviewing?

A. An estimate? I guess 500 to a thousand maybe.

Q. And is it your custom --

A. Or more -- I'm sorry -- probably more. Just four years in West Detectives I probably did more than that, yeah.

Q. And as a matter of your custom and practice as a police officer, Detective -- I assume you went through sergeant, lieutenant before you got to captain -- was it your practice to record verbatim the questions you are asking the person you were interviewing and to record verbatim the answers that individual gave you?

A. Yes, ma'am, I do the best I can. I always had a policy, I'm not the greatest typer in the world, but I would type my question, read it to whoever I was interviewing, and instructing him to go slow because I'm not the best typer and do my best to get it word-for-word.

Q. And did you do this to Mr. Howard on December the 9th, 1981?

A. Definitely.

Q. Could you then, beginning with the first -- I'm sorry. As a matter of your custom and practice, after you completed recording an interview with someone, did there sometimes come an occasion where you would -- strike that. After you completed recording an interview with a person that you were interviewing, what was your custom and practice with regard to giving that individual an opportunity to review it and asking that individual to fix their signature onto the pages of that interview?

A. Well, first off, I would always ask the person whether they could read and write the English language, how far they went in school. But it was my experience that some people were naturally embarrassed to tell you if they could not read and write the English language and would answer affirmatively to say yes. So I would tell them to read back the statement. I would tell them that if it's everything you said I would like you ta sign the bottom of each page. If there is any changes you want to make we'll make them. You make the change yourself in your handwriting and initial it. And then I would usually tell them -- not usually -- always tell them to read out loud at least the first few lines of the interview so I knew myself that whoever was reading the statement could read and write the English language and could comprehend exactly what I had put on paper.

Q. And was that what you did with Mr. Howard?

A. Pardon me, ma'am?

Q. Is that what you did with Mr. Howard?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, was it your practice to ask the individual, after giving, after having him read a portion of it out loud and address it themselves, to ask the individual whom you had interviewed to place their signature on the bottom of each page of the interview that you took?

A. Yes. And I would always tell them -- not actually the bottom of the page -- I always wanted them to sign it at the last typed line, whether that be a question or an answer. So that there would never be a question whether anything was added between the last line of the typing and someone's signature.

Q. Now, in Commonwealth Exhibit C-16, the interview of Mr. Howard, is that Mr. Howard's signature on the bottom of page l?

A. Yes, ma'am, I remember him signing it, I could tell you that.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. I remember him signing it.

Q. And did Mr. Howard place his signature on the bottom of all of these pages?

A. Ahh, yes, ma'am, he did. And twice on page 5.

Q. And can you explain to us why his signature appears twice on page 5?

A. The best I could recall, we had our interview reviewed by someone in Homicide, it's usually a supervisor. And a question had come up about him possibly being involved in, I think it was an auto accident. Yeah, it would be involved in an auto accident and it was kind of a loose end that we wanted covered. Brought him back and told him that we just wanted to cover one loose end and asked him a few questions about this auto accident. We were trying to get some kind of reasonable explanation why paperwork in his name was found in Danny's -- excuse me -- Officer Faulkner's clothing.

Q. Okay. Well, what I would like you to do, please, with respect to the first three pages, please, of this document, Captain, is to read to us the questions that you asked of Mr. Howard and the answers that he gave you.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Starting with the first question, please.

A. Question: Arnold, last night a police officer was shot and killed at 1200 Locust Street. What can you tell me about the shooting.

Answer: Nothing.

Question: Arnold, I am going to show you a photostatic copy of an application for a duplicate driver's license. What can you tell me about this application. In parentheses, Howard was then shown by Detective D'Amato a copy of Bassett's application for duplicate operator's license made out in his name.

Answer: It's mine.

Question: When and where did you get it.

Answer: I got it from Bassett's at Broad and Poplar on the 27th of November.

Question: When was the last time you saw this Bassett's application.

Answer: The Monday before last. In parentheses: Howard was then shown a calendar by Detective Williams and stated the 30th of November.

Question --

Q. Before you go forward: Are these parentheticals reflecting something that occurred other than what was said while you were taking the statement?

A. These are reflecting any actions that myself or Detective Williams or anybody else who might have been in the room would do or say or just as to explain what we were doing.

Q. And at the time, do you type those parentheticals in?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Were they accurately reflecting what was being done in the course of this interview?

A. Yes, ma'am, they were.

Q. Please continue with the next question.

A. Question: Where were you when you saw this application on November the 30th.

Answer: At 18th and Chestnut at the Chuckwagon. I was eating inside there.

Question: What did you do with this Bassett's application at the Chuckwagon.

Answer: I had it in my pocket then. I didn't discover it missing until this past Saturday. The 5th of December. In parentheses: Howard referring to calendar.

Question: Do you know how you lost it.

Answer: I believe I had lost it in the back of that Volkswagen.

Page 2. Question: What Volkswagen would that be.

Answer: William Cook's Volkswagen.

Question: When were you in William Cook's Volkswagen.

Answer: The Monday I was in the Volkswagen. William is a vendor in Center City. I ran, I ran into him when I left the Chuckwagon in front of the Duke and Duchess movie. He gave me a ride to 8th and Spring Garden.

Question: Who was in William Cook's auto besides you and him when he gave you the ride on that Monday.

Answer: Just him. He had a lot of stock in the car, incense and gloves and umbrellas.

Question: Where did you sit in the Volkswagen when he gave you the ride.

Answer: I sat in the back, the front seat was full of stuff.

Question: When was the last time you saw William Cook.

Answer: That was the last time, that

Page 134.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

Monday about five o'clock in the afternoon.

Question: Do you know Wesley Cook.

Answer: Yes, I knew them both.

Question: How do you know Wesley.

Answer: We all grew up together in the Spring Garden projects.

Question: When was the last time you saw Wesley Cook.

Answer: I ain't seen Wesley in almost a month.

Question: Did you know where your driver's application was before today.

Answer: No. I thought I had lost it on the street because I lost the phone book with it. I thought my wife had it because I had a lot of girls' phone numbers in it.

Question: Do you know where Wesley Cook lives.

Answer: He was living with his mother at 7th and Wallace, I think 704 Wallace.

Question: Do you know where William Cook lives.

Answer: In the same place with his mother.

Page 3. Question: When did you hear

Page 135.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

about the officer being shot last night.

Answer: This morning on the radio.

Question: Did you know then that Wesley and William Cook had been arrested.

Answer: No. But I heard on Mary Mason that Mumia had been arrested and I know Mumia to be Wesley Cook. That's his Muslim name.

Question: When did you know that your driver's license application was found.

Answer: After I got your message to call the Roundhouse and I spoke to a Detective Thomas. He had asked me my phone number.

Question: Do you know where we found your Bassett's application.

Answer: No.

Question: When I first asked you if you knew how you lost your application you answered I believe I had lost it in the back of that Volkswagen. What made you say that.

Answer: Because of what the officer had said to me on the phone. He said you found a duplicate license with my name on it.

Question: Did he say where we found it.

Answer: No. All he said is that you

Page 136.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

found it.

Question: How did you know about a Volkswagen.

Answer: I read it in the Daily News and I know the Volkswagen was William's.

Question: What can you tell me about Wesley Cook.

Answer: All we did was grow up together, gang warred together. We were in the Black Panther Party together around '69 or '70.

Question: Is there anything else you can think of that would help us in our investigation of the shooting of Police Officer Faulkner.

Answer: That's all I know. What I read in the paper.

Question: Do you know Officer Faulkner.

Answer: I may know him. I'm the secretary of the Town Watch in Spring Garden and I know Officer Redden at 11th and Winter.

Q. Now, Captain, these are the first three pages of the total five-page statement?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And is what you have just read the as best you were able to type it verbatim account of the

Page 137.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct questions that you asked Mr. Howard and the answers that he gave you?

A. Yes, ma'am, they are.

Q. And are these three pages among the five pages that were signed by Mr. Howard after your total interview with him was completed?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, how long did your interview with Mr. Howard take place?

A. How long did it last, did you say, ma'am?

Q. Yes, if you know.

A. I don't know.

Q. Utilizing the time out sheet, or the time out column in the logbook which is Commonwealth Exhibit 19, which reflect, which reflects the numbers 2:30?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Are you able to tell us based on the statement which you have now refreshed yourself with -- Arnold Howard -- whether that was 2:30 p.m. on December the 9th?

A. To the best of my recollection, that was 2:30 p.m., yes, ma'am.

Q. Incidentally, what kind of vehicle were you and Detective Williams using when you picked up Mr. Howard at the Richard Allen Homes?

Page 138.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Direct

A. An unmarked detective squad car.

Q. Was it a police wagon?

A. No.

Q. Did it look at all like a police wagon?

A. No. It is an unmarked four-door, I believe in those days we were driving Plymouths.

Q. After you completed the taking of the statement of Mr. Howard, Mr. Howard signed the statement, did you escort Mr. Howard out of the Police Administration Building?

A. At sometime what I believe happened, the best I could remember is we gave the interview to someone at detective -- ahh, Homicide. Most likely a supervisor, I believe. And waited for him to review the statement and then he would just get the word okay to come back. That's how it would work. And to the best I could recall, ma'am, that's what happened that afternoon.

Q. Well, after the completion of the interview Mr. Howard left the Police Administration Building, and that was at 2:30 p.m?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall whether Mr. Howard then took himself home or whether you provided him with a ride home?

Page 139.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

A. I'm sorry, I can't recall.

MS. FISK: Thank you. I have no further questions of the captain, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Detective D'Amato.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Did Mr. Howard in the course of that interview 13 years ago indicate to you at any time that what was found with Officer Faulkner was actually a duplicate license and not an application for a license?

A. Can I refer to my notes if that's --

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Without referring to your notes you have no independent recollection, do you?

A. Yeah, the way I remember it, it was an application from a place called Bassett's Auto Tags Service that had his name on it. And, I believe, again to the best of my recollection, that it was checked application for duplicate driver's license.

Q. My question remains, did Mr. Howard indicate to you at any time in that interview that what was found was an actual duplicate license and not an application?

A. No, I don't believe he did.

Q. Is it, then, you have a recollection and your recollection is he never said it, or is it that you can't recall today?

A. If you would let me look at these, if he said it it would be on here. If he didn't, if it's not on here he didn't say it.

Q. I will let you look at it in a minute. But my question to you at this point is without looking at it, you can't say one way or the other; isn't that true?

A. If he told me that what was found was an actual duplicate driver's license, I don't believe he said that. I don't recall him saying that.

Q. You don't recall because so much time has passed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have no recall without referring to the interview?

A. Oh, I have some recall without referring to the interview, but that particular case, I know I asked some question and phrased it using the word duplicate something on there. And that's all I wanted to clear up. But I, if he would have said that he had given, that he had a duplicate driver's license, that would have been recorded on here, that's what I can tell you for sure.

Q. But you can't tell us today if he said that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, I have to sustain that. Now you are arguing with him. He already answered that question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You have no recall of whether or not he said that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He has answered that question. He has answered that he does not remember hearing him say that. He said that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is that your testimony: You don't remember him saying that?

THE COURT: Counselor, the testimony is what is in the Court record.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Counsel just tried to clarify it.

Page 142.

THE COURT: I am not worrying about what Counsel is trying to do. As I recollect, he has already answered that question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. My question to you, Detective, is to your present recollection, did Mr. Howard say to you, at any time, that there was a duplicate license involved?

A. Okay. I believe the word recall --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Asked and answer.

THE COURT: Go ahead, one more time.

THE WITNESS: I believe the word recall and recollection come from the same root and I am going to tell you that I can not recall him saying that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay. And my last question on that point is, are you saying that he might have said it and you don't remember, or are you saying you have a recollection and he didn't say it?

A. I'm saying that to the best of my recollection he did not say it.

Q. Okay. Now will you turn to page 3 of the interview. And I direct your attention to a question you asked which reads this way. Midway on the page. My first, when I first asked you if you knew how you lost your application you answered, quote, I believe I had lost it in the back of the Volkswagen. What made you say that.

Then the answer that you recorded that Mr. Howard gave you is because of what the officer had said to me on the phone. He said you found a duplicate license with my name on it. Does that refresh your recollection that Mr. Howard referred to a duplicate license?

A. Yeah, that refreshes my recollection. Mr. Howard's quoting what a detective told him on the phone. That's not Mr. Howard saying that it was. He's quoting that a detective told him that.

Q. Right. But he is referring there not to an application but to a duplicate license; isn't that right?

A. To a duplicate -- yes, that's right, sir.

Q. Having read that, do you now recall that Mr. Howard on more than one occasion said to you that what was involved here -- please don't read the statement -- if you have problems recalling just tell me and you can refer to the statement.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 144.

Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you now recall --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is a rule: A witness can not refer to a statement unless a witness first acknowledges that he has no recollection, then he may refer to the statement.

THE COURT: All right. Repeat that question again.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right. My having read this to you and you now having seen it in print, does that bring to mind the fact that Mr. Howard on more than one occasion indicated to you that what was involved here was a duplicate license and not an application?

A. No.

Q. It doesn't help you with that recall?

A. I don't remember us going over that a multitude of times. And again, like I told you, Howard was then quoting what a detective told him on the phone. That wasn't, he wasn't saying I lost a duplicate license. He said something to the effect of you told me. And he might have thought he was talking to me, which he wasn't, but he said something you told me they found a duplicate license. He is quoting someone else. He didn't say I lost a duplicate license. He is quoting what the detective told him on the phone.

Q. You don't know who the detective who spoke to him on the phone was, do you?

A. I don't know for sure, no, I don't.

Q. And you weren't even privy to that conversation, were you?

A. Ahh, no, I wasn't.

Q. So he might have had a conversation with a detective about the duplicate license that was found at the scene?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to what he might have.

THE COURT: I will sustain that. How is he going to know that?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, as I understand it, you were working the midnight-to-8:00 shift?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your shift ended at 8:00 a.m?

A. Scheduled to end at 8:00 a.m.

Q. Pardon?

Page 146.

A. Scheduled to end at 8:00 a.m.

Q. In this instance you were asked to stay over?

A. Yes.

Q. The morning of December 9th?

A. Yes.

Q. And as I understand it, you were one detective from a division that was brought into Homicide to work this case?

A. Yes, sir, there were seven Detective division at that time and I believe Homicide called for one detective from each division.

Q. So to your understanding, there were seven detectives working this case that morning?

A. No, I have no idea how many detectives were working that case that morning.

Q. Well, did you see detectives from other divisions in Homicide that morning?

A. I probably wouldn't recognize everybody there and be able to tell you whether they were Northeast Division, East Division or Homicide. But I couldn't tell you today that I recall who I saw that night, I don't.

Q. No, but you were telling us that one detective from each division was called in, to your knowledge?

A. To my knowledge.

Page 147.

Q. And that's what brought you there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And so, presumably, there were seven other detectives, or six others?

A. Theoretically that would be about right.

Q. So your recall of that morning was that there were a number of detectives in Homicide working?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they were questioning witnesses about the shooting of Officer Faulkner?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. This goes beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. He is here for one purpose only: What he did.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Let's not try to inquire about what everybody else did, okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, that day when you questioned Mr. Howard up in Homicide, do you know if there were three or four little interrogation rooms?

A. The way I remember Homicide, I think there was two interrogation rooms on one side of the room; and there might have been one or two on the other side of the room, but I think they were mostly used for files and things. That's the best I remember how Homicide was laid out.

Q. But what you saw were a number of detectives questioning a number of people while you were there with Mr. Howard?

A. Counsel, I will tell you the truth: I can't remember exactly what I saw. I can only from my experience, especially with a dead police officer, tell you that I can be certain that there was a lot of activity in Homicide at that time. And I'm sure that people were being interviewed. To tell you today that I could remember people sitting here and there, I can't.

Q. Right. But you were there 12:30 or thereabouts?

A. Yes.

Q. Right. It's about seven hours after the shooting.

A. Okay.

Q. And detectives were up there and they were questioning an unspecified number of people about the shooting?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor:

Page 149.

It's been asked and answered.

THE COURT: I will have sustain that, Counselor. He is not here as to what everybody else was doing. Just what he did in this instance, in this case. Let's stick to that. Otherwise, we could stay here for hours.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, one of the things that we do when a witness comes in to testify who has interviewed over a thousand people over a period of more than 20 years is we test his recollection as to the event in question.

THE COURT: Well, test it as to this.

MR. WEINGLASS: To try to see what Detective D'Amato remembers of that time on December 9th, 1981. The detective's been retired for a number of years. And he's been very busy during the course of a quarter of a century of work. I want to see how he can remember December 9th, 1981.

MS. FISK: First of all, it is the captain who has been retired for a number of years. He was a detective in 1981. And second, Your Honor, he has testified that he knows there was a lot of activity in Homicide, beyond that he does not have, as I understood his answer, specific recollection of who was doing what with whom.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he remembers a detective from seven different divisions, keeping one of them, and he remembers the room and he remembers activity --

THE COURT: I don't remember him saying that he remembers seven detectives.

MR. WEINGLASS: One from each of seven divisions.

THE COURT: He said they had that many divisions and they were calling for help and they asked somebody to send one detective from each division.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Well, who they are, I don't know that he knows that. He knows that he was called from his division. That's all he knows.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, and that there were six other detectives.

THE COURT: So what? He doesn't necessarily know who they are.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

Page 151.

THE COURT: And what difference does it make who they were? He is here to tell you what he did that day.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to his recollection.

THE COURT: His recollection as to what he did that day. Now let's stick to that. Not about everybody else.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So you interviewed Mr. Howard, you said, on this day in question; is that right?

A. I interviewed Mr. Howard, yes, sir.

Q. Did you interview others?

A. Truthfully, I can't remember. I don't know if I did.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when were you first contacted to come here --

A. To come to this Courtroom?

Q. Yeah.

A. Today being Friday. Ahh, Wednesday in the a.m., Wednesday morning.

Q. And you are retired --

Page 152.

A. Yes.

Q. -- as I understand it. And you have been retired for how long?

A. Three years and two months. Not that I'm counting, but. Three years and two months.

Q. And before that you were with the Police Department for how long?

A. About 23 years.

Q. 23 years. And you were contacted, did you say in the late afternoon on Wednesday?

A. No, I'm going to guess it was around maybe eleven o'clock, twelve o'clock in the morning. 11:00 a.m., 12:00 noon.

Q. And who contacted you?

A. Actually, I got home and my daughter told me to call a friend of mine who's still in the Police Department, that it was important. I called him, he told me that they needed me on this case. He gave me Detective Williams and his beeper. I beeped Detective Williams. He called me at home. He gave me Miss Fisk's phone number at the District Attorney's Office. I called Miss Fisk's office. She wasn't available. I left a message and my home phone number and approximately 20 minutes later Ms. Fisk called me.

Page 153.

Q. And it happened just as you described?

A. To the best of my recollection.

Q. Right. So even as a retired captain the District Attorney's Office is able to make you available as a witness in just a matter of a few hours?

A. Well, I guess that depends on where you retire to, Counselor. My mistake was retiring close by.

Q. Right. So you were in or near the City of Philadelphia?

THE COURT: You should have gone to Key West.

THE WITNESS: I'm headed there, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So you're testifying about the extraordinary capability of the District Attorney's Office to reach out for a witness, even a retired one, and bring him to Court when they need him?

A. It's actually --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to the form of that question.

THE WITNESS: I thought it was my extraordinary reputation.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 154.

Q. Right. Do you know, by the way, a police officer named, an ex-police officer named Gary Wakshul?

A. Wakshul?

Q. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It goes beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, so when you were contacted did there come a point in time where you met with representatives of the District Attorney's Office?

A. Very shortly. Yes.

Q. Very shortly after that?

A. No, very shortly yesterday morning.

Q. I see. And you came here to the building or people went to you?

A. I'm sorry, sir. To meet --

Q. Was the meeting here in the building or outside?

A. Well, actually the meeting was in the lobby of the District Attorney's Office. Because I explained to Ms. Fisk that I'm claustrophobic and do not like to take elevators, so she was kind enough to meet me in the lobby.

Q. And you, were you shown anything?

A. Ahh, a copy of my statement.

Q. When you say my statement, what are you referring to?

A. The statement I typed, the statement I took from Mr. Howard.

Q. You were shown that one statement?

A. And I believe she showed me a Court record of Mr. Howard's affidavit or something, whatever. I don't know exactly the legal term of it.

Q. And it was on the basis of your reading those that you testified today?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It would be fair to say, would it not, Captain, that without reading that statement you would have no independent recollection of Mr. Howard?

A. I could tell you that I, I would have remembered. This was a murder of a police officer, so naturally it's not something that you would forget being a police officer. I would remember some of the things that I did that night. And I can honestly tell you that I do remember interviewing Mr. Howard.

Now, to tell you today that I could remember what we said or maybe even the subject, I might not have remembered. But I do remember doing a few things that night and that's one of the things I do remember.

Q. Could you describe Mr. Howard for us?

A. No, other than the -- excuse me -- the fact that he was a black male, I have no recollection of him.

Q. None?

A. No, I wouldn't know him if he was here today.

Q. Would you know him if he was here in the Courtroom?

A. No, sir, no way.

Q. Now, so you remember interviewing, you're telling us, Mr. Howard?

A. Yeah, I remember, I remember going out with Williams, picking him up and interviewing him.

Q. But you don't remember interviewing anyone else?

A. No. I, I was a detective for about four years and I had been assigned to Homicide on occasion to homicides and sometimes those things kind of run together. Maybe I interviewed a peripheral police officer from somewhere but I really couldn't honestly tell you today whether I interviewed anybody else that night or not. I had been there a couple of hours prior to interviewing Mr. Howard, so there is a good possibility I wasn't just standing around, there is a possibility I interviewed somebody else.

Q. Those are all possibilities?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your recollection is no better than possibilities?

A. On some points.

Q. And as a matter of fact, until you saw the statement which the Assistant District Attorney gave you your recollection of Mr. Howard was no better than possibilities? Isn't that true?

A. Well, if you are talking about his physical appearance or anything like that, yes, you are correct. But I do remember interviewing a person that night on the Officer Faulkner case. I can honestly tell you I remember that. And I remember going out and picking him up. But, I'm sorry, but if you called me up three days ago and said who did you interview when Danny Faulkner was killed I couldn't tell you.

Q. As a matter of fact, you couldn't even give us the name, could you?

A. No.

Q. The name Arnold Howard meant nothing to you two days ago?

A. Until about before eleven o'clock it didn't, right.

Q. It didn't meaning anything to you. It was only after you were shown a statement with his name on it that you even knew the name?

A. That's right.

Q. And even today you can't even place the face?

A. No, sir, I can't.

Q. Or whether he is tall or short or heavy?

A. I don't think he was heavy. I think he was kind of a slim guy, if I remember. But I don't think he was heavy. But was that's about the best I could do for you today.

Q. But isn't it true that your whole testimony here today is nothing more than your reciting what you read on the document?

A. No, I wouldn't say that.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. His testimony speaks for itself. He has been asked extensively as to his recollections independent of what's recorded. It is unfair for Counsel to characterize it in that way.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ask Mr. Arnold Howard to take a polygraph test that night?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did he agree to take one?

A. I believe he did answer affirmatively.

Q. To your knowledge was one administered?

A. Ahh, I didn't administer one and to my knowledge --

Q. Pardon?

A. I did not administer a polygraph and to my knowledge it was not, but I couldn't tell you for sure.

Q. So you don't even know if they did a polygraph that night?

A. That's correct, that wasn't my decision.

Q. Do you know if there was any test done on his hand?

A. I did no test on his hands. And to the best of my knowledge, I have no knowledge of any test being done to his hands.

Q. So it might have been done, you have no recollection of that either?

A. I could tell you I didn't do it.

Q. That's all?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember another gentleman being there at the same time in the Homicide by the name of Kenneth Freeman?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, just one and let's cut it out, all right.

THE WITNESS: Kenneth Freeman, sir?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Yeah.

A. That name doesn't ring a bell to me, I don't remember that.

Q. Doesn't ring a bell?

A. No, sir.

Q. But there were other gentlemen there, some of them were African American?

MS. FISK: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Isn't that correct?

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. He said there were a lot of people there. Now, come on, Counselor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Incidentally, do you have any recollection of whether or not you physically possessed the document of Arnold Howard that was found at the crime scene that night? I'm sorry, that afternoon. Or morning.

A. I believe I was shown it. I believe I was shown it. That's the best -- again, Counselor, I am doing the best I can. To the best of my recollection somebody showed it to me.

Q. Well, did you then take whatever it was, a piece of paper, and put it in front of Mr. Howard and say Mr. Howard, this is what we are talking about?

A. I don't recall doing that and I believe if I did that I would have probably noted it on the interview.

Q. Well, why wouldn't you do that if you remember questioning him about a piece of paper, why would you show it to the gentleman?

A. Counselor, keep in mind that I wasn't a Homicide detective. I was a detective. What we did was on the instructions of a supervisor from Homicide. That was reviewed; and when they wanted you to do something else you did something else. We kind of stayed out of the way and did what we were told. We weren't running the investigation. If they had things to do, and their detectives were tied up doing something which was probably more important, we did it. I have no problem saying that we were more like go-fors, I guess.

Q. You were just doing what you were told?

A. Doing what I was told, and having things reviewed. And if they wanted something re-covered I did it. I really didn't have that much knowledge of the entire case at that point other than what I was being told.

Q. So, for instance, you didn't know, Captain D'Amato, you didn't know how many suspects there were, you didn't know the circumstances of the shooting, you didn't know any of those things because you didn't have to know them for the work you were being asked to do?

A. At the time of that interview --

Q. Yeah.

A. -- I had a rundown. I knew that there was at least one suspect in custody, and I had known the location and some of the particulars of the murder of Officer Faulkner.

Q. Did you say you went to the location before?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. Did you say you went to the location?

A. No, I am aware of the location where Officer Faulkner was murdered and some of the details. But that's the best I could tell you. Naturally they are going to run the job down to you when you got there, you are not going to walk in blind. But I am sure that I didn't know as much of the particulars as, let's say, the assigned from Homicide.

Page 163.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

Q. Do you know if the driver's license belonging to Arnold Howard was found at the scene?

A. I have no knowledge of that, sir.

Q. You have no knowledge. Now, do you remember, Captain D'Amato, interviewing a patrolman by the name of Joseph Schuck?

A. Patrolman Shot?

Q. Schuck: S-C-H-U-C-K?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember interviewing him?

A. I may have interviewed some police officers that day, like I told you, but to say I could tell you yeah, I remember interviewing Officer Schuck, no, I don't.

Q. Do you remember interviewing Patrolman Robert Shoemaker that day?

A. Same answer, sir: Maybe I did, but to tell you today I have an independent recollection of that, I don't.

Q. Do you remember interviewing Patrolman William Maas that day, M-A-A-S?

Page 164.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

A. Same answer, sir: No.

Q. So you don't remember Patrolman Schuck, Patrolman Shoemaker, Patrolman Maas, all of whom you interviewed that day, all of whose interviews you recorded, all of whose interviews you typed up and had signed, but you remember Arnold Howard; is that your testimony?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object to the form of that question.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. Save that for argument for the Court later on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you shown any other interviews that you conducted that day?

A. No, sir, I wasn't.

Q. The District Attorney didn't show those to you?

A. No, sir, she did not.

Q. Incidentally, you were on duty that morning at 6:00 a.m., were you not?

A. 6:00 a.m. on the 9th, sir?

Q. Yeah.

A. Yes.

Q. And you were already working on this case at

Page 165.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

6:00 a.m., were you not?

A. I would guess. I really don't know what time I arrived at Homicide.

Q. Well, would it refresh your recollection if I told you that you had conducted an interview of Officer Shoemaker at 5:15 a.m?

A. If that's what it says then I was there by 5:15.

Q. And that you had conducted another interview... of another police officer named Schuck at 6:30 am; is that right?

A. Yes, sir, I testified that I think I may have interviewed some police officers but I just don't remember if I had some jobs running into each other there.

Q. But you were interviewing officers even before the sun came up?

A. Okay.

Q. Is that true?

A. What time does the sun come up on December 9th? I'm not exactly sure.

Q. It's probably still dark at five o'clock, isn't it?

A. Then I was interviewing them before the sun came up.

Page 166.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

Q. So you were working on this case before dawn?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when you interviewed Mr. Howard, to your understanding the purpose of that interview is that Mr. Howard might have been a person who was at the scene of the crime because a document was found there with his name on it?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I'm getting confused as to which of the two parties here is testifying. I object to that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: Cross-examination.

MS. FISK: There is no basis for that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: There were some leading questions on direct we allowed.

MS. FISK: Well, I was taking great instruction from Counsel who has been doing that for the last two-and-a-half weeks.

MR. WEINGLASS: Good, we're learning something.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, Captain D'Amato, you were questioning this person because he might have been involved in the murder of a police officer since a document with his name on it was found at the scene?

Page 167.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, I will let him answer it, because we'll be here forever. It is 1:30 and I would like to get my lunch. So let's go.

THE WITNESS: I was questioning this man because of the document with his name on it was found on Police Officer Faulkner. Now, that interview and his answers to my questions will take me whether he was at the scene or whether there was a reasonable explanation. That's what it was. I didn't -- if you go into an investigation thinking you know the answers already, you're going to screw it up. I was interviewing that fellow because something was found with his name on it, and where my questions and his answers took me, that's where we were going. Whether it made him a suspect, a witness, or some guy who just lost a piece of paper that Danny happened to pick up that night.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That is the methodology, but what I am asking about is in your thinking as you are interviewing this person, your thinking was this person, since a document was found with his name on it at the scene, might have been at the scene of the murder?

Page 168.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He already answered that question, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Incidentally, and I mean no disrespect --

A. None taken.

Q. -- on this question: You referred to the deceased officer as Danny. Did you know Officer Faulkner?

A. I didn't personally know Officer Faulkner but I've been a police officer long enough that I feel a relationship to everybody who wears a badge.

Q. Okay. And you feel that strongly?

A. Very strong.

Q. Right. And your testimony here today is also, it would be fair to say, is also an effort to assist the District Attorney's Office?

A. My testimony today is the truth, Counselor, as I remember it. That was my job and I was a professional police officer, I tell you the truth.

Q. Right. But you didn't remember these other four interviews that you conducted on the same day?

A. If you review my testimony, I didn't tell you I didn't remember. I said I may have interviewed some police officers that night. Did I have an independent recollection? No. You threw four names at me. I didn't even know Arnold Howard's name until Miss Fisk told me what it was.

Page 169.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Cross

Q. Okay.

A. That's what I told you. I am not telling you I don't remember interviewing police. I said I may have interviewed some police officers at that time, I don't remember everything I did.

But I do remember interviewing Mr. Howard, I could tell you that.

Q. And before you were shown the document that you typed up that night, you didn't have any independent recollection?

A. I couldn't --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to that question. That has been asked and answered more than once.

THE COURT: I know that. Time and time again.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Let me just ask you a few last questions. Is there a tape recorder in the Homicide Unit at that time to your knowledge?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Did you in your work use tape recorders?

Page 170.

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Redirect

A. Never used a tape recorder.

Q. Why is that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He never used it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And did you ask at any time Mr. Howard to write out in his own hand what was involved with this duplicate license?

A. No, I don't believe I -- no, I never asked him that.

Q. As a matter of fact, you were the one who was typing, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You controlled what you typed; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you controlled what you typed as his answers; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. I have nothing further.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Cap. Edward D'Amato, Ret. - Redirect

BY MS. FISK:

Q. So I understand it: After you typed his answers, that's why you give the document to Mr. Howard for his review before he places his signature on the pages; is that right?

A. I let him review it and tell him if that's what he said to sign it, and if there is any changes, go ahead and make them.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. We will recess for lunch until 2:45.

- - - - -

(Luncheon recess was held until 3:00 p.m.)

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everybody.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, if I could just raise one matter before calling the next witness, and it is with regard to the defense proffered witness William Singletary.

THE COURT OFFICER: Quiet in the Courtroom, please.

MS. FISK: Who was discussed this morning. As the Court is aware, throughout the course of these proceedings there were numerous witnesses sought by the defense whom defense was unable to locate and obtain and the Commonwealth provided assistance in locating, serving and transporting witnesses to the Courtroom on behalf of defense. And that was done with a large number of the defense witnesses called in this proceeding. We, of course, were not given any notification with regard to the defense intent to call Mr. Singletary, but having been given that notification, we offer to the defense immediately, at this moment, police officers, detectives, cars, persons who could go to whatever address defense Counsel would like, any member of defense team can accompany those officers, so that Mr. Singletary can be brought into the Courtroom, placed on the witness stand and offer whatever testimony the defense chooses to have that witness offer today. I make that offer to the Court so that there can be no question about the ability of defense Counsel to produce the witness in this Courtroom.

THE COURT: Mr. Weinglass?

MR. WEINGLASS: No response is necessary to that.

THE COURT: Oh, you don't want them to bring him in for you?

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no response that is necessary to that.

MS. FISK: Well, I disagree.

THE COURT: I will assume that they don't want him in, then.

MS. FISK: Very well, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, there is just no response to that offer. Counsel is making an offer on the record. My position is there is no need for it. There is no response necessary.

THE COURT: Well, then you won't be able to bring him in at any other time. It is either today or not at all. Now make up your mind. It is either today or not at all.

MR. WEINGLASS: As I understand it, there is another witness ready to testify.

THE COURT: I know, but in the meantime we have to have somebody go out there with one of your, I don't know whether he wants your investigator to go or one of the attorneys to go along with them to bring him in.

MS. FISK: And I would note, Your Honor, that we don't know where to go since --

THE COURT: They would have to tell us.

MS. FISK: That is correct.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. WEINGLASS: I understand the Court's position: Either today or not at all.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, I think we should be clear as to why the defense is not calling the witness today. I think that mention was made of the notion that he was sick in some way. I would like the defense to represent on the record why this is preventing them from calling the witness. Is the witness incapacitated in some way? Is he in a wheelchair? Does he need assistance of some kind? Is he in an iron lung? Why can't he come in? We are waiting.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: I don't hear anything from defense Counsel. I assume that they are not interested. If they are not interested, I'm not interested. I can't beg them to go out there with you and bring them in.

MS. FISK: So long as it is clear that it is their choice, Your Honor, that the Page 175.

witness --

THE COURT: I understand it is their choice. You made the offer, they don't want to accept it it is their choice.

MS. FISK: Very well, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Abu-Jamal, are you satisfied with the representation you are getting here from these attorneys?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, that question has no relevancy to these proceedings.

THE COURT: Yes, it does.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to it.

THE COURT: Well, you can object but I asked the question.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am instructing Mr. Jamal not to answer the Court, respectfully. That has no relevance to the proceedings.

THE COURT: Oh, yes it does. I don't want another PCRA if I could help it.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, the Defendant has an absolute right to compulsory process to the witness he wants to call. Mr. Weinglass is saying that he can make a statement on the record and we are not entitled to know whether or not he is making a knowing and intelligent waiver for this witness. I think the Court is entitled to inquire on that point.

THE COURT: Mr. Abu-Jamal, do you want us to bring this witness in for you?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I am conducting this proceeding.

THE COURT: I know you are, just like Anthony Jackson was conducting it. And then we get all these PCRAs. I want to prevent that. I don't want him to accuse you of being ineffective, Counselor. I want to hear from him that he is satisfied with you and he doesn't want this witness in.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the representation was made to the Court this morning that I had a conversation with Mr. Singletary before Court, which I did.

THE COURT: I know that. I know all about that, Counselor. They made an offer to help you out. Either you accept it or you don't. If you don't want to bring him in, fine, then say you don't want to bring him in.

MR. WEINGLASS: As I indicated this morning, Mr. Singletary is a witness for the defense.

Page 177.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Will be a limited witness, limited solely to the method and manner that the police used in interrogating him on the night in question.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, then let's bring him in and let him tell us that.

MR. WEINGLASS: For that limited purpose we will call him.

THE COURT: Where is he? Well, now you are going to call him, he is going to come in?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yeah.

THE COURT: All right. Do you want to put on your witness first and we will take that matter up later?

MR. BURNS: Right after Counsel puts on the record why the witness has now miraculously recovered from the illness he had this morning when he couldn't be brought in.

THE COURT: I understand that, Counselor.

MS. FISK: Do I understand that the witness is here and they don't need assistance of an officer? I am not clear. Because if he is not here, before we call the next witness we have to start the process so they can go out and get him.

THE COURT: Is he here?

MR. WEINGLASS: We are calling the witness now.

THE COURT: You will call him at home?

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: You are going to call him to the stand now?

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. All right. You know, if you speak English, Counselor, even I'll understand you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I thought calling the witness has a certain connotation.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: Usually when an attorney --

THE COURT: I asked you.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- puts a witness on --

THE COURT: Then he is here. And that's what I was asking you: Is he here. And you are not saying a word. You are giving me impression that he's home sick somewhere.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was this morning.

THE COURT: Oh, he was this morning. Okay.

The only thing I want to know: Do you want to hold up that doctor? Could we take -- I don't care but I hate to...

MR. WEINGLASS: Dr. Hood is here, I would be happy to call Dr. Hood first.

THE COURT: Well, I hate to have the doctor sit around here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine, Judge, no problem.

THE COURT: If he has something more important to do. Since you already listed him for --

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor, Dr. Hood is here.

THE COURT: All right, then let's put him on.

MS. FISK: Fine, Your Honor.

Ian Hood, M.D., Deputy Medical Examiner for the City and County of Philadelphia, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION ON VOIR DIRE

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Dr. Hood, you have identified yourself as a Deputy Medical Examiner. Is that in the City of Philadelphia?

A. That is correct.

Q. Would you please tell us what your training and qualifications are that enable you to hold that position?

A. I'm a forensic pathologist. I graduated from medical school in my homeland, where my accent comes from, New Zealand. In 1979, having left medical school after doing two years of internship there in New Zealand I came to Canada and did a five-year residency in the general field of pathology, at the end of which time I was Board certified in that specialty, both there in Canada and here in the United States.

Page 181.

And in 1984 I came to the United States. I trained in forensic pathology in the Detroit medical examiner's office, which is a very busy one. And became Board certified in the sub-specialty area of forensic pathology in 1986. And have practiced basically in that area ever since. And for the last five-and-a-half of those years, that's been here in Philadelphia.

Q. In your capacity as a medical examiner both in Philadelphia and Detroit, have you performed post-mortem examinations?

A. Many of them, yes.

Q. How many?

A. Well, probably in Philadelphia it would probably be close to 3,000 by now, I would think.

Q. Have you offered publications or articles in the field of forensic pathology?

A. A few, yes.

Q. On how many occasions have you been published in the field?

A. I think I have about 20 or thereabouts publications now.

Q. Dr. Hood, have you presented yourself as an expert in the field of forensic pathology in this jurisdiction: Philadelphia?

Page 182.

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. Several hundred.

Q. Has there ever been an occasion where you have not been accepted as an expert in the field of forensic pathology in the County of Philadelphia?

A. No.

Q. Have there been other counties in which you have been accepted, or other locations in which you have been accepted as an expert in the field of forensic pathology --

A. Yes.

Q. -- for purposes of testimony? What other locations is that?

A. Predominantly within Michigan and the area in and around Detroit where I was assistant medical examiner. A couple of occasions in Los Angeles, and most of the other times since then here.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I offer Dr. Hood to the Court as an expert in the field of forensic pathology for the purposes of his testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, may we have what we haven't been given up to now? Offer of proof.

Page 183.

MS. FISK: Certainly. I'm sorry, that was this morning. Dr. Hood is being called for the sole purpose of giving his opinion regarding the second mark on the neck of Officer Faulkner that has been made reference to by Dr. Hayes in the defense case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is that his current opinion or an opinion back then?

MS. FISK: It is going to be his opinion based upon review of records and photographs.

MR. WEINGLASS: Currently.

MS. FISK: Well, I think that the only opinion he has is the opinion that he has as he sits here.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's what I wanted to know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor --

THE COURT: Well, for qualifications do you have any questions?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I wanted to know whether I am questioning him on his qualifications in '81 or whether I'm questioning him on his qualifications in '95.

THE COURT: Well, I would assume in '95.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is an assumption I make. I want to be sure of that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor --

THE COURT: That's what he is testifying today, right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

CROSS-EXAMINATION ON VOIR DIRE

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Doctor, you had nothing to do with the autopsy of Officer Faulkner in December of 1981; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. So you are presently Board certified?

A. That is correct.

Q. In 1981 you were not?

A. Not in forensic pathology.

Q. Yes?

A. In fact, not even in anatomic pathology. At that time I would still have been doing my residency in Canada.

Page 185.

Q. You were still doing what?

A. My residency in Canada.

Q. You were just a resident at that time?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, have you, Doctor, ever been published with respect to gunshot wounds?

A. Yes, I've published I can recall a couple of articles concerning gunshot wounds, one in which you got multiple exits from single entrances, that kind of thing.

Q. I'm sorry, what was the title?

A. I can think of one from Detroit where I published a couple of cases who happened to have more than one exit wound for one entrance.

Q. Yes. And could you refresh me as to where that publication appears in your vitae? Is it number 13.

(Pause.)

A. Yes.

Q. And could you read into the record the title of that particular publication?

A. Single Gunshots With Multiple Entrances.

Q. So that article dealt with multiple entrances?

A. Yes, you are correct.

Page 186.

Q. Have you ever published about multiple exits?

A. No, it is a common phenomenon so I don't know that one would even bother publishing that.

Q. Right. But my question to you is have you published about multiple exits?

A. I mentioned it in that paper, mostly just to say that it's a well-known phenomenon, it occurs, and occasionally the opposite happens.

Q. Did you bring that paper with you today?

A. No.

Q. You indicated in your expert opinion it's a well-known phenomenon: Exit wounds?

A. Well, having a missile split up and gives rise to more than one exit wound from a single entrance is quite common, yes.

Q. Quite common. Right. And by whom are you now employed?

A. The City of Philadelphia.

Q. I see. And how long have you been employed by the City of Philadelphia?

A. For five-and-a-half years, since the end of 1989.

Q. And you told us you've testified as an expert on a number of occasions?

A. Yes.

Page 187.

Q. Have those occasions always been for the prosecution?

A. I don't know who calls me. Most of the time I get called by the Assistant District Attorney. They don't actually subpoena me, they just tell me that the case is coming up, that they would like to call me. I would guess that most of the time I am called predominantly by the, called to the stand by the District Attorney's Office, yes.

Q. Right. To refine the answer most of the time a little more: Was there ever an occasion in your illustrious career where you were retained by a defense attorney?

A. I've never been retained as a, as an expert being paid a fee. On one or two occasions I've been called by the defense to the stand just in my employment as a deputy medical examiner. On one occasion I can think of I had been called by the District Attorney first and the defense attorney wanted some clarification and called me back. But I've also been called primarily by the defense attorney on one particular case I can think of.

Q. On one case?

A. Yes.

Q. But so I make myself clear: Has a defense attorney ever retained you in advance of trial for assisting the defense in the field of forensic pathology?

Page 188.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: This doesn't go to his qualifications.

THE COURT: I know that. I was waiting for somebody to say something. The objection is sustained. We are only here for qualifications.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions.

THE COURT: All right. The Court accepts him as an expert in his field. Let's go. Come on.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Dr. Hood, have you had the opportunity to review the photographs taken of Police Officer Daniel Faulkner at the time of his autopsy?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you also had an opportunity to review the medical records, that is the hospital records from Jefferson Hospital reflecting the treatment that

Page 189.

Police Officer Faulkner received at the hospital prior to the transfer of his remains to the Office of the Medical Examiner?

A. Yes.

Q. Based upon those two items, Dr. Hood, are you able to give an opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to what it is you see in the photographs on Officer Faulkner's neck, specifically whether, how many or whether we are seeing any gunshot wounds, whether we are seeing anything else in any of the neck photographs or the photographs of Officer Faulkner?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. The witness has indicated he has seen photographs. We do not know what photographs. Photographs were marked for identification.

THE COURT: Save it for your cross-examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, it's contained in the question. Ordinarily --

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. Save it for your cross.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it was my understanding -- I'm sorry -- that the slides which Dr. Hayes had were returned to Counsel.

Page 190.

If Counsel still has them or they are here in the record I would be very happy to have those slides shown to Counsel. I understood they were no longer in the Court record and those slides were returned to Defense Counsel several days ago so that they could have them duplicated. It was for that reason that I was making reference to photographs. I believe that Dr. Hood has some copies he made. If Counsel would like to look at them to assure himself that they are indeed copies of slides which are no longer in the possession of the Court, because they have been returned to Defense Counsel, he can do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Precisely. As a matter of courtesy to the Court and Counsel, when an expert is asked to give an opinion based on photographs, those photographs which he bases his opinion on in part are given to the Court and to Counsel.

THE COURT: All right, Counselor.

MS. FISK: As a matter --

THE COURT: Counselor, give it back to the Court. You have the photos. Give them back to the Court.

Page 191.

MR. WEINGLASS: These aren't the photos he saw.

THE COURT: How do you know what he saw? Give me back the photos.

MR. WEINGLASS: These are not the photos he saw.

THE COURT: Give me back the photos.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Will you please?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am asking for the photos he bases his testimony on.

THE COURT: Give me back the photos. They are not your photos.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show that the Court is raising his voice.

THE COURT: And let the record show that Counsel is not doing what I tell him to do. Counselor... You are in contempt of Court. I am fining you a thousand dollars because you wouldn't do what I wanted you to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: I was walking up to the bar.

THE COURT: No, you weren't walking up. You were standing over there arguing with

Page 192.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Direct

me. One thousand dollars, okay. Where is the Clerk? Make out an order for that and I will sign it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show that the Court was shouting and pointing its finger --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- in a threatening manner to defense Counsel.

THE COURT: Not a threatening manner, a promising manner.

MR. WEINGLASS: Threatening.

THE COURT: Promising. One thousand dollars, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I heard the Court the first time.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I think I am entitled to --

THE COURT: Just a minute, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am entitled to counsel on the issue of contempt. I am entitled to counsel on the issue of a fine.

THE COURT: You have a lot of Counsel over there. There are two of them sitting right

Page 193.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Direct

there.

MR. WEINGLASS: I demand my right to an independent counsel.

THE COURT: Well, take it up with the Supreme Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well. Your Honor --

THE COURT: Or whatever appellate court you want to go to. I have already, I have already held you in contempt and fined you. If you want some other kind of hearing, fine. You did this in front of the Court. I don't have to give you any special hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do ask for an independent hearing.

THE COURT: Well, fine, go to the appellate Court and get it.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is my understanding that during the testimony of Dr. Hayes, that there were a series of slides marked as a defense exhibit.

THE COURT OFFICER: 23.

MS. FISK: 23. It is my understanding that those slides which have now been handed back up to the Court personnel are indeed those slides. Although they have been in the custody of defense, I would ask that Dr. Hood have an opportunity to review them.

Page 194.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Direct

THE COURT: Let him see them and see if they are the ones he looked at.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show these are not the same slides that the witness has looked at.

THE COURT: Counselor, are you up here testifying?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because we had the slides. And he never saw those.

THE COURT: He said he had copies.

MR. WEINGLASS: Copies, yes.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. Let him look at it. He is testifying, not you. If you want to take the stand, you could take the stand too and have one of the other attorneys ask you questions.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: It was apparent from the record, Your Honor, that the slides which were utilized by Dr. Hayes were duplicates of slides that were taken from the files of the Office of the Medical Examiner.

THE COURT: He is looking at them, he

Page 195.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Direct

will tell us what it is.

THE WITNESS: I have a series in that Defense Exhibit number, whatever it was, 23, of eight, nine Kodachromes. Two of which show the wound in the back; three of which are our standard picture of the whole bust, the body, bust shot, top half and bottom half of the area; and four which show the area of the face and neck.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The question is -- maybe I missed the beginning of your answer: Are the slides which you looked at, Defense Exhibit 23, are those duplicates of the photographs or slides that you have personally looked at in order to testify today?

A. They do appear to be, yes.

Q. No, Dr. Hood --

THE COURT: Just a minute. He is looking at some photos.

THE WITNESS: I just wanted to make sure that the number of originals correspond to the numbers of these Kodachromes. And the originals consist of... nine slides also. So therefore I think you do have a complete list.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Page 196.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Direct

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, Doctor, based upon your review of the slides which are duplicated in Defense Exhibit 23, and your review of Officer Faulkner's hospital records from Jefferson Hospital from December 9th, 1981, do you have an opinion as to what is shown on Officer Faulkner's neck?

A. Given that I'm looking at a photograph, the best I can say is that I am looking at a small mark which appears to be a small wound, which is the upper wound just to the left of the tracheostomy incision. Below that is a more obvious exit gunshot wound. And right below the center of the tracheostomy incision is another very tiny puncture wound (indicating).

Q. Now, the small wound that you referred to as being above the exit gunshot wound: Based upon your review of Officer Faulkner's hospital records, are you able to give us an opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to what caused that wound?

A. The hospital records in several places refer to him having larger bore intravenous lines, two peripheral lines, and variously he is described as having an internal jugular line, a left CVP line. He is also described as having a right, internal jugular on one place and a central venous line with outside stated in another. As well as a right femoral line cut down and a right saphenous vein, which is I think really the same thing. And certainly one can see and it is described in the autopsy report the right groin lines, the antecubital fossa lines, which basically are the ones put in front of the elbows.

Page 197.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

Around the neck area, that small wound would certainly be consistent with a large-bore intravenous line. And he is described as having, in several places in the hospital records as having central venous pressure lines. In which they actually ran a lot of lactated ringers. And therefore, since he doesn't have a similar mark on the right side of his neck, it seems logical that that wound, small wound is indeed an intravenous line puncture.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have no further questions, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you have the Medical Examiner's report before you?

Page 198.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

A. Yes, or I have a copy of it.

Q. How many wounds are noted on the neck in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. Just the one gunshot wound of exit.

Q. Just one wound?

A. Well, the tracheostomy incision is described and so is the exit gunshot wound and those are the only wounds of the neck described.

Q. And so there is only one exit wound for a gunshot described in the Medical Examiner's report?

A. That is correct.

Q. And based upon your examination of the photographs, what in your expert opinion is the number of exit wounds on the neck of the officer?

A. The only definitive exit wound I can see is the larger, lower one. The smaller wound, I can not say what that is. It is a small wound and it is consistent with an intravenous line which he is described as having.

Q. So you can't say that there are two exit wounds?

A. Not from just looking at photographs. I did not see the body, as you have already pointed out. I could only look at this picture, just as you do.

Q. Might there be two exit wounds on that neck?

Page 199.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

A. I can't a hundred percent exclude it.

Q. You can't exclude it. Now, in the Medical Examiner's report is there any indication of a wound caused by the tracheostomy?

A. He is described as having a tracheostomy. And that's. . .

Q. But does he describe that second wound that you see?

A. The smaller one that's just to the left of it, no. Nor does he describe what in fact is mentioned in the hospital records and is seen in the photographs, which is a needle puncture just below the tracheostomy excision.

Q. Right. Now, Dr. Hood, in your expert opinion as a medical examiner, was the report deficient in not describing all of the wounds that you see on the photograph?

A. Depends for what purposes one wants the report. One tries to describe all of the relevant wounds on a body. Sometimes small-bore needle punctures are easily missed at examination. You may in fact pick them up on photographs later. It's then up to the individual examiner whether he wishes to append that to the report. You don't know the significance of those until later.

Page 200.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

Q. Having looked at the photographs, Dr. Hood: If you had written the Medical Examiner's report, you would have indicated that second wound, would you have not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that: What he would have done.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I said I would have to sustain what he would have done.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Based on your view of the photograph, would you have acknowledged that second wound in a Medical Examiner's report?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, you just twisted that question around and I already sustained the objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Having looked at the photographs, was there any way in which you as a doctor at that time could have determined what was the cause of the second wound?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 201.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

THE COURT: Basis of the objection?

MS. FISK: Because he is asking him to speculate.

THE COURT: Has said he only has had the opportunity to look at the photos. He did not examine the body, he said.

MR. WEINGLASS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. So the objection --

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The question was: Based on your review of the photos, could you give us an opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty as to what that second wound is?

A. Not by just looking at photos, no. I've already given my explanation of that. It is a small wound. It's consistent with an intravenous line he is described as having, one in an internal jugular vein and a left central venous pressure line, both of which would be perfectly acceptable right in that area. If you are getting at the fact can I exclude this being another small exit wound there, just from a photograph, no. You can't tell the difference on a photograph between a small exiting particle and an intravenous line puncture.

Q. So in your expert opinion you can not include

Page 202.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

it or you can not exclude it as a gunshot wound?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is that correct?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. His testimony was that he could not exclude or include based solely on the photograph. And then the doctor said he was, however, considering other documents as well.

THE COURT: Well taken.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You can not include or exclude based on the photographs?

A. If all I had to do, had before me was the photograph I could not, no.

Q. And is that why that second wound should have been described in the Medical Examiner's report, so that someone looking at the report would have a basis for forming an opinion on the second wound?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is sustained?

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 203.

Ian Hood, M.D. - Cross

Q. In any event, Dr. Hood, that second wound is not identified in the Medical Examiner's report; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused, Doctor.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: If I could have a moment, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Are you finished?

MS. FISK: Oh, I'm sorry, Your Honor. I understood that I was to call Dr. Hood first.

THE COURT: Okay. I just want to know: Is Mr. Singletary here? Is he here?

MR. WEINGLASS: He's here.

THE COURT: Okay, put him on the stand.

(Pause.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Singletary.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Singletary, when did you and I first meet?

A. About the middle of June of this year.

Q. The middle of...?

A. June.

Q. Of June?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 1995?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you recall what occasioned our meeting? What brought about our meeting?

A. Umm, I was introduced to you through a friend, or a friend of mine.

Q. And since June of 1995, about two months ago, have we had occasion to talk since?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as a matter of fact, did we talk this morning on the telephone?

A. Yes, sir.

Page 205.

Q. And did I inquire as to how you felt?

A. You did.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Could you tell us if you suffer from any condition known as diabetes?

A. I do.

Q. Do you suffer from a condition known as hypertension?

A. I do.

Q. Do you suffer from a condition known as high blood pressure?

A. I do.

Q. Are you taking medications for those conditions?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you, do you have presently any injury that you are also suffering from?

A. Back, neck, left leg.

Q. Back, neck and...?

A. Left leg.

Q. Left leg. And are you taking medications for that injury?

A. I am.

Page 206.

Q. Are you taking painkillers?

A. I am.

Q. Was that injury occasioned by an auto or a truck accident?

A. Truck.

Q. Did you have a night's sleep last night?

MS. FISK: Judge, I'm sorry, but that's ridiculous. I object.

THE COURT: Yes, come on, let's get right to the issue here, why you brought him here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Talking about the condition of a witness.

THE COURT: I know that. But we don't need that to tell us why you brought him here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I would assume the Court as fact-finder wants to know the condition of any witness that the Court is looking at.

MS. FISK: And I would assume, Your Honor, that if it was evident to the Court that a witness was in no physical condition to testify, the Court would make that clear and would stop the proceedings. Unless and until that happens, may I suggest we go to the heart of the matter for what the witness has been called for.

THE COURT: Let's get to the heart of the matter, please.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Singletary, what is your current age?

A. 45.

Q. And your marital status?

A. I'm married.

Q. And your family --

MS. FISK: Judge, I object. We are not here to help find friends for this man. We are here in the pursuit of justice. Could we please get right to the matter.

THE COURT: Let's get right to the heart of the question, please, Counselor. I can't be here settling all the social problems of the world. Let's get to the issue, come on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now directing your attention back to 1981: What was your age at that time?

A. 31.

Q. And what was your height at that time?

A. Five-ten.

Q. And how would you describe your build at that time?

A. Medium, stocky.

Q. Did you have occasion on the night of December, or the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981, to come upon a young woman on the corner of 13th and Locust whose name you later learned was Cynthia White?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I understood that the offer of proof with regard to Mr. Singletary was the manner in which police took statements.

THE COURT: That's what I thought too.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is precisely what we are getting to.

THE COURT: Well, let's get to it.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's precisely --

THE COURT: Because if you are going to go into other areas you should have told the D.A.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is the only area, and I am glad the Court is limiting the area. Consistent with the Court's ruling, I will ask questions in the limited area of whether or not Mr. Singletary was with the police.

THE COURT: Counselor.

Page 209.

William Singletary - Direct

MR. WEINGLASS: On the morning of December 9th, 1981.

THE COURT: Counselor. Counselor, before you proceed any further, if you want to expand it, tell the D.A. And if she has no objection to it, you could expand it.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not expanding it.

THE COURT: Well, then stick to what you said you are going to do, then.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. On the morning hours, early morning hours of December 9th, 1981, did you have occasion to be in the Police Department, specifically the Roundhouse?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And do you recall what time you went there?

A. Shortly after 4:00 a.m.

Q. And when you were there, did you meet with anyone?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall the name of the detective you met with?

A. Green.

Q. And would you describe Detective Green?

A. Five-seven, five-eight, 170 pounds.

Q. And his race?

Page 210.

William Singletary - Direct

A. Black.

Q. And while you were there, did you see anyone else who you had seen earlier in the morning?

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you see?

A. Cynthia White.

Q. And who did you know her to be? What did you know her to be?

A. Streetwalker.

Q. Streetwalker. And she was in the police station when you were there?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Detective White ask you any questions? I'm sorry. Detective Green ask you any questions?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And do you recall what he asked you?

A. I don't remember all the questions, no.

Q. As a result of him asking you questions, did you write anything down?

A. I did.

Q. And did you write it in your own hand?

A. I did.

Q. And do you recall, after you wrote it what did you do with it?

A. What did he do with it?

Page 211.

William Singletary - Direct

Q. What did you do with what you wrote?

A. I gave it to Detective Green.

Q. Detective Green?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And what did Detective Green do with it?

A. He read it.

Q. And then what did he do?

A. He ripped it up and threw it in the trash.

Q. He ripped it up?

A. That's right.

Q. And threw it in the trash?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you then have occasion to write a second time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what happened to your second writing?

A. He glanced at it, balled it up and threw it in the trash.

Q. And just referring to the general subject matter: What did you write on both those occasions? Just generally.

A. About the incident at 13th and Locust.

Q. That happened a little earlier that morning?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after it was thrown away again, what did

Page 212.

William Singletary - Direct

you do? Did you have occasion to write again?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what happened to that writing?

A. Ahh, he told me to write what he wanted me to write, that's what I wrote.

Q. Did Detective Green threaten you in any way?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. He told me I wouldn't leave, that they would take me to the elevator and beat me up and that my business would be destroyed.

Q. At the time were you in business with your family?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. How long did you remain in the police station?

A. To around nine o'clock.

Q. And what time did you arrive?

A. Shortly after 4:00.

Q. You were there about five hours?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did there come a time where you were asked to sign a statement?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have this marked?

Page 213.

William Singletary - Direct

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes. That's 29.

(Investigation interview record was marked Defense Exhibit D-29 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: D-29 (handing).

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: Thank you (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: D-29, Your Honor. D-29, sir (handing).

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I want to show you what's been marked D-29. Have you seen that document before?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. What is that document?

A. It's an investigation report. Police report.

Q. Does your signature appear on it?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And is it typed on it? Is there typing on the page?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Have I shown you that document before?

A. Yes, you did.

Q. Is that document an accurate account?

A. No, it's not.

(Pause.)

Page 214.

Q. After you signed that statement, do you recall whether or not you left the Roundhouse?

A. Yeah, I was escorted out.

Q. You were escorted by a police officer out?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And, Mr. Singletary, how did you feel at that time?

A. I felt badly.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. Because I had written something or I was forced to writing something I didn't want to write.

Q. After that event did you have occasion to talk to anyone who occupies an official position with respect to what happened to you that night in the Roundhouse?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And who did you talk to?

A. State Representative Alphonse Deal.

Q. And what was your purpose in meeting with State Representative Deal?

A. For him to inquire why I was so badly treated.

Q. And did you hear from State Representative Deal again?

A. Yes, we talked back and forth.

Q. And did he indicate to you what would happen to you with respect to the trial proceedings?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ever hear from an attorney named Anthony Jackson?

A. No, I didn't.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Move to strike. This witness, A, was not offered for purposes of testifying he should have been called at trial. Mr. Jackson was not questioned whether or not or why he did not call this witness at trial.

MR. WEINGLASS: For the simple reason --

THE COURT: That question and answer is stricken.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, our position is Mr. Jackson was misled because of the false statement that was given to him.

THE COURT: Well, you should have asked him.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not the witness' statement.

THE COURT: You should have asked him.

Page 216.

When Jackson was on stand you didn't ask him about it.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not necessary. The statement is now of record and the witness has identified the statement as being false.

MS. FISK: And they have had --

MR. WEINGLASS: So Mr. Jackson received a false statement. There was no need to ask Mr. Jackson any questions about it.

MS. FISK: And they have had a deposition of this witness since 1990 and were clearly on notice of this proffered testimony and had every right and opportunity to ask those questions of Mr. Jackson.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was unnecessary.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, after that evening, did anyone from law enforcement contact you shortly thereafter?

A. Ahh, later on that day or the next day.

Q. And do you recall who they were and what they said?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did they indicate where they were from?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. What did they say?

Page 217.

A. They said they were from the D.A.'s Office investigating a homicide.

Q. Did they refer to your being a witness?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Were you after that visited by the police?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And could you describe that visit?

A. That was a couple days later, four guys came and said it was a burglary detail and told us to get on the floor.

Q. Told you to get on the floor?

A. Myself and my employees and my customers.

Q. And where was this?

A. At a gas station.

Q. And what relationship did you have to the gas station?

A. I was the manager.

Q. You were the manager?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they asked you to get on the floor?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were there weapons shown?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were others who were there asked to get on the floor?

Page 218.

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. If four officers who said they were the burglary detail came and he wants to make a complaint about it, that's fine. But there has been no showing that that is related to this incident.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is the intimidation and harassment of this witness because --

MS. FISK: There is absolutely no evidence of that. Well, first of all, oddly enough, Counsel is not putting in the facts that this witness has told them in 1990 about what the truth is. That is awfully interesting. First. Second, the fact that burglary detail officers came to his gas station four days after he gave or didn't give a statement at Homicide has nothing to do with this case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, it has everything to do with it. It has everything to do with it. And we will tie that up now. This witness, I might point out, is for a limited purpose as to what happened to him. And that's what we are proceeding on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did officers who came to your gas station say anything with respect to your having been in the Police Department several nights earlier?

A. They just said this will give you something to remember.

Q. This will give you something to remember?

A. Yes.

Q. The officer saying that have a gun?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he have it out?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Incidentally, was any damage sustained to your gas station?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. After that?

A. Yes.

Q. What happened?

A. Door was busted, plate glass was busted.

Q. Did anything happen on Christmas Eve 1982? '81, I'm sorry.

A. The glass was busted.

Q. Did your, did the gas station have insurance at that time?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: Not for glass.

Page 220.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did anything happen to your insurance?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I said sustained, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, did that gas station, did you continue to manage that gas station?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. My understanding was that the witness was being called with regard to the practices of the Philadelphia police in taking statements on December 9th, 1981.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the consequent harassment and intimidation of the witness because he didn't tell them what he says they wanted to hear.

MS. FISK: Which of course Counsel has not explored.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is the course of the intimidation that we are now going into.

THE COURT: I will let you go into anything you need on cross-examination, then.

MS. FISK: Fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, the

Page 221.

Court has indicated --

THE COURT: Don't, don't --

MR. WEINGLASS: A limited purpose.

THE COURT: Don't tell me, Counselor. You want to go into areas beyond what you said, I will give them a chance to cross-examine.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am only going into the intimidation and harassment.

THE COURT: Well, I will let her go into whatever I think is proper.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the Court restricted me on the direct.

THE COURT: I didn't restrict you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because the proffer of the witness was for a limited purpose.

THE COURT: I said you could bring him in for anything you wanted, if you want to expand it just tell the D.A. so she knows in advance.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not expanding it.

THE COURT: Well, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I said it is what happened to him that night.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not going to tell you again. You already got one thousand. Do you want to try for another one?

MR. WEINGLASS: If I am limited I have no --

THE COURT: I am not limiting you.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I am limited I have no further direct. Let the record show --

THE COURT: Let the record show I make rulings based on what I think is the proper ruling. I am not telling you where you could go. Go wherever you want. And if she doesn't object you could do anything you want. I am not going to make a ruling unless I have to make a ruling. When she objects I will make a ruling. If she doesn't object, it's all right with me.

MS. FISK: I will withdraw my objection.

THE COURT: Okay. She is withdrawing her objection. Go ahead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I am only talking about events that happened to you after, after you visited the police on the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981.

Now directing your attention to February of 1982: What became of your business in February of 1982?

Page 223.

A. I closed it.

Q. And why did you close it?

A. I couldn't afford the glass and stuff, kept getting broke.

Q. Pardon?

A. I couldn't afford the glass that kept getting broke.

Q. Were you present in Philadelphia in June of 1982?

A. I was.

Q. And do you recall if in 1982 you took a vacation at all?

A. June 26th.

Q. June 26th?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go?

A. North Carolina.

Q. And how long did you remain?

A. To July 9th.

Q. Up to that time had you been contacted by anyone representing Mr. Jamal?

A. No, I hadn't.

Q. Did there come a time when you moved out of the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Page 224.

Q. When was that?

A. Late August of '82.

Q. And what caused you to move?

A. There was nothing here, I couldn't do no business.

Q. Why not?

A. Because my tow truck was being stopped, drivers being harassed.

Q. Who was stopping the tow trucks?

A. The police.

Q. And who was harassing your drivers?

A. The police.

Q. Prior to December 9th, 1981, did you have any problems with the police?

A. No.

Q. Did you work in conjunction with the police?

A. I did, yeah.

Q. Did you know an officer named Vernon Jones?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was he a friend?

A. I knew him.

Q. And he knew you?

A. Yes.

Q. He was a highway patrolman; is that right?

A. Yes.

Page 225.

William Singletary - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions on direct.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Sir.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Singletary, you told us that you were under the care of a number of doctors for your back, for your diabetes and for other physical conditions; is that right?

A. It's true.

Q. Are you also under the care of any other kinds of doctors?

A. Just for my back and my diabetes and blood pressure.

Q. How about psychiatrists or psychologists or therapists, sir?

A. No.

Page 226.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. You are not for any mental conditions?

A. No.

Q. Now, Mr. Singletary, you told us that on December 9th of 1981 you ended up at the Police Administration Building?

A. True.

Q. How is it that you got there?

A. I drove my car.

Q. You drove your car, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. You drove it from where?

A. 13th and Locust, 10th and Race.

Q. Had you been at 13th and Locust at around the time that Officer Faulkner was shot and killed?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Outside the scope of the direct. This witness is a limited witness and the Court has indicated it was limiting the direct examination. I object to this line of cross-examination.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the witness and Counsel, both on several occasions during the direct examination made reference to the fact that this witness was not telling the police what they wanted to hear. It is clearly permissible to find out what it is that the police heard and why they didn't want it.

Page 227.

William Singletary - Cross

THE COURT: Okay, go ahead.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to it. It is not the purpose for which the witness was called.

THE COURT: Objection is overruled. Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Were you, sir, in the vicinity of where Officer Faulkner was shot and killed?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And as a result of your being there, did the police ask you if you would give a statement with regard to what you saw?

A. They did.

Q. But my understanding is the police did not then transport you from 13th and Locust to the Police Administration Building; is that right?

A. They did not.

Q. You chose to drive your own vehicle?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was what kind of vehicle, sir?

A. 1982 Cadillac.

Q. When you drove the vehicle from the area of 13th and Locust to the Police Administration

Page 228.

William Singletary - Cross

Building, did you park your vehicle in the parking lot of the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And having done so -- had you driven, incidentally, alone or was the police officer with you in your vehicle?

A. He was behind me, one was behind me, one was in front.

Q. Oh. Did you park your car in the parking lot of the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And having done that did you then enter the Police Administration Building by that door which is by the parking lot of the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And this, sir, was in the moments, minutes, hours after the shooting of Officer Faulkner in the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981?

A. Minutes.

Q. Yes, sir?

A. Minutes, yes.

Q. Minutes, all right. At the time that you entered the Police Administration Building having parked your car in the parking lot, when you entered through those doors into a general foyer, do you recall that there was a police officer behind sort of like bullet proof glass that had a logbook that stopped you until you entered in?

Page 229.

William Singletary - Cross

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall being shown a logbook and being asked to sign it, sir, or the officer who was with you signing it to indicate you were entering the building?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did you use any name other than William Singletary?

A. No.

Q. On that date?

A. No.

Q. But you are certain that you entered the Police Administration Building through that door?

A. Yes.

Q. That came off the parking lot of the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Singletary, you just told us that you met Mr. Weinglass sometime in June, I think he was introduced to you?

A. Yes.

Page 230.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. How was it that he came to be introduced to you, sir?

A. Some investigators were at my mother's and I wanted to know who was looking for me.

Q. Now, I understand, sir, that you had an opportunity to meet

Miss Wolkenstein five years ago; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you tell us how that came about, please?

A. Through a friend of a friend.

Q. Pardon?

A. Through a friend of a friend.

Q. Could you explain expand on that, please?

A. Well, I told one friend and then another friend introduced me to a reporter who introduced me to her.

Q. I'm sorry, you told one friend what?

A. That I was a witness. And I had seen an incident.

Q. So that friend told someone else?

A. Yes.

Q. And at some point, then, you found yourself in the company of Miss Wolkenstein in 1990?

A. Yes.

Q. And between 1990 and last month, did you

Page 231.

William Singletary - Cross

continue to have contact with Miss Wolkenstein or Mr. Weinglass or other persons working on behalf of Mr. Abu-Jamal?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You had no contact with them at all in that intervening period?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Now, sir, when you arrived in Homicide -- now let me understand -- after you entered through that door at the Police Administration Building, do you remember going into the large lobby and then having to go to the Homicide Division?

A. I just remember an elevator. I don't remember exactly how.

Q. Well, do you remember what floor it was on?

A. Fifth.

Q. And that, again, is based on what you recall from that morning December 9th, 1981; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, after you went up to the fifth floor did you go into the Homicide Division?

A. Yes.

Q. And it is there that you met Detective Green, as I understand it?

A. Yes.

Page 232.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. And you have told us that Detective Green is a black man?

A. Yes.

Q. What else can you tell us about him by way of description?

A. Five-seven, five-eight, maybe 160 or 170 pounds.

Q. How about his age?

A. I couldn't tell his age.

Q. And was that the only detective that you spoke with while you were at Homicide that morning?

A. No.

Q. Who else did you speak with?

A. I met another detective had a button on that said Kiss Me I'm Irish on it.

Q. Was that a black man or white man?

A. No, that was a tall white guy.

Q. Well, incidentally, Detective Green, how is it that you know his name to be Detective Green?

A. He kept repeating it all night, all morning.

Q. What did he keep repeating?

A. My name is Detective Green and you will stay here until you say what I want you to say or you won't leave.

Q. Now, had you gone into a small room with

Page 233.

William Singletary - Cross

Detective Green or were you sitting out in an open area?

A. It was a cubicle. Wasn't a room, a small cube.

Q. So you had like these walls that went sort of halfway up and then it was open?

A. Yes.

Q. So you were not in a room that was fully enclosed with just the two of you?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. And while you and Detective Green were in this cubicle, I take it there was a great deal of activity going on around you?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was in this open cubicle that you could hear sounds coming from throughout the Homicide Division; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Hear the sounds of other people speaking, the activity of other people?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, as I understand your testimony, you and Detective Green sat down and you hand wrote an account?

A. Yes.

Page 234.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. What did you write it on?

A. Yellow legal paper.

Q. And had Detective Green given that to you?

A. Yes.

Q. And had he directed you to write an account of what had happened?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell us what you wrote?

A. I wrote down just what I said: When I was at 13th and Locust --

Q. Go ahead.

A. Word-for-word?

Q. Word-for-word tell us what you wrote?

A. Well, I brought my car, parked my car at the southwest corner of 13th and Locust. I got out to go over to the club Whispers. The doors were locked. I came back across the street. There was a Volkswagen that was going south on 13th Street. He made a left turn onto Locust. Pulled to the curb immediately. There was a police car behind it. The police car pulled behind the Volkswagen. The driver of the Volkswagen got out. The police officer got out and immediately started to walk to the wall. And immediately at that point the police officer was frisking the driver of the Volkswagen.

Page 235.

William Singletary - Cross

There was an occupant in the Volkswagen on the passenger side started yelling and screaming, saying a lot of things. He had a long Army, umm, overcoat on. He came from the car, stuck his hand in his right pocket, pulled a gun.

I immediately moved over to the highspeed line, the barrier there, and I ducked. I heard a pop. I ducked, I looked.

Q. I'm sorry, when you say the highspeed line, was that on the same --

A. It's like a subway.

Q. I understand, but was that on the same actual sidewalk that this event was that you were witnessing?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, go ahead?

A. And the, uhh, when I looked over I saw the guy again point the gun in the direction of the police officer, firing into his face.

Q. I'm sorry, where had the first shot gone?

A. I don't know where it went. I didn't see the first shot. I only saw the second shot.

Q. I see. All right. Go ahead?

A. And as I saw the second shot the police officer fell backwards. This tall guy with dreadlocks looked at his right, looked to his left, placed the gun in the Volkswagen, started running. The guy who was driving the Volkswagen then started yelling a name or something and started chasing this guy.

I peeped over to see, I peeped over to see if there was anything I could do for the officer. And I started backing up. There was a, the guy there said he was a cab driver and asked me what was that sound he heard. And I said the police officer was just shot, we need to get him help right away. And as I was talking to him he went towards the police car to make a call. Just to tell them the police officer was down and we would need help right away.

And I went to back, started back towards to see the officer, then another gentleman came across the street. He wasn't as tall as the first guy. He had dreadlocks and he had said this is by brother's car, where is my brother. I said I don't know. I said there was two guys that took off running. I said the tall guy shot the police officer, took off running.

And he said oh, my God, we don't need this, and he started to went over to the cop, is there anything I could do, anything I could do to help you. And he was laying forward, bending forward. And the police officer's gun, which was in his lap, discharged, striking him in the chest or someplace. And he screamed I'm shot, I'm shot. He staggered against the back of the Volkswagen.

And then there was sirens and everything was becoming chaotic then. It was just like, you know. That's what I wrote down in the report.

Q. Well, there was more, wasn't there? Didn't you also write down on the paper about the treatment that you witnessed of this man who ended up being shot?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Well, please tell us what you wrote about that?

A. Okay, it was at that point there were some police officers came across the parking lot. They wanted to know if there was any eyewitnesses or this or whatever. And they took me as an eyewitness, took me around the corner. Got my name, address and telephone number. Where I could be reached. And wanted to know if I would be willing to give a statement.

At that point they, umm, told me to go back and stand around and wait for this detective to come. I went back around the corner and at that point they had a lot of police officers around the person that was beating him, kicking him, stomping him, sticking sticks in his wound, and just cursing, cursing, saying a lot of bad things. They drugged him on the street to the back of a van, threw him in the van.

Q. Did they just throw him in the van?

A. No, they didn't just throw him in the van, they used his body and used him as a battering ram. And used him as a battering ram against the van.

Q. Which part of his body?

A. Top of his head.

Q. How many times?

A. Several times, I didn't count.

Q. With what kind of force?

A. With four men, a lot of force.

Q. Tremendous force? Looked like enough to fracture the skull, that kind of force?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay, go ahead? And then they put him in the van?

A. Then they opened the door and threw him in the van, yes.

Page 239.

Q. And was it at that point that you got into your car and drove to the Police Administration Building?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. Okay. Go --

A. I recognized an officer known as Vernon Jones. And the detective came to me because the captain pointed him out. And asked me did I have transport or whatever. I told him I was driving a car. Then I went to 8th and Race.

Q. In addition to additional police arriving, did you report to Detective Green that there were other police vehicles at the scene before you left?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what other kinds of vehicles were there? And I am not limiting myself to vehicles that were on the ground.

A. There was all kinds of vehicles: Plain cars, vans. There was a helicopter. There was all kinds of stuff.

Q. What kind of helicopter? Was the helicopter using a search light in the area?

A. I didn't look, it was just a helicopter, all I know I saw the light.

Q. So it was shining a light down in the area?

Page 240.

A. Exactly, yes.

Q. And you wrote this all for Detective Green?

A. Yes.

Q. How long did it take you to make this writing?

A. I didn't count, I don't know.

Q. How long was this writing?

A. Two pages.

Q. Single space? Double space?

A. Single space.

Q. Both sides or just one side?

A. It was just one, single sided. One side, two pages.

Q. Okay. And it is that writing which you gave to Detective Green and which he balled up and threw away and told you he didn't want to see that, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he then give you the pad again and tell you to write it down again?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you write something a second time?

A. Something, yes.

Q. Was what you wrote the second time exactly like what you wrote the first time?

A. Close.

Q. What differences were there?

Page 241.

A. I believe it was the same.

Q. Oh, all right. So you wrote again what you have just described for us?

A. Yes.

Q. And Detective Green took that and balled it up and threw it down?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, this man who was the passenger in the Volkswagen, when you heard the first shot, where was he in relation to the police officer?

A. He was, he was standing behind him. On his left side.

Q. And when you heard the second shot where was he in relationship to the police officer?

A. Facing him.

Q. And how far from him was he?

A. A couple feet.

Q. What's a couple?

A. 3, maybe 5.

Q. Okay. And this is all what you told Detective Green?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after Detective Green bunched up that second statement and threw it away, did you write it a third time?

Page 242.

A. I did.

Q. And a fourth?

A. Yes, fourth -- no, the fourth time I wrote what he wanted me to write so I could leave.

Q. The fourth time you wrote what he wanted you to write?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he dictate it to you?

A. Yes.

Q. What was it that you wrote this fourth time that he dictated to you?

A. I don't remember words but it wasn't what I saw.

Q. And what happened to what it was that you wrote this fourth time, did you sign that or did he take it?

A. I took it, signed it and left.

Q. Now, you're indicating something --

A. Yes, I signed it.

Q. All right no, no, you are picking up a document in front of you. That's the Exhibit that the defense has marked.

A. Yes.

Q. Is that what you are referring to as the document --

Page 243.

A. Yes.

Q. -- you wrote?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Maybe I'm a little confused, Mr. Singletary, but the document which you have in front of you, would you agree with me that that is a type-written document?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Is that the document, the fourth document which you wrote on yellow paper?

A. I wrote on the yellow paper. He typed it.

Q. Oh. I see. After you wrote what he dictated to you to write, he then took what you had written and typewrote it onto a piece of paper?

A. Yes.

Q. I see. And after he typed it on the piece of paper he had you sign the bottom of that piece of paper?

A. Yes.

Q. But all the information on the document which he typed was information which he had dictated to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Just so the record is clear, Mr. Singletary, I just want to go through that document and read to you what it says. And you can tell us whether any of those items are things which you told the detective as opposed to things that he told to you. All right?

A. Okay.

Q. Now, it does give your name on the top. And you see where it says interviewer?

A. Yes.

Q. You see the name it says there?

A. Yes.

Q. It says E. Quinn.

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the name of the person that he repeated to you, he said Quinn?

A. He said Green.

Q. He said Green. But the person who said to you he was Green was the person who typed this; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And who typed the words E. Quinn up there?

A. He was typing off the paper I gave him.

Q. That he had dictated to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, it has an address here. Is that your correct address, or was it your correct address back then?

Page 245.

A. Yes.

Q. And it has your phone number. Was that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. It shows you're the owner of a Sunoco Gas Station. Was that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You were the manager, were you not?

A. Owner-manager, yes.

Q. And it has the address of your gas station and a phone number. That's also accurate?

A. Yes.

Q. Now I am going down to where the first Q is. Question: Can you tell me what you saw this morning at 13th and Locust. And it is a long narrative, I will stop occasionally and ask you if any this is what you told the detective.

The answer is recorded: I was coming from my parents' bar at 15th and Catherine Streets -- I am assuming it is a typo: It says in was driving -- I assume it means I was driving north on 13th Street. When I got to Locust Street the light had just turned red for 13th Street. I stopped my car.

Did you say that to the detective?

Page 246.

A. No, I didn't.

Q. I was sitting at the light for about 15, 20 seconds when I heard what I thought to be firecrackers. I heard about three or four pops. When I heard the second pop I knew it wasn't firecrackers because they were going too fast. Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. After the pops stopped I leaned forward in the car and looked east on Locust. I saw a police car parked at the curb. I think the number on the car was 610. Did you say that to the detective?

A. No.

Q. At this time I backed the car up into a parking space on the corner of 13th and Locust. I got out of the car and went to the southwest corner of 13th and Locust. Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. I looked east on Locust and saw two figures about 25 to 30 feet away from me. One was standing facing the wall. The other was standing with his back to the wall. The one with his back to the wall was bent over at the waist.

Page 247.

William Singletary - Cross

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You agree I am reading this accurately, though, right?

A. Yes, you are.

Q. One hand was down by his waist, the other was up by his head. I started to walk towards the two figures. As I was walking somebody yelled to me from my left. The male who yelled told me that a policeman was shot. I said where. I then looked around and saw -- and I have completed the first page.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. The second page: -- a policeman sitting on the ground with his back against the wall. He had his right hand up to his face, he had blood on his hand.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. The other person was sitting on the curb facing a dark blue Volkswagen. His left leg was stretched out in front of him. He was holding his leg.

Did you say that to the detective?

Page 248.

William Singletary - Cross

A. No, I did not.

Q. At this time a bunch of people showed up. The policemen who arrived picked up the policeman from the ground and put him into a police car and went up 13th Street.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, the next question then is what did you do after the policeman left in the police car. And the answer recorded is while I was standing there I saw X-12, a police car. It was Officer Vernon Jones from the Highway unit. I knew Officer Jones.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. I said that.

Q. I told him what I saw.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. We didn't have a conversation, I just spoke to him. We didn't have a conversation.

Q. He told me to come downtown and tell what I saw.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. He didn't tell me that, no.

Q. I then went up to my gas station and gave the keys to one of the guys that works there. When I got

Page 249.

William Singletary - Cross

there nobody was there so I came back downtown to 8th and Race.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Question: Besides the policeman, can you describe the other person who was lying on the ground on Locust street.

Your answer: He was black with long hair, the hair style is called dreadlocks. He was wearing green pants, that's the only thing I could remember.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Next question: Did you see any weapons.

Your answer is no, I didn't see any.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Next question: Did you see anyone else on the street besides the policeman and the other guy with the dray locks.

Did you say that to the -- I'm sorry -- your answer was it was just the two of them.

Did you say that to the --

A. No.

Q. Do you see the next question? Did you see

Page 250.

William Singletary - Cross

anyone in the VW -- Volkswagen -- and the answer is no sir.

Did you say that to the detective?

A. No.

Q. Now, you would agree I read that correctly?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, am I also correct, Mr. Singletary, that that is your signature which appears on the bottom right-hand corner of the first page and below the last line of the second page?

A. It is.

Q. And my understanding from you is that you placed your signature there after the detective told you that you had to; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you knew that none of that was truthful or accurate but he had thrown away your other handwritten statements and you figured you had no choice; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. So when you left the police station did you immediately make any complaint to any persons regarding this treatment that you had received?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You didn't. But you did contact, you told us,

Page 251.

William Singletary - Cross

State Representative Alphonso Deal to speak to him about this treatment?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that in the form of letters or telephone calls?

A. In person.

Q. In person. And when in relation to when this statement was recorded was it that you made that complaint to State Representative Alphonso Deal?

A. That Saturday.

Q. The Saturday after you gave the statement?

A. Yes.

Q. And did State Representative Deal cause any investigation to be done of the police practices that you are aware of as a result of your complaint to him?

A. No, he didn't, not that I am aware of.

Q. Not that you are aware of?

A. No.

Q. Now, you told us that there came a time thereafter that the windows in your gas station were broken and that you were being harassed, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is your gas station, where was your gas station located?

Page 252.

William Singletary - Cross

A. 1300 North Broad.

Q. Say it again?

A. 1300 North Broad.

Q. And that is Broad and where, please?

A. Broad and Thompson.

Q. And had the windows of your gas station ever been broken prior to December 9th, 1981?

A. Never.

Q. You had never had any difficulty with vandalism at that location, sir?

A. Never.

Q. And did you see persons break your windows after this event?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Your windows just were broken?

A. Yes.

Q. Am I correct that you have no personal knowledge as to who broke your windows?

A. No.

Q. I am not correct?

A. I said I don't have any personal knowledge, nor I don't.

Q. I asked whether I was correct. I am correct you have no personal knowledge as to who was breaking your windows, right?

Page 253.

A. No, I don't, no.

Q. Now, other than making this complaint to State Representative Alphonse Deal, Mr. Singletary, I understand that you did not report any of this to any other person for many years; is that right?

A. I didn't.

Q. Pardon?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And you told us that in February 1982, a few months after giving this statement, you closed your business?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Because the glass kept getting broken by person or persons unknown; is that right?

A. True.

Q. All right. And that on June 26th -- I'm sorry -- but that you remained in Philadelphia, I take it; is that right?

A. Yeah, yeah, I closed the gas station in February.

Q. Yes. And you remained in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. You were at that time living with your parents; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Page 254.

Q. And that there came a time in June when you left on vacation?

A. Yes.

Q. And where was it that you went, sir?

A. To North Carolina.

Q. On vacation?

A. Yes.

Q. And the precise dates of your vacation are June 26th through July 9th, 1982?

A. Yes.

Q. How is it, sir, that you are able to remember the precise dates of that vacation?

A. July 26th, I mean July 9th is my mother's birthday.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. June the 26th is my aunt's birthday.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. So that's how I remember.

Q. So you remember today when you are asked when you went on vacation in 1982 that you left on your aunt's birthday and came home on your mother's birthday?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And after arriving home on July 9th, 1982 you remained in Philadelphia for about another month-and-a-half and then you moved out of town in August 1982; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know the precise date that you moved out of town?

A. No, I don't, not exact date.

Q. Okay. Now, how long did you stay out of Philadelphia after moving in August of 1982?

A. Until Mother's Day of the following year.

Q. And what was the date, if you know?

A. Mother's Day.

Q. Mother's Day of 1983?

A. I don't know the date.

Q. And that's when you returned to Philadelphia: mother's Day 1983?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. Now, as I understand it, sir, there then came a time on August the 31st of 1990 where you were in the company of Miss Wolkenstein and Marilyn Gelb and gave a statement; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Regarding these incidents about which you are testifying?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I take it, sir, that the events about which you are testifying today were so troubling to you that they are things that are very, very clear to you and you remember very well; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Certainly no one has suggested to you things which you have said before which might not be correct which has caused you to say anything different today, did they?

A. No, they have not.

Q. And that everything that you are saying here is what you have always said consistently, both to Detective Green in those first three statements and to Miss Wolkenstein in 1990, and is what you observed; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you made a statement in, on August 3lst, 1990, were you on that day in any physical distress?

A. Ahh, not real distress, no.

Q. Was there anything interfering with your ability on that day to fully and accurately convey your thoughts?

A. No.

Q. Now, have you had an opportunity, Mr. Singletary, to read the transcript from that statement which you gave on August 3lst, 1990?

Page 257.

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you have the opportunity to read that?

A. About three weeks ago.

Q. And how was it that you were given that opportunity?

A. By one of the attorneys.

Q. Pardon?

A. By one of the attorneys.

Q. Well, did the attorney mail it to you? Did the attorney hand it to you?

A. Handed it to me.

Q. And where did that take place?

A. Ahh, at a pal's.

Q. And you had an opportunity to read the entire transcript?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there any corrections that you needed to make to it?

A. Quite a few, yes.

Q. Ahh. And is that because your memory of the events between 1990 and today have changed?

A. Some of the things, yes.

Q. I see. Well, let's go through that, sir, and

Page 258.

William Singletary - Cross

you could make those corrections for us.

A. Okay.

Q. Do you have a copy of those notes?

A. No, I don't, not with me.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I was given a copy this morning. I would hope that Counsel would have an extra copy so the witness could read along.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Thank you, Miss Wolkenstein.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, Mr. Singletary, as I understand it, the first page of this document which you now have a copy of reads Statement under Oath; do you see that, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. So you were placed under oath by the stenographer?

A. Yes.

Q. And so I'm clear: Was there a person present like the gentleman who is sitting in front of you with one of these incredible machines who was creating some kind of tape with gibberish on it as you were speaking on August 3lst, 1990?

Page 259.

William Singletary - Cross

A. There was.

Q. And was it your understanding that that individual was taking a verbatim account of everything that you were saying?

A. Yes.

Q. And as you read this document which is now in your hand, is that the verbatim account of everything which you said on August 3lst, 1990?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now let me just start with page 47, Mr. Singletary.

Do you see the first question there?

A. 47?

Q. On page 47. Do you have page 47?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Do you see the first question there where it says in 1982, in June of 1982 you were still living in Philadelphia?

And your answer was June of '82.

And the question was June of '82.

And your answer was no, I wasn't. Let's see, June of '82, I left here in, no, I left here February of '82.

Question: February of '82.

Answer: Hmm-hmm.

Page 260.

William Singletary - Cross

Question: So you were not residing in Philadelphia in June of '82.

Answer: No.

Did I correctly read that series of questions?

A. Yes, you did.

Q. And were those answers correct when you gave them under oath?

A. No, not for June of '82.

Q. Oh, were you lying under oath when you gave those answers, Mr. Singletary?

A. No, I couldn't remember all the, I couldn't remember the dates at that particular time. I couldn't, hadn't thought about what I said.

Q. Well, has your mother's birthday changed since 1990 and today?

A. No, it hasn't.

Q. Has your aunt's birthday changed since 1990 and today?

A. No, it hasn't.

Q. Yet today you were able to recall precisely that you took a vacation from June 26th, 1982 until July 9th, 1982 while you were still residing in Philadelphia; is that right?

A. Yes, it is.

Page 261.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. Yet in 1990 your recollection was that you had not been living in Philadelphia since February of 1982; isn't that right?

A. That's right.

Q. Which is correct?

A. June of eighty -- June 26th of '82, to July 9th, I was on vacation. I was still living here.

Q. How can you explain, sir, making the error back in 1990 that you moved from the City in February 1982?

A. I got confused. I moved my base and we didn't go back over the question.

Q. What confused you?

A. She asked me the question where I was residing at.

Q. Well, what in the question in 1982, in June of 1982 you were still living in Philadelphia, you answered June of '82, and the question was June of '82, what of that question confused you, Mr. Singletary?

A. Because I lived in Yeadon and I lived in Willingboro. I lived two other different places. But my main address was my mother's house.

Q. Correct. And if that was clear to you, and you knew that your main address was your mother's

Page 262.

William Singletary - Cross

house, why was your response that no, I wasn't, let's see, June of '82, I left here in, no, I left here February of '82? Why did you give that response?

A. Because I moved two or three places.

Q. You moved two or three places?

A. I moved two or three different places. Between February and June.

Q. Were they in Philadelphia?

A. One was in Willingboro, New Jersey, one was in Yeadon, Pennsylvania.

Q. I see. So you were not in Philadelphia but you were in the area?

A. Well, my mother lived there, so I keep that as my address.

Q. I see. Now, you have told us today, sir -- bear with me, please.

All right, you have told us today, sir, that there came a time when you were on the corner of 13th and Locust Street -- I'm sorry -- that you told Detective Green that there was a time when you were on the corner of 13th and Locust Street when you saw a Volkswagen pull up with two men in it; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw a police officer get involved in

Page 263.

William Singletary - Cross

an argument with the driver of that Volkswagen; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And there came a time when another person from that Volkswagen, another person emerged from that Volkswagen?

A. Yes.

Q. The person who had been a passenger?

A. The passenger.

Q. And that you saw that passenger do something to the police officer?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, as I understand it, what you told us today is that you saw that passenger stand behind the police officer when you heard a pop?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you saw him in front of that passenger some two -- in front of that officer some 2 to 5 feet away and you saw him shoot the officer?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was he using to shoot the officer?

A. A small-caliber handgun.

Q. When you say small caliber what do you mean?

A. I don't know the exact caliber, but it was a small handgun.

Page 264.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. Well, did you in fact estimate it to be -- on page 9 -- a small .22, .22 or .25 small handgun?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that what it appeared to you to be?

A. I saw the barrel and that's what I thought it was.

Q. You saw the what?

A. The barrel of the gun.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. I saw the barrel.

Q. You saw the barrel of the gun?

A. Yes.

Q. Thank you, sir. And how close was this tall -- I'm sorry -- how close was this passenger when you heard that first pop?

A. How close was he to me or to the officer?

Q. To the officer.

A. He was near the Volkswagen and the officer was near the wall.

Q. Yes?

A. 10. 10, 12 feet.

Q. And that was the first pop?

A. Yes.

Q. But you then saw a second shot as well; is that right?

Page 265.

William Singletary - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Now, am I correct, Mr. Singletary -- and you could correct me if I am wrong -- you had an opportunity to read this document some three weeks ago -- am I correct that when you gave this statement under oath on August 3lst, 1990, that you made reference to only a single shot fired by the passenger of the Volkswagen?

A. I only saw one shot. I heard two, I only saw one.

Q. Am I correct, sir, that you never made reference in this statement which you gave on August 3lst, 1990 to having heard any shot other than one?

A. I don't recall. I...

Q. Well, I welcome you, sir, to read through it and tell me whether you see any reference. Because I have read it and I see no reference to your hearing any shot other than one single shot, and that's my question?

A. I heard a pop. I ducked for cover. Then I saw the second shot.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I didn't identify the first pop as being a shot.

Q. Well, let me ask you this, sir, let me ask you

Page 266.

William Singletary - Cross

if you remember saying this. I'll start, sir, just so we have some context, towards, well, about two-thirds of the way down on page 7, where the answer starts. The police officer made the driver get up against the wall, spread eagle, and they had a verbal confrontation between the two of them. Do you see that answer?

A. Yes.

Q. And you are talking about between the driver of the Volkswagen and the police officer there?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the next question was, could you hear what was being said.

And you said yeah -- I'm sorry -- you said most of it, yeah.

The question was can you tell us, and you said, your answer was a lot of obscenities being hollered back and forth between the two of them. The driver of the car, he didn't say a lot, but the police officer used a lot of obscenities. After about maybe two minutes the tall guy emerged from the Volkswagen and said Billy, we don't have to take this. He said we are tired of these FBI dot dot racists and so forth and so on. And he said they burned a newsstand last night and we just finished fixing it and we turned it back over. He said we don't have to take this. So the police officer said get back in the car.

Page 267.

William Singletary - Cross

Is that what you said when you were interviewed on August 3lst, 1990?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Then the question is, you said that to who.

And your answer was the tall guy.

Question: Okay, what happened then.

Your answer was, the guy reached in his right pocket and pulled out a small handgun and shot the cop in the eye.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that how it happened?

A. Well, he shot him in the eye but I'm saying they didn't go into any details, I just told them that they came from that bullet. I didn't see him get shot in the back. I saw him shoot him in the eye.

Page 268.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. Well, is there any reference in what I have just read to the fact that before the tall -- what I just read is that the guy reached in his right pocket and pulled out a small handgun and shot the cop in the eye. Did you say anything about before he did that he was standing behind the officer and I heard a pop and then he came around and he pulled out a handgun and shot him in the eye?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You didn't say that?

A. No.

Q. And there is no reference to that?

A. No.

Q. And in fact, after you gave this statement did someone tell you hey, this guy was shot twice, you're going to have to account for that?

A. I didn't see the shot entering the back, I saw the shot in the face.

Q. Now, the person who shot him in the face, or in the eye, as you said, was this tall guy who had been the passenger in the Volkswagen, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after the officer was shot in the eye, did you hear him say anything?

A. I don't recall.

Page 269.

Q. Well, do you remember back on August 3lst, 1990 in this statement saying that after the officer was shot in the eye you heard him say some things? Do you remember that?

A. I remember some things that were said but I don't remember what he said.

Q. Well, let me see if I could find it for you, sir. And it becomes a little confusing and apparently you became confused, but let me try to work it out with you.

On page 18 towards the bottom there is a question: Did Mumia say anything to the officer.

And your answer was, before he shot him.

And the question was yes. Before who shot him.

And your answer was, before the officer shot Mumia, he asked him was there anything he could do for him, was there anything he could help you with, you know. The officer was saying something, telling me he wanted me to get Maureen or get the children or something like that. I couldn't make out what he was saying because I don't know Maureen and I don't know nothing about kids.

Does that refresh your recollection?

Page 270.

A. As to what was said, yes.

Q. Yes. So having read that to you, what was it that you remember hearing the officer say after he was shot in the eye?

A. He was sitting on the ground and he was saying, the guy was asking could I get you some help, could I do anything for you. And he said get Maureen and he mumbled something else and I couldn't make out what it was. I thought it was something about some children or something, I don't know.

Q. What you testified to on August 3lst, 1990 was he said get Maureen or get the children; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you are certain that this is what he said after he was shot in the eye by this man who was the passenger in the Volkswagen?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you equally certain that this is what the officer said to Mr. Abu-Jamal before Mr. Abu-Jamal was shot?

A. Yes.

Q. So as I understand your testimony, when Mr. Abu-Jamal went up to the officer after the officer was shot by this man in the Volkswagen,

Page 271.

Mr. Abu-Jamal asked the officer if there was something he could do for him? Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And the officer who was now shot in the eye, who was on the floor with his back up against the building, asked Mr. Jamal to get Maureen or get the children; is that right?

A. He mumbled something about Maureen and something, I thought like it sounded like kids or children something.

Q. Okay. What I am trying to determine, Mr. Singletary, is these are statements that you heard the officer say to Mr. Jamal; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, do you remember in that same interview... in fact, after that exact answer that I just read to you regarding what the officer said to Mr. Jamal after he was shot in the eye, being asked okay, did the officer say anything to Mumia.

And your answer was after he shot him no.

The question was yes.

No, he didn't. Your answer was no, he didn't, he kind of went back and kind of like dazed off.

Page 272.

Is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And then further down, the question on line 18: So what you meant before was that after the tall man shot the officer, then the officer didn't say anything to Mumia.

Do you see that question there?

A. After the tall guy shot him?

Q. Yes. Line -- I just noticed these lines are numbered. On line 18, the question that begins there.

A. Okay.

Q. So what you meant before was that after the tall man shot the officer, then the officer didn't say anything to Mumia.

And your answer was, Mumia wasn't there then.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And then the next question: Okay, but afterwards, here is, and I will ask a question, ask a different question because I was obviously confusing you. After the officer was shot did the officer say anything to Mumia.

And the answer is no, he didn't.

Page 273.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, which is true, Mr. Singletary, did he say something to Mumia or didn't he say something to Mumia?

A. He did.

Q. He did?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you explain for us, then, why you said in this statement that he didn't?

A. Because I got confused and I told her I was confused asking the same question over and over.

Q. What about the question after the officer was shot did the officer say anything to Mumia confused you?

A. Because the person, Mumia wasn't there. When the officer was shot.

Q. What about the question after the officer was shot did the officer say anything to Mumia did you find confusing?

A. Because he wasn't there.

Q. But you have told us that after the officer was shot the officer did say something to Mumia?

A. This is seconds later.

Q. But you said that he didn't; is that right?

Page 274.

A. This was seconds later.

Q. Yes, sir. That's not what you said, though, when you were giving this statement under oath on August 3lst, 1990, is it, sir?

A. Well, I don't remember the question exactly. The way she was asking, I got confused during the process.

Q. You got confused about it?

A. As I explained, I couldn't -- I got confused.

(Pause.)

Q. Okay, so as I understand your testimony: You are as certain as you are of everything else that the officer, said these words to Mumia about getting Maureen or getting the children; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you are not confused today when you are telling us that?

A. No, I am not.

Q. You are very clear and certain about what you are telling us, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after the officer said get Maureen or get the children, I understand from your testimony today that the gun on the officer's lap then discharged; is that right?

Page 275.

William Singletary - Cross

A. It was at his lap, yes.

Q. Pardon?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the officer fire the gun?

A. I wasn't standing exactly. I saw the fire coming. I saw the gun leaning on his lap, I saw it had fired going into that direction.

Q. Well, when you say the gun was laying on his lap, was it laying flat on his lap?

A. It was laying like an erection.

Q. It was sort of laying and pointed up?

A. Sort of like.

Q. I see. And the officer, as I understand it, was sitting on the ground?

A. With his back against the wall.

Q. Back up against the wall and his feet, I take it, then were somewhere in front of him?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Jamal was at that point standing in front of and over the officer?

A. He was coming towards him.

Q. Right. Now, on page 23, Mr. Singletary, line 18 again. And if you would just take a minute to look at the preceding questions. You're talking about Mumia -- and I assume you were talking about

Page 276.

William Singletary - Cross

Mr. Abu-Jamal when you refer to Mumia; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. You are talking about Mumia approaching the police officer after the officer was shot; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And on line 18 you are giving an answer: He said can I help you, and the guy, he didn't say anything. He just laid back, grabbed his gun and fired.

Do you see that, sir?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Is that what you said?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was that correct?

A. As I can remember.

Q. That is correct?

A. As I can remember.

Q. Well, Mr. Singletary, is there anything different about the memory you've got now as opposed to the memory that you had three-and-a-half minutes ago when you told us that when Mumia said to him can I do anything for you he said something about get Maureen or get the children?

A. Yeah.

Page 277.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. There is something?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. What has happened in the last three-and-a-half minutes that has enabled you to remember?

A. The second question she asked me, I'm, when she said did he say anything to him. And he was directed the questioning, I didn't know if he was talking to me because I was peeping over the thing, I didn't know if he was talking to me or the other person.

Q. Which question did you think that she was asking you?

A. She said did he say anything. When she said did he say anything.

Q. What page are you on, sir, that you are referring to?

A. Number 23. 23?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes.

Q. There is no question about him saying anything on that page; that is your answer, Mr. Singletary. There is a question before it: Palms open. And your answer is he said -- referring to Mumia -- can I help

Page 278.

William Singletary - Cross

you. And the guy, he didn't say anything.

Were those your words?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that true?

A. No, it's not true.

Q. Oh, so you were mistaken when you said that?

A. Yes. I told you I was confused when she asked me this question a second time.

Q. She didn't ask you the question, Mr. Singletary. She asked you whether his palms were open; do you see that, sir?

A. Yeah, I do.

Q. But you were confused anyway about whether or not he had said something, is that it?

A. There kind of.

Q. Because she asked you the question more than once? Is that -- beg your pardon. Is that what confused you?

A. The way she was asking it.

Q. Do you tend to get confused if the same question is asked of you more than once?

A. Sometime I do, yes.

Q. Is there anything confusing about the way I am posing questions to you this afternoon?

A. Not yet.

Page 279.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. If at any time you become confused, please let us know, all right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, Mumia -- who you described as approaching the officer after the officer was shot in the eye -- do you recall what he was wearing?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And what was he wearing?

A. Safari outfit with canvas shoes.

Q. What do you mean by a safari outfit?

A. It's like the Arabs wear. It's like the Arab people wear.

Q. With the kind of harem pants that are sort of very elastic in the ankle?

A. Yes.

Q. And was it greenish in color, long and flowing?

A. Green and khaki.

Q. And that's what Mr. Jamal was wearing; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, the shot that was fired -- I'm sorry -- the shot that was, the discharge of the gun that was on the officer's lap, do I understand you today to tell us that you did not see that?

Page 280.

A. I saw the flame from the barrel of the gun.

Q. But you didn't see the gun itself fired; is that correct?

A. I saw the flame from the gun.

Q. Okay. But you didn't see the gun itself fired; is that correct?

A. I saw the flame, I just saw the blue flame.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. On page 16, line 12, question: How many shots did the officer fire.

Answer: Only one. Because when he fired the one his hand went down because he didn't have no strength. The cop didn't have no strength left because he had lost blood. So when he fired the one shot, he dropped his hand.

Do you see that, sir?

A. I do, yes.

Q. Did I read that correctly?

A. Yes, you did.

Q. Is that what you said?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, does that suggest to you that you saw the hand that fired the shot?

A. I didn't see the gun. I saw the fire from the gun.

Q. Well, did you see the cop's hand fall after that shot was fired?

A. I looked, I saw his hand fall down, yes.

Q. And this was after he had gotten the gunshot wound to his eye?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness is indicating -- does the witness need a break to get up and walk?

THE WITNESS: No, I'm all right. That's all right.

(Pause.)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, after the police officer used all his remaining strength to fire that shot, what happened to the police officer?

A. He was already slumped over, his hand fell, his hand just fell down.

Q. Where were you, sir -- strike that. And what happened to Mumia after that shot was fired?

A. He stumbled backwards, fell against the Volkswagen, against the right rear wheel of the Volkswagen.

Q. And during this period of time, sir, where were you?

A. At that point I was standing about by the highspeed line, by the barrier there.

Q. When you say you were standing by the highspeed line, were you on the sidewalk or were you below the level of the sidewalk?

A. I was on the sidewalk; it's like catty-corner from where the officer was lying.

Q. Oh, you were not on the same street?

A. Yes, we were right, I was right there. But it was, I was catty-corner.

Q. Well, how many feet was the officer from you?

A. Uhh... I don't recall.

Q. No?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Well, was it closer than the distance you and I are?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And was there anything blocking your view of the officer?

A. The barrier from the highspeed line.

Q. Which comes to about waist level?

A. Yes.

Q. So you could -- you were standing, I take it?

A. Yes.

Page 283.

Q. So you as you were standing could look out all around you in all directions, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you could look out to the parking lot which was diagonally, or which was directly across the street from you?

A. Yes.

Q. And there was no one standing around it, was there?

A. In the parking lot?

Q. Yes.

A. One time there was two guys but they disappeared, I don't know where they went.

Q. Were either of those two guys Mr. Jamal?

A. No.

Q. And obviously if anyone was on any of those corners they would certainly have been able to see you standing where you were because nothing was blocking your body; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, Mr. Singletary, as I understand it, you were in the City of Philadelphia or in it's area up until June the 26th, 1982, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you aware at that time that the trial against Mr. Abu-Jamal for the murder of Officer Faulkner was taking place?

Page 284.

A. I was.

Q. And I take it it was clear to you that this was a great injustice; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you certainly did not want to have on your conscience the fact that a grave injustice was being done which you could prevent; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was it, sir, during the trial that you contacted to notify that you could provide this information about this grave injustice?

A. There was no one to contact.

Q. There was no one to contact?

A. No one. I was waiting for a subpoena, they weren't contacting me.

Q. Did you know that the trial was being conducted in City Hall?

A. I had read something.

Q. Did you make an effort to come to City Hall, to walk into the trial?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And were you aware that Mr. Jamal had an attorney who was also working on his behalf?

Page 285.

William Singletary - Cross

A. No, not at that time.

Q. Did you make any phone calls to find out who the attorney was representing Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes, I talked to several people.

Q. Who did you speak to?

A. Ahh, several people in the political field, I don't recall exactly who it was.

Q. Well, who precisely?

A. Well, Alphonse Deal was one.

Q. I thought you spoke to Mr. Deal the day after you were at the police station?

A. Right, I called Mr. Alphonso after I came back in and I asked why I wasn't subpoenaed.

Q. Alphonso Deal?

A. Yes.

Q. Representative Deal?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you tell Representative Deal that you were an eyewitness and that you knew that Mr. Jamal was innocent?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you tell him that you needed to contact someone so you could let them know that you had this testimony to offer?

A. I did, yes, I did.

Page 286.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. And did he tell you who you could contact?

A. No, he said he would contact someone and get back with me.

Q. Oh. And how long before you left on vacation was it that you told Mr. Deal that?

A. About two weeks.

Q. And did you hear back from him?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. So did you call him again before you left for vacation?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you again tell him I'm preparing to leave but I can provide helpful information in this case?

A. Yes, I did. And I also left a phone number in North Carolina where I could be reached.

Q. And you gave that to Mr. Deal?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you never heard back from him?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Who else did you contact?

A. He was the only one.

Q. Oh, he was the only person?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, but you did not yourself come into

Page 287.

William Singletary - Cross

City Hall to see if you could find the trial yourself?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You relied upon Mr. Deal to attempt to make those contacts for you?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. How was it you knew Mr. Deal?

A. I knew him as a police officer and I knew him as a State Representative. I knew him as the president of the North Philadelphia branch of the NAACP. And I've known him throughout the years.

Q. And through those organizations, did you try to contact those organizations?

A. I did not.

Q. And say who was representing Mr. Jamal, I must speak to those persons?

A. I relied on him.

Q. Pardon?

A. I relied strictly on him.

Q. You relied on Mr. Deal?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. So as I understand it, sir, you were willing to testify at this trial as to all of the things you have told us today?

A. Yes, I was.

Page 288.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. When you returned from vacation on July the 9th, did you learn that the trial was over?

A. I did.

Q. And I take it you were more than a little disturbed, were you not?

A. I was, yes.

Q. And, well, what did you do then?

A. I talked to some people that I know that was into the Court and different things.

Q. Who?

A. I don't know their names, I don't recall who it was. But a couple people like reporters from the small papers. And they said they would get back with me.

Q. Well, did you write a letter to anybody?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you attempt at that time to contact Mr. Jamal or an attorney on behalf of Mr. Jamal to let them know that you should have been called to trial?

A. I didn't contact anyone. Mr. Deal, Alphonso Deal is the only person I talked to.

Q. Well, did you call Mr. Deal again when you came back from vacation?

A. I went to see him, yes, I did.

Q. And to tell him gee, I never heard from you?

Page 289.

William Singletary - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And did he give you the impression that he had told Mr. Jamal's attorney about your availability?

A. He say he didn't have contact, he didn't have time to make contact with anyone.

Q. He didn't have the time?

A. He didn't have any time to make contact.

Q. Did you when you went to see him personally say well give me that attorney's name and number so I could call him and tell him about this horrible injustice that has happened, did you do that?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you in any of your phone conversations with Mr. Deal ask him to give to you the name and the phone number of any attorney or some person who was representing Mr. Jamal?

A. No, I did not.

Q. How is it, sir, that you were located in 1990 for the purpose of giving this statement?

A. From the same people that I contacted in 1981.

Q. Which same people?

A. Reporter for the small paper. Jones, Dale Jones his name is.

Q. And you had continued telling these people?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 290.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. Regularly through the years from 1982?

A. Every chance I got to speak with them, yes.

Q. And how often was that?

A. Every two or three months. Every six months or so.

Q. And did you notify these people by way of any written letters?

A. No.

Q. Only by telephone?

A. Personally, by person.

Q. By person?

A. Yes.

Q. And who are these persons that you notified in person?

A. Ahh, Dale Jones.

Q. Yeah, who is Dale Jones?

A. He is a reporter for a small paper.

Q. Where?

A. In Philadelphia.

Q. Which small paper?

A. Ahh, Scoop Magazine, or Scoop. It is a paper that's circulates, it's bars and stuff.

Q. Okay, who else?

A. And Mr. Deal.

Q. So you continued to contact Mr. Deal?

Page 291.

William Singletary - Cross

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Every couple of months, whenever you saw him in person?

A. Yes.

Q. So for every couple of months following July 1982, through August 1990, you continued to tell Dale Jones and Mr. Deal that you were an eyewitness to this incident, yes?

A. Well, Mr. Deal passed away so I was still in contact with Mr. Jones.

Q. Oh, I see. When did Mr. Deal pass away?

A. Oh, I don't know. Around '84, '85, I guess.

Q. All right. So since '84 -'85 the only person that you were contacting was Mr. Jones; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't add anybody else to that list of people to contact?

A. No, he kept getting different people for me to talk to but no one would ever -- I never got to speak to anyone. And he would get someone else and then someone else and it kept going on and on.

Q. Did you speak to these persons?

A. No, the only one I spoke to was Miss Wolkenstein.

Page 292.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. And that was on August 3lst, 1990?

A. Exactly.

Q. And during that entire period you never communicated with any person by letter or any other means?

A. No, no.

Q. Now, after Mr. Jamal was shot by Officer Faulkner, my understanding is that's when police cars started arriving; is that right?

A. No.

Q. That's not right? How long did it take police cars to arrive?

A. The cars, it took a few seconds. But there were other officers on the scene.

Q. How did they get there?

A. They came from across the parking lot.

Q. On foot?

A. Yes, captains, lieutenants.

Q. The captains and lieutenants got there before the cars got there?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many captains and lieutenants arrived at the scene before the police cars arrived?

A. I don't recall their number but it was more than, it was more than three. I don't recall an exact number.

Page 293.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. And from where across the parking lot had they come?

A. I don't know where they came from. They came from across the parking lot, I'm not sure where they came in from.

Q. And they appeared to you to be on foot?

A. Yes, they were on foot.

Q. And after the arrival of approximately three, at least, captains and lieutenants, that was when the first police car arrived; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Oh. And after the first police car arrived there were many others that arrived?

A. Yes.

Q. My understanding from you is that there was also, shortly thereafter there was a helicopter; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. How long after Mr. Jamal was shot was it that the helicopter arrived?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Well, was it within 10 minutes?

A. The whole thing didn't take 10 minutes. It wasn't even 10 minutes, the whole thing wasn't 10 minutes.

Page 294.

William Singletary - Cross

Q. So it was within 10 minutes; is that right? So it was certainly not more than 10 minutes after Mr. Jamal was shot; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Am I correct that the helicopter was hovering overhead directly above this scene where this occurred; is that right?

A. It was circling, it was circling, yes.

Q. Well, it was circling, it was staying right in the area of 13th and Locust?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was shining a floodlight down on that intersection?

A. It was moving, it was moving about.

Q. In the area of the intersection?

A. Yes.

Q. And you looked at the helicopter?

A. I heard the rotors, looked up.

Q. Was it a police helicopter that said Police on it?

A. I didn't look at it to notice.

Q. You didn't notice?

A. I just saw a helicopter.

Q. You saw it and you heard it, I see. Now, as I understand it, you then saw police officers take Mr. Jamal and use his body, as you described it, like a battering room; is that right?

Page 295.

William Singletary - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Were these the lieutenants and captains who did this or were these uniformed police officers?

A. No, uniform, captains and lieutenants, I didn't see them. After they told me detectives was coming they disappeared, I didn't see them anymore.

Q. So they came across the parking lot before the uniformed officers arrived?

A. Yes.

Q. Once the uniformed officers arrived they disappeared?

A. There was a crowd by that time 25, 35 people, so I didn't see them.

Q. All right. While that crowd of 25, 35 people remained there is when Mr. Jamal was picked up and used like a battering room against the back of the police van; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And his body, as you understand it, was propelled into the door of the police van while the door was closed; is that right?

Page 296.

William Singletary - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And this is a metal vehicle, yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And they were doing it with tremendous force on the body of Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes? And as you have already expressed, it was evident to you that it was with sufficient force to crack his skull; is that right?

A. Depending on how hard his head was.

Q. Pardon?

A. It depends on how hard his head was.

Q. Perhaps not crack his skull but certainly cause bruising in that area, would you agree?

A. It's possible, yes.

Q. Well, is it possible that it would not have caused bruising based on the force of the hit that you saw (indicating)?

A. Well, it would have to leave something.

Q. Okay. Now, am I correct, Mr. Singletary, that in addition to the officers using Mr. Jamal like a battering ram, they were also kicking him and beating him?

A. They were kicking him and beating him prior. That's when he was sitting on the ground next to the Page 297.

William Singletary - Cross

Volkswagen.

Q. Oh, this is before they used him like a battering ram?

A. Yes.

Q. And how were they beating him, sir?

A. With their sticks.

Q. What part of his body were they kicking?

A. His testicles.

Q. How many times did you see him kicked in his testicles?

A. More than three.

Q. And what kind of force were those kicks done with?

A. I didn't measure the force but he was, he was kicked pretty hard.

Q. At least three times?

A. More than three.

Q. More than three.

(Pause.)

Q. And is it my understanding, Mr. Singletary, that after you observed this you went to the Roundhouse, went up to the fifth floor, and hand wrote this event on three occasions for Detective Green?

A. Yes.

Page 298.

William Singletary - Redirect

Q. And you are as sure of that as you are of everything else that you have told us today; is that right?

A. Yes, I am.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Singletary, can you endure this for a little while longer?

A. How much longer?

Q. Pardon?

A. How much longer?

Q. Another 10, 15 minutes. Do you want to take a break at this point?

A. No, let's do it.

Q. As I understand your testimony on cross-examination, you told the police that night that you had witnessed two shootings: The shooting of Officer Faulkner and the shooting of Mr. Jamal. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal shoot Officer Faulkner?

Page 299.

William Singletary - Redirect

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jamal with a gun that night?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you see Officer Faulkner shoot Mr. Jamal?

A. I saw his gun discharge.

Q. Now, on August 3lst, 1990, when you gave the deposition or sworn statement in Marilyn Gelb's office, were you interviewed by Marilyn Gelb before you gave that statement?

A. No.

Q. Did anyone tell you what to say?

A. No.

Q. Before your testimony today did anyone tell you what to say?

A. No, sir.

Q. Going back to December 9th, 1981, when you arrived at the intersection of Locust and 13th, were you driving your Cadillac?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you park at or near the intersection?

A. I parked on the southwest, southwest corner right by the fireplug.

Q. And when you parked your car, did you meet anyone at that time?

A. Young lady dressed with a white fur coat and

Page 300.

William Singletary - Redirect

green slacks.

Q. And did you later find out who that young lady was?

A. I did.

Q. What was her name?

A. Cynthia White.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Cynthia White?

A. I spoke to her.

Q. And how long was that conversation in duration?

A. A couple seconds.

Q. Did you then see, did you then leave that area and go across Locust Street?

A. I did.

Q. And is that when you went to Whispers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after you left Whispers did you return to your car?

A. In front of my car, and came back across the street, yes.

Q. When you came back across the street was Cynthia White still there?

A. No, sir, she was down the street, four or five cars.

Page 301.

Q. Do you know which street?

A. South on 13th.

Q. And was she alone?

A. She was talking to a guy.

Q. And was it then that you crossed 13th Street to where the speed line is?

A. To, no, that's as the Volkswagen approached.

Q. I see. And as that happened did you see where Cynthia White was?

A. She was gone far down the street.

Q. Was she on that corner with you when you saw the shooting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see Cynthia White again after that morning?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, and you told us you saw Vernon Jones on that corner shortly after the shooting; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he is a Highway patrolman; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see the person who shot Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 302.

Q. Could you describe his hair style, if you can remember?

A. He had long dreadlocks. Extremely long, mixed with black and brown.

Q. Long dreadlocks?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see what he did after he shot the officer?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What did he do?

A. He tossed the gun on the right side of the Volkswagen.

Q. And what did he do?

A. He ran east on Locust.

Q. On which side of the street?

A. South side.

Q. And is it your recollection that Mr. Jamal was not present at the scene when the officer was shot?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Now, was your recollection of the events you saw on the early morning hours on December 9th, 1981 better that morning when you wrote out, hand wrote out the statements than it is today?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And those handwritten statements that you wrote out were torn up?

Page 303.

A. At first it was torn, the rest of it was balled up and threw in the trash.

Q. Have you been able to look at these statements to refresh your recollection as to what you said that morning?

A. Not of what I wrote, no.

Q. So your memory of what you saw that morning, with the passage of 13 years, without being refreshed by what you wrote, is not as good now as it was that morning when you wrote out the statements; is that correct?

A. No, it's not.

Q. And it wasn't as good either on August 3lst, 1990 when you gave your sworn deposition?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. When you spoke to an Alphonso Deal did he indicate that you should wait to be subpoenaed?

A. That's what he told me, I would be subpoenaed.

Q. And you were expecting to be subpoenaed?

A. I thought I would be, yes.

Q. And you were never subpoenaed?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. You were subpoenaed you would have testified?

A. Yes, I would have.

Page 304.

Q. Incidentally, the aunt, where does your aunt live, the one you referred to in cross-examination?

A. Where does she live now?

Q. No, where did she live in June of 1982?

A. In Logan, in North Philly -- North Philly in Logan.

Q. Here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did your mother live in June of 1982?

MS. FISK: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I'm sorry, July of 1982?

A. Philadelphia.

MS. FISK: Objection to relevance.

THE COURT: Well, if you don't object fast enough we are going to get these answers in. So I will sustain the objection. I will strike the question, strike the answer.

Now, let's not be rambling all over, Counsel.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was the reason why you could recall leaving the City on June 26th and returning on July 9th was because you had attended birthday parties both for your aunt and for your mother?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Objection sustained. Counselor. You testify well but that is not the way to do it. You take the stand like anybody else. Stop leading these witnesses. Please.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, on that statement that's before you, the typewritten statement, is there a time indicated as to when that statement was given?

A. I don't see, I don't see a time here.

Q. That box is blank, is it not?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Defense Counsel.)

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I inquire as to whether the Court Officer was able to make the phone call?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Q. Mr. Singletary, irrespective of what door you went into, were you in the Roundhouse on Race Street in the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you in the Roundhouse when you signed the police report which is before you and has been marked as an Exhibit?

A. Yes.

Q. There is no doubt in your mind that you were in the Roundhouse that morning?

A. No.

Q. There is no doubt in your mind that the police questioned you that morning?

A. There's no doubt.

Q. And there is no doubt in your mind that you were there for five hours?

A. There's no doubt.

Q. And there is no doubt in your mind that the statements that you hand wrote were torn up and thrown away?

A. There is no doubt about that.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further.

Q. And there is no doubt in your mind that that was the fifth floor that you were on; is that right?

A. I'm not sure which floor.

Q. Oh?

A. The detective pushed the elevator button, I didn't.

Q. Oh, I see. I take it, as I understand your answers to Counsel's questions, your memory about these events was better in 1990 than they are today; is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Because as time passes memories fade; is that right?

A. True.

Q. But would it be correct, then, sir, that on August the 3lst, 1990, your testimony with regard to the shooting of the officer on page 8 was, okay, what happened then, and your answer was the guy reached into his right pocket and pulled out a small handgun and shot the cop in the eye. And you then made reference to the fact that that shooter then fled. That was your best recollection of this incident?

A. That's the way she -- that was the way I answered, yes.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I neglected to have marked these notes of testimony and I would ask at this time that they be marked so that the Court record is complete.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Because you would agree with me, Mr. Singletary, would you not, that you never under oath on August 3lst, 1990 make reference to any other shot being heard by you directed at the officer, did you, sir?

A. Not to my recollection.

(Copy of transcript was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-l9 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: C-19, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, I guess they are finished with you.

THE WITNESS: I guess. I hope so. Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: While we are waiting to find out where you are going to go next: This morning we had a representative from the Court Administrator's Office that she said that she left some notes of testimony here on Wednesday. But she looked around and couldn't find the Officer. I think we do have the Officer.

Would you come up here, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes. This representative from the Court Administrator's Office said she left some notes with you on Wednesday of this week.

THE COURT OFFICER: That is correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: For the record, give us your name so that we will know.

THE COURT OFFICER: Officer Billups.

THE COURT: And what did you do with those notes of testimony?

THE COURT OFFICER: Those notes of testimony, Your Honor, I handed to these two attorneys here at the end of the table (indicating).

THE COURT: And that was on Wednesday?

THE COURT OFFICER: And that was on Wednesday.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: What time of day?

Page 310.

THE COURT OFFICER: That was on Wednesday... about mid-afternoon. We had just gotten back, I believe we had just reconvened from lunch. And I passed them to both Counsel. And as a matter of fact, Counsel took the cover sheet off and opened it up and went through it and then handed it to the young lady there.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: The record should reflect that the witness is pointing to the end of the table where --

THE COURT OFFICER: To both Counsel, both Counsel right here.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- Valerie West is seated.

THE COURT: That includes Mr. Williams.

MR. WEINGLASS: Excuse me, Your Honor. On what was just marked, I don't believe that it has the certification page on it. It came right from my files.

THE COURT: Oh.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This, I will represent to you, is exactly the same of what you have in the original. Could we just switch that, is that okay?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE COURT OFFICER: We are marking a new copy, Your Honor, C-15.

THE COURT: All right. Anymore witnesses?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor, I will need to contact Detective Quinn and I will present him to the Court. I am hopeful that he will be available for Monday. I understand that Detective E. Quinn who took Mr. Singletary's statement is currently detailed to the FBI. And detectives while we've been here this afternoon have been making efforts to contact him. They understand that he is working and are not able to hear from him. And we will continue making those efforts over the weekend so we could present him for the Court.

THE COURT: All right, then we will adjourn until Monday morning.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have Counsel present and I have been given a copy of --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- something that's called Contempt of Court.

Page 312.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the Court has underlined three times the word forthwith with a --

THE COURT: I didn't underline forthwith.

THE COURT CLERK: I did.

MR. WEINGLASS: Someone did.

THE COURT CLERK: I did.

THE COURT: Forthwith. Will you tell him where he goes to pay the fine?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I am asking the Court Clerk to tell you where to go to pay the fine. All right, we will put off until Monday to pay that fine.

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Rudovsky is here.

THE COURT: Mr. Rudovsky is here. I held you in contempt, it was right in the presence of the Court and that's it. 685 on Monday, pay the fine. If you want to appeal it you appeal it, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I don't pay the fine?

THE COURT: Then I'll put you in jail, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: As long as that's understood.

THE COURT: Oh, that's understood.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, my Counsel can not appear here today on my behalf.

THE COURT: He could appear wherever he wants. He wasn't here when you committed the contempt. It was in front of this Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not calling him as a witness, I am calling him as a lawyer.

THE COURT: What is your problem, Counselor? He committed --

MR. RUDOVSKY: I don't have a problem.

THE COURT: He committed a contempt in the Court.

MR. RUDOVSKY: I am here to represent Mr. Weinglass. And I don't have a problem and I would ask the Court not assume that because I came to represent Mr. Weinglass that I have some kind of problem. I don't have a problem.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know, but let me say this to you: I held him in contempt for what he did in front of the Court. I fined him $1,000, payable forthwith. They are closed, they will open up on Monday. He has to go in there and pay the fine of a thousand dollars.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Could I ask you to reconsider that, Your Honor?

THE COURT: No, I am not reconsidering it, Counselor, that's it. All right.

MR. RUDOVSKY: You will not let me be heard as to --

THE COURT: What do you want to do? Go ahead.

MR. RUDOVSKY: I would like a hearing before --

THE COURT: You don't get a hearing when you have a contempt in front of the Court. You have a right to appeal, now take an appeal.

MR. RUDOVSKY: We will do that if necessary, Your Honor.

THE COURT: It is going to be necessary. Because I held him in contempt, a thousand dollars. That's it, all right. See you on Monday.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Your Honor, if I can be heard on that, I would ask that the matter of contempt be referred to another judge.

THE COURT: No, I am not referring it to another judge because it was contempt in my presence, period.

MR. RUDOVSKY: It was done, as I understand, during an argument over Exhibits.

THE COURT: No, it was done because I told him what -- the notes will tell you what it was all about. If you want to order the notes, order the notes and you'll have it.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was done after I indicated that I wished the Court --

THE COURT: Counselor, the notes will tell you what happened.

MR. WEINGLASS: I was indicating to the Court not to point a finger at me.

THE COURT: If you want to take an appeal you take an appeal. That's all for now. It's 5:30. Good night, gentlemen. See you on Monday.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court is leaving the bench.

THE COURT: What do you think I am going to do. It's 5:30, I don't get paid overtime.

MR. RUDOVSKY: May I approach the bench, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MR. RUDOVSKY: David Rudovsky for Leonard Weinglass. Your Honor, I was here on Friday afternoon and asked the Court in the alternative to vacate the finding of contempt against Mr. Weinglass and to reconsider that matter, and or to refer the matter to another judge. In essence, we asked for a hearing on the contempt action. We have several witnesses who observed what happened. Mr. Weinglass has a right to have his side of that incident heard on the record. It was in front of Your Honor. And while under direct examination you could hear it, we think that you are embroiled in this affair and should not hear it. But be that as it may, we ask for a hearing on that matter. There are witnesses who will testify that the photographs were in hand, they were about to be handed over to Court and the Court acted precipitously in holding Mr. Weinglass in contempt.

THE COURT: What I would suggest to You, Counselor, you were not here. I would suggest that you wait until all the notes have been transcribed. Then you will see what really happened, okay. This matter is not going to be over today. There is oral argument that has to go forward at a later time after the Court reporter has transcribed all the notes, everybody has had a chance to review them. And I think that's when you should bring it up: At that time.

I would refer to an article, an editorial in yesterday's Inquirer which reads as follows. And I have taken parts of it out. He, the Judge, has allowed himself to be drawn into petty fights with defense lawyer Leonard Weinglass, an attorney with a long career of baiting judges in trials he has orchestrated into causes celebres. Mr. Weinglass has fished far beyond the limits of what the law allows in such proceedings. He has had a heyday insulting the Judge in the press and sometimes to his face.

And then the news article went on to blame me for this. They seem to blame the victim rather than the perpetrator.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Your Honor, let me state --

THE COURT: I'm speaking now, okay.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Yeah.

THE COURT: In the old days we lawyers had a saying: If you have the evidence on your side, argue the evidence. If you have the law on your side, argue the law. And if you have neither the evidence or the law, scream like hell.

Now the news media, specifically The Inquirer, has changed that to read as follows: If you don't have the evidence or the law, blame it on the Judge. Who else are you going to blame it on.

Now, I think -- and I am telling this to The Inquirer -- if you want to be fair to the people who read your newspaper, you should purchase the notes of testimony from the Court reporter, and in it's entirety, including sidebars, everything, purchase it and print it for the people who could not be present in this Courtroom to hear this evidence. And you don't have to do it all at one time. You could run it as a series. You could probably make a lot of money selling it to the people, they may be interested in it. At any rate, it would be the only fair way to do it.

And I am not putting you off, Counselor, I am just saying I think you should wait. At the proper time, after all the notes are transcribed, I've had a chance to read it over, and everybody's had a chance to read it over, I would be glad to hear you at that time.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Your Honor, two problems. Number one, regardless of what the notes say, we have witnesses to testify.

THE COURT: Okay, okay.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Secondly, under the threat of incarcerating Mr. Weinglass, we paid the fine this morning. We will be taking an appeal this afternoon in that matter.

THE COURT: If you will take an appeal, go ahead. Unfortunately, they will have to wait until the notes are transcribed, but take your appeal.

Page 7.

MR. RUDOVSKY: I am asking the Court for a hearing. Is the Court denying us a hearing on contempt?

THE COURT: I don't think you are entitled to a hearing. Unless you could give me a case that says that you are. When the contempt is in front of the judge, he could hold him summarily in contempt, he doesn't have to hold a hearing.

MR. RUDOVSKY: I don't disagree with that proposition.

THE COURT: Is that the law?

Is that the law?

MR. RUDOVSKY: That is the law. If I could finish. If there are witnesses and facts to be adduced from the other side, the defense has a right to be heard with those witnesses. You may have seen one thing, you may have heard one thing, you may have been mistaken.

THE COURT: Well, it is what I saw and heard that is important.

MR. RUDOVSKY: If the Court is saying we have no right to present a defense to the contempt.

THE COURT: Unless you could show me

Page 8.

a case that says that you are.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Taylor versus Hayes, United States Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Xerox the case, give it to me. At my leisure I will read it and let you know where I am going.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Let me just say one final thing since you mentioned it. Mr. Weinglass has been held in contempt once before 25 years ago, a contempt that was summarily reversed. He has never, never been held in contempt any other time. He has been threatened with contempt --

THE COURT: Counselor, I didn't write the editorial.

MR. RUDOVSKY: I don't think that you did, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Are you saying that Mr. Weinglass is saying the news media, specifically The Inquirer, is printing something that isn't true?

MR. RUDOVSKY: That's exactly right.

THE COURT: Is that what you are saying?

Well, Inquirer, there it is: You don't print the truth. What you better start doing is buy the notes and print it in the paper. Okay.

Page 9.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Your Honor, we would join in that request because we think what would be printed would demonstrate and fortify exactly what the defense has been saying.

THE COURT: Okay, let's see. Let the public decide that.

MR. RUDOVSKY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't approve of the news media spoon feeding something to the people who read their paper. Let them print the entire proceedings, let the public decide. Particularly those people who are out in California, don't know anything about it. Those people over in Germany, those people in South American. Let them print the whole thing, everything that went on, all right.

Now let's proceed with your last witness. I hope.

MS. FISK: Good morning, Your Honor.

Your Honor, in light of the testimony which was presented, I have not provided prior notice to defense because these are witnesses in direct rebuttal to the witness that was completed at 5:45 on Friday. There are two witnesses, Your Honor. The first will be Officer Vernon Jones, who was a police officer who had contact with Mr. Singletary on the morning of December 9th, 1991. The second witness will be a Detective Quinn, who is a detective who took the written statement from Mr. Singletary which Mr. Singletary was confronted with.

THE COURT: Well, do you have that to give to the defense Counsel now?

MS. FISK: Do I have which?

THE COURT: No, the --

MS. FISK: That's what I have just advised the Court I have not previously told --

THE COURT: Well, why don't you give it to them and I will take a short recess.

MS. FISK: The statements, Your Honor, are statements which were provided in discovery 14 years ago. Officer Jones gave a statement on December the 17th, 1981. Counsel has that. And obviously the statement of Mr. Singletary was marked and was fully discussed on Friday. So these are not new witnesses, recently discovered. These are witnesses about whom the defense knew.

MR. WEINGLASS: With respect to witnesses, the Court has advised defense that the defense may not subpoena any further witnesses without the Court's first permission. And I'm applying at this time for permission to issue a subpoena to a witness who testified at the trial. His name is Robert Chobert. And our investigator, who is present in Court, Michael Newman, had a conversation recently with Mr. Chobert in which Mr. Chobert indicated for the first time that he received a promise of assistance from the District Attorney trying the case. His name is Joe McGill. And that promise was that Mr. McGill would help Mr. Chobert recover his chauffeur's license so he could go back to gainful employment as a school bus driver.

That promise was never turned over to the defense and so it constitutes another Brady ground. And in light of that we would like to bring Mr. Chobert in to testify to the fact that he received a promise of assistance from the District Attorney. And for that reason we would like to subpoena him. If the Court will allow us to do so.

MS. FISK: Well, first, Your Honor, I assume that if Counsel has had an investigator speak to Mr. Chobert that they have an affidavit from Mr. Chobert asserting the representations that Counsel just presented to the Court.

THE COURT: Well, do you have an affidavit to give to her? Maybe she'll withdraw the objection she may have.

MR. WEINGLASS: We don't have an affidavit. I might say, Mr. Chobert has indicated quite clearly that he will only cooperate if he's subpoenaed. He will not cooperate with us. But he will respond to a subpoena and that's why I'm requesting one.

THE COURT: Well, sounds like a fishing expedition to me.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, without any statement or affidavit all we have is Counsel's bald assertion and, frankly, that is not sufficient.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is a prosecution witness, he will not cooperate with us. We can not get affidavits from prosecution witnesses.

Page 13.

He will respond to a subpoena. And that's why I'm requesting one. I represent to the Court -- and Mr. Newman is here (indicating), you can put him on the stand.

THE COURT: I know, you represented a lot of things to me and they didn't turn out to be exactly as you said.

MR. WEINGLASS: You could take it from Mr. Newman too. Put Mr. Newman on the stand and he will testify to a conversation with Mr. Chobert wherein Mr. Chobert revealed that he had the promise of assistance from the District Attorney. And he testified under that promise.

THE COURT: Well, all I could say to you at this time: Get yourself some kind of an affidavit from him. Try. If not, dig up the law on the subject. Both sides. I will be glad to read it and make a decision at a later time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I am indicating --

THE COURT: In the meantime, in the meantime let me go forward with the two witnesses that we have here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we cannot get that affidavit, I am representing that to the Court.

Page 14.

THE COURT: Well, if you can't, look up the law, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we would like permission to subpoena him.

THE COURT: Well, look up the law. I keep telling you the same thing over and over again. Look up the law.

MR. WEINGLASS: The law allows us to subpoena witnesses for this hearing. I'm asking for permission.

THE COURT: Well, the law also says that you should have an affidavit from that proposed witness to give to the other side.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, number one, that rule of providing affidavits was a rule we suggested on day one. Which the Court refused to follow.

THE COURT: Well, you have been doing it, you have been doing it since day one and they have been doing it since day one and all of a sudden you are telling me you can't do it. Counselor, I don't want to argue about it all day here. You are taking up too much of the Court's time on this argument. Look up the law,

Page 15.

I will be glad to look it over, and if the law is on your side I will so rule.

Could we please proceed with your witnesses so we could finish.

MS. FISK: Certainly, Your Honor. Your Honor, I call Officer Vernon Jones.

Philadelphia Police Officer Vernon Jones, Badge 4758, Highway Patrol, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Officer Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. Officer Jones, how long have you been a Philadelphia Police Officer?

A. 18 years.

Q. And were you a police officer, then, back on December the 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. On that date, Officer Jones, were you a uniformed officer on duty?

Page 16.

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And did you have occasion to respond to the area of 13th and Locust Street following the shooting of a police officer?

A. That's correct.

Q. How did you come to respond to that scene?

A. It was a radio call: Assist officer.

Q. Where were you, to the best of your recollection, when that radio call came out?

A. Broad and Vine.

Q. If you recall, how long did it take you to get to the vicinity of 13th and Locust Street after receiving the call?

A. Ahh, took me about two minutes.

Q. Do you, as you sit here today, have a complete recollection as to all the events that occurred when you arrived at 13th and Locust Street?

A. No, I don't.

Q. On December the 17th, 1981, did you have occasion to give a statement to a Homicide detective about the events that occurred the week before on December the 9th, 1981?

A. That's correct.

Q. And at the time you gave that statement to the Homicide detective, was your memory fresh with regard to what had occurred the week before?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And after you gave a statement to the Homicide detective, did you have an opportunity to review that statement and check it for accuracy?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was it accurate?

A. Yes, it was.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would ask, please, that this statement be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit...

THE COURT OFFICER: 20. 20.

MS. FISK: It needs to be stapled as well.

Thank you.

It is a three-page document to be shown to Counsel.

(Pause.)

(Investigation interview record was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-20 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Jones, do you recognize what has been marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 20?

Page 18.

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And do you recognize that as a statement given by you to Detective C. Brown on December the 15th, 1981 regarding the events of December the 9th, 1981?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now based on your review of that statement, can you tell this Court whether or not the information contained in this three-page statement was accurate at the time you provided it to Detective Brown?

A. That's correct.

Q. And was it?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Now utilizing this statement, then, Officer Jones: When you arrived at the vicinity of 13th and Locust Street, did you have occasion to see anyone there that you knew?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was that, sir?

A. Ahh, male by the name of Dales. I knew him by Dales.

Q. And do you know Dales to have another name?

A. Yes.

Q.Or did you know? Go ahead.

A. Singletary.

Page 19.

Q. And how did you know this gentleman Dales Singletary?

A. From a gas station that his parents owned.

Q. And where was that gas station?

A. At Broad and Thompson. And at 38th and Girard.

Q. And utilizing a description -- did you on December the 17th, 1981, describe this male you knew as Dales?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And is it accurate that you said, I only know the male as Dales. I do know that he is a junior and that his father owns a Sunoco service station at Broad and Thompson Street. Dales is in his early thirties, five-eleven, medium build, around 180 pounds, dark brown skin, clean shaven with moustache. He wore dark clothing which possibly could have been his service station uniform. He drives a late-model 1980 or '81 light blue Cadillac.

Was that the description you provided on December 17th, 1981 of the male you had met that morning?

A. That is correct.

Q. And was that a correct description?

A. That's correct.

Page 20.

Officer Vernon Jones - Direct

Q. All right, where, as best you recall and utilizing the best recollection of you which is recorded, where is it that you first met Dales when you arrived at 13th and Locust Street?

A. I met him at a gas station.

Q. I'm sorry, on the morning of December the 9th, 1981 I am talking about.

A. At Broad and Locust.

Q. And do you recall where you were and where he was when you first met him that morning?

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record reflect that the witness is reading the statement.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Well, let me ask you this. Is what is reflected in your statement what occurred?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have an independent memory as to what occurred that morning?

A. No, I don't. Only what I look at here (displaying C-20). It happened 14 years ago.

Q. All right. Well, would it be fair to say that in your statement to Detective Brown on the top of page 2, talking about after stopping your vehicle at 13th and Locust Street, you reported to Detective Brown I got out of my vehicle and was hailed or summoned by a Negro male known to me as Dales. This male had called my name, saying Jones, what's happening. I responded telling the male to wait and that I'd be right back. That's when I rushed over to the crime scene. From where I observed what appeared to be blood on the sidewalk and a policeman who stated that a police officer had been shot. At that time the police inspector came up to the scene and began seeking information of what had occurred from other officers at the scene. Not knowing the details of exactly what happened, I walked away from the scene and en route back to my squad car. At this point the male Dales walked up to me and asked me what happened. And I answered stating that a policeman had been shot. Dales stated, quote, I heard some shots but I thought they were firecrackers. Then that's when I started seeing all those police cars, close quote.

Page 21.

Officer Vernon Jones - Direct

Dales also stated that after seeing all the police cars that he just stood there. I asked Dales if he had seen the shooting and he answered no. Dales stated that he was there with someone and I assumed he meant that he was with a woman. Afterwards I left the scene and continued patrolling my area of assignment.

Page 22.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

Did I read that correctly, Officer Jones?

A. That is correct.

Q. And is that what you told Detective Brown on December the 17th, 1981 with regard to your contact with Dales on December the 9th, 1981?

A. That is correct.

Q. And was that correct when you gave that information to Detective Brown?

A. Yes, it was.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Officer Jones.

A. Good morning, sir.

Q. This statement that's been designated C-20, when did you first see that statement recently?

A. When I walked in here.

Q. This morning?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you sign that statement back in 1981?

(Pause.)

Page 23.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

A. No, I did not.

Q. So it's an unsigned statement; is that right?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Was it the practice to your knowledge of Homicide not to have witnesses sign a statement?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the basis of your objection?

MS. FISK: Well, first of all, there is a difference between civilian witnesses and police witnesses.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: And second of all, I don't know that there is a basis for whether or not this officer would know what the practice was in Homicide.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have you signed statements in the past that you give police?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't sign this statement?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you know why?

Page 24.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

A. No, I don't.

Q. And you weren't given a copy of it, either, were you?

A. Speaking about now? Earlier?

Q. No, back in 1981.

A. I don't recall.

Q. And the statement is not in your hand, is it? It's a typed statement?

A. This is a typed statement, that's correct.

Q. You didn't write out a statement?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Isn't it customary, Officer Jones, that when you're involved in a crime scene that you write out something in your own hand either in your own diary or in a report to the police?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to what is customary.

THE COURT: Unless you could rephrase your question somehow, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you are a witness in a crime scene, do you usually make a writing of what you have experienced or observed?

A. Not all the time, sir.

Q. If you're a witness in a crime scene where a police officer has been shot, do you make any kind of entry anywhere as to what you've just done?

A. If I was involved in the crime scene, yes. But I wasn't involved in the crime scene, sir.

Q. You got there within two minutes?

A. Two minutes of the assist officer.

Q. All right. And you saw, did you see the officer laying on the ground?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you see a suspect on the ground?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You didn't see either one?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you talk to potential witnesses?

A. The only witness, potential witness I talked to was Dales.

Q. And did you write anything up in your own hand about your talking to Dales?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Were you keeping any kind of a log or diary at that time of your activities?

A. I kept a log.

Q. Did you consult your log today?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you know where your log is?

Page 26.

A. So many years ago, it... it may be at my headquarters, I don't recall if they still have it after 14 years on that.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would request discovery of the log.

THE COURT: The discovery has been denied in the beginning, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, as I read C-20, you were interviewed by a detective named Brown?

A. That's correct.

Q. Could you describe Detective Brown for us?

A. No, I can not.

Q. You don't have any recollection of what he looks like?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Now, you told us a little something about Mr. Singletary. Do you know that he's five-eleven, medium build, dark skin, and in his thirties; is that right?

A. At that time, yes.

Q. And that his father owns two gas stations?

A. That is correct.

Q. And he works at the gas stations?

A. He did, that is correct.

Page 27.

Q. Do you know in what capacity? Was he manager?

A. He was a tow truck driver. He drove a tow truck with his name on it.

Q. But you don't know if he was the manager or not of the gas station?

A. At that time he was a manager. He was a manager, he was the son --

Q. Right?

A. -- of the owner.

Q. Son of the owner and manager?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And he was driving at that time a 1980 or '81 Cadillac, light blue in color?

A. That is correct.

Q. Is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you see the Cadillac out there that night?

A. No, I did not.

Q. That's of your own memory?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And you indicated you knew Mr. Singletary?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you know him socially or in the course of your work or how did you know him in 1981?

Page 28.

A. In the course of my work.

Q. You were a highway patrolman and he would come frequently to the scene of accidents et cetera with a tow truck?

A. Vaguely, he would. Most of the time I would go up to the gas station at 38th and Girard, which he owned. Umm, that was right across from my assigned area.

Q. And you would go to that gas station to get gas or to have your car serviced, or were these in the nature of social visits?

A. Well, social visit or somebody breaks down I would push him up to that gas station for whatever services that he had at that gas station.

Q. So you got to know Mr. Singletary?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in knowing him at that time, 1981, did you know, did you note anything unusual about him?

A. Nothing unusual.

Q. He seemed to be what he held himself out to be: The manager of a gas station his father owned and a truck driver?

A. That is correct.

Q. Tow truck driver?

A. Right.

Page 29.

Q. He was not known to you as someone who didn't like the police?

A. No.

Q. Just the opposite?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, you have told us you have no independent recollection of this statement or what -- no, let me withdraw that. You have no independent recollection of this statement, but having read it today you adopt it as your statement; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Right. And you have no independent recollection of what happened out on the corner of 13th and Locust while you were there?

A. Repeat that, please.

Q. Yes. Do you have an independent recollection -- putting the statement aside -- of what happened on 13th and Locust when you were there in the early morning hours of December the 9th, 1981?

A. I do not have an independent recollection of what happened.

Q. Right. So things might have happened out there that you now just can't remember?

A. That's correct.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 30.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

That calls for speculation.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I am not asking what, I am just saying the fact is he can't remember. I am not asking him to speculate about anything.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, you've been an active patrolman since 1981, for the last almost 14 years?

A. Since 1980.

Q. Since 1980. And I assume you've seen many crime scenes in the last 14 years?

A. That's correct.

Q. And this one doesn't stand out particularly in your mind because you've been working regularly since that period of time with all these other crime scenes?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, the event occurred on December 9th, as you point out, around 3:51 a.m. And you weren't interviewed until December 17th; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you were interviewed at ten o'clock at night; is that correct?

(Pause.)

It is a notation on the right-hand

Page 31.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

side in a box.

A. That is correct.

Q. And if you can recall, did you receive some kind of a message to come to the Police Administration Building or the Roundhouse for this interview?

(Pause.)

A. That's correct.

Q. In other words, you're telling us you didn't go down there on your own, someone must have contacted you in an official capacity and asked you to come in?

A. Absolutely.

Q. And then you responded to that?

A. That's correct.

Q. This might be impossible for you, but do you remember who it was who contacted you?

A. No, I do not.

Q. And do you remember if you responded immediately to go down on December 17th or had you been contacted earlier and didn't go down until December 17th?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Now, was your shift a, were you on duty when you gave this statement?

Page 32.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

(Pause.)

A. I can't say because I might have been on a detail, I might not. I don't recall that day whether, what tour I was working at that time.

Q. But you can't reconstruct it, can you, by remembering that on December 9th you were working at 4:00 in the morning, and it appears that on December 17th you were giving a statement at l0:00? Does that help you recollect whether or not you were on duty at ten o'clock on December 17th?

A. Well, I was working 7:00 a.m. tour of duty on the 8th. So they might have called me in for this interview at a certain time. I don't know, they might have contacted me. I can't say because it's not documented here on what tour of duty I was working at the time of this statement (displaying).

Q. And I assume you remember, Officer Jones, like all interviews, there was some conversation between you and Detective Brown before Detective Brown started to type this statement; isn't that true?

A. What do you mean?

Q. When you came into the Homicide unit and you met with Detective Brown, I assume he didn't immediately start typing, I assume you and Detective Brown had an exchange of some sort and then at a certain point in time he started typing?

Page 33.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

A. Well, we introduce ourselves. I introduced myself as Officer Jones, he introduced himself as Detective Brown. And I don't recall whether the statement was taken right away, five minutes, 10 minutes, I don't recall that.

Q. And when you went into Homicide that morning, you went in through the front door, if you can remember? I'm sorry, that evening.

A. I can only assume that I went in the front door of, of the PAB.

Q. And did you sign in in a logbook?

A. No.

Q. You did not?

A. No, I did not.

Q. I meant the logbook that's right near the front door?

A. No. Not if I was in uniform.

Q. Right. And did you sign in at any logbook at the Homicide unit?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. Okay. Now, when you were called in that night, Officer Jones, and you met with Detective Brown, did he tell you that he wanted to question you about this witness named Singletary who came in and gave a statement on the night of the occurrence?

Page 34.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

A. No.

Q. He didn't say that to you?

A. No.

Q. You have a clear recollection of that?

A. By what I'm reading here, the statement that I gave (displaying) is the first thing he asked me is what happened when I arrived at the scene.

Q. But did you, did you inquire as to how they knew you were at the scene?

A. Evidently I told them I was at the scene.

Q. But before you were called -- strike that. When you came in to see Detective Brown, did you say anything to him like why are you calling me in for a statement on this episode a week ago?

A. No.

Q. You didn't ask him?

A. No, I did not.

Q. But in reading your statement C-20, you see that most of your statement is taken up with a gentleman you describe as Dales?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that's Mr. Singletary?

A. That is correct.

Q. So you came in after a week had passed since

Page 35.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

the officer had been shot and you were questioned about a witness Dale Singletary who told you he didn't see the shooting?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. Whatever is in the statement is in the statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the statement is subject to an attack on it's credibility, as is the witness' testimony. We can't just accept it at face value.

THE COURT: Well, he says that's all he remembers about it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I'm trying to refresh the witness' memory and to also go into questions of impeachment of the statement.

THE COURT: Impeachment of the statement?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. The witness has said that he has no recollection, he is relying on what's in the statement which he didn't sign and he didn't type and he doesn't remember. And I'm trying to get to the fact that this statement might not be an accurate statement.

THE COURT: Well, he says it's an

Page 36.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross accurate statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: But I am entitled to challenge that.

THE COURT: I don't know how you are going to challenge it when he says --

MR. WEINGLASS: By asking questions.

THE COURT: Counselor, do you have any objection to where he is going?

MS. FISK: Well, Counsel clearly is permitted to question. I objected to the last question because it misrepresented the testimony of this witness. This witness has not said that he was called in and questioned about the witness. He said he was called in and asked to answer the question which is in your own words describe what occurred, and that he then answered that question. That was the basis for my objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: On that basis it makes sense. Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, there is no question in your mind now, Officer Jones, that you arrived within two minutes of receiving a call about an officer needing assistance and when you arrived you saw at the scene Mr.

Page 37.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

Singletary.

A. That's correct.

Q. And there is no question in your mind he was there?

A. There is no question, there is no doubt in any mind that he was.

Q. Of your own knowledge you don't know when he arrived at that scene; isn't that true?

A. That's correct.

Q. And are you the one, Officer Jones, who told Mr. Singletary that he should go down to the Roundhouse at 8th and Race and give a statement to the police? Do you recall doing that?

A. I read it in my statement, I said it.

Q. Well, I don't think it's in your statement. Do you have a recollection?, Well, take your time and read the statement, I'm sorry.

(Pause.)

I don't believe it is in your statement, Officer Jones. But Counsel could redirect you to it. If you don't see it immediately we could move on.

MS. FISK: I would agree that there is no reference to it in the statement, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, then we could

Page 38.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

move on.

THE WITNESS: I don't see it in my statement.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, but then apart from the statement, do you have a recollection of whether or not you told Mr. Singletary he should go down to the Roundhouse?

A. No.

Q. You don't have a recollection?

A. No.

Q. Could be either way?

A. Yes.

Q. Now let's turn to page 2, which Counsel read at some length, of your statement which is C-20.

After you indicated what according to this statement you claim Mr. Singletary told you -- and in this statement you indicated that he didn't see the shooting -- Detective Brown then asked you a series of follow-up questions about Dale Singletary, did he not?

A. Yes.

Q. He asked you do you know Dale's full name, age and address. Or where he's employed. That was a follow-up question, right?

A. That's correct.

Page 39.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

Q. This is after you told Detective Brown that you remember seeing Singletary there, and you allegedly told him that Singletary didn't see the shooting?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The statement refers to Dales, not Singletary. So the record is clear.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, it does.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you understand my question?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. So after you tell him well, I saw this fellow and he told me he didn't see the shooting, that's what the statement says, then they began to question you about this so-called non-witness Dales; isn't that right?

A. You got to repeat that one.

Q. Yeah. After you told him, according to this statement, that Dales told you that he didn't see the shooting, then they began to ask you more questions about this fellow Dales; isn't that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And they asked you -- I'm reading on page 2 -- Officer Jones, do you know Dales' full name, age and address, or where he is employed.

Page 40.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

And you said no, I only know the male as Dales. I do know that he is a junior and that his father owns a Sunoco service station at Broad and Thompson Street. Dales is in his early thirties, five-eleven, medium build, around 180, I think, he's dark skin, clean shaven with a moustache. He wore dark clothing which possibly could have been his service station uniform. He drives a late model 1980 or 1981 light blue Cadillac. I met him roughly around seven months ago when I first, when I was first assigned to the Expressway. Dales was a tow truck driver.

Right?

A. That is correct.

Q. So this non-witness, supposedly, they're asking you more about him, they're asking you his age, his height, his weight, his occupation, how you know him, what was he wearing, what is his car, they are asking you all these questions about him?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Those are not the questions. The question stands for itself, as does the answer. That misrepresents the nature of the question which was asked.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question

Page 41.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

somehow.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Yeah, you gave them all that information; is that correct?

A. What I knew of Dales, yes.

Q. Right. And that was in response to their question?

A. That is correct.

Q. Right. And in your experience, Officer Jones, detectives who are investigating a homicide of a police officer want to know important details; isn't that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You didn't have the impression that they were wasting your time that night, did you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Then they go on and ask you more questions about Dales. Officer Jones -- I'm now reading from page 3 -- at the time of your conversation with Dales, was he with anyone or did you happen to see if he had been engaged in a conversation with anyone as you arrived or as you left the area.

Page 42.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

And you said no, at the time I arrived at the scene Dales came up to me. I didn't see him talking to anyone. I do recall him saying that he was with someone.

Do you remember that, that question and that answer?

A. Yes.

Q. So they went on with still more questions about this fellow Dales. They wanted to know if he was with anyone; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. This man who supposedly didn't see anything; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Does it strike you as peculiar that all these questions are asked about someone who you supposedly reported didn't see anything?

A. No, it didn't.

Q. It didn't strike you as peculiar?

A. No.

Q. You saw Dales or Mr. Singletary after December 17th, 1981; isn't that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And did you ever have a conversation with him

Page 43.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

about that night?

A. I don't recall having a conversation about this (displaying), no.

Q. You saw Mr. Singletary after an officer is shot and you're there within two minutes and he's there, and you're brought down and questioned at Homicide about a week later, and you're telling us you never talked to him again about that?

A. I'm not saying that I never talked to him about it, I'm saying I don't recall talking to him about it, this case.

Q. Incidentally, that night that you were at Homicide, did the Detective Brown indicate to you that he had talked to Dale Singletary in the morning of the occurrence?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. He might have?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: He said he didn't recall.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did he indicate to you that in the early morning hours of December 9th a statement was taken from Dale Singletary?

A. No, he did not indicate it to me.

Page 44.

Officer Vernon Jones - Cross

Q. Did they show you the statement?

A. At which time are you talking about?

Q. When you were there on December 17th at 10:00 p.m.

A. No, I don't recall that, no.

Q. They didn't show you anything?

A. I don't recall whether they showed me that or not.

Q. They might have?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did they indicate to you that Mr. Singletary was a problem for them?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. It might have happened?

A. Not that I can recall.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain these might have beens.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, to your observation, Officer Jones, the detectives typed up everything you told them about Dales; is that correct?

Page 45.

Officer Vernon Jones - Redirect

A. To my knowledge, yes (displaying).

Q. And no one said to you Detective Brown -- by the way, was he the only one you were talking to, if you can remember?

A. Yes. That I can recall, yes.

Q. He was the only one?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he ever say to you words to the effect of Officer Jones, this fellow who you are telling us about, Dales, is kind of irrelevant because you're telling us he said he saw nothing?

A. No.

Q. They typed everything up that you told them about Dales, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And as you read your interview now, your memory 's refreshed about the only person you're talking about in your interview is this fellow Dales?

A. That's correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine, thank you. I have nothing else.

MS. FISK: Just a couple questions.

Officer Vernon Jones - Recross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Am I correct, Officer Jones, that on page 3 of your statement you were asked whether upon your arrival at the scene you observed the injured police officer and you answered that question?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were also asked whether at the scene, whether you performed any police duties, and you answered that question?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were asked whether while you were at the scene you obtained any information as to who shot the officer, and you answered that question; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

examination.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. She just asked him about the statement. Questions that were asked of the statement.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, in the statement, where does it indicate that you were questioned about any other people you saw there?

(Pause.)

A. In the statement it asked me about... the perpetrator. And who did I observe being there.

Q. But... but they didn't ask you in the statement, am I correct, if you saw any other witnesses there?

(Pause.)

A. If it's not on my statement here (displaying), they did not ask me that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine. Thank you.

MS. FISK: Nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Officer.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Commonwealth next calls Detective Quinn.

Philadelphia Police Detective Edward Quinn, Badge number 896, Major Crimes Division, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Detective Quinn.

A. Good morning.

Q. Detective Quinn, how long have you been a member of the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. 24 years and eight months.

Q. And what is your current rank?

A. Detective.

Q. What is your current assignment?

A. The Major Crimes Division.

Q. Detective Quinn, back on December the 9th, 1981, what was your rank and your assignment?

A. I was a detective assigned to the North Central Detective Division.

Page 49.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

Q. Did there come a time in the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981, that you as a member of the North Central Detective Division were detailed to some other place?

A. Yes.

Q. And where was that that you were detailed?

A. To the Homicide Division.

Q. And was that for any long term or for one day or what?

A. One night.

Q. And how did that come about?

A. I was, my lieutenant at North Central at the time, around 4:00 a.m., told me that there had been a police shooting, that I should go down to the Homicide unit.

Q. Were you the only detective from North Central who went down to the Homicide Division?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when you arrived at the Homicide Division, were you given an assignment or what did you do?

A. Not immediately. I, it was pretty chaotic. I found a desk and I sat down and just waited for something to do or be assigned something to do.

Q. And did there come a time where you were assigned something to do?

Page 50.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that, sir?

A. I don't recall who it was but I was asked to do an interview.

Q. Do you recall now the person who you interviewed?

A. I recall now the name of the person.

Q. Was that because you were shown a statement earlier this morning?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Can the detective please be shown what has been marked Defense Exhibit -- what is the number, please?

THE COURT OFFICER: 29, Counsel (handing).

MS. FISK: Defense Exhibit 29.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Quinn, you have been shown Defense Exhibit 29. Do you recognize that?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that a statement recorded by you of a witness named William Singletary?

A. Ahh, yes, it is.

Q. And was that taken by you of Mr. Singletary?

Page 51.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

A. Ahh, yes, it was.

Q. Now, you just told us you remembered sitting down. Can you tell us where that statement was taken?

A. Umm, in the rear of the Homicide unit. At the time it was the Fugitive Squad used to use that area.

Q. Was that a closed area or an open area, physically?

A. No, it was a completely open. Actually, cluttered with desks on one side of the wall. Desks, a few desks on the right-hand side (indicating).

Q. All right, now, could you tell us based upon your review of that statement what you remember about the manner in which your interview with Mr. Singletary was done and the statement of Mr.

Singletary was recorded?

A. Umm, from my best recollection, I was asked to do the interview and I spoke to the gentleman briefly to find out what he was going to tell me or what he had to say.

And then I took out the form (displaying), placed it in the typewriter, did the heading. And then I started asking questions and recorded it directly onto the typewriter.

Q. Did you record in a verbatim fashion the

Page 52.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

questions you asked Mr. Singletary and the answers he gave you?

A. Ahh, yes, to the best that I could.

Q. Prior to taking this interview with Mr. Singletary did you ask him to hand write his account of what he had observed?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever in your 24 years and eight months on the police force ever asked any witness whom you were interviewing to hand write an account of what they had observed?

A. No.

Q. Did you at any time tell Mr. Singletary he had to say certain things on this statement?

A. No.

Q. And let me ask you this: Were you the only detective who questioned Mr. Singletary?

A. I believe so.

Q. And so the record is clear: Is it accurate that as you sit here now and as you sat there in 1981, you are a Caucasian, you are a white man?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, could you read for us, please, the statement which you recorded which reflects your interview of Mr. Singletary, starting with the first question on the first page and the answers which Mr. Singletary gave you?

Page 53.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

A. Okay. Question: Can you tell me what you saw this morning at 13th and Locust.

Answer: I was coming from my parents' bar at 15th and Catherine Street. I was driving north on 13th Street. When I got to Locust Street the light had just turned red for 13th. I stopped my car. I was sitting at the light for about 15, 20 seconds when I heard what I thought to be firecrackers. I heard about three or four pops. When I heard the pops I knew it wasn't firecrackers.

Q. I'm sorry, you missed a word. Is it when I heard the second pop?

A. When I heard the second pop I knew it wasn't firecrackers because they were going too fast. After the pops stopped I leaned forward in the car and looked east on Locust. I saw a police car parked at the curb. I think the number on the car was 610. At this time I backed the car up into a parking space on the corner of 13th and Locust. I got out of the car and went to the southwest corner of 13th and Locust. I looked east on Locust and saw two figures about 25, 30 feet away from me. One was standing facing the wall, the other was standing with his back to the wall. The one with his back to the wall was bent over at the waist. One hand was down by his waist, the other was -- and I really can't make out that word. This copy is not that --

Page 54.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

MS. FISK: May I approach the witness, Your Honor, with the original? Perhaps if he read that that would be easier.

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Quinn, I have an original. First, so the record is clear: Utilizing the original make sure that the copy you have accurately copies the original. And then if it's easier to read the original for the completion of your testimony, go ahead.

A. I will back up to the other. The other was standing with his back to the wall. The one with his back to the wall was bent over at the waist. One hand was down by his waist and the other was up by his head. I started to walk towards the two figures. As I was walking, somebody yelled to me from my left. The male who yelled told me that a policeman was shot. I said where. I then looked around and saw -- page 2 -- a policeman sitting on the ground with his back against the wall. He had his right-hand up to his face. He had blood on his hand. The other person was sitting on the curb facing a dark blue VW. His left leg was stretched out in front of him, he was holding his leg. At this time a bunch of people showed up. The policemen who arrived picked up the policeman from the ground and put him into a police car and went up 13th Street.

Page 55.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

Question: What did you do after the policemen left in the police car.

Answer: While I was standing there I saw X-l2 a police car. It was Officer Vernon Jones from the Highway unit. I knew Officer Jones. I told him what I saw. He told me to come down and tell what I saw. I then went to my gas station and gave the keys to one of the guys who worked there.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I think that was downtown. He told me to come downtown. Downtown. If you could just read that sentence again.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Could you start with he told me to come downtown, about two lines above where you are. You just said down and --

A. I came downtown to 8th and Race.

Question: Besides the policeman, can

Page 56.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

you describe the other person who was lying on the ground on Locust Street.

Answer: He was black with long hair. The hair style is called dray locks. He was wearing green pants. That's the only thing I could remember.

Question: Did you see any weapons.

Answer: No. I didn't see any.

Question: Did you see anyone else on the street besides the policeman and the other guy with the dray locks.

Answer: It was just the two of them.

Question: Did you see anyone in the VW.

Answer: No, sir.

Q. Is that the entirety of the statement you took from Mr. Singletary?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. After you completed typing that statement, Detective Quinn, did you give those two typewritten pages to Mr. Singletary for his review?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did he read that statement?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he have any changes or corrections to make to that statement?

Page 57.

Detective Edward Quinn - Direct

A. Not that I believe. I don't see any corrections.

Q. And is it your custom and practice to give the person from whom you have taken a statement the opportunity to make any changes?

A. Yes.

Q. And there are no changes reflected?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask Mr. Singletary to sign both of those pages to indicate that it recorded what it was that he had told you?

A. Yes.

Q. And in your presence did he do so?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Do you know what or where Mr. Singletary went after you completed taking that statement from him?

A. Ahh, no, I don't.

Q. What else did you do at Homicide that night, if you recall?

A. Umm, I believe this is the only interview I did. Just, I was answering phones. Just general things until I wasn't needed anymore.

Q. And was that the only morning that you worked at Homicide regarding this case?

A. Yes, it is.

MS. FISK: Thank you very much, Lieutenant.

THE WITNESS: You're welcome.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I recover the original back?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: (Handing).

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Officer Quinn.

A. Detective.

Q. Detective, I'm sorry.

A. Thank you.

Q. Could you state for the record what your height is?

A. Ahh, six-foot-four.

Q. Six-four. And back in December, '81, I assume you were a little lighter of weight?

A. Quite a bit.

Q. How much did you weigh at that time?

A. Approximately 195 pounds.

Q. Six-foot-four, 195 pounds?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And could you just state for the record your family ancestry, of what national origin?

A. Irish.

Q. I see you're wearing a green tie today? Maybe it's my eyesight that's bad.

A. Ahh...

Q. Do you recall if you, back in 1981, if you would wear any kind of a pin or a button that indicated your ancestry?

A. No, sir.

Q. Specifically, do you remember if you wore a button that said Kiss Me I'm Irish?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, is it your testimony that Mr. Singletary was definitely in the Roundhouse on Race Street in the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. No question about that?

A. The person I interviewed was there.

Q. And his name to your present knowledge is?

A. William Singletary.

Q. Right. And is it your testimony that while Mr. Singletary was there he underwent an interview by you?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was in the Homicide unit?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And is it your testimony that he as a result of that interview was given a typewritten statement that you typed?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that he signed it?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. So there is no question about all that?

A. No question in my mind.

Q. Do you have an independent recollection of that morning or are you testifying on the basis of having recently read the statement that's before you and marked D-29?

A. All right, are you referring just to the statement or my recollection of that whole morning generally?

Q. First just to the statement.

A. Umm, I knew I took a statement from a witness. I didn't have an independent recollection until I was, you know, I read the statement over.

Q. Right. Before you were shown the statement you probably couldn't remember the name of who you interviewed that morning; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And before you were shown the statement you probably couldn't recall a description of that person; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And when were you shown the statement?

A. This morning.

Q. This morning?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you also shown the statement that was allegedly taken from a patrolman, Highway patrolman named Vernon Jones?

A. No, I was not.

Q. You were not?

A. No.

Q. Did you have occasion to meet with Officer Jones this morning?

A. No.

Q. Now, as I recall your testimony, you were not ordinarily assigned to the Homicide unit in Race Street; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. You were ordinarily out in North Central; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you were called into the Homicide unit that morning; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that was because an officer had been shot?

A. That's correct.

Q. And your superiors told you to go down to Race Street?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do you remember what time you went down there?

A. No, I don't recall the exact time.

Q. What was your ordinary tour of duty, if you can remember, on December 9th?

A. Midnight to 8:00 a.m.

Q. Midnight to 8:00. And so your tour of duty was over at 8:00. Do you remember if your tour was extended because of this case, or whether you went down there within the framework of your tour of duty?

A. I went down within the framework.

Q. You went down there before 8:00?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you stay until after 8:00, if you can remember?

A. I don't recall if I did or not.

Q. You might have stayed until --

A. I might have.

Q. Right. Incidentally, your hours that you worked that tour, as well as anything beyond your regular tour, would be recorded somewhere, would it not?

A. Yes, it would.

Q. Yeah.

MR. WEINGLASS: May we have discovery with respect to that?

THE COURT: No.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when you got down there at Homicide -- I wrote down your testimony on direct -- you said it was, quote, pretty chaotic. That is something that you remember?

A. Yes.

Q. And could you explain what you mean a little more in more detail than just that general description?

A. There was one picture that really just stuck out in my mind. It was an officer I knew that had blood all over his shirt. There was a lot of police down there. It was, it was not a happy place to be.

Q. The police had already received word that Officer Faulkner had died?

A. I believe so. I don't know.

Q. But when you say not a happy place I'm just trying to, what do you mean by that?

A. Well, there was just a lot of police officers down there. Like I said, my recollection is seeing a couple that I knew who had blood on them, that sticks out in my mind.

Q. And did you know a detective by the name of Brown at that time? If you can recall.

A. I may have, I don't know.

Q. So you got down there and it is pretty chaotic. Part of being pretty chaotic is there are a lot of people in Homicide when you got down there?

A. I believe there was.

Q. And Homicide is not a big area, is it, it just has four little cubicles; do you recall that?

A. There was no cubicles in Homicide.

Q. There were no cubicles?

A. No.

Q. Interrogation rooms?

A. No.

Q. Nothing like that?

A. Well, they have interrogation rooms but they're rooms, they're not cubicles.

Q. Right. They are rooms with doors on them?

A. Yes.

Q. Right. And they have a small desk and a couple chairs?

A. I don't think I've ever been in one of their interview rooms.

Q. Right, so you didn't go into the interview rooms that night?

A. No.

Q. Instead you went to another area within Homicide?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And that area you said was cluttered with desks. Is that right?

A. Well, when I say cluttered: There is, along the one wall there is several desks on the left-hand side. The way I was facing. And there's two or three on the right-hand side.

Q. You have a pretty graphic memory of what it was like when you got in there. Would you say it was crowded in the Homicide area that night, or that morning?

A. Are you asking me a question?

Q. Yes.

A. Umm, when I say crowded, there was a lot of people. Which it's not unusual in Homicide, you know, during homicides. We have a lot of policemen there, a lot of witnesses.

Page 66.

Q. You saw there were other witnesses there, did you not? Civilian looking people?

A. I don't recall if I saw witnesses or not.

Q. Well, I thought you just said you saw witnesses?

A. Well, I'm just generally speaking that there are witnesses during a homicide. I told you specifically what I recalled were the policemen.

Q. Right. But you are saying now that you don't remember seeing witnesses there?

A. I'm not saying that.

Q. You did see witnesses?

A. Generally speaking, I'm assuming there was witnesses there.

Q. And you go to this area which you said was the rear of the Homicide unit, which was cluttered with desks. And you just remained in that area?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, and at a certain point Mr. Singletary came to you, you didn't go to him; isn't that right?

A. I don't recall the circumstances how we got together and did the interview.

Q. Well, wasn't it true that someone brought him to you?

A. May have, I don't know. I may have been told to go get him, I don't know. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall if it was an African-American detective who brought him to you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: He testified he doesn't remember whether someone brought him to him or whether he was told to go get him.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am trying to help his recollection by asking him if he could recall. Perhaps the race of the individual would help him.

THE COURT: Do you know?

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And you don't know whether it was one or two people who brought him to you?

A. I don't know if he was brought to me or I went and got him, I don't recall that.

Q. And did someone indicate to you that you were supposed to take a statement from him?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who told you that?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know how long Mr. Singletary had been

Page 68.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

there?

A. No, I don't.

Q. He might have been there three, four hours before you got to him; isn't that right?

A. No, I don't believe -- no.

Q. What do you base that on?

A. I'm basing that, assuming that I got there around 4:30, five o'clock, I probably was only there about 15, 20 minutes before I did the interview.

Q. Is that a recollection that you have or an assumption?

A. I'm basing it on me reporting off at eight o'clock.

Q. But you told us you don't know if you reported off at eight o'clock. You really don't know that, do you?

A. Well, no, I'm not. But I am just trying to get a time frame of when I could have done the interview. I don't believe he would have sat there three or four hours without being interviewed.

Q. But you don't know that?

A. I don't know that for a fact.

Q. All right. And you can't tell us because you don't remember what he looked like in terms of whether he was upset or not upset?

Page 69.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

A. No, I don't recall his demeanor at all.

Q. Now let's go to the statement. Do you have a copy of it there?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. D-29. He told you, did he not -- and it's referred to on the top of page 2 -- that when he saw the fallen officer he described him as sitting on the ground with his back against the wall? Is that what you typed up?

A. Yes.

Q. And I assume that's something you're telling us you typed accurately, he did tell you that, to the best of your present recall?

A. To the best of my recollection, yes.

Q. And he told you, did he not, it is also on page 2, that the other individual was sitting on the curb was wearing dread locks, and had on green pants, and he was black? That's also on page 2, closer to the bottom. Is that right?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. Right. Now let's go back to page 1. About two-thirds of the way down. Did he tell you I looked east on Locust -- are you following where I am? About six lines, seven lines up from the bottom.

A. Okay.

Page 70.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

Q. I looked east on Locust and saw two figures about 25, 30 feet away from me. One was standing facing the wall, the other was standing with his back to the wall. The one with his back to the wall was bent over at the waist. One hand was down by his waist, the other was by his head. I started to walk towards the two figures.

Okay, let's just stop there. Is that in your statement?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. So he in effect -- and correct me if I am wrong -- he told you he saw the officer sitting with his back against the wall, he saw a gentleman who was black with dread locks on the curb in green pants, and he told you he also saw two other people there; isn't that right? One was up against the wall with his back to it, the other one was bent over at the waist, one had his hand down by his waist, and the other was up by his head. Right?

A. That's what it says, yes.

Q. So he saw four people out there that night; is that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: The statement speaks for itself.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain the

Page 71.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

objection. The statement does speak for itself.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, let me ask you this. An officer is shot and is laying on the sidewalk. According to this document, which is D-29, Mr. Singletary tells you at just about this time he saw two people standing, one facing the wall, one with his back to the wall. Did you ask him for a description of those two people?

A. No.

Q. Is that conceivable, that with an officer laying bleeding on the sidewalk and a witness tells you he saw two people standing there within feet of the officer, you don't ask for a description of those two people?

A. I don't understand your question.

Q. At the time you took this statement --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you had been a detective for 10 years?

A. No.

Q. Pardon?

A. No, I was not.

Q. How long had you been a detective? You have told us 24 years, I subtract 14, that leaves me with 10, but correct me?

A. Well, this incident took place in 1981.

Page 72.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

Q. Right. 14 years ago, approximately.

A. Yes.

Q. 13.

A. Yes.

Q. And you have been a detective for 24?

A. No, I have been on the Police Department for 24.

Q. I see. At this time how long had you been a detective, if you can remember?

A. Ahh, eight months.

Q. Eight months. And you were assigned the responsibility of talking to a witness in the shooting of a policeman?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. That's what he said. He was assigned. He doesn't make the assignments. He goes wherever they tell him to go.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, as you read your statement -- I'm just going by your statement -- did you ask, according to your statement, Mr. Singletary to describe the two other people he saw standing by the wall, one facing the wall, the other facing outward?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object for two reasons. One, this is not the detective's statement, this is Mr. Singletary's statement as recorded by the detective. And second, if Counsel is going by the statement, the statement speaks for itself.

Page 73.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

What is asked is recorded, what is not asked is not recorded. I have no objection to him asking if there were other questions which were asked which are not recorded, but if you are going by the statement, the statement speaks for itself.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course it speaks for itself but I am entitled to question on this statement and whether or not this statement is a complete statement of what he had in his interview with Mr. Singletary.

THE COURT: If you want to ask him whether or not there is anything else that he didn't put down there, that is one thing. But don't dictate as to what the meaning of that statement is. The statement was given by Singletary. Whether he knows how to give a statement or don't give a statement, whether the statement is wrong, it's not for this officer, or this detective to make that decision. That's for the Court to make the decision.

Page 74.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just before we move off this: When you read D-29, in reading it and refreshing your recollection, did you ask Mr. Singletary to describe the two gentlemen who were standing there with the fallen officer on the sidewalk?

A. I believe he was talking about the same two people. When he refers to two figures, I'm assuming that he means the police officer and the male with the dray locks. That's what I'm assuming.

Q. You are assuming that now?

A. Well, that's what I get out of it reading the statement.

Q. Pardon?

A. That's what I get from reading the statement.

Q. So what you're saying now, in your assumption, then, Mr. Singletary saw Officer Faulkner standing, who he describes as just a man, not a police officer?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The statement speaks for itself.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. It is not for this witness to interpret the statement of somebody.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. By the way, am I right, you said one of the figures was bent over at the waist? Is that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The detective read the statement which he recorded. And that has been read.

THE COURT: He didn't say he said that, he said this is what the witness told him. So if you are going to be correct, ask him if the witness said that and did he record it properly. This is not his statement, Counselor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. If D-29 reflects your typing, that has one of the figures that he saw bent over at the waist, to your recollection did you type that accurately?

A. Yes.

Q. Incidentally, on the statement which is D-29, did you record the time of the interview?

A. It's not, it's not on there.

Q. It's not on there?

A. No, it's not.

Q. Detective Quinn, isn't that ordinarily done?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any explanation as to why you didn't do that?

A. No.

Q. To your knowledge, was there a logbook at

Page 76.

Homicide that morning that recorded when people entered or left, if you know?

A. I don't know.

Q. To your knowledge is there, to your knowledge, is there any written record anywhere that would reflect when Mr. Singletary entered that building and when he left?

A. I don't know.

Q. And to your knowledge, do you know how he entered the building?

A. No.

Q. Through what entrance?

A. I don't know.

Q. And you don't know whether he came unescorted or escorted either?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you see his car -- strike that. Do you know what car he was driving that night?

A. No.

Q. Your testimony is you only saw him when he was in your immediate vicinity?

A. That's correct.

Q. In your, within your vision, did you see whether or not Mr. Singletary was talked to by any other detective who was there?

Page 77.

A. I don't recall if he was or not.

Q. Now, it's true, is it not, that you were given a briefing when you got down there with respect to the general parameters of the state of the investigation?

A. I don't recall if I was or not. I'm sure I was, what the extent of it was I don't recall.

Q. Right, I am not asking you the extent of it, but you do recall being given a briefing?

A. I don't recall, I'm just assuming that I was.

Q. Well, general parameters, you knew an officer had been shot and had died?

A. Yes.

Q. You knew that it had happened out on the street: Locust and 13th?

A. I believe I knew that, yes.

Q. You knew that a gentleman had been taken into custody who was also shot at the scene?

A. I don't recall specifically if I knew that or not.

Q. You were told, were you not, that there were witnesses to the shooting who were being interviewed?

A. I don't recall being told that.

Q. You weren't told that?

A. I don't recall being told that.

Page 78.

Q. In other words, I think the thing I'm trying to ask you is: The way it worked, to the best of your recollection today, was that either Mr. Singletary was brought to you or you went to the gentleman, and without having details about what happened you started to interview him?

A. Are you asking me if that's correct?

Q. Yeah.

A. I -- that's not correct.

Q. Well, correct me, then?

A. Your --

Q. What is your recall of how that happened?

A. Well, your question asked me if I just blindly asked, interviewed him and went and picked him out. That's not correct. Somebody either brought him to me or told me to interview him regarding this.

Q. Yes. And I'm just asking you what was the state of your knowledge at the time you did that interview, did you know, did you have any information as to what other witnesses were saying?

A. I have no recollection of that.

Q. See, I'm trying to ask you: When you sat down and you say you had a conversation with Mr. Singletary, did you have any idea as to what the detectives had already discovered about what had happened out on that street?

Page 79.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

A. I'm assuming I had a general knowledge of what had occurred, or what had happened, that a policeman was shot.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. We are talking about a homicide of a police officer. You will agree with me, would you not, that when you're talking to someone who might be a witness it would be important to know basic facts in order to get at what this person had seen or heard; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you have those basic facts that night?

A. I mean I assume I did, yes.

Q. So your telling us that it's your assumption that you had a kind of a police theory of what happened that night when you started to interview Singletary?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. You are assuming something, Counselor, he hasn't said it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 80.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

Q. Did you have the police theory as to what happened when you started to interview Singletary?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the basis of your objection?

MS. FISK: There is a difference between basic facts and police theory. I would object to the use of the word.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay? I will withdraw it and ask the other.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you have basic facts when you sat down to interview Singletary?

A. I believe I did.

Q. And the basic facts were as we have indicated: An officer was shot, 13th and Locust, the officer had died. What else are basic facts, you tell me?

A. I don't recall what basic facts were told to me at that time.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And those facts were facts that were given to you by other officers?

Page 81.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Detective Thomas?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see him there that night?

A. I don't recall if I seen him there that night.

Q. Did you know him to be supervising the gathering and the collection of information?

A. Umm, I have since learned that he was the assigned investigator.

Q. Right. Do you know if he was the one who gave you the briefing?

A. I don't recall.

Q. But you do remember that there was a briefing?

A. I don't independently remember. I am assuming I -- I mean I wouldn't do an interview if I didn't have the basic knowledge of what happened.

Q. All right. Now, it's true, is it not -- well, strike that. You didn't know Mr. Singletary from before at all?

A. No, I did not.

Q. He was a complete stranger to you when you started talking to him?

A. I believe he was. I don't recall ever meeting him before.

Q. And it's important, is it not, that in

Page 82.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

questioning a witness, you as a detective try to do some kind of evaluation of whether or not you're being given the truth?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. In view of what limited experience he had at that time. And what his assignment was.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, that night you were assigned to question a witness, were you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And you performed that questioning and you typed up a statement, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you in the course of that work do an evaluation of the witness you were talking to?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Whether or not he did is not relevant.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. We haven't found out what he did with the statement. I don't know whether he gave it to somebody else who was in more authority than he was at the time to evaluate it.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are getting to that.

Page 83.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

THE COURT: Well, then let's get to it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you, Detective Quinn, write a report of what you did that night?

A. No.

Q. Do you maintain a diary or a logbook of your activities?

A. No.

Q. So there is no record written of what you did that night?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is that?

A. Right here (displaying).

Q. Indicating D-29?

A. Yes.

Q. But you didn't report to your supervisors or superiors that you had conducted an interview at Homicide that night in connection with Officer Faulkner's case?

A. To the Homicide supervisors or to my supervisor?

Q. To your supervisor?

A. I may have verbally told them. I probably did verbally tell him.

Page 84.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

Q. And who would that be?

A. You want their names?

Q. If you could recall one.

A. Ahh, Sergeant Penny Brace.

Q. But you're telling us that you at that time were not maintaining a logbook or a personal diary indicating what you had done?

A. No.

Q. After this interview what did you do with D-29?

A. Umm, I don't specifically recall who I gave it to.

Q. You gave it to someone in Homicide?

A. Yes.

Q. You don't remember who?

A. I don't remember who.

Q. Did you give it with a recommendation of any sort: There should be follow-up, there should be evaluation, this fellow was there pretty close, you know, to the time of the occurrence, anything like that? Or you just handed it in?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know if you talked to Detective Thomas afterward about this interview?

A. I don't recall if I did or not.

Page 85.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

Q. As a matter of fact, is it your testimony that from the time you took this interview, and you don't know what time it is, to the time that you were asked to come to Court, you never talked to anyone about Mr. Singletary?

A. I don't understand your question.

Q. From the time that you finished taking the interview --

A. Yes.

Q. -- and handed it in --

A. Yes.

Q. -- until you were asked to come to Court today --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you hadn't talked to anyone about Singletary?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. You haven't talked to Joe McGill, the District Attorney prosecuting the case; is that right?

A. No, never spoke to him.

Q. Now, by the way, when were you contacted to come to Court?

A. Ahh, it was around 6:00 p.m. Friday evening when I was getting ready to leave for vacation.

Q. You were about to go on vacation?

Page 86.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were asked to make yourself available for today?

A. Yes.

Q. And you got that through a telephone call?

A. Yes.

Q. About 6:00 p.m. on Friday?

A. It was about 6:00 p.m.

Q. To be here on Monday?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's something that you're obliged to do as a detective in the City, irrespective of your vacation plans?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, in your work as a detective, You understand, do you not, that tearing up a handwritten statement of a witness is a violation of law?

A. Am I aware of that?

Q. Yes.

A. I guess it is.

Q. And that a police officer who engages in that kind of activity would be subjected to at least

Page 87.

Detective Edward Quinn - Cross internal discipline?

A. Most certainly.

Q. And that if a police officer -- or a detective -- I'm sorry -- were to admit to that, that that person would be in effect putting his or her entire career in jeopardy?

A. From the witness stand?

Q. Yes.

A. Absolutely.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I'm sorry, just one last question. The North Central Detective Division is in what numbered district?

A. Umm, it's located at 17th and Montgomery, that would be the 22nd and the 23rd District.

Q. Right, and, umm, I said that would be the last, this will be the last. Are you a member of the Fraternal Order of the Police?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. I can assume he is, Counselor.

Page 88.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I could assume that he is. He is a police officer.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just wanted it on the record but I will take the Court's --

THE COURT: Well, I don't think you have to bother putting it on the record. We have enough on the record. Anything further?

MS. FISK: No, sir.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Commonwealth has no further witnesses to present. In light of Counsel's representations this morning. However, we would ask an opportunity for a recess to research whether or not Counsel is entitled to the subpoena that was requested this morning.

THE COURT: All right, how long of a recess do you want? It's a quarter to 12:00 now.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we make it, what would ordinarily be the time we would return from a luncheon recess?

THE COURT: Well, what do you want?

Page 89.

MS. FISK: Make it 1:30.

THE COURT: 1:30 you want.

Is 1:30 okay?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay, 1:30.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court stands recessed until 1:30.

- - - - -

(Luncheon recess was held until 1:50 p.m.)

- - - - -

MS. FISK: Your Honor, upon our return from luncheon recess I advised Mr. Weinglass of my intention to advise the Court -- which I am now so doing -- we have no objection to the Court permitting defense to issue a subpoena for this new alleged witness that Counsel intends to produce.

THE COURT: Well, there is nothing for me to decide.

MS. FISK: I was advised by Counsel that upon permission by the Court to issue that subpoena, that Counsel would be able to produce the witness tomorrow morning. I asked whether the witness could be produced this afternoon; I was advised that he could not. I also inquired as to the address or location where the witness could be located and I was assured that at the end of today's proceedings Counsel would provide me with that information.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, now that that issue has been resolved, the only other issue is the matter of the Exhibits. Many Exhibits have been admitted as evidence. Other Exhibits have been marked for identification only. We request that to assist in whatever appellate review is necessary in this case, that all of the Exhibits be marked in evidence. That is the Exhibits that are now presently marked for identification only be converted to Exhibits admitted in evidence.

THE COURT: Which ones are you specifically talking about? Are you talking about the newspaper articles?

MR. WILLIAMS: If those have only been marked for identification, yes.

THE COURT: Well, that's all.

MR. WILLIAMS: I could work it out with the Clerk because I don't want to misspeak.

THE COURT: You can't work it out with the Clerk, you have to work it out with the D.A. Because if she is objecting then I have to rule on it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Of course, of course. Do you want me to take a few minutes now to do that?

THE COURT: Yes, I will give you time to do that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, okay, we appreciate that, Your Honor. But before I consult with the Commonwealth, the other thing is that I have approached Detective Walsh regarding Mr. Harkins. And the arrangement we have is that Detective Walsh will make an effort to contact Mr. Harkins and then somebody from the defense team will then contact Detective Walsh tomorrow morning regarding a meeting with Mr. Harkins. In light of that eventuality of having a meeting with Mr. Harkins, we want to make sure and let the Court know that if in the course of that meeting with Mr. Harkins we receive information that has a bearing on our claims, that we would retain the right to move to reopen the hearing if in fact the hearing is over at that juncture.

Page 92.

THE COURT: Well, can we set a date for this?

MS. FISK: A date for which, for the interview with Mr. Harkins?

THE COURT: No, whether or not the Court will have another hearing. You see, I just can't sit around and do nothing.

MS. FISK: I assume we would know by Thursday. I assume we would know by Wednesday.

MR. WILLIAMS: If Mr. Harkins is produced by tomorrow we will know by tomorrow.

THE COURT: What I am trying to say to you: They don't let me sit around. I have another case that I have to start as of tomorrow.

MR. WILLIAMS: You and me both.

THE COURT: Well, then you see it's pretty hard for me to decide these things for you. If you need time, and you want to say well, let's adjourn until next Monday, and we'll see if we could do anything at that time, that's perfectly all right with me.

MR. WILLIAMS: What I'm suggesting -- maybe it's better for the Court, it's only a suggestion -- it's unclear what will happen in our interview with Mr. Harkins. It may be that --

THE COURT: I know that, I know that. But what I am trying to do is set down a definite date. In other words, if you are not going to call him you could tell me that next Monday, right.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: If you are going to call him you will have him here next Monday.

MR. WILLIAMS: Okay.

MS. FISK: Fine.

THE COURT: That's what I am trying to do. And you could do the same thing with the witness they want to subpoena. I don't care, we could do that.

MS. FISK: I would just as soon do that tomorrow, Judge, and get the bulk of this testimony behind us.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILLIAMS: If you will just give me a moment on the Exhibits.

THE COURT: All right, take a short recess.

- - - - -

Page 94.

(Brief recess.)

- - - - -

THE COURT OFFICER: Quiet in the Courtroom, please. Quiet in the Courtroom. This Court is now reconvened.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, after consultation with the Commonwealth, here is where we're at. The first three Exhibits are newspaper articles. And they were proffered to the Court on the issue of the recusal. So it's our position -- and I understand the Commonwealth quarrels with our position -- that those newspaper articles ought to be admitted not simply for identification purposes but for evidential purposes because those newspaper articles reflect a community attitude that has a bearing on the recusal issue. So for that reason they ought to be admitted as evidence.

MS. FISK: As I advised Counsel, Your Honor, my position is that a document which is simply marked and placed in the record which is not a subject of testimony which is tested through a witness is not and cannot be admitted into evidence, as opposed to merely being marked for identification purposes. For that reason I object to any articles which were simply proffered as being admitted for anything other than identification, which is the purpose for which they were marked.

THE COURT: Well, let me say this: I know of no Supreme Court case that says community interest or viewpoints of the community have anything to do with a recusal motion as to the judge himself. For that reason I'm denying entering that as evidence.

MR. WILLIAMS: Now, the item Defense Exhibit 4 is a letter from Miss Wolkenstein to Mr. Eisenberg of the Commonwealth. And that was cc'd to Your Honor. That we admit is properly not in the nature of evidence in the hearing but is correspondence that ought to just be part of the record. And I think it is part of the record in light of --

THE COURT: If she has no objection. Do you have any objection to that?

MS. FISK: Well, I am assuming since it is marked and identified as Defense Exhibit 4 that it was marked and it is going to stay in the record if it is there. But it is not coming in as evidence, it is marked for identification for the purpose for which it is marked.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is not, we agree it is not in the nature of evidence. It is simply correspondence from Counsel to opposing Counsel.

THE COURT: If that's the purpose of it it's all right with me.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exhibits 4, 5 and 6 are excerpts from the voir dire back at trial. And this is already just a matter of record, given that the Commonwealth has already moved the entire trial record to make it part of this PCRA hearing.

THE COURT: Well, we have that anyway.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right, so that is --

THE COURT: The Supreme Court already had that and will probably get it again.

MR. WILLIAMS: So it is a matter of record, so there is no need to spend time on it.

Then we go down to Defense Exhibit 14, which is, yes, Officer Wakshul's vacation schedule. Their position as I understand it is that that vacation schedule, the printout of that schedule is not authenticated. In any event, we request that it be put into evidence. I will note that in the witness list for Commonwealth, that they included the custodian of records to authenticate that document. But I take it they have decided not to call that witness. But in any event, for purposes of efficacy, I ask that the Court allow that that printout been admitted as evidence.

Page 97.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, that was a document which was shown to the officer. My recollection is he did not recognize many portions of it, he could not attest to it's accuracy, and it has never been authenticated, and I object to it being admitted into evidence.

THE COURT: Well, isn't that an explanation of it, then?

MS. FISK: Pardon me?

THE COURT: Isn't that an explanation of it?

MS. FISK: Well, it was marked but never authenticated, Your Honor, and that is apparently on the record.

THE COURT: Well, there seems to be a lot of things that are marked here and not authenticated. And can it just go in as being an Exhibit?

MS. FISK: I am objecting to it being an Exhibit. I defer to the Court's ruling. It was presented.

THE COURT: No, as I understand, people talked about it.

MS. FISK: Right.

THE COURT: So how do you think it should not come in?

MS. FISK: Well, he was asked questions about it. He was unable to give answers because it wasn't a document he prepared.

THE COURT: I understand that. But isn't it something, then, the Supreme Court should look at?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor, it is.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, it could be admitted as an Exhibit but it can't be considered evidence. Everything will come in as an Exhibit.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object. Anything in this case that has been handed up at this point and given a number, whether it has been identified, been the subject of questioning, been admitted as part of testimony, if it is marked and given a number it is going to be a part of the Court record.

THE COURT: That is what he wants.

MS. FISK: Apparently, Counsel is making a distinction between items which are being marked for identification purposes and items which are being admitted into evidence, which I am interpreting as meaning agreeing to their accuracy, in effect. I will not.

THE COURT: I agree with you it is merely an Exhibit.

MS. FISK: I agree that this vacation schedule was marked, given the number, was the subject of testimony.

THE COURT: And it will be part of the record.

MS. FISK: That is exactly right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: The other item is Defense Exhibits 18 and 19, which are two police interview reports, one for Mr. Nelms, number 19 is for Officer Schu. They also were marked for identification purposes only. I believe those were introduced in connection with -- I can't recall who was on the stand. But in any event, the Commonwealth's position as I understand it is that those ought not be marked in evidence because the relevant persons were not on the stand.

THE COURT: Just as an Exhibit.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Just as an Exhibit.

THE COURT: Okay, all right.

MR. WILLIAMS: Then Defense Exhibit 24 is the FBI Department of Justice authentication letter. The reason why that one is important is because we have proffered the FBI files. They go to two issues. One is the police bias, the Kyles versus Whitley claim. And then the other is the mitigation evidence claim. The authentication letter essentially releases us all of the burden of having to bring someone in from Washington, D.C. from the FBI to come in and testify that in fact these documents that we proffered are the documents that were provided to us from Washington, D.C. pursuant to our Freedom of Information Act request.

THE COURT: All right, what is your position on that?

MS. FISK: Again, Your Honor, it is a letter which has been marked for identification purposes, moved into the record. There has been no witness who has been offered to testify. Frankly, I am a little puzzled. I mean Counsel didn't want to bring someone from Washington. They flew people in from Idaho, New York and all over the globe to testify in this case. I agree it was marked, it is in evidence for what it's worth, and I object to it being given credibility by saying that it is accepted into, accepted as evidence. It is marked for identification, it is in the record for it's purpose.

THE COURT: It is admitted for the limited purpose, then.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: And lastly we have the affidavit from Charles Honts, Dr. Honts. Your Honor may recall that he was present in Court. He is the polygraph expert that the defense proffered to the Court for purposes of testifying in regards to Mr. Hightower's polygraph results.

MS. FISK: And again that was marked, it is an Exhibit in the record, and to the extent that it is in the record it is there for whatever purpose. The witness was not permitted by the Court to be called and it is equivalent to the affidavits which are part of the initial Petition.

THE COURT: Well, as I said, polygraph results are not admissible.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Wouldn't have been admissible in 1981, it is not admissible in 1995.

MS. FISK: And that was the basis on which the Court refused to permit the witness' testimony.

THE COURT: That's it. It is of no value as far as evidence is concerned, but it is in the record for whatever use it can be and that's it.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Just give me one moment, Your Honor?

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MR. WILLIAMS: The only other thing -- and I wanted to take advice from the Commonwealth as well as from Your Honor on how to deal with this -- in our letter we refer to several police reports based upon interviews with several police officers, as well as hospital personnel. Specifically Security Guard Charles Kenney and Nurse Carol Young. Those all go to the issue of the confession. And they are attached as exhibits to our letter, the relevant police reports.

What we're interested in: I know Your Honor has ruled that those police reports cannot be admitted as evidence, and Your Honor has not permitted us to call these individuals as witnesses. But -- and I am not here to quarrel with that ruling -- what I'm seeking to do is if appellate review is necessary on this issue, I just want to make sure that the appellate Court knows what Counsel is talking about when we refer to these police reports. So I only ask that those relevant police reports be marked for identification purposes so that effective appellate review can be had here. I am not asking it to be admitted into evidence, Your Honor has ruled, just want it to be identified.

Now, I know that our letter to Your Honor with the exhibits is part of the record.

Page 104.

And maybe it's sufficient that we could just then refer to the letter and the exhibits.

THE COURT: Well, is it any part of the Clerk of Quarter Sessions file?

MR. WILLIAMS: You mean as part of the exhibit list (displaying)?

THE COURT: Whatever you filed with the Clerk of Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, it is not.

MS. FISK: The Judge's question is is that part of the Quarter Sessions file?

MR. WILLIAMS: Oh, there. Yes, yes, it is.

THE COURT: Then it's in the Quarter Sessions file and they'll have it.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's all we are looking for. We could make reference to it in any appellate briefs.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have anything that you want to move into evidence?

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, the Commonwealth can't really be called upon to rest until the defense does, and defense hasn't. I will ultimately ask that all those documents which have been marked as Commonwealth Exhibits be moved into evidence. I don't believe Counsel had any objections to any of those documents.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's correct. The ones that I have been apprised of that are on the Exhibit list.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: That we talked about a moment ago, I have no problem with.

MS. FISK: And I have no objection to the Court accepting those at this juncture.

THE COURT: Okay. If no one has any objections it's all right with me. The reason why I'm pushing you a little bit: I have over a hundred people in this next case that I have to hear. And they were here today and I had to tell them to come back tomorrow. Now you are giving me another witness for tomorrow morning. How long, how long will that witness be on the stand, do you have any idea?

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Is he here for a limited purpose only?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he will be called on direct for a limited purpose. I am not sure that the cross won't be extensive. He will be called on direct, I can represent that to the Court, for a limited purpose.

THE COURT: Okay. Then could we start tomorrow morning at 9:30?

MS. FISK: Sure.

THE COURT: And I mean 9:30. Not ten o'clock, not 10:15. Could we do that?

MS. FISK: Sure, Judge.

THE COURT: Because I have to get word to these people to have them come in a little later. I hate to do that to them, it's not fair to a lot of people that are involved in this case. The next case. But I don't know how else I'm going to do it. We are getting all these last minute deals. You see, if you had followed my advice at the very beginning and given the Court all of these names together with their affidavits and everything, we wouldn't be running into that trouble now. We would have had this resolved already. But. Well, we will just take it tomorrow morning and see.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we are prepared to go ahead then. I should indicate that Commonwealth Counsel handed me the name of another witness, I just got it. And that's going to require that we investigate that witness. I just want to state for the record, again, it's someone new and we're going to do our fastest follow-up that's possible. But that's the situation we face. This is a witness that the defense has not generated.

THE COURT: Does anybody have a calendar here? Let's see if we could get the date here.

I have already instructed the Court reporter that I want him to start transcribing the entire record, including all our sidebars and everything. Not just what you ordered, you people ordered individually. But I want the whole record transcribed. So that's going to take a little time. And what I want from you also, I know you want oral arguments here. What I also want from you is a proposed findings of facts and conclusions of law from both sides. When do you think that you would be able to do that?

MR. BURNS: That depends largely on the rate at which the notes are transcribed.

THE COURT: Well, does anybody have any vacation time or something that is going to interfere with this? You have a problem.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have a problem, yes.

THE COURT: What is your problem?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, for the remainder of August and early September I have a vacation that I planned. But I don't assume the notes will be ready that quickly in any event.

THE COURT: All right, let me ask you this. How is this for oral arguments? Will September 6th be all right for you? That's two days after Labor Day. Labor Day is September 4th.

MR. BURNS: Fine with me, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right now we are scheduled on this case in a civil matter in Pittsburgh before a Federal Court. Mr. Jamal has to be there.

THE COURT: What day?

MR. WEINGLASS: The 6th.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: 6th and 7th.

THE COURT: I don't know, 5th, 6th and 7th.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would prefer as late --

THE COURT: The 8th?

Page 109.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- in the month of September as possible.

THE COURT: How about September 8th, then?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, if he is in Pittsburgh on the 6th and 7th, the odds are Mr. Jamal would not be available here on the 8th. Just a wild guess.

THE COURT: September llth? I'm trying to get a date here.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm not, we don't know when the notes -- is there any date?

THE COURT: Well, I am sure he is going to have the notes before September 11th. That's for sure.

MR. BURNS: Is Your Honor indicating that the argument will take place before the submission of the findings of fact and conclusions of law? Because if that were true it wouldn't matter when the argument was, we could have that just about any time.

THE COURT: I don't particularly care one way or the other if the notes are at the same time of the argument. Does anybody want a different schedule?

Page 110.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would prefer having the notes, submitting the findings of fact, and then having the argument. Because then the argument will be pinned down to the record. As opposed to people arguing over what's in the record without being specific.

THE COURT: Well, I am not saying that I am going to accept anybody's findings of fact. I am going to make my own. But I just want to give you an opportunity to file them.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the process of both sides --

THE COURT: What about September 11th then, Monday, September the 11th?

MR. BURNS: That's acceptable to the Commonwealth, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could I have just a moment?

THE COURT: Sure.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: We would prefer if possible September 18th. Because we will be active in litigation.

THE COURT: Yes, but, Counselor, I have other schedules to meet too. I haven't had a vacation yet either. I am going to set September the llth, Monday, September the 11th. I think that's plenty of time. And it should be plenty of time for the notes to be transcribed. And anybody who wants to purchase them can purchase them.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, is that -- just so we understand -- is September the 11th the date on which the Court wishes to receive from both sides the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law?

THE COURT: And the argument.

MS. FISK: Also entertain oral argument on that date?

THE COURT: Yes. I am figuring on allocating at least two hours to each side. Is that sufficient? Without any interruptions for objections or anything of that nature.

MR. BURNS: In other words, as an appellate argument would be, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes. That's more than you get I when you go up to the Supreme Court you won't get two hours.

MR. BURNS: No, only about a half hour.

THE COURT: I don't know, you're lucky if you get a half hour. But two hours should be sufficient. Is that agreeable?

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay, then, we will adjourn until tomorrow morning for this one witness and we'll hold the other witness in abeyance until you've had a chance to decide whether you're going to call him. And what I would suggest you do: If you decide that you want to call him, let's get together informally and see when I could do that. Because I am going to start this other case tomorrow. I don't have any idea how long it is going to take but it involves a lot of people. I really don't know how long. I haven't even gotten into it as yet. So we'll leave it at that, then.

MS. FISK: Yes, work that out tomorrow.

THE COURT: Until tomorrow morning.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: 9:30 to start.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir. Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay.

Page 113.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands adjourned until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow morning at the call of the Crier.

(At 9:30 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and attorneys.)

- - - - -

Robert Chobert, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Chobert.

A. Good morning.

Q. Mr. Chobert, I want to direct your attention back to the Sunday before last Sunday, which is August 6th. Did you have a conversation on that day with a gentleman by the name of Mr. Newman, Mike Newman?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And he was calling you by telephone?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he was in San Diego and you were here in Philadelphia?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge. How would he know that unless it's hearsay? He was on the telephone.

Page 4.

Robert Chobert - Direct

THE COURT: I will have to sustain the objection to that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now I want to ask you a few questions about that conversation. In the course of that conversation did you speak to Mr. Newman about your driver's license and the status of your license back in 1981?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And do you recall if back in 1981 or 1982 whether or not you had a conversation with the District Attorney who was prosecuting this case -- Joe McGill -- about your driver's license?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you recall what he said to you at that time?

A. Well, he said he'll look into it.

Q. He'll look into it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that before the trial?

A. I don't know, probably during the trial, sometime during the trial. I don't know.

Q. All right. And when he said he'll look into it, that was in response to something that you had mentioned, was it not?

Page 5.

Robert Chobert - Direct

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what had you told him?

A. I asked him if he could help me find out how I could get my license back.

Q. Help you to get your license back?

MS. FISK: Objection: That's not what he said.

(The Court Reporter read back the last answer.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And your license at that point had been expired?

A. Suspended.

Q. Suspended. And when you asked him if he could help you he said he would look into it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you expected him to look into it, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And as it turned out -- well, strike that. Now, in December of 1981, was your license expired or suspended at that time?

A. Suspended.

Q. Suspended.

Page 6.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, do I understand that you had been a, you were a taxi driver in December of '81; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had been a school bus driver as well; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right. And with your license in a suspended state you could not drive a school bus?

A. No, sir.

Q. And that was important to you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you let him testify for a change.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right. Was it important to you to be able to drive a school bus?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's why you needed your license?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was important -- was it important to you because it's the way you earned your livelihood?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 7.

THE COURT: Sustained. It would be nice if you let him testify for a change, Counselor. Rephrase your question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Why was it important to you?

A. Because that's how I earned my living.

Q. That's how you earned your living?

A. Yes. But I didn't testify because I was trying to get my license back.

Q. I'm sorry. I didn't hear...

(The Court Reporter read back the last answer.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, before you testified were you housed in a hotel here in downtown Philadelphia?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. That is beyond the offer of proof which was made by Counsel at the bar of the Court yesterday afternoon. Which was, as I understood it, and apparently as the media understood it, to be whether or not any promises were made to this witness with regard to the status of his driver's license. Therefore, the housing of this witness is irrelevant and beyond the offer posed by Counsel at the bar of the Court yesterday.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, it was promises backed up by certain treatment.

THE COURT: You should have said so yesterday.

MR. WEINGLASS: We should be able to go into --

THE COURT: You should have said that yesterday. You limited yourself.

MR. WEINGLASS: Am I barred because I didn't mention how he was housed prior to trial?

THE COURT: You told us what you wanted to prove by this witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have the Court's permission to expand the questioning into how the witness was housed prior to his testifying?

THE COURT: Does the Commonwealth have an objection to that?

MS. FISK: Your Honor...

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

MS. FISK: Fine, Judge, no, I don't.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you put up in a hotel?

Page 9.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For how long prior to your testifying?

A. How long? To tell you the truth, I don't know.

Q. Was it more than a week?

A. Yes.

Q. More than a week?

A. Yeah.

Q. You were kept in a hotel?

(Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Were you alone in the hotel or were there others with you?

A. About two cops with me.

Q. Pardon?

A. Two cops.

Q. Two cops with you? Were they with you all the time?

A. This one that picked me up from work and take me to the hotel. That's the only time he was with me.

Q. They would pick you up from work and take you to the hotel?

A. Yeah.

Q. And then would they take you to work in the morning?

Page 10.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So they would take you to work. And in the evening, did you know where the police were?

A. Yes.

Q. Where were they?

A. In the next room.

Q. Pardon?

A. In the next room.

Q. In the next room?

A. Yeah.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when Mr. McGill told you that he would look into it, you believed him, didn't you?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 11.

Robert Chobert - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Chobert, you told us on direct examination that what anyone told you about your driving status had nothing to do with your testimony at trial; is that correct?

A. That's right.

Q. Did you testify at trial under oath and truthfully about what you saw occur on the night Officer Faulkner was murdered?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, and so I understand, Mr. Chobert, on the night of the murder -- December 9th, 1981 -- did you give a statement to Homicide detectives about what you saw?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And three days later, did you give further details to another Homicide detective about what you saw?

A. I don't know, I guess I did.

MS. FISK: Let me show you this.

May I ask, Your Honor, that these two documents be marked, shown to Counsel, shown to the witness.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-21. I will

Page 12.

Robert Chobert - Cross

check for a second.

MS. FISK: Okay, thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: That's it, C-21.

(Investigation interview records of Robert Chobert were marked Commonwealth Exhibits C-21 and C-22 for identification.)

MS. FISK: C-21 being a December 9th, 1981 statement of Mr. Robert Chobert. And C-22 being a December 12th, 1981 statement of Mr. Chobert.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to this: It is beyond the scope. The witness was called to testify about a conversation with Joe McGill. He testified, now Counsel is going into his testimony, his police statements, his recollection of the events on the night in question.

MS. FISK: No, I am not.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to it: It is beyond the scope of direct.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't know where she is going yet.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I do not intend to ask Mr. Chobert any questions regarding his recollection with regard to the night of the incident. It is my understanding, however, that if we were in 1981, and if, as defense Counsel claims, there had been a promise which had been extended to a witness, which Counsel, defense Counsel could have argued to a Jury affected his testimony, it would be appropriate to respond to that argument by a prior constant statement, which was given prior to any alleged-promise, as evidence to the Jury that the testimony of the witness is based upon what he saw as reflected in his prior constant statement (displaying), and that his testimony was not being fabricated or created in exchange for a promise.

Page 13.

Robert Chobert - Cross

Furthermore, I am seeking to mark Mr. Chobert's statements, show them to him, simply have him identify them as that, and have that as part of the record so that argument could be reflected in the record.

THE COURT: Okay, you may do so.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the issue was whether or not there was any conversation between the District Attorney and the witness at the time that constituted a promise. And this is not the issue. I object to this.

Page 14.

Robert Chobert - Cross

THE COURT: Yes, but it is an issue as to whether or not it influenced his testimony in any way. The Court is entitled to know that. I said for the limited purpose for which it is being admitted, it is admissible.

Go ahead.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing) Mr. Chobert.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Chobert, you have two documents: Commonwealth Exhibit 21 and Commonwealth Exhibit 22. I want you just to look at them and tell this Court and this record whether or not those are two statements that you gave to Homicide detectives regarding your observations of the murder of Officer Faulkner?

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: If I may, Your Honor, while the witness is reading, have a second? Thank you.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

(Pause.)

Page 15.

Robert Chobert - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Chobert, it appears that you have completed looking at those two Exhibits. Are those two statements that you gave to Homicide detectives regarding your observations surrounding the murder of Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes.

Q. And does it refresh your recollection in looking at those statements that those statements were made by you on December 9th, 1981 and December 12th, 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, as I understand it, Mr. Chobert, at the time of trial or sometime during the trial your testimony is that you were being housed during the evenings in a hotel?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that for your protection, Mr. Chobert?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Were you afraid for your well-being because you were testifying in this case?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And was it because of your fear that the police provided you with protection during the course of the testimony?

A. Yes.

Page 16.

Robert Chobert - Cross

Q. Did the fact that you were provided protection, did that have any affect or influence on the testimony which you presented at this trial?

A. No.

Q. Was that testimony based on your observations of what you saw on the morning of December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And was that without influence from any source, your testimony?

A. No.

Q. It was without influence or it was influenced?

A. No, I told the truth that day.

Q. Now, as I understand it, Mr. Chobert, you have told us that at some point you told Mr. McGill that your license had been suspended; is that right?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Now, is it my understanding that you do not remember when in the course of these proceedings, whether it was before, during or after, specifically when you spoke to Mr. McGill about that?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. So it could have been after you testified; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection:

Page 17.

Robert Chobert - Cross

Speculation.

THE COURT: Yes, he said he doesn't know when.

MS. FISK: Well, and if he doesn't know and it could have been after that would mean that there was absolutely no discussion prior to trial.

THE COURT: That's what you could argue to the Court later on.

MS. FISK: Fine.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is it my understanding, Mr. Chobert, that you don't remember when in the course of these proceedings you spoke to Mr. McGill?

A. I don't remember, no.

Q. And it could have been after you testified; is that correct?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Speculation. Could have been. It is a speculative question.

THE COURT: I will take that into consideration. No sense in arguing. Let's go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Page 18.

Robert Chobert - Cross

Q. Now, is it my understanding, sir, that you told Mr. McGill that your license had been suspended and your testimony is he told you he would help find out how to get your license back; is that correct?

A. Yes. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you expect Mr. McGill to get your license back for you?

A. Not really, no.

Q. Was it your expectation that he was going to simply wade through the legal part of it and explain to you what you had to do?

A. Yes.

Q. You were, in effect, using him as sort of like a free lawyer?

A. Yeah, like a lawyer.

Q. To explain it to you?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Because you knew that Mr. McGill couldn't get your license back for you?

A. No.

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And in fact, despite the fact that your license was suspended, you were working as a cab driver anyway; is that right?

Page 19.

Robert Chobert - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. So you were earning a living despite the absence of your license; is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, did Mr. McGill ever call you to tell you what to do to get your license back?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you ever call him and say yo, hey, what's the story, you promised me you were going to do this?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you ever get your license back?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. In fact, you still don't have a license; is that right?

A. No.

Q. That is right or it isn't right?

A. I don't have no license.

Q. You don't have a license. And so I'm clear -- I asked you that with regard to the hotel -- well, actually, since you don't know when you spoke to Mr. McGill about your license, you don't know whether you had spoken to him about it before you testified; is that right?

A. That's right, yeah.

Q. But you do know that your testimony was based

Page 20.

Robert Chobert - Redirect

only on what you saw and not on what anyone did for you or promised you; is that right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Asked and answered. Twice now.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have a ruling?

THE COURT: I said okay. All right. I know it's twice.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Mr. Chobert. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Chobert, isn't it a fact that you never talked to Mr. McGill after the trial?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know that?

A. I don't know. Oh, after the trial?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I never talked to him after the trial.

Q. You never talked to him after the trial?

A. No.

Q. Right. Now, are you telling us that an Assistant District Attorney of this City knew that

Page 21.

Robert Chobert - Redirect

you didn't have a license when you were driving that night?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. How can he tell us what another person knows?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because he said he told him, he had a conversation with him about his license.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He did not. He said he does not remember when he had a conversation.

MR. WEINGLASS: He said when he did have a conversation: That is not a when.

THE COURT: So is Mr. McGill on trial here?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What difference could it make?

MR. WEINGLASS: It makes a lot of difference, I want to assure the Court.

THE COURT: I don't see where.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Without reference to when, are you telling us that you had a conversation with an Assistant District Attorney of this City about your driving a taxicab and not having a license? Is that what you

Page 22.

Robert Chobert - Redirect

are telling us: You had such a conversation? Right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you were never arrested or charged or fined?

A. Well, I'm not the one on trial, either.

Q. Right.

A. So what's the difference?

Q. Okay. Were you ever arrested or charged or fined for driving without a license?

A. Yes, sir. I am not on trial, though, buddy.

Q. Were you arrested? Tell us when?

A. I don't have to answer that: I'm not on trial.

Q. Were you ever fined for that? Even up to today were you ever fined for that?

A. Yeah.

Q. When was that?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't remember when?

A. No.

Q. It was since 1982; is that right? Tell us when, what year?

A. I don't know.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor...

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the witness is speaking to you.

THE COURT: Oh.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, do I have to answer this? I am not on trial here.

THE COURT: I know. You want me to get you a lawyer? I don't know what the situation is.

THE WITNESS: Yeah, I got fined for it, yeah.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Pardon?

A. Yes, I got fined.

THE COURT: He said he got fined for it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When?

A. My last ticket is about four years ago.

Q. Four years ago?

A. Yeah.

Q. 10 years after the trial.

MS. FISK: He said his last ticket was four years ago.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you in 1982, were you ever charged with driving without a license?

A. I don't know.

Q. 1983 were you ever charged with driving without a license?

A. I don't know.

Q. 1984 were you ever charged with driving without a license?

A. I don't know. If you want to know just check my record.

Q. Okay. Now, when you're caught driving without a license, what happens, are you fined?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that's something that no one likes to have happen to them?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you certainly didn't want that to happen to you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Chobert, how did you get down here this morning?

A. The D.A. The detectives.

Q. The detectives brought you here?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask for that?

A. Well, they called me up, I called them back.

Q. And did you talk to them about what was going to happen this morning?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I believe this goes beyond the scope of cross-examination.

THE COURT: Yes, it's way beyond.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Chobert, you looked at these two statements that are in front of you and you told us those statements are true. Is that right?

A. To the best of my knowledge.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: He testified that those are statements that he made.

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are those statements that you made, Mr. Chobert?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Right, those statements are not accurate, are they?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, I will have to sustain that.

MR. WEINGLASS: They opened the statements, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, I limited them only to identifying them so they could be made part of the record. We didn't go into them.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Didn't you tell Mr. Newman on Sunday, August 6th, when he read you those statements, that those statements are not accurate?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that. He is admitted just for a limited purpose.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, it is being limited on this side.

THE COURT: No, it was limited to her too, only to identify them. Only that he identified his signature and he made them.

MR. WEINGLASS: They brought in the statements, Your Honor, now I should be allowed to go into those statements.

THE COURT: No, because you didn't allow her to go into the statements. Now you are on redirect.

MR. WEINGLASS: I objected and you overruled me and allowed her to go into the statement.

Now I want to go into this generally.

THE COURT: She didn't go into the statements, only to identify them, Counselor. Don't tell me what my rulings are. I know what I ruled. Only to identify his signature and those were the statements that he made. She did not go into the statements themselves. Because you had objected and I sustained your objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

THE COURT: I admitted it for a limited purpose only and that's all.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You had time to read the statements, did you not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: This morning.

THE COURT: He had time to read them so that he could identify them that they are the statements that he made, period, and that's all it was.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I am precluded from going into it.

THE COURT: Right, because I precluded the D.A. from going into it.

Page 28.

Robert Chobert - Recross

(Discussion held off the record at this time between Commonwealth and defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Mr. Chobert. I have nothing further.

THE COURT: Anything further?

MS. FISK: Yes, just one or two questions.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Chobert, on the day that you completed your testimony in this case, and the Court session ended, you were in City Hall still, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. McGill was still in the Courtroom as well?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you have contact with Mr. McGill on that day when you were done testifying?

A. What do you mean?

Q. Did you see him again and speak to him, did he say, you know, thank you for testifying in this case?

A. He just came over and shook my hand and said thank you and left.

Page 29.

Robert Chobert - Recross

Q. And you had contact with him on that afternoon when he did that?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: The witness described the contact, the question was asked and properly answered. I object to further inquiry in the same nature.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: What is okay?

THE COURT: Okay means I am agreeing with you. What is the big deal? If you don't understand what I am saying, Counselor. I can't help that.

Any other questions?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. You are excused.

All right, as I told you before, we meet again on September the 11th, unless you contact me that --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would wish at this point: I assume, therefore, that defense is resting.

THE COURT: All except he wanted to talk to this Robert Harkins, the gentleman that said he didn't want to talk to them because when he talks to them they turn the story around. And I said okay, if he wants to talk to you he can. If he wants to he can. If he doesn't want to he doesn't have to. He now wants to speak to them in the presence of Detective Walsh.

MS. FISK: That occurred eight o'clock this morning.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, as the witness was here and was leaving the room I asked the witness if he would be willing to talk to me. The witness indicated at that time that he would be willing to talk but only in the presence of --

THE COURT: No, he didn't say that first. No, no, no, no, no. I was here. He first said I don't want to talk to them because when I tell them something they turn it around. That's what he said.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And then he said before he left, he said the only reason, the only time I will talk to them is if Detective Walsh is present at the time that I talk to them.

Page 31.

MR. WEINGLASS: Good.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Then an arrangement was made because he said that, that he would be willing to talk in the presence of Detective Walsh, for the defense to talk to him this morning at eight o'clock.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I went to the Roundhouse this morning at eight o'clock. Mr. Williams and I went into a small interrogation room where we found Mr. Harkins sitting there appearing to be terrified. And before I could ask him a question, Detective Walsh said that he has something that the witness, that the witness has something to say to me. And at that point the witness in a somewhat frightened voice said to me that he's thought it over and he doesn't want to talk. I then asked him well, you've talked to the other side, haven't you. At that point Detective Walsh insisted that Mr. Williams and I leave the room. I got kind of an intimidating effect and I now understand what some of the witnesses here went through. Directed Mr. Williams and I to leave the room immediately.

As soon as we did, he pulled the door closed very emphatically, slamming it shut. And with two or three other detectives in the near vicinity, we were told to leave. That's the way in which interrogations are conducted here. I saw it for myself. I would have to say it was very intimidating. Very oppressive. And I understand now more fully some of the testimony that's been offered in this case. About the methods and manner in which interrogations are conducted in the Homicide unit at the Police Administration Building.

But I wanted to report that incident. And I think the witness should be brought before the Court and the witness should be told that he may talk to Counsel without police being present if he wants to. Because --

THE COURT: No, Counselor, that was his wish, Counselor. And I'm not ordering anybody to take the stand for anyone. Whether it be for the Commonwealth or the defense.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think it was a coerced witness, though. I think he was informed and told not to talk to us.

Page 33.

THE COURT: Well, you may think whatever you want to think, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's the way it appeared.

THE COURT: You have been doing a lot of that and you do it for the news media and that's fine. But I can't force somebody to talk to you if he doesn't want to talk to you.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not asking him to be forced.

THE COURT: Well, I would like to hear from Detective Walsh. He was there.

Detective Walsh?

DETECTIVE WALSH: Take the stand, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Any way you want to, or here.

- - - - -

Philadelphia Police Detective Joseph Walsh, Badge number 697, Homicide Division, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

THE WITNESS: Good morning, Your Honor.

Page 34.

Detective Joseph Walsh

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. FISK: Does Your Honor ask questions or is the Court going questions of the detective?

THE COURT: No, you could ask him. Anybody could ask him. Defense, you, whoever wants to, he's there.

MS. FISK: Well, I will just ask one.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Walsh, would you please explain to the Court what occurred in the Homicide Division this morning regarding Mr. Robert Harkins?

A. Your Honor, it actually started yesterday afternoon. Mr. Williams (indicating) had asked me if I could make arrangements to, for them to speak to Mr. Harkins. I made the arrangements and I contacted the defense and told them that Mr. Harkins would meet with them at the Police Administration Building at eight o'clock this morning.

I picked Mr. Harkins up at his house and brought him down 8th and Race, signed him in the logbook at 7:35, and brought him up to Homicide. It was at that point Mr. Harkins informed me that he had changed his mind and did not want to give a statement, he didn't trust the defense, that he gave a statement years ago and he testified in Court and had nothing else to say.

Page 35.

Detective Joseph Walsh

I told Mr. Harkins that they would have to hear that from him because they wouldn't believe me. So at approximately 8:05, 8:06, the defense, Mr. Williams, Mr. Weinglass showed up. I signed them in the logbook and took them upstairs. And Mr. Harkins was in the room. They entered the room and Mr. Harkins three times in my presence, and in at least one, maybe two other detectives' presence, but three times he stated to them, he apologized to me and to them, that he had changed his mind, he did not want to give a statement. He thought about it, he talked it over with his wife, he told them, and that he did not want to give any further interviews or statements to them.

At that point Mr. Weinglass started to ask him questions about well, you spoke to them, why don't you want to speak to us. He again told them he didn't want to give a statement, and upon hearing it the third, possibly fourth time, I asked the two attorneys to step outside the room with me. I didn't slam the door, I closed the door. And I told them at that point they had to leave: He did not want to speak to them.

Page 36.

Detective Joseph Walsh

I escorted them out of the building, signed them out of the logbook and walked them to the door of the PAB.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Detective Walsh, you picked up Mr. Harkins this morning?

A. Yes, sir, I did. He didn't have any transportation, he asked for a ride.

Q. And on the ride down did you talk to him?

A. Absolutely.

Q. And did you talk to him about lawyers coming in to talk to him this morning?

A. I explained that to him on the phone last night.

Q. Right. And he was still willing to come?

A. That is correct, he wanted me present there.

Q. But when you spoke to him on the phone last night he said yes, I will go down and I'll talk to these lawyers, so you picked him up this morning; is that right?

A. He didn't say to talk to the attorneys, he said he needed a ride down.

Q. Okay. And then somehow between the time you picked him up and the time we came in to see him he indicated he didn't want to talk to the lawyers?

Page 37.

Detective Joseph Walsh

A. That is correct. Yes, sir.

Q. Did it have anything to do with your conversation with him on the way down?

A. Nothing at all.

Q. You can't explain how he changed his mind from last night to this morning?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The detective does not know what was on his mind last night.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And you said you got him down there at 7:35?

A. Signed in the book.

Q. Did you bring the logbook with you?

A. No, I didn't bring the logbook. Officer Brown -- I believe you met him this morning -- Security, he's in charge of the logbook.

Q. Yes, it was a very pleasant greeting. And you and I were at the logbook also this morning, right?

A. Yes, and Mr. Williams also.

Q. And Mr. Williams. And you signed us in, did you not?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Page 38.

Detective Joseph Walsh

Q. And the entry immediately before us was Mr. Harkins, which you signed in, right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Frankly, I don't care what the entry before was, it has nothing to do with this, Judge.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just be patient, it will have something to do with it.

MS. FISK: I have lost my patience so that clearly cannot be.

MR. WEINGLASS: You are being paid to be patient.

MS. FISK: No, unfortunately, I am being paid to be a lawyer; unfortunately, you are being paid to act like a lawyer, Counselor. I have to object.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: The courtesy in the Courtroom is astounding.

THE COURT: Counselor, he said he had signed in Harkins. He also signed you in. Now let's go forward, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: I accept that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would it surprise you that the logbook reflects the fact that Mr. Harkins was signed in at

Page 39.

Detective Joseph Walsh

eight o'clock?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would it surprise you, Detective Walsh, that that's what the logbook reflected this morning?

THE WITNESS: There was an objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE WITNESS: Wasn't there an objection?

THE COURT: I don't know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You may answer. Would you like to answer that question?

A. I would be totally shocked because it's signed in at 7:35. Now, Mr. Harkins, Bob Harkins, 7:35 a.m.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Your Honor, could the logbook be produced?

THE COURT: Well, you go down there and look at it yourself. I have another matter to take care of. If it's important. And I don't know the importance of it, but whether he signed in at 7:35 or eight o'clock, what is the difference? He signed him in, he signed you in, that's it.

MR. WEINGLASS: 25-minute difference by my calculations. I don't know what happened there to this witness in that interim.

THE COURT: Well, you're putting him closer to the time that you got there so it can't be that important.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine. Nothing further.

THE WITNESS: Anything, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I don't know. Not from me.

MS. FISK: I have no questions.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, once again --

MS. FISK: One more thing, Your Honor: I understand that Counsel for -- the witness could come down -- I understand that at the request of Counsel that the photographs have been reproduced by the Police Department. Detective Walsh, as I understand it, has the bill for the cost of the reproduction. And once that bill is paid those photographs will be Provided to defense Counsel.

Page 41.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I would ask, Your Honor, at this stage I am assuming, therefore, that the defense is resting.

THE COURT: Well, I assume so, too.

MS. FISK: Well, we need to hear that on the record. I would also wish a statement on the record by the defense that any of those witnesses who have not been presented by defense who are referred to in the initial Petition, the Amended Petition, the letter, all those other documents that were filed, all those persons who were not quashed or expressly prohibited from testifying by the Court, are nevertheless not being called by defense and that is for a reasonable, legitimate strategy purpose and for no other purpose.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, there is one caveat to that, and it's this: Yesterday we received from the District Attorney another letter indicating that there was another witness who allegedly came to the District Attorney's Office. The District Attorney gave us that witness' name and address. I went to that witness' home last night. The witness was not there, not available. In fact, the witness doesn't live at that address but comes there frequently to pick up his SSI checks. Probably at the beginning of each month. I was told that he will be back on or about September 1st. So we will have to talk to that witness as there are --

THE COURT: Well, September 1st may be a little late, Counselor, because you're going to be away and you're going to have your final arguments on September the 11th. That's already been scheduled by the Court. If you can't get him before then, too bad.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I want to make a record that there are other people now who not only are coming to the District Attorney's Office but are coming to our offices, our hotel and trying to locate us.

THE COURT: Counselor, I can't continue this until Christmas. You know, do whatever you think you have to do. I will rule according to what I think is the proper ruling. And that's it. But for the time being, you are resting, period?

Page 43.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, subject to that observation I am making on the record.

THE COURT: Subject to the observation. Well, I hope it's before Christmas, because I intend to take a vacation too.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, we were just given a copy of those photographs. We were also given a copy of the bill for $990 for copying 33 photographs.

THE COURT: Well, I have no idea what it costs.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, I just wanted to indicate for the record that this is absolutely outrageous and basically a form of extortion against the Defendant for getting a copy of what are Court Exhibits. There is no place in the world except for this Police Department that 33 photographs would cost $990.

THE COURT: Well, maybe it is because of the time that the officer, the salary that he gets, I don't know. Take that up with them, Counselor. I don't have the slightest idea.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, okay. Your Honor, I have to submit also as exhibits to be marked for identification a transcript of the deposition of David J. Horowitz. He is counsel in the Office of the General Counsel for the Department of Corrections of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania: This deposition was taken as part of an action in the U.S. District Court, Western District of Pennsylvania. Let me complete, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I know, but I am not going to get involved. That is in Federal Court, take it up there.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: On July 13th. What this indicates, Your Honor, is that a letter seized from the mail from, from Mr. Weinglass to Mr. Jamal --

THE COURT: Counselor, I hate to interrupt you but please, please, take it up with the Federal Court. I have nothing to do with that. He's not here, he hasn't testified here in this case. I'm not going to allow you to submit anything, all right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, this letter of Mr. Weinglass with defense strategy was turned over to the Office of the General Counsel for Governor Casey. We maintain that this letter of private privilege --

THE COURT: Counselor. Counselor. Counselor. Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Governor's files.

THE COURT: One more time and you are going to be in contempt of Court. Not only am I going to commit you this time but I am going to fine you a thousand dollars too. Okay, do you understand that? I am not going to allow you to do this. Take it up in Federal Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I hear you loud and clear, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Right, you are going to be there September 6th, 7th and 8th. Take it up with the Federal Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Can we submit these to be marked for identification?

THE COURT: No, absolutely not. Period. See you on September 11th.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court stands adjourned until September 11th.

(At 10:13 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: As I have indicated to you the last session, I'm allocating two hours to each side. During the presentation, I don't want any interruptions or objections or anything of that nature. I will caution you when you have 15 minutes left, 10 minutes left, five minutes left, and one minute left.

Are there any problems?

MR. WEINGLASS: No problems. I just wanted to indicate to the Court for its benefit the order of presentation of the defense. Mr. Williams will start for the defense. He will be followed by Miss Wolkenstein, who will be followed by Mr. Piper, and then myself. We would like to reserve approximately 30 minutes for rebuttal, so we will be using one and a half hours in our straight presentation, and 30 minutes for rebuttal.

THE COURT: Commonwealth, are you doing the same thing?

Page 3.

Defense Argument

MR. BURNS: Just me, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Whatever you want to do. Do you want rebuttal too?

MR. BURNS: No, I don't think that will be necessary, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You will use the whole two hours?

MR. BURNS: I don't think I'll take that long. I don't know how long I will take. If the Court wants to allow rebuttal or not, that is up to the Court, I really have no position on that.

THE COURT: All right. Just so it is two hours in total, okay. Who wants to go first?

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Williams.

THE COURT: According to my watch, it's 10:14.

MR. WILLIAMS: Good morning, Your Honor. And may it please the Court, let me begin first, well, first let me tell the Court that I will be addressing three issues that are expanded upon in a supplemental memorandum of law that has been filed with the Court this morning. And those three issues are the issues of the mitigation witnesses; the issues surrounding and pertaining to the testimony of officer, or Mr. Gary Wakshul; and finally, the testimony relating to Robert Chobert.

Page 4.

Defense Argument

Now, first, on the mitigation witnesses, which we opened this hearing with, I want to put that issue in proper focus for the Court. And the way I think we put that issue in proper focus is this: That no human being in this country, for as long as this country has had the death penalty, has been sentenced to death without presenting any mitigation witnesses who has the reservoir of talents, the devotion to social justice, and the soulful humanity of this man that sits before you. I don't believe that human decency -- and legal advocacy should never breach human decency -- permits anyone to come into this Courtroom and argue that the failure to educate a jury in a sentencing phase of a capital case, who has a client with the kind of talents and soulful humanity as Mr. Jamal, is tolerable in a humane society. That argument just cannot be made in a humane society. And because human decency does not allow it, it's not surprising that the law does not countenance it.

Page 5.

Defense Argument

I won't go through the litany of cases -- I think the supplemental memorandum does that -- on the clear Constitutional obligation of a trial attorney to educate a sentencing jury about the full scope and depth of the humanity of his client. That obligation is fundamental, and Your Honor knows that. But I issue this challenge -- and I think it's a fair challenge and it is an appropriate one -- to the Commonwealth, to find just one case -- we've talked a lot about finding cases during the PCRA hearing -- but I issue that challenge to find one case that even comes close to this one. Because it's our position that the prosecution, if it wants to defend the death penalty here in this case, given what we know about this man, and given what was not presented to that sentencing Jury back in 1982, it will have to advocate for a new low, a new low in our criminal justice system. And I don't think that my brothers at the bar here will do that.

Now, the reason why I don't think the Commonwealth will do that is because during the hearing, Mr. Grant, in all fairness, stated, incorporating the points in his question, that Mr. Jamal indeed has immense talents, that indeed Mr. Jamal is dedicated to the cause of social justice. That in fact that dedication is woven into the very fiber of his being.

Page 6.

Defense Argument

Mr. Grant admitted that in the hearing. And I think that is an important point, and probably the most important point surrounding all of this testimony. Because no one can dispute the power and the scope of those mitigation witnesses.

But what really is significant in that testimony and Mr. Grant's admission is what happened at the penalty phase in the trial back in 1982. The prosecutor there, unencumbered with this powerful evidence at the trial, was given free rein, was given free rein to characterize Mr. Jamal as he wished. And how did he characterize Mr. Jamal? I think the record is clear that he spewed forth really a caricature, a caricature of Mr. Jamal that had no relationship to the reality of who he is as a person.

So the Jury really didn't sentence Mr. Jamal, the human being with that soulful humanity, the dedication to justice, the talented journalist. What they sentenced was a fictional being, a caricature. And so the true significance of this issue, in my humble view, is what it revealed about the stridency of this prosecution. The zeal to win led the prosecutor back in 1982 to use his power in an ignoble way, and that is to distort the truth.

Page 7.

Defense Argument

Mr. McGill knew about Mister, about the qualities of Mr. Jamal. He admitted that Mr. Jamal was the most intelligent Defendant he had ever had. He could not have been blinded to the fact that Mr. Jamal was dedicated to social justice. But he used the fact that Mr. Jackson in his ineffectiveness did not present a single mitigation witness to educate this Jury about who it was the Jury was asked to condemn with death. He used that gap in the evidence to advocate for the death of a fictional being. And that is intolerable.

The uncontroverted evidence is that on this record Mr. Jackson admitted that there was no tactical reason not to present mitigation witnesses. Nor could there be. There is just no rational reason that anyone can fathom why you would not educate a sentencing Jury about the qualities of this man. And I defy anyone to conjure up any rational reason for that. No attorney, I don't believe, in any capital case, had quite the arsenal that Mr. Jackson had on that issue. And to not present one mitigation witness really speaks volumes about Mr. Jackson's preparation to proceed to trial in this case.

Page 8.

Defense Argument

Now, I talked about the scope and power of that testimony. I think our supplemental memorandum of law lays that out. The record bears that out. I won't encumber the record now with that. But I do want to underscore that that evidence was merely suggestive, not exhaustive. And I also want to underscore that when you read the record, the testimony of these mitigation witnesses, that these witnesses did not speak in generalities. They didn't just skim the surface, but I think that each one of these witnesses spoke from deep inside themselves. They laid bare their own souls in trying to educate this Court about the qualities of this man sitting before you. And I think the scope and power of that testimony is something that this Court must consider in evaluating this claim.

Page 9.

And so for this, for this case, Your Honor, to go awry on an issue that's so fundamental, so elementary, really tells us something about, about Mr. Jackson, about how he handled this case. And it tells us something about Mr. McGill, about his zealotry to win it at all costs, something that we don't countenance in prosecutors. That he was able to brazenly distort the facts in this case, to put forth a caricature in order to secure a sentence of death, that really does tell us something about the prosecution in this case. Therein lies the true Constitutional significance of that testimony. Because no one can dispute that a Jury should have heard these mitigation witnesses, they should have been educated about this man Mr. Jamal. That's a given.

But we've got to go one layer deeper and look at what it reveals about this prosecution. And I think that is a proper segue into the second issue, which is the issue surrounding officer, Mr. Gary Wakshul. The issue or the issues surrounding Mr. Wakshul tells us something about the quality of justice in this Court back in 1982, no less than the absence of any mitigation witnesses. I think it is not an exaggeration to say that the confession evidence was the most compelling evidence in the case. And even though it was the most compelling evidence, it was also the most impeachable. And it was the most impeachable because it was false, it was bogus, it was perjurious.

Page 10.

Now let's leave aside why Mr. Wakshul did not testify in 1982. The Constitutional obligations on the prosecution is clear. The prosecution has an obligation not to present such inflammatory evidence such as this confession when it knows that that evidence is as dubious as this confession was. It has an obligation not to deceive that Jury.

We've already seen that Mr. McGill was willing to deceive that Jury in the penalty phase; and that's why I emphasize that we have to look at that issue in terms of what does it say about Mr. McGill. Here again we see another instance of Mr. McGill willing to deceive this Jury by putting forth evidence of a confession that any rational person would know just smacks of bad faith. It has no place in a Courtroom like this.

Page 11.

Defense Argument

And here the prosecution did more than just propagate and then argue from bogus evidence. It abided, it abided with the absence of that witness that would have shown that it was bogus, that it was perjurious. So we have a double-barreled sort of misconduct. The propagation of false evidence and then the abiding of the absence of evidence to show precisely that it was false evidence. I think that is unprecedented.

But let's go one layer deeper, Your Honor. Because I don't think anyone, any rational person could see that this confession is genuine, but let's go one level deeper. There are certain types of evidence, Your Honor -- and we all know this, even I as a young lawyer know this -- that there are certain types of evidence to blow the lid off of a case. And it's rare for a defense counsel to have that kind of evidence that literally blows the lid off a prosecutor's case, but Wakshul's testimony is that sort of evidence. And that's why the Jury should have heard that evidence. It goes beyond simply refuting the confession. It casts a pall over the entire prosecution case. Because it proves the lie to the confession and it proves how low the prosecution was willing to go in this case.

Page 12.

Defense Argument

Now, I just had the opportunity this morning to briefly skim the Commonwealth's proposed findings of fact. And on page 17 the Commonwealth posits a very curious argument. The Commonwealth says that Officer Wakshul withheld evidence about this confession because a brother officer, Gary Bell, allegedly -- or not allegedly, actually he admits to this -- made a death threat to Mr. Jamal. And Mr. Bell said if he, that is Officer Faulkner, dies, that you die. And the Commonwealth suggests to this Court in defiance of the record in this case that because Mr. Bell made that unconscionable death threat to Mr. Jamal, that Officer Wakshul withheld evidence of the confession from investigators in order to protect his brother officer.

That's an interesting theory for two reasons. First of all, it's interesting because

Page 13.

Defense Argument

Mr. Wakshul never proffered that explanation himself. What was the explanation that Mr. Wakshul proffered? His explanation was that despite the fact of a confession of the sort that is attributed to Mr. Jamal -- it is a weighty, is a weighty confession, it's a stunning confession -- that 64 days later that all of a sudden it occurred to him that that confession had some importance. That it only had importance on that 64th day. That was his explanation. He did not say that he was trying to protect a brother officer. And I'll tell you why he doesn't say that. Because it makes no sense. In fact, in fact I think he realizes what anyone would realize in this case -- and this is what I mean by it blows the lid off the prosecutor's case -- that you have an officer, Officer Bell making a death threat, a very grave matter. And how best to respond to that? The way you respond to that is well, let's concoct a confession. So that way Mr. Bell isn't punished for making this death threat. Let's put this death threat as a response to a very disturbing confession by a suspect.

So in fact, contrary to what the

Page 14.

Defense Argument

Commonwealth tries to do in these findings of fact, in defiance of the record, it actually gives the powerful context of how this confession was concocted. Because certainly no one, no one would blame an officer, after hearing a suspect confess in the fashion that they say Mr. Jamal confessed, would then in a fit of anger say this to Mr. Jamal. That's understandable. So if indeed it did happen, Mr. Bell would have gone to the highest mountain top and would have yelled out to all the world that Mr. Jamal made that confession. And the fact is Mr. Bell didn't do that; it was only after they came to realize that Mr. Jamal had the audacity to make an allegation of police brutality that they decided that they're going to fix him and fix him good: They're going to put a confession on him.

And I think Mr. McGill, because I have to believe that Mr. McGill is a rational man with a rational intellect, knew that this confession was dubious. Just as he knew that his caricature of Mr. Jamal was dubious. But nonetheless, pressed that issue with the Jury. And that is unconscionable.

Page 15.

Defense Argument

It exposes, really, the corruption in the prosecution's case. Based upon the four corners of this record. Because, as I said, to fabricate a confession is as low as you can go. The record is clear about Mr. Wakshul's availability -- and I say this, Your Honor, with no disrespect to the Court -- but this part of the testimony implicates the Court. It implicates the Court in this spectacle of injustice. Mr. Wakshul received instructions or was advised not to leave the jurisdiction. Notwithstanding that, he was given vacation time. Mr. Wakshul interpreted that advisement, that instruction that he should stick around. That's at page 118 of his testimony. And in fact at page 102 of his testimony he did stay around. He stayed around until the case was over. And in fact, at page 142 of his testimony, Your Honor, the Court acknowledged that he was around.

As to the true irony in all of this, the fact that makes this entire affair a spectacle of injustice, is that in the trial Mr. Jackson asked the Court, despite the fact that Mr. Wakshul is on vacation, Mr. Jackson said well, let's see if he's in town. And regrettably, this Court, instead of acceding to that very, very modest request, the Court says that we will not go looking for anybody now. When all of the evidence now indicates that had this Court acceded to that very modest request, Mr. Wakshul would have testified in front of that Jury with all the explosive impact that that testimony would have had.

Page 16.

And in fact, we saw during the month of July and August this year how quickly the prosecution can bring witnesses in. How expeditious they can be. Witnesses were brought in on late notice, witnesses were called at home, witnesses were picked up by law enforcement and driven to this Courtroom. This was, it is quite a contrast -- let me put it that way to the Court -- it is quite a contrast when the Commonwealth wants a witness in this Courtroom what kind of efforts can be made to bring those witnesses in. And then you have the one most explosive witness in this trial to really blow the lid off the prosecution's case, the Court doesn't grant a modest request and the Commonwealth makes no effort to bring that witness in, even though that witness was in the jurisdiction of Philadelphia.

Page 17.

Defense Argument

Now let me go to the third argument, which again bespeaks about what kind of prosecution Mr. Jamal faced in this case. And I'm referring now to Mr. Robert Chobert.

Your Honor heard testimony about a certain understanding that Mr. Chobert had. Mr. Chobert, Your Honor will recall, was a cab driver. And he was a cab driver who drove without a license. And that of course violates the law. And in fact on the very morning in question he was driving a cab without a license.

So I think we should analyze what I will refer to as the Chobert issue with two frames of reference. The first frame of reference is we have to look at Mr. Chobert's state of mind back in late 1981 and 1982. And then we have to look at the second frame of reference of the Jury's evaluation of the credibility of this witness.

Now the state of mind. We have here a very vulnerable witness. A man who's livelihood hinges upon his driving a cab. And upon his desire to drive a school bus. Yet he was driving without a license, yet he was driving with a record of DWI convictions. Yet he was driving with probationary status over his head. And that livelihood was thus in jeopardy when he got enmeshed in this entire episode, and his freedom was at stake by virtue of his probationary status and he was vulnerable for that reason. So it's not surprising, Your Honor, that he raises the issue about his lack of a driver's license.

Page 18.

Defense Argument

It was not the prosecution who went to this witness and offered this witness a possible deal to testify. And we know the case law is legion that when the prosecution extends an offer to a witness, that that triggers a certain obligation on the part of the prosecution. Here we have the converse: We have the witness reaching out to the prosecution. And I think that raises a more compelling circumstance because it speaks to the state of mind of the witness directly.

And I'll only cite one case in my argument. I cite this case, and it is at page 44 of the memo of law, the supplemental memo of law. It is an 8th Circuit case. Ruder versus

Page 19.

Defense Argument

Solomon. Because I anticipate that the Commonwealth will argue well, let's analyze this issue in terms of the quality and nature of what Mr. McGill said to Mr. Chobert. But I think when you analyze it in that fashion you're asking the wrong question. The question this Court has to ask itself is what was the state of mind of Mr. Chobert. And it was Mr. Chobert who reached out to the prosecution.

What it suggests is that Mr. Chobert believed that he had something of value, and that with something of value in his possession he can make a deal with the prosecution that he can maybe get something for himself. Something that he testified was important. And that's why he solicited from Mr. McGill help to get a driver's license. He was the one that tried to strike the bargain. And that's precisely what happened in Ruder versus Solomon, the 8th Circuit case (displaying). That witness reached out on his own initiative without any promise by the prosecution. He reached out and sought a sentence commutation. And the Court analyzed that issue just as I am suggesting the Court must analyze this issue. They analyzed it in terms of the witness' state of mind, that that witness reached out for a benefit. No less than wrong question here. We must keep the focus on Mr. Chobert.

Page 20.

Defense Argument

So do not let the prosecution in this argument suggest to you that you should ask the Mr. Chobert.

Now, what was Mr. McGill's obligation? The very asking by Mr. Chobert of the driver's license, the assistance in getting the driver's license, triggers the Brady obligation in and of itself. And a conscientious, fair prosecutor at that point should tell the witness this is not a forum to bargain, to negotiate, you are to tell the truth.

THE COURT: 25 minutes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Your Honor. But Mr. McGill instead feeds in to Chobert's efforts to bargain for the value that he had, the power that he had over the prosecution of being a Commonwealth witness. He feeds into it by saying I'll give you that assistance. Which goes beyond the Ruder case. And it goes beyond any accepted obligation, accepted norms of behavior for a prosecutor.

Page 21.

Defense Argument

So the first frame of reference is the state of mind of Chobert; and now the second frame of reference is the Jury's evaluation of it. And we know that the Jury -- the case law is clear -- must be given a full picture of a witness' motivation to testify. That also is elementary. And had there been a robust cross-examination of Mr. Chobert, had his motivation and interest been revealed at this trial, then perhaps this added piece of evidence would be considered cumulative and perhaps on that ground we could affirm this judgment. But that's not the case here and Your Honor knows it. Mr. Chobert's DWI record was kept from the Jury. Mr. Chobert's probationary status was kept from the Jury. And now we know that this most potent piece of evidence regarding his state of mind, regarding his desire to enhance his livelihood, that also was kept from this Jury. So this Jury was never exposed to the true bias and interests of this witness.

And was this an important witness? You bet. All you have to do is look at the prosecution's closing argument, where he emphasized, he emphasized with this Jury that this witness had no interest to come in and share his testimony towards the prosecution. And here again, no less than in the mitigation phase, no less than in terms of the Wakshul issue, the confession issue, here again we have a sanitized characterization of an important prosecution witness. And it was a false portrait of that prosecution witness.

Page 22.

Defense Argument

So in conclusion to these three issues that I have addressed: Each error implicates the conduct of the prosecution. And that's what's important here. Jackson's failure to present any mitigation evidence was exploited by the prosecution in the form of a caricature of this man on trial for his life. Jackson's inability to secure Mr. Wakshul's attendance permitted the prosecution to gain advantage with a false confession. The withholding of Mr. Chobert's understanding of his relationship with the prosecutor permitted the prosecution to present a false picture of this witness' involvement and interest in this case.

So I say this to Your Honor: One of the first lessons I ever learned as a lawyer from Mr. Weinglass, my mentor, was that every case is a test of the integrity of the system. And this case also is a test of that integrity. And you, Your Honor, sitting on that bench, you are a guardian of that integrity. And so I'm asking the Court to perform that function as the guardian of the integrity of this criminal justice system.

Page 23.

Defense Argument

Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, for almost 13 years the prosecution has promoted the false representation that the evidence in this case is overwhelming. In fact, it is more like a house of cards that has been propped up by prosecutorial and police fabrication, coercion, alternatively coercion and promises made to witnesses. And misrepresentation, destruction of evidence.

I do not need to speak to the first prong of the prosecution's case, the alleged confession by Mr. Jamal, because that has been gone through absolutely fully by Co-counsel. That confession has been so discredited, even, I know, in the prosecution's own minds, that in public statements to the public trying to justify and hold up this prosecution in the past period, the District Attorney has negated to even so mention the existence of said confession. It withstands absolutely no scrutiny at this point.

Page 24.

Defense Argument

The other prong is the question of physical evidence, the allegation or the so-called proof that the Defendant's, Mr. Jamal's gun was found at the scene. The prosecution has long proffered the fact that the so-called testing of this weapon shows that this weapon is consistent -- that is the prosecution's own terms, that is what the record shows -- consistency with the bullet that was taken out of Officer Faulkner's head wound. In point of fact, that representation is totally meaningless. It applies to approximately millions of weapons, over half the weapons that are produced in this country. It demonstrates the type of, the type of, the type of showing, the type of what they call twists so that it has absolutely no bearing whatsoever in scientific terms.

In point of fact, the alleged number of grooves that are also supposed to show some consistency are not supported in any way in the record. There is some testimony, totally unbacked up by any bench notes, anything in the ballistics report. In other words, no evidence to support this hypothesis.

Page 25.

Defense Argument

Furthermore, and more significantly, unknown to the defense until we began this actual hearing, a bullet fragment, sizable and significant enough to be measured by the medical examiner, was taken from the head wound of Officer Faulkner. That appears, it is mentioned in the Medical Examiner's report. It exists in statements or in physical reality at this point no place else. It is simply disappeared, presumably been destroyed by the prosecution.

Without that fragment, which represents a fundamental destruction of evidence, it is impossible to determine with any reliability the actual caliber of the weapon, the actual caliber of the bullet that shot and killed Officer Faulkner. And as this Court is well aware, the Medical Examiner initially determined, and was put on the report, the autopsy report, that he believed it was a .44 caliber bullet that shot, was used to shoot and kill the officer. There is no basis and ability at this point to determine absolutely what this weapon, what this bullet was because of the destruction of the evidence here. And substantial questions are raised as to the absence of clear scientific information as to the caliber, as to the testing of the bullets, as to the lands and grooves, as to the number of grooves. As to whether or not in fact a bullet from Mr. Jamal's gun was used to shoot, or was the bullet that shot and killed the officer.

Page 26.

The other question and the other, the other, ahh, prop, so to speak, of the prosecution's case is the question of witnesses. Co-counsel has dealt with the fact that one of the main prosecutorial witnesses, Mr. Chobert, was entreated and was given inducement to lie. It is clear from the record as stated that he initially said the night of the murder, and his first statement on the scene, that the shooter ran away. That statement was subsequently undermined first to 30 steps, then to a few steps, and then him stating that it was Mr. Jamal who shot the police officer, despite the fact that there is no evidence in the record that supports that he actually saw either

Page 27.

Defense Argument

Mr. Jamal being shot, or he actually saw Mr. Jamal shooting, shooting, shooting Officer Faulkner.

Cynthia White, the other main prosecutorial witness, as we all know, was a young woman who faced some 38 arrests. She was currently imprisoned in Boston at the time of the trial. There is evidence, substantial evidence in the record and new evidence brought forth by the testimony of Robert Greer, that she was actually given police favors in order to testify. No other witness, no prosecutorial witness even saw Cynthia White on the scene that night in close proximity and in any position to be able to see what happened. Cynthia White is given, can be given no credence in terms of her testimony.

Scanlon, another prosecutorial witness, is somebody who clearly misidentified Mr. Jamal when he first saw Mr. Jamal in the police van. He said that Mr. Jamal was the driver of the Volkswagen. And he also admitted that he could not really tell which black male was which in terms of that night.

In other words, the three main prosecutorial witnesses, Your Honor: clearly could not identify Mr. Jamal, or their testimony was suspect and is undermined by the fact that the prosecution offered favors and or coercion to these witnesses to change their testimony.

In fact, what happened that night, Your Honor, is that there were at least four, in fact five witnesses that came forward in one way or another and indicated that the shooter ran away. Chobert was one. Another was Veronica Jones, who admitted at the Court, at the time of trial that she had been held for some five or six hours by 6th District police officers and offered the same deal that Cynthia White was offered. That if she would in fact change her testimony as to the fact that the shooter ran away, she would be offered some favors. She in fact did change her testimony. And what is very significant in terms of the prosecutorial conduct in this case is that the information that she had been held for those six hours was withheld from the defense until the very moment that she testified, not allowing the defense to be able to pursue what it meant that this witness was held for some six hours by the 6th

District police when it was clear she was a prostitute that worked in that area.

It came out a few years later that in fact there was a massive investigation going on of the 6th District police officers and their relationship to the prostitutes and questions of police corruption. In fact, one of the arresting officers, Inspector Giordano, was one of the officers involved in that investigation and was jailed, he was convicted and jailed for those offenses. We were not allowed to pursue the question of Lieutenant Giordano and what evidence he would have and what relationship there was between him and misconduct going back to the time of Mr. Jamal's arrest. The Court quashed that subpoena and would not allow us to pursue this question.

The other people who indicated that night that the shooter ran away was a young college student, Dessie Hightower. And we heard testimony here in this hearing that in fact he believed he was asked to take a lie detector test. It was admitted and it is a clear part of the record undisputed that he was the only witness asked by the prosecution to submit himself to a lie detector test, despite the fact that other witnesses had substantial criminal records, this young man didn't. His only crime, the only reason to subject him to a lie detector test is he had the audacity to say to the police that the shooter ran away and to stick to that story. He was told, he testified, that in fact he passed that lie detector test. The prosecution came here in this hearing and said that he had failed a lie detector test, and we were unable to pursue that question fully. The Court quashed and would not let us bring in an expert on the lie detector test, would not allow him to look at the actual test results and to examine them and to present evidence contrary to the prosecution's finding.

The point about Dessie Hightower and the lie detector test is simply this: An act of coercion of a young man who had exculpatory evidence. Evidence of Mr. Jamal's innocence. It was withheld from the defense and he was further subjected to harassment.

As already indicated, he himself was subpoenaed by the prosecution in this case. Another example, I would believe, of misconduct, given the circumstances. And he was threatened with arrest even though he was under subpoena from the defense if he did not appear on the prosecution's timetable to be here in Court. Not our timetable but the prosecution's. Again harassment of an exculpatory witness.

The other, the other people who said that the shooter ran away was a young woman named Debbie Kordansky. I don't want to go into this at length. But she came in here and testified that in fact she had seen somebody run away. Run away down Locust Street going east on the south side of the street. And that she had provided that information to the police. And that information was, that information, the key information to get her into Court was withheld from the defense. Her name, her address, her phone number was withheld. And therefore another example of how the prosecution was trying to and did control and undermine the Defendant's ability to present, to present proof that he was not the shooter in this case.

The other witnesses who came forward here were also a witness who contacted the defense during the, during the hearing, a man with a criminal record named William Harmon, who contacted defense Counsel. And we attempted to talk with him. We wanted to do further exploration and investigation as to the veracity of all of his representations as to that night. The Court would not provide us the time to do that. And the Court called him as its own witness. Nonetheless, despite those problems he got up and he testified without, without any hesitation and without being impeached that in fact he saw what happened that night and he saw that the shooter of the police officer, or the shooters of the police officer were individuals not Mr. Jamal. And he absolutely described Mr. Jamal appearing after the police officer was initially shot, trying to assist the police officer. And that, and then he ran away, and then the shooter ran away, Mr. Jamal was shot by the police officer, and that it was absolutely clear that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter.

The witness, the seriousness that initially the police took the question of the shooter running away was also seen in the witness Arnold Howard, who also came forward during this proceeding to the defense, and indicated that he had been arrested that night. He had been taken from his home in the early morning hours and he had been put into a lineup, questioned for some 72 hours at various places in the City. And he stated that he was being investigated and questioned because his license had been found in Police Officer Faulkner's hand. And he indicated that he was, that the police thought that he, that he had been perhaps on the scene and that he was part of somebody who was running away. And it was only after a period of time and after being put in a lineup when he was able to produce a slip that showed that he was shopping at a Pathmark or some other store at the time of the shooting that he was released.

This indicates a level of intent in terms of pursuing initially the runner, the shooter running away. It also shows the type of harassment of a witness. It also shows the police capacity to do things like submit somebody to a lie detector test, which they do selectively. It also showed that they took, did testing of his hands to see whether or not in fact he had shot, shot the police officer. A testing, by the way, which was not done of Mr. Jamal.

The other person who said that night that the shooter ran away was witness William Dale Singletary. Mr. Singletary came forward to the defense some years ago. He indicated then and he indicated on the stand in this hearing that he had been there that night, that he had witnessed what happened. That he saw the police officer shot, shot by a tall man with dread locks that came out of the Volkswagen that was stopped by the police officer in which Billy Cook was also inside. And he saw the police officer shot, he saw Mr. Jamal attempt to assist the police officer, and he saw the police officer shoot Mr. Jamal. He testified unequivocally, without hesitation, that he in fact saw what happened and that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter.

The prosecution's witnesses that they produced in attempt to rebut Mr. Singletary only served to confirm the fact that Mr. Singletary was there. Within minutes he was seen by Officer, Highway Patrolman Vernon Jones on the scene when Vernon Jones arrived within a minute or two of the shooting. It is confirmed that he was viewed as some sort of witness to the event because otherwise why was he one of literally only a handful of people taken to the Roundhouse that night. This in fact confirmed that he was interviewed at the Roundhouse.

Page 35.

Defense Argument

Vernon Jones also testified that he was asked to provide a statement to the Homicide detectives in which the sole purpose of said statement was to explain the circumstances in which Mr. Singletary spoke to him and what he had to say. There is no purpose to that statement by Vernon Jones except to try to undermine the truth of the situation, which was that William Singletary was there that night, that he did witness what happened that night, and that the attempt by the prosecution at this point a week later was to deny that William Singletary was there and a witness to what happened.

Now, significantly what Mr. Singletary says is as follows. He said that when he got to the Roundhouse and he attempted to tell the police, the Homicide officers what happened that night, that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter, he was told that they didn't want to hear anything about that. And when he would write a statement up for them as they requested as to what he saw, including the beating, the grotesque and furious beating of Mr. Jamal by the police officers who arrived at the scene, his statements were ripped up. And when they were ripped up he was told to go and write again. And after they were ripped up again he was told that he was not going to leave unless, he was not going to be allowed to leave and he would be subjected to bodily harm unless he wrote what they told him to. And after some five hours he did sign a statement that he said was not truthful because he had fear of what would happen if he didn't.

Page 36.

Defense Argument

And then subsequently he was further harassed, he was literally driven to close down his business and driven to leave, to leave, to leave the City for fear of what would happen to him. That is the treatment of another witness who said that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter. And in fact he was the only one of the witnesses who were described who also said they saw the shooter run away, who said that they were actually in a position to see what happened and that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter.

Page 37.

Defense Argument

Now, the prosecution has said publicly, has feigned -- this is now District Attorney Lynne Abraham -- has feigned great indignation at the assertion that the defense would assert that Mr. Jamal's conviction was the result of police suppression of evidence, of manufacturing of evidence, of favors, favors and coercion. In short, in more popular terms, a frame-up. Nonetheless, it is very clear that, and it's almost ludicrous for this feigned indignation to take place, because while we were even having this hearing the headlines of the newspapers would be in one instance reporting what was happening in these hearings, and the other instance would show the latest discoveries in the Federal investigation into corruption charges, violation of civil rights in the 39th District, then extending to the Highway Patrol. Now extending to some hundred thousand files, police logs which are being subpoenaed by the Federal investigators. Some six police officers have been indicted, pled guilty. Other police officers, as understood, are going to be indicted. Some 40 or so convictions have been reversed, drug convictions; and it looks like there will be some murder convictions further that will be, that will be overturned. That, that there has been behavior, in fact a pattern of behavior in this Police Department which has been allowed to exist by the office of the prosecution, and has not been, and when instances such as the instances presented in Mr. Jamal's case are presented to the Court, have not been allowed to be pursued by the Court. What you can say is that at least through this period of time that covers Mr. Jamal's adulthood, his prosecution, his conviction, appeal, and through this hearing, there has been a pattern of behavior in this, in this, I'm sorry, of this Police Department of one of coercing witnesses who have favorable evidence, trying to suppress that favorable evidence. Very discriminatory action against anybody who indicates disagreement, upset, opposition to police brutality.

Page 38.

And so therefore it is very clear that this case takes place under a microscope. And a microscope that has been attempted to be blurred and blocked by a Court who has not let us pursue information that is necessary to uncover even more than we have been able to do so far in terms of the nature of the falsification, the manufacture of evidence against Mr. Jamal.

Page 39.

Defense Argument

Significantly, one of the key things that we have not been able to pursue is the question of bias against Mr. Jamal. I will say just very briefly that in fact there are some 600 pages of FBI files that were done with the cooperation, initiation, of the staff of the Philadelphia Police Department of Mr. Jamal beginning in 1960 -- 1968, '69, that this Court refused to allow us to put into evidence. In fact the Court found this to be totally irrelevant to this proceeding. In fact, that showed a massive amount of bias against Mr. Jamal that needed to be pursued, including getting a hold of the police records on Mr. Jamal himself.

In short, what we have here is from top to bottom and each prong of the evidence against Mr. Jamal -- confession, witnesses, and physical evidence and information concerning the bias of this Police Department against Mr. Jamal, who is outspoken as a critic against the abuses of the police department, against the unfairness of the Courts here in many ways against minority organizations and individuals -- a system of prosecuting him, suppressing favorable evidence, manufacturing false evidence.

Page 40.

Defense Argument

I would state that our position in fact is that not only is this case such as that Mr. Jamal is entitled to a new trial, but the level of misconduct in this case is so great that in fact the charges should be dismissed and Mr. Jamal should be freed.

I want to just conclude by saying that the investigation is ongoing, that people continue to express to us that they have information, and that also withdraw from time to time out of fear. And that I have submitted to the Court -- without going through this in detail -- the various people that we know of at this time who have indicated in some way, either by first notifying the prosecution or notifying defense, that they have information favorable to Mr. Jamal. We are trying to locate these individuals further and to make an evaluation as to their testimony.

Page 41.

Defense Argument

I also want to state at this time that the Petitioner's brother

William Cook appeared in Federal District Court in Pittsburgh last Tuesday unexpected, unanticipated by defense Counsel, and indicated that he was willing to assist in his brother's defense. And that he was willing to testify, except that he was very much afraid of that. He had been subjected to threats on his life from the very beginning of the time of his arrest. He said that at the appropriate time he would testify.

And what he said in conversations with Counsel: Made representations that he was at the scene on December 9th, 1981 when Police Officer Daniel Faulkner was shot and when his brother Mumia Abu-Jamal was shot. He further stated, and I believe he would testify, that another black male was an occupant in the car with him. However, Mr. Cook did not identify the individual who was in the car with him. He further stated that his brother Mumia Abu-Jamal did not shoot Police Officer Daniel Faulkner and that another individual, neither Mr. Cook nor Mr. Jamal, shot the police officer. He would not identify or did not identify the name of the individual who shot Officer Faulkner. He further stated that Police Officer Daniel Faulkner shot Mumia Abu-Jamal.

Page 42.

Defense Argument

Lastly in terms of William Cook: At his request Counsel has contacted defense attorney Daniel Alva to represent Mr. Cook as a potential witness in this or further proceedings.

THE COURT: 25 minutes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Alva was in Court this morning and I believe he has indicated that he is available to return to Court if needed.

So lastly, Judge, I wanted to indicate that in terms of the affirmations submitted this morning to Court, Judge, that we are requesting additional time to investigate and prepare for additional and unavailable evidence and to further amend our PCRA Petition.

THE COURT: Just a minute. Are you going to talk for a half hour too?

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, what time do

Page 43.

Defense Argument

you show?

THE COURT: Well, you have used up an hour already.

MR. PIPER: I will be brief and then Mr. Weinglass will complete.

THE COURT: Because he wants a half hour for rebuttal. Unless you want to cut down that rebuttal. I don't care.

MR. PIPER: What time do you have now, 10:15?

THE COURT: No, I have 1l:10.

MR. PIPER: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, I would like to address the issues on which we have been precluded from presenting evidence, as well as the issues that are based on the original trial record. And the legal standards as to why we are able to raise these claims.

We have been precluded from presenting any evidence with respect to the racially-biased manner in which jury pools were selected in Philadelphia in 1982, the geographical disparity in and racial disparity in the death penalty in Pennsylvania, and the reasons for that having to do with the quest for death here in the City of

Page 44.

Defense Argument

Philadelphia and the District Attorney's Office.

We have also been precluded from inquiring into the nature of the Homicide Unit, its composition and the Constitutional defects under the Pennsylvania Constitution. We've been precluded from presenting evidence of the improper Jury deliberations during the trial by three Jurors. Or evidence relating to the Mills versus Maryland argument, the improper verdict form that Your Honor gave the Jury. As well as Simmons: The failure to instruct the Jury that life imprisonment means life without parole, and the incredible prejudicial effect that this would have.

And as Miss Wolkenstein has explained, we were precluded from presenting evidence in support of our Brady claims that the prosecution failed to disclose favorable evidence and that the police fabricated evidence and had, I believe, incredible hostility and bias against Mr. Jamal prior to when this incident began.

The Court's rulings obstructed every effort that we've made in this case to establish Mr. Jamal's innocence. And the Court has also precluded many claims going to the unfairness of

Page 45.

Defense Argument

Your Honor's rulings at the 1982 trial.

We were denied the ability to take discovery at a time when discovery is being taken in thousands of cases in this City because of corruption which is just a continuation of what was going on in the 6th District in 1981. The Court rushed us to a hearing and then quashed over 25 subpoenas. Attempted to intimidate Counsel with arrests, fines, intimidation. The very types of rulings which we predicted in our motion for recusal.

As I indicated, we have challenges going to the very Constitutionality of the death penalty in Pennsylvania. We tried to present two foundational witnesses to begin that claim. Your Honor quashed that subpoena without even hearing defense argument on it. And when Miss Wolkenstein rose to address the issue of the racial bias and the death penalty in Pennsylvania, Your Honor ordered her arrested.

If we could have presented this evidence we would have shown that blacks are three or four times more likely than whites to be given the death penalty in this state. That defendants in Philadelphia are 15 times more likely than anywhere else. And that this had to do with the passion for death in the District Attorney's Office which seeks the death penalty in something like 85 percent of all cases. Your Honor found this claim apparently so frivolous that Miss Wolkenstein was arrested for trying to even articulate it.

Page 46.

Defense Argument

Another issue of fairness in these proceedings had to do with the fact that the Commonwealth has been, basically, reading Mr. Jamal's legal mail, as has come out in the hearing in Pittsburgh. The Commonwealth was intercepting letters to Mr. Jamal talking about strategy for this hearing, and making copies of them, sending them to the Governor's Office, et cetera.

The prosecution continues to mislead the Court and the public as to the legal standards that are applicable here, making arguments such as that death is not an irreparable injury or that all of Mr. Jamal's, or many of Mr. Jamal's claims are barred under the rules of waiver or because they were previously litigated. I would just like to point out, since it appears that the Court has accepted that argument in precluding us from presenting so many of our claims that that, that that rule has no application in death penalty cases. If you just look at any of the Supreme Court cases in PCRAs on death penalty cases, they almost always reach the waived issues.

Page 47.

For example, in the DeHart case they said although this issue is waived we will nonetheless address it because we have not been strict in applying our waiver rules in death penalty cases. And there they reversed the death sentence because of a typographical error in the jury instructions. Similarly, in the German case the Court addressed issues that had been previously litigated, and has in other cases when there are new pieces of information, either subsequent Federal Court decisions or new evidence which has a bearing on the claims. The real point is that the State Courts are given the opportunity to look at every nuance of a claim before Federal habeas review.

On the Batson issue and Dawson issue which were previously litigated we said that there was prosecutorial misconduct in that

Page 48.

prosecutor McGill misled the Supreme Court by stating that there were only eight black jurors we have struck when we have proved the number was at least 10 and we believe the 11th juror will also be found.

On the Dawson claim as Mr. Williams has shown the prosecutor misled the Jury as to Mr. Jamal's character and took advantage of the Court's rulings in allowing him to un-Constitutionally look into the fact that Mr. Jamal was as a teenager a member of the Black Panther Party. And having struck so many blacks from the Jury, he then argued to the predominantly white Jury that because Mr. Jamal was a former Black Panther he deserved to die. The Court also is asked to review its own rulings in refusing to allow Mr. Jamal to represent himself and banishing him from the Courtroom. So that after Mr. Jamal had for five weeks prepared the case to try it himself, and conducted the preliminary hearing, on the first day of trial the Court stripped him of his right to move forward and handed everything to Mr. Jackson who was not ready for it. And Mr. Weinglass will go into that further.

And Your Honor has expressed the biased view that Mr. Jamal was in control of the case. It's hard to see how Mr. Jamal could have been in control of the case when he wasn't even in the Courtroom.

Your Honor has also misapplied the standards under the PCRA. I would just point out to Your Honor that under Section 9543 A2, Roman numeral V, any violation which would require Federal habeas corpus relief is grounds for relief under the PCRA. There is no requirement of showing that the violation go so far as to undermine the truth-seeking process or dictate acquittal.

It is enough, for example, under Brady or Strickland, that it undermines confidence in the jury 's verdict, which is a much less standard, as the Court recently reiterated in the Kyles versus Whitley case.

In addition, Your Honor, we were precluded from presenting evidence on a number of other claims. I would just like to focus a little bit on the prosecutor's, Mr. McGill's unfair and improper closing arguments in the guilt phase. And particularly, not to dwell so much on the fact that everybody knows that you can't refer to the defendant's exercise of his Constitutional rights at the trial, and yet that was exactly what Mr. McGill began and ended with, was the fact that Mr. Jamal had exercised his Fifth Amendment rights and had tried to exercise his right to counsel of his choice and his lack of success in doing that. That was the focus of Mr. McGill's argument.

Page 50.

Defense Argument

But then he went on to vouch for the witnesses. And what he said about Mr. Chobert was, quote, what motivation would Robert Chobert have to make up a story within 35 to 45 minutes after the incident. And he repeated that, arguing to the Jury that there is no evidence here that Mr. Chobert had any motivation to change his story. And yet prosecutor McGill knew full well that not only was Chobert driving without a license when he was picked up by police that night while on probation so he was in a very vulnerable position, but then Mr. Chobert had come forward and asked prosecutor McGill for favors, which prosecutor McGill had agreed to fulfill. So what you really have is prosecutor McGill just simply lying to the Jury, telling them that the evidence which he had hidden from the world did not exist when in fact he knew that the evidence to show Chobert's bias was there.

Page 51.

Defense Argument

By the same token, he said well, the defense got all these witness statements, why didn't they present any of these witnesses. Hiding from the Jury the fact that he had refused to give the defense access to the two important witnesses, Kordansky and Wakshul. So McGill again simply lied to the Jury.

And in terms of that type of prosecutorial misconduct, I would just refer the Court's attention to the Commonwealth versus Hollawell case, in which Mr. McGill's boss, District Attorney Rendell, was found to have also misled a jury by making false testimony about whether, ahh... about whether leniency had been offered to a witness. And that is at 383 A. 2nd, 909, Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

And I would also refer the Court to Commonwealth versus Smith, at 615, A. 2nd, 321, in which prosecutorial misconduct of this level was found to mandate dismissal of the charges because the defendant could not be placed in double jeopardy when the prosecution itself had so disrupted the possibility of a fair trial at the first trial.

Page 52.

Defense Argument

With that, Your Honor, I will pass to Mr. Weinglass.

THE COURT: He used 13 minutes of your half hour. If you want to go beyond your half hour, all right, but it will be less on rebuttal.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I might do that, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, one of the hallmarks of our system of justice -- and it's particularly true in a case involving the death penalty -- is that the parties come before the court and the jury in a relatively equal position. Under ordinary circumstances that's difficult to achieve. Because as we all know, the district attorney's office has scores of lawyers, dozens of investigators, an entire police department at their disposal. Whereas the defense usually has a lawyer, an investigator, and what other, other resources the defense is able to muster. It is because of that disparity that the Supreme Court of the United States has spoken out so clearly and forcefully in 1973 in the case of Chambers versus Mississippi, to the effect that given this imbalance, and given the precarious position all criminal defendants are in, courts must be zealous in their efforts to assist the defense in equalizing what is essentially an unequal situation.

Page 53.

Defense Argument

And in particular, if a court takes steps to deprive the defense of its effort to present a defense, that is an unacceptable pattern of behavior on the part of the court. With that in mind, let's look at what happened briefly here in this case.

To begin with you have the police on the night of the event gathering up the witnesses, bringing them down to the Roundhouse, interviewing the witnesses, culling them out, apparently determining who is favorable and who is not. This was, after all, a killing of a police officer. They had, after all, in their custody a man who was an open critic of the Police Department. And we now know that some statements were torn up. And we now know that favors were given to those who gave statements that were considered pro prosecution. And we now know that polygraphs were used on a biased and selective basis.

Page 54.

Defense Argument

But what was happening with the defense? Mr. Jamal laid in a hospital, critically wounded himself. He had an attorney who was appointed on December 15th. But that attorney testified in this Court, and we now know from the Court records, that he didn't have an investigator appointed for five weeks, until January 20th, after the prosecution had secured full control over all the witnesses and had interviewed the witnesses, we know from the police reports, not once but twice, and in some cases three times if they didn't get what they wanted the first and second time. Five weeks later, for a crime that occurred on the street, as Tony Jackson recalled, they were trying to piece together what they could.

Well, under our system of discovery, they did get the police reports. But the addresses were deleted. The phone numbers were deleted. Other personal information was deleted. And what happened? In the six months that it took for the case to come to trial, the investigator Mr. Greer testified that he was only able to interview not the 40 or 60 witnesses that the police had interviewed, but only two witnesses. And he testified about his attempts to interview the prosecution's chief witness, Cynthia White, but it couldn't be accomplished because she was under-police protection.

Page 55.

Oh, there's been some mention here, and I think it's rather scurrilous, that although the defense didn't have the funds for a full investigation -- Your Honor will recall the total amount of money that Mr. Greer received was $562 -- there is some mention here that there might have been -- speculation -- might have been other money available to Mr. Jamal. But there were witnesses on the stand who testified about those monies. And what did we find out? We found out that at most $1,000 was raised and that that money went to his family. And he has children. He was incarcerated, his family had to continue to live. And that at most $300 was given to a photographer named Peraneau. And that was not for photographs related to the case, but because a defense committee wanted copies of photographs so they could use it in their literature. So there was on this record zero money raised to assist the defense.

Page 56.

Defense Argument

And this record is replete with pleas from Mr. Jackson, first to Judge Ribner, then to Your Honor, pleas saying I can not get my experts. I can not get a forensic pathologist. I can't get a firearms expert on the $150 you've given me. I just am here stripped bare of the ability to defend this case with experts.

But there was no response to that. The monies for Mr. Fassnacht, the firearms expert, was raised to $350. But Mr. Fassnacht came in here and testified that he wouldn't go near this case for $350 and in fact he never examined the evidence or did any testing of the ballistics material.

On April 29th, five weeks before the case was to go to trial, Mr. Jackson came in and said to Judge Ribner I can't do this, I'm not ready to go to trial, I am not prepared, appoint another lawyer because I can not proceed with what I have. The Court rejected it.

Page 57.

Defense Argument

And on June 3rd, just as the case was about to begin, Mr. Jackson represented to this Court Mr. Jamal is without an investigator, he's without a firearms expert, and he's without a pathologist. He is standing here virtually alone. And at that point, as Your Honor well knows, on May 13th, Mr. Jamal, aware of the situation, aware of the fact that his case was in dire straits, aware of the fact that he had no defense resources, asked to represent himself. And that was granted. But, Your Honor, in 1995, can we send a person to the gallows on this kind of a record?

But that wasn't all that was to happen. If Mr. Jamal came to Court without any ability to defend himself, in clear violation of Chambers, what happened once the trial began was even more devastating. Because as Mr. Williams has pointed out, a key defense witness, Wakshul, who was present we now know in the City and within easy reach of the Courthouse, was not allowed to come in because this Court refused to allow a continuance, said he couldn't be brought in. Refused a continuance after this Court -- and Your Honor will remember this -- continued the case for half a day because a Juror wanted to take a civil service exam on that very week. The sequestered Jury sat in a hotel waiting half a day for one Juror to take a civil service exam while there were alternate Jurors who could have replaced that Juror in an instant. But when Mr. Jackson asked for a few minutes to find Mr. Wakshul, he was denied that.

Page 58.

Defense Argument

And the Court cut off the examination of Veronica Jones, a prostitute who was prepared to testify that she was interrogated, as Miss Wolkenstein pointed out, for five or six hours in the 6th precinct and offered the same police deal that was given to the key witness Cynthia White, that if she would finger Mr. Jamal she could work her corner unmolested by the police.

Well, the Court when it heard the opening to that deemed it irrelevant and ordered it stricken and prohibited Mr. Jackson going further into establishing the clear bias of the prosecution's key witness. That's a clear violation of Giglio -- G-I-G-L-I-O -- 405, U.S., 150, a 1972 decision where the Supreme Court ruled that you can not prevent testimony that undermines the credibility of a key prosecution witness. And yet that was done in this case.

Page 59.

Defense Argument

And the Court also limited the cross-examination of Mr. Chobert. Your Honor held that this man who -- and this has been pointed out by Mr. Piper and Miss Wolkenstein -- here is a witness Chobert, a cab driver, he's driving his cab without a license. He's got two DWI convictions and he's on probation for a major felony. And what does he do? As soon as the police arrive that night, first thing he says to the police, the guy ran away. The guy ran away. Mr. Jamal is laying on the sidewalk, practically near his cab. But the guy ran away. He repeats it within an hour in a written statement in the Police Department saying the guy ran 35 steps down the street on the south side going east on Locust. The same that Debbie Kordansky says, the same that Veronica Jones says, the same that Dessie Hightower says. Four people. And then added to by Singletary as the fifth.

But when he takes the stand, Your Honor, he says unbelievably that I must have made a mistake. I don't think the guy ran at all. I think he just fell right down here, conveniently where Mr. Jamal was found.

Page 60.

Defense Argument

Well, Mr. Jackson of course wants to question him on this change, why the change. And why the change can be seen in his condition -- which has already been elaborated on and I won't repeat it -- but the Court cut it off. Your Honor ruled that the fact that Mr. Chobert had been convicted of throwing a Molotov cocktail into a public school for pay was not something that went to his credibility and so the Jury never heard it. And they never heard all the things that came out in the hearing subsequent about his financial interest and his liberty interest and cooperating, and seeking the cooperation of the police, seeking the cooperation of the prosecution.

You also heard from Debbie Kordansky. Now, Your Honor, Miss Kordansky's testimony was that when she looked out the window and heard the shots, she heard the shots first, looked out the window, saw someone run, she went downstairs, and she wanted to help the police. And she wanted to help the police find the culprit. And the statement that we believed was her statement was not her statement at all. It was the statement by a police officer who recorded what she said. And what he recorded at the end of the statement is that she said she saw someone run.

Page 61.

Defense Argument

Now, I submit that in telling the police something that she wanted to help them with, she obviously told the police that she saw someone run before the police arrived because it would make no sense to inform the police of something that happened after they were already on the scene and presumably would know about it.

Debbie Kordansky should have been here in Court testifying before that Jury. She wasn't. And Your Honor knew, because you allowed Counsel to use your chambers to telephone her, Your Honor knew you could have compelled her appearance. The defense was never given her address. They couldn't reach her. Prosecution knew where she was and this Court did nothing to facilitate that.

So key witnesses were not brought in. Key witnesses were interfered with. The defense wasn't given the resources to defend the case. If this isn't a violation of everything that Chambers stand for, that nothing be done to interfere with the defense, it would be hard to imagine a case that is.

And so I submit on the strength of Chambers, Giglio, and the other cases which are cited in our brief, and the matters which the Court heard -- you heard from Fassnacht, you heard from Hayes -- both experts said on the basis of what they have reviewed, on the basis of whatever they reviewed, Mr. Jamal needed expert witnesses. And you know that he needed Dr. Hayes in particular because this Jury heard from Dr. Colletta, who said he wasn't qualified, but the only way he could explain a downward path of a bullet by a shooter who shot upward was to say that there was a so-called ricochet or spinning of that bullet after it struck a rib. Dr. Hayes came in, he looked at the medical records: There was no striking of a rib in this case. So Dr. Colletta's testimony, to save the testimony of Cynthia White and explain the downward trajectory, was utterly false, and Dr. Hayes could have informed the Jury of that.

Also, Mr. Fassnacht could have informed the Jury that, as Miss Wolkenstein points out, that the tests that were done, that were not done, was indicative of innocence.

If Your Honor please. I'm sorry.

The prosecution gained a great deal from the fact that Mr. Jamal while he worked as a cab driver late at night and who had been robbed on several occasions was armed with a gun for his own self protection. So they had a gun and they had a gun that had been licensed to him, and they used that to great advantage in this trial. But what they didn't have and what they couldn't have was any proof that that gun had been recently fired. And Mr. Fassnacht would have told that Jury that if that gun had been recently fired, the police and the police laboratory which had it within two hours would have certainly known that gun was recently fired because you could still smell the odor of burned gunpowder for up to four to five hours after the gun was used. And there was no testimony that that gun had such an odor.

Secondly, he would have said in the ordinary case of murder, no less a police shooting, when you have the suspect's hands available within five minutes, it's inconceivable that a test was not attempted through neutron activation testing to see that this individual had recently fired a gun.

So there were, there was critical firearms expert testimony that could have been offered that would have rebuttaled the thesis of the prosecution's case. And it wasn't done. No firearms expert, no pathologist, no investigation, really, to speak of, and then the Court's cutting out the defense case, the heart of the defense case before the Jury.

The second point I want to make -- and I'll be brief -- is the point that is contained in point number 6 -- or 4, I'm sorry -- about the way in which the case was handled on the defense side. And the irreconcilable conflicts that occurred between Mr. Jamal and Mr. Jackson. And the fact that Mr. Jackson was ineffective during the guilt phase of the case. Mr. Williams has already covered the penalty phase.

Your Honor has heard from Mr. Jackson that he didn't have the resources and he frankly admitted I think at one point that he didn't really know how to get the resources that he needed to defend Mr. Jamal. He was asked to file additional papers. He was asked to file memoranda of law. He was asked to file bills. He was asked to file estimates. He did none of that. He did none of it.

And the record is already clear that his preparation of the case was deficient. And I won't repeat that except he did point out that from May 13th on -- the trial began on June 7th -- he did virtually nothing. Because his understanding was that as backup Counsel he was to do nothing. So in that critical time when the case is prepared finally for trial, Mr. Jackson is, as he graphically demonstrated on the stand, sitting there with his hands across his chest doing nothing.

And when he was asked to begin this case after Jury selection had begun, he was utterly unprepared for trial, which this Court rushed through two consecutive Saturdays, one Saturday sitting until six o'clock in the evening. So he had virtually no time to prepare. He was rushing through reading statements, trying to get up to date on things, and he didn't prepare. And this is totally inexplicable.

He put on three witnesses for the defense: Dessie Hightower, Veronica Jones and Dr. Colletta. And he testified that he had talked to none of them, he put them on the stand cold in a death penalty case without having interviewed them.

During the selection of the Jury he failed to exercise peremptory challenges against Jurors who had a clear bias. Mr. Durso sat as a Juror. Your Honor will remember Dominic Durso. His best friend was a police officer who had been shot and had been on disability and was still on disability from a bullet wound he suffered while on duty. He sat on the Jury.

So did Miss Kleiner. Miss Kleiner sat as an alternate Juror. And these Jurors were sequestered so they were all together. And Miss Kleiner, her husband was a Philadelphia police officer. She had two small children at home. She interacted and related to the other Jurors. Can you imagine the impact that would have on a Jury? And yet Mr. Jackson, knowing this, did not exercise a challenge against Miss Kleiner either.

He failed to call Officer Wakshul. That's already been covered. He failed to cross-examine Mr. Chobert on his probationary status. He failed to object to the prosecutor's summation. He went into this trial, which lasted just a very quick I believe eight or nine days of taking testimony, in an unprepared and what appeared to be a somewhat unskilled state.

The prosecution's case never had to survive what the Pennsylvania Supreme Court said in the Sweeney case was the crucible of meaningful adversarial testing. Was there any adversarial testing here of this prosecution's case? And if you look at this record there was none.

And as we point out in our brief, there was none because resources were denied. There was none because Counsel was ineffective. And there was none because of a dispute that arose, an irreconcilable conflict between Mr. Jackson and Mr. Jamal. A conflict which this Court was aware of and a conflict which this Court did nothing to mollify. No colloquy, no discussion between Court and Counsel, although the Court was aware of Counsel's problems, to try to assist Counsel at a difficult time in getting through the process where the communication between Counsel and Mr. Jamal was ruptured because of actions taken by this Court to prematurely deny Mr. Jamal his right of pro se and to then banish him from the Courtroom.

So aware of the conflict, this Court had an obligation under United States versus Lockhart, which is cited in our brief, an obligation to try to once again right the balance of a terrible imbalance that was being played out before this Court. And this Court did nothing to attempt to salvage a defense case when it saw the defense case was collapsing. Was never really there to begin with, but was collapsing in front of a Jury. And it knew the problems that were occurring between Mr. Jamal and Mr. Jackson and it did nothing except to exacerbate the situation by banishing Mr. Jamal and by removing his pro se status.

One other thing that this Court did is Your Honor frequently referred to the fact that Mister -- and I think we are going to hear it from the prosecution momentarily -- that Mr. Jamal consulted from time to time with Mr. Jackson. And the answer is that's true. Does that mean that Mr. Jamal had control of the case? Mr. Jackson said no. When he testified he said I was in control, I was the speaking lawyer and I was in control. Did he from time to time talk to Mr. Jamal? The answer is yes. And the Court made note of it. But if Your Honor will recall, Rule 1.2 of the Pennsylvania Rules of Professional Conduct requires, requires a lawyer under our ethical standards to discuss with his client and talk to his client about the pursuit of the case and the methods and manner by which the case is being defended. And each time that Mr. Jackson would in the midst of this breakdown of communications attempt to have a conversation with Mr. Jamal, the Court would seize upon that and make note on the record that they were talking to each other, even though Mr. Jackson was only carrying out his ethical requirements under Rule 1.2 of the Pennsylvania Rules of Professional Conduct.

Page 69.

Defense Argument

So in short, for all the reasons that have been stated here by my colleagues as well as myself, this is a case that had completely misfired and is well below the standards of acceptable due process rights that have evolved and have developed in this country. And adding to that the fact that this is a capital case I think gives this Court no choice but to step in at this point and to recognize honestly the fact of what happened in 1982. And the fact that Mr. Jamal never had in any sense of the word a trial of his case. He didn't have the resources, he didn't have the Counsel skills, he didn't have a trial. And to give him at this point an opportunity now, by way of giving him a new trial, the opportunity for the first time to come into Court and to test, in the crucible of an adversarial process, the strength of the prosecution's case.

Page 70.

Commonwealth Argument

Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. BURNS: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MR. BURNS: Thank you.

Your Honor, I think that what you have just heard from the defense was very creative, very imaginative. I suggest to you it has little to do with what was heard from the witness stand during this PCRA hearing, and little to do with what the Jury heard 13 years ago.

I would like to begin by going back to

Page 71.

Commonwealth Argument

that thing that the defense would evidently like to forget, and that is the evidence that was presented at the trial. Because the trial of course is integral to your decision.

Some people refer to this proceeding as an appeal. That's a shorthand description, it isn't quite accurate. This is a Post-Conviction Relief Act proceeding. The Defendant had the burden of proving at that hearing that there was something very wrong, something very illegal about the process by which he was convicted.

So since one of the things the Defendant purported to be able to prove was his actual innocence, we have to go back and look at the evidence at trial, the so-called house of cards, which has proven his actual guilt.

This, by the way, was an event that happened in the 6th District in 1982, not the 39th District in 1995.

The evidence at trial, though, was Robert Chobert saw this man, this Defendant, run across the street and shoot Officer Daniel Faulkner in the back. The officer fell. Mr. Chobert saw this man, this Defendant, standing over the officer, shooting into his face. He then stated at trial the motion of the arm as the gun recoiled. He saw the Defendant go over to the curb and fall. He saw William Cook there too. Chobert identified this Defendant as the shooter at the scene. He was not picked up by the police, as someone said, he went to the police and identified this Defendant.

Page 72.

Commonwealth Argument

Cynthia White saw this man, this Defendant, run across the street, shoot Officer Daniel Faulkner in the back. The officer turned, grabbing at something at his side, she lost sight of him because the Defendant got in the line of vision, she then saw the officer fall, saw this man, this Defendant standing over the officer firing into his face repeatedly. Then this Defendant slouched, went over to the curb and sat down. She also saw William Cook standing by the wall. He was not the shooter, the Defendant was. So this mysterious fourth man was not present, was not the shooter; this Defendant was. Cynthia White was cross-examined for two days by Anthony Jackson.

Albert Magilton saw this man, this Defendant run out of a parking lot towards

Page 73.

Commonwealth Argument

Officer Faulkner, who was attempting to arrest William Cook. Magilton looked away, he heard shots, he looked, he saw the officer on the ground, saw William Cook, who he said had a shocked expression on his face, saw this Defendant on the curb. Albert Magilton identified this Defendant as the shooter at the scene.

Michael Scanlon was a man who was sitting in his car waiting for the light to change. He saw a man doing what the other witnesses described the Defendant did. There was no doppelganger, there was no double of the Defendant. He saw this man shoot the officer from behind, stand over him and shoot him in the face. He said, quote, I could see the one that hit the officer in the face. His body jerked, his whole body jerked.

Robert Chobert, Cynthia White, Robert Chobert, Albert Magilton did not know each other. They each identified this Defendant at the scene as the gunman who murdered the police officer.

Officer Daniel Shoemaker, the first officer who arrived at the scene, found this

Page 74.

Commonwealth Argument

Defendant sitting on the curb. Inches from his hand was a handgun. When the Defendant saw Officer Shoemaker he reached for the handgun. The officer had to kick it out of his reach.

Mr. William Cook told Officer Shoemaker's partner I have nothing to do with this. Mr. Cook was over by the wall, the Defendant was sitting on the curb.

The gun that Officer Shoemaker found inches from the Defendant's hand was the same handgun that the Defendant bought, that the Defendant owned, that he carried, that he bought high velocity Plus P ammunition for. There were two guns recovered at the scene: The Defendant's .38 caliber Charter Arms revolver, a five-shot weapon, which had been fired five times; and the officer's Smith & Wesson revolver, a .38 caliber gun which had been fired once, a six-shot weapon.

Now, it has been said that the most compelling evidence was what the Defendant said at the hospital. I don't know if it is the most compelling, but it is significant. At the hospital the Defendant was carried because he refused to walk to a point near the closed door of the emergency room. And the Defendant said, quote, I shot the motherfucker and I hope he dies. Officer Bell testified to this. The defense tried to impeach Officer Bell. They said you're making this up, because this wasn't in your first statement, you only said this in your second statement that the Defendant made this admission. But what made that argument fail was the fact that another person heard the statement too. And I am not referring to Officer Wakshul yet, I'm referring to Priscilla Durham. Priscilla Durham was a security guard working in the hospital. She said she heard the Defendant say the exact same thing and she reported it to her superiors the very next day. She didn't delay. She didn't leave it out. The following day she reported it to her superiors.

Page 75.

Commonwealth Argument

Now, I think I heard Mr. Weinglass say in the past there was a written statement by Miss Durham that had disappeared. Not true. In fact, if you look at the notes of testimony of June 24th, 1982, at page 52, Miss Durham was asked if she had a handwritten statement, and she said no. The statement she did give was produced at trial, and it proved that this wasn't something that people made up later on. It proved that it was something she heard that she reported the following day. Defense would like to forget about Miss Durham in their quest to show that this was a so-called bogus confession.

I would like to mention, I would like to digress by mentioning that Officer Wakshul of course heard the statement too. If he would have been called to testify he would have testified to the statement as well, that the Defendant made the same admission.

Mr. Williams was I think a bit confused when he looked at our proposed findings of fact. Because we are not saying that Officer Wakshul withheld this information because he wanted to protect Officer Bell. We are saying that his later statement, like that of Officer Bell's, both officers in their later statements reported hearing the Defendant make the admission, both officers stated that they failed to report it immediately because of their tremendous emotional state of being distraught, having this death of their colleague occur and having the Defendant make this admission. And our argument is that the fact that both Officer Bell and Officer Wakshul independently revealed that Bell made this emotional statement in reply to the Defendant's admission -- if he dies you die -- makes their testimony that much more credible because it was a statement against their interests.

Now, Miss Durham said the Defendant was bragging when the Defendant said this. She was not a police officer, she did not have an axe to grind. She did not report this to the police, she reported it to her superiors. And Priscilla Durham corroborates, if anything, the testimony of Officer Bell and the PCRA testimony of Officer Wakshul that this admission is not bogus, that it really existed, the Defendant really said that.

The ballistics evidence. The bullet taken from the Defendant's body of course matched the victim's revolver to the exclusion of all other firearms. The projectile taken from the victim's head was too deformed to be matched in a similar way to any particular gun to the exclusion of all other firearms. But there were enough markings on that projectile to show that it was fired from a gun that had a barrel with eight lands and grooves. The police officer's gun, for example, had five lands and grooves with a right-hand twist. The gun that fired this projectile, the one that killed the victim, had eight lands and grooves and a right-hand twist. The Defendant's Charter Arms revolver had eight lands and grooves with a right-hand direction of twist.

There was a second characteristic of this bullet, moreover: It had a hollow base. And the testimony at trial was that this was a unique characteristic of ammunition manufactured by a company called Federal; and that four out of the five cartridges in the Defendant's gun were of Federal manufacture.

We are talking about evidence of guilt, so let's jump ahead to evidence at the PCRA hearing for a moment. I am referring to Robert Harkins. The defense offer was that Harkins would be a witness who would prove the Defendant's actual innocence. Harkins was supposed to come in and testify that he was shown a photo array and that he picked out the shooter and that it was not the Defendant. That was the Defendant's offer of proof.

What did Mr. Harkins say when he took the stand at the PCRA hearing? He said three things. First, he said that he was very annoyed at the defense because when he told them something, they misrepresented what he said. Second, he said that he was never shown any photo array. And third, he said that the shooter, the man who murdered the police officer, went over to the curb and sat down. Just like all the other witnesses said, just like Officer Shoemaker found this Defendant sitting on the curb. Evidence not of actual innocence, evidence of actual guilt.

Now, before I get into the other evidence presented at the PCRA hearing I would like to address the claims made, the claim that the defense was rushed into Court for this PCRA hearing. I am going to refer your attention to an Exhibit that was introduced during these proceedings, a deposition of William Singletary that was conducted by Rachel Wolkenstein, Esquire, an attorney representing the Defendant in this PCRA, dated August 1990, over five years ago. That's the earliest time we can document that these attorneys were working on this PCRA case, investigating this PCRA matter, as long ago as five years. When the death warrant was signed, as a matter of record about three days before the anxious, thick PCRA Petition was filed with a whole array of depositions, of affidavits of witnesses, and yet, again, testimony didn't start to occur until two months after that. The claim that these people were not ready to proceed is a sham, it is posturing, it is a fraud upon the Court, and this Court should so find.

Now Anthony Jackson. Well, if you don't have the evidence of actual innocence, the thing to do, the thing the defendants do in PCRA proceedings, is to say the trial counsel was ineffective. This Defendant is no different to that extent, but he is unique in one way. And that is that this Defendant is particularly ill qualified to be claiming that his trial Counsel was ineffective because he demonstrated, and the trial record shows on a daily basis, that he was not going to cooperate with Anthony Jackson, or with any attorney. He demonstrated on a daily basis that it was he who was making the decisions, not Anthony Jackson. Not any other attorney. This Defendant by his actions wanted to make a political demonstration. He was following what he called the strategy of John Africa, which apparently consisted of attempting to portray himself as some kind of celebrated political figure being persecuted, being railroaded by an unfair system. But of course since letting the trial proceed would have refuted that claim that the trial was unfair, he could not have that. So the Defendant refused to cooperate with his attorney, refused to let his attorney do his job so he could turn around and say to the Court, see, my trial is not fair. Now, that is what happened. But one can not come to the PCRA Court and say gee, it was really misguided of me to stymie my attorney and I would like to have another crack at it please, I think I could do a better job if I had another crack at another trial, could I do it again. That is no basis for a new trial. He has to show that it was Mr. Jackson's fault.

So Mr. Jackson, whether it was to his credit or to his shame, attempted to help his client now, as he tried to do all along. What

Mr. Jackson did -- and there is a term we use around here when a defense attorney is accused of being ineffective, knows he is not and yet pretends that he was -- it is called taking a dive. That is what Mr. Jackson attempted to do. He attempted to take a dive. But he found out there wasn't any water in the pool, because he kept on running into the trial record. In fact, he ran into his own record. He was handpicked by this Defendant. Small wonder. Before becoming a lawyer he was an evidence technician for the police. He was an investigator. After becoming a lawyer he became an Assistant D.A. He worked with a Federal Master. He invented new procedures for filing civilian complaints with the Police Department. He taught other lawyers how to sue the police.

He filed a police complaint in this case in order to generate additional discovery. He spent five months working hard preparing for this trial. Before representing this Defendant he worked in 20 capital cases, 20 capital trials that resulted in no death sentences.

In this case the Defendant pulled the rug out from under Anthony Jackson. The Defendant announced that if he was going to be represented by anyone it had to be non-lawyer John Africa. And if not that, then he was not going to cooperate with any so-called -- quoting the Defendant -- legal-trained lawyer. Because a legal-trained lawyer was just an employee of the system who would hang him. And so the Defendant announced that he was not going to cooperate. And even after Mr. Jamal was removed as his own Counsel and after Mr. Jackson took over again after the Defendant wanted to represent himself, he still refused to cooperate with his attorney for the reasons that he himself stated.

And so every time Mr. Jackson tried at the PCRA hearing to portray himself as ineffective, he ran headlong into another part of the record that demonstrated the opposite.

The business, for instance, in his affidavit where he said he didn't know how to get funding for an investigator or for experts, the record showed that Mr. Jackson knew just what to do. He went to see Judge Ribner, who told him give me an itemized bill and you will get your money. He had to retract that statement during the PCRA hearing claiming he didn't know how to get the money.

No investigator. Robert Greer testified that he worked four hours for every hour he billed.

No ballistician. But George Fassnacht was available for consultation right through the trial, right up until the last day of the trial.

The idea that, or the claim that Greer spent all of his budget looking for one witness: Mr. Jackson was forced to admit that he, quote, misspoke on that point. Just a slip, he said.

As for his claim that there was no money: Among other things, he was confronted with his own fee petition; his own statements on the record referring to an independent defense fund, funds from the Association of Black Journalists. Funds from the Mumia Abu-Jamal Defense Committee, an organization created to raise funds for the Defendant. Among other organization and individuals.

And there was this business about him, Mr. Jackson, not knowing how to be backup Counsel. And Mr. Jackson admitted that he had been backup Counsel for Robert Mozenter in a homicide trial, and he knew how to be backup Counsel. Not that it mattered, since when he was Counsel again it was still the Defendant making the decisions.

Who was calling the shots, the Defendant or Mr. Jackson? Well, refer your attention to early in the trial, during voir dire. At a sidebar conference the Defendant orders Mr. Jackson to leave the sidebar conference, orders him not to participate. Mr. Jackson obeys. He is held in contempt. He got out of it because the Defendant changed his mind and decided to go ahead and let Mr. Jackson continue. Even after that the record shows that it was the Defendant who was personally controlling the use of peremptory challenges for the defense.

Mr. Jackson was confronted in his testimony with his own quotation to a journalist that the Defendant had his own plans for the conduct of the trial. During the trial the Defendant is conferring with, I believe it was a Theresa Africa. Mr. Jackson comes over, the Defendant tells him in so many words get lost, go away. Mr. Jackson was insulted and berated by the Defendant throughout the trial.

In the penalty phase the Defendant decided he was going to make a speech. He did not consult with Mr. Jackson about that.

At one point in the trial this Defendant ordered Anthony Jackson to make a motion, a motion that was completely ludicrous. He ordered Mr. Jackson to move for the dismissal of the charges on the ground that the Courts had not defined the crime of murder to the Defendant's satisfaction. As if he didn't have notice that shooting someone in the back and then putting a bullet in their brain was murder. That was the motion that he wanted Mr. Jackson to make and he ordered Mr. Jackson to make, and Mr. Jackson went ahead and did it. There was nothing wrong with that. It was the Defendant's trial. Mr. Jackson was acting properly by doing what the Defendant ordered him to do. But the Defendant can't come along later and say well, Mr. Jackson was ineffective, not me.

During the trial, it was established that when the Defendant decided to call Gary Wakshul on the last possible day he had a conversation with Mr. Jackson. He said why are you calling him so late, you knew, you knew you would be calling him. Mr. Jackson says no I didn't. Well, of course not. Because he testified it would have been reasonable not to call Officer Wakshul because Officer Wakshul would have corroborated Priscilla Durham and Officer Bell. It was not his decision to call Wakshul on the last day, it was the Defendant's.

Mr. Jackson did not even know who the character witnesses were going to be -- and this is very clear from the record -- because the Defendant wouldn't tell him who they were. The Defendant picked the character witnesses, had them come to Court, fed their names to Mr. Jackson as they were going to take the stand. As far as the character witnesses were concerned, Mr. Jackson was a hand puppet. That is what the trial record shows. Time and again Mr. Jackson was confronted with it.

And you will recall by the evidence of his first day of testimony, he finally blurted out well, the record's wrong, or if the record says that, well, it's wrong. And we had to end his testimony for that day so he could regain his composure. And the following day in his testimony he admitted making false statements in his affidavit, false statements in his PCRA testimony. Because Mr. Jackson was frustrated because Mr. Jackson was trying to take that dive and the record would not let him do it.

Mr. Jackson's testimony admitting, purporting to admit his own supposed ineffectiveness is just not credible. What is credible is the Defendant pulled the rug out from under his attorney, that the Defendant was making his decisions. And now that he wants to blame his Counsel, it is not grounds for relief.

Which brings us to the issue of character witnesses in the penalty phase. If Mr. Jackson had no control over who was going to be a witness in the guilt phase, how is it that he was in control of who was going to be a witness in the penalty phase? The Defendant didn't suddenly decide to restore control of the events to Mr. Jackson. At least if he did there is nothing in the record to show that that happened. And it was the Defendant's burden to prove this.

Furthermore, it's not really totally clear what their testimony would have proven.

Page 89.

Commonwealth Argument

The eloquence of the character witnesses, I suggest to you, was largely supplied to them by Mr. Williams who helped them a great deal. But the theory, I suppose what I heard, if I understood it, was that the penalty Jury was supposed to be asked to conclude that the Defendant was a man of great intelligence, intellect and talent, and that they were supposed to conclude from this that he was somehow less culpable. That if he had no creativity, low intelligence, no talent or no family life, then this act of murder would have been worse. That this man had opportunities others did not have -- that he had, I believe Williams, Mr. Williams said soulful humanity, gifts to which others could not aspire, talents that left others in awe, a family that loved him, colleagues, friends who admired him -- and that he threw it all in the trash so that he could execute a man in a blue uniform, the Jury was supposed to conclude that that was mitigation. Well, I would suggest that argument would fail in a Jury with a modicum of common sense.

It was also said that Mr. Grant

Page 90.

Commonwealth Argument

admitted that this was so, that this testimony should have swayed the Jury. I don't recall Mr. Grant saying that.

Mr. Grant, do you recall making that statement?

MR. GRANT: No, sir.

MR. BURNS: No, sir, he says. Well, I didn't think so.

This Jury watched this Defendant for a month, watched him during the trial. He was no fictional being to them. The Jury saw what the Defendant wanted them to see.

Oh, by the way, the argument that the prosecutor argued to the Jury that they should return a verdict of death because the Defendant was a Black Panther member is a lie, a boldfaced lie. No such argument was made. In fact it was the Defendant who unilaterally decided to tell the Jury on his own that he was a Black Panther member. For what that was worth I do not know, only he knows, but there was no argument to the Jury that his political beliefs should have something to do with him being executed.

Consider too that some of these character witnesses seemed somehow not to know the Defendant all that well. The State Representative David Richardson was not aware the Defendant, whom he thought to be a radio journalist, was driving a cab.

Page 91.

Commonwealth Argument

E. Steven Collins, the Defendant's radio journalism colleague, who was the Defendant's mentor, seemed unaware of how it could come about that the Defendant was no longer a radio journalist but was driving a cab.

The Defendant's sister did not know how old he was when he dropped out of school or how the family felt about it. She attended the trial almost everyday and doesn't recall him saying he didn't want a legal-trained lawyer, he wanted Mr. Africa instead of Mr. Jackson.

His high school teacher said he was called on to make peace in the community, but another witness, Arnold Howard, said in his statement testimony that he and the Defendant had gang warred together.

Kenneth Hamilton and Ruth Ballard. From some of the other testimony of witnesses it is not clear from the evidence how Mr. Jackson was even supposed to know that these people existed absent the Defendant's cooperation. We know he did not have that.

Page 92.

Commonwealth Argument

Some of the other evidence in the PCRA. Reference was made during argument that the defense wanted to put in evidence of an investigation of the 6th District. First time I've heard that ever. I don't recall hearing it during the proceedings. But if Inspector Giordano had been called during the PCRA proceeding -- and you can confirm this by looking at the notes of testimony at the suppression hearing -- Officer Giordano, or Inspector Giordano would have testified that he went to the Defendant at the scene when he was being held in the police wagon, saw he was wearing an empty shoulder holster, and said where's the gun -- because he was concerned that some civilian might pick it up -- now the Defendant said I threw it down after I shot him. Well, that's no surprise that the Defendant didn't want that information in this record, but Inspector Giordano was called and he did testify at the suppression hearing and that's what he said.

Robert Chobert, a lot was said about Robert Chobert. Robert Chobert was called at the hearing. While he was testifying the defense never asked him about this business about his arson conviction and how that would have affected his testimony. So we draw a blank there. As for supposed dealings with the prosecutor about his driver's license, he testified that at some point -- and it was either before he testified or after -- he merely said to the prosecutor, you know my license is suspended, I would like you, if you could, find out what I have to do to get it back. And the prosecutor said I'll look into it. That was the supposed deal. Nothing ever came of it. Mr. Chobert testified that it had no effect on his testimony. Mr. Williams said so you should consider Chobert's state of mind, but he told you his state of mind from the witness stand: That had no effect on my testimony, I reported what I saw. And indeed Mr. Chobert identified the Defendant on the scene before he ever met the prosecutor.

Page 93.

Commonwealth Argument

And I think the idea that the prosecutor should have arrested Mr. Chobert for a traffic violation is just a little bit silly.

Now, Gary Wakshul was called as a witness. I mentioned that Mr. Williams was confused about our position on Mr. Wakshul's testimony. The essence of it was that when he heard the Defendant make this admission -- I shot the motherfucker and I hope he dies -- he had an emotional reaction, he went away and he cried. Later he crashed his car. And it was therefore no surprise that he neglected, as did Officer Bell for a similar reason, to report this admission when he was first questioned about it. After he had time to collect himself, he was later able to think about the event clearly, and he, like Priscilla Durham, reported this admission.

Page 94.

Commonwealth Argument

Now, the defense called Mr. Wakshul for another reason. They claimed in their PCRA Petition that he was ordered to go on vacation. And they also claimed that he was ordered not to go on vacation. Well, I don't know which one they want, but Officer Wakshul testified at the PCRA hearing that he was not ordered either to go or not go on vacation.

And he did not, by the way, claim that he stayed around until the case was over. That was not his testimony. His testimony was that he left town somewhere in the middle of his vacation. Where Mr. McGill said he was not available, the defense has not proven that that was not correct. But even if he was, he would have been a witness to inculpate the Defendant, to underline the proof of his guilt, not to exculpate him.

Page 95.

Commonwealth Argument

Now Robert Greer, Robert Greer's testimony about police favors to Cynthia White. Robert Greer testified that he saw two people sitting in the car near her, that was the extent of the favors from the police. How this amounts to police protection or police favors I don't know. Two people sitting in a car does not amount to anything.

Mr. Greer testified that he was, quote, retained by the Mumia Abu-Jamal Defense Committee. He testified that the word retained he understood to mean paid. He testified that he worked four hours for every hour he billed. He testified that he had no difficulty finding those witnesses who Mr. Jackson selected for him to go and find. The idea the Defendant's case was crippled for lack of an investigator just isn't true.

Page 96.

Commonwealth Argument

George Fassnacht, ballistics expert, had nothing helpful to say for the defense. We asked him to look at the physical evidence, to make some sort of a ballistics determination, and he refused to do it. He did testify from looking at the available reports that it was apparent the victim was shot with a .38, not a .44 as the defense have claimed in the PCRA. That even Dr. Hoyer's eyeball measurement with a ruler of the projectile saying it was 10 millimeters across was consistent with a bullet being a .38 caliber bullet, not a .44. And his fee petition showed, or rather Mr. Jackson's fee petition showed that Mr. Fassnacht was in fact available for consultation to the defense throughout the trial. He was not called as a witness, and why would he be? He had nothing to say even at the PCRA hearing that would have suggested anything, any fact that would have been helpful to the Defendant, that would have rebuttaled any part of the prosecution's case.

Veronica Jones. I heard argument about what Veronica Jones would have said, except that she wasn't called at the PCRA hearing. She apparently had something to say she wasn't allowed to say. If the defense has anything in their mind that she would have said we don't know what it is because they did not put her on the witness stand.

Page 97.

Commonwealth Argument

Debbie Kordansky. Debbie Kordansky, the idea that what she said in that statement taken by the police officer was not her statement, it was the officer's statement: She never testified to that. She testified that her statement, her initial statement was the most accurate account of what she had seen. And when she testified at the PCRA hearing, she said that after the police arrived, after all the police started arriving, 10 police cars or so, she finally looked out the window, she saw someone running. Not away, not necessarily away, just someone running. And it could even have been a police officer. That is what she testified to at the PCRA hearing. Useless information in terms of establishing an exculpatory theory for the Defendant.

Dr. Hayes, a forensic pathologist, was called by the defense. He testified to a couple of interesting points which I will refer to again later. He testified that the injury to the victim's head, the shot in the face was instantaneously lethal. That he was immediately killed when that happened. And he also testified that it was a matter of scientific physical certainty that the victim did not shoot the Defendant from the ground, he had to have done it while he was still up. Couldn't have done it after he fell, must have done it before. Fine. Mr. Hayes, Dr. Hayes, rather, seemed to think that he was rebutting some part of the prosecution case. But there was never any evidence presented at the trial that the victim shot the Defendant from the ground. There was never any claim that the shot to the victim's head was not immediately lethal at trial. There was never any evidence of that.

Page 98.

Commonwealth Argument

The defense attorneys painted Dr. Hayes a picture and he accepted it. He didn't even look at the witnesses' testimony in order to prepare for giving his expert opinion. He didn't look at Dr. Hoyer's testimony until a week before he took the stand, even though he had given an affidavit the previous May. And, well, his conflict, or supposed conflict, with the evidence from the prosecution, with the evidence of Dr. Hoyer, was that, well, Dr. Hoyer said that the gunshot wound to the back somehow contributed to the death. Dr. Hayes said no, that's not right because he was instantaneously killed.

Page 99.

Well, Dr. Hayes established something about forensic pathology in his testimony: He said that a forensic pathologist's role is not just to testify to the narrow medical cause of death, but to examine how in a broader sense the victim was killed. And so if we are going to compare Dr. Hayes and Dr. Hoyer, it is Dr. Hoyer who is the most accurate forensic pathologist, because it was the gunshot wound to the back that led the victim to fall to the ground where he was an easy target for the Defendant. So to that extent, in that way the gunshot wound to the back, yes, most certainly contributed to the victim's death.

But other than that minor, hair-splitting point, I think the evidence that we heard from Dr. Hoyer, both at trial and at the hearing, and the evidence of Dr. Hayes, were perfectly consistent.

Well, if you have difficulty proving

Page 100.

actual innocence, if you have difficulty proving that your trial Counsel was ineffective, you could also claim that your appellate Counsel was ineffective; and to that end the Defendant presented Mr. Jeremy Gelb, Esquire. Mr. Gelb had, however, if anything, very little that was useful toward proving that appellate Counsel was ineffective. He said that he worked with appellate Counsel, that he worked on particular issues that were designated. He did not know all of the issues that appellate Counsel was going to consider or was considering. If appellate Counsel considered an issue, decided to disregard it, discard it for strategic reasons, he did not know about that. And evidence that I do not know about something is not evidence.

What he did testify to, though, was a couple of points. He testified that appellate Counsel, contrary to the Defendant's claim in his PCRA, read the entire appellate record. And he also testified that appellate Counsel was an excellent lawyer, that appellate Counsel's work was uniformly excellent. And I can verify that, having contended against that attorney in the appellate courts.

Page 101.

Commonwealth Argument

So that was the issue, that was the evidence of ineffectiveness of appellate Counsel.

Towards the end of the hearing the Defendant began to present witnesses that were supposed to prove his claim of actual innocence. The first of these was Arnold Howard. Arnold Howard's application for a duplicate driver's license was found on the victim on the day of the killing. He was questioned on the day of the murder, December 9th, 1981. He told the police that he lost the document in the back of William Cook's car nine days earlier, November 30th, and that he knew nothing else about the murder. That was the end of the story. Oh, he also mentioned that he knew the Defendant, that he and the Defendant had gang warred together.

14 years later Mr. Howard appears at the PCRA hearing, says he was kidnapped by the police, that he was held incommunicado for 72 hours, three days, in handcuffs the whole time. That he and someone named Kevin Freeman were put into a lineup box at the Police Administration Building, and that a black woman picked out Mr.

Page 102.

Commonwealth Argument

Freeman, I guess as the shooter. Kevin Freeman is conveniently dead.

We had the evidence of the Police Administration Building log, however, which showed that Mr. Howard signed in at 12:30 and signed out at 2:30 on December 9th, 1991. That was 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. because of course the murder happened at 4:00 a.m. 12:30 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. had already passed, there was no more 12:30, 2:30 a.m. that day, so 12:30 and 2:30 in the log after the murder they were interviewing Mr. Howard about had to be p.m.

There is no lineup facility, of course, in the PAB, we have evidence about that too. And of course, as you know, the lineup room is lit so that the people in the box can't see the people who are identifying them. How could Mr. Howard have determined whether he was being identified by a black woman or not?

Well, the evidence showed that Mr. Howard has a record as a forger, a thief and a burglar. That he never complained to anyone about being locked up for no reason for three days. Never said anything about Freeman for 14 years, even though he knew the Defendant, knew the Defendant's brother. Even though Freeman, supposedly the real killer, was still alive at the time the Defendant was being tried, Howard did nothing.

Page 103.

Commonwealth Argument

I suggest to you that the credible evidence came from Captain D'Amato, the man who took Mr. Howard's statement over a period of two hours, not 72 hours. A statement which was verbatim, in which Howard indicated that he knew nothing about the murder except that his application for a duplicate driver's license was in William Cook's car.

Dessie Hightower was called by the defense at the PCRA. Now, he testified at trial, as you will recall. And he testified at trial on cross-examination that yes, he saw someone running from the scene sometime after the shots were fired, but he wasn't sure whether it was a man or a woman. Then Detective Thomas testified that apparently Mr. Hightower was seeing Veronica Jones. Not an alternative shooter.

Well, 13 years later Mr. Hightower now remembers things very differently. He also claims to remember that he took a polygraph examination and was told that he passed. We put on the officer who conducted that examination, who testified that no, Mr. Howard was told that he flunked the polygraph examination. That's what he was told. Mr. Hightower was wrong when he testified to that, and I suggest to you he was wrong about his testimony in the PCRA. His version of the event that he gave at trial six months after the event is more credible than the version he gave 14 years after the event.

Page 104.

Sharon Smith was a woman who testified she was on probation for simple assault. She came forward for the very first time after 14 years. She said she heard shots and immediately looked out her window instantly, within three seconds and so, and saw a whole group of police officers beating a black man, beating him so badly that they must have broken every bone in his body. Although the evidence is they could not have appeared instantaneously out of thin air.

And who, supposedly, were they beating? It couldn't have been the Defendant, because Dr. Colletta, his treating physician, testified at trial that the Defendant did not have any injuries consistent with any beating, much less a beating like this. And that the Defendant didn't complain to him about being beaten. His treating doctor.

Page 105.

Commonwealth Argument

Well, she said she had an impression that it was a, if it was not the Defendant then she had an impression that it was a so-called -- the defense used the term -- street preacher, a man she said she had seen in the area handing out literature. Well, all right, if that's who was there then where was the Defendant? Where was William Cook?

This witness testified that she came forward to testify in this case because she did not want the Defendant to be executed; and that, I suggest, is the explanation for her testimony, not that she had seen anything.

William Harmon. William Harmon was the man from Mercer who needed to see the pictures. The defense talked to this man at the State prison at Mercer on August 3rd, interviewed him for a period of hours, had him brought to Court. A period of a week went by that it took them to do this. And there he was in Court, ready to take the witness stand, and the defense attorneys say, umm, no, wait, we can't put him on the witness stand, we have to have him see pictures first. No other witness needed to see pictures. Oh, the defense knew that the pictures were not present in the file because they had already asked to have the pictures duplicated. The pictures had been sent out to the lab at their request. So someone goes to the lab, gets the pictures, brings them back. Takes three hours. Come back after lunch, the defense attorneys find that the pictures are present, pictures are here, he can see the pictures; and they say oh, well, no, we can't call him to the stand because he's sleepy. Yeah, he had to sleep on a bench, he didn't get much rest, he is sleep deprived, we can't call him.

Page 106.

Commonwealth Argument

They were required to put him on anyway, and it proved, his testimony demonstrated that Mr. Harmon was not sleep deprived, he was truth deprived. He had testified that he was a great fan of the Defendant, heard him on the radio, saw him at the scene, and that he was with the Defendant when the shooting happened. The story was that some guy shot the police officer, the officer fell, then the Defendant came over to the officer. That the officer shot the Defendant while lying on the sidewalk at a distance of 10 feet. And then a car comes up, some guy gets out of the car, a guy with long hair, and he says you son of a bitch you and shoots the officer.

Page 107.

Commonwealth Argument

Oh, yeah. Mr. Harmon said that the victim, that the victim said you son of a bitch you too. Both of them said exactly the same thing. The police officer says you son of a bitch you and shoots the Defendant. And then some guy comes in a car and says you son of a bitch you and shoots the police officer. I guess Mr. Harmon couldn't think of any better dialogue.

Now, Dr. Hayes, the Defendant's expert forensic pathologist, demonstrated that it was physically impossible for the victim to have shot the Defendant from the ground. Yet that is what this witness testified to. He testified that the shot was from a distance of 10 feet, but the primer residue on the Defendant's clothing -- this was testified to at trial by

Page 108.

Commonwealth Argument

Dr. Tumosa -- demonstrated that the Defendant was actually shot from a distance of less than 12 inches.

Mr. Harmon, the testimony showed that he was a confidence man, a pimp, a mail frauder, a thief, a drug user, a burglar, sold drugs out of his mother's house, knew the Defendant well, knew the Defendant's brother. Why didn't he come forward? Well, he said he told his mother he wouldn't get involved and he had such regard for his mother that he didn't want to get involved in this case, even though it was apparently okay with her that he was a pimp, a thief, a drug user, he had such regard for her that he sold drugs out of her house.

Or maybe it was that he didn't want to get in trouble with the police. Well, that won't work because Mr. Harmon was an informant for the police. He was giving information to the police during the period that he was involved in all of these criminal activities. That's no good. The Defendant's argument was that Mr. Harmon was not impeached. We think he was. I suggest to you his testimony was not credible.

Page 109.

Commonwealth Argument

Finally, I guess the last witness who testified to the Defendant's supposed innocence was William Singletary. William Singletary, you know, William Singletary at the time of the killing encountered Officer Vernon Jones, who he said was his friend. Officer Jones took a statement from him, and Officer Vernon Jones testified about that statement at the PCRA, saying that Mr. Singletary told him, Officer Jones, he didn't see the shooting. Didn't see it. Later Mr. Singletary gave a statement to a Homicide detective, and I will get back to that.

What Mr. Singletary claimed at the PCRA hearing, however, was that he was interviewed by a man called, or who called himself Detective Green. And that this Detective Green, who was a black man, kept taking statements from him that he would write out in long hand and then Detective Green would tear them up, throw them away. And finally Detective Green threatened him and Detective Green said well, you will write what I tell you to write, has him write this out in longhand; and then Detective Green types up a statement, has him sign it. Well, he later claims that he was harassed by the police, the police broke his windows, that the police drove him out of business, and he told all of this to State Representative Alphonso Deal, who is deceased.

Page 110.

And his story was that the victim was shot in the face by an armed man. That's how the account of the shooting begins: The victim is shot in the face, falls to the ground. Mr. Singletary says the Defendant comes over to the victim Officer Faulkner. They speak to each other, Officer Faulkner is speaking to the Defendant, and then Officer Faulkner shoots the Defendant. According to Mr. Singletary, that is the sequence of events.

Mr. Singletary goes on to describe that the Defendant was wearing an Arabic outfit. He was the only witness who claims that the Defendant was dressed as Lawrence of Arabia. He then claimed that a bunch of captains and lieutenants came out of the parking lot and then disappeared, the police beat the Defendant, put their sticks in his wound, kicked him in the testicles, picked him up and used his head as a battering ram against the side of a police van.

Well, instead of dying the Defendant

Page 111.

Commonwealth Argument

shows up at the hospital and, as I mentioned, Dr. Colletta, his treating physician, testifies at trial he doesn't have any injuries from these events.

Mr. Singletary also saw -- and he is the only one who has seen this -- a helicopter, there was a helicopter flying around the scene, shining its light down on the participants.

He gave a deposition, as I said, in 1990. In his PCRA testimony he claimed that there were two shots. In his deposition in 1990 he claimed that there was one shot.

In his deposition in 1990 he claimed that the victim talked to the Defendant. He also claimed that the victim did not talk to the Defendant. Quote, he didn't say anything. He just laid back, grabbed his gun and fired, unquote. Fired, that is, after being instantaneously killed. You will recall the testimony of Dr. Hayes. The Defendant's expert pathologist testified that the victim Officer Faulkner was instantaneously killed when he was shot in the face. Yet according to Mr. Singletary, after the victim was shot in the face and was instantaneously killed he was nevertheless able to talk and able to fire his weapon from the ground. Which of course couldn't be possible because according to Dr. Hayes, the Defendant's expert witness, it is physically impossible for Officer Faulkner to have shot the Defendant from the ground.

Page 112.

Commonwealth Argument

And on the more practical level, why would this Officer Green not want to know who had really killed the victim? This was a police shooting. It is not credible that a police officer would be trying to force a version of an event about which he knew nothing onto this Mr. Singletary instead of trying to find out what happened.

But you heard the testimony -- and this I think is the clinching factor -- you heard the testimony of Detective Edward Quinn. Detective Quinn testified that he was the one who took Mr. Singletary's statement at Homicide on December 9th. He and Mr. Singletary agreed that there was only one interview of Mr. Singletary. And it was Detective Quinn, not Green. Detective Quinn is white, not black. He took the statement, and in it Mr. Singletary said he did not see the shooting but he looked at the aftermath and he saw three men. One is the victim; one I think we can infer is William Cook; and the other one, the one who had, quote, dray locks, was on the curb. If that sounds familiar it's because that was the testimony of Robert Chobert, Cynthia White, Albert Magilton, and Officer Shoemaker, and Robert Harkins at the PCRA hearing, that it was the Defendant who was sitting on the curb after shooting the officer to death. It is exactly what the officer found: This Defendant, this Defendant, who was reaching for his gun at the site of a dying police officer.

Page 113.

So much for actual innocence. Officer Faulkner was not killed by some mystery man or some doppelganger or some look alike of this Defendant who vanished. It was no coincidence that it was the Defendant's gun which had been fired five times; that the bullet that killed this officer had a hollow base like the ammunition that the Defendant used, four out of five shells; that it was marked with eight lands and grooves, like the Defendant's gun. It was not the result of some plot that eyewitnesses who did not know each other identified this

Page 114.

Commonwealth Argument

Defendant at the scene as the gunman sitting on the curb.

It was this Defendant, not some mystery man, who bragged at the hospital about being the one who shot the victim.

Officer Daniel Faulkner was murdered; this is the Defendant who did it. PCRA relief should be denied.

Thank you, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Shall I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Just a minute. Wait awhile. There are only 20 minutes left for rebuttal.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right.

THE COURT: I thought you were going to take it.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we are dividing.

THE COURT: How are you going to divide it, five minute each?

MR. WILLIAMS: I will take approximately five to seven minutes.

THE COURT: Well, everybody else is going to have rebuttal?

Page 115.

Defense Argument

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we will use up the entire 20 minutes divided among the four of us.

THE COURT: Five minutes each.

MR. WEINGLASS: It might be a little, might be six for one and four for another.

THE COURT: Well, let me know. How do I know what you are going to do. I said you have 20 minutes and that's all you get.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's what we will do, we will just use the 20. But we have until one o'clock, as I understand it.

THE COURT: Yes. Okay, go ahead.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let me be very quick. I think with respect to the Wakshul issue, we see how absurd the arguments can descend when the prosecution's case is challenged. They claim here -- and I am going to speak fast -- that it was the emotional state of Mr. Wakshul that explains the failure to mention anything about the confession.

First of all, Wakshul doesn't use that explanation. He said he didn't understand the significance of the confession. But even more importantly, Your Honor will remember I used the blackboard and I listed the abundant details on the night in question that he recalls from his own memory. And then a week later, December 16th, he had a full week to collect himself, he testified that he had collected himself, he was invited to provide details that were important. He was asked is there anything you wish to add and he made no mention of the confession. It took him 64 days, apparently, to collect himself. And apparently it took the shock of finding out that Mr. Jamal had made an allegation of police brutality before he could collect himself to make this allegation of a confession. I would welcome that kind of argument in front of a jury because it precisely proves my point: The absurdities of the Commonwealth's case and what they will descend to to try to salvage this case.

Page 116.

Defense Argument

The emotional state of Mr. Wakshul. Well, does that explain every single police officer witness in that hospital, all of whom said that, made no mention of any kind of confession of this sort? It's preposterous. And if Your Honor is inclined to deny this claim, then I invite you, Your Honor, to adopt that argument. Because I think any rational jurist will reject it out of hand, just as any rational human being would reject it out of hand. I invite Your Honor to accept that rationale. Any lawyer would have a field day with this. Just as I did, a young lawyer. Just as Mr. Jackson said he would.

Page 117.

Defense Argument

Now as to Miss Durham's statement. As a matter of fact, Miss Durham on the stand refused to adopt this purported typewritten statement. That's in the record, 6-24-1982, pages 52 and 98. Why did that statement come in? According to the prosecution, because, quote, they took the handwritten statement and typed this. Well, now we hear that there was no handwritten statement at all. But that's why it was admitted. And it was admitted supposedly to refresh Miss Durham's recollection. Her recollection didn't need to be refreshed.

And was the author of this typewritten statement brought in to testify? The answer is no. The fact is Miss Durham first came up with this confession during the same time span as Mr. Bell and Mr. Wakshul, in February of 1982.

Page 118.

Defense Argument

Also, I might add that Mr. Wakshul didn't see Gary Bell and didn't see any hospital security personnel when Mr. Jamal supposedly made this statement. But he did see his partner. His partner was near Mr. Jamal. And did his partner, Officer Trombetta, say he heard a statement, any kind of confession? The answer is no. This is a litmus test of what kind of case the Commonwealth had.

On the mitigation they make this preposterous argument that persons with less qualities of Mr. Jamal are somehow more worthy of life, but I want to say this on behalf of the defense team.

THE COURT: One minute left.

MR. WILLIAMS: I may go just slightly over.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILLIAMS: I want to say on behalf of the defense team: We on the defense team believe that the death penalty is an abhorrent mode of punishment, it is a stain on this society and it violates the dignity of every human being. But under the law, the Commonwealth seeks the death penalty on people who are so lacking in human worth that somehow State-sanctioned death is appropriate. Well, under those conditions, and if the Commonwealth is going to invoke this sanction, then the defense is obligated to prove the opposite: That his or her client is not so lacking in human worth so as to not be executed. And that's precisely why the law recognizes that this form of mitigation ought to be presented. And it's shocking that the Commonwealth will invoke that kind of argument. And in fact, if Your Honor will look at pages 98 and -9, and page 191, Mr. Grant does make some astonishing -- well, not so astonishing -- powerful statements regarding the mitigation of the Commonwealth's case.

Page 119.

Defense Argument

Finally, what is the prosecution suggesting is your role? Are they suggesting that Your Honor sit up there like a potted plant? If the defense presents no mitigation witnesses, and when Your Honor knows that there has been some difficulties experienced by Mr. Jackson and Mr. Jamal, Your Honor owes an obligation, which the law recognizes and demands, that Your Honor intervene and engage in a colloquy with the Defendant to insure that the case is proceeding as it ought.

Page 120.

Defense Argument

And so if the Court is going to adopt any such argument by the Commonwealth, then Your Honor must look to yourself to see if you have fulfilled your own judicial obligations to insure that substantive justice was done.

Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, five minutes. I want to say that in fact the prosecution has continued to misrepresent the record, as it full well knows.

In terms of the deposition taken of William Singletary in August of 1990, I was not the attorney in that. The attorney was Mr. Jamal's appellate attorney. And in fact, her failure, the appellate attorney's failure to follow up on Mr. Singletary was one of the reasons why a search was begun to establish new counsel for Mr. Jamal. And that period, that search took several years to do that. And it was only after that search was begun that we were able to try to put together again the information, evidence, investigation and everything that was necessary to pull together this PCRA Petition. Prosecution knows whose names are on that deposition and this misrepresentation is again another reflection, another piece of evidence of the type of process that they have engaged in.

Page 121.

Defense Argument

I want to also direct the Court's attention to the fact that Mr. Singletary then disappeared. He was unavailable because of fear. And as he testified in Court, the first time he met with Mr. Weinglass was in June of this year. That should be clear for the record.

I further want to state on this matter that the prosecution makes much of the so-called impossibility based on Dr. Hayes' testimony, trying to undermine the testimony by Mr. Harmon and Mr. Singletary, as to what position, what position Officer Faulkner was in when the shot was taken against Mr. Jamal. I want to state that this is another misrepresentation of the testimony. Both Mr. Harmon on August 10th on page 63, and Mr. Singletary -- I don't have the cite right in front of me -- testified that when Mr. Jamal approached the police officer he was not prone on the ground, absolutely not prone, but he was lying against the wall.

Page 122.

Defense Argument

And Mr. Hayes, Dr. Hayes also testified that the other position of Mr. Jamal that would have had the type of shots and the direction of the shots would be as if he was bending over. Bending over as if to help, as he was doing that night, over Police Officer Faulkner. That would have gotten the same trajectory. The one thing that would not be established, that could not happen, would be a Police Officer Faulkner falling, which is the prosecution's theory, and shooting upward to Mr. Jamal. That is a medical impossibility.

If we could have proceeded with our lie detector expert, we also would have been able to introduce other evidence on how witnesses conflated their testimony which would have also dealt with the sequence question in terms of, in terms of Mr. Singletary. But the Court would not allow us to pursue any of this.

All right, I am going to...

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, I don't really have anything to add because of the 14 claims I addressed Mr. Burns did not respond to one of them. Reflecting again, I think, their eagerness is simply to get one more notch on the gallows and is not to explore the issues in this case. The Supreme Court cases and the Constitutional law surrounding these issues must be considered.

Page 123.

Defense Argument

THE COURT: Mr. Weinglass.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just a few observations. There are three witnesses that Counsel addressed: Arnold Howard, William Harmon, and William Singletary. And I want to say just briefly about each of them.

There is no question and it's not in dispute that William Singletary was there. And he was there at the time of the shooting. Highway Patrolman Vernon Jones said he got there within two minutes of the shooting --

THE COURT: 45 seconds.

MR. WEINGLASS: 45 seconds. I thought we had until one o'clock.

THE COURT: No, no, I was commenting on the officer's testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, I see. Thank you.

THE COURT: When he got there it was less than a minute.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, and when he got there Singletary was already there. Indicating that Singletary must have been there at the time of the shooting. And Singletary that night was brought down to the police station and he gave a statement. So there is no question about the fact that we're dealing with someone who was there.

Page 124.

Defense Argument

Now, the problem is this. What he told the police that night and reduced to writing we don't have. And we will never have it because it was torn up. What we do have is a deposition that he gave eight years later when he was trying to remember after the passage of eight years, and after having read about the case in the newspaper, what he remembered seeing that night. But the fact of the matter is his best recollection -- and he said this on the stand -- we will never have because of the action of the police officers who interviewed him that night.

Incidentally, the prosecution was very careful to call Officer Quinn who took the statement, but they did not call Officer Green who tore up the statement. And I found that to be significant.

Secondly, with respect to William

Page 125.

Defense Argument

Harmon. We don't know William Harmon. As Your Honor knows, we found out about him in the middle of the hearing. We knew he was an inmate and one of us went to see him briefly: Miss Wolkenstein. But as we told the Court, we hadn't had an opportunity to investigate what Mr. Harmon said, nor to evaluate him as a witness. We did not call him as a witness. The Court called him as a witness. But I will say this much about Mr. Harmon.

THE COURT: I went to all the trouble of getting him here for you from prison so I wanted to hear what he had to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court wanted to hear what he had to say.

THE COURT: Because I went to the trouble, because you told me he was your witness, I brought him in. I specially sent deputies to get him, to bring him in.

MR. WEINGLASS: We told the Court that we wanted him brought in and we wanted to re interview him.

THE COURT: You did re interview him that morning, at the Sheriff's office.

MR. WEINGLASS: Very briefly.

Page 126.

Defense Argument

THE COURT: I don't know how briefly. But you had a chance to reinterview him. You wanted to reinterview him after we had a sidebar conference that nobody has brought up as yet. Right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, but we wanted to interview him, Your Honor, because in a case involving the death penalty, we did not want to put on a witness, one who we did not locate but came forward, who we did not have a chance to investigate. Because he gave us the names of people who he said he told this story to. We wanted to check with those people. We didn't have the time to find them. One is in Massachusetts, another could not be located. We could not put a witness on in such condition. The Court forced the witness on us, over our objection.

THE COURT: Yes, because you said you wanted me to bring him in. Fine, I brought him in. You had a sworn statement from him. He couldn't deviate from that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. It was not a sworn statement but we had a statement.

THE COURT: Well, okay. I don't know

Page 127.

Defense Argument

if it was or wasn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: We have to be careful about that. But, Your Honor, the thing is this: I don't know what motivates Mr. Harmon. I honestly don't. I hadn't spent any time with the gentleman. But I do know this. He could receive absolutely no benefit from the defense by coming forward and saying that Mr. Jamal was not the shooter. He could only be seriously hurt. The man is serving a sentence which could be expanded up to 10 years and he came in here to testify and put his parole status in absolute peril. That was very convincing to me.

THE COURT: So you say he is telling the truth, then?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well. What I am saying is Mr. Harmon would have no reason to lie.

THE COURT: Well, I didn't say he had any reason to lie. I just wanted to hear what he had to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, but I am just saying, Your Honor, that when you look at this individual who we didn't know and we didn't put on, you have to take into account that his coming forward was at his own peril.

Page 128.

Defense Argument

THE COURT: Well, I think he said --

MR. WEINGLASS: And he had no benefit at all.

THE COURT: I think he said that his buddies in prison said if you could help him there, help him.

MR. WEINGLASS: And what the Parole Board is going to say is you will serve another seven or eight years.

THE COURT: I don't know what the Parole Board will do, that is not my problem.

MR. WEINGLASS: I don't think he will get a recommendation from the District Attorney's Office, I think it is fair to say that.

Now with respect to Arnold Howard. Arnold Howard was an individual who, there is no question about it, was taken into custody. There is no question in anybody's mind that a document of his was found at the scene. And so he wasn't someone who just showed up without there being a basis.

THE COURT: Well, don't you think that's good police work? If I was a police officer and I found his name there in the officer's hand, don't you think I would call him in? Of course I would.

Page 129.

Defense Argument

MR. WEINGLASS: He was called in. That might have been good police work but the fact of the matter is he says, he says that he was held for 72 hours.

THE COURT: Yes, but he says he wasn't there. And he proved it by producing a slip from the marketplace where he was.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right.

THE COURT: So he wasn't there. So what difference does it make?

MR. WEINGLASS: But the point of the matter is this. He was treated by the police that night as if he might have been the person who ran away.

THE COURT: Sure. And that's, and that's good police work.

MR. WEINGLASS: That supports Dessie Hightower, Debbie Kordansky, Veronica Jones, and Chobert, all of whom said the shooter ran away. And the police --

THE COURT: That doesn't support them. It doesn't support them because he proved that

Page 130.

Defense Argument

he wasn't there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. He might not have been the individual but the fact of the matter is --

THE COURT: Oh, you got another individual.

MR. WEINGLASS: He might not have been that individual but the fact --

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the fact of the matter is the police were operating on the theory at that point that the shooter ran away. And they thought it might have been Arnold Howard.

THE COURT: Well, sure, what's wrong with that? The police could operate on a lot of theories. That doesn't mean that they are all correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Just as medical examiners can make mistakes too.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: You brought up that one about the young lady who was allegedly shot by a shotgun. Where the Medical Examiner on the scene saw all of these hundreds of...

Page 131.

Defense Argument

MR. WEINGLASS: Puncture wound.

THE COURT: . . . punctures and assumed that it was a shotgun. But when he took the body back to the morgue --

MR. WEINGLASS: 12 years later.

THE COURT: No, not 12 years later. Took the body back to the morgue and he started looking for pellets and he couldn't find them, then he said it couldn't have been a shotgun, it was an ice pick.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: So what's wrong with that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing is wrong except Mr. Connors served 12 years for a crime he didn't commit.

THE COURT: I gave him a new trial. Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: I gave him a new trial. That was my case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, after he served 12 years.

THE COURT: Well. What do you want me to do?

Page 132.

MR. WEINGLASS: I could close with this: Here we are 13 years later and I am sure the Court will do the same in Mr. Jamal's case and it ought to.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I just have one last thing. This is not argument.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I'm completed with argument.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: You know that Mr. Alva was here in Court. He was here twice this morning. He is, as I understand it, William Cook's attorney. Was his attorney then, did his trial, handled his case. When William Cook appeared last week I referred him to his lawyer and I contacted Mr. Alva. I understood Mr. Alva came here this morning as Mr. Cook's representative but he hasn't had an opportunity to address the Court. He left a note for me indicating that he had to return to his office but that I should advise him when we're finished. Does the Court want to hear from Mr. Alva with respect to William Cook and --

Page 133.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know. Let's see what the Commonwealth's position is on this.

MR. GRANT: Mr. Alva wasn't at 12th and Locust on December the 9th of 1981, and what he has to say is totally irrelevant. If Counsel wishes to call Mr. Cook we would be more than willing to entertain his testimony. Your Honor, with the Court's permission, assuming. And I note as yet -- and Miss Wolkenstein deems herself capable and fit to testify for Mr. Cook -- no part of his body is in this room. Mr. Alva's here to do the same. No sightings of him in Philadelphia. And now august Counsel here wants to make more representations on the record.

THE COURT: Well, I don't want to listen to Mr. Alva. I don't think that's part of these proceedings.

Do you have any surrebuttal?

MR. BURNS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, then we are finished.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not offering Mr. Alva as a witness.

THE COURT: I don't care what you are offering him for.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is here to represent Mr. Cook and wants to make representations about Mr. Cook to the Court which I am not in a position to do.

THE COURT: The District Attorney says if he wants to bring Mr. Cook in here they have no objection to Mr. Cook taking the stand and testifying. You relay that to him from me, will you please.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will. Could we bring him back?

THE COURT: What?

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we bring Mr. Alva back to inform the Court?

THE COURT: No, you could inform him.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. But Mr. Alva wants to come here to speak to the Court.

THE COURT: I don't want to listen to him. If he has a client that he wants to produce here to testify, the D.A. has no objection to it, I certainly don't have any objection to it. Let him bring his client in.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Could we do that right after lunch?

Page 135.

THE COURT: I am not going to come back to this Courtroom again, Counselor. It has nothing to do with it. You tell him what I said and if he wants to do it let me know. Let him, let the D.A. know. Let him give us a written statement or something as to what Mr. Cook is going to say.

MR. WEINGLASS: And you want that this afternoon?

THE COURT: I don't care when you do it. I am not making a decision yet, I am taking it under advisement. I have to read all of this you have given me so far. So I am not making a decision today.

MR. WEINGLASS: As far as I know, Mr. Alva was meeting with William Cook this morning at nine o'clock.

THE COURT: Well, let him tell us what he wants. Let him inform the D.A. If the D.A. has no objection, I certainly don't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, could we come back at two o'clock?

THE COURT: Why do we have to come back? You let me know. You let me know what he wants to do, period.

Page 136.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, I don't know what this game is supposed to be about, but if Counsel wants to call William Cook he can call William Cook.

THE COURT: That's what I said to him.

MR. BURNS: Mr. Alva is not a witness, he is not representing any party in this case. For us to come back and to entertain Mr. Alva would be, really, pointless.

MR. WEINGLASS: Maybe I haven't made myself clear.

MR. BURNS: No, not at all.

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to call Mr. William Cook. His lawyer came to Court this morning, and I don't know what position his lawyer is going to take.

THE COURT: Well, you find out.

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to call William Cook, I want that clear.

THE COURT: Find out. You told me before you didn't want to call him. Now you changed your mind.

MR. WEINGLASS: I didn't have him, Your Honor. I saw him --

THE COURT: I asked you whether or not the Defendant wished to testify, whether his brother was going to testify, whether you were going to call him, and you said no.

Page 137.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Now you are saying now you want to bring him in. You talk to Mr. Alva. If he wants to bring him in, fine. That's it for today.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just wanted to be clear.

THE COURT: It's very clear. I can't be any clearer than that. You tell Mr. Alva what I said. And if he wants to bring him in we will make arrangements, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I saw William Cook for the first last week in three years.

THE COURT: Fine. I haven't seen him since '82.

MR. WEINGLASS: He showed up last week for the first time unannounced.

THE COURT: Counselor, please. You are going to stand here all day and argue about something. I told you what I want you to do. Speak to Mr. Alva. If he wants to bring him in to testify, we will have him come in and testify.

MR. WEINGLASS: This afternoon?

THE COURT: Well, I don't know. If he could bring him here this afternoon, fine.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I don't think Mr. Alva, quite frankly, has anything to do with this. There is no more attorney-client privilege. There is no Fifth Amendment right. If he wants him he should subpoena him and if he is subpoenaed he will be here. And if he doesn't want him he won't be here.

THE COURT: Well, then, subpoena him.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will subpoena him through Mr. Alva. But Mr. Alva saw him at nine o'clock this morning and came to Court, he was going to, we wanted him to testify. I'm only asking that we come back at two o'clock so that we could put Mr. Cook on the stand.

THE COURT: Well, if he is here and they don't have any objection. We will be back here at two o'clock to have him take the stand.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

MR. GRANT: Let us know at 1:45, Mr. Weinglass, we will accommodate you.

Page 139.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court stands in recess until the call of the Crier.

(Luncheon recess was held until 2:42 p.m.)

THE COURT: All right, what's your problem, gentlemen?

MR. GRANT: Well, Your Honor, apparently Counsel is desirous, Mr. Weinglass purports to be desirous of having Mr. William Cook come in to testify, since closing arguments are already done. However, they have not subpoenaed Mr. Cook. And he was in their company a week ago when there was plenty of opportunity to do so. And apparently Mr. Cook's Counsel, Mr. Alva, purports to be his Counsel. I suggest to you that he is not. This case terminated in 1983 on August the 10th when Mr. Cook was sentenced for his part in this affair after pleading guilty. Nevertheless, Mr. Weinglass, who I imagine has been repeatedly badgered by the press as to why the only person who could really tell what happened that night besides Mr. Jamal has never been called as a witness, I suggest to Your Honor that what Mr. Weinglass is doing is posturing for the press, saying we want Mr. Cook but we have to defer to Mr. Alva. And if Mr. Alva says no, then, you know, we tried.

Well, I suggest that Counsel serve Mr. Cook so that Your Honor's order that he be present tomorrow can be obeyed. Otherwise, Your Honor has no jurisdiction over Mr. Cook, you can not compel his appearance here today. Which is what, I am sure, Mr. Weinglass wants.

In any event, Mr. Alva says he needs three or four days to speak to his client to determine if he should testify, if he has any Fifth Amendment exposure, if he is competent to testify, and that we will be holding this in abeyance until Friday.

We would object. If Mr. Cook's not brought in tomorrow, I would ask Your Honor to begin your review and to proceed with findings of fact and conclusions of law in accordance with the law.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are prepared to put Mr. Cook on. We've asked for his appearance. I saw Mr. Cook for the first time after three years when he appeared in Pittsburgh. I was in Pittsburgh. I don't practice there, I was in the Courtroom. As soon as I saw him I was called as a witness. I was on the stand for a day-and-a-half. I never had an opportunity to subpoena him. But I did contact his lawyer, and I understand he met with his lawyer this morning.

And I understand he's here. I don't mean in this Courtroom but he's here now in Philadelphia. And we are prepared to call him as a witness. All of Counsel's comments, of course, are rhetorical, without a basis in fact. I don't want to even bother to go into it. There is no need to spend more time on this issue. We are ready, we want Mr. Cook on the stand. His lawyer was here and we are prepared to proceed.

MR. GRANT: Could the Court inquire of Mr. Alva as to whether in fact he is his lawyer? And if so could he enter an appearance in this proceeding. Otherwise, he would be nothing more or less than an officious intermeddler.

THE COURT: Oh, there you are, Mr. Alva.

Page 142.

MR. ALVA: I am beneath the officious intermeddler sign.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have anything you wish to say?

MR. ALVA: Well, Mr. Grant had spoken on my behalf quite eloquently. If Your Honor please, as I do represent Mr. William Cook, I represented him from the morning of the tragedy up until the conclusion of his particular case, and after that on other, unrelated matters. If there is an appropriate form that I am unaware of after 23 years of practice for entering an appearance, I don't know on what number, it's not Commonwealth versus William Cook, I don't know what document it is that would satisfy Mr. Grant but I'll sign it.

I did meet with Mr. Cook this morning for the first time in, I would say, approximately eight or nine years. He came to my office at nine o'clock. I spoke to him for perhaps 15 minutes, tops. I was made aware by Mr. Weinglass yesterday that this Court was set to start at 9:30 this morning. Knowing how prompt Your Honor was, I left at 9:15, informed Mr. Cook that I did not know what his status was, if he was a witness or whatever, that he and I had many, many things to discuss. I then came over here, and I won't go through all the rigmarole I had of trying to get into this Courtroom.

THE COURT: I had the same problem.

MR. ALVA: Right. But it's clear to me after 15 minutes that I am 13 years removed from the facts of this case. I do not even possess the statement he is purported to have given at the time of his arrest to see whether or not anything he says may or may not contradict that. I do not know, I have not been able to determine whether or not he is competent. And there is a question in my mind at this point, even after 15 minutes I'm not sure. I think he is but I would need additional time. I also have to prepare him for direct.

THE COURT: No, you don't have to prepare him. Just tell him to tell the truth.

MR. ALVA: Certainly, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's all.

MR. ALVA: Also I have to prepare him for cross-examination.

THE COURT: Tell him to answer

Page 144.

truthfully whatever questions are asked, that's all.

MR. ALVA: Certainly, Your Honor.

THE COURT: There is nothing that you have to prepare anybody about. You are not here to coach anyone.

MR. ALVA: I did not indicate to you that I would coach him.

THE COURT: Well, that's when you talk about preparing, I don't know.

MR. ALVA: Well, Judge, I dare say that no one comes to a courtroom without prepping their witnesses, and it is not coaching.

THE COURT: Well, if it is not coaching then there shouldn't be any difficulty. Just tell me what happened, let him tell you.

MR. ALVA: Judge, I wish in a sane world it would be that simple.

THE COURT: Well, it should be that simple.

MR. ALVA: Well, it's not so.

THE COURT: If you are telling the truth it should be very simple, very easy.

MR. ALVA: Judge, if that were the case we would have trials the day after arrest.

THE COURT: Eventually we may get to that, I don't know.

MR. GRANT: This witness is not Mr. Alva's witness, he is Mr. Weinberg's witness. And if anyone has to prepare him to testify it is certainly not Mr. Alva.

MR. ALVA: Well, the Court has used, unfortunately, the term prepare. Mr. Grant has picked right up on it. I have not asked to prepare the witness. I have asked to discuss with the witness to see whether or not he has a Fifth Amendment right. The last thing any competent counsel is going to do is walk in someone blind on the faith that the truth will set him free. I will talk to my client and determine whether or not --

THE COURT: All right.

MR. GRANT: -- whether or not he has a legitimate Fifth Amendment right.

THE COURT: Anybody acting up out there just evict them, please. I don't want any nonsense from the spectators out there.

MR. ALVA: All I ask, you know, I can't speak for the delays in this hearing, I can't speak for the delays of 13 years. All I can speak of is from nine o'clock this morning. I ask for additional time to prepare my client. I don't believe it's unreasonable to request that he not be called by either side until at least the end of the week.

THE COURT: Oh, no, we can't wait that long. Sorry. Do it tomorrow morning.

MR. GRANT: Obviously, I will take whatever time the Court gives me in its wisdom.

THE COURT: Well, that's how much time you're going to have.

MR. ALVA: Then I will try to use it wisely.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. GRANT: For the record: There has been an agreement reached between Mr. Alva and the Commonwealth in that regards, Your Honor. Apparently -- and I was unaware of this until I read it in the press -- but apparently Mr. Cook has some outstanding bench warrants in Philadelphia. And we, I have agreed on behalf of the Commonwealth as a representative, along with Mr. Alva, that were he to come in and wish to appear here in Court, that he would not be arrested on the bench warrants at that time of his appearance, and that after he finished testifying, that Mr. Alva, Mr. Cook and the D.A.'s detectives would escort Mr. Cook up to the bench warrant status room at 875 and turn himself in. And at that point there are no guarantees other than that.

MR. ALVA: That is correct, Your Honor. And we appreciate Mr. Grant negotiating with an officious intermeddler.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. GRANT: It was difficult.

THE COURT: Okay, then. So there is no problem. Have him here tomorrow morning.

MR. ALVA: What time, sir?

THE COURT: Well, I'd say 9:30. Provided we can get in, I don't know.

Sheriff? Are we able to do it by then?

Okay. 9:30.

MR. ALVA: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: Recess Court, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

Page 148.

THE COURT OFFICER: Or adjourn, Your Honor?

This Court stands adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9:30 a.m.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, good morning, Your Honor. The defense calls William Cook. And I am informed by his Counsel -- who is present -- that he did not appear yesterday or this morning. And we sent a process server over to have him served. He was in Counsel's office I believe five times yesterday.

THE COURT OFFICER: Can't hear you outside.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I should have...

The defense sent a process server over to Mr. Alva's office, was there for about five times to try to locate and serve William Cook, but was unable to do so. And I understand Mr. Alva's here in Court this morning without his client. But the Court could hear from Mr. Alva.

MR. ALVA: Good morning, Your Honor.

Page 3.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. ALVA: If Your Honor pleases:

Prior to my appearance before the Court yesterday at around two o'clock, my last contact with my client was at approximately 12:15 in the p.m., at which time he had called my office as per my instructions. And I informed him that I felt that we needed to continue our conversation and that he should be in my office at four o'clock. He indicated to me that would be no problem. When I then came over to the Courtroom and the Court then ordered me if I was going to produce my client to do so this morning, I had anticipated that he would be in my office at four o'clock and that we would take whatever time was necessary to discuss his rights, et cetera, and then have him here today.

I informed the defense that I anticipated his appearance at 4:00. And at approximately 4:05 a process server did appear in my office and thereafter came back every 20 minutes until approximately a quarter of 6:00 in the p.m. He was the only individual connected with this case who appeared in my office. My client did not come to my office. Did not call my office.

I had given my client my card, which has my office number, obviously. I have a 24-hour service on my number. And I received no notice whatsoever that he called in any way. I have no reason that I can offer the Court as to why he is not here. I can only indicate to you that as of when I met with him yesterday in person between 9:00 and 9:15, he was anxious to testify and emotionally unstable, that's all I can recall.

THE COURT: Does the Commonwealth have anything to say?

MR. GRANT: Nothing to say. There is nothing to say, Your Honor. We suspected that Mr. Cook was not going to ever appear and he hasn't.

First of all, though, I think that the basis on which Mr. Cook was to appear here if he did show up was, A, he was a witness who was unavailable at the time of trial or with due diligence could not have been made available, and I suppose that is the assumption that they are making, or Mr. Cook will actually come in as a witness to establish actual innocence under the PCRA.

Could the Court inquire of Counsel on which basis they had hoped that he would testify?

THE COURT: Well, he definitely was available during the trial.

MR. GRANT: Is that correct, Mr. Alva?

THE COURT: I don't care whether it is correct for him. I was the trial Judge: I know he was available during the trial.

MR. GRANT: Well, there have been some conversations to state that Mr. Cook wasn't available.

THE COURT: Well, he was incarcerated under my order.

MR. GRANT: I don't mean unavailable in the physical sense but I mean there was some conversation that he wouldn't want to testify because his counsel had invoked and he had invoked the Fifth Amendment not to be involved in the matter. If that is the case then I guess that Counsel's basis is recently-discovered evidence.

Would that be fair to say, Mr. Weinglass?

Page 6.

MR. WEINGLASS: I wasn't, I wasn't trial Counsel. It was my understanding that he was advised that he was in jeopardy of being charged with the murder himself. And therefore it's my impression that he was advised by Counsel that he had Fifth Amendment rights and that he wasn't available at the time of trial.

MR. GRANT: That's why I would ask Your Honor to inquire of Mr. Alva, not attempting to broach any attorney-client privileges that may exist, the simple answer as to whether or not that, that privilege was interposed when defense requested, if defense ever requested, his presence.

MR. ALVA: Yes, sir?

THE COURT: He wants to know, he asked you a question. Would you like to answer it.

MR. ALVA: I believe he asked the Court --

THE COURT: No, he asked you.

MR. ALVA: -- for something.

MR. GRANT: I don't necessarily know that Mr. Alva would necessarily respond to any questions I might pose to him, that's why I inquired if Your Honor would be kind enough to make the inquiry.

THE COURT: What is the position: Was your client available or not?

MR. ALVA: May it please the Court: When my client was initially arrested and charged with the homicide --

THE COURT: The homicide?

MR. ALVA: Well, Your Honor, when he was first arrested it was unclear to the authorities what his involvement might be.

THE COURT: But they never charged him with homicide.

MR. ALVA: Your Honor, initially that was a consideration. And when I first --

THE COURT: I said charged.

MR. ALVA: I am unclear whether or not he was actually charged, Your Honor. I think he might have been. However, when it became clear, at least to this attorney, that he was not part of the homicide, I then engaged in an effort to distance him from the prosecution of his brother as quickly as possible. I did so at a bail hearing, I did so at preliminary hearings, I did so in Municipal Court trials, et cetera. During those times, it is clear that my client had a

Page 8.

Fifth Amendment privilege and that he was willing and was able to at that time exercise that privilege on the advice of counsel.

As, however, it appeared that we were successful in distancing him from the prosecution, it then became an open question whether or not he would be willing to testify. He and I discussed it very peripherally, whether or not it was in his best interest to testify at his brother's trial. I indicated to him that before that decision was made by him -- and it could only be his decision: Not my decision, not his brother's decision, not his brother's attorney's decision -- that we had to discuss it in depth. I was never contacted by the defense in this matter as to whether or not my client would be a witness in the case. However, I was kept very, very briefly and very tangentially aware, kept informed of the facts of the trial as it proceeded by my client. Who ultimately indicated to me -- and I have made this of record so it is clearly not privileged -- that he said to me it had been decided that he would not testify. He never told me who had made the decision, whether it was him or whomever; but we never then discussed what his rights were, what the strategies would be, what he would say, what he wouldn't say. So I can't give you anymore information than that.

Whether or not you rule he was available or not is up to you based on those facts. But those are the facts and I have related them to you.

MR. GRANT: My only question of Mr. Alva is: At the time when he was willing and able to testify, and related that a decision was made that he was no longer needed, was the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination still being interposed by you at that time?

MR. ALVA: It was not being interposed, it was being brought up by me as a consideration.

MR. GRANT: For his benefit?

MR. ALVA: For his benefit. But he did not tell me he didn't want to testify, he didn't tell me that he wanted to invoke that.

MR. GRANT: Did you ever indicate that to Mr. Jackson: That he would not be available because of his Fifth Amendment privilege?

MR. ALVA: No, I had no conversations with Mr. Jackson whatsoever, either initiated by himself or by myself, or initiated by his request.

MR. GRANT: Thank you very much for your candor, Mr. Alva.

MR. ALVA: Does the Court have any other questions?

THE COURT: I don't know, it doesn't look like he is going to show up.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, to address that point: It was my understanding yesterday that an arrangement was agreed upon between the prosecution and Mr. Alva that if Mr. Cook showed up, that he would be permitted to enter the Court without being arrested and testify. But after that, he would be delivered to the warrant section and, presumably on the basis of the outstanding warrants, jailed. And I think that --

THE COURT: Not necessarily jailed. We don't know what would happen.

MR. GRANT: That wasn't what we agreed upon.

THE COURT: That wasn't what he said.

MR. WEINGLASS: He would be delivered to the warrant section without outstanding warrants.

THE COURT: Right, but that doesn't necessarily follow that he would be jailed.

MR. GRANT: Mr. Weinglass, for your own edification, for your own edification --

THE COURT: Counselor, you can't say what was the agreement between the District Attorney and the --

MR. WEINGLASS: It is in the record, it was announced in open Court.

THE COURT: Okay, so if you are going to quote him, quote him exactly.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was announced that he would be delivered and surrendered to the warrant section.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, to Mr. Cook's impression, that might have meant to him that he was going to jail.

THE COURT: No, no. No, no.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would just ask the Court if the Court would remove that? Judge, if the Court would remove that requirement --

THE COURT: Counselor, no, no, you have no standing in this matter. That is strictly between Mr. Alva as the attorney for Cook --

Page 12.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I have standing for Mr. Jamal to attempt to bring in William Cook.

THE COURT: Well, serve him with a subpoena.

MR. WEINGLASS: We attempted yesterday on five occasions.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: All I am saying is he might come in if the Court will lift the requirement that he surrender to the warrant section. I am only making that request for Mr. Jamal, so that we could have a witness here.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, I think Mr. Weinglass is laboring under a misimpression. If Mr. William Cook were going to be arrested when he showed up, or after he testified, police officers would arrest him.

But by definition, here in Philadelphia, Mr. Weinglass, when we take someone who has outstanding bench warrants and we take him to the bench warrant hearing room, usually what happens and customarily what happens is the person is told you didn't show up for your trial, we are going to give you a subpoena to go before another judge and explain why you didn't show up. And if the judge accepts that, then he will give you a trial date at which time you will go to trial, but you will be released on bail in the interim.

Now, the charges for which there are outstanding warrants, to my knowledge, the most egregious offense is an auto theft. Those cases are generally tried in what is called the waiver program, meaning judges try those cases without juries, they are not deemed as serious as other felonies and the sentences are appropriately less severe. So Mr. Alva, who practices here in Philadelphia, is aware of that, it's common knowledge here.

And secondly, Mr. Cook never knew that there was any agreement at all because apparently he never spoke to Mr. Alva. So there is no arrangement to arrest him. And if he is not here, it's not because we're threatening him.

MR. WEINGLASS: I again ask the Court to lift the requirement that he surrender to the warrant section so that he could be brought in?

MR. GRANT: I don't think Your Honor's entitled to violate the law yourself.

THE COURT: I can't do that.

Well, he is not here. I don't intend to sit here all day and wait. I will return to my chambers. And if he should show up give me a call and I'll be back.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, in lieu of, I mean I would like to accommodate Mr. Weinglass forever and a day but I do have other business concerns. I would like to know, in lieu of Mr. Cook showing up, do we have to reconvene for Your Honor to conclude the proceedings and give us an approximate date when you could reach a final decision?

THE COURT: No, as far as I am concerned, the proceedings are concluded. They are concluded. Now, whether or not he can get somebody in here, I don't know. But as far as I'm concerned, it's concluded.

And let me say this: It may be that the Supreme Court may send it back again if they ever get him. If the Supreme Court is interested in that. But I'm not going to try to guess what they are going to do with it.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, for the record: I am handing to Counsel two copies of our proposed conclusions of law (handing).

Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. GRANT: Your Honor, for my edification: If nothing transpires with respect to Mr. Cook's availability by the end of the day, may I presume, Your Honor, that the proceedings at this stage are then terminated, and they may be reopened at some later point, but for all intents and purposes, that at the end of the day this matter is concluded?

THE COURT: Absolutely.

MR. GRANT: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, may I have an opportunity to meet with Mr. Jamal in the meeting room that's available on this floor?

THE COURT: Yes, as long as the Sheriff has no objections, I don't have any objections.

Anything else?

If not, see you another day.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

MR. WEINGLASS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, just briefly: On May 22nd of this year, while his appeal was pending in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, Mr. Jamal filed an application requesting a remand to a Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia to take the additional testimony of the witness Veronica Jones and others in order to complete the factual record respecting claims which were asserted in his PCR Petition and amended Petition. Attached to Mr. Jamal's request was a five-page declaration of Miss Jones verifying that she had testified falsely at his trial and that the false testimony was the product of threats made to her by detectives while she was in custody. The District Attorney opposed the request for remand, in a lengthy

Page 3.

17-page answer arguing to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that a remand was not necessary on the basis of the record that was then before the Supreme Court, for various reasons which were alleged in their papers, and they asked the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to proceed with the appeal without having the testimony of Miss Jones taken.

Mr. Jamal replied to the District Attorney's answer at some length, pointing out to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that Miss Jones' testimony was central and pivotal because it bore particularly on the issue of prosecutorial misconduct. Misconduct which Mr. Jamal alleged infected his entire case, not just Miss Jones' testimony but the testimony of other witnesses, such as the witness Chobert, who also denied that he had seen people run from the scene, and witness Singletary, as well as witness Wakshul, who was not produced.

In short, the defense position was that Miss Jones' testimony not only reflects new facts on the scene of the alleged crime, but her testimony also gives a clearer picture of the way in which the prosecution proceeded in the original trial.

Then, in an extraordinary procedure, the District Attorney requested permission of the Supreme Court to file a 15-page answer to the defense reply, conceding in it's opening paragraph that it was unclear if the Rules even permitted such a process. But nonetheless, the District Attorney did answer the reply, urging now with increasing vigor that the Supreme Court not remand the case or hear the testimony of Veronica Jones.

Despite the District Attorney's objections, on September 4th of this year the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania ordered that the case be remanded for purposes of a -- to use their words -- a hearing -- which is a term of art -- not for purposes of briefs, nor for purposes of argument, but for purposes of a hearing.

Now, in order to comply with the remand order of the Supreme Court, Mr. Jamal is prepared today to put on the stand the witness who the Supreme Court has indicated it would like to hear from. Namely, Veronica Jones.

And I would like to introduce to the

Page 5.

Court at this time Miss Jones, who is seated here at Counsel's table, Veronica Jones, together with her attorney, Miss Jennifer St. Hill. Ms. Hill is here as well.

MS. St. HILL: Good morning, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we are prepared and ready to proceed with Miss Jones' testimony right now.

MS. FISK: Good morning, Your Honor.

My understanding of the application for relief filed by the defense last May was to present the testimony of Veronica Jones. It was alleged in that petition that Miss Jones -- and in very general language -- alleged that Miss Jones had not been called by the defense because, as the defense generally claims, they had not been able to locate her until after the briefing with the Supreme Court started.

My reading of the Supreme Court Order to Your Honor is for Your Honor to determine whether or not Counsel in fact have a right or have met their burden of even proving that Miss Jones is an after discovered witness. It remains the Commonwealth's position that there has been no proof offered that Miss Jones was unavailable to them at the time of the Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing, that she could not be located as a result of diligent efforts, or that this testimony was unavailable.

Nevertheless, and without conceding our claim that there has been no proof given, we would ask that Your Honor set a date for a hearing for the defense not only to offer Miss Jones, but to first at least arguably assert their allegation and provide proofs that they were diligently searching for Miss Jones and that Miss Jones was not found by them until the date when they allege that she was found.

I would note, for example, Your Honor, with regard to that, that during last summer's hearings, at the beginning of the hearings when defense Counsel noted that they were unable to locate a number of witnesses and Your Honor had given a fairly short hearing date, the Commonwealth offered to and did indeed find and provide to defense each and every witness, civilian as well as police, as well as retired police, that the defense noted they needed and wanted to call. At no time on any of those lists was the Commonwealth asked to look for or provide Miss Jones as a witness.

It is, therefore, our position that before Miss Jones testifies -- and certainly not at today's proceeding, which is a status listing -- that the defense first be required to present some evidence and testimony with regard to their efforts to locate Miss Jones. We would ask, since we are here and Your Honor is clearly the proper Court to make determinations both with regard to whether or not she was available, and if she was not with regard to her credibility, we would agree that since we are here that Your Honor, in a single proceeding, rather than perhaps causing various remands, also at that time take the testimony of Miss Jones, so this matter can then be returned to the Supreme Court with a ruling by Your Honor as to whether or not Counsel is even entitled at this stage to have Miss Jones' testimony considered.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, you will recall that at the hearing the first application we made to the Court was a discovery application: We wanted Miss Jones' address, and we wanted the address of all the witnesses. We did not want to be in a position, because we learned by experience, to have the District Attorney send the police or detectives out to pick up a witness.

Veronica Jones was an intimidated, coerced witness at the trial. We did not want to send the police out to bring her to Court. They did, as you recall, threaten to arrest one of our witnesses, Hightower, and they brought other witnesses, such as Harkens, to Court and they sequestered him in the Homicide division and we were compelled to go down there and we were not allowed to interview him because Mr. Harkens, to my observation, who was totally frightened, refused to talk to us in the presence of their detectives.

That's why we wanted her address. We clearly indicated right at the outset we wanted Veronica Jones' address and we wanted all the other witnesses' addresses so we could bring them to Court, not have the police or detectives bring them. Particularly true with the case of Veronica Jones, who had previously been threatened and coerced into giving false testimony.

MS. FISK: What I find particularly notable about Counsel's comments, not to belabor the point, is that while on the one hand Counsel is claiming that they did not know of Miss Jones' allegations until May of this year, Mr. Weinglass is now claiming that they didn't want the Commonwealth to assist them in finding Miss Jones because he knew that Miss Jones had been an intimidated witness last summer. It is precisely for that reason the Commonwealth is asking for strict proof from the defense that Miss Jones was not known to them or available to them who would provide the testimony they are now claiming she would, and that testimony be presented prior to Miss Jones being offered as a witness.

THE COURT: Well, the Court will set October the lst, Tuesday, October the lst, 1996, as the date for further proceedings in this case. We will have to bring the Defendant down.

MS. FISK: Certainly, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I would note prior to that --

Page 10.

THE COURT: We don't have the Defendant here today so we can't proceed.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, we anticipated that problem. And we contacted Mr. Jamal personally, and we asked him if we could proceed today with the taking of the testimony of the witness Jones in his absence, and he specifically gave us permission to do so.

THE COURT: Well, unless he is here to tell me that I can't take your word for it.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's why, Your Honor, we asked the Court to bring him here.

THE COURT: No, he will be down here October the lst, and we will proceed at that time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, I just want the record to show --

THE COURT: Well, the record will show that I said that he will be here October the lst, 1996.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, and we specifically asked the Court to bring him here today so we could have a hearing.

THE COURT: This was all legal things. I had to find out where you were going. Because if you read this Order of the Supreme Court, it says now, this 4th day of September, 1996, the matter is hereby remanded to the trial Court for a hearing within 30 days of the date of this Order to determine whether Appellant is entitled to a supplemental Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing, and that Court is to render its opinion within 30 days of said determination. Jurisdiction is retained.

Now, that's their Order. And I didn't receive this Order from the Supreme Court until I found out that you people had filed papers. I knew nothing about it. You didn't give me a copy of your papers. I didn't know where you were. But be that as it may, I finally got the Order from them.

And that Order is really mostly legal. I don't think he is entitled to a supplemental Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing. He may be entitled to a second Post-Conviction hearing. I read through the statute and nowhere does it say anything about filing supplemental Post-Convictions. Especially when it's up at the Supreme Court.

But you can file a second PCRA and go back up to the Supreme Court and then they could rule on the whole thing at one time.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, that is a very good point, Your Honor, because in their papers to the Supreme Court, on page 14 of their original answer, and on page 16 of their supplemental answer, the District Attorney argued to the Supreme Court precisely what Your Honor is suggesting. The Assistant District Attorney said to the Supreme Court don't remand this case for taking Veronica Jones' testimony, make Mr. Jamal file a second PCRA, and in that he could take her testimony. But the Supreme Court rejected that argument.

THE COURT: Oh, they did?

MR. WEINGLASS: They did.

THE COURT: Well, you see, they don't keep me informed what they are doing up there. So if you say they said that, then I will not give him a second PCRA.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, they want a hearing now. For Miss Jones' testimony.

THE COURT: They will have a hearing now. October the 1st. But you're saying that that's what the D.A. had asked for and the

Page 13.

Supreme Court denied it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. They in their papers twice asked the Supreme Court to not have a hearing with Miss Jones now, not on a remand, they said to the Supreme Court let Mr. Jamal file a second PCRA and then he could have his hearing. The Supreme Court then entered an Order saying we want the remand hearing now. And that's why we are here today, pursuant to that Order.

THE COURT: The Supreme Court also could have said rather than a supplemental we are going to give him a second PCRA.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, this is the problem.

THE COURT: Look, you know, you tell me what the Supreme Court says. This is what I have (displaying). I don't know what they are thinking or what they say. Nobody takes me in their confidence.

MR. WEINGLASS: But you also have about 60 pages of briefs.

THE COURT: I didn't see 60 pages of briefs. I don't have that. The --

MR. WEINGLASS: You have it now.

Page 14.

THE COURT: No, I don't have it now.

MR. WEINGLASS: No one has provided you with that?

THE COURT: Only as to the pleadings certain things from the D.A. I called the Supreme Court and the gentleman up there says well, you should have it, I don't know why you didn't get it. He was going to give it to me, and then all of a sudden I had it from the Assistant District Attorney, I said I don't need it now. But that was only the pleadings, no briefs.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the pleadings are briefs. The pleadings are in the form of briefs, Your Honor, and you could see their arguments twice. They say to the Supreme Court don't send this case back, make Mr. Jamal file a second one. But the Supreme Court did --

THE COURT: I know they sent it back but they haven 't made a decision on that point. If they are asking me to make a decision, that's what I would do.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is our position that that is precisely what the Supreme Court has done, that the Supreme Court has asked you to determine whether or not defense at this time has a right to a second hearing to have Miss Jones' testimony considered as evidence with regard to the PCRA. That is why it is our position that Counsel must first be put to their proofs with regard to whether or not she was unavailable, and then present her testimony. And at the completion of that, Counsel can ask you to accept that testimony as evidence that you can then supplement to the record.

THE COURT: What is the difference if it is a second PCRA or supplemental, they are going to have it all up there?

MS. FISK: Well, it is the Commonwealth's position that Counsel does not even have the right, certainly not based on the pleadings, to present Miss Jones' testimony as evidence which should go towards the PCRA because there has been no showing as to her unavailability at last summer's hearing. That is why we are asking pursuant to the Supreme Court Order that Your Honor hear all the testimony that is being offered now, including this young lady's testimony, as well as other testimony they intend to present to show why she was unavailable; and at the completion Your Honor will be in a better position to determine whether or not based on that evidence which has been offered, Counsel has a right to have that evidence now taken to be considered and supplemented to the original testimony of the P --

THE COURT: Is there anything in the Act itself that says that? I read the Act over several times.

MS. FISK: No, the Supreme Court --

THE COURT: I said the Act.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor. The Supreme Court has placed at your door the determination as to whether or not the hearing is to be reopened. It is how I read that opinion.

MR. WEINGLASS: You see, Your Honor, what the Supreme Court --

THE COURT: Well, they could have made that decision themselves.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly.

MS. FISK: And they did not. They had to ask Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, that is the point.

Page 17.

Why didn't they? That is a legal issue.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because they want to hear from Veronica Jones.

MS. FISK: That is not what the opinion says either, Your Honor.

THE COURT: They didn't say that in this Order.

MR. WEINGLASS: They did, they called for a hearing.

THE COURT: A hearing to determine whether appellant is entitled to a supplemental Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing. I said to you I have read the Act over several times and nowhere does the legislature speak of a supplemental hearing. Now, if you want to consider it as a second PCRA, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, this is the problem from the point of view of the Supreme Court -- if I may speak from their perspective.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: They have a witness who testified at the trial who says to the Supreme Court in a declaration I testified falsely and I was coerced into testifying falsely. Now, what does the Supreme Court do with that? The Supreme Court reads that declaration --

Page 18.

THE COURT: Go down --

MR. WEINGLASS: -- and they say we want to hear from her.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: We want to hear from her.

THE COURT: Why do they ask me to determine that? That is a legal issue: They could have determined that.

MR. WEINGLASS: You see, what they are saying is they want first a hearing. That's in the Order.

THE COURT: That's what she is talking about. She is talking about a hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, if there is a hearing and Your Honor hears from Veronica Jones, then you determine whether or not you open the entire PCRA hearing to take the testimony of many other witnesses.

THE COURT: No, I would not. Because it's not in the statute. I believe in following the statute to the letter. When the legislature has spoken about something, we all have to obey it. We can't interpret it the way we would like to interpret it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I don't think we are dealing in terms of the statute. The Supreme Court has --

THE COURT: That's what it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Supreme Court says this to this Court.

THE COURT: Why didn't the Supreme Court say to me give him a supplemental hearing, take the testimony of the witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because the Supreme Court correctly said to this Court we want you to hear from Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Where do they say that in the Order?

MR. WEINGLASS: They say because --

THE COURT: Counselor, you want to go back up to the Supreme Court, go ahead. And get them to say specifically what they want me to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Supreme Court was given one exhibit on one witness: Veronica Jones. It read the exhibit and it said to this

Page 20.

Court we want to hear from this witness.

THE COURT: Well, why don't they say that? Why don't they say that --

MR. WEINGLASS: That was the only issue before them.

THE COURT: -- in plain English? Why didn't they say Judge, we want you to hear from the witness and give it to us as a supplemental? Why ask me for my opinion?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because the Supreme Court read the briefs from both sides.

THE COURT: I don't care if the Supreme Court read the briefs. It's under the statute that tells you how you are supposed to handle these PCR matters. Neither I, nor do I believe that the Supreme Court, has the authority to deviate from what the legislature has said.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Supreme Court's position as I read it is that we do not have a complete factual record yet on this case to decide it. And we want that complete factual record.

THE COURT: Wouldn't it be nice if they said that in plain language.

Page 21.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is clearly implicit if you read the pleadings.

THE COURT: It is not to me.

MR. WEINGLASS: If you read the pleadings.

THE COURT: Counselor, I will tell you what I will do. I will try to call the Supreme Court and find out what they want me to do. Between now and October the 1st. That's what I will try to do. Because I want to follow their Order. But this Order, this per curiam Order, doesn't mean anything to me. I don't know what they want me to do, if they want me to decide whether you could file a supplemental, or do they want me to decide whether this is a second PCRA.

MR. WEINGLASS: Clearly not the later, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, that's what you say: Clearly. They didn't say that in this order.

MR. WEINGLASS: The D.A. asked for it and they rejected it. Judge --

THE COURT: I will call the Supreme Court, I will say I don't know what you mean. And let them supplement this order so I know exactly what they want me to do.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is our position --

THE COURT: Because if they want me to decide whether you are entitled to a supplemental, I say no because it's not in the statute.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is our position that the Supreme Court has remanded this matter to Your Honor because defense Counsel did not in their pleadings provide sufficient basis for proving that they had a right to reopen these proceedings and claim that the witness was in fact unavailable.

We would ask with regard to the October 1st hearing for a full list of witnesses that Counsel intends to put on in addition to Miss Jones, certainly at least a week prior to that listing so we are fully advised as to who those witnesses are going to be. I would ask second, Your Honor, the Court to address the following. That being that yesterday afternoon the Commonwealth was served with a subpoena filed upon us by the defense, we suspect to raise the ire of the Court more than any legitimate basis, that is a subpoena seeking the entire Commonwealth file in the case of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal.

With regard to the limited breadth of the Supreme Court Order and the limited purpose for which the Supreme Court has remanded this Order, we would ask Your Honor at this time to quash that subpoena. It is clearly improper and invalid.

Their very own defense application to the Supreme Court was simply to ask that Veronica Jones be permitted to testify. To use that as a pretext to seek the entire Commonwealth file, which obviously includes work product as well as other undiscoverable documents, is clearly improper. So we would ask that that subpoena be quashed and we would ask for a full list of witnesses at least one week prior to the October 1st hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: You see, this is a replay.

THE COURT: Yes, this is a replay. I am not going to replay the case entirely. I am going to try to find out exactly what they want me to do and that is all you are going to be limited to.

MR. WEINGLASS: What is being replayed here is the District Attorney's attempt to prevent us from getting evidence that's in their file and then they say you didn't use due diligence, that's why you don't have it. We used due diligence, we subpoenaed their file.

And Your Honor about two months ago, in another case, entitled the Wrighter case, here in Philadelphia, after 22 years the D.A. finally turned over their file to a defendant and it had 142 statements which had never previously been turned over.

We are now in the 15th year of Mr. Jamal's incarceration. We now want to see, after we heard from Veronica Jones of what they did to her, what they did to the other witnesses --

THE COURT: They didn't tell me they wanted me to let you open the whole case again. I don't think that's what the Supreme Court wants.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is what the Supreme Court --

THE COURT: Where in the statute --

Page 25.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's what the Supreme Court said.

THE COURT: Well, where is it in the statute that you are entitled to that? All the statute says is you are entitled to a second PCRA hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: Unlike Your Honor, I don't second guess the Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Neither do I. That's why I am going to ask them exactly what they want me to do.

MR: WEINGLASS: Right. Now, one other thing, Your Honor. We filed --

MS. FISK: May I ask Your Honor first for a response to my request, that is first for a list of witnesses at least one week prior, and second, that the subpoena for the Commonwealth file --

THE COURT: You should have a list of witnesses. I am not going to delve into this whole area. I want to find out exactly what the Supreme Court wants me to do. And we are going to be limited strictly to what they want. Your telling me what they want doesn't mean anything to me. I want to hear it from the Supreme Court itself.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I suggest Your Honor read the pleadings.

THE COURT: I suggest that I contact the Supreme Court and find out exactly what they want me to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because in the pleadings we set forth what we want.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not going to second guess the Supreme Court. If I was on the Supreme Court I would have already ruled on his first PCRA.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sure.

THE COURT: Now you would be on the second PCRA.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sure that's where we would be.

THE COURT: It's been up there over a year.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not quite, but.

THE COURT: Not quite?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we filed our first briefs in February.

THE COURT: I don't care about your brief. When did it go up there?

Page 27.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was later, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: October.

MS. FISK: September of last year.

THE COURT: September of last year. We are now in September of this year.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your ruling was September 15th of last year.

Your Honor, we have also filed with the Court a motion which I assume the Court has read.

THE COURT: Counselor --

MR. WEINGLASS: It is a 15-page motion.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not going to consider any motions or anything else until I hear from the Supreme Court exactly what they want me to do. So you can do anything you want, but until I hear from the Supreme Court I am not going to hear your motions, whatever else you're filing.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I assume you are not going to hear the District Attorney's motions.

THE COURT: No, I am not going to hear anything, until I hear from the Supreme Court to know exactly what they want me to do. And that's what I will do.

MR. WEINGLASS: When will the Court --

THE COURT: October the 1st.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will be here on October the lst?

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: Prior to October lst, perhaps in one week we should have an additional status listing then, after Your Honor has contacted the Supreme Court, so that would enable, once Your Honor has determined what the breadth of this hearing will be, what the scope of this hearing will be, that will enable Counsel to provide the Commonwealth prior to the October 1st hearing with any witnesses they intend to present.

THE COURT: I don't know how, they will just have to extend their 30 days. I don't see how I could tell you now. I don't know when the Supreme Court's going to answer me. When they answer me, I will know what they want me to do. And I'll do it. You will get copies, I suppose, of whatever they tell me.

Page 29.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will be notified.

THE COURT: Or you will be notified.

MR. WEINGLASS: By the Court.

THE COURT: Not by me. You could be notified by the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: Is Your Honor retaining the October 1st date as a hearing date, is my question, or should we consider that as a status date?

THE COURT: I don't know. Depending on what the Supreme Court tells me, it will either be a status or we will go through with the hearing of evidence.

MS. FISK: And my request is, if based on what the Supreme Court advises you Your Honor determines that that should be a date on which evidence is presented, that if in fact that occurred there would be a prior listing, or at least a prior date by which defense Counsel is obligated --

THE COURT: How could I give you a prior date?

MS. FISK: Well, that is the difficulty.

THE COURT: Well, I have a matter on a

Page 30.

PCRA on September the 30th. And I can't change that. I am giving you the closest date I could give you: October 1st.

MS. FISK: And my request, Your Honor, is to have a status date perhaps seven days from today's date in the hopes that Your Honor has already communicated with the Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Yes, but I don't know when I am going to get an answer.

MS. FISK: I understand that.

THE COURT: I could communicate right now, send them a letter saying I don't understand your Order, would you please tell me exactly what you want me to do. And I will tell them what I think.

MS. FISK: My concern, Your Honor --

THE COURT: They may very well say you're wrong, consider it as a supplemental, okay. Then I will consider it.

MS. FISK: My concern, Your Honor, is that we would return on October 1st and there would be a hearing for which the Commonwealth has not received any notification as to the witnesses defense intends to call.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we received no discovery. The Court has two applications and the Court indicated it is not going to rule on either.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is our position that this Court has previously ruled that there is no discovery in PCRA proceedings.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is a new proceeding on remand.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: And, Your Honor, also, I think you ought to inform --

THE COURT: But why do you need discovery?

MR. WEINGLASS: For the reasons set out in our 15-page motion.

THE COURT: All that you want to do is present this witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, this witness, when you hear this witness, it will open the door to other relevant testimony.

THE COURT: But the Supreme Court, if they sent it down for one specific purpose, that's the only purpose I'm going to hear it.

MR. WEINGLASS: They didn't limit it to one particular purpose.

THE COURT: I don't know what they are limiting it to. Until we get --

MR. WEINGLASS: That's why...

THE COURT: I am not on the Supreme Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I think you ought to inform the Supreme Court that both Counsel, those in the District Attorney's Office and the defense, agree that Veronica Jones should be heard from.

MS: FISK: That is not our position, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I heard them say they concede not only should --

THE COURT: If it is heard as a second PCRA, you would be entitled to it.

MR. WEINGLASS: They indicated five minutes ago that she should be heard in this remand hearing.

THE COURT: No, not as a supplemental Post-Conviction.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I believe I heard it correctly, I wrote it down that the D.A.'s position is Veronica Jones should be heard from.

Page 33.

THE COURT: Counselor, until I get further instructions from the Supreme Court exactly what they want me to do, I am not going to do a thing. I will set it down for October the lst, because that's supposedly within their 30 days, and we will see. Maybe I'll have an order before then.

MS. FISK: Very well.

MR. WEINGLASS: But I think it would help the Supreme Court if Your Honor indicated that both parties agree that Veronica Jones should be heard from.

THE COURT: Why don't you go up and tell them you both agree?

MS. FISK: Because, Your Honor, Mr. Weinglass is once again misstating the proceedings in this room.

THE COURT: I am not going to get involved in that nonsense, Counselor. I don't know what went on before the Supreme Court. I have already written my opinion. If they want to reverse it, fine, let them reverse it. If they want to affirm it, let them affirm it. That's all I have to say about it.

MR. WEINGLASS: They indicated they need additional testimony.

THE COURT: Well, I want to find out what they want.

MR. WEINGLASS: Clearly they want Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Well, we will find out, Counselor, when I ask them. Because that statement in there is a legal statement.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, also --

MR. WEINGLASS: It seeks facts.

THE COURT: No, it says whether you are entitled to a supplemental Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's only after they say there should be a hearing.

THE COURT: A hearing to determine whether or not you're entitled to. Well, now you got the hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is not a hearing, this is argument. A hearing is --

THE COURT: That's why I say it is a legal question which they could very well have decided. They could have said to me he is entitled to a supplemental hearing, give him a hearing, take the testimony of Jones or whoever else they want. They could tell me that.

MR. WEINGLASS: They said remanded to the trial Court for a hearing.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, that means testimony. And the testimony is Veronica Jones' testimony.

THE COURT: Okay, we will set it for October the 1st. But --

MS. FISK: Until Your Honor hears from the Supreme Court will Your Honor allow the subpoena that has been filed on the District Attorney's Office to simply be continued and the Office not to be held in contempt for failing to comply with it?

THE COURT: Of course not, because we don't know exactly what the Supreme Court wants.

MS. FISK: That is correct, Your Honor.

Thank you, Your Honor. We will see Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would ask for one moment to confer with Counsel.

THE COURT: Okay.

Page 36.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, Your Honor. So it is clear, in the motion that we filed, we asked the Court to recuse itself.

THE COURT: Denied. The Supreme Court sent it to me: How am I going to recuse myself?

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, you have that power.

THE COURT: Oh, of course, I know. But I am not going to recuse myself. If the Supreme Court didn't want me to hear it, they wouldn't send it to me. They sent it to me, that is their Order: I am going to hear it.

MR. WEINGLASS: You won't recuse yourself?

THE COURT: No. Why should I? That's what the statute says, it goes back to the trial judge. Who knows the case better than I do?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor --

THE COURT: What other judge? He would have to read through all of that testimony and it would be a year before he knows what happened in the prior trial.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor is aware of the fact that in other instances, not in this case, the appellate courts have sent back cases that Your Honor has heard with the specific direction it be heard by another judge.

THE COURT: Well, if they want that they should say that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because of the way this Court conducted the original hearing.

THE COURT: That's happened before.

MR. WEINGLASS: It happened this year.

THE COURT: That was not the Supreme Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was the appellate court.

THE COURT: It was not the Supreme Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was an appellate court.

THE COURT: It was a panel of the Superior Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly.

THE COURT: And the Supreme Court has the ultimate control of the case in this jurisdiction.

MR. WEINGLASS: But that panel sent the case back to this Court.

Page 38.

MS. FISK: Your Honor --

THE COURT: I won't sit here arguing about what a panel does.

MR. WEINGLASS: The panel refused to let the Court hear the retrial because of the way you conducted the original case.

THE COURT: Well, why didn't you argue that in the Supreme Court?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the Supreme Court remanned and you have the power to recuse yourself right now.

THE COURT: I know I have the power but I am not recusing myself. Now, if you wanted the Supreme Court to order me, go back up and have them order me off. I think the only thing that that's going to do is delay further an ultimate decision in this case. And that's all you're doing here. You have been dragging your feet all along.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we are prepared today to put Veronica Jones on the stand.

THE COURT: Well, I told you, Counselor, I am not going to do anything until I get specific instructions as to exactly what the

Page 39.

Supreme Court wants me to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: A hearing they said.

THE COURT: I know.

MR. WEINGLASS: We want you to hold a hearing. That's what we are here to do today.

THE COURT: Fine, you go back up to the Supreme Court and say will you please tell the Judge to have a hearing and take testimony from Jones. It's all right by me. You can go up there. You could go up there before. You could go up --

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we have been briefing that issue since May. And now we're in mid September and we are here.

THE COURT: Is it my fault? I made my decision within a week.

MR. WEINGLASS: And they made their decision on September 4th and we are ready on September 18th.

THE COURT: Exactly what do they want?

MR. WEINGLASS: They want a hearing.

THE COURT: They want to hear Veronica Jones, let them say that. You know, it's very easy to put it in plain, ordinary English so that no one could misinterpret what it means.

Page 40.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, there was one issue before the Supreme Court and that was --

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not there. You are there. You tell me one thing, she tells me another thing. I am not going to second guess. I am going to ask the Supreme Court to be specific as to exactly what they want me to do.

MR. BURNS: Could I attempt to clarify, Your Honor, if I may?

THE COURT: All right.

MR. BURNS: I think we are agreed that there is certainly no problem with Your Honor asking the Supreme Court for more specificity. Whether or not they comply with that request I think that one thing is clear: What the defense was telling the Supreme Court in the appeal was that Veronica Jones was not available to them to be called as a witness. The Supreme Court recognized that along with that averment goes a certain burden of proof. The Defendant is being given in this remand Order an opportunity to show that in fact it was not possible for them, despite their diligent efforts, to find Veronica

Page 41.

Jones and call her as a witness at the PCRA hearing. I think we are all agreed that whatever else is true, the defense is entitled to present evidence on that question, to show that it's true that they were not able to find her.

Now, it's their burden to prove that, so one of the purposes, if nothing else, of this remand is for them to have an opportunity to prove what they claim is true: That she was not really available.

Now, as part of their proof on that issue they may choose to call Veronica Jones as a witness in order to help them to prove their assertion that she was not available for the PCRA hearing. We may also agree that as an offer of proof, her evidence may be put on the record without conceding that the substance of the testimony can be considered, because before that stage is reached they first have to prove that she really was unavailable. And they haven't done that yet.

So the one thing that the Supreme Court Order says is give them an opportunity to prove that she really was unavailable. We certainly would have that much, and we certainly while we are all here should have her testimony put on the record. That much is clear from your own order setting October 1st as the hearing date.

The rest is, it seems to me, argument. And there is really nothing to argue about. We are going to be taking testimony from October 1st. If the defense chooses not to put on any evidence to establish that Veronica Jones really was unavailable, that is the risk they may choose to take. And if they choose not to put on any evidence on that point that will certainly be something that would be considered by the Supreme Court. They have retained jurisdiction and the issue will go back to them.

But one thing is clear: We are going to be presenting evidence on this issue. So regardless of whether or not the Supreme Court decides it is necessary to clarify their order, I think we should and we have agreed to take testimony on October 1st. Anything else I believe can wait for that proceeding.

And so I don't see anything else really that we should be arguing. This is, after all, a status listing. We have determined that we are going to have testimony on October the lst, whatever that testimony may be. I think the rest can wait until that date, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, if I may, good morning. First of all, I think Mr. Burns has a misunderstanding of the concept of newly discovered evidence. Miss Jones --

THE COURT: Newly discovered? They knew all about her.

MR: WILLIAMS: Exactly.

THE COURT: But she wasn't available. That is not newly discovered evidence.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exactly.

THE COURT: So why don't you follow what he has suggested: To have a hearing to prove that she was unavailable to you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, the question is the prosecution knew of her as Your Honor recognizes. They have, obviously, had police reports with respect to Miss Jones. And the question is why didn't they turn over the police report to the defense.

THE COURT: I am not here to determine that now. This is a PCRA matter.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, to ask for a due diligence hearing and to inquire into what diligence the defense --

THE COURT: Well, put your witnesses on the stand. Whoever you have.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, what diligence requirement is there for the defense to ferret out information that should have been disclosed in the first place by the Commonwealth? The Commonwealth had an obligation to turn over --

THE COURT: Yes, but we are past that stage now. You're asking now to present this witness. You're going to have a hearing to determine why you weren't able to bring her in at the first PCRA matter.

MR. WILLIAMS: That was litigated in the Supreme Court in the papers. The question --

THE COURT: I didn't see any litigation by the Supreme Court on that issue.

MR. WILLIAMS: If you read the pleadings you would see that, Judge.

THE COURT: I don't see that. I don't know what the Supreme Court said on that. All I know of what the Supreme Court has done is this Order (displaying). This decree, this Order, really, that they sent to me dated September the 4th, 1996. That's all I know. They don't take me into their confidence and tell me exactly what they are doing. Or what the schedules are. They don't send me briefs as to what the parties are filing. I know nothing as to what they are doing there. So for me to act now on what they want me to do, either it has to be more specific or you could adopt the procedure that he said (indicating).

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, I don't know what we are arguing about. If the defense chooses not to put on any evidence on this question, so be it. They have the burden. If they choose not to attempt to elicit it, that's their choice. But they are going to have the opportunity to meet their burden on October 1st. If they don't wish to put the evidence on, fine, this is their opportunity.

MR. WILLIAMS: And I will accept the invitation of Mr. Burns to this extent: What we will show is that two detectives advised --

Page 46.

THE COURT: Counselor --

MR. WILLIAMS: If I may.

THE COURT: -- you heard --

MR. WILLIAMS: Now you are interrupting me and I would like to answer.

THE COURT: I am going to interrupt you one more time. On October the 1st you bring whatever witnesses you want into the Courtroom and let them testify. You could tell me anything you want. That's you. You're not going to testify. Unless you are? Are you going to take the stand?

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't think so.

THE COURT: Okay. Then I don't want to hear about what you think the situation is. Bring your witnesses in on October the 1st and I will decide the issue then.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, it is a very simple question of misconduct by the police and the prosecution.

THE COURT: October the 1st you will have an opportunity to do that. Counselor, you know, you could argue. You're not going to take the stand either.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, the very simple question --

THE COURT: You are not going to take the stand either.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The very simple question is whether the prosecution --

THE COURT: We are now in a PCRA matter. In a PCRA matter you have to bring in your witnesses here. I have to hear them and I will make a decision then.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: They have the knowledge and control of the fact that detectives went into the prison and coerced this witness. It is their obligation under Brady to disclose --

THE COURT: You bring in the witnesses to prove that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That was their obligation.

THE COURT: You bring in your witnesses to prove that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will bring in the witnesses for that, Judge.

THE COURT: You say a lot of this for the news media and the people that read that think that that's the truth. The only way we get to the truth is you bring in a witness, they take the witness stand -- it is on this side here -- and swear to tell the truth, and I will listen to them.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I think we are in agreement, Miss Wolkenstein said that we are going to present witnesses to show that police officers intimidated this witness. That is what we will show on October 1st. I think we are now in accord.

Are you in accord?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, our position is whether or not men from Mars came down and intimidated a witness, the failure of Counsel to present that allegation as part of last summer's hearing is in fact part of our claim. They must show that she was not available to make these allegations last summer and in fact that she hasn't figured this out and made this up between then and now. Our invitation is that they prove first the unavailability of the witness, and once that is proved, at least to any degree, that they will then, because we are here at this proceeding, and so the record can be complete, the witness is also going to testify in part perhaps to make her own allegations with regard to her unavailability last summer. But our position is that it is the witness' unavailability last summer, not in 1981, not in 1982, but in the summer of 1995 during the pendency of this Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing that needs to be --

THE COURT: She testified in 1981, didn't she?

MS. FISK: In 1982 she testified at the trial, yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So she testified.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And she testified under coercion at that time.

THE COURT: I know that, that's what I have --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The point is for the past 15 years the prosecution has withheld the information that they went in and they coerced this witness. And that's the issue here: Prosecutorial misconduct. And they have suppressed in their files the information about who those detectives were, that they went in there and they made those representations and threats to this witness, and that's what this is about. That's what our subpoena is about, is to finally get some truth, some light in what's going on in this case. And that requires them to open their files.

MS. FISK: And, Your Honor, it will ultimately be our position that a witness who has come forward after 15 years to recant testimony which was given under oath and has not come forward at a hearing one year prior to, which was covered locally, internationally, and probably every point on this earth, it will be our allegation that it is that witness' testimony which is far more suspect than any actions of police officers. Nevertheless, we welcome the defense opportunity to prove that this witness was unavailable last summer.

MR . WILLIAMS: You know, this is not about a recantation 15 years later. This is about 15 years of suppression of evidence.

THE COURT: Oh, wait a while. That's not what you filed in the Supreme Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: If you read the

verified statement, that is precisely what Miss Jones has asserted.

THE COURT: Let the Supreme Court say I want you to open the whole case again.

MR. WILLIAMS: They want to hear from Miss Jones on that precise issue.

THE COURT: Well, they want to hear why she wasn't available when we had all of these hearings.

MR. WILLIAMS: She wasn't available because we didn't get information from the Commonwealth.

THE COURT: You knew that she testified in the first trial.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's all we knew but we didn't have the files. We didn't know that she was coerced. She has things in the Commonwealth file. We have subpoenaed them, you have quashed those subpoenas. We have made discovery motions, you have denied them. What other diligence is required by the defense?

THE COURT: You want, the defense wants to try this case in the news media.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we want to try it here.

Page 52.

THE COURT: Well, let's try it here October the 1st.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: October the lst, 1996. Bring your witnesses in.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

(At 10:08 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

I assume you all received this amended Order from the Supreme Court?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, there is a preliminary matter before we begin calling witnesses. And that has to do with the outstanding subpoena that we served on the District Attorney's Office for their entire file related to this case. The point about the subpoena is that we believe we are entitled to full disclosure of the District Attorney's files on this case because we have made substantial due process claims in this case on several different grounds and in several respects.

One is that the police had successfully pressured a central defense witness Veronica Jones to change her testimony to Jamal's detriment in the course of the trial. That is a clear due process violation.

Additionally, the fact that the police asked Jones to testify falsely that Jamal was the shooter in and of itself is favorable material evidence which the D.A. was obligated to disclose to the defense and was not done. That is under Kyles V Whitley and Brady versus Maryland.

Additionally, the information contained about Veronica Jones supports the claim that the Court improperly precluded Jones from testifying fully as to potential deals and pressure at the original trial. And that raises our claims under Chambers versus Mississippi.

In support factually of our subpoena for the entire file on the Jamal case there is a record that's already been made in this case. First of all, Veronica Jones' statement itself shows that misconduct has not been previously disclosed to the defense, prosecutorial misconduct has not been disclosed to the defense. And indeed it has been hidden and hidden with Court assistance with respect to the restriction of her testimony which was done during the trial.

Additionally, at the hearing last summer, the PCRA hearing, it became for the first time known to the defense that a license or a duplicate license or application for a license of another person, Arnold Howard, was found on the body of the deceased Daniel Faulkner. That point which shows that a third person was somewhere around at the time or in close proximity to Faulkner's death was never before disclosed to the defense and that evidence came out in the course of the prosecution witness, Detective Edward D'Amato testifying. That was evidence on the part of the defense theory that a third person was the actual shooter and fled the scene.

Additionally, at our PCRA hearing another piece of undisclosed evidence was the fact that prosecution witness Robert Chobert had been promised by the District Attorney assistance in reinstating his driver's license which he needed to maintain his livelihood. For the first time at that PCRA hearing it became known to the defense that such a promise was made by the District Attorney. That also was favorable material evidence which should have been disclosed to the defense some 15 years ago.

Page 6.

Additionally, it became clear in the course of our testimony at the PCRA hearing that William Singletary had been coerced and threatened into changing his truthful story that he saw a third man, the actual shooter, shoot Faulkner and run away. That was never disclosed to the defense.

Additionally, the prosecution was bemused and ridiculed the idea that there was a Detective Green, a black detective for the Police Department, who interviewed Singletary that night, and was the officer who threatened him into changing his testimony. Yet, after the hearing, in the course of defense investigation, we have learned that there are at least three black police officers of detective rank or above with the last name of Green, at least three. That information was never disclosed to the defense and we believe that the fact that this was ridiculed is further evidence of the type of prosecutorial suppression of evidence that is going on.

Furthermore, just last night I spoke to the Detective Sergeant who supervised the investigation for the Homicide division, one

Page 7.

Herbert Gibbons. And when I inquired of him of the Jamal investigation, and specifically Veronica Jones, what was done vis-a-vis her in terms of sending detectives in there to coerce her into changing her testimony, he told me to read his reports of the investigation; but there have been no reports by Sergeant Gibbons that have ever been turned over to the defense.

Furthermore, the record of this Office, the District Attorney of Philadelphia County, has been well-known and established in the question of suppressing comparable types of evidence. Just this past February, Judge Savitt held that the prosecution in the Rider case had suppressed some hundred and forty-two statements for 22 years that were taken after a murder took place. 22 years, 142 statements. Upon review, it turned out that he found that eight of these were totally exculpatory reports.

So based on this record of what our claims are, of some of the examples of suppression of evidence and potential misconduct by the District Attorney's Office and the Police Department, we are demanding that our subpoena be honored and we get full disclosure of the prosecution's file.

MS. FISK: May I respond, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you. Your Honor, I would first note to the Court and to Counsel that the Order of the Supreme Court issued yesterday in accordance I presume with the request by Your Honor to the Supreme Court to clarify --

THE COURT: No, they didn't talk to me at all.

MS. FISK: Oh, all right.

THE COURT: For the record, I couldn't even talk to a law clerk. I talked to a telephone operator who said she'll try to reach a law clerk. She reached a law clerk, she came back to me on the phone and said the Supreme Court does not amend its Order, whatever it said it said.

And that's the way I took it: I am just going to go according to that. But I then received this supplemental. I assumed Counsel must have filed something with the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: Well, I am aware, Your

Page 9.

Honor, that Counsel had filed with the Supreme Court an emergency application seeking reassignment of this matter from Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, I know that.

MS. FISK: And the Supreme Court yesterday specifically denied that emergency application. In addition, the Supreme Court yesterday did amend its initial Order remanding this matter to Your Honor and specified and clarified that the matter is remanded to the trial Court to conduct a supplemental evidentiary hearing commencing on today's date to develop a full factual record concerning the claims regarding Veronica Jones that Appellant raised in his Post-Conviction Relief Act Petition. The trial Court is further directed to enter an opinion within 30 days of said hearing and the Court continues to retain jurisdiction.

It is apparent from that Order that, as we noted at the last status listing, that the purpose of this hearing is to give Counsel an opportunity to present for the record evidence that Veronica Jones could not legitimately be located by them at the last Post-Conviction

Relief Act hearing last summer and to preserve her testimony for the record as well with regard to what she would have said since we are here on this matter if she had been called at such a hearing.

And that is the limit of the purpose of this remand. To suggest as Counsel now does that the entire allegations raised in the Post-Conviction Relief Act Petition filed last year can be revisited is ludicrous and is clearly denied by the specific language of the Supreme Court, which now specifically notes as we claim that the matter is remanded specifically with regard to Counsel's claims of Veronica Jones.

Miss Wolkenstein stands before this Court, stands before Your Honor and notes that the defense proved last summer allegations regarding a particular witness. I would note, Your Honor, that after that witness was subjected to cross-examination, Your Honor made a factual determination that his testimony from the witness stand last summer was not credible, so in fact it has not been proven. Certainly it has been alleged, but it has not been proven.

Counsel also has argued today that the proofs of Miss Jones' testimony prove that there are due process violations. I would suggest that such a request is untimely and first it has to be proven not from Miss Wolkenstein's mouth, not from a typed affidavit, but from a witness on the witness stand subject to cross-examination, then subject to a determination of credibility by this Court.

I suggest, Your Honor, that the subpoenas issued both to the Office of the District Attorney as well as I understand to the Police Department are inappropriately served at this time and I would ask Your Honor to quash all those subpoenas and limit this hearing to the purposes for which the Supreme Court has suggested it be limited, and that is with regard to developing a full factual record concerning the claims regarding Veronica Jones and we proceed on that matter alone.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, this is a hearing in order to deal with the substantial question of the due process violations, the prosecutorial misconduct towards Veronica Jones. We believe that additional information for this hearing is in the prosecution files. We have requested that they be disclosed in our status hearing motion to the Court, and we have subpoenaed those records. And we ask for a ruling of this Court that we be able to pursue, as the Supreme Court has ordered, a full evidentiary hearing on the claims by Veronica Jones which we believe necessitate for the first time some openness and release of information from the prosecution's files.

It is undisputed, contrary to what Miss Fisk says, that D'Amato, Detective D'Amato, who was a prosecution witness, stated for the first time that somebody else's license was found on the deceased Officer's body. That was material evidence for defense. It was never disclosed before. It came from the mouth of a prosecution witness. That is undisputed.

This Court did not find Detective D'Amato a liar in any way, nor did the prosecution get up and disown their witness. But from that witness' mouth came evidence, concrete, undisputable, uncontroversial, that in fact there was material, favorable evidence that was for 15 years suppressed.

Page 13.

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, just in light of the fact that Mr. Howard is not a party to this remand, that a statement of Mr. Howard was taken by Homicide detectives and presented to defense Counsel as part of discovery back in 1981, 1982. And there were property receipts with regard to physical evidence that were also available for examination by defense Counsel at the time of trial.

THE COURT: All right, all right, please. I've heard enough.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I am going according to what the Supreme Court has said in this Order, that's all.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, could you --

THE COURT: I said that's all.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could you rule on my motion, please?

THE COURT: Your motion is denied. Take it up with the Supreme Court. If they want me to have a full-blown hearing again, fine, let them send it back down for that purpose. But they said they sent it down for a specific purpose and that's all I am going to hear now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: For Veronica Jones, alternatively, could we have release of all the information that deals with Veronica Jones from the prosecution files?

THE COURT: I don't know what you need but proceed with whatever evidence you have at this time. If you need something more later on, bring it up.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We say we need something more: We need the information on Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: You have your witness here, put her on.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could we have a ruling on this?

THE COURT: I told you I am only going according to this Order. I am not deviating one little bit from what they said.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: You are denying that in terms of Veronica Jones?

THE COURT: You could interpret it any way that you want but I am going according to what the supreme Court has ordered me to do,

period.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As a third alternative --

THE COURT: Listen, Counselor, I made a ruling, now sit down.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: If you would just look at them in camera.

THE COURT: Counselor, would you please sit down.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Is that a denial?

THE COURT: I don't care what you consider it. Abide by this Order of the Supreme Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I take it you deny the in camera review.

THE COURT: You can take it any way you want, Counselor, just sit down. Now, if you are going to present evidence, present it.

MR. WEINGLASS: If we may have just a second.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, at this point Mr. Jamal calls to the stand Veronica Jones.

Page 16.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would ask sequestration of all other defense witnesses; and I would ask all Commonwealth witnesses who have been brought here as well to remove themselves from the Courtroom.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I see five people have left after the Commonwealth requested sequestration of their witnesses. May we have the names of the witnesses that the Commonwealth intends to call?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I will not know who I am calling unless and until Miss Jones testifies. These are all potential rebuttal witnesses. Therefore, I can not at this time assert who will testify.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, could we have the names of the five witnesses?

THE COURT: You will get it at the proper time when she calls them and she'll tell you why she's calling them.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, my name is Jordan Yeager. I am an attorney for the individual witness Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Did you enter an

appearance?

MR. YEAGER: Yes, I did, Your Honor. Your Honor, I have discussed with Miss Jones any potential Fifth Amendment rights she may have that may be at issue by her testimony today. And she is knowingly and fully aware of those rights. And pursuant to our discussions, she is testifying here today waiving any Fifth Amendment rights that may be specifically at issue concerning her testimony in the 1982 trial. And I am confident and I can represent to the Court that that waiver has been done knowingly and with full advice of Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are prepared to proceed.

- - - - -

Veronica Jones, Camden, New Jersey, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

THE COURT: I have a few questions I have to ask this witness, although I concede you have been telling her everything about her rights.

Have they, has your attorney advised

you that if you say something now which is different from what you said at the trial, you could be charged with perjury?

THE WITNESS: I understand.

THE COURT: Okay. Are you under the influence of drugs or alcohol?

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

THE COURT: So you understand that they don't have to prove which time you lied, but that you gave testimony differently on two occasions?

THE WITNESS: I understand.

THE COURT: Did he tell you how much time you could serve if you are convicted?

THE WITNESS: No, I didn't ask.

THE COURT: Why didn't you tell her that?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, we did discuss the possibility of incarceration.

THE COURT: Did you tell her what the maximum is under the law?

MR. YEAGER: Yes, I did, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What did you tell her?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, my understanding is that it is seven years for perjury.

THE COURT: Seven to 14?

MR. YEAGER: My understanding under the statute, the maximum is seven.

THE COURT: So you are saying three-and-a-half to seven?

MR. YEAGER: Yes, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: For each incident of perjury, Your Honor.

THE COURT: For each incident?

MS. FISK: That is our position.

THE COURT: You understand that?

THE WITNESS: I understand.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, I have had extensive discussions with --

THE COURT: Well, I know, but I have to create a record here so that later on she doesn't say you didn't tell her something.

MR. YEAGER: Well, I appreciate that, Your Honor. But I, I say this, Judge --

THE COURT: You may appreciate it but I have to make sure that she understands it. That's why I asked her if she is under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

MR. YEAGER: And I believe she has answered that for Your Honor.

Page 20.

THE COURT: Okay.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Miss Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. Feel a little nervous today?

A. Very.

Q. That's understandable. Just take your time and relax.

A. Thank you.

Q. Are you the Veronica Jones who testified back in June of 1982 in the case of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Do you recall testifying in that case?

A. Yes.

Q. And with respect to your testimony, was any part of your testimony that you gave in that case untruthful?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall in what respect the testimony that you gave was untruthful?

Page 21.

Veronica Jones - Direct

A. I told them that I didn't see two men leave the, umm, run away, leave the scene.

Q. And, Miss Jones, in fact did you see two people run from the scene?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And had you told the police earlier, on December 15th, 1981, that you saw two people run from the scene?

A. Yes.

Q. Now could you describe for us why it was that when you took the stand and testified in the trial you denied seeing two people run from the scene?

A. I thought I was being, I was being, I would be brought into the Courtroom for my charges, which was weapons charges. And I had, I was facing five to 10, maybe 15 years in jail for possession of weapons. This is what I thought I was there for, but when I came into the Courtroom, this is not what I was there for. This is Mr. Jamal's trial, not mine. And I was scared and I didn't know what was going on. I wasn't ready.

Q. Did anyone talk to you from either side prior to your testifying?

A. Just, umm, the policeman I met in the jail.

Q. The policeman talked to you when you were in

Page 22.

Veronica Jones - Direct

the jail?

A. Hmm-hmm, two detectives.

Q. Two detectives?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And this was before you testified?

A. Yes, I had met them before then. I thought they were my lawyers coming to see me. This is what I was told. When I was brought to the room it was two detectives.

Q. Did you have a conversation with them?

A. I did a little talking but I did a lot of listening.

Q. What did they tell you?

A. More so they was letting me know what I was facing as far as my weapons charges. And, umm -- excuse me. That I could, you know, they could help me off those charges if I helped them. And it was a big decision to make but this is five or ten years away from my kids. And right then and there my kids was all I was thinking about.

Q. And it was because of that meeting that you changed your testimony?

A. Yes, it is. Excuse me.

Q. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: May Miss Jones be

Page 23.

Veronica Jones - Direct

given some water?

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Do you feel a little better now?

THE WITNESS: I'm fine, yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay. Miss Jones, could you describe the detectives?

A. I hate to sound so stereotyped but it was just two white men, late thirties, early forties. One had gray hair, and I couldn't, I don't recall what the other one, color the other hair was. That's the first time I seen them. And then I seen them again later on.

Q. When did you see them again?

A. When they brought me into the Courtroom when I thought I was going for my charges, my gun charges. They were in the back.

Q. And you saw them when you went into the room?

A. I saw them clearly because I looked in the whole room because I didn't know -- I wasn't supposed to be there.

Q. So it was a surprise to you that you were brought in to testify in the Jamal case?

A. It was a big surprise.

Page 24.

Veronica Jones - Direct

Q. Now getting back to your meeting with the detectives prior to your testifying, do you recall what it was that they said to you about your testimony?

A. Well, when they came to see me at the jail?

Q. Yes.

A. It was just more so that, umm, I was to name Mr. Jamal (indicating) as the shooter, you know. And if I was to do that, I was supposed to do something like this girl named Lucky White. They said we made a deal with her and it was going to work out for her so they could make it work out for me. All they kept expressing was don't forget five to ten years, that's a long time. They kept expressing that point. So flashback my kids, that's all I think about is my kids.

Q. And they told you what would happen to you if you did what they wanted you to do?

A. I don't recall, sir, I don't remember.

Q. Did they say anything about the charges against you?

A. The gun charges were supposed to be removed if I went with them.

Q. By the way, Miss Jones, back in 1982 how old were you?

Page 25.

Veronica Jones - Direct

A. About 20, I think I was 20, almost 21 years old.

Q. And did you have children at that time?

A. Hmm-hmm, I had three small girls.

Q. And at that time were you concerned about being separated from them?

A. I was very concerned. It was bad enough the fact that my mother had to watch over them while I was in the street. It was bad enough of that. But to let alone being taken away from them for all those years. They didn't deserve both. They had my mother, not me full time. But I never missed a birthday, a holiday or nothing.

But I did work the street and I don't regret that. Because I took care of them, good care of them. So I don't regret that. And if I had to do it again, not to be away from my kids for ten years, I don't know what I might do, I might do the same thing again because I loved them, I loved them a lot.

Q. You're still with them, are you not?

A. Yes, I am, they are here with me.

Q. They are here with you?

A. Yes, they are. They love me.

Q. Are any of your children in college now?

A. I have two children, one is in the second-year of college, one's going for medicine, pre-medicine, and the other's going to be a criminal lawyer. My youngest one hasn't made up her mind what she wants to do.

Q. And do you still live in the City of Philadelphia?

A. No, I don't live in Philadelphia.

Q. Do you live in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

A. I live in New Jersey.

Q. And would it be fair to say that your life has changed considerably?

A. My life is splendid. I have no complaints. It was only this one thing bothering me and I had to get it off my chest while I could. I'm getting ready to be a grandmom for the first time and I want to go into that, raising a grandchild like that, you know, if they know something about me I want it to be pleasant things, not that I am just living a lie, no. I want to be a good grandmom.

Q. Now, do you recall some time meeting with a representative of the defense in this case?

A. The first time I met with the defense was April, the beginning of April of this year.

Q. In April of 1996?

Page 27.

A. Yes. Around the beginning.

(Pause.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you recall who it was you met with first?

A. First I met with, it's, I will go with the stereotype again, but it was a white defense lawyer, tall thin guy. I can't recall, I know it was Mike something. And a black investigator.

Q. And after that did you meet with any other lawyers?

A. Yes, I met with, umm, Rachel, well, maybe a couple weeks later. It wasn't that same day. I met with Rachel. You. And the other investigator Chris.

Q. And did you freely talk to the people you met with?

A. Yes.

Q. About the matters you have just testified to today?

A. Yes. And I know I did that because my children were in the living room when they first came. And it just all came back up to the surface again. So it was about time we do something about it. Excuse me.

Page 28.

Q. After you met with the lawyers was a statement prepared for you to sign?

A. Yes, yes. We, umm, we met in a Xerox company and when we first made the statement we first went there, the, I didn't have my ID in order to get it notarized. The second time the guy that notarizes it, he wasn't there, so we just sat at the computer whatever. And mistakes were made, I mean, you know, fix commas. And I initialed every page.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, may the witness be shown this five-page, typed statement entitled Verified Statement of Veronica Jones? I am showing it to Counsel (handing).

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record show the statement has been handed to the witness after Counsel has examined it.

MS. FISK: It's been marked.

MR. WEINGLASS: She is now examining it. May it be marked, Your Honor?

THE COURT: What do you want to mark it?

MS. FISK: As Defense Exhibit 1 for this hearing?

THE COURT: Is that what you want?

Page 29.

MR. WEINGLASS: Defense Exhibit 1.

THE COURT: Well, ask for it. D-l.

(Statement of Veronica Jones was marked Defense Exhibit D-l for identification.)

MR. WEINGLASS: This is the same document that was provided to the Supreme Court.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Miss Jones, have you looked over the five pages?

A. Yes.

Q. Of what's been marked Defense Exhibit l?

A. Yes.

Q. Does your signature appear?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your initials on each page?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that the statement that you signed?

A. Yes, this is the statement I gave you all.

Q. And is it true?

A. Yes.

Q. I want to just ask you one other question about the month going back to January of 1982. Were you questioned at all by police in the 6th District?

A. Yes, I was picked up on the street. And, umm, I thought I was going, I was going in for the night, you know. That's what we called going in for the night. And when I got there I was put in this room. I was never processed. They usually just sit us to the side for a few minutes, then take us out and fingerprint. I never got none of that. But they started, two guys came and just started questioning me. These weren't the same two detectives that questioned me before. And, umm... they were just questioning me.

Q. Did they say anything to you about what you should testify to?

A. Asked me if my mind had been made up what I was going to do. And these were two policemen that were usually in that area. These were suits that I met. I'm sorry. They wear suits.

Q. By the way, who is, you mentioned a person named Lucky. Who is Lucky?

A. Cynthia White. She was, she was supposed to have been a friend of mine on the street but we, we just friends out there like that. But her name was Cynthia White, we just called her Lucky.

Q. Did her name come up with that conversation?

A. Yes; they said you don't see Lucky around here, do you. In other words, they didn't pick her up. See, a number of us got picked up but I didn't get processed, okay. And when we got picked up Cynthia was not in the bunch.

Q. To your knowledge, was she arrested at that time?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Was there discussion among the other women about that?

A. I really couldn't say because I was in a different room. I was in a room by myself.

Q. I see. And when the police mentioned Lucky to you did they say anything about your testimony as compared to what Lucky would do?

A. Just told me I would be able to work, I wouldn't have to worry about my charges, I could work. Basically, that was it.

Q. And did they say what you would have to do in order for you to be able to work?

A. Just name Mr. Jamal as the shooter.

Q. They made that clear to you?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. That was in January?

A. This was around, I would say around the 9th or the 15th, somewhere in between there. Because it was really cold. Somewhere in there.

Q. So just so to summarize --

A. Okay.

Q. -- you were visited at your home about a week after the incident on December 15th by two detectives?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And you were questioned?

A. Yes.

Q. Then in January of 1982 you were taken to the 6th precinct?

A. Yes.

Q. And questioned again?

A. Yes.

Q. And then just prior to your testimony you were visited by two detectives when you were in lockup?

A. Yes.

Q. And questioned a third time?

A. Yes, but they weren't the same people.

Q. Each time they were different detectives?

A. Yes, yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. My last question to you, Miss Jones: It's clear that on the night of the occurrence shortly after you heard the shooting you saw two men run away from the scene?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You're clear on that?

A. Very clear.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. Nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Miss Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. Miss Jones, many of the questions I ask you will obviously deal with events many years ago. If there is anything you do not recall, don't guess, just tell me you don't remember, all right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. It is not a test and I don't want to subject you to trying to assume or guess things.

A. Thank you.

Q. Now, I also don't mean to make you uncomfortable or in any way question the means by which you supported yourself and your daughters but I do need to inquire to a certain degree. Miss Jones, until when did you work, ma'am, as a prostitute in Philadelphia?

A. It's nothing you keep a calendar on. But I started when I was like maybe 17, being naive and weak for a man. That's when I started. The physical scars led me to do this for myself. I am going to do it, I might as well do it for myself.

Q. I mean the question is when?

A. I am telling you, ma'am, from 17.

Q. Yes.

A. I can't really say when I stopped. You know, maybe when I was about 23, 24.

Q. All right. So would it be safe to say that for approximately two or three years after you were called by the defense as a witness in the trial of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal you continued to work as a prostitute in the City of Philadelphia?

A. No, ma'am, it would not be safe to say that, because I didn't live in Philadelphia.

Q. I'm sorry, my question was until when did you work as a prostitute in Philadelphia? That was my original question.

A. Well, I will straighten this out for you. As far as Philadelphia, when this happened I stopped.

Q. Oh, all right.

A. But as far as you mean when I said up to 23 and 24, I had moved for my children and whenever I saw a man it had to be on the money tip. So I still call that prostitution but I did not work the street.

Q. Okay.

A. Okay.

Q. You say when this happened you stopped?

A. Yes.

Q. When which this, when the shooting occurred?

A. Yes.

Q. So following December 9th, 1981, would it be fair to say you no longer worked the streets?

A. I can't say no longer worked the street, I was trying to get out of that. But I might have occasionally still did it.

Q. Okay. When you say you occasionally still did it, were you occasionally still doing it up until the time of the trial?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I am going to object at this point. I think Counsel has a misunderstanding that is confusing the witness.

Miss Jones was in custody at the time of the trial.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Let her ask her questions, if she doesn't understand it she'll say so.

MR. WEINGLASS: In fairness to the witness the question should be accurate.

THE COURT: The question is to the witness. She could tell us. We don't need you to testify, unless you want to take the stand.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, then, your objection is overruled. This is cross-examination, we are trying to find out what she did.

Okay. Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Are you able to answer my question, Miss Jones?

A. I can answer it.

Q. Okay.

A. You want to ask it again?

Q. Sure. Up until the night of the shooting, until you were taken into custody, which was --

A. Okay.

Q. -- a week or two before this, whenever you

Page 37.

Veronica Jones - Cross

were taken into custody in June 1982, were you from December 9th, 1982 up until you were taken into custody, were you still occasionally working the streets?

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall?

A. I don't recall working the streets.

Q. You would agree with me, ma'am, that from December 9th, 1981, up until today, you were never again arrested and charged with prostitution in the City of Philadelphia; is that right?

A. Not to my knowledge, I'm not sure. But, no, not prostitution, no.

Q. If I were to suggest to you --

A. Okay.

Q. -- that your criminal extract shows that from December 9th, 1981 to date there is no record of your ever having been arrested and charged with prostitution in the City of Philadelphia, you would agree with me that that was accurate?

A. Okay, it's accurate.

Q. All right. Now, when these police officers in January 1982 -- I'm sorry, you said these detectives --

A. Yes.

Page 38.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. -- in January 1982 questioned you inside the -- you said the 6th Police District?

A. Yes.

Q. -- and they told you that you could work however you want if you named Mr. Jamal the shooter, what did you tell them?

A. They told me that, asked me did I make up my mind yet. That's exactly what they said.

Q. And what did you say to them?

A. And I, I can't remember what I said to them. Because I was already mad by being picked up. So I really can't recall the exact conversation that went on. But I know as far as the deal, as far as them telling me about Lucky and what I should do is things that Lucky do, do what Lucky do, in order to work --

Q. Did you tell --

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I object: Counsel is interrupting the witness. She was in the midst of giving an answer.

THE COURT: All right.

THE WITNESS: I can't recall exactly what I told him.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Well, I understand you can't recall the exact words, but did you tell him you would go along with that deal or you would not go along with that deal?

Page 39.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. I can't recall exactly how I put it or what I said.

Q. But you don't remember whether you told him that you would or would not go along with the deal?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. You have no memory of that?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Did you have further contact with those police officers? I'm sorry, those detectives?

A. No, not those two.

Q. You testified on your direct examination that those detectives were suits. That's people who worked what, the area of 13th and Locust generally?

A. They were suits, they were undercover. They were suits, that's what I call them.

Q. You call them that because they were people that you knew?

A. No, they are just people that don't wear blue shirts, that's what we call suits.

Q. Do you know their names?

A. No, I do not, I did not ask.

Q. I take it they had no badges on because they weren't --

A. I would see their badge but I can't remember

Page 40.

Veronica Jones - Cross

what no numbers were.

Q. Did you ever see these suits again?

A. No, ma'am, I didn't.

Q. Had you ever seen them before?

A. In the area. On and off.

Q. Now, ma'am, you told us today that from -- I'm sorry from that time until June -- I'm sorry -- in June you told us that you were arrested and placed in custody?

A. In June I was arrested, yes.

Q. Do you remember the precise date that you were arrested?

A. I don't remember the precise date but I know it was in June.

Q. Now, you have a document that you just picked up?

A. Yes, I do have a document.

Q. What is that, ma'am?

A. It says June 12th.

Q. What is that document that you have placed before yourself?

A. It says I was arrested on a robbery and gun charges.

Q. My question is the document, is that Defense Exhibit 1, the statement which you gave this past

Page 41.

Veronica Jones - Cross

May?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And it says that you were arrested on what, ma'am, on robbery and gun charges?

A. Robbery, assault, gun, and multiple other charges.

Q. And it gives the date as June 12th, 1982?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. I take it that you did not have an independent recollection of that date, someone provided that date to you from, perhaps, Court records?

A. I know it was June.

Q. Okay, do you know where the date June 12th came from?

A. Not precisely, no, I don't.

Q. Nevertheless, when this statement was typed up and that precise date June 12th, 1982 was placed there --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- you initialed that page?

A. Yes, I did. I knew it had to be around that time because of the first of the month.

Q. All right. But someone else told you that the precise date was June 12th; am I correct about that?

A. I believe so.

Page 42.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. And who told you that the precise --

A. I'm not sure who told me.

Q. Was it one of the persons taking your statement or preparing this statement?

A. I'm not, I am not sure where June 12th came from, I just know it was in June.

Q. But you remember being arrested, you remember being arrested and charged; is that right?

A. I remember very well being arrested on these charges.

Q. So you were arrested for far more than weapons charges; isn't that right?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. You were charged with robbery as well?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And in fact, at the time of your arrest you had two guns in your possession; isn't that correct, ma'am?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. They were stuffed down in front of your pants?

A. No, ma'am, they weren't.

Q. No they weren't?

A. No, they weren't.

Q. Where were they?

A. They were under the cushion that I was sitting

Page 43.

Veronica Jones - Cross

on.

Q. You don't recall having them stuffed down your pants underneath your shirt?

A. No, ma'am, I don't.

Q. Now, at the time of your arrest there were other persons arrested as well, weren't there?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time of your arrest for robbery?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall those persons' names?

A. Yes, I recall those persons. It's been a while. I remember my girlfriend's name.

Q. What was her name?

A. Her name was Jan.

Q. Her last name was Stelly?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember the name of the man who was arrested when you were arrested?

A. The one I was dealing with, that was Bernard.

Q. Was there someone named Zachery Leach arrested?

A. Okay, that was his name.

Q. Is that Bernard, Bernard is a nickname?

A. No, Bernard is Bernard and Zachery is Zachery.

Q. Okay, I got it. Now, following your arrest

Page 44.

Veronica Jones - Cross

did you have a preliminary hearing on those charges? I'm sorry, before I ask you that: would I be correct that at the time of your arrest on June 12th, 1982 that bail was set?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you remember being brought in front of a magistrate?

A. I remember being brought down, yes.

Q. If the Quarter Sessions file reflects that at the time of your arrest bail was initially set I believe at the amount of a thousand dollars, would that refresh your recollection that that was the bail initially set?

A. It was a thousand twenty, that I remember, yes.

Q. A thousand twenty, okay. Now, did you thereafter have a preliminary hearing?

A. This was -- yes, I believe so.

Q. That was six days following your arrest? Would that be about right?

A. That was after the first bail set?

Q. That's correct.

A. Yes.

Q. About six days following your arrest?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Page 45.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. You appeared in front of a Municipal Court Judge?

A. Okay.

Q. And there may or may not have been witnesses who testified and you were ordered held for Court, again the Quarter Sessions file regarding your matter reflects that that was on June the 18th, 1982; do you recall that? Or having --

A. I don't recall the date but I recall being there, yes.

Q. And again according to the Quarter Sessions file, it reflects that your bail at that time on June the 18th, 1982 was reduced to $300. Do you recall that happening?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And that was, according to your statement, Defense Exhibit 1, and the Court record, ten days prior to your being called by the defense as a witness in the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal; is that right?

A. I don't remember.

Q. All right. Well, was your preliminary hearing before or after the detectives, the two white men 30 and 40 years old, one with long white hair, visited you in the prison?

Page 46.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. The preliminary hearing was after.

Q. Was after?

A. Yes, I believe. I'm not quite sure but I believe it was after.

Q. How long before you were brought in to testify did these men come to see you in prison?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Oh, all right. Did you say anything to these detectives when they visited you in the prison?

A. I never said too much, I just listened.

Q. Well, did you tell them you would do it or did you tell them you wouldn't?

A. I just wanted to, I had them reassure me about my charges being dropped. And they kept reassuring me, reassuring me. Then they started saying how my kids could be taken from my mom being I was being sent up for all this time. Yeah, so I remember talking to them but I don't recall what I told them.

Q. Okay. After they said that to you and you went to the preliminary hearing, did you expect that the charges then would be dropped?

A. I was 20 years old: I didn't expect anything. I just wanted to get out and go home.

Q. And --

THE WITNESS: Are you done with me?

Page 47.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MS. FISK: And leave -- no, ma'am.

THE COURT: We will take a recess if you need it.

THE WITNESS: Excuse me, sir.

MS. FISK: Let me know, Miss Jones, when you're ready to go on.

THE WITNESS: I'm ready, I'm okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Those detectives who visited you at the prison, did they tell you as the suits had done that you should say that Jamal was the shooter?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And then you went to your preliminary hearing and you were held for Court and your bail was reduced; is that right, ma'am?

A. Yes.

Q. Am I correct that despite the fact that your bail was reduced on the 18th of June, 1982, according to the Quarter Sessions file in your case, that you did not have the funds to make bail; is that correct?

A. My mother had enough trouble taking care of my kids while I was acting a fool, no, I didn't have the funds.

Q. Okay, so it is for that reason that you remained in custody and were still in custody when

Page 48.

Veronica Jones - Cross

you were called to testify; is that right?

A. I believe so.

Q. There was, however, a time the following July that you did come up with the funds, whether it was $300 or 10 percent of that, $300 to make bail; is that right?

A. I don't recall when they came up with it but they came up with it.

Q. When you say they, they are referring to your mother?

A. My stepfather.

Q. Okay. And again if the Quarter Sessions file shows that in July 1981 you made bail, would that refresh your recollection? I'm sorry.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think Counsel misspoke.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. 1982 -- I apologize -- you made bail, would that refresh your recollection as to when you made bail? Specifically, July 23rd, 1982, a bail piece appears in the Quarter Sessions file signed by you using the name Louise Tatum; would that be correct?

A. I remember using the name Louise Tatum but I don't remember anything else.

Q. Right, and when you made bail in July 1982, I

Page 49.

Veronica Jones - Cross

take it you were given a subpoena and told when to appear back in Philadelphia City Hall to face trial on the charges of robbery and the various weapons offenses; would that be correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, did you remain in contact with Mr. Leach or your friend Jan after that time?

A. The same people got me in trouble? No.

Q. Okay, so I take it, then, that you were unaware that later in the year 1982 and into 1983, when their cases came up for trial regarding this matter, that all the charges against them were discharged because the witnesses failed to appear?

A. No, I didn't know.

Q. Nevertheless, you were subpoenaed to appear in November 1982 to face trial on these same charges; isn't that correct, ma'am?

A. November 19th, yes, it is.

Q. Nevertheless, you failed to appear; is that correct?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And that is because you wanted to be with your children, ma'am?

A. I was scared, I wanted my kids away from all this crap that I started. So I took them and we left. And we left for seven years and I loved it. I loved every minute of it.

Page 50.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. And when you say you left, you left from where?

A. I left the state.

Q. You left which state, ma'am?

A. I left the state of New Jersey, I left the state of Philadelphia, I just left.

Q. You left the state of New Jersey or you left the state of Pennsylvania, I'm sorry?

A. I was, I was living in Philadelphia, my children were living in Jersey.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. When they let me go I went and got my children, I said a prayer and I got on a bus and I left.

Q. And you went where, ma'am?

A. I just left.

Q. And you went where, ma'am?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection to the relevancy of this inquiry. It doesn't go anywhere.

THE COURT: How do you know?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well.

THE COURT: What are you, a mind

Page 51.

Veronica Jones - Cross

reader? It is a question she is asking her. It may be relevant later on. I will let her answer it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could Counsel represent what relevance it has? It doesn't appear relevant.

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled. That's enough.

Answer the question where did you go.

THE WITNESS: I went to West Virginia.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. When did you return from West Virginia, Miss Jones?

A. I'm not sure, I'm not sure when it was. It was seven years later, six or seven years later.

Q. And let me go back for a moment, please. The notes of testimony from this case, the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal, reflect that prior to your being called as a defense witness by Mr. Jackson, that an attorney representing you was brought in to speak to the Judge. Now, that attorney represented to the Court and in fact during your own testimony at the trial you referred to having spoken to your public defender. Do you recall having an attorney who represented you?

Page 52.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. No, I do not. No.

Q. Do you recall speaking to an attorney prior to your testifying in the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal?

A. I spoke to an attorney as far as my charges were. Mine.

Q. Yes, ma'am. Yes, ma'am.

A. But I didn't have one representing me there.

Q. There was reference in -- let me see if I could call your attention to it.

MS. FISK: Just bear with me for a moment, please.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: I will return to that because I know it is here somewhere, I'm not certain.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. My question to you, then, is, or your answer is you have no recollection of speaking to an attorney prior to your testifying in this case or you do?

A. No, I spoke to an attorney about me.

Q. Your own case?

A. About me, yes.

Page 53.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. You don't remember speaking to an attorney about this case?

A. Not that I recall, no.

Q. Your attorney that you spoke to at your preliminary hearing, that is after the visit of the police officers -- I'm sorry -- the detectives to the prison, did you report that visit to your attorney?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I think the record's unclear as to whether or not that visit occurred before or after the prelim.

MS. FISK: I disagree. I believe Miss Jones has clearly testified that that visit was prior to her preliminary hearing and she has already answered that question.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think she has already testified that it was after the preliminary hearing.

MS. FISK: Not once.

MR. WEINGLASS: She has testified both.

MS. FISK: Not once did she say that, Your Honor. And I think the record is clear.

THE COURT: The record will show, he has it down there. Whatever it shows it shows.

Page 54.

Veronica Jones - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Well, let me ask you this, Miss Jones.

A. What?

Q. You told us that after you made bail in this matter, and prior to the date you were supposed to appear, you left town and you came back some six or seven years later. Now, am I correct that some six or seven years later you were indeed arrested on that open bench warrant?

A. No, it wasn't that open bench warrant. I was arrested in New Jersey for something else and I was extradited over here on my bench warrant, yes, thank you.

Q. Okay. And when you were extradited over here -- and again the Quarter Sessions file reflects that you were arrested again, whether it was through New Jersey or not, on June the llth, 19 -- I'm sorry, I was -- yes, on June the l0th, 1988, and bail was reset in the amount of a thousand dollars, in fact that is the thousand twenty dollars that had to be paid for your bail, that was in June '88, is that what you were thinking of before?

A. Okay, my apologies, I'm sorry.

Q. The Quarter Sessions file reflects that on June llth, 1988 you were again given bail, this time in the amount of a thousand twenty dollars, that was in fact furnished by someone named Daurish Rakeem?

Page 55.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. That was when I was extradited back over here for the gun charges I was still at bail for a thousand dollars, a thousand twenty dollars.

Q. Put up by Daurish Rakeem?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is he?

A. Ex.

Q. Ex?

A. Just an ex.

Q. Friend? Husband?

A. Friend.

Q. Okay. At that time you were reunited, were you not, with the same attorney who had represented you at the preliminary hearing some six or seven years earlier?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you at that time in 1988 report to your attorney that you had been threatened or intimidated by detectives' and as a result had perjured yourself under oath?

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I have to object.

THE WITNESS: I was 20 years old.

Page 56.

Veronica Jones - Cross

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Objection is overruled. This is cross-examination.

THE WITNESS: How was I supposed to know I was supposed to tell him everything?

MR. YEAGER: Objection: It goes to attorney-client privilege.

THE COURT: Overruled. Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Like I said, I was 20 years old: How am I supposed to know I am supposed to tell this attorney about this or this attorney about that? I didn't know nothing about that.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You will agree with me that in 1988 you were six years older and therefore you were 26 years old?

A. Well, I was 26. Still I was a very naive person not knowing the Court system as I do a little now.

Q. Now, is your answer that you did not report it to your attorney or you do not remember whether --

A. I don't remember reporting it to him.

Q. You don't remember reporting it to him?

Page 57.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. I don't remember reporting, saying anything to him about this.

Q. Okay. Now, as I understand it, the visit to You -- I'm sorry -- in 1988 when you were arrested on the bench warrant and bail was again made, you did in fact in July 1988 enter a plea of nolo contendere to the weapons charges that had been placed against you back in 1982; is that correct?

(Pause.)

A. Nolo -- no contest, right?

Q. I'm sorry, yes.

A. Yeah.

Q. No contest; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was a guilty plea that you made in July 1988 which caused you to be placed under probation for a period of years; is that right?

A. I didn't enter a guilty plea.

Q. I'm sorry, the no contest plea?

A. Yes.

Q. As a result of that no contest plea you were found guilty and placed on probation?

A. I don't know about the guilty part but I know I was placed on five years probation, yes.

Q. Well, you were found guilty after you pled no contest; isn't that correct?

A. Okay, well, I'm sorry.

Q. Okay. Now, you said that being located on the bench warrant was because you had been arrested in New Jersey for something else?

A. You mean how did they find me?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. Because I was, I was working and receiving welfare in New Jersey.

Q. And how long had you been back in New Jersey at that time?

A. I can't remember how long I was back.

Q. Well, was it days, weeks or months?

A. I don't remember. I really don't remember.

Q. Well, do you remember how much welfare you received illegally at that time?

A. It was,about $2,000.

Q. And your testimony today is that you were arrested in New Jersey before this bench warrant was lifted in Philadelphia?

(Pause.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, how would the witness know that?

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

MR. WEINGLASS: The question --

THE COURT: Lifted?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You were taken back, you said you were extradited to Philadelphia, right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And again the Quarter Sessions file, if the Quarter Sessions file reflects that you were given bail again in Philadelphia on June llth, 1988, is it your testimony that the day that you were arrested in New Jersey was before June llth, 1988, before you were given bail here in Philadelphia?

A. I don't recall. You have that paper, I don't recall. I don't know -- I don't remember.

Q. I am asking you in terms of being arrested in New Jersey?

A. I was brought over here, that's all I know.

Q. Well, I thought you told us --

A. I had another bail set, yes, I did.

Q. I thought you told us that you were brought over here after you had been arrested in New Jersey on other charges?

A. I said I was -- I will say it again -- I was extradited from New Jersey. I was... I didn't appear in Court I believe for welfare fraud in New Jersey.

I had a warrant over here. They picked me up there, I sat in the County for three days over there and they ran the computer. I came up on the computer for not showing up in Court. They extradited me here. I was here for about seven days and my bail was raised for me.

Q. Okay. Now, I take it that the welfare fraud that you committed was done for the betterment of your children, so you could better support them with money?

A. Couldn't nobody else take care of them but me.

Q. And it was necessary for you to steal from the state of New Jersey?

A. I don't call it stealing, I call it borrowing. Because through these years I have worked, so I call it borrowing.

Q. You call it what?

A. I call it borrowing.

THE COURT: Borrowing.

THE WITNESS: It has been recouped, okay.

MS. FISK: Borrowing, I see.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Nevertheless, the State of New Jersey called it theft by deception; is that right?

A. Well, that's what they call it. I don't call it that.

Q. Would you agree with me that on October the 14th, 1988 you were found guilty in Camden, New Jersey for theft by deception and placed on probation for a period of four years?

A. For a period of four years?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. That probation and Philadelphia probation was combined. I did five years and $200 -- 200 hours community service. So I don't remember them saying four years over there for no welfare fraud, no.

Q. And the 200 hours of community service, what was the community service that you performed, ma'am?

A. I had a nice leader so almost whatever I wanted to do. It was maybe cleaning, maybe working in the office, just about everything. But it was free.

Q. Working what office, ma'am?

A. Whatever office they place me in.

Q. Would you tell us where it was that you worked?

A. City Hall.

Q. Okay. And your community service then was --

A. Cleaning.

Q. -- working for the city for 200 hours?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And you were also ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $2,424?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the amount that you had illegally borrowed?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. From the State of New Jersey?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, how much welfare were you obtaining on a weekly basis prior to that arrest in 1988?

A. Is all this dealing with what you got me here for?

Q. Indeed it is, ma'am.

A. Back then?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. I really can't recall how much they gave you per month, you don't get nothing per week.

Q. Per month?

A. I can't really recall but I think it was 300 some odd dollars, maybe 404, I'm not sure.

Q. Was that coming to you on behalf of your children?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Hadn't there in fact been a period back in 1985 when the money had to go to your mother?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. So your children were living in New Jersey in 1985, not in West Virginia; is that correct?

A. Like I said, I don't remember when I brought them back. And they were with me when I left here.

Q. When you returned after the six or seven years?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were your children with you during that entire period of time?

A. With me.

Q. If records in New Jersey reflect that in 1985, only three years following this case, your mother had to obtain welfare benefits for your children in New Jersey, would that refresh your recollection that your children were living in New Jersey?

A. No, it doesn't refresh my recollection because they have been with me. They were with me. Now, I hope you get your paperwork right but my kids were with me.

Q. I would be happy to, ma'am --

A. And they are here with me. They are with me. I don't leave my kids nowhere.

Page 64.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Because you want to demonstrate to your children what it is to live life lawfully; is that right, Miss Jones?

A. It has nothing to do about that. We are not even going to go there. It has nothing to do with that.

Q. I thought, Miss Jones, that you told us the reason for your coming forward now, and in fact in your affidavit you note that --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- was to -- I'm sorry -- in the press conference you gave last week --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- is when you said that this was to show your children what lawful living was like; is that correct?

A. No, ma'am, I did not.

Q. That is not what you said?

A. No, ma'am, I did not. Just because I wanted to act the fool and do whatever I wanted to with my life doesn't mean that I was trying to raise my children like that. Yes, you could call me contradicted or whatever. Whatever I do, I didn't raise my kids like that. They learned from my mistakes from seeing me do certain things. That's why they are strong black women now. Because I -- you think I like what I did? No, I didn't. But it paid the bills and they never went hungry. And I'm okay with that. And as long as they have no complaints with that, I'm fine.

Page 65.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Miss Jones, is your mother's name Shirley Wilson?

A. What does my mother have to do with this?

Q. I am asking.

A. Yes, her name is Shirley Mae Wilson.

Q. And did Miss Wilson on November lst, 1985 file a civil custody action in the State of New Jersey for custody of your children?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to this also.

MR. YEAGER: The witness has certain Constitutional rights and the questions can't go into the private matters of this witness that have nothing to do with this case or her testimony here today and nothing to do with her testimony in the underlying criminal trial.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this is to --

MR. YEAGER: The Commonwealth is trying to harass the witness.

MS. FISK: This goes to Miss Jones'

Page 66.

Veronica Jones - Cross

credibility, Your Honor. She has testified today that for six or seven years following 1982 she and her children resided in West Virginia.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: The fact that her mother in New Jersey is seeking custody of her children in 1985 certainly impeaches that statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: It has nothing to do with impeaching that statement. They can't question Miss Jones about anything that her mother did. Number one, they don't know exactly what her mother did because it is all hearsay.

THE COURT: Counselor, if you want to take the stand and testify we will be glad to listen to you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I only ask that the testimony proceed according to law.

THE COURT: Well, it is proceeding according to --

MR. WEINGLASS: The questions are based on hearsay documents.

THE COURT: No, they are not. She knows very well where her girls were at that time.

MR. WEINGLASS: And she has testified

Page 67.

Veronica Jones - Cross

to that.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: But questioning her on what her mother did has no bearing on the witness' testimony.

THE COURT: It could refresh her memory that the children were not with her at that time.

MR. WEINGLASS: She has not indicated she has any trouble with her memory.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: She's very clear that the --

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. Okay. Let's go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jones, does that refresh your recollection that your mother on November lst, 1985 filed a civil action custody complaint because welfare told your mother to sign because of negligence by you and you are just coming and going any time you felt?

MR. WEINGLASS: Now, Your Honor, we are getting hearsay on hearsay. What the welfare agency told her mother is additional hearsay to the hearsay of what her mother put in the document. This is highly improper.

Page 68.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am permitted to use anything to refresh the recollection of a witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness has not indicated she needs her recollection refreshed.

THE COURT: Maybe she does.

THE WITNESS: I don't.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness has indicated she doesn't.

THE WITNESS: My children were with me. Whatever my mother did while we were gone, that's my mother. My kids were with me.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was your mother receiving welfare for your children?

A. I don't know what she was doing. You would have to ask my mother.

Q. Was your mother receiving welfare for your children in West Virginia?

A. No, when I got there, but I will tell you if there was any wrongdoings, if the welfare system didn't pick it up then it is not my fault. I have nothing to do with that part.

Page 69.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Now, you have told us when you were brought in to the trial to testify, that is the Jamal trial to testify, you did not realize you were going to be brought in; is that right, ma'am?

Miss Jones, let me know when you're ready.

A. I will.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't mean to sound so obnoxious but, you know, I didn't know I was being brought there for that reason, no.

Q. Okay.

A. I thought I was finally coming up for my, coming up to have something done with my charges.

Q. Yes, ma'am. And when you were brought into the Courtroom, as I understand it you had not met with any attorney on that day or had you. Representing you.

A. I don't, I don't remember. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. When you came into the Courtroom you have told us that you looked out, you saw somewhere in the Courtroom the two white detectives who had visited you in the prison some -- how long before had it been?

A. I don't recall how long before I saw them but the two white men that were there were the same two white men standing on the same side of the room with all the blue shirts in the corner. I don't remember saying that --

Q. Okay. And as I understand it, as a result of your fear because you were only 21 years old, your testimony is that you decided to go along with what they had told you; is that correct?

A. I told them I didn't see two men running away. That's what I told them when they brought me into that Courtroom that day. And I didn't know what I was coming in for. I denied seeing anything.

Q. All right, let me ask you this. Other than at the trial when you said you did not see two men running away, was everything else you said at the trial the truth?

A. Basically.

Q. When you say basically, I assume that --

A. Some parts of it is true and some parts wasn't.

Q. Well, I assume, Miss Jones, that between 1982 and today you have been given an opportunity on behalf of those who have called you to testify to review your trial testimony; is that right?

A. Between 1982 and today, I just met these guys this year.

Q. Yes.

A. So therefore it was not on my mind at all until I ran into them.

Q. Between April 1996 and today have you been given an opportunity to review your testimony from the trial?

A. Yes, I have, several times.

Q. Okay.

A. Good.

Q. Then other than saying basically, can you tell us specifically what other areas of your testimony -- and I recognize that when you said you didn't see two men running away that that was an untruth?

A. That was untrue.

Q. What else was it that you said at the trial which was an untruth?

A. I said I was intoxicated, I remember that.

Q. And were you intoxicated?

A. But I can't recall exactly what I said per se, I can't recall all that.

Q. Well, let me go back first, then, to December 1981 when detectives took a statement from you. And again that statement was part of the attachment that defense Counsel filed, the statement which you gave in December 1981. You've had an opportunity to see that, haven't you, ma'am?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. All right. Now, was that a truthful statement?

A. Not all of it, no.

Q. Not all of it?

A. No.

Q. Now, was that, did you tell the police the truth when they interviewed you in December 1981?

A. I told them I saw two men run away.

Q. And does that appear in the written statement?

A. I can't recall, I don't have that paper with me.

Q. Well, let me ask you this. When the police interviewed you in 1981, it was in your mother's home; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. And that interview was done in New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Your mother was present when the interview was taken from you?

A. She sat there for a minute, yeah, and then she left. But she left the room because I insisted on it.

Q. Okay. And the two detectives then spoke to you, one of them recorded the questions that he was asking you and the answers that you were giving; is that correct?

A. I don't remember no recorder, I remember one doing all the writing.

Q. Okay.

A. One was writing in the small book, one was writing on some paper.

Q. I'm sorry, when I said recording I was referring to writing, I apologize.

A. All right.

Q. One of them was writing and one of them was drawing a picture?

A. He was just tapping a book, I never saw what he was writing.

Q. Well, do you remember what the detectives looked like?

A. No.

Q. White? Black? Male? Female?

A. Two were white and I can't remember if the other one was black or Hispanic, I can't remember.

Q. Okay, one of them -- and again this is from your trial testimony -- I believe one of them was a Camden police officer and the other two were from Philadelphia; is that right?

A. There was three from Philadelphia, the Camden police officer didn't even sit in there.

Q. Three from Philadelphia?

A. Yeah, Camden police officer didn't sit in the kitchen with us.

Q. If you testified at the trial there were three of them, one from Camden and two from Philadelphia, is that a lie?

A. Well, I don't remember. I must have been mistaken, I don't know. I know it was three police officers. The one from Camden police was reassuring my mother or something so that's why I know he wasn't in the kitchen with us.

Q. Does that make it four police officers? I am not trying to confuse you, I am trying to understand. Are you saying there were four who came, one from Camden and three from Philadelphia?

A. The one from Camden was more so somebody that knew us in Camden. And he came there with the three police officers.

Q. That's what I am trying to say. So there were four who came, one from Camden and three from --

A. Three from over here, yes.

Q. Okay. After you insisted that your mother

Page 75.

Veronica Jones - Cross

leave you remained in the room with three Philadelphia police officers; is that it?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. And one of them wrote down things that he was saying to you and things that you were saying to him?

A. Mostly things he was saying to me and I was just answering what he wanted me to answer. He asked me was I there. I told him I was there.

Q. Well, when you say you were --

A. He asked me was I in the area.

Q. Okay. So he asked you questions and you gave answers?

A. Yes.

Q. And you gave truthful, the most truthful answers you were able to give?

A. The most I could remember.

Q. Okay. Now, as you were speaking to him, was he, that person who was writing, writing down your answers?

A. I can't recall who was writing down nothing.

Q. After the interview was complete between you and this detective, were you given an opportunity to review the handwritten pages that the detective had filled out?

Page 76.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. I don't recall, maybe I did, maybe I didn't. I don't recall. I really don't.

Q. Were you asked to sign that statement?

A. I was asked to sign something but I don't recall doing all this reading and writing and everything I said. This is a hundred years later, I don't recall all this stuff. All I know is that I lied.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. That's the biggest thing in a nut shell: I lied and it wasn't right.

Q. And my question is when you lied, Miss Jones, and that's what we are trying to find out, ma'am?

A. Well, evidently when I was at trial, I don't know.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that this document please be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 1. This is Miss Jones' December 1981 statement.

I would note that a copy of the statement was amended to the defense application to the Supreme Court. And quite obviously they have had it prior to this date.

(Investigation Interview Record was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-l for identification.)

Page 77.

Veronica Jones - Cross

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-l, Your Honor. (Handing to the witness.)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jones, Commonwealth Exhibit 1 is a copy of the statement. Do you recognize first the signature on the bottom of each of the first five pages, and then the signature I guess at the top, upside down with the final page?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Are those your signatures?

A. They are my signatures.

Q. And did you place your signature on each of those pages after these words were written there?

A. Evidently: They 're here.

Q. My question is did you place your signature --

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Q. Prior to placing your signature on those pages, Miss Jones, did you review these pages, did you read them to make sure they were accurate?

A. I don't recall if I reviewed them or not, I don't recall.

Q. So you didn't know whether you were signing as a witness to the Kennedy killing --

A. These were police officers, why should I have

Page 78.

Veronica Jones - Cross

to second guess them? Why should I have to check after them?

Q. Police officers --

A. A cop is a cop to me.

Q. Police officers regularly --

A. Why should I have to, they -- I am trusting them, why should I have to check behind them? I don't know about the law. I didn't know about it then, ma'am, I didn't.

Q. Police officers regularly arrested you up until that time, is that correct, for illegal conduct?

A. Illegal prostitution, yes, ma'am.

Q. And yet you trusted the police officers and didn't feel it was necessary to review anything they asked you to sign?

A. What does that have to do with them picking me up for prostitution?

Q. You are telling us that you trusted police officers; is that correct?

A. Just because it was prostitution, I never, it was not their doing, they were doing their job.

Q. I would like you to look at the last page of this Exhibit. And do you recognize that as a diagram of Locust Street, 12th Street, 13th Street?

Page 79.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. This is so called Locust Street, but this isn't the way things were.

Q. Do you see the words right near your signature Veronica Jones, do you see the words heard shots?

A. Yeah, at the bottom.

Q. Isn't that in your handwriting, Miss Jones?

A. No, I don't recall writing no heard shots. That is my signature like I told you. I don't recall writing anything else. I didn't draw no diagram.

Q. Did you place your signature on that --

A. I wrote my signature on that paper, yes.

Q. I haven't finished my question yet. Did you write your signature on that diagram after all these other marks which are on it were there?

A. Ma'am, I don't recall. I don't remember.

Q. All right, Miss Jones, with the exception of at the trial saying that you did not see two people run away, and the -- I'm sorry -- the one other matter which you just told us previously was untrue, am I correct that in the rest of your testimony at trial you attempted to tell the truth about where you were and what you saw, with the exception of people running away; is that right?

A. Ma'am, like I said, I don't recall. This has been a long time. I see what you have given me. I have glanced through it.

Page 80.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Yes, ma'am. Well, take your time to read it, please, Miss Jones.

If you wish to read over each and every word take your time.

A. These were all the places that were there. But 1ike I said, I don't remember exactly what I told these men, I really don't. But I do remember saying that I did not see two men walk away, I mean run away. I do remember saying that.

Q. At trial?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes, ma'am. If I would suggest to you that nowhere in this statement does it ever say that you saw two men run away, would that refresh your recollection that you never told the police that either?

MR. WEINGLASS: This is an improper question. The witness' attention --

THE COURT: If you are objecting, the objection is overruled.

MR . WEINGLASS: Would the Court please hear me out on the objection?

THE COURT: I don't need to hear you out.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness has a

Page 81.

Veronica Jones - Cross

five-page statement in front of her.

THE COURT: Well, let her read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Counsel --

THE COURT: Let her read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The correct questioning should direct her attention to particular parts of the five-page statement.

THE COURT: Let her read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: This isn't a test of someone's memory or reading.

THE COURT: Counselor, it is, some of it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: If it is an accurate test she should be shown what Counsel is referring to.

THE COURT: You try your case your way, let her try her case her way. She doesn't tell you how to proceed.

Read over your whole statement.

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: This isn't -- what I told them when I was in court, I told them that I did not see two men run away. But this one I agreed -- they told -- look, I was doing what I was told.

Page 82.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MS. FISK: There is no question pending.

MR. WEINGLASS: She is being interrupted again.

THE COURT: Let her wait until she gets a question. I don't want her ad-libbing.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, I believe the witness is out of tissues. May I, Your Honor, may I pass the witness some tissues?

THE COURT: Get tissues from there...

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jones, there has been no claim that the document Commonwealth Exhibit 1 is what you said at trial. The document Commonwealth Exhibit 1, I have asked you if you recognize that as the statement that you gave the detectives on December 15th, 1981. And I do not wish to mislead you or misrepresent. That is what it is reflected as: A statement given by you to detectives on December 15th, 1981 when you were interviewed in your mother's home in New Jersey. Just so you understand that. Do you understand that now?

A. I understand what you're saying.

Q. Okay. Now, would I be correct that at no place in that statement does it say that you saw two people running -- I'm sorry -- two men running away from the scene of the shooting?

Page 83.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor: The statement speaks for itself.

THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is in the statement.

MS. FISK: It is not in there, Your Honor, that is exactly --

MR. WEINGLASS: It is in the statement.

THE COURT: Well, do you want to get up on the stand and we will ask you the questions?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the statement is in evidence. And the statement speaks for itself.

THE COURT: She is asking her a question.

MR. WEINGLASS: Whether it is on the statement. And it is on.

THE COURT: Counselor, if you keep interrupting the Court I am going to move you out of this case.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 84.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Miss Jones --

A. I told them, like it says on here, I did see two men running away. Now, as far as the Rocky's and all that --

Q. I'm sorry, Miss Jones, where? Direct me, please, to a page where it says you saw two men running away?

A. On page 2, first paragraph.

Q. Yes, ma'am. Do you see -- I'm sorry.

A. Well, running and jogging to me is the same thing, ma'am, I'm sorry.

Q. I'm sorry, Miss Jones, directing your attention, I believe it is what you are looking at, starting at the bottom of the first page -- and if I am reading it incorrectly please correct me if I am wrong -- it reads, after I saw the policeman fall I saw two black guys walk across Locust Street and then they started -- I'm sorry -- they started sort of jogging. The next thing I saw was a wagon coming. Did I read that correctly, ma'am?

A. Yes, you did.

Q. Do you see the word away there?

A. If I knew you was going word-by-word way back then I would have gave you word-by-word. I am just telling you what I told them.

Page 85.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Do you see, ma'am, on the fifth page of that statement there is a question to you, question, how close did the two black males who jogged across Locust Street get to the fallen officer. And your answer as reported was not close enough, maybe two or three steps away? Do you see that answer to that question, Miss Jones?

(Pause.)

A. This is when I seen them running away from him.

Q. Well, does the fact that they got not close enough suggest to you that they were running towards the officer?

A. No, it does not suggest they was running towards him, they was running away.

Q. I see. Now, at the trial, Miss Jones, you testified that you were on the north side of Locust Street, sort of on the corner of 12th and Locust but on the north side of Locust Street when you heard these shots; am I correct about that?

A. If I said that, ma'am, if you check my high school records, my north and south and my math and all that is not all that hot. So I don't know north and south, which way, I don't know all that.

Q. But you knew, for example, where Chancellor

Page 86.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Street was, and you knew which side of the street the police officer was on?

A. That was up the street.

Q. Well, were you on the same side of Locust Street or the opposite side of Locust Street?

A. I was on the right-hand side of the street, opposite of where the policeman fell.

Q. That is my question.

A. Okay.

Q. You were across Locust Street from where the policeman was?

A. Across the street. He fell on this side, I was on this side (indicating). At the corner.

Q. And when you are saying this side you are talking about the opposite side of Locust Street, right, that is the street the officer was on, he was closer to 13th, you were at 12th?

A. I was closer to 12th, I was on 12th.

Q. Can you explain for me, ma'am, why Commonwealth Exhibit 1, this statement which you gave truthfully and honestly on December 15th, 1981 to the detectives, reflects that you were on the same side of Locust Street as where the police officer was shot?

A. I don't know, that's not where I was standing.

Page 87.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Well, why did you say that to the detectives in December 1981?

A. If they said north, west or south, I didn't know. Like I said, I am not good with those type of things. But I was standing across the street at the corner.

Q. You knew where Chancellor Street was; isn't that correct, ma'am?

A. Who don't know where Chancellor Street is?

Q. Pardon?

A. Back then who didn't know where Chancellor Street was?

Q. So you did know where Chancellor is?

A. It is a street.

Q. So that we can be clear, Chancellor Street is just north of,Locust Street, closer to Chestnut Street from Locust, right?

A. Chancellor Street is where Chancellor Street is. I am not going to tell you again: I don't know about north, south, I don't know about that.

Q. I am not asking you about that. You know where Chestnut Street is, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You know where Locust Street is, right?

A. Oh, yeah, I know where Locust Street is at.

Page 88.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. And if you went from Locust towards Chestnut you would get to Chancellor Street first, right? Okay? I am trying to do it without north or south so you understand.

A. I didn't go that way, ma'am. I didn't go that way.

Q. I am not saying you went that way, I am just trying to establish directions. Would you agree with me that Chancellor Street is that side of Locust between Locust and Chestnut? I am not suggesting that you went that way, I am just placing it there.

A. I believe so.

Q. That is the direction Chancellor Street is on, right?

A. You know better than me, ma'am.

Q. No, I don't. You said everybody knows where Chancellor Street is.

A. Because Chancellor Street is up the street, sometimes that's where we went.

Q. I understand but --

A. I can't recall where Chancellor Street is. I know it is in that area. You've got Camac, you got Chancellor, it's in that area, okay.

Q. No, it is not okay, Miss Jones.

A. Well, I can't help you because I don't know.

Page 89.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Do you know that Chancellor Street is in between Locust and Chestnut?

A. Well, then that's where it is.

Q. And you knew that then, right?

A. Evidently, if I had -- oh.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I am from out of town but Counselor is wrong: It is in between Locust and Walnut.

MS. FISK: Yes, but it is north of Locust and that is the direction I am attempting to establish because Chestnut is also north of Locust. I am not suggesting there are no other streets, I'm just trying to establish a direction.

MR. WEINGLASS: But there are many streets further north than Locust but Chancellor is between Locust and Walnut.

THE COURT: Counselor, if you want to ask her questions later on save it for later on.

MR. WEINGLASS: I don't think the witness should be misled.

MS. FISK: Fine.

THE COURT: She is not being misled. If she is operating in these streets she should know them.

Page 90.

Veronica Jones - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Chancellor Street is between Locust and Walnut; is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, your statement of December 15th, 1981 reads as follows, ma'am. That I was in a little restaurant called Rocky's, it is on Chancellor Street. We were drinking. We came out of the restaurant, went down the alley towards 12th Street. We went down 12th Street and crossed Locust Street.

Did I read that correctly, ma'am?

A. You read it correctly but that's what we was doing all night. That's what we were doing. Joking and drinking beer.

Q. Was what I just read to you what you told detectives on December 15th, 1981?

A. He asked us what we did that night. I told him that's what we usually did, we hung out at Rocky's. It was a little pizza place where you could drink beer at and that's where I was earlier that night.

Q. And did you tell them that when you came out of the restaurant we went down the alley towards 12th

Page 91.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Street, we went down 12th Street and crossed Locust Street?

A. Yeah, I lived on 12th Street.

Q. Pardon?

A. You come down the street, you come down Chancellor and make a right and you end up on 12th and Locust. That was my spot right there.

Q. And you note on the statement -- that's what I am asking you about -- then you crossed Locust Street. That would take you to the other side of Locust Street still on 12th; is that right?

A. No, I didn't cross Locust.

Q. Do you see where it says --

A. I see where. I'm sorry, I'm sorry for jumping. My fault. But I didn't cross Locust Street.

Q. Did you tell that to the detective is my question?

A. No, ma'am, I don't recall telling him that.

Q. But you see it written on the statement?

A. Yes, I see it.

Q. That was a page that was signed by you?

A. Well, that was my fault. I didn't cross Locust Street.

Q. Do you see, ma'am, on the diagram which was

Page 92.

Veronica Jones - Cross

also signed by you on the last page the little dots that have two Xs, and by one is the words heard shots, and then there is another one up by what would be another, I would presume would be Polly's in front of Camac Street, are all on that other side of Locust Street?

A. I didn't see it. I see it.

Q. Which is the side of Locust Street one would be on after one crossed Locust Street having left the Chancellor Street area? Do you see that, ma'am?

A. Yes, ma'am. But I wasn't on that side of the street.

Q. You never said that to detectives?

A. No, ma'am, I wasn't on that side.

Q. You can't explain why those words are on this statement?

A. No, because I didn't cross the street.

Q. Now, what you testified to at the trial, ma'am, is that from the side of Locust Street you now say you were on, which is the same side closer to Chancellor Street --

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. -- which is the north side of Locust Street?

A. Thank you.

Q. That after you saw, after you heard several

Page 93.

Veronica Jones - Cross

shots -- now, you testified at trial that you heard several shots while you were still on the 12th Street side; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You were on 12th Street?

A. Yes, but I wasn't right around the corner. I was around the corner on 12th Street leaning on the Speed Line.

Q. Which is what, 10, 15 feet off the corner?

A. No, I am five or six steps.

MS. FISK: I would ask, Your Honor, Miss Wolkenstein not testify and we leave it to the witness to answer my questions.

THE COURT: Would you please not testify.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

THE COURT: If you want to testify let me know, I will put you up on the stand and you could testify to anything you want.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The witness shouldn't be misled, Your Honor. It is quite clear where it is.

THE COURT: You keep your mouth shut or I will move you out again.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 94.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Miss Jones, you were leaning on the High Speed entrance?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And after you heard the shots is when you moved to the corner to look up the street; is that right?

A. Not right away.

Q. Not right away?

A. No. Common sense I am not going to stick my head around the corner right away. But I did a few minutes later.

Q. Okay. How many minutes later?

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, you heard, well, am I correct first that all shooting had stopped before you made any effort to even go to the corner to look around the corner?

A. You really couldn't, you really didn't know it was a shot, you would think it was like a backfire.

Q. Okay.

A. First" But then you also remember the area you're in.

Q. Right.

A. And we heard -- I heard it. I paused for a

Page 95.

Veronica Jones - Cross

minute. Then I just looked around the corner. I came out the corner and I looked up the street. It is like an angle. I looked up the street.

Q. Now, you testified at trial that at that point you also saw someone at a soda machine?

A. Someone standing up around the other Speed Line. I didn't see the soda machine. I said there was a soda machine in that area. There was two of them.

Q. Do you remember testifying at the trial that you saw a man across Locust Street, or that is across from where the officer was shot, at the soda machine, and that that person from the soda machine eventually moved towards the corner? Do you remember saying that at the trial?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection unless the witness is shown the testimony. Common courtesy. This is a test of the witness' recall of testimony 14 years ago. She should be shown the testimony.

THE COURT: That is your problem waiting to file a PCRA until 14 years later.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

Page 96.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, when you question a witness about any testimony the witness should be shown the testimony and asked if that was her testimony.

THE COURT: She could ask it first and then she could give her the statement to read if she has it there.

MS. FISK: I had the notes, but.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness has indicated over and over she has no precise recall of the testimony.

THE COURT: Oh, I don't know, she testified that she had a lot of recall on direct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, she recalls testifying falsely.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is on a minor detail.

THE COURT: No, it is not minor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the witness should be shown the testimony.

THE COURT: All right, if we have the notes here we will show it to her. Do you have the notes?

Page 97.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MS. FISK: I do, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. But do you recall, Miss Jones, testifying that there was a man by the soda machine on 13th Street near the Speed Line entrance on the opposite corner from Johnny Dees? Do you remember testifying to that?

A. I remember saying there was somebody on the corner by the Speed Line but it wasn't on that corner, it was across the street by that big apartment building. It is another, umm, Speed Line entrance over there.

Q. I'm sorry, having looked at my notes, do you recall -- and I apologize for changing the subject matter -- but you have told us already today that you never spoke to your attorney or any attorney regarding --

A. I said I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Well, let me ask you this. Do you recall at trial being asked by Mr. Jackson -- -- this is on page 111 of Miss Jones' testimony --

-- Mr. Jackson is asking, but the men that you saw out there, question, did they have dread locks. And your answer was I can't say. Like I told

Page 98.

Veronica Jones - Cross

my public defender, I was too far to say they had dread locks.

A. No, no.

Q. Do you recall giving that answer to that question?

A. No.

Q. You don't recall that?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. So then I take it you have no clue as to who that public defender is you are referring to?

A. No, I -- no.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection --

A. It doesn't refresh it one bit.

Q. Yes, I understand you know the answer but let me just finish the question. Does that refresh your recollection with regard to whether or not you spoke to any attorney representing you about your testimony in this matter?

A. I still say I didn't speak to no one about this.

Q. Okay. Now, am I correct, Miss Jones, that at the trial in 1982, you did while on the witness stand... Make reference to police officers asking you to give favorable testimony -- I'm sorry.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we have the

Page 99.

Veronica Jones - Cross

pages?

MS. FISK: Certainly.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you recall testifying at trial about having been picked up at 11th and Winter, as you testified to today, do you remember testifying to that generally at the trial?

A. No, I don't remember.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Page, could we have a page reference, please?

MS. FISK: Certainly. It covers many pages, but starting at page 129.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. At the trial in this matter, which took place after you told us you were threatened by two police officers and as a result because of that you were lying, do you remember at that trial answering -- on page 129 -- I had got locked up, I think it was in January, I'm not sure, not January, I think sometime after that incident. They were getting on me, telling me I was in the area and I seen Mumia, you know, do it, you know, intentionally. They were trying to get me to say something that the other girl said. I couldn't do that.

Do you remember saying that at the

Page 100.

Veronica Jones - Cross

trial in 1982?

A. It's vague, ma'am, I don't remember. I might have said it, I don't know. I don't remember, I don't.

Q. Well, that doesn't sound like the words of a person who has been intimidated or threatened to say that Mr. Jamal did it, does it, ma'am?

A. What do you mean? It was said to me and the only person that knows is me and God and those two detectives. You could believe it or you don't have to.

Q. And you were so afraid of those two detectives that you were going to do exactly what they told you to do at the trial; is that right?

A. But did I?

Q. That is my question, Miss Jones.

A. I lied and said I didn't see two men running away. Because I never pointed this man as the shooter because I was not there, I did not see him.

Q. But you also testified at the trial in 1982 that the police before you testified had tried to get you to change your testimony about him, you said that, right?

A. They put me in jail and they took me down to the 6th District. These are two times I saw these two police 0fficers. You could get me to screw up all these dates, you could do that because it has been a long time. You have every record in front of you to reimburse your mind, not me. I am telling you what I know and that's it. You can not get blood from a turnip. This is all I remember. I do not have no photographic mind, this is all I remember.

Page 101.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. That is correct. Do you remember testifying at trial what I just read to you, and that is sometime prior to your testimony police locked you up and asked you to say that Mumia did it, and that they were trying to get you to say something that the other girl said?

A. They didn't lock me up, they brought me in for questioning. They brought me in, they did not lock me up like they do everybody else.

Q. Miss Jones, I am truly not trying to trick you.

A. I am just going by what you're saying, ma'am.

Q. My question is, do you remember testifying to this at the trial in 1982, do you remember saying --

A. I remember saying that they wanted me to do the same thing Lucky did.

Q. Okay. So you said that at the trial in 1982; is that right?

Page 102.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, I take it that it was pretty clear to you that they wouldn't want you to advertise that at trial, right: These officers who were trying to threaten you and intimidate you?

A. Who are they talking to? A nervous 20-year-old. That's who they are talking to.

Q. So despite the fact that you had been threatened and intimidated and were lying because they asked you to, you nevertheless at trial in 1982 did say that other police officers had improperly asked you to lie, is that right, and that you wouldn't do it? Am I correct about that?

A. I don't recall, ma'am, I don't recall. I don't. I know back then there was a lot of objections and every time I start trying to say a few things I was cut off. I do remember that. So maybe that's why they didn't get it all.

Q. Well, that's why I am trying to read to you --

A. Well, ma'am, slowly things are starting to come back to me.

Q. All right, Miss Jones, because that's why I am trying to read to you, ma'am, the questions and the answers which appear on the transcript. Defense Counsel has this transcript as well: If I misread it

Page 103.

Veronica Jones - Cross

I am certain that they will correct me. I am not trying to trick you.

A. Okay.

Q. Nor am I trying to misrepresent. I am simply trying to ask you if you remember these questions and answers.

A. Okay. Ma'am, I could answer you the best that I can.

Q. Fine. That's all I am asking. And there is really no reason to fly off the handle in your answers.

A. That's just me, ma'am, I apologize.

Q. Now, am I correct that at the trial you also in front of the Jury... On page 135, question by Mr. Jackson, in January -- again referring to this time when you were taken to the 6th District and not processed but what you have told us about -- in January did they question you about December the 9th.

And your answer was it more so came about when we had brought up Cynthia's name and they told us we can work the area if we tell them. Do you remember saying that?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. So you testified to that under oath at the trial in 1982; is that correct, ma'am?

Page 104.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. So you remember testifying -- just so I understand now, perhaps your memory has been refreshed -- you remember testifying in 1982 that the police in January had -- excuse me -- had taken you in and had tried to get you to say things that you refused to say; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And you told the Jury that, and you testified to that under oath, is that correct, that in January or thereabouts following the shooting, before your testimony, that the police had tried to pressure you into saying things; is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. All right. And your testimony today is that you were doing that even after, as you say, these two white officers had visited you in the prison two weeks or thereabouts before, and threatened you about or told you that you had to help them get Jamal; is that correct?

A. They didn't say I had to do anything, they used my charges.

Q. Okay. So they told you that if you helped them they would help you?

A. They would get me off those gun charges.

Page 105.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. And did they make clear to you what the helping was?

A. Just to say that I seen Mr. Jamal shoot Officer Faulkner.

Q. Okay. Now, ma'am, after you returned to New Jersey from West Virginia -- I'm sorry -- you were obviously back in 1988, because that's when you were arrested in Camden; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Am I correct that from 1988 to and through now, you remain in, you have remained in Camden, New Jersey?

A. I remained in New Jersey.

Q. Have you remained in Southern New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you remained in the Camden area?

A. Ma'am, I'm in New Jersey.

Q. The question is have you remained in the Camden area?

A. I'm still there.

Q. From 1988 to present; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And you were in Camden last summer?

A. I was in Camden last summer, yes, ma'am.

Q. And for how many years before last summer were

Page 106.

Veronica Jones - Cross

you in Camden, was it since 1988?

A. Excuse me, would you say it again.

Q. I'm sorry, it is confusing, I will restate it. Were you living in Camden in 1989?

A. Yes.

Q. 1990?

A. Yes.

Q. '91?

A. I started having problems in 1991.

Q. Did you leave Camden?

A. No, I was just having problems.

Q. '92?

A. No, like I said, I started running into problems.

Q. '93?

A. I was here and there but I was in Camden.

Q. And throughout that period of time when was it that you were first approached by anyone on behalf of Mr. Jamal to give this testimony?

A. I was first approached in April.

Q. And where was it that you were first approached?

A. It was around Easter time, at my mother's house.

Q. Did you ask those persons who first approached

Page 107.

Veronica Jones - Cross

you how they had located you in April?

A. I don't believe so. I'm not sure if I did or not.

Q. As you sit here today do you know how they came to locate you in April of 1996?

A. I don't recall, I don't recall even asking them that.

Q. Okay. So I am clear, the first time that anyone ever asked you about the truth of your statement from the trial was in April 1996?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you ever contact, between 1982 when you testified, and around Easter or April 1996 when you were contacted, did you ever contact any person to tell them that your testimony had been untruthful?

A. Ma'am, that is a part of my life I tried to erase.

Q. I recognize that but that really does call for a yes or no response.

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Okay. Throughout the pendency of these hearings last summer you were in Camden, ma'am?

A. Yes; but I wasn't a media person, I didn't read it -- I just didn't -- I was an alcoholic, put it this way. So therefore me paying attention to what is going on, it was irrelevant, I could care less. All I wanted was something to drink, okay. You got that now? Is it out? But I lied. But I am not lying and I am sober and I'm cool with that.

Page 108.

Veronica Jones - Cross

THE COURT: Take a short recess.

THE COURT OFFICER: This court will take a brief recess to the call of the Crier.

(Brief recess.

THE COURT OFFICER: This court is now recovened. Everyone will please cease all conversation.

MS. FISK: May I continue? Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, Miss jones, before the recess we were discussing the fact that in April of this year I believe was the first time you told anyone regarding, you told anyone that the testimony you had given in 1982 was untrue. Is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

MR. WEINGLASS: She didn't say that.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, again may I ask --

THE COURT: Councelor, please. I am

Page 109.

Veronica Jones - Cross

going to have to remove you if you keep trying to tell this witness what to say. Please.

THE WITNESS: Could you say that to me again.

MS. FISK: Certainly.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Am I correct that between the time that you testified in 1982 and April of 1996, you did not tell anyone that your testimony had been untruthful?

A. No, like I said, I just met with the defense in April.

Q. Yes, and my question is, before you met them, from the time you testified in 1982 --

A. I never spoke about it.

Q. You never told anyone that your testimony had been untruthful; is that correct?

A. I don't recall, no.

Q. You don't remember?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember telling anyone?

A. No.

Q. Would it be fair to assume that you did not tell anyone?

A. You can assume that but I don't remember

Page 110.

Veronica Jones - Cross

telling anyone.

Q. All right, last summer you told us that you were having personal problems, but were you aware that this hearing was going on in Philadelphia, that is this Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing was taking place?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. All right. You were unaware that for a period three-and-a-half weeks in August there was testimony --

A. I didn't, like I said, I blocked that part of my life out and I was based on one thing. I was thinking about one thing, so. No, I was not aware of it.

Q. And again, am I correct that what you were thinking about was drinking because you were having problems?

A. I have an alcohol problem, ma'am.

Q. Okay. Did you have access during August of last year to newspapers, to television, to radio?

A. Like I said, I wasn't a media person. I don't like to read news because it's always bad news so I don't read news at all.

Q. When was it, then, that you were first aware that Mr. Jamal was challenging his conviction through

Page 111.

Veronica Jones - Cross

a Post-Conviction Relief Act proceeding?

A. I really wasn't, I might have heard about it.

(At this time there was a disturbance in the spectators' section of the Courtroom.)

THE COURT: If you have any control over these people you better tell them to pay attention and be seated. Otherwise I am going to clear the Courtroom.

THE COURT OFFICER: All of you that are out there now you must take your seats or this Courtroom will be cleared. That is by order of the Judge. If you do not take your seats now you will be asked to leave. Thank you very much.

Sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's all right. I don't know what caused that rumpus out there but, boy... That's a disgrace.

THE COURT OFFICER: Good thing we have the Sheriff.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jones, you said that you were aware that there was a Post-Conviction Relief Act proceeding of some sort, not under that name but that there was some kind of proceeding going on regarding Mr. Jamal?

Page 112.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. I was, I heard something about it, yeah.

Q. And that was before you were approached by persons in April of this year?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. When you heard something about it, how long before April of this year was it, if you recall?

A. I don't recall.

Q. When you heard something about it, did it occur to you that you should speak to someone about what you had done?

A. No.

Q. It did not?

A. No.

Q. Yet when you were approached in April of this year, did you immediately tell those persons who approached you what it was that you had done?

A. I choked for a few minutes but the truth was right in front of me, which was the defense team. So I did what I was supposed to do.

Q. And that is to tell them that the testimony which you had given was in part perjured because of this visit that you had had in the prison by these two detectives; is that right?

A. Part, part was my fault and part was the policeman's fault, yes.

Page 113.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Now, since that time in April, in April of '96, Miss Jones, have you remained in that same place where you had been living in April '96 when the defense team came and spoke to you?

A. I haven't moved a stitch, I've been right there.

Q. All right. Can you tell me, ma'am, who Ronald Simmons is?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. That's my fiance.

Q. All right. And is that the person with whom you currently live?

A. You dug that far into my business? Yes, that is who I am living with.

Q. How long have you been living with Mr. Simmons?

MR. YEAGER: I have to object to delving into the witness' personal life. It has no relevancy to, absolutely no relevance to this proceeding. And if it does Counsel should make a proffer on where Counsel is going.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Page 114.

Veronica Jones - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Can you tell us how long you have been living with Mr. Simmons?

A. On and off, about five years.

Q. All right. Since this year, January of '96, up until now, have you and Mr. Simmons been living together?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, please, there is really, there has been no proffer made on what relevance this could possibly have.

THE COURT: Well, we don't know until we hear answers.

MR. YEAGER: Or unless Counsel makes a proffer on why she is --

MS. FISK: With all due respect, Your Honor, I believe Counsel for Miss Jones would have standing only to object to questions which are perhaps questions that go to her Fifth Amendment right, and certainly has no right to object to questions having to do with relevancy in this proceeding: He does not have standing.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, I have standing to protect my client's Constitutional rights. Among those are her rights to privacy and this is exactly where this is going.

Page 115.

THE COURT: Well, when you take the stand it is like running for President, you don't have any private life.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is extremely limited to crimen falsi. And other private matters, it is not relevant.

THE COURT: It is not crimen falsi, okay. Counsel, you made your objection.

Okay, let's go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Have you and Mr. Simmons been living together all this calendar year 1996?

A. I live with Mr. Simmons when I am in a good mood. And when he puts me in a bad one I live with my mother.

Q. Since March of this year have you been in a good mood?

A. Particularly, no.

Q. Have you been living with Mr. Simmons since March of this year?

A. I live with Mr. Simmons, when it's convenient for me I live with Mr. Simmons.

Q. Am I correct that you and Mr. Simmons cohabit -- and I will not give the precise number -- but cohabit in an address on Mt. Vernon Street in the

Page 116.

City of Camden?

A. You might as well give the number, you done gave the street. I don't want everybody at my house.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we object to any reference to an address. This wasn't done with prosecution witnesses, particularly when the police testified.

THE COURT: She now said she lived in Philadelphia. All right, let's get into that.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Am I correct that is the street that you and Mr. Simmons live on, ma'am?

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to the street. She has given all the information she need give. And that is Camden, New Jersey.

THE COURT: No, now it is Philadelphia.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, her mother lives in New Jersey as well.

THE COURT: I know that but you are talking about --

MS. FISK: No, it is a New Jersey address, Your Honor.

THE COURT: It is?

MS. FISK: Yes.

Page 117.

THE COURT: Mt. Vernon?

MS. FISK: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: I object to it. The witness has indicated Camden County, New Jersey. That's all she need testify to, the same as the police officers who testified here earlier.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And you and Mr. Simmons live in an address rented to him at the sum of $400 a month?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Do you live in an address --

A. Ma'am, that is not your business.

Q. Well, it is my business, ma'am, if prior to February of this year you were $4,400 in arrears in that rent and since March of this year --

A. That is not your business. That is his business. He is not my husband.

Q. Well, let me ask you this --

MR. YEAGER: This is not proper impeachment.

THE WITNESS: Who do you think you are?

THE COURT: Just a minute.

Where are you going, Counselor?

Page 118.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am about to suggest that prior to February 1996 the address at which Miss Jones lived was $4,400 in arrears on the rent. That in March of this year $200 was paid, in May of this year $800 was paid --

THE WITNESS: You didn't pay it.

THE COURT: Wait a while.

MS. FISK: In June of this year $1,600 was paid, in August of this year $800 was paid, and in September of this year $400 was paid. That those payments, Your Honor, coincide with the time when this witness has all of a sudden started giving testimony in favor of Mr. Jamal.

THE WITNESS: Can I answer that, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Well, now since you all want to be in my business, when we was in debt for that $400 we have a very understanding landlord, okay, so he went along with us. And when his mother gave him money he covered the rent, okay. In April, okay, his sister died, he came into insurance money and cleared up all our bills. Nobody gave us a damn thing.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Nevertheless, the payments were being made month by month, am I correct that the payments were being made in the amounts and the months I just stated, ma'am?

A. That is his business, ma'am. I don't go through these books, he handles the bills.

Q. You know that he came into some money?

A. I know for a fact he did.

Q. Am I correct that despite the arrearage which existed up until February of this year, that in March $200 was paid, in May $800 was paid, in June $1,600 was paid, in August $800 was paid, and in September $400 was paid towards the rent at that address; am I correct about that?

A. Yeah, you are correct. You are very correct. But I resent you digging into my man's business.

Q. But I take it, ma'am, that you have not been paid anything by the Jamal defense team for this testimony?

A. No, I have not.

Q. All right. Now, when the attorneys came and spoke to you in April of this year, Miss Jones --

A. Yes.

Q. -- did they bring with them an attorney to represent you?

Page 120.

A. No, I spoke on my own free will, if I remember right, I just, I spoke on my own free will.

Q. How is it, ma'am, that you came to be represented by Counsel two weeks ago when we came to these proceedings?

A. Because we knew somebody like you would be sitting there.

MR. YEAGER: It is attorney-client privilege.

THE COURT: This is not a privilege. She is not saying anything that she said to him.

MR. YEAGER: She is asking for the witness to discuss communications between herself and Counsel.

THE COURT: I know. If she had any lawyer other than you at the previous hearing.

MR. YEAGER: That is correct, Your Honor. But the communications that she had between her Counsel and herself is --

THE COURT: We are not going into any communications as yet.

MR. YEAGER: That's what she is asking, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, she is not.

MR. YEAGER: You will instruct her not

Page 121.

Veronica Jones - Cross

to ask such questions and not to delve into such communications?

THE COURT: I am not going to tell her to do anything. You make your objection and I will rule on it. I am not the prosecutor here, she is.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. My question, Miss Jones, is how did you come to be represented by Miss St. Hill who was here with you at the last proceeding?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, I renew my objection. Your Honor, the only --

THE COURT: She didn't ask her any communications, she just asked her how she came about it. Either she got her on her own or somebody supplied her. So what?

MR. YEAGER: That's right, Your Honor, it is of no relevance.

THE COURT: So what?

MR. YEAGER: Then it shouldn't be asked and it is of no relevance here.

THE COURT: No, she has her own reason for asking it, I am not going to presuppose that.

MR. YEAGER: Well, let her ask that

Page 122.

Veronica Jones - Cross

question.

THE COURT: Well, she is asking her that.

THE WITNESS: Could you repeat the question, please?

BY MS. FISK:

Q. How did you come to be represented by Miss St. Hill, who was representing you here at the last proceeding?

A. From my knowledge, Miss St. Hill was interested in this case, from what I do believe. But she couldn't represent me further because she had further commitments.

Q. When you say from her knowledge, was her name provided to you from those persons who interviewed you in April of 1996?

A. I met Miss St. Hill at the last hearing.

Q. Okay. So you did not, so I understand, was she provided for you by the defense attorneys in this case?

A. I don't know. All I know is I met Miss St. Hill at the last hearing.

Q. At the last hearing. You did not make a request for her to be present; is that correct?

A. I didn't ask her but when I met her it was

Page 123.

Veronica Jones - Cross

fine with me, I was happy.

Q. Okay. So do I take it, ma'am, that you did not pay her anything; would that be fair to say?

A. She did it from the heart. No, I didn't pay her anything.

Q. Okay. And Counsel who is here today, Mr. Yeager, is the same true: That you met Mr. Yeager here this morning?

A. I met Mr. Yeager, yeah, I met him.

Q. Was today for the first time?

A. I met Mr. Yeager for the first time yesterday.

Q. Yesterday. Okay. And that was because Miss St. Hill was unavailable?

A. She had further commitments.

Q. Yes, okay. And again, do I trust that I am correct that you are not paying Mr. Yeager for his representation?

A. No, he hasn't asked me for a dime.

Q. Now, am I correct, ma'am, that since your return to Camden from West Virginia, that your children have attended schools in Camden?

A. My children are straight A and B students.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. Have never been left back, always went to school in Camden. They are perfect.

Page 124.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Yes, all their last names are Jones, ma'am; is that correct?

A. Jones (indicating).

Q. Yes. Am I correct as well that for periods of time since you have returned to Camden, you have received public assistance?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor --

MS. FISK: This goes to the defense ability to locate the witness during the period of time.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: From trial to April of 1996, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: I might have received assistance for a little while, I can't say how long, but I had to turn custody over of my children to my mother for the better of them.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Yes, ma'am?

A. Because like I said, I was going through a lot of things and they were safer being in my mother's custody as far as financial wise (indicating).

Q. Yes, ma'am. We know as well that you were arrested in Camden in 1988?

Page 125.

Veronica Jones - Cross

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And charged with theft by deception; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And weren't you also arrested one additional time in Woodbury, New Jersey, ma'am?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, arrests are again of no significance for impeachment of this witness.

THE COURT: I don't know what she is offering them for at this time.

MR. YEAGER: Well, let's hear it, Your Honor, please.

THE COURT: Let her ask.

MS. FISK: As I just noted, Your Honor, the fact that an individual is arrested would leave a paper trail which would enable people looking for her to find her.

THE COURT: You see, Counselor, we don't have a jury here. I look at the facts. If I think it is improper, I just disregard it.

MR. YEAGER: Well, Your Honor, I have an obligation to protect the rights of my client, and I think the prosecution has an obligation to limit the questions to also respect the witness' Constitutional rights, and that's not being abided by.

THE COURT: Her Constitutional rights are not being violated in any way.

All right, go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you remember my question, Miss Jones?

A. I was not arrested in Woodbury.

Q. You were not?

A. No, I wasn't arrested.

Q. Let me call your attention specifically to July the 14th, 1992. Do you remember being arrested and charged with attempting to pass a bad check?

A. I remember being picked up for a bad check but I did not, I was not arrested for that because they found out exactly how that happened, okay. So I wasn't arrested for that.

Q. You were not?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. Were you arrested for anything at all in 1992 with regard to that check?

A. Ma'am, as far as I know, I don't know. You got the records, read 'em. I don't know.

Q. Well, do I take it, ma'am, that you're unaware that there is currently a bench warrant for your arrest in effect in Woodbury, New Jersey?

A. I don't see how: I never got a Court date, they never told me that.

MS. FISK: All right. Perhaps, Your Honor, Detective Sergeant Sheenan could be asked to enter the Courtroom. I believe he is out in the hallway. And just step up to the glass.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I object to this procedure. There is no reason for this. What is Counsel attempting to demonstrate here?

MS. FISK: That there is an active, open bench warrant for this witness and that she has to be taken into custody with regard to this.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, this is the usual form of intimidation. It is a continuation --

THE WITNESS: This is not going to change my testimony.

MS. FISK: I didn't ask you to change your testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: Back in 1992. There is no reason to take the witness into custody except to satisfy the desire to further intimidate and coerce the witness.

MS. FISK: When a law officer becomes aware of an outstanding bench warrant for a witness who is appearing it is their obligation to exercise that bench warrant and take that witness into custody.

THE WITNESS: I was not arrested. I was not arrested, I wasn't. I was not arrested. They picked me up because this one guy -- I was not arrested.

MS. FISK: Then I am sure, Miss Jones, that you will be happy to return to New Jersey and explain that to the judge there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, they have had her declaration now since May and there was no attempt to arrest Miss Jones. They only attempt to arrest Miss Jones when she comes in here in Court to tell the truth. This is only an attempt to coerce and intimidate. They had her declaration, they knew where she was since May.

THE COURT: Well, if they had arrested her before then you would be arguing that they arrested her so she couldn't be here, to intimidate her.

Page 129.

MR. WEINGLASS: But there is no --

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't have any control over any warrants from New Jersey. If they want to arrest her --

MR. WEINGLASS: You have control over the Courtroom.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: I ask the Court not to now effect the ultimate coercion and intimidation of a witness, namely, denying their freedom and taking them into custody. You could control that and I ask you not to do this.

THE COURT: I don't have any control over them.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is exactly what happened to Billy Cook and that's why we don't have him here. Now we will lose another witness.

MS. FISK: I would note it is for that reason that the testimony of this witness has been already given and offered on behalf of Mr. Jamal.

May I ask Sergeant Sheenan to walk up to the glass.

THE COURT: I don't know where he is.

Page 130.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am going to object to any detective coming in here.

THE COURT: He is not coming in, he is just walking up to that plastic glass there.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, may I approach the witness? I must confer. Your Honor, I must confer with my client and advise her on these matters. This is highly unusual for the prosecution to attempt to call a witness while someone is on the stand.

THE COURT: She is not calling the witness.

MS. FISK: I am not calling the witness.

THE COURT: She is just letting --

MR. YEAGER: She is trying to have my client arrested.

THE WITNESS: You are threatening to lock me up because I am here.

MS. FISK: No, I am promising to lock you up Miss Jones, it is not a threat.

THE WITNESS: You better come stronger than that, I am telling you that.

THE COURT: Wait a while. Is that the man?

Page 131.

MS. FISK: That is Detective Sergeant Sheenan.

Would you just raise your hands, please.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you recognize this man?

A. I don't recognize either one of them.

THE COURT: She said she doesn't recognize them.

MS. FISK: I would ask the Detective Sergeant be asked to leave the Courtroom.

THE WITNESS: I don't know who they are, Judge, and I am not going to leave with people I don't know.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, may I please have a moment to confer with my client about these matters that have just come up?

THE COURT: If you want her to take the Fifth just tell her.

MR. YEAGER: I need to speak with her, I need to confer with her, and I believe I have a right to do that.

THE COURT: Well, do you have any cases that say you have a right to do that?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, I don't have a case that says that with me.

THE COURT: Well, if you don't have a case with you --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I do not intend to ask this witness any substantive questions with regard to that arrest. I recognize that she has a Fifth Amendment right to remain silent with regard to that arrest. My questions are only that the arrest occurred and a bench warrant for her arrest when she failed to appear at a subsequent listing was issued. Those are the only questions I intend to ask.

MR. YEAGER: Those questions have already been asked.

THE COURT: Well, that's it, then.

MR. YEAGER: Would you please instruct the prosecution to move to a different subject? The prosecution has already asked any potentially relevant question on this area, of which there are none, but the prosecution has already asked the questions she has just proffered.

THE COURT: All right, so they asked them and that's it. Okay, take a seat.

MR. YEAGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I want the record to reflect that the witness was openly weeping and holding her head in her hands during this exchange.

THE COURT: She has maybe a good reason to weep and hold her head.

MR. WEINGLASS: Because she is being again threatened and intimidated.

THE WITNESS: I am being railroaded, that's what I am being.

THE COURT: Not my actions. I didn't commit any crime over in New Jersey or Woodbury.

THE WITNESS: Well, I never got a Court date.

THE COURT: She said she never went to Court. Okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jones, am I correct that on July 14th, 1992, inside Scoops Liquor Store at 325 South Broad Street, you were arrested as a result of attempting to pass a bad or stolen check?

MR. YEAGER: This has already been asked and answered and also calls for a legal conclusion of the witness of what an arrest is.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is now a prosecution of a check case. Asking that question clearly violates her Fifth Amendment rights. She couldn't be asked that question in any Court.

MS. FISK: Asking whether she was arrested does not violate her rights. I am not asking her whether or not she did it, I am asking her whether or not she was charged with it.

MR. YEAGER: That question was already asked and already answered. I am instructing my client not to answer these questions.

THE COURT: Okay. I don't know what the answer was.

MS. FISK: I ask all her testimony be stricken from the record if she will start exercising that right.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Can you answer that question, Miss Jones?

A. No, I can't.

Q. Were you on that date charged with resisting arrest after you attempted to avoid arrest by attempting to break a plate glass window and running away?

A. What?

THE WITNESS: Do I have to answer?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor --

THE WITNESS: Because what she is saying is not the way it went.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I am not asking you how it went, ma'am, I am simply asking whether you were charged?

A. I was not charged, that's what I am saying. That's why I am saying I know I wasn't supposed to appear in no Court. And you bring these two cops to come get me because that's all you got.

Q. Ma'am, were you charged and had bail in the amount of $750?

A. No, ma'am.

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, the government's proffer here was there was a paper trail because there was an alleged arrest. If that is the proffer the government has already established that or can establish that by other means. This is of no relevance at all.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the fact that a witness has an open bench warrant goes to bias along with other relevant areas.

THE COURT: Well, maybe. Ask her. Maybe she didn't know, I don't know.

MR. YEAGER: If there is any bias, Your Honor, it would be bias the other way.

THE COURT: Well, maybe.

THE WITNESS: No, Your Honor, I didn't have no bench warrant, I didn't.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Well, is it my understanding you were saying that you were not arrested, ma'am?

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, that calls for a legal conclusion. It has already been asked and answered.

THE COURT: I think everybody knows what it means to be arrested.

MS. FISK: I would like to have this - document marked Commonwealth Exhibit 2, shown to Counsel and shown to the witness (handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we have been shown what purports to be a mug shot which has no relevance whatsoever to this proceeding except to further humiliate and intimidate the witness. If the prosecution has a record of a prior arrest and they want to use that to demonstrate that the witness could have been found earlier they could put the arrest record into evidence and that would establish that fact. They needn't question the witness about something which the witness, number one, denies and says she has no specific recollection.

THE COURT: Let her deny it, then, okay. Give them back the photo.

MR. WEINGLASS: But forcing the witness to defend a case in New Jersey in this proceeding is nothing more than an attempt to intimidate her.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: And to coerce her.

THE COURT: No.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is certainly not my intention to either intimidate, coerce or harass this witness. This witness has testified under oath that she was not arrested on July the 14th, 1992. I am asking that she look at a police photograph taken of her on that date, and that date is reflected on the photograph, which commemorates that arrest, and perhaps that will refresh her recollection with regard to that arrest. And it goes to the credibility of the witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are talking about legal terms of art. The witness said there were

Page 138.

Veronica Jones - Cross

no charges.

MS. FISK: And the witness said there was no bail, and the witness has said there was no bench warrant, and all of those things exist. And at the appropriate time I would be more than happy to present the correct documents. I can't do it through this witness.

THE COURT: All right.

(Photograph was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-2 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-2.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Am I correct, ma'am --

A. They took my picture in order to have it in the station. They did not charge me with anything. The thing is they had the check, they had this book and anything he used, and they didn't charge me with nothing. Nothing. And I am telling you they didn't.

Q. So then if the city or the municipality of Woodbury has a bench warrant --

A. That's all they did.

Q. If they have a bench warrant in existence for year arrest, it is your testimony that --

A. They have a bench warrant, they didn't make me aware of it. They told me this is one, make sure they put this up on the board with all the other pictures they have. That is what he did. The guy brought back the machine, he told me go ahead and catch the bus. That's all he said. I never got a Court date. I didn't need no paper, I didn't need no paper. Why would I be lying to you for? You done drug me through the mud.

Page 139.

Veronica Jones - Cross

Q. Miss Jones, the City of Woodbury issued a warrant for your arrest on December the 8th, 1994, it is a warrant which currently exists and for which New Jersey is ready to return you?

A. So that's all you had. You think that is going to make me change my story, it is not.

Q. Not at all.

A. It is not.

Q. I am not asking you to change your story as a result, I was asking you whether you were aware of it. You have advised us you were not?

A. I am advising you I was not incarcerated so it was not embedded in my mind. I am not trying to lie to you.

Q. I am not asking you to change your story or to intimidate or coerce you, ma'am. You have told us that you came forward in these proceedings because of your children, and the fact that you had other open matters and bench warrants seems to contradict that. Your statement --

Page 140.

Veronica Jones - Cross

MR. YEAGER: Your Honor, it is a lecture of the witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: This is not a question, this is a summation.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: I got a speech from the witness, I figured it was my turn to give a speech.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Counselor, you are not entitled to make a speech.

MS. FISK: Only defense witnesses are.

MR. WEINGLASS: You're entitled to move to strike the answer, not to remedy it with another speech.

Counsel is proceeding here in a very improper way.

THE COURT: Just go ahead, next question, please.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions of this witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have any?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Miss Jones, did you come here today to tell the truth?

A. All. I thought I did.

Q. Have you been trying to tell the truth?

A. Yeah, but see, it's like I am the one on trial now it seems.

Q. You feel that way?

A. That's the way I feel. And I hate this Courtroom every minute, every time, as long as I sit hear I am starting to hate this Courtroom. Because it's not for justice, it's for bringing us in here and badgering the hell out of us.

THE WITNESS: Sherry and Tiffy, I'm sorry.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Given the interrogation that Miss Jones has had to go through in cross-examination, I want to save her the trouble of any further questions. And although I have a lot of questions that I would like to ask, which I think would correct the misimpressions given here --

Page 142.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I now object to Counsel's speech. I thought he had said we are not allowed to make speeches, just move to strike. I move to strike Counsel's remarks from the record.

THE COURT: Okay, that part will be stricken. But he has no more questions.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would also like the record to reflect in light of Counsel's references to my cross-examination as interrogation that at no time throughout my cross-examination of this witness did I move from Counsels' table, at no time during my cross-examination did I raise my voice to --

MR. WEINGLASS: That is incorrect. Counsel not only cut off the witness frequently but did raise her voice and questioned her in a very threatening manner.

MS. FISK: At no time, Your Honor, did I raise my voice in the manner I am about to raise my voice to Counsel for making blatant misrepresentations on the record.

THE COURT: I realize that you didn't do those things, but.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would ask no more questions. Now, Your Honor, in light of the bench warrant in effect for this witness, I would ask that the Sheriffs take her into custody. There are detectives here from New Jersey with regard to that warrant. If this witness waives her right to an extradition hearing they can certainly return her immediately to New Jersey. If she does not she'll be processed as a fugitive from justice.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, this is outrageous. They are moving now to arrest this witness.

MS. FISK: There is an open bench warrant from Woodbury, New Jersey. It is not our plan, Your Honor, we didn't call this witness, they did.

THE WITNESS: But you went digging, that's what you did.

MR. WEINGLASS: They knew of her whereabouts. Now Your Honor has the power to allow this witness to return, her Counsel is here, to resolve the matter in Woodbury, New Jersey.

THE COURT: Well he could go with them, too.

Page 144.

MR. WEINGLASS: Which is a check issue.

THE COURT: He can go with them, too.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, she doesn't have to be taken into custody at all. The Court could arrange for her, the Court could give her one day, one day to appear in Woodbury with her Counsel to resolve this matter. She needn't be physically taken into custody.

THE COURT: Well, that is not up to me, that is up to those detectives.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor could order that.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not going to order anything. If they arrested her outside, I don't care. That's their problem.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am asking, frankly, the detectives, Your Honor, do not have the jurisdiction to arrest her outside. They are from New Jersey. I am asking that the Sheriffs take Miss Jones into custody as a fugitive from justice. As an Officer of the Court, I am advising Your Honor that there is an outstanding warrant, it has been entered into the National Crime Information Computer, and that the State of New Jersey has advised that they are prepared to extradite her with regard to that warrant. If Miss Jones upon being taken into custody waives her right of extradition she can immediately be taken back to New Jersey by those detectives. If she chooses to exercise her rights under the uniform act having to do with fugitives, she would have the right to be processed as a fugitive and will have the right to have New Jersey enter Governors Warrants against her here in Pennsylvania.

MR. WEINGLASS: And Your Honor has the right to inform the Sheriffs here that you are giving her one day to surrender.

THE COURT: I am not giving her anything. That warrant has been out since 1994.

MS. FISK: December of 1994.

MR. WEINGLASS: They are now executing it.

THE COURT: Because they have --

MR. WEINGLASS: After they heard her testimony.

THE COURT: Ask the detectives from New Jersey.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, it is a question that I think Counsel has to answer because she has the records and she has had these records since May.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, I became aware of this bench warrant only within the last several days.

MR. WEINGLASS: But they have not, she should not be allowed to take the witness from this stand who testified against the Commonwealth into custody as a matter of vindictiveness, punishment, coercion and intimidation.

MS. FISK: It is none of those things, Your Honor, it is as a matter of law. There is a bench warrant in effect for this witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are talking about a check case.

THE COURT: I don't care if it is a shoplifting case. New Jersey has a warrant for her because she didn't evidently show up for trial.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor is going to order the witness into custody on a check case because she testified in a Post-Conviction hearing.

Page 147.

THE COURT: Whether it is a check case, shoplifting case, what is the difference, or anything else?

MR. WEINGLASS: Given the minor nature of the offense, this Court can exercise it's discretion and give the witness one day to go to Woodbury, New Jersey with her Counsel, and to rectify this in a matter of 20 minutes.

THE COURT: Sure they can, and he could go with her, with the detectives if she waives extradition to New Jersey and they could clear it up immediately.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no need to take her in into custody.

MR. YEAGER: There is no need at all, Your Honor. We could deal with it completely on our own and you have the authority to release her under those terms.

THE COURT: I don't want to exercise that type of authority. They have a warrant from New Jersey. It is a legitimate warrant, I am not going to say they can't do it. They need local police to help them take her into custody.

MR. YEAGER: I don't see how you could pass judgment at this point that --

Page 148.

THE COURT: Even if it is illegitimate.

MR. YEAGER: I am just responding to your assertion that it was a legitimate warrant.

THE COURT: If they have to go before another judge, I don't want to rule on that. If they go before another judge he could rule on it, whether it is legitimate or not.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We haven't seen the document.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court hasn't seen the documents.

THE COURT: Do you want the detectives to come in with the warrant?

MR. WEINGLASS: They have no authority to arrest her here in Philadelphia.

THE COURT: They are asking the Sheriff to assist in arresting her. They have a right to do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Sheriff hasn't been shown the warrant.

MS. FISK: He has it in his hand.

MR. WEINGLASS: I haven't been shown the warrant.

MS. FISK: You are not her attorney.

Page 149.

MR. YEAGER: Could I see the warrant?

THE COURT: Go over to him. Let the record show that Counselor is going over the papers with the warrant. Don't take anything out of there.

MR. YEAGER: I am just trying to read between the staples, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: You see, they could take her right before a Municipal Court Judge now and they will rule on it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Or she could go on her own as a free person.

THE COURT: Not with this warrant.

MR. WEINGLASS: And have the same result.

MS. FISK: I would note that Counsel for Miss Jones, as well as Counsel for Mr. Jamal, certainly could have remedied this warrant at any time between April of '96 when they became aware of Miss Jones and today's date. Certainly Miss Jones must have known about it because bench warrants do not grow out of the ground.

Page 150.

THE WITNESS: I did not know about it.

MR. WEINGLASS: She didn't think there were any charges. She had no knowledge of this.

THE COURT: So she knows now that there are.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Look, Counselor, I am going to turn her over to the Sheriff.

MR. YEAGER: I think that would be highly inappropriate considering the fact, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Let me tell you what I am going to do. I am going to turn her over to the Sheriff to take her before a Municipal Court Judge who will rule on this. I am not going to rule on it.

MR. YEAGER: I would like to note for the record that this warrant is not in the name of Veronica Jones, it does not reflect her Social Security number, and it does not reflect her address.

THE COURT: Well, she had about a million Social Security numbers so I can't help that.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, I would

note that the warrant is in the name of Veronica Wilson. I would note further that the photograph Commonwealth Exhibit 2, which is that of Veronica Wilson, taken on the date of July 14th, 1992, has been identified by this witness as a photograph of herself.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, that question was asked to effect an arrest, having no relevance to this proceeding. What Counsel was doing in Court today was setting up the witness for a New Jersey prosecution.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, that question was asked to impeach the witness who denied ever having been arrested.

MR. WEINGLASS: She denied charges.

MS. FISK: She denied being arrested, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: I forgot.

MS. FISK: Oh, you forgot?

THE WITNESS: I forgot because I was not arrested.

THE COURT: You can go back.

MR. YEAGER: Keep your mouth shut.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we want the New Jersey Detectives to remain. The defense wants to call them on the issue of due diligence.

THE WITNESS: Don't you cry. Stop.

(Veronica Jones was taken into custody by Philadelphia Sheriffs at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: We would like them to remain here in Court.

THE COURT: They may have to take her back to New Jersey first. And tell them to come back.

MR. WEINGLASS: We want them here in this record.

THE COURT: Tell them to come back tomorrow, I don't care.

MR. WEINGLASS: We want the prosecution to produce them tomorrow.

THE COURT: Recess for lunch until 2:00, two o'clock.

MS. FISK: Fine, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay, recess for lunch until two o'clock.

THE COURT OFFICER: What time, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Two o'clock.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands in luncheon recess until 2:00 p.m, at the call of the Crier.

(Luncheon recess was held until 2:20 p.m.)

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we begin with another witness, I have a matter that I would ask for the District Attorney to stipulate to. In the Quarter Session files dealing with Veronica Jones, cases 82-06, 0770, 0771, 0772, 0773, and MC 82-06 dash 3059, as of June 18th, 1982 Miss Jones' bail under the name Louise Tatum was reduced to $300 for each of four charges.

I want to have a stipulation that that's accurate from the Quarter Sessions record: That there were four cases still pending at the end of that June 18th hearing, and for each of those four cases the bail was set as $300 for a total of $1,200.

MS. FISK: Frankly, Your Honor, rather than making that stipulation and attempting to interpret the Quarter Sessions file, I would have no objection to the entirety of that Quarter Sessions file being marked and entered into evidence as part of this proceeding. In fact, if Counsel doesn't want to do that I will do that at the appropriate time.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We have no problem with that.

MS. FISK: I think therefore a stipulation would be unnecessary because the Quarter Sessions record would speak for itself. And I have no objection to having that Quarter Sessions file marked as a defense exhibit or as a Commonwealth exhibit if defense does not choose to mark it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will mark it as a defense exhibit.

MS. FISK: Very well. I have no objection to the Quarter Sessions file in the case of Commonwealth versus Louise Tatum, which was indeed Miss Jones, being marked. I would agree that the Clerk of Quarter Sessions would agree that that is the certified record.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And that would be Defense Exhibit D-2.

(Quarter Sessions file was marked
Defense Exhibit D-2 for identification.)

Page 155.

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked D-2, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, the next witness that Mr. Jamal would call is David Rosen.

- - - - -

David Rosen, Esquire, Assistant Defender, the Defender's Association of Philadelphia, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MR. WILLIAMS: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Rosen.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Thanks for coming in. You just indicated your occupation?

A. I am an attorney at the Defender's Association of Philadelphia.

Page 156.

Q. And back in 1981 going into 1982, what was your occupation back then?

A. I was a staff attorney at the time.

Q. The same office?

A. Yes.

Q. And during that period of time from 1981 to the present, have you always worked at that same office?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Now, Mr. Rosen, do you know a woman by the name of Veronica Jones?

A. Ahh, no, I don't.

Q. Back on June 29th, 1982, would it be safe to say that you were working as an attorney in the Public Defenders Office here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you have occasion as a Public Defender to represent individuals?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Many individuals, I imagine?

A. Many.

Q. Okay. Now I'm going to ask that you look at some minutes from a proceeding in front of the Honorable Judge Sabo dated Tuesday, June 29th, 1982.

MR. WILLIAMS: Counsel, page 92.

Page 157.

MS. FISK: Yes, thank you.

MR. WILLIAMS: If I could have the witness --

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you have a copy of that, sir?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Your copy, is that page 92 going into 93?

A. Correct.

Q. And does it go on to page 94 as well?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Okay. Now, have you had occasion to read those pages from the minutes?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. You will see on page 92 a reference to a David Rosen of the Public Defenders Office, do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who do you believe that to be?

A. I believe that to be myself. During the 23 years I have been in The Defender's Association I am the only attorney by that name that I am aware of.

Q. So you have no belief that it is someone other than yourself?

A. No, I don't.

Q And does it indicate in these minutes that you

Page 158.

David Rosen, Esq. - Direct

were representing a person by the name of Veronica Jones, a/k/a Louise Tatum?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And in looking at the transcript, what was the purpose of your representation?

A. Apparently I was called over by the Court to advise Miss Jones as to her Fifth Amendment rights before she testified in this matter.

Q. Now, as an attorney with the Public Defender's Office, have you ever had to advise a witness about certain Fifth Amendment ramifications of testifying?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Or several occasions? Many occasions?

A. Many occasions.

Q. And do you have a certain practice or procedure that you follow as an attorney advising the witness of the Fifth Amendment ramifications?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. In testifying?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Can you tell the Court what is your practice as an attorney in advising witnesses of the Fifth Amendment ramifications of testifying?

A. Well, first I would have counsel give me any documents, any written statements of the witness so

Page 159.

David Rosen, Esq. - Direct

that I could review them. Then I would --

Q. Okay, I'm sorry to interrupt, but what counsel are you referring to when you refer to counsel?

A. Well, it could be the defense attorney and/or the District Attorney, depending on who had the documents.

Q. So you retrieve the documents and then what do you do?

A. I would review the statements, then I would talk to the witness and go over the previous statement with them.

Q. And in looking at the minutes from this proceeding, did you in fact discuss or talk with Miss Veronica Jones?

A. It appears that I did, yes.

Q. And does it appear that you received a police report of some kind?

A. Yes.

Q. That purported to be a statement by Miss Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And does it appear that you followed your normal practice in talking with Miss Jones and going over any statements by Miss Jones that were given to the police?

Page 160.

David Rosen, Esq. - Direct

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Now, can you tell the Court what is the purpose of talking with your client and going over a particular statement made to law enforcement?

A. To see whether my client has, would have any right under the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution or under the Pennsylvania Constitution to decline to testify in the matter.

Q. And how does going over a statement given to the police bear on that responsibility that you undertake?

A. Well, if what my client told me was substantially -- differed in material concern from the statement, then the client might be open to a charge of false police report. So that would be an area in which a Fifth Amendment right may be asserted.

Q. So if I understand you correctly, Mr. Rosen, when you go over the statement with the witness -- I'm sorry -- with your client, and if what she tells you deviates in material respect from the statement, that this is something that you would have to talk to your client about?

A. Correct.

Q. And that is that there is some possible Fifth

Page 161.

David Rosen, Esq. - Direct

Amendment problems here?

A. That would be correct.

Q. All right. And would you also advise the Court that there might be some Fifth Amendment problems in having this witness get on the stand and testify if there is a deviation from the prior statement?

A. Yes, I would advise the Court that I have discussed the matter with my client and advised her to assert her Fifth Amendment privilege not to testify.

Q. And what did you advise the Court in this instance, if anything?

A. I advised the Court that after speaking to my client and reviewing her statement I saw no Fifth Amendment problem in having her testify to what she saw.

Q. So I guess judging from your testimony, sir, that we can draw the conclusion that Miss Jones didn't apprise you that she was going to deviate from that statement?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. What conclusion, Mr. Rosen, did you draw -- what conclusion can we draw from the fact that you

Page 162.

David Rosen, Esq. - Direct

told the Court that there was no Fifth Amendment problem in having Miss Jones testify at the trial of the Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal?

A. The only reasonable conclusion was that I saw no problem with her testifying, that it was unlike -- strike that -- that it would not result in her implicating herself in any crime.

Q. And that would include any crime that might be associated with deviating from a prior statement?

A. That's correct.

Q. And what crimes would a witness be open to if they get on the stand and deviated in a material respect from a prior police statement?

A. They might be liable for the crime of filing a false police report.

Q. And would perjury also be a possibility as well?

A. I don't think the Fifth Amendment protects one from a perjury charge.

Q. Okay. But in any event, would you alert your client as to a possible perjury charge if that client apprised you that he or she was going to deviate from a prior statement?

A. Well, if I had any reason to believe that based on what she told me and what I had before me

Page 163.

David Rosen, Esq. - Cross

that she would have implicated herself in a crime, I would advise her to assert the Fifth Amendment privilege, yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: All right, I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. May I assume, Mr. Rosen, from your very first answer, that is that you didn't know Veronica Jones, that you have no independent memory of this incident?

A. That is correct.

Q. And in fact, reading these notes kind of amazed you to find that you were present in Judge Sabo's Courtroom during this case?

A. It did not refresh my recollection, no.

Q. Okay, fair enough. Now, you have been, as you said, a public defender -- I'm sorry -- a member of the Defender's Association for some 23 years?

A. That is correct.

Q. And during that period you have charged yourself with the responsibility of protecting our

Page 164.

David Rosen, Esq. - Cross

Constitutional rights in all of those persons who are charged with crimes and defending them to the utmost of your ability; is that right, sir?

A. That is correct.

Q. And have you further prided yourself on your right to defend those persons who are indigent and incapable of defending themselves in the Courtroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Would it further be your responsibility in your charge to question any improper or illegal police conduct that you have become aware of and to demand investigations into some improper police conduct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now with regard to this matter -- and granted that you have no recollection of this -- have you as part of your being called to testify for the defense had occasion to review whether after speaking to Miss Jones on June 29th, 1982, whether you made any complaint to the Philadelphia Police Department, the District Attorney's Office, the prison, or any other law enforcement entity with regard to attempts made by Philadelphia Police Detectives to intimidate Miss Jones as a witness in the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal?

Page 165.

David Rosen, Esq. - Cross

A. I have no record or recollection of such a complaint.

Q. And if in fact Miss Jones had advised you that two persons had visited her in the prison and made various statements to her about what would happen to her if she said one thing as opposed to what would happen to her if she said something else, would you have expected to find some record with regard to that kind of complaint?

A. I would have expected that I did some kind of follow-up or I wouldn't have just let the matter go without any follow-up.

Q. So may we similarly assume, as Counsel has just assumed, that the absence of any record and the absence of any recollection on your part cause you to reach the conclusion that when you spoke with Miss Jones on June 29th, 1982, she made no statement to you regarding police officers visiting her in the prison, would that be fair to assume?

A. Ahh, I have no recollection of her making any statement like that to me.

Q. My question is would it be fair to assume as we did a moment ago in terms of your regular practice, that the absence of those records would cause you to conclude that no such complaint was made

Page 166.

David Rosen, Esq. - Cross

to you by Miss Jones regarding that?

A. Well, I can't say. I mean I can't say for certain there wasn't a record, you know, 14 years ago. I just, there are no records and I have no recollection of any such complaint.

Q. Fine. Now, when you spoke to Miss Jones did you identify yourself to her as an attorney?

A. I'm sure I did, that's my standard practice.

Q. Okay, so there would have been no question in her mind that an attorney was seeing her prior to her testifying on that day?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object as to what is in Miss Veronica Jones' mind. He represented himself as the attorney, I think that is about as much as he could say on that score.

MS. FISK: I will rephrase it.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did she, do you have any memory as to whether she had any difficulty understanding you? Or, well, you simply don't remember this, do you?

A. No.

Q. So you can't tell me whether or not she was lucid or understanding what she was saying to you?

A. Obviously not.

Page 167.

David Rosen, Esq. - Cross

MS. FISK: Obviously not. Thank you, sir.

I have no further questions, Your Honor.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Rosen, let me pick up where Ms. Fisk left off. As a public defender, I take it that the police practices in Philadelphia are of interest to you?

A. Of course.

Q. And you follow instances of police misconduct in Philadelphia, do you not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just inquiring from what Ms. Fisk went into.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: She went into whether he discussed police misconduct with Miss Jones.

MS. FISK: No.

THE COURT: He said if he had anything like this to his knowledge he would have done something about it. He didn't do anything about it so he assumes he didn't have any such

Page 168.

David Rosen, Esq. - Redirect

knowledge.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And the reason why you would follow up on a revelation of police misconduct is because police misconduct does occur here in the City of Philadelphia, does it not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. We are talking about 19, what is it, 1982.

MS. FISK: Specifically, Your Honor, the claim --

MR. WILLIAMS: That occurred here in Philadelphia.

MS. FISK: Specifically, Your Honor, the question had to do with an allegation that the witness was visited in the prison and whether or not this attorney was notified by the witness about that visit in the prison. That was the extent of the questioning.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Let me just ask you, Mr. Rosen: Why would you ever inquire or be concerned with whether a witness had possibly been subject to police misconduct?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 169.

MR. WILLIAMS: If it never occurs.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, that was not the question.

THE COURT: I will sustain the objection. I don't know where you are going but it is far afield.

MR. WILLIAMS: You didn't know where the D.A. was going earlier this morning and you permitted them to launch into extended inquiry without any offer of proof. Now I am picking up where Ms. Fisk left off regarding police misconduct.

THE COURT: We are talking about generalities. If you want to ask him if he knew of any misconduct in this case all right. But we are not going to go fishing through every other case that came up in Philadelphia.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Rosen, if the record reveals in this trial back in 1982 that Miss Jones revealed in open Court in front of a Jury that police officers appeared to her in front of her and told her that if she implicated Mr. Jamal she would be able to work her corner as a prostitute, would that surprise you given that she didn't reveal that to you?

Page 170.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, on several bases. One, it misstates the fact: There was no Jury in the Courtroom this morning when Miss Jones for the first time --

MR. WILLIAMS: I wasn't referring to this morning, I was referring back to 1982.

MS. FISK: Second of all, whether or not it would surprise Mr. Rosen is not the issue. The issue is whether or not it was reported to Mr. Rosen. I was not permitted to ask directly whether it was because, quite frankly, that is still attorney-client privilege and the questions were asked with regard to his general practice in the same manner that Counsel asked general practice questions on his direct. Whether or not it would surprise this witness, however, is completely without relevance. The fact-finder in this case is Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. In your general practice in talking with many defendants and witnesses as well, have you ever encountered a situation where a defendant or a witness withheld information about police misconduct to you --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 171.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. -- that you later learned --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. If you want to limit it strictly to this case, all right. I am not going to go fishing into other cases. It is not the concern of this case, it is not the concern of this Court.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you recall if you ever asked Miss Jones directly if she had been tampered with by any law enforcement personnel?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. The witness has testified that he has no recollection of meeting Miss Jones.

MR. WILLIAMS: He was never confronted with this precise question. If he has no recollection, fine. But I'm asking does he recall ever asking Miss Jones that direct question.

THE COURT: All right.

THE WITNESS: Could you repeat the question, Counsel.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you ever ask Miss Jones directly whether she had been tampered with or coerced or intimidated by law enforcement officers?

Page 172.

A. Umm... yeah, I was -- I have no recollection.

Q. Is it your general practice in connection with advising witnesses of their Fifth Amendment rights to ask them directly whether they had been manipulated or coerced or intimidated by law enforcement?

A. No.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes to general practice which is what we have been inquiring into given his lack of memory.

THE COURT: Ask him if he did it in this case.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have already asked him that.

THE COURT: No, you haven't.

MS. FISK: His memory is he has no memory or recollection in this case.

THE COURT: If he has no memory he has no memory.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking if it is his general practice.

THE COURT: I don't care what his practice generally is. What did he do in this case.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. In this case is there any reason to believe that you deviated from your practices in advising witnesses of their Fifth Amendment rights? Do you understand what I am asking you?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there any reason to believe that you deviated from your general practice?

A. Where I'm called upon and advising a client of their Fifth Amendment rights, I would not normally go into the area of inquiry that you're asking me on police misconduct.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well. If I may have just one moment. Excuse me, Mr. Rosen.

(Discussion was-held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, Mr. Rosen, you didn't represent Miss Jones outside of this particular proceeding that is reflected in this transcript, that is you didn't represent her other than just to advise her of potential Fifth Amendment problems?

A. To the best of my knowledge that was my only contact with Miss Jones.

Page 174.

Q. You didn't represent her on independent criminal charges?

A. I do not believe I did, no.

Q. And do you recall if you ever met with Miss Jones outside of the proceedings that are relevant here back in 1982?

A. I believe when I met her in the Courtroom on that day, that was the only occasion I met, I ever met her.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you. No further questions.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would advise Counsel when we returned from the luncheon recess that at their request the two officers from New Jersey who had the warrant remained and they are available to be called by defense as I was led to believe they would be. I would simply note they are available in the hallway.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, the District Attorney has in some of their papers alluded to an issue about the defense investigation to find Veronica Jones. We would reserve rebuttal if they intend to proffer any evidence to sustain their burden under 9543B, based on prejudice. We would offer to address that issue on rebuttal. And on that basis we are prepared to rest.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note the Commonwealth does not recognize that we have any burden to prove anything at this PCRA proceeding. It is the burden of the defense, we believe, and under the law, to prove that the testimony which was offered this morning could not and was not available to the defense despite reasonable and diligent efforts by them to obtain that testimony. And our position is that they have not at this point proven any efforts to obtain that testimony prior to April 1996. And it will be our position, so Counsel is aware, that they have not met that burden and therefore the substantive testimony offered would be improper to come into the record at this point. We recognize no burden on our part to make that proof, Your Honer.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, it is clear that what the District Attorney intends to do, much as they did this morning, is to embark on a fishing expedition into the defense investigation. There was no, they were allowed to intrude into the attorney-client privilege.

THE COURT: No, they didn't go into attorney-client privilege.

MR. PIPER: They were intruded over Mister --

THE COURT: They were not intruded over.

MR. PIPER: Yes, over objection by Miss Jones' attorney.

THE COURT: They were not gone into.

MR. PIPER: The law in Pennsylvania as stated in Commonwealth versus Knoll, 443 PA Superior Court, 602, a 1995 case, is that the attorney work product doctrine provides even broader protections than the attorney-client privilege. As attorneys must often rely on the assistance of investigators and other agents in the compilation of materials necessary for trial, the doctrine protects materials prepared by such investigators as well as those prepared by the attorney himself.

Page 177.

THE COURT: Well, you realize this isn't a trial. She is not on trial.

MR. PIPER: Well, it extends also to any legal proceeding. In fact, there are further legal proceedings --

THE COURT: This is a collateral attack on a trial --

MR. PIPER: But the work product doctrine is iron tight in Pennsylvania as the Knoll case set forth. It is for that very reason that the statute which Your Honor often refers to says that it is the prosecution's burden to show some prejudice under 9543B before there is any inquiry into the diligence of the defense. They have never even offered or alleged that they have been prejudiced in any way with respect to responding to Miss Jones' testimony. And if they wish to proceed on that basis it is their burden to sustain before the Court can require some sort of intrusion into our investigation.

MS. FISK: I would again note to Counsel, Your Honor, that the law having to do with after-discovered evidence clearly places the burden upon the party who is raising that after-discovered evidence to prove that it is indeed after-discovered evidence. And one of the bases of proving something is after discovered is proving that it was unavailable to that side which is now offering that evidence at any time prior to the time it was being offered despite reasonable, diligent efforts to obtain that testimony. It is on that basis that the Commonwealth asserts that the burden is on the defense to make that proof, not through attorney-client privilege, but through whatever means was conducted prior to the hearing last summer and since to obtain the testimony of the witness who was brought and is now being offered as an after-discovered witness for purposes of this Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing.

MR. PIPER: That was absolutely not the basis of our claim on Veronica Jones, Your Honor. The Orders from the Supreme Court says the claims raised in our Petition. We never raised a new-evidence claim with Veronica Jones. She is a Brady issue. She is one of many instances of the prosecution's misconduct and suppression of evidence.

And as the Judge Savitt wrote in the

Page 179.

Rider case, where the prosecution --

THE COURT: Judge Savitt?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this is Commonwealth versus Jamal, this is not Commonwealth versus Rider. But if Counsel would like to I will start reciting the names of the defendants whose convictions have been affirmed who are sitting in the State prisons around Pennsylvania, as there are a lot more of them than those that have been reversed.

MR. PIPER: As the Court noted in Rider, where similar misconduct was shown, there is no waiver issue.

THE COURT: Who did that?

MR. PIPER: Judge Savitt.

THE COURT: He is a Common Pleas Judge just like me.

MR. PIPER: But he was applying Pennsylvania Court --

THE COURT: Was it okayed by any appellate court? Supreme Court?

MR. PIPER: It has not been reviewed.

THE COURT: Has it been approved?

MR. PIPER: Given that the Commonwealth concealed exculpatory statements I don't see how it could be reversed, there is clear prosecution misconduct.

THE COURT: You proceeded in this case on after-discovered evidence.

MR. PIPER: That is not true, Your Honor. If you look at our amended PCRA Petition.

THE COURT: First Order, did you see the first Order the Supreme Court sent down?

MR. PIPER: Pardon me?

THE COURT: The first Order that the Supreme Court sent down, did you read it?

MR. PIPER: Yes.

THE COURT: It says after-discovered evidence.

MR. PIPER: No, it doesn't. And as a matter of fact, Your Honor interpreted that to be due diligence. That's why they amended their Order to make clear that Your Honor was overruled on that issue.

THE COURT: I don't consider that to be overruled on anything.

MR. PIPER: You said you wouldn't let Veronica Jones be put on the stand but the Supreme Court amended it's Order.

Page 181.

THE COURT: It is after-discovered evidence, you have to do certain things. As she says, there are four elements that you have to show.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, I have the Order here. There is nothing in it about after-discovered evidence.

THE COURT: The first Order?

MR. PIPER: Yes. Would you like me to read it?

THE COURT: Read it.

MR. PIPER: And now this 4th day of September, 1996, the matter is hereby remanded to the trial Court for a hearing within 30 days of this date, of the date of this Order, to determine whether Appellant is entitled to a supplemental Post-Conviction Relief Act hearing, and that Court is to render its opinion within 30 days of said determination. Jurisdiction is retained.

Maybe you heard something I didn't, but I didn't hear anything about after-discovered evidence.

THE COURT: Well, in your Petitions you did.

Page 182.

MR. PIPER: No, Your Honor, we didn't. Look at our Petition, claim 22 --

THE COURT: I don't have your Petitions in front of me.

MR. PIPER: Claim 22 dealt with newly-discovered evidence and Veronica Jones was not presented in claim 22. She was presented among our many Brady claims of suppressed evidence along with Singletary, Chobert --

THE COURT: What was suppressed? There was nothing suppressed.

MS. FISK: I would note that the Appellant's application for relief in this matter reads in the first paragraph that they applied for relief for the purpose of taking -- and I am, quoting -- the additional testimony of Veronica Jones, a newly-available witness. Now, I don't have a thesaurus in front of me but I would wager a bet that newly available is considered similar to after discovered. That was the defense application.

However, Judge, rather than quibble and argue about it now, if Counsel avers that it is not his burden to prove reasonable diligence, then they can rest on that and I am ready to proceed. If they in fact are resting. We obviously disagree about who has what burden, and Your Honor first, and the appellate court next, will make that determination. We obviously disagree.

THE COURT: It is logical that they have the responsibility: You can't tell them what they did.

MS. FISK: Apparently the defense believes that they do not. We will, after this hearing is completed we are obviously going to make closing arguments to Your Honor, Your Honor is going to rule, and whatever Your Honor rules will inevitably make it up to the appellate court for them to review further, and then they will tell me that I am wrong or they will tell the defense that they are wrong. But to sit here and argue, that really serves no purpose right now, because obviously everybody is dug in.

MR. PIPER: We are prepared to meet that burden if the time comes. The time will come if they ever meet their burden of showing prejudice.

THE COURT: They don't have to show anything. It is your burden now. You can't say I want to reserve it now for rebuttal later on.

MR. PIPER: Under protest, then, we will proceed on that issue.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, before the next witness is called may I ask whether Counsel is going to be calling those witnesses from New Jersey?

MR. WILLIAMS: They are the next witness. If you would give me the name so I could call them.

MS. FISK: Detective Sergeant Sheenan is one of them. He is in charge of the detective bureau.

MR. WILLIAMS: Defense calls Detective Sergeant Sheenan.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. FISK: I would ask for an offer of proof with regard to the Detective Sergeant, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: He is going to be a critical witness to establish due diligence.

MS. FISK: Of what?

Page 185.

THE COURT: Their due diligence.

MS. FISK: Their?

THE COURT: Yes.

- - - - -

Detective Timothy J. Sheenan, Badge number 334, Woodbury City Police Department, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Detective Sheenan?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes, good afternoon. Can you state for the record what is your occupation?

A. I am a Detective Sergeant with the Woodbury City Police Department in New Jersey.

Q. Do you work for a particular unit with the police department?

A. The detective bureau.

Q. And for how long have you been a detective?

A. Approximately five years.

Q. How long have you been a police officer?

A. Nine years.

Page 186.

Q. Do your duties encompass enforcing bench warrants?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there a bench warrant unit, by the way, in your police force?

A. No, sir, we don't have any individual warrant unit.

Q. So all of the police officers as part of their duties enforce bench warrants?

A. That's correct.

Q. Would that include misdemeanor and felony bench warrants?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you're here to enforce a bench warrant for a Veronica Jones is it?

A. Veronica Wilson.

Q. Veronica Wilson. You are looking at a document?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Could I see that document you're looking at?

A. Yes, sir (handing).

MS. FISK: For the record, Your Honor, the document being given to Counsel is the copy of the warrant which was shown to Counsel prior to the luncheon recess.

Page 187.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now let me ask you this. As a detective who also enforces bench warrants, what is the procedure for enforcing a bench warrant in your jurisdiction?

A. Specifically?

Q. Yes.

MS. FISK: Well, enforcing this bench warrant or any bench warrant?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Any bench warrant, how do you go about enforcing a bench warrant?

MS. FISK: My objection is based on the fact there are different procedures for persons who live within the jurisdiction and without the jurisdiction.

MR. WILLIAMS: If Ms. Fisk wants to take the oath I will be glad to question her as well.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question. And now we are down to this case, what they did.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think the detective is fully equipped to answer my question.

THE COURT: I know he is fully equipped to but rephrase your question.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 188.

Q. Is there a procedure that you follow in enforcing bench warrants?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Can you tell me what that procedure is?

A. If we are aware of a bench warrant and we are aware of the individual's whereabouts then we place that subject under arrest.

Q. Okay. And how do you become aware of a bench warrant?

A. Through, we have copies in our Police Department.

Q. Okay. And how do you become aware of a person's whereabouts to enforce a bench warrant?

A. Numerous ways.

Q. Can you tell us those numerous ways?

A. It could be any type of a way. I mean anybody could call us and tell us they know the whereabouts of someone and if they do we will proceed there and lock that person up.

Q. Do you employ police investigative techniques to find somebody who has a bench warrant?

A. Sometimes, yes.

Q. And do you have computers there that assist you?

A. In seeing if we do have an active warrant for subjects, yes, we do.

Q. And in this particular case, what was the date of the bench warrant?

A. The date the bench warrant was issued?

Q. Yes.

A. I believe it was in 1994, but you have the actual document in front of you.

Q. Okay. I am going to show you the document, then, which was provided to me (handing).

A. The date the bench warrant was issued was 12-8 of '94.

Q. Okay. Now, Detective, you have a bench warrant that's issued on December 8th, 1994, and it is your office's responsibility to enforce bench warrants, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. What acts were taken to enforce that particular bench warrant in the month of December of 1994?

A. When it was issued the actual bench warrant was sent to the City of Camden where the subject lived. And their -- it's normal practice to send the original copy of the warrant to the city, if it's out of our jurisdiction, for them to attempt to serve on the subject who lives in their jurisdiction.

Page 190.

Q. So this Veronica Wilson you knew or your office knew lived in Camden, New Jersey?

A. That is correct.

Q. And information was then sent to a Camden office?

A. That's correct.

Q. And what steps were taken from the Camden officer if you know?

A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether an address was available to you in Camden?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. So from December 8th, 1994 until today, police officers, or police departments in the State of New Jersey had an address for Miss Jones?

A. That is correct.

Q. I see. And if you have an address, Detective, of somebody that has a warrant for their arrest, it is quite easy to make that arrest, isn't it?

A. Yes --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't know if it is quite easy. You mean they are sitting around waiting for him, saying here I am, come and get me?

Page 191.

MS. FISK: It is also irrelevant, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes to due diligence. They are the ones who are supposed to be diligent, Judge. You know, what is interesting, Your Honor -- well, let me just ask the witness. Let me ask the witness.

THE COURT: Ask him what?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You had the address of Veronica Wilson. Do you know if any steps were taken before today to go to Miss Wilson's house, arrest Miss Wilson on that bench warrant that you have in your hand?

A. That would be the responsibility of the City of Camden.

Q. And judging from the fact that nobody went to her house to make the arrest on the bench warrant that you have --

THE COURT: Just a minute, Counselor. Just a minute. That's not a fair question. We don't know what Camden did with it. If you want to find out what they did with it, subpoena the Camden detectives to come in here. All he did was, or I don't know if he did, but the department did, they sent it to Camden.

Page 192.

Did they ever send it back?

THE WITNESS: Not that I am aware of.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. If it was Camden's jurisdiction to handle this bench warrant, why is it that your office is now enforcing that warrant?

A. The bench warrant was issued by Judge Morgan out of the Woodbury Municipal Court.

Q. So if it was issued out of that jurisdiction, didn't you feel obligated to enforce a bench warrant from a judge in your jurisdiction?

A. Well, if Camden City located her, us as detectives in the Woodbury Police Department would have responded there to take custody there.

Q. But you knew of her address, didn't you, Detective?

A. That is correct.

Q. And did your office do anything between December 8th, 1994 to today to enforce a bench warrant issued by a judge in your jurisdiction?

A. We sent the warrant to Camden to have Camden officers attempt to serve the warrant.

Q. And you washed your hands of it from that point on?

MS. FISK: Objection to that question,

Page 193.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, strike that wiped his hands. You mean they are supposed to go all over the United States?

MR. WILLIAMS: They had her address.

THE COURT: I don't care if they had the address. They gave it to Camden. If you want to find out what Camden did about it, get the detectives from Camden. They may have gone there a hundred times and she wasn't there. We don't know that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's find out.

THE COURT: How does he know?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you ever pick up a phone and call a colleague in Camden and say hey, what about this Veronica Wilson?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Do you know if anybody in your office ever picked up a phone to call up a colleague in Camden to say hey, what about this Veronica Wilson, there is this very important bench warrant we have? Did you ever do that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to the form of that question.

Page 194.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

THE COURT: Please.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did anybody in your office ever pick up a phone to call anybody in Camden and say we have a bench warrant for Veronica Wilson?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It is irrelevant. It has nothing to do --

MR. WILLIAMS: Oh, it has everything to do --

MS. FISK: If I may state my objection before Counsel wants to start arguing about it. It is not my fault that Counsel has called a witness today who has an open bench warrant. Whether the jurisdiction that issued that bench warrant effected it or not prior to today, the issue is that there was a legal bench warrant in existence for that witness. If Miss Jones when she goes back to New Jersey to defend herself on the warrant wants to attempt to say she should not be fully prosecuted on it because police officers in New Jersey sat on their heels and didn't try to lock her up before now, that is certainly a defense which she can raise. But with regard to the legitimacy of the warrant, and the fact that it belonged to the witness who was called this morning, those are the only relevant issues. Plus the fact that Counsel could certainly have found their witness and discovered the existence of the warrant had they looked. But whether or not there was an effective effort made to serve that warrant is irrelevant to the issues in this Post-Conviction hearing.

Page 195.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Detective, did you ever consult with the arresting police officers in connection with Miss Wilson's arrest?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you know if anybody in your office consulted with the arresting police officers?

A. There is numerous people in my office, I couldn't testify to that.

Q. Okay. Did you discuss Miss Wilson's bench warrant with any prosecutors from your jurisdiction?

A. Prior to today?

Q. Yes.

A. Not the actual bench warrant, no, sir.

Q. Okay. Did you discuss the bench warrant of Miss Wilson with any prosecutor in the State of New Jersey?

Page 196.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you have any discussions with the prosecutors in the State of Pennsylvania about the bench warrant?

A. Yes.

Q. Of a subject who lives in New Jersey?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you have that discussion?

A. Yesterday. And also last week.

Q. Okay. Let's go with last week. Was that over the phone or in person?

A. That was over the telephone.

Q. Did you make the call or did somebody else call you?

A. Ahh, we were, we made numerous calls back and forth, I'm not sure. But D.A. Fisk made the initial call.

Q. Miss Fisk, a prosecutor from the State of Pennsylvania, called you about a bench warrant from your jurisdiction?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And did you ask her why are you from Pennsylvania calling me about New Jersey, a New Jersey subject?

A. I spoke to an investigator from the Camden

Page 197.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

County Prosecutors' Office prior to speaking with Ms. Fisk about the bench warrant. And about the initial incident.

Q. Okay, and what did that prosecutor tell you -- I'm sorry -- the investigator, what did that investigator tell you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. What does it have to do -- first of all, it is hearsay, and second, what does it have to do with anything. It is irrelevant.

THE COURT: I don't know that this has to do anything with this case. I don't care if they were negligent over in New Jersey in expediting this warrant or not. What did you do to find the witness is what I'm interested in.

MR. WILLIAMS: What Your Honor is telling me --

THE COURT: Yes, what I am telling you: You can't depend on somebody else. I want to know what you did to find this witness. That's what I want to know.

MR. WILLIAMS: What I am establishing right now, quite clearly --

THE COURT: No, what you are establishing --

Page 198.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

MR. WILLIAMS: The prosecution here, that we have a prosecutor's office in Pennsylvania who all of a sudden, at this juncture in these proceedings, all of a sudden takes an interest in the bench warrant status of a New Jersey resident. Now, that I think smacks of bad faith.

THE COURT: This has nothing to do with wanting to enforce a bench warrant. What does it have to do with this PCRA? Nothing. Nothing.

MR. WILLIAMS: Intimidating a witness.

THE COURT: It has nothing to do with this PCRA.

MR. WILLIAMS: Ms. Fisk calls the State of New Jersey and says we want to enforce a bench warrant in your jurisdiction.

THE COURT: Well, you already know what she said?

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what she said, that is what the witness has now indicated.

THE COURT: He didn't say that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, let me delve a little more deeply into it, then.

THE COURT: But I say I don't see the

Page 199.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

relevancy of what they did about this warrant with what you should have done to get this witness when we had the hearing last year. What did you do.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am concerned about the bad faith of this prosecutor's office to intimidate a witness who testified in favor of the defense.

THE COURT: Counselor, this Court reporter can't take what you're saying and what I'm saying at the same time. So when I'm speaking, please shut up so that he could take it, and then you could speak and then he could take that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

THE COURT: Okay. But I'm telling you you have to tell this Court what you did to bring this witness in, why you didn't have her last summer. You were bringing in everybody in the world last summer.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, all right, let me make my offer of proof, Your Honor, to make it very clear to you. Either they have been looking for the past 20 months for Miss Jones and they couldn't find her --

Page 200.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

THE COURT: Who was looking for her?

MR. WILLIAMS: New Jersey.

THE COURT: He wasn't looking for her.

MR. WILLIAMS: If they could not locate her after diligent efforts for 20 months I think that that bears a relevance to our ability to find her in the past 20 months.

THE COURT: Wait a while. When you couldn't find her what did you do? Did you list her on the NCIC or whatever you have over there?

THE WITNESS: The warrant was sent to Camden City because we could not locate her in Woodbury. The warrant was sent to Camden City. If they attempted to serve that I have no knowledge of that.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Nor did you care, did you, Detective?

THE COURT: I know you didn't, but do you have what we have here, put it on the NCIC?

THE WITNESS: No, she wasn't entered in NCIC at that time, but she was entered in NCIC after that time. She is in NCIC right now, the warrant is in NCIC right at this moment.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 201.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

Q. Detective, when you sent it over to Camden, at that point you no longer cared whether that bench warrant was going to be enforced?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to whether he cared.

THE COURT: Do you want to testify for him. Ask him a question, don't testify for him.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You can't testify as to whether any efforts were made to locate Miss Jones over the 20-month period since her bench warrant was issued, can you?

A. No, I can't.

Q. Can you tell us why it is that it's being enforced at this particular time?

MS. FISK: Because it is a legal bench warrant, Your Honor: I object to the question.

MR. WILLIAMS: But it's highly relevant as to the fact --

THE COURT: Because he knows where she is now.

MR. WILLIAMS: He says that they knew it when the bench warrant was issued. But all of a sudden, 20 months later --

THE COURT: They sent it to Camden because that's out of their jurisdiction.

Page 202.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

MR. WILLIAMS: So then why is it, sir, if Your Honor said that Camden --

THE COURT: What do you think Philadelphia does when they have bench warrants for somebody that's way out in Pittsburgh? They send it to the authorities in Pittsburgh.

MS. FISK: Frankly, Your Honor, when they have a bench warrant for somebody at Broad and Snyder it usually sits with 40,000 other bench warrants unfortunately that are unserved in the City of Philadelphia.

THE COURT: Well, I know that. We have so much crime here that you can't get around to them.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. FISK: And I would note further, Your Honor, so the record is clear, that what Counsel claims is bad faith on the part of the prosecution is merely an attempt to prepare to cross-examine a witness on the part of the prosecution.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Detective, let's go back to your sending the bench warrant to Camden, okay.

Page 203.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When the Camden authorities have a witness' address -- I'm sorry -- a suspect's address, when do they, as a usual practice, go to the address to effect the arrest?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He can't answer for Camden. He doesn't know what they do. If you want to find out call the detective from Camden and ask him what they did with it. He can't tell you what they do.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Detective, have you had experience with the enforcement of arrest warrants in Camden?

A. Not this type of arrest warrant, no, sir.

Q. Is there something peculiar about this particular arrest warrant?

A. No; if I signed an actual warrant that was an indictable offense and we felt that somebody was dangerous I would go to Camden and assist them in finding the person. But I didn't have any contact with this warrant or that individual at that time.

Q. Okay. Do you know why it is that Camden authorities are not here to enforce the warrant but you are?

Page 204.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

A. Because it is a warrant issued out of Municipal Court of Woodbury and I am an Officer for the City of Woodbury.

Q. So if the jurisdiction is Woodbury because the warrant issued from Woodbury, then why was it sent to Camden?

A. Because her address is in Camden. We don't have jurisdiction in Camden, we send it to them to attempt to serve that warrant.

Q. At your behest, at your jurisdiction's behest?

A. Our Municipal Court clerks send that warrant to Camden to attempt to serve them, for their officers to attempt to serve that.

Q. So your jurisdiction retains an interest in the warrant but Camden is out to effect the arrest?

A. The reason why it's sent to Camden is because if she is stopped or identified and somebody checks warrants on her they are going to call the City where she lives. So the warrant is sent to Camden for their officers to attempt to serve it and if anybody calls their jurisdiction they will have access to that warrant on their file.

Q. Right, so Camden makes the arrest, it's for your jurisdiction's benefit?

A. Right, and we will go take custody of that

Page 205.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct person at that time.

Q. And you can't tell us if any actions were taken in your jurisdiction to prompt or prod the Camden jurisdiction to effect an arrest coming from your jurisdiction, can you?

A. No, I can not.

Q. Can you tell us why at this particular time, given your discussions with investigators and Ms. Fisk, it is being enforced on this particular day?

A. Because this is the first time I have personal knowledge of her actual whereabouts.

Q. This is the first time you had personal knowledge?

A. That's right. I knew of a warrant, I knew of her whereabouts, this is where we came to get her.

Q. Okay. But it is not the first that your office knew; is that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. It is on the file, is it not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge.

THE COURT: What is on the file?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Miss Wilson's whereabouts is on the file, is it not?

Page 206.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

A. It is not.

THE COURT: He has told you what happened to that.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Didn't you just testify that --

THE COURT: He sent it to Camden.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Because Miss Wilson resided in Camden?

A. But I am not sure she's there.

Q. That was her last known information: That she was in Camden?

A. That is correct, and it was sent to Camden.

Q. Okay. So back when you sent the warrant over to Camden you knew of her whereabouts, at least as of that time, didn't you?

A. No , I did not.

Q. But what about your office?

A. I knew of her address but I didn't know if she was going to be there.

Q. Did you make any attempts to find out?

A. No, we sent the warrant to Camden to have them attempt to serve it.

Q. And you don't know if they made any efforts to find out?

A. No, I do not.

Page 207.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

Q. In all honesty, Detective, it is no coincidence that this warrant is being enforced on a day where she testified for Mr. Jamal, is it?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He told you this is the first time he heard where she is.

That's why he's here, to pick her up.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Because you received a call from Ms. Fisk, right?

A. Actually, I seem to recall an investigator from, I received a call from an investigator from the prosecutor 's office first and then a call from Miss Fisk, that's correct.

Q. So your interest in this case is a direct result of conduct and activity by a prosecutor here in Philadelphia?

A. My interest in this case is that I knew about a warrant that was issued for Veronica Wilson and her whereabouts were brought to my attention last week, where she was going to be today.

Q. By a prosecutor here in Pennsylvania?

A. By a prosecutor and by an investigator for the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

Page 208.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Direct

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Let me get this straight, Detective. As soon as you learned of her whereabouts, you personally, you went to effectuate her arrest, right?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. So for the past 20 months or so since this warrant has been issued, you didn't know of her whereabouts, did you?

A. No, I did not.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: I believe this has been asked and answered.

THE COURT: He said he didn't know where she was.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well. No further questions.

MS. FISK: I just have I think one.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective, is it Detective or Sergeant or both?

A. Detective Sergeant.

Q. Detective Sergeant? Sheeran?

Page 209.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Cross

A. Sheenan, S-H-E-E-N-A-N.

Q. Detective Sergeant Sheenan, is this bench warrant a matter of public record?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. It is available for anyone to look at or see from the Woodbury Municipal Court records?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have any record as to whether or not any person made an effort to look at or confirm the existence of this warrant prior to your obtaining this telephone call from the Camden County investigator last week?

A. I'm not sure I understand your question; could you repeat that, please.

Q. Would you know whether or not anybody looked at the records and became aware of the existence of the bench warrant: You have to make a mark in the file if somebody opens it?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. All right, but since its issuance in December 1994, the existence of this warrant has been a matter of public record?

A. Through the Municipal Court, that is correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And this is only in Woodbury; is that right?

A. Woodbury Municipal Court.

Q. That's where it is a public record, in Woodbury?

A. I believe so.

Q. It is not, it wouldn't be in the Camden Courts, would it?

A. I'm not sure if --

Q. It wouldn't be on file in Camden other than the police department?

A. I believe you are correct, I'm not sure of their procedures.

Q. Okay. And when you say that you don't know if any person looked at this public record in your jurisdiction of Woodbury, that would include authorities in your jurisdiction; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: I just have one, I'm sorry.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

Page 211.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Recross

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Though the warrant is in the name of Veronica Wilson, does the paperwork with regard to this offense also reflect that Miss Wilson was also known as Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, it does on the arrest report.

Q. And just so the record is clear, is the one who was in the Courtroom earlier this morning when you were brought up to the -- oh, I'm sorry -- when you were brought up to the glass, is that the woman who was the subject of that warrant?

A. That's the woman who was arrested on that date.

Q. And are you able to make that determination by looking at the photograph of the person who was arrested under this file number?

A. That is correct.

Q. Incidentally, when Miss Wilson, Miss Jones was arrested on July the 14th, 1992, was she also processed, that is fingerprinted, photographed and the like?

A. I believe she was photographed but she wasn't fingerprinted due to the fact that her fingers were bleeding.

Page 212.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Redirect

Q. Okay. Was she made aware of the fact that she was being placed under arrest?

A. Yes, ma'am.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you have an independent memory that she had been told that she was under arrest?

A. On her arrest report she has to be served with her green sheets, which means she is under arrest.

Q. My question is do you have firsthand knowledge as to whether she was informed that she was arrested?

A. No, I do not.

Q. In terms of Miss Jones having this different name of Miss Wilson, is it your experience as a detective that people use aliases to make it more difficult to find them?

A. Sometimes, yes, sir.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions. I'm sorry, one moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 213.

Det. Timothy Sheenan - Redirect

Q. Did you check to see if Miss Jones also went by the name of Louise Tatum?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you check to see if she also went by the name of Rhonda Harris?

A. No, I did not.

Q. So you didn't check to see if she had a whole string of aliases?

A. No, I did not.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you very much.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I ask defense Counsel whether they will need Detective Sergeant Sheenan or whether he and his partner could return to New Jersey?

MR. WILLIAMS: I would like to call the other detective to the stand but before that I would like to call Ms. Fisk to the stand in light of Detective Sheenan's --

THE COURT: No, you can't do that.

MR. WILLIAMS: She makes a call to enforce a bench warrant in a very significant period of time, that is a few days before Miss Jones testified. I think the Supreme Court and certainly any Federal Court would be highly interested.

THE COURT: Argue that before the Supreme Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor promised that you wouldn't interrupt. I will finish and then I will do you the courtesy of listening to you.

THE COURT: No, I don't want to listen to you. Argue that before the Supreme Court, okay.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we are under an order to create a full factual record.

THE COURT: Yes, I know, a full record.

MR. WILLIAMS: Of police intimidation.

THE COURT: No, no, no, no.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what Veronica Jones testified, that is the crucial claim.

THE COURT: No. What am I supposed to do, investigate the whole police department?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, what I am asking Your Honor to do is to examine whether what we saw here this morning is an illustration of the very thing we have been alleging in our papers, that is police intimidation, prosecutorial intimidation of defense witnesses. I think what we saw here was evidence of that. And what I want to establish --

THE COURT: I didn't hear --

MR. WILLIAMS: What I want to establish from the testimony of Miss Fisk was in fact that was the intention.

THE COURT: What does that have to do with this case at all?

MR. WILLIAMS: Because every witness that has testified favorably to Mr. Jamal has been intimidated and we saw it now. With an audacity that is shocking.

THE COURT: You had an opportunity to bring them last time. I didn't hear anybody say anybody was intimidated. As a matter of fact, they told me they were intimidated by you.

MR. WILLIAMS: And now what we have is evidence of Miss Fisk's enforcing a bench warrant of a defense witness at this particular time. And I want to establish that it was intentional, intentional to intimidate this witness.

THE COURT: Maybe it was. Maybe it was. So what?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor isn't concerned about that issue?

THE COURT: No, I don't see what it has to do with this PCRA matter. I don't.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it makes it very difficult to advocate for

Mr. Jamal when Your Honor has such a limited knowledge about our case.

THE COURT: Take it up with the Supreme Court and if they think it is important they will send it back down again, okay. I don't think it's important. I don't think it has anything to do with the PCR. That is a collateral issue. And I don't want to go into a second collateral issue.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I don't want to be in the position of having to send this case back.

THE COURT: I am. Let them send it back down if they want more information. I will be glad to give them all the information that they want.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT: Come on, Counselor, do you want that other detective or can he go?

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what I am conferring with Co-counsel on.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we don't want the other witness. In light of -- let me just make this record. I mean I would just ask you to do me that courtesy. In light of the testimony that we just heard, we want Miss Fisk to testify on her intent to intimidate the defense witness. I think we are obligated to do it under the Order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Number one. And number two, I think that is what occurred here and the record cries out for it.

THE COURT: Yes, okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: So that is our application.

Page 218.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: And the application is...?

THE COURT: I told you take it up with the Supreme Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: It's denied.

THE COURT: If you say so.

MR. WILLIAMS: I don't want to quibble with words.

THE COURT: Well, Counselor, if you want to raise it in the Supreme Court, raise it there. If they want me to hear from Ms. Fisk they will send it back down.

MR. WILLIAMS: Very well.

THE COURT: Okay.

All right, let the officers go.

MR. WILLIAMS: With the thanks of the defense.

THE COURT: Let the officers go.

THE COURT OFFICER: They are being instructed now, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, the defense now calls Christopher Milton.

MS. FISK: I would ask for an offer of proof with regard to this witness, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Milton will testify in support of our due diligence claim which we are submitting under protest.

MS. FISK: That is not an offer of proof, Your Honor. I am asking for specifics.

THE COURT: Why don't you tell her what he is going to say, will you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, Mr. Milton --

MS. FISK: I would have no objection to Counsel telling me privately, it doesn't have to be in open Court.

THE COURT: Okay, speak to her privately.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have no problem with stating it in open Court that Mr. Milton is going to testify about his activities as an investigator in connection with locating Miss Jones.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: What was the name again?

MR. WILLIAMS: Christopher Milton.

Christopher L. Milton, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Milton. Thanks for coming in. Can you tell the Court how you are employed?

A. I am a licensed private investigator.

Q. And how long have you been a private investigator?

A. Since 1988.

Q. Since 1988?

A. (Witness nodded head affirmatively.)

Q. Have you ever done work for what I will call loosely the defense team for Mr. Mumia Abu-Jamal?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. In your capacity as an investigator?

A. Yes.

Q. When were you retained by the defense team?

A. Hmm. Mid, mid July.

Q. Of what year?

A. '95.

Q. 1995? How long have you worked for the defense team in your capacity as an investigator?

Page 221.

Christopher Milton - Direct

A. Since then.

Q. To the present?

A. Yes.

Q. Has it occupied all of your time as an investigator?

A. Ahh, no.

Q. So you've had other clients?

A. Yes.

Q. We are one among other clients?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, there was a woman who testified here this morning by the name of Veronica Jones. Do you know Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. How do you know her?

A. I have been searching for her since, since I pretty much been almost on the case and...

Q. From the very moment you were retained?

A. No, not from the very moment, no, sir.

Q. Okay. From the very -- I will rephrase it. From the very moment that you began working on behalf of the defense team, when you began working as an investigator?

A. Well, I knew of her. I hadn't met her at that point but I knew of her.

Page 222.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Q. All right, let me back up. Were you ever told to locate a Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. When were you told that?

A. Probably a month after, after I was retained.

Q. Back in 1995?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you begin looking for Veronica Jones?

A. Around August.

Q. Right after you were directed to start looking for her?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you began looking for Veronica Jones, did you have information in your possession that assisted you in your investigation?

A. I was given her name and her birth date.

Q. A name and a birth date?

A. Yes.

Q. The name you were given was Veronica Jones?

A. Ahh, yes.

Q. And with that information at your disposal, what steps did you take?

A. Well, I did, you know, the basics: Ran it through criminal records, employment history, voter's

Page 223.

Christopher Milton - Direct

registration, for possible welfare checks, things like that. Just the standard stuff.

Q. Driver's license?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever look for a death certificate in the event that this person might be dead?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you investigate as to whether she had been incarcerated during any of this period of time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. What jurisdictions did you look in?

A. Ahh, Philadelphia, in New Jersey.

Q. Philadelphia and New Jersey?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By the way, with respect to your investigation in New Jersey, did you have any reason to believe that there was any information in the county of Woodbury?

A. In Woodbury, I don't think so, I don't remember.

Q. Okay. That doesn't stick out in your mind as a significant place?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, as a result of your investigations, did you find potential addresses for Veronica Jones?

Page 224.

Christopher Milton - Direct

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us more about that. A few? Lots?

A. Well, in some of the areas, some of the possible addresses that I went to, I was given areas that she may have worked at or she may have lived at. One of them was being in New Jersey, others were in different parts of the City. Pretty much mostly South Philadelphia, or Southwest Philadelphia.

Q. So you had potential employment addresses?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And home addresses?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Can you characterize the number of addresses that you had, was it plenty or just a few?

A. It was a few, a few addresses were given. Most of them, or actually all of them at one point turned up to be blanks in the beginning.

Q. When you have addresses, either employment or residence, what steps do you take, investigative steps?

A. Well, we will go to them, myself or someone out of the office will go to them, canvas the area and definitely knock on the door, ask for her. In most cases people will say she didn't live there.

Page 225.

Christoper Milton - Direct

Q. All right, so you go to the address that you have, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you used the phrase canvas the area. What do you mean by that?

A. Well, walk up and down the street, especially if no one was home, asking people if they knew of her, of the young lady.

Q. And did you do that with respect to these addresses for Miss Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in your investigation did you come upon possible aliases for a Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Can you kind of characterize that for us: Were there lots of aliases or a few?

A. Well, it was quite a few.

Q. Quite a few?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay.

A. The birth dates were different. You know, her age. People would estimate her age. Information that was given to me changed every now and then.

Q. Let me go back to the aliases. You said there were plenty of aliases and there were different birth dates for those aliases?

Page 226.

Christopher Milton - Direct

A. Hmm-hmm.

MS. FISK: I would simply ask Mr. Milton to say yes or no, because there is no uh-huh button on the machine.

THE COURT: Yes, he can't record it.

THE WITNESS: Okay, I'm sorry.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. As a private investigator, does it make your job more difficult if there are aliases for a person?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And maybe it's obvious but can you tell the Court why it is more difficult?

A. Well, with a common name like Jones, for one, you have over thousands of Joneses. The name itself was a very common name. The biggest problem was nailing down the birth date, place of birth, things like that, even her mother's name which wasn't given to, it just makes it real hard. If I'm given an accurate birth date and accurate name it makes it a lot easier.

Q. It's kind of like shooting at a moving target?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I asked earlier about information that you had at your disposal and you said you got her

Page 227.

Christopher Milton - Direct

name and her birth date?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. During the course of your investigation were you supplied more information from other investigators for the defense team as time went on?

A. Yes.

Q. What kinds of information did you get as time went on?

A. Ahh, hmm... well, definitely I got different names.

Q. The aliases were supplied to you?

A. The aliases were given to me. Ahh... possible places of employment. Possible relatives.

Q. And did you follow up on every single lead that you got?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever leave -- withdrawn. Did you ever ignore any of those leads?

A. No.

Q. You followed every single lead that you were given?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you yourself do any of the computer searches?

A. No, sir.

Page 228.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Q. From your knowledge do you know if anybody on the defense team or anybody retained by the defense team did any computer searches?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay, who would that be?

A. Mr. Newman.

Q. Mr. Newman?

A. Yes.

Q. And where is he, where does he work out of?

A. To my knowledge, San Diego.

Q. And were you ever in contact with this Mr. Newman from San Diego?

A. Yes.

Q. And for what purpose?

A. He would give me, when he came here he would give me information. We would sit down and put our heads together and compare notes, compare my findings, my physical findings to his computer findings.

Q. Okay. Tell me if I am wrong about this but let me see if I understand you right. We have this man Mr. Newman out in San Diego doing computer searches, you are out on the street following up on leads; is that right?

A. Hmm-hmm, yes, sir.

Page 229.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Q. And there were occasions where the two of you would meet out here on the East Coast?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you would confer to see how the progress of the investigation was going?

A. Yes.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And you understand, Mr. Milton, that what I am only asking you about is Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Not about any other investigations that you have done or anything like that, just Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. And whatever you have testified to thus far is about Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. That this investigator in San Diego was doing computer searches for Veronica Jones, or these aliases?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if -- by the way, are there other investigators working in your office?

Page 230.

Christopher Milton - Direct

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did any of these other investigators in your office play a role in searching for Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. And what about other investigators outside of your office and other than Mr. Newman?

A. Not to my knowledge, I don't know.

Q. You don't know?

A. I don't ask questions like that.

Q. Okay. You follow your leads and you do what you're told?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you said something about canvassing areas in South Philly earlier; do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there other areas that you canvassed besides South Philly?

A. Yes.

Q. What other areas?

A. Southwest Philadelphia.

Q. Southwest Philly?

A. Yes.

Q. Where else?

A. West Philly itself. These were the two main

Page 231.

Christopher Milton - Direct

areas.

Q. Okay. And you said earlier something about New Jersey as well?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Can you be more precise?

A. Well, the addresses that we were given, we would only knock on the doors. We would, if nobody answered we would knock on the doors next to it, across the street from it. Like if somebody lives someplace, usually a person lives across the street sees them quite often.

Q. Okay.

A. We would talk to them, ask them if they knew the young lady.

Q. All right, what I am asking is, did you look in any areas of New Jersey for a Veronica Jones or any of her aliases?

A. Yes.

Q. What parts of New Jersey did you look?

A. Camden.

Q. Camden, New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. And why Camden in particular?

A. That was the address or the areas that were given to me.

Page 232.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Q. Now, by the way, do you know a Floyd Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is Floyd Jackson?

A. He works for me.

Q. Was he at all involved in the search for Veronica Jones?

A. At some point, yes.

Q. Now, there came a point where Veronica Jones was actually found; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, before the real Veronica Jones was found, did there come a point where you believed you found the real Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us about that?

A. There was a street address that was given to me where the relatives of this young lady, or we thought was the relatives of this young lady had said that she moved to Baltimore. They provided a picture of her and gave me good information: Life style, kids, new husband, everything. And I was pretty sure it was her at that point.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 233.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Q. When you say lifestyle of this particular Veronica Jones in Baltimore --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- what do you mean by that?

A. Well, you know, she was working, she was a family woman, had one child by a gentleman she met from the military, two other children by her present husband.

Q. And by the way, did you ever locate this Veronica Jones in Baltimore?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what was the result when you located her?

A. She said it wasn't her.

Q. That it wasn't her?

A. No.

Q. And did you apprise the defense of this fact?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And did you make it a practice to apprise the defense of your progress in investigating the whereabouts of Miss Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And did this... now, the woman in Baltimore, her name was Rhonda Harris, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is that one of the aliases or a/k/a's of

Page 234.

Christopher Milton - Direct

Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. And do you recall whether this Rhonda Harris in Baltimore had a prostitution background also?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. In Philadelphia?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it would be safe to say that when you found that out you thought you had a direct hit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Pretty excited?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were excited because you really wanted to find this Veronica Jones; is that right?

MS. FISK: I object to that, Your Honor. Frankly, that doesn't matter.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it does matter in terms of the diligence.

MS. FISK: You are right.

I will withdraw the objection.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You really wanted to find this Veronica Jones; is that right?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Was it your state of mind or your impression

Page 235.

Christopher Milton - Direct

that finding Veronica Jones was important to the defense team?

A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. Okay. Tempers ever flare because we were having problems finding Veronica Jones?

MS. FISK: Well, to that I object, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, did you attempt to review files for any criminal cases involving a Veronica Jones or a Rhonda Harris or Louise Tatum or any of the numerous a/k/a's?

A. Have I reviewed the files?

Q. No, did you ever attempt to review files in connection with criminal cases for a Veronica Jones or any of the aliases associated with Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir, I did attempt.

Q. Okay. Here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell me what happened as a result of your attempts to review those files?

A. Well, when I went to the Quarter Sessions to see if I could order the files, I was given instructions that they would probably not be

Page 236.

Christopher Milton - Direct

obtainable right now due to, you know, the transition that was going to be made.

Q. What transition are you talking about?

A. The move from City Hall to over here, to the Criminal Justice Center. So I figured well, if I wouldn't get them right away they wouldn't be of any use because I think they had a sentencing or something coming up I think like within two days or three days or something like that.

Q. You felt that you could spend your time better doing other things?

A. Yes.

Q. Rather than wait for the boxed-up materials?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, did there come a point, Mr. Milton, when you learned that your office had located the real Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did that occur?

A. Sometime in April.

Q. Of what year?

A. This year.

Q. 1996?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that the first time as far as you know

Page 237.

Christopher Milton - Direct

that anybody connected with the defense team was able to locate the real Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was she located; do you know?

A. In New Jersey.

MR. WILLIAMS: If I may have one moment.

Excuse me, Mr. Milton.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Mr. Milton.

No further questions.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Milton.

A. How are you doing?

Q. Fine, thank you. Mr. Milton, what is the name of your private investigation agency?

A. Philadelphia Protection Service.

Q. Philadelphia Protection Services?

Page 238.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And does that operate under your license, sir, as a private investigator?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how long has the Philadelphia Protection Services been in existence?

A. About three years, since February 19th, I incorporated February 19th of '93.

Q. And when you are retained as an investigator, do you charge an hourly rate?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what is your standard hourly fee, Mr. Milton?

A. Well, from then to now it is changing.

Q. With regard to this matter when you were retained in July of 1995, what was your standard hourly fee?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object to that. There is no relevancy to what his fee was in this case. It has nothing to do with whether or not he exercised reasonable diligence.

MS. FISK: Frankly, Your Honor, if a person is being paid ten cents an hour as opposed to being paid $100 an hour, the diligence of their efforts will be affected.

Page 239.

Christopher Milton - Cross

MR. WILLIAMS: You could ask that: If his diligence was affected by the rate that was paid.

THE COURT: We don't know what the rate is.

MR. WILLIAMS: Then it is irrelevant.

THE COURT: I think it is relevant. Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Milton, what was your statement --

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor --

Pardon me, Ms. Fisk.

I think the proper question to ask is was he paid the rate that he requested.

THE COURT: Counselor, you will have a chance to redirect, you can ask him any questions that you want. Don't tell the Commonwealth how to ask their questions.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not telling them, I am just asking that the Court keep the questions bound within the law.

THE COURT: Well, it's within the law. She has a right to know what he charged.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Milton, do you remember my question?

Page 240.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay.

A. My standard fee is $57 an hour.

Q. And is that the fee that you quoted to those persons who hired you with regard to this case last July?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And what was the fee that you quoted to Counsel in this case, sir?

A. $47 an hour.

Q. So you discounted them?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And since July 1995 has that fee remained, that is your $47 an hour?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how many hours have you billed on this matter?

MR. WILLIAMS: Objection, Your Honor: There's no relevance to that.

THE COURT: We want to know how much effort he put into it.

MR. WILLIAMS: The issue is how much time did he spend in searching for Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: That's what we're asking

Page 241.

Christopher Milton - Cross

here.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have no problem with that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's what she is asking.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. My first question --

MR. WILLIAMS: With respect to Veronica Jones.

MS. FISK: Oh, absolutely with respect to Veronica Jones.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I apologize and I hope you didn't misunderstand my question. With regard to your efforts to locate Miss Jones in this matter, how many hours have you billed?

A. For Miss Jones?

Q. Yes.

A. I have no idea.

Q. You don't break --

A. Not specifically.

Q. You don't break it down in your bills, sir?

A. What I do is the amount of hours I spent working for them period I bill them for, I don't break down what the hours were doing.

Q. Are you able to tell us how many hours you

Page 242.

Christopher Milton - Cross

have devoted to the attempt to locate Miss Jones?

A. I can give you an estimate.

Q. And have you billed the defense for each of those hours to which you are about to give us an estimate?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And in your estimation, then, how many hours have you billed for attempting to locate Miss Jones?

(Pause.)

A. Probably about 200 hours.

Q. And you have been paid for those 200 hours?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, sir, when you were hired, and I understand it you told us that you were retained in mid-July 1995?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. I trust that between mid-July of 1995 and about a month later, which is when you told us you were asked to locate Miss Jones, that you were doing other things regarding this matter?

A. Yes.

Q. So it was sometime in mid-August 1995 that you were directed to attempt to locate Miss Jones; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Page 243.

Christopher Milton - Cross

Q. Now, sir, I trust that you were told that Miss Jones had been a witness in this matter back in 1982; would that be fair to say?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you request to be provided with a copy of her notes of testimony in an attempt to glean from that any information that you could have where she lived or her whereabouts or anything about her history?

A. Did I request it?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Were you ever provided with a copy of those notes of testimony?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Was that in the middle of August of 1995?

A. Ahh, it was given to me about that time, yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, all those other persons that you testified about during direct examination -- that is Floyd Jackson, Mr. Newman -- to the best of their knowledge, did their efforts to locate Miss Jones begin at or about the same time that you began looking for Miss Jones?

MR. WILLIAMS: Objection to the best

Page 244.

Christopher Milton - Cross

of their knowledge.

MS. FISK: To the best of his knowledge.

THE COURT: No, his knowledge. They work for him.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think she just misstated the question.

MS. FISK: I apologize for misstating it, I will restate it.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The persons that you mentioned -- Mr. Newman is in San Diego, Floyd Jackson, a member of your Philadelphia Protection Services -- to the best of your knowledge, did those persons begin to look for Miss Jones at or about the same time that you began to look for Miss Jones, that is around or about mid-August of 1985?

A. Mr. Newman did, yes, ma'am.

Q. How about Floyd Jackson?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Later?

A. Later, yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. Now, you have told us that as part of your by standard initial efforts to locate Miss Jones, you checked, among other things, criminal records or her criminal extract in Philadelphia; would that be fair? That's what it's called.

Page 245.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And in checking Miss Jones' criminal extract in Philadelphia, did you note that in 1988 she had been found guilty of a weapons offense and had been placed on probation?

A. I really don't remember that, I didn't look at it.

Q. You didn't look at what?

A. I didn't have that reason.

Q. Oh. Well, if I were to suggest to you that Miss Jones was indeed convicted in 1988 of a weapons offense, is that something that you would have seen on her criminal history?

A. If it was on there, yes, ma'am.

Q. All right. And having checked that criminal history, did you then contact the Philadelphia Department of Probation And Parole to find out what if any information they had on her whereabouts during the pendency of her probation?

A. Did I do that?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you suggest to any of the attorneys who

Page 246.

Christopher Milton - Cross

had hired you that a subpoena duces tecum to the Probation Department might give you a more-recent address or biographical background or data regarding the person you were seeking?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. It never occurred to you to check with Probation, sir, in Philadelphia?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Now, when you checked the criminal records regarding Miss Jones, do you also recall that you learned that she had been incarcerated during the pendency of this trial or at any time thereafter?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And specifically in Philadelphia, did you learn that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you therefore as a result make an effort last summer, 1995, to subpoena the records from the Philadelphia prison in an attempt to get any biographical data they had regarding the woman you were seeking?

A. Did I do that last year?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, ma'am, I don't remember doing that.

Q. Did you suggest to any of the attorneys who

Page 247.

Christopher Milton - Cross

had hired you that because she had been incarcerated that there would be records there that they might wish to subpoena and obtain?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. So to this day you still don't know what information, addresses or materials exist in those documents; is that correct?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. It is not correct or it is correct?

A. No, I don't know.

Q. Oh, okay. Now, in the check of criminal records, did you discover that Miss Jones had been found guilty of welfare fraud in Camden back in 19 -- I'm sorry -- yes, back in 1992? I'm sorry, I don't want to misstate it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: '88.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I'm sorry, back in 1988?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you do a criminal record check in Camden?

A. We went over to see if she had ever been arrested in Camden.

Q. And did you discover that she indeed had been arrested in Camden?

A. No, ma'am.

Page 248.

Christopher Milton - Cross

Q. In what manner did you go over to New Jersey, then, and discover whether she had been arrested, please?

A. The department that's right over the bridge, we stopped in there and we weren't given a whole lot of cooperation at that.

Q. Did you suggest to the attorneys who had hired you or any of the persons who had hired you that a subpoena duces tecum to the Camden Courthouse to determine her full criminal history might give you additional information regarding her whereabouts?

A. Did I suggest that, was that your question?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, ma'am, I did not.

Q. And that was despite the fact that you were unable to obtain cooperation with those persons through an informal check of her records?

A. We did a lot of civil work. When we couldn't get the criminal we said well maybe there is some civil information and we did come up with quite a few names.

Q. But those were of various persons named Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. As opposed to the person who you knew you were

Page 249.

Christopher Milton - Cross

looking for who had been fingerprinted and who had an identifiable Philadelphia Police Identification Number?

A. Well, at that point we still wasn't sure her complete name was Veronica Jones.

Q. Well, you knew what her criminal extract said in Philadelphia, right?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And that said Rhonda Harris; correct?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

A. Yes, ma'am. I'm sorry.

Q. Did you subpoena FBI records to determine, with the date of birth and the Philadelphia photo number that you obtained in Philadelphia, whether that person based on those fingerprints had any arrests in any other jurisdictions in the country?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you suggest of any of the attorneys who had retained you to attempt to locate this woman that those records from the FBI be subpoenaed so you would know that you were looking precisely for the same person?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You knew that those were records that existed,

Page 250.

Christopher Milton - Cross

did you not, sir?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, you told us that at some point, and that point was you told us two days before this matter was coming back to Court -- that is the matter of the Commonwealth versus Jamal -- is when you inquired as to the availability of the Quarter Sessions record; is that correct?

A. Repeat that.

Q. You said that you checked for her Quarter Sessions file, that is in the case in which she had initially been incarcerated in '82 and then a bench warrant was issued upon her in 1988, is that what you said, and they told you you couldn't get to it because the building was moving?

A. I wasn't specific on what files but I did inquire about files concerning that young lady, yes.

Q. Okay. And specifically did you attempt to locate the Quarter Sessions file, that is the Court document regarding her arrest in 1982 which resulted in the 1988 conviction?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You did not?

A. I asked for files on her, period.

Q. And in what fashion did you ask for files on her, please? Did you make a formal, verbal request or did you issue a subpoena duces tecum?

Page 251.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. I asked that, I asked could files be obtained. And when I said that it was told to me that chances of getting them any time soon would not happen.

Q. And that was because the Criminal Justice Center was opening and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions was moving documents from City Hall to this building?

A. Right, that's what I was told.

Q. Now, did I understand you to say on direct examination that since they were coming back for sentencing in two days you figured it wasn't worth it; is that what you said?

A. I said the chances of me getting it might not be.

Q. Okay. And when you said sentencing, am I correct that what you were referring to was the final closing arguments in this matter which took place in this building on September 11th of 1995; is that what you were referring to?

A. No, ma'am, I am not.

Q. What sentencing were you referring to?

A. I haven't been in the Courtroom so I just knew that you were coming back here, or they were coming back here at a point that I needed to get what I was asked to get as soon as possible.

Page 252.

Christopher Milton - Cross

Q. Now, was that request for those records made in August or September or October of 1995? If you know.

A. You are saying September October?

Q. I am asking you.

A. I'm trying to remember. It was either late August or early September.

Q. Now, I take it that you at some point became aware that in fact criminal court moved into this building; is that right?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you thereafter return and make another effort to obtain all files having to do with this young lady?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You never did?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You then said you looked for people down in Baltimore?

A. No, I didn't look for anybody.

Q. You made alternative efforts to locate the person you were searching for; is that right?

A. Yes.

Page 253.

Christopher Milton - Cross

Q. Now, did you ever become aware during the course of your attempts to locate Miss Jones that she had children?

A. That was talked about but there was nothing definite.

Q. Because you know, sir, that had you subpoenaed her Philadelphia Probation records, it would have given you the name and age of each of her three children?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object as to what is in the Probation records. That is not in evidence and Miss Fisk is not under oath testifying.

MS. FISK: When it comes to diligent efforts and things he could have done I believe it is legitimate.

MR. WILLIAMS: She is making representations as to what is in the document.

THE COURT: No, she is asking him if he had checked into it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right, and he said no. So whether he knows what is in those documents or not is irrelevant: He didn't check into it. But I don't want any representations as to what is in those documents.

Page 254.

Christopher Milton - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did you ever become aware of the names and ages of Miss

Jones' children?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever contact the Department of Public Welfare in the City of Philadelphia to find out whether or not Miss Jones was a recipient in Philadelphia of public assistance?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you ever contact the Department of Public Welfare in Camden, New Jersey?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, am I correct that you were aware that Miss Jones, that Miss Jones -- let me step back a moment. Were you provided with a copy of Miss Jones' statement to the police in December of 1981?

A. Was I provided a copy of the statement to the police?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Actually, I don't recall.

Q. You have told us, however, that you were provided with a copy of her testimony from the trial?

A. Yes.

Q. You recall, then, Mr. Milton, that in the trial Miss Jones testified that at the time that she spoke to the police in December 1981, that she spoke to them in her mother's home in Camden, New Jersey? Do you recall that, sir?

Page 255.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. No.

Q. You do not recall that?

A. No.

Q. Were you aware Miss Jones had contact, had contacts, that is her mother lived in Camden, New Jersey?

A. No.

Q. Did you read those notes of testimony, Mr. Milton?

A. Yes.

Q. Might it be that you knew that at one time when you were looking for her and you have since forgotten?

A. No.

Q. So you think you just missed that part of her testimony from the trial?

A. Hmm, probably.

Q. So you checked with the Department of Public Welfare in Philadelphia but you never checked with the Department of Public Welfare from Camden?

A. Correct.

Q. Am I correct that in the course of your

Page 256.

Christopher Milton - Cross

looking for Miss Jones, however, you did develop leads in Camden? In fact, isn't this where you found the other address for the lady who moved to Baltimore? Or am I incorrect about that?

A. You are incorrect about that.

Q. That was an address in Philadelphia?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Prior to locating Miss Jones in Camden in April 1996, had you received prior information that she had contacts with Camden?

A. No.

Q. I see. When was this lady in Baltimore located?

A. When?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Had to be around the early part of September.

Q. Of...?

A. '95.

Q. So within a few weeks, or actually within a month of your attempts, of your being retained to attempt to locate this person you found the lady in Baltimore?

A. Yes.

Page 257.

Christopher Milton - Cross

Q. And then from September of 1995 to April of 1996 you were without success until you located her in April of '96?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you keep internal records regarding your time and how you are spending it when you are hired by a client?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have those records with regard to these efforts to locate Miss Jones with you today?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Were you asked to bring them?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did it occur to you that perhaps you might want to refer to them in order to answer questions today?

MR. WILLIAMS: I would object to that: Did it occur to him. He is here testifying from his memory.

MS. FISK: And unable to give me some precise information.

THE COURT: If he had those papers he would be in a better position to answer questions.

MR. WILLIAMS: We've had numerous

Page 258.

Christopher Milton - Cross

police witnesses here who didn't occur to them to bring their police reports in.

THE COURT: He is your witness. Did you ask him to bring his records?

MR. WILLIAMS: What for? He is here to testify from his knowledge.

THE COURT: But he --

MR. WILLIAMS: He hasn't said --

THE COURT: No, there are a lot of things he doesn't know. He is not sure of dates, et cetera. If he had the notes he would be in a better position to tell us when he did certain things. After all, I don't expect him to have a computer mind.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I'm sorry, I apologize if I asked you this. I know I asked you about the Department of Probation from Philadelphia. Did you ever contact the Department of Probation from Camden County with regard to whether or not this lady was on probation from Camden?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And again, you never contacted the prison with regard to records regarding her arrest in 1982 or in 1988?

Page 259.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You never contacted welfare in Camden?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you ever contact Camden police officers to determine whether or not this lady was known to them, either as a complainant or a defendant?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how many police officers did you speak to in Camden?

A. Just the one gentleman that was at the window when we went over to Camden.

Q. How long have you been a private investigator, for three years, sir?

A. I have been licensed for three years.

Q. And you worked under someone else's license for how many years before?

A. Since 1988.

Q. During that period of time you have undoubtedly developed resources in government agencies and cities and police departments all throughout this area; would that be fair to say?

A. Ask that question again.

Q. Certainly. Throughout the period of time that you have worked as a private investigator, either under your license or under other licenses, you have developed resources and sources of information throughout the area; would that be fair to say?

Page 260.

Christopher Milton - Cross

A. Ahh, I guess so, yes, ma'am.

Q. And do those resources include police officers and law enforcement officers in the Camden, New Jersey area?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Did you attempt to develop any persons or ask any police officers other than the person at the window who you said wasn't very cooperative regarding Miss Jones?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And again so I am clear: Did you make any efforts to have any records from Camden subpoenaed or ever ask the attorneys to assist you in your inquiry by subpoenaing any records in Camden?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. And did you ever ask the attorneys to subpoena any records anywhere to assist you in this search?

A. No, ma'am.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions of Mr. Milton, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Page 261.

Christopher Milton - Redirect

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Milton, once your office got the real Veronica Jones address in Camden, New Jersey, you went there and you were able to locate her; isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, if you, with your modest company, if you had a bench warrant or a copy of a bench warrant that had her address in Camden back in 1994 -- strike that -- back in 1985, you could have found her immediately, couldn't you?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, if that bench warrant had that address, that Camden address, somebody from your modest private investigating office could have found her pretty quickly; isn't that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the basis of your objection?

MS. FISK: Because that's supposition. We don't know.

MR. WILLIAMS: He just testified that once he got the address he was able to locate

Page 262.

Christopher Milton - Redirect

her.

THE COURT: I don't know, how did you get that address?

THE WITNESS: How did I get what address?

THE COURT: Where you made the arrest.

MS. FISK: No.

THE COURT: Or where you located her.

THE WITNESS: It was faxed to me from Mr. Newman.

THE COURT: Mr. Newman, who is he?

MS. FISK: The man in San Diego doing computer searches, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, he is the guy that found the address.

THE WITNESS: He gave me quite a few of them, Your Honor, I just ran to them.

THE COURT: Once you got that address from Mr. Newman on a piece of paper, you marched right over into Camden and you found her?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So presumably, if law enforcement from Camden or some other jurisdiction had that address on a piece of paper they could have done the same thing

Page 263.

Christopher Milton - Redirect

you did?

MS. FISK: Objection. Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain the objection. What they could have done and what they did do are two different things.

MR. WILLIAMS: What they did do was they went in there after she testified to arrest her. That's what they did.

THE COURT: Counselor, all I am saying to you is bring them in from Camden, find out what they did. I don't know that they did anything.

MR. WILLIAMS: They did nothing is what they did. All you --

THE COURT: I don't know that.

MR. WILLIAMS: All you have to do is go to the house, which is what Mr. Milton did. Very simple. But it took a call from the D.A. here in Philadelphia to go to her house to arrest her after she testified.

THE COURT: They didn't go to her house to arrest her, they came here.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exactly right, they could have went to her house but they waited

Page 264.

Christopher Milton - Redirect

to --

MS. FISK: Is Counsel now claiming that they purposely waited? This is getting even better.

MR. WILLIAMS: They came here because Ms. Fisk wanted her arrested on this particular day, that's why.

THE COURT: You keep talking about what Camden County Police Department does. I don't know if they did anything. But besides that, they have the State Police in there helping them out. They have so much crime there I don't think they could find anybody. You know that. They have State Police helping them out. They are overloaded there in Camden County. They have more crime there than any place I think in the world.

MR. WILLIAMS: So with all that crime it was important for them to be able to come and arrest Miss Jones here.

MS. FISK: Is this important to the examination of Mr. Milton?

THE COURT: I thought it was.

MR. WILLIAMS: But with all that crime it was important enough for them to come to this

Page 265.

Christopher Milton - Redirect

Courtroom.

THE COURT: Do you have any questions you want to ask this man?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes, I do.

THE COURT: All right, ask him and let's get moving, we will be here forever.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, this Mr. Newman that you mentioned: Do you actually know when he was retained by the defense team?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE WITNESS: No, I don't.

MS. FISK: Withdraw that objection.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Miss Fisk.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And if the District Attorney's Office offered you the address of Miss Jones, would you have found Miss Jones immediately?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you ever told by anybody to withhold the fact that you knew where Miss Jones was located?

A. No.

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge: I frankly don't understand the question, don't understand it's relevance. The testimony of the witness is that when he located her in April he located her and told everybody, that is those who hired him, that he found her, and there has been no claim otherwise.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just rebutting any suggestion that there was bad faith here by the defense that we sat on this witness and withheld her from this Court prior to April of 1996.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Sir, did you use your best efforts in locating Miss Jones?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you ever told not to use your best efforts?

A. No, sir.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

MS. FISK: I have no recross-examination, Your Honor.

Thank you, Mr. Milton.

THE COURT: I guess they don't want to ask you anymore questions. You can go.

(Witness excused.)

THE COURT: All right, I think, do you have anymore witnesses today or do you want to bring them in tomorrow?

Page 267.

MR. WILLIAMS: I got the sense that Your Honor is tired. We are tired. I think we could adjourn for tomorrow.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, before we break, I have had a number of retired Philadelphia police officers who may still need to testify. May I just check to make sure that they are available tomorrow?

THE COURT: Oh. All right, go ahead.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, we do have one very quick witness, Floyd Jackson, and I think we can --

THE COURT: How long?

MR. WILLIAMS: He is much shorter than Mr. Milton.

THE COURT: Well, how long? Here is a clock. It's almost ten after 4:00.

MR. WILLIAMS: I would say ten minutes.

THE COURT: 10 minutes. Okay. Call him. Who is he?

Counselor, who is he?

MR. WILLIAMS: Oh. Floyd Jackson.

MS. FISK: He was identified by

Page 268.

Mr. Milton as the other person who assisted in locating Miss Jones, Your Honor.

THE COURT OFFICER: Floyd Jackson.

- - - - -

Floyd James Jackson, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Jackson.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Can you tell the Court where are you employed?

A. Philadelphia Protection Service.

Q. Are you associated with Mr. Milton, who just testified here?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And in what way are you associated with him?

A. I'm an affiliated agent of his.

Q. You are an agent of his?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have occasion to embark on an assignment to locate a woman by the name of Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 269.

Q. Was it your understanding that Miss Jones had aliases as well?

A. Yes.

Q. And did there come a point where you did find Miss Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. When did that occur?

A. April 15th, 1996.

Q. This past April?

A. Yes.

Q. And tell me how did that come about that you located this Miss Jones?

A. Umm, basically we had a, me and Mr. Newman had a printout, we went through various residences in Pennsylvania, which we discarded, and ended up checking a couple residences in Camden, and eventually found I believe a relative's residence. Upon which finding the relative's residence we were able to contact Veronica.

Q. Can you be more specific about this relative?

A. I believe it was her mother's residence.

Q. So you found the home of Miss Jones' mother?

A. Correct.

Q. And upon finding the home of Miss Jones' mother, you were able to locate Veronica Jones herself?

A. Through her mother.

Q. Through her mother?

A. Correct.

Q. And all of this took place, by the way -- could you speak up a little bit -- by the way, this took place --

A. April.

Q. -- all in April of '96?

A. Correct.

Q. And once you had that address of Veronica Jones in Camden, New Jersey, did you have any difficulty in locating her at that point?

A. No, we did not.

Q. You just went to her home and she was there?

A. I believe.

Q. I'm sorry, her mother's home, you went to her mother's home and you were able to locate her then?

A. I believe the first time was encountering, she wasn't actually physically there. I believe the first day that we went there we actually left a message with her mother and then the proceeding day we was able to actually contact her at the residence.

Q. At her mother's home?

A. Correct.

Page 271.

Q. Okay. Once you located her was the defense team notified?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Okay. And that was quickly after, immediately after?

A. Certainly, yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I am interested to know, Mr. Jackson, about this printout that you and Mr. Newman had. What is it, sir?

A. Basically, that would be some information that Mr. Newman had. So I'm not actually sure exactly where he actually got the information from.

Q. You don't know the source of that information?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You don't know when it was developed?

A. No.

Q. You don't know how long Mr. Newman had that printout?

A. No.

Q. It was a printout of addresses?

Page 272.

A. Yes.

Q. Was it from credit card records? Criminal records? Welfare records?

A. I don't know.

Q. You have no idea?

A. No.

Q. And then you don't know how long he had it?

A. No.

Q. Or how he had obtained it?

A. No.

Q. When did you begin working, sir, on this matter, that is to locate Miss Jones?

A. April the 13th.

Q. And you told us that she was located on April 15th?

A. Correct.

Q. So you spent two days?

A. Correct.

Q. And specifically, then, on April 13th, as a result of this list that Mr. Newman gave you you went to the address of Miss Jones' mother? Would that be fair to say?

A. Eventually.

Q. Was that on the 13th, the day that you started your efforts?

Page 273.

A. No.

Q. It was on April 14th?

A. Yes.

Q. So on April 13th you went someplace else?

A. Yes.

Q. And on April 14th you went to this address and discovered that you had located the person you were looking for?

A. Yes.

Q. And on the following day you found her; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So your efforts involved going to two addresses, one which was not hers and one which was and locating her?

A. No.

Q. What else did you do?

A. It was more than two addresses.

Q. Oh. You went to other addresses on the 13th?

A. Yes.

Q. How many?

A. I would say approximately five.

Q. And were those all in the Camden area?

A. No.

Q. Other than the one -- well, were any of those on the 13th in the Camden area?

Page 274.

A. Pardon.

Q. Were any of those addresses that you went to on April 13 --

A. No.

Q. -- in Camden, New Jersey?

A. No.

Q. On April 14th when you discovered her mother's address, was that the first address you went to on April 14th?

A. I believe not.

Q. Were there any other addresses you went to on that day in the Camden, New Jersey area?

A. Yes.

Q. Prior to that day, do you know whether there had been any information obtained regarding Miss Jones living in Camden?

A. No.

Q. Were you ever provided on April 113th when you were retained or brought in to work -- let me back up. Were you brought in by Mr. Milton to assist him?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was because he was engaged in other matters when Mr. Newman presented this list; would that be fair to say?

Page 275.

A. That would be an assumption.

Q. Well, I am assuming but I am asking you if that would be correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So you were never given, am I correct, any other background, you were simply told or assigned to work with Mr. Newman and review these addresses?

A. Correct.

Q. Would that be correct? And you did that for two days until you found the person you were looking for?

A. Yes.

Q. How many hours did you spend on this, sir?

A. Total?

Q. With regard to locating Miss Jones?

A. I will say roughly... anywhere from 19 to 23 hours.

Q. Now, was your time billed directly to the defense or did Mr. Milton bill for your time, if you know?

A. I don't know.

Q. Are you paid by Mr. Milton or do you work as an independent contractor?

A. Mr. Milton.

Page 276.

Floyd Jackson - Cross

Q. And at what rate are you paid by Mr. Milton, sir?

A. It varies.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object to what kind of income or salary he makes.

THE COURT: She didn't ask him about his salary.

MR. WILLIAMS: She just asked him what --

THE COURT: What does he pay him.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is about his income.

THE COURT: It is not about his income.

MR. WILLIAMS: I object to that question: It's irrelevant.

THE COURT: Okay. If it is irrelevant what are you objecting for?

MR. WILLIAMS: Because it's irrelevant, that's why I am objecting.

MS. FISK: I will make life easy for Counsel, I will withdraw that question.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Ms. Fisk.

MS. FISK: You're very welcome, Counsel.

Page 277.

I have no further questions of Mr. Jackson, your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Just very briefly, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Once you got the addresses, Mr. Jackson, I take it that you acted on that information very quickly?

A. Yes.

Q. Immediately, in fact?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were directed to go to these addresses with Mr. Newman?

A. Correct.

Q. And that was because Mr. Milton was not available in your office, right?

A. Correct.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

THE COURT: You said that you had what, five addresses you went to on the 14th of April?

THE WITNESS: I believe so. I believe there was five. I'm not --

Page 278.

THE COURT: All right, did you go to those other four before you went to the one where her mother lives?

THE WITNESS: The five addresses were in Pennsylvania.

THE COURT: Oh. Did you go there first before you went over --

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: You want there first?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: And then you went over to Jersey to the one address that you had in Camden?

THE WITNESS: There was more than one address in Camden.

THE COURT: Well, how many addresses did you go to in Camden?

THE WITNESS: I believe it was three.

THE COURT: All right. Did that include the one with her mother?

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: Or in addition?

THE WITNESS: It included it.

THE COURT: It included that. So you

Page 279.

Floyd Jackson - Recross

went to two other addresses before you went to her mother's place?

THE WITNESS: Actually, one turned out not to be a residence.

THE COURT: Okay, then you went to the other one before you went to the mother's house?

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: Why didn't you go to the mother's house first?

THE WITNESS: We had no idea it was the mother's house.

THE COURT: Well, what was on that paper that lead you to that address, what did it say?

THE WITNESS: If I could recollect in my memory, it had just various addresses or locations that were probable as a residence for the subject in question.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And you have no idea --

THE COURT: Go ahead, go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 280.

Floyd Jackson - Recross

Q. You have no idea how those were developed by Mr. Newman or when they were obtained by Mr. Newman; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Is Mr. Newman here today?

A. No, he's not.

THE COURT: Is that it?

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, just as we close: Tomorrow ---

THE COURT: Wait a minute.

You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

MR. WEINGLASS: For tomorrow, we would ask the District Attorney to provide us with the address of Cynthia White, who we would like to call tomorrow. She is a key witness.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't have anything on the Order about Cynthia White.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, it is a full factual record on Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: I don't have anything about Cynthia White. Now, if you wanted to call Cynthia White you go back to the Supreme Court.

Page 281.

MS. FISK: And, Your Honor, I could make it easy: I don't have an address for Cynthia White.

THE COURT: You don't have it?

MS. FISK: No, sir.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: So much for the District Attorney's cooperation in producing witnesses.

THE COURT: If vou want to do what you want to do, Counselor, go up to the Supreme Court, let them tell me what they want you to present.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do want to state that we are still and we have been looking for Cynthia White.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Over many months.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we are not getting any cooperation from the District Attorney. And when we find her we will produce her. We were hoping to produce her tomorrow.

THE COURT: You will first take it up with the Supreme Court. If they want me to hear from Cynthia White, okay. Was she here last time?

MR. WEINGLASS: We could not locate her.

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. WEINGLASS: We were trying to locate her throughout. She was virtually unfindable.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I inquire just for the convenience of the officers who I may bring back tomorrow whether the defense anticipates putting up any additional witnesses tomorrow so I can determine in terms of --

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: How many?

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Three or four witnesses.

THE COURT: Who are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: I would assume it would be a half a day's testimony.

THE COURT: Well, who are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: They are Mr. Michael

Page 283.

Bell from San Diego, Mr. Newman's associate, who did the computer search and developed and provided the final information indicating Veronica Jones' residence.

THE COURT: Okay, who else?

MR. WEINGLASS: There will be a gentleman named George Edwards who provided information on Veronica Jones' whereabouts in New Haven, Connecticut, which was followed up on because we had a photo of that Veronica Jones and a history and it indicated to us before the PCRA hearing that we had located Veronica Jones. It turned out to be a false lead.

We have subpoenaed witnesses named Joseph Brignola and a witness named Lamont Anderson.

THE COURT: Joseph...?

MR. WEINGLASS: Joseph Brignola is a licensed investigator and Lamont Anderson is a licensed investigator.

THE COURT: Joseph what?

MR. WEINGLASS: Brignola.

MS. FISK: B-R-I-G-N-O-L-A.

THE COURT: I thought V, I thought you said Vig.

Page 284.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Brignola. And Lamont Anderson.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. And another gentleman named Mr. Childs, who is another licensed investigator. In other words, we have three licensed investigators in this area, plus the computer specialist from San Diego. Plus we have a long declaration for the Court from Michael Newman who is testifying now under subpoena in a proceeding in California and could not be here, but has provided us with a declaration with an exhibit appended concerning his work which preceded the work of the witness who you heard from today.

MS. FISK: I can advise Counsel now that the Commonwealth will not agree or stipulate to a declaration that the Commonwealth has not had an opportunity to cross-examine and would object to any declaration being offered.

THE COURT: Well, you will have the other, his assistant, won't you?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will have his assistant.

Page 285.

THE COURT: Well, then.

MR. WEINGLASS: If the assistant is permitted to testify on the basis of hearsay.

THE COURT: What he did, sure.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, the assistant will have the declaration with him, the original, and we will be offering it into evidence.

THE COURT: They can't cross-examine a piece of paper.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the witness is under subpoena testifying in another matter. He can not be available. He is from California. But we do have his assistant, and we have his assistant bringing a declaration.

THE COURT: I know, but a declaration, she can't cross-examine that.

MR. WEINGLASS: We offer the declaration as the only available evidence we have from a witness who is in California.

THE COURT: Well, sorry about that.

MS. FISK: It is absolutely remarkable that last summer when Counsel's witnesses were unavailable they were here each and every day requesting continuances of proceedings because the witnesses were unavailable. Quite to the contrary, now we learn half way through this proceeding that they have a witness who was unavailable yet they have never sought to continue the matter, they are simply seeking to admit what they want to admit in writing.

I am simply advising Counsel that we would object to any hearsay and we will object to any testimony we can't cross-examine.

THE COURT: You can't cross-examine a piece of paper.

MR. WEINGLASS: We hereby request a continuance that Michael Newman could be brought to Court.

THE COURT: You better get him down here fast.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, he is in Court today and tomorrow.

THE COURT: What am I supposed to do? You are in Court today.

MR. WEINGLASS: You could grant us a continuance so he could be here.

THE COURT: Continuance to when?

MR. WEINGLASS: I think he could probably be here early next week.

Page 287.

THE COURT: Oh, come on. Hey, they said I am supposed to have this hearing within 30 days and I am supposed to make my decision within 30 days. I can't do it for his convenience.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not a question of his convenience.

THE COURT: Yes, it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was subpoenaed in other cases and he can not be here.

THE COURT: Counselor, it is something that I can't correct for you, I'm sorry.

MR. WEINGLASS: Then would the Court be willing to hear from Michael Newman?

THE COURT: Now.

MR. WEINGLASS: He can't come in tomorrow, he is in Court. We ask for a continuance, a reasonable continuance so he can be here.

MS. FISK: And my position, Your Honor, is that is untimely when Your Honor scheduled this hearing two weeks ago. It certainly would have been appropriate at that time for Counsel to notify the Court that day or perhaps the day after when they learned of the witness' unavailability that several days were needed. But at the time now other witnesses have come, including Mrs. Faulkner, who has flown here from California. It is unreasonable to delay this case further.

THE COURT: I don't think what he is going to say is important: He will have his assistant here to tell us what he did, that will be sufficient. Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, there is more to what was done than what the assistant did. The assistant is the commuter specialist in San Diego. Mr. Newman came here --

THE COURT: He is the expert who found the address, right?

MR. WEINGLASS: But Mr. Newman is the one who came here and attempted to locate Veronica Jones. He did that before the PCRA hearing.

THE COURT: I understand that. But the computer guy is the one who found the address.

MR. WEINGLASS: That is correct, but we are --

THE COURT: But Newman didn't have to come down here, he could have mailed them this information and they could have gone out and checked it. Okay, tomorrow. Let's go with whatever you have.

MR. WEINGLASS: I would like a date if I could get one for Mr. Newman to testify.

THE COURT: You do what you want, but the Supreme Court has given me a limit and I am going to go by that limit. If you want to go back up to the Supreme Court and ask them to please give you another extension --

MR. WEINGLASS: It would be necessary to get Mr. Newman's testimony to reapply to the Supreme Court for an additional remand.

THE COURT: Counselor, you have gone up there without asking me, you could go up there again without asking me. I don't care what you do.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are asking you for a continuance so we could bring him in.

THE COURT: I am telling you I am not going to give you a continuance because I'm obligated to start this case today and finish it as soon as I can, and within 30 days I have to give a decision. He has to get the records transcribed. And they have to have all of this within 30 days. What do you think I am, I could do that in five minutes?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we could bring him in here next Monday.

THE COURT: You bring him in here before next Monday.

MR. WEINGLASS: What date would the Court suggest?

THE COURT: Tomorrow.

MR. WEINGLASS: He could not be available tomorrow.

THE COURT: That is your problem.

MR. WEINGLASS: What about Friday?

THE COURT: That is your problem. If you want to go to the Supreme Court and say we need this guy and we can't get him until next week, and they want to continue it to next week, it doesn't bother me.

MR. WEINGLASS: We have to make a continuance.

MS. FISK: Would the record reflect that it is only for the first time at 4:30 p.m. on this first day of the hearing that Counsel has ever made an application to the Court for a continuance because of the unavailability --

MR. WEINGLASS: We thought his declaration would suffice.

THE COURT: You know that's not.

MS. FISK: I believe they are well aware of the law, Your Honor, and know very well that Counsel is permitted to cross-exam --

THE COURT: They can't cross-examine a written statement. All right, see you tomorrow, then.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands adjourned until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning at the call of the Crier.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

MR. WILLIAMS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WILLIAMS: The defense calls Michael Bell.

Michael Alan Bell, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

MR. WILLIAMS: May I inquire, Your honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 4.

Q. Good morning, Mr. Bell.

A. Good morning.

Q. You live in San Diego?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And did you fly in just to testify in this matter?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What do you do for a living?

A. I'm a private investigator.

Q. Since when?

A. October of 1993.

Q. Where are you presently working?

A. Tactical Investigative Services.

Q. And where is Tactical Investigative Services? Could you speak into the microphone also.

A. Sure. Located in San Diego.

Q. A little closer to the mike.

A. We are located in San Diego.

Q. San Diego?

A. Yes.

Q. And who owns and operates Tactical Investigative Services?

A. George Michael Newman.

Q. Is he your boss as well?

A. Yes.

Page 5.

Q. Now let me ask you this. When did you begin work on the Jamal case? When I say you I mean your office, Tactical Investigative Services.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object to your office on the basis of hearsay and would ask that it be limited to him.

THE COURT: Well, if he knows.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. When did the office begin work?

A. Roughly late June, first part of July of 1995.

Q. Now I am going to focus your attention exclusively to the work performed by Tactical Investigative Services with respect to Veronica Jones.

A. Okay.

Q. Do you understand?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. It is exclusively related to Veronica Jones. When did the search begin within your office in San Diego for an individual who may have the name Veronica Jones?

A. The first search I believe was conducted July 5th, 1995.

Q. On July 5th, 1995 --

MS. FISK: Again, Your Honor, I would object. If the witness is testifying on the basis of records he has reviewed I would object, unless the search was conducted by this witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think I can satisfy Miss Fisk with the very next question.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And when you say the office began it's search for a person who may be known as Veronica Jones, what was done?

A. We received from Mr. Weinglass the name of an individual, Veronica Jones, a date of birth, and a possible Social Security number. The Social Security number was utilized to obtain any further addresses. One address was located in New Haven, Connecticut.

Q. And did you play any role in that search, using that information provided by Mr. Weinglass?

A. Yes, I did. I personally did the search to develop the New Haven address.

Q. And when you say you personally did the search, why don't you give us an idea of what did you personally do?

A. I just utilized, I just used the Social Security number developed or that was given to us, ran it through what is called a credit header. In that you obtain addresses from the three major credit bureaus without getting into the credit history. That has remained confidential but the addresses are available.

Q. Okay. And when you ran that -- and that is basically a computer search; is that right?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Now, by the way, in receiving this assignment to find a Veronica Jones, or a person who may have that name Veronica Jones, were there any particular difficulties that you and your office were facing --

A. Yes.

Q. -- as investigators? Can you tell the Court what difficulties you were confronted with at the outset?

A. Okay, in general women are more difficult to locate than men.

Q. Can you explain that for us?

A. Due to the fact that they get married, their names change. With respect to this particular subject, there was a time span of 13, 14 years that had passed. In that time the subject may have been married once, twice, any number of times. And in doing so, we did not know if the name Veronica Jones that we initiated with was in fact her real name or, we had known that she was a prostitute, which we didn't know if that was a street name. So the subject in essence was, from the very onset was very difficult. And due to the amount of time pertaining to the subject here, it just enhanced the difficulty in general.

Q. So there is a generic difficulty with women and then --

A. Yes.

Q. -- coupled with that a person who may have a variety of names?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when you did that first computer search with the Social Security number --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- the credit header search, what were your results?

A. We found an individual named Veronica Jones in New Haven, Connecticut.

Q. And what did you do with that information?

A. That information was forwarded back to members of the defense team and a follow-up interview was conducted. Initially we started to locate phone numbers. We did not want, one did not really come up.

Page 9.

Q. Okay, just to make it clear: You have an address for a Veronica Jones in New Haven?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And then you try to get a phone number attached to that address?

A. Correct.

Q. And what was the result of that?

A. And we were unable to determine a phone number without... it was just very difficult to do that. And in turn, in doing that we obtained phone numbers for immediate neighbors. Contact was made with those neighbors in an effort to contact the subject.

Q. Okay, so you basically did searches of the surrounding area of the target location?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was the results from that pursuit?

A. We did not get any information back related to the subject. It had to be taken a step further and a trip was made to Connecticut.

Q. Did somebody from your office go to New Haven, Connecticut in connection with this search?

A. Yes; my boss, Michael Newman.

Q. Michael Newman did?

A. Yes.

Q. And ultimately did this turn out to be a false lead?

A. Yes.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Bell, do you recall approximately when that trip was made by Mr. Newman?

A. Late July of 1995.

Q. Now, did you then receive an additional lead or further information to continue your investigation?

A. Yeah. After realizing that that was a false lead, information came in shortly thereafter of a new name, of a Rhonda Harris, and two new dates of birth. In an effort to locate her at that point in time, now we don't know which name is a real name, if either, or if they are both street names.

Q. Let me stop you there and ask you some questions about what you just said. You had earlier Veronica Jones with a Social Security number and a birth date?

A. Correct.

Q. That was the New Haven pursuit?

A. Correct.

Q. That was a false lead?

Page 11.

Michael Bell - Direct

A. Correct.

Q. Now you're getting another name, a Rhonda Harris?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Was it your understanding that this Rhonda Harris was not a different person but --

A. No.

Q. -- the same person using different names?

A. No, our knowledge was the same person using different names.

Q. Now you had two different dates of birth?

A. Correct. For a total of three.

Q. Three dates of birth now and two names?

A. And two names.

Q. And so you would have a variety of permutations from that?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Because you don't know what date of birth is going where?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you received that additional information, what did your office do next?

A. We have a search available to us that we can run the surname and attach it to just a date of birth. A Veronica and date of birth number one, and

Page 12.

Michael Bell - Direct

search that way for all Veronicas across the country with that date of birth, regardless of their last name. In essence we did six searches total: The three searches for Veronica and three searches for Rhonda using the dates of birth.

Q. Okay. So you have Veronica and the three dates of birth so that is three searches, then you have Rhonda Harris, you do Rhonda with those same three dates of birth?

A. Correct.

Q. So you have six searches with the generic names Rhonda and Veronica?

A. Correct.

Q. By the way, could you explain to the Court why it is that you are just using the first names?

A. Again due to the possibility of marriage was the main reason. And that is, you know, we didn't know which last name she was going by. And we were going to make an effort to locate any viable subjects in any immediate areas of Philadelphia or Camden.

Q. All right, did you do a nationwide search first?

A. Yes.

Q. And I take it then you wanted to be, you wanted to encompass as much as you could nationwide?

Page 13.

Michael Bell - Direct

A. Correct.

Q. And what was the result of that particular computer -- by the way, who did the computer search there?

A. Myself.

Q. And what was your result?

A. The printer kept spitting out paper forever, there was over 80,000 names that were developed.

Q. And throughout the United States?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you, was it realistic with this in excess of 80,000 names to do a search of each one?

A. No, we did not. We identified, extracted roughly a hundred names of people along the Eastern seaboard and then any other kind of states, I think there was a total of 14 states that we've kind of extracted out with major metropolitan cities that would be a lure to prostitution.

Q. So you have 80,000 that encompasses the entire United States?

A. Correct.

Q. And then you winnowed it down to a hundred or so names?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

Page 14.

Michael Bell - Direct

A. Yes.

Q. And those hundred or so names encompass 14 target states?

A. Yes. We did take it a step further. That information was forwarded to the Jamal defense team. We were then asked to just say well can you just look at these areas: Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, Camden and it's surrounding areas within New Jersey. And then two other states, because if they lead into, Connecticut, initially we searched there, and in Maryland.

Q. So you gave the defense team the 14 states and the hundred or so possible addresses?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you were told focus on these four states?

A. Correct.

Q. Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Maryland?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, after making that effort and isolating those four states, what did you do next?

A. Because of the date of birth information that we received, we thought well, let's try and locate the subject's parents. At that time we didn't know

Page 15.

Michael Bell - Direct

names of either her mother or her father. We made a request to both the State Department of Health, Vital Statistics unit in both states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. We did receive information that she was born in one of the two states. Our request for Pennsylvania came back negative, saying that the information was restricted to individuals other than immediate relatives or the subject itself. And we did not get any information from them.

Q. I'm sorry, from which states?

A. Pennsylvania.

Q. Okay.

A. We did get the request back from New Jersey who told us that there was no one named Veronica Jones with the date of birth that we supplied born within the state. And they continued in that respect in further stating that nobody by the name of Veronica Jones was born in the state of New Jersey during the year of 1961.

Q. Okay. Now, did you abandon your search for a person named Rhonda Harris?

A. No.

Q. What did you next do?

THE WITNESS: Jotted a couple notes for sequence purposes.

Page 16.

Michael Bell - Direct

MR. WILLIAMS: If it helps you refresh your recollection. First, if you could for a courtesy show it to the prosecution as to what you're using to refresh your recollection.

THE WITNESS: (Handing to Court Officer).

MS. FISK: Thank you.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: Thank you. Counsel, do you want to see this?

MR. WILLIAMS: No.

MS. FISK: (Handing).

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Newman, before I ask you --

A. Bell.

Q. I'm sorry, Mr. Bell. Before I ask you what you next did, are you speaking with a fresh recollection of what you did?

A. Well, prior to my trip out here I did review documents relating to the searches so I could speak in a cogent and chronological order of the search and what led up to her contact. Umm, that information was forwarded to yourself and other members of the team. And I haven't seen that information since that time.

Q. Okay. Now let's get back to what you and your office next did in this search for the subject. And let me be clear: We are using the term subject because we really didn't know what the name was of this person?

A. Correct.

Q. So you didn't make the assumption that the person's name was in fact Veronica Jones who just may happen to use other names?

A. Correct. I've -- because of the fact that she was a prostitute, the possibility existed that that was a street name. And she may go by any other name out there. You know, Jane Doe, in essence is what we were looking for.

Q. And looking for a Jane Doe I imagine is extraordinarily difficult?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what's the next thing your office did?

A. Information was received back into our office of a Rhonda Harris that lived in, on Hatfield Street, I'm not exactly sure where Hatfield Street is. We researched the property there at that residence and found out an Alberta Welsh owned the property and was believed to be the one that was residing at that property. Contact was made by an individual here in Philadelphia, I believe one of the defense team members, who informed our office that that was not the subject of our investigation.

Q. That Alberta Welsh was not the subject --

THE COURT: What state was that?

THE WITNESS: That I believe is Philadelphia, I'm not exactly sure where Hatfield Street is. Contact was made with the individual at the residence believed to be Alberta Welsh. I did not make the contact.

MS. FISK: For that reason, Your Honor, I object. This is clearly hearsay: Information that other people did and thereafter reported back to Mr. Bell. The fact that it was not the person that they were looking for I believe can be testified to but no specifics.

MR. WILLIAMS: But what I am establishing is a course of conduct. And obviously Mr. Bell needs to know the results of particular searches in order to show what he does next.

MS. FISK: My point, Your Honor, is the fact that the individual they were seeking was not at that address makes that point, but not any details with regard to that contact unless this person made that contact or was present when that contact was made.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, Mr. Bell, when you learned that this Hatfield address was another false lead for a Rhonda Harris, did you exhaust your search -- did you stop your search --

A. No.

Q. -- for Rhonda Harris there?

A. No, that just kind of enhanced it at that point. We knew that Rhonda Harris did exist in the area. And we completed another computer search just on the name Rhonda Harris and found two names of Rhonda Harris with addresses in Philadelphia. Those addresses and information was again turned over to Counsel for Mr. Jamal and again word was relayed back to myself that those were not the subjects of the investigation.

Q. Now, after learning that the searches for a Rhonda Harris in Philadelphia produced no positive results, what did you and your office do next?

A. We then received two Social Security numbers, one under the name of Veronica Jones, one under the name of Rhonda Harris. Those Social Security numbers were utilized to develop address information, three addresses under each name. Three addresses for Veronica Jones, three addresses for Rhonda Harris were developed.

Q. Okay, so you were getting Social Security numbers and dates of birth from the very outset and you're still getting --

A. Yes.

Q. -- new numbers to crunch?

A. Yes; these were completely different numbers than what was originally given to us.

Q. Now, because you are getting new numbers to crunch through the computer to find this person, were you abandoning the old numbers or did you just keep those in mind?

A. We held onto them but every time something new came up, that was what we focused on. But no, we did not abandon it, we kept it aside for any later perusal if necessary.

Q. Okay. And you said you got three addresses for each, each person, each Veronica Jones and each Rhonda Harris?

A. Correct. Well, three addresses associated with that Social Security number.

Q. Okay. And do you recall what states those addresses were in?

A. I believe Veronica Jones was Camden and Rhonda Harris was... either Philadelphia and I think one in Maryland.

Q. Okay. And with that, what did you do with that information?

A. That was again turned over to members of the defense team. And again we were told that the Veronica Jones addresses were invalid, that the individual contacted there denied being the subject.

MS. FISK: Again, Your Honor, I object to the hearsay. Whether or not they were the accurate addresses --

THE COURT: Well, there is no jury here: I will --

MS. FISK: Fine, Judge.

THE COURT: I will disregard it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now let me ask you at this point: You have mentioned that you got word back at each step in your investigation that the leads developed from the computer searches resulted in negative findings?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And I take it, is it your understanding that you provided addresses and that somebody would visit those addresses?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. All right. As an investigator, when somebody goes to visit an address and they're told, a person, an investigator is told that particular subject doesn't live there or can't be found there, does that necessarily satisfy an investigator that indeed that person can't be located there?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Would that satisfy you in your capacity as an investigator doing these computer searches of --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He was doing computer searches, not knocking on doors.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Let me ask you this way. You said you retained the files or the information of these computer searches, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you set those aside because the searches were fruitless?

A. Correct.

Page 23.

Michael Bell - Direct

Q. In your capacity in investigating Veronica Jones or Rhonda Harris, the subject, were you personally convinced that indeed the subject would not be at any of those addresses?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes to his state of mind as an investigator.

THE COURT: It is not important. This guy is, he operates with a computer. He puts in whatever information he has and it comes back. He gives it to someone else to investigate it. What they do with it, he doesn't know.

MR. WILLIAMS: I agree. What I am asking --

THE COURT: And I don't want him to guess as to what the answer is.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am not asking him to speculate as to what other people do.

THE COURT: Well, that's what you're asking.

MR. WILLIAMS: Then I apologize. Let me make it very clear.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 24.

Michael Bell - Direct

Q. I want to focus on what you do and judgments that you make, okay. Do you understand that, Mr. Bell?

A. Yes.

Q. First of all, in working at the computer and doing these searches, is a certain amount of judgment required on your part?

A. Yeah.

Q. And in evaluating the information that you have, did you satisfy yourself or were you absolutely convinced that all of the addresses that were visited in the past that produced negative results, as far as you understood, wouldn't have to be revisited?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He gives whatever he has to somebody else and whatever they do with it, that's it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I think the Court has a grievous misunderstanding of what I am driving at.

THE COURT: He is only a computer man.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, it requires a considerable amount of judgment as to what to enter.

THE COURT: He puts it into the

Page 25.

Michael Bell - Direct

computer and whatever comes out comes out.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, it takes judgment as to what to enter into the computer.

THE COURT: Well, what you people give him. Whatever information you give him, he puts it in.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT: Are you going to tell me the computer lies now.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, Mr. Bell, after those six addresses were checked based upon the two new Social Security numbers and found that searches there were fruitless, did you take any other steps?

A. Well, at least Veronica Jones, the addresses that were, or where the information came back to us it was fruitless, with respect to the three addresses for Rhonda Harris, information was related back to us that those were relatives at those addresses. And that the relatives had made mention of, that they, that the Rhonda Harris that they had known has an extensive criminal history. With that in mind we requested criminal and civil records to be researched in both Camden and Philadelphia.

Page 26.

Michael Bell - Direct

Q. Go ahead.

A. The criminal records did not come back immediately. The civil records did. And an address -- an individual named Rhonda Harris bearing an address in Camden was located. Again that information was turned over to Counsel.

Q. Now, we are not talking about a duplicative addresses that we received earlier?

A. No.

Q. So we are compiling a file of numerous addresses here?

A. Correct.

Q. And with this file of numerous addresses, as you are getting word from people that you are getting negative results at these addresses, are you just discarding those old addresses?

A. No.

Q. Why, why are you retaining them?

A. Again for perusal later. If need be. Anything that was related to the subject was retained.

Q. Now, after getting this new Camden, New Jersey address for a Rhonda Harris, what results were produced from that?

A. Again that it was negative.

Page 27.

Michael Bell - Direct

Q. And did you complete your investigation at that point?

A. At that point in time the name of Louise Tatum was developed and forwarded to us.

Q. So now you're getting a third name?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay.

A. As far as abandonment, no, we did not abandon the names of either Veronica Jones or Rhonda Harris, but set them aside to focus now on the third name.

Q. Am I correct, it seems as if as you're moving along you're increasing the complexity of your search?

A. Yes, very much so. Because at that time then we had three names. And again we don't know if those are the subject's real name or not. Or a name, again, that was possible, you know, six, seven to 14 years later.

Q. And with this new name of Louise Tatum what did your office do?

A. Because of the knowledge that the subject that we had was a prostitute and the possibility existed that this may be a street name, we looked up any Tatum that began, whose first name began with the letter L. In that search, you know, we came up with

Page 28.

Michael Bell - Direct

Larry Tatums and Lawrence Tatums and things along those lines, but we also came up with female names in the area. I think there was a Lois, a Lucene -- I hope I pronounce that one correct -- and Lolita. And those were all either in the Philadelphia or Camden. Or in the surrounding areas. And those were, once we realized that those names in that area were developed, we took those names a step further in an attempt to get a date of birth, their address and phone numbers. And once that was done, again the information was forwarded back to Counsel.

Q. And here again is another instance of increased complexity as you're going along?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you then receive additional information from the defense team that provided you with further leads?

A. Yeah, shortly thereafter we had a, our initial request for criminal searches had come back. We had handwritten notes from someone from the defense team that had checked criminal and civil records in Philadelphia and Camden. And they took it a step further from our initial request of just Rhonda and Veronica to include Louise Tatum. And once that information was taken, we extracted pertinent information out of that handwritten notes. New dates of birth were developed. New names were developed, new Social Security numbers were developed out of there. Addresses, both residence and work. We in turn took the Social Security numbers and tried to develop addresses from this. I believe two new Social Security numbers were developed, plus there was one Social Security in the files that we had had previously.

We ran all three of those Social Security numbers to obtain addresses. One of them came back to a Dorothy Oliver with no hint of a Veronica. Even though it came back to a name that we had never seen before, we didn't discard it, it was still a viable lead and somebody that had to be contacted.

Q. Because at this point you still don't know who the subject is?

A. Correct.

Q. So now that is increasing the complexity once again?

A. Correct. The second Social Security number came back to a Ulanda Bermudes, I think she was down in Florida. And then the third one again was a Veronica Jones. And that was one that we had previously but because of the time that had passed since the initial run, we thought this, the new address might have come up in there. And all of that information was forwarded back to Counsel, who again said no. At that point in time I had a stack of papers --

Q. Mr. Bell, let me ask you this before I ask you the next question.

A. Sure.

Q. Pardon me for interrupting you.

A. Sure.

Q. But can you tell us when you really got down to it, to the serious searches, serious computer searches that you were doing towards the end of the investigation, about how many names were you dealing with that you would focus on?

A. Roughly a dozen, I would say twelve or so names.

Q. And how many dates of birth?

A. About nine.

Q. And then how many Social Security numbers?

A. I think there were six total.

Q. And am I right about this, that you have twelve, nine and six?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you have all kinds of permutations of those?

A. Yes.

Q. We don't know what date of birth and what Social Security numbers go together?

A. No.

Q. So it's some whatever figure it is, if you do the math?

A. Yeah.

Q. It's huge?

A. I didn't do it but yeah.

Q. It's huge?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you've got all this information and you said something about you had a stack of papers?

A. Yeah. Umm, because the last Social Security number was becoming like maybe that we were kind of chasing our tail and going in a circle here -- some of the latest information that we developed was duplications of searches that we had done previously -- I took the stack of papers and I just basically told myself the subject, no matter what her name, date of birth, et cetera, is, it's got to be in this stack somewhere.

Q. This is a gut instinct on your part?

A. Yeah, it was because of the fact that we had gone through the full circle. I took them home and laid them out from end to end in the living room, some on chairs, some on tables, some on the floor, just spread everything out. I was literally walking up and down the room saying, pulling out here is a name, here is an address, and basically setting a category for everything. Cross referencing back and forth. This name is connected. Well, here she uses this name and this address, but here it's the same address but a different name. And I started linking things together.

Q. It's like a big jigsaw puzzle?

A. Yes. Yes, it is. Umm, in doing so I just sat down on the computer, I would make a connection, go to my computer, type it in so I could look at it in a cogent order on paper. Finally, when all that was done, I forwarded a list of addresses, a list of Social Security numbers, things that I thought, you know what, this has, this has to be the most viable leads. I think they winnowed out six Social Security numbers down to four possibilities.

The same thing with the names and the dates of birth. These are the ones that keep coming up the most often in all the papers that were laid out. That again was forwarded back to Counsel and searches were made back here and she was found in that stack of paper.

Q. So you were right after all?

A. Yes.

Q. I imagine it was a gratifying feeling on your part?

A. Very much so.

Q. By the way, we're talking about communications from your office in San Diego to the defense team and back and forth. What kind of turnover time are we talking about? I mean were people sitting on things for weeks on end?

A. No, at least I don't perceive them to have been sitting on things. There was about a three to four week, some period between the searches, sometimes longer, depending on what was happening back here. The information we would send them, it would take them time to go out and do them and then develop the new leads. And that was I think the cause for the distance and time between the searches.

Q. So you do the searches, they go out and do the leg work and you have to wait a while?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you got the information how long did you sit on the information before you started to plug it into the computer?

A. At the most a day. Generally it was immediately. But --

Q. So on your end you're doing this stuff immediately?

A. Yeah, if I had another case and I was out of the office, I couldn't do it, and I just put it off until the next morning. But generally a day.

Q. Okay. You weren't putting things in file cabinets?

A. No.

Q. And waiting around?

A. No.

Q. By the way, did you work with your boss on this particular assignment?

A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Newman played an active role with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And was there a, was there something about the search for Veronica Jones that had importance to your office?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 35.

Q. That bore on the vigor in which you investigated this case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes directly to the issue.

THE COURT: No, he could tell us how fast he worked on it. He has already told you that: At the most a day.

MR. WILLIAMS: The most a day.

THE COURT: Yes, that he waits before he puts it in the computer.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Was it important --

THE COURT: The computer does all the work, you know.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Bell, was it important for your office to locate this woman?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I assume that they were hired and this was a job.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, there is more to it. There is more to it.

MS. FISK: Whether or not there is more to it is not relevant. It is for the Court to determine based on the description of the work done by the witness the degree of diligence.

THE COURT: That's right, he already told you he never wasted more than a day.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Was it true, Mr. Bell, that this was just some assignment?

MS. FISK: Objection Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: She makes the representation, Your Honor, that this is --

MS. FISK: No, I don't --

MR. WILLIAMS: This is just an assignment.

THE COURT: It is just an assignment to him.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is not true.

THE COURT: He has a personal interest in this case?

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: Do you have a particular personal interest on this case?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 37.

On this particular assignment? With this assignment, yes.

THE COURT: What is your personal interest?

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Newman constantly writes articles and has them published.

MS. FISK: You see, this is not his personal interest.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is his personal interest because it has to do with his boss, his office.

THE COURT: Well, his boss.

MR. WILLIAMS: I would like him to complete his answer. Ms. Fisk may not like it.

THE COURT: I don't care whether she likes it or not, I am interested only in what he did.

MR. WILLIAMS: His interest --

THE COURT: No, he has no interest here. Come on.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, you asked the question, he is entitled to answer it.

THE COURT: He did answer it. He is telling me somebody else has an interest.

MR. WILLIAMS: He was interrupted.

Page 38.

THE COURT: What he did.

You put it in the computer, did you, and you put it in there as soon as you could, and the computer spits back whatever it has, that's all you do?

THE WITNESS: In a very simplistic manner, yes, but it does go beyond that, though.

THE COURT: You could have had an operator here in Philadelphia do the very same thing.

MR. WILLIAMS: It goes beyond that, sir.

THE COURT: It goes beyond that?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what he just said.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am sustaining the objection. Come on, now.

MR. WILLIAMS: To your own question.

THE COURT: To my own question because he can't, he has no personal interest.

MR. WILLIAMS: You asked him, he was going to explain.

THE COURT: No, he is going to explain his boss's personal interest. I don't care whether his boss has a personal interest.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let me ask the question, if it is not responsive then strike it.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't make a finding of fact based on what he believes in the case. It is what he did.

MR. WILLIAMS: You asked the question, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I asked the question, I wanted to see if he would tell me the truth. He really personally has no interest in it.

MR. WILLIAMS: You didn't allow him to answer. I suspect the Court is afraid of the answer.

THE COURT: No, I am not afraid of any answer.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's hear it.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Are you afraid of the answer?

THE COURT: For what purpose?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, how do you know the purpose unless you hear the answer. You ask the question.

Page 40.

THE COURT: Counselor, all I am interested in is what work he did on the subject. I am not going to go into any philosophical viewpoint of anybody, a witness such as him.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking the witness to answer Your Honor's question and I ask the Court not to be afraid of the answer.

THE COURT: Counselor, we don't have a jury here.

MR. WILLIAMS: Exactly, so why not hear the answer: There is no jury to taint?

THE COURT: Counselor, I made a ruling, you can take it up on appeal, okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: I just regret that the Court --

THE COURT: I am not afraid of any answer.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's hear it.

THE COURT: Counselor, if you keep arguing with me you're going to go out of the case. I am not going to stand here and argue with you all day. I made a ruling, that's it. You have an automatic exception to any ruling that I make. I don't have to explain it to you

Page 41.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, with that threat and the threatening gesture I have concluded my questioning.

MR. BURNS: Let the record show there was no threatening gesture. Let the record show that Counsel has been shouting at the Court for the past 10 minutes.

THE COURT: You were shouting.

MR. WILLIAMS: I had to make myself heard because Your Honor --

THE COURT: All right, you had to make yourself heard. I heard you and I have ruled on it.

Okay, let's cross-examine. Let's get finished here. We will be here for a year trying this case.

MR. WILLIAMS: Maybe Miss Fisk will ask what interest he has, or perhaps she is afraid also.

MS. FISK: I promise Counsel that I will ask relevant questions, as opposed to questions that deal with nothing about the truth of the matter involving this case, which is all that Counsel has been interested in propagated throughout these proceedings.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, if history is any guide, I don't think the questions will be all that relevant.

MS. FISK: Just watch.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Bell, are you from Philadelphia, sir?

A. No, I am not.

Q. You are from San Diego?

A. Correct.

Q. And you have been a private investigator you have told us in San Diego since 1993?

A. Correct.

Q. What is your training as a private investigator, Mr. Bell?

A. I did have some schooling in criminal justice.

Q. And when you say some schooling, you mean what, please?

A. Basically, it is just up to a level of an Associates degree.

Q. So you went to an Associates, a junior college?

Page 43.

A. Correct.

Q. Received an Associates degree in criminal justice?

A. No, I did not receive, I am like six units shy and haven't gone back to school.

Q. So you had about 18 months or so?

A. Yes.

Q. Of college?

A. Yes.

Q. About a year and a half worth of credits in criminal justice?

A. Yes.

Q. That was obtained or received, or concluded when?

A. '92.

Q. All right. In June '92? In September '92?

A. We're probably June of '92. As far as the college. I have gone on to professional training with the California Institute of Professional Investigators. And I have certified training with them.

Q. Is that training you gained after beginning work in October of 1993?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. From the time you completed your college credits in '92 until you began about a year and a half later, what employment did you have, sir?

A. I worked while going to school, I was employed in a grocery store in a management position. I left that to pursue a career as an investigator and worked for a separate company prior to working for Tactical Investigative Services.

Q. And what kind of work did you do for that company?

A. The same: Criminal and civil litigation.

Q. And when did you start working for that company, sir?

A. In 1993. I was only there for a short period of time. The owner shortly was involved in four or five very large cases and needed some back-up. Once those cases were concluded, she scaled down her business in order to go to law school.

Q. And did you start working for that person in October 1993?

A. Yes.

Q. From the time you finished college in, or stopped attending college in June 1992, until the time you started working for this woman in October '93, during that period what did you do, sir?

A. From -- wait. Repeat that one.

Page 45.

Q. You said that while you were in college you worked in a grocery store in a management position?

A. Correct. I continued that after.

Q. All right. So after you finished attending --

A. Yes, I went straight from the grocery business into investigations.

Q. Thank you. Okay. Then after that you worked for this woman for some months?

A. Yes, it's approximately three-and-a-half, four months.

Q. You began then to work for Tactical Investigative Services?

A. There was a period roughly two months where I was employed by both. The first employer was my primary employer but when she did not have work I would pick up work with Tactical.

Q. Now, during this period of time you said you also received investigative training?

A. Correct.

Q. What kind of computer training did you receive, sir?

A. From a computer aspect, training from the computer companies themselves. When we would contract with the service they would have somebody come down and train us on how to use the equipment.

Page 46.

Michael Bell - Cross

What would facilitate a search and what would be unnecessary searches for any given search required.

Q. Now, what particular knowledge or expertise did you have with regard to the Philadelphia area?

A. Excuse me, I...

Q. What particular knowledge or expertise did you have regarding the Philadelphia area?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object to that as vague and ambiguous. When you say what particular knowledge about the Philadelphia area, do you mean about the Philadelphia Eagles? I don't know. Could we be a little more precise?

THE COURT: Could you rephrase your question.

MS. FISK: Certainly.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. What knowledge did you have regarding the criminal justice system in Philadelphia?

MR. WILLIAMS: Again vague and ambiguous.

THE COURT: That is not ambiguous.

MR. WILLIAMS: How calender calls are made here?

THE COURT: Whether he has any

Page 47.

Michael Bell - Cross

knowledge or not. He could answer that question. It is a simple question. If he has none he has none.

THE WITNESS: As far as particulars to the criminal justice system in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, none.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, you have advised us that your office began to work on this account you said late in June or July 1995; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Other than yourself and Mr, Newman, who else was employed at Tactical Investigative Services? And I don't mean their names, I mean what other persons?

A. We have a staff of approximately six, it varies at times.

Q. Are those persons other support staff, clerical in nature?

A. Six, you know, we have probably about five investigators and one office manager.

Q. All right. Now, from June or July 1995 until the time that the subject you were looking for was located, was your time being billed on an hourly basis?

A. I don't know, I don't get into billing.

Page 48.

Q. So you keep track of your time so that your boss can then appropriately charge the person who has hired him or assigned him to do a job?

A. In general, with other cases, yes.

Q. In this case you did not?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. Yes you did what?

A. In this case I've, I got paid on the time that -- thank you -- that I spend working on a case.

Q. All right.

A. If I spend 30 minutes working on a case I only get paid 30 minutes worth of time for that day.

Q. I see. You are not a salaried employed, then?

A. No.

Q. You are contracted out?

A. Well, I am an employee.

Q. But you're paid only for the specific investigations you do work on, you are not given a flat salary every week?

A. No.

Q. All right, in this case was that in fact the case: Were you paid for the work you did on this case?

A. Yes.

Q. In order to be properly compensated, did you have to keep track of the time and hours you put in on this case?

Page 49.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. All right. From the period of time -- and I thought -- I apologize if you misunderstood -- I thought that was my question -- from the period of time July '95 until the subject was located, did you in fact record the time that you spent in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that time, please?

A. I have no idea. As far as you mean a total time from June until today? I have no idea how much time I spent on it.

Q. Well, did you submit a bill for that time?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object: It is beyond the scope of this case. Because the focus is exclusively on Veronica --

THE COURT: She is asking about this case.

MR. WILLIAMS: On Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Yes, this case.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I apologize if my question was misunderstood. I am talking about the time that you have just testified about, the efforts that you have told us about. Did you understand me to mean that?

Page 50.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. No.

Q. All right, well, let me restate. With regard to the efforts that you have just testified about on direct examination, did you present a bill for that time?

A. I wouldn't call it a bill, I got a time sheet.

Q. Okay. Did you present a time sheet for that time?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many hours did that time sheet reflect?

A. I have no idea. I turn in my time sheet every two weeks. So from June of '95 until today I couldn't even tell you how many two-week periods there are.

Q. You did tell us that before you came here today you had an opportunity to review your file?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. So that you could testify in a cogent manner; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Does your file contain copies of those time sheets?

A. No.

Page 51.

Michael Bell - Cross

Q. You send your only copy to your office, to your boss or your client, you retain no copy for yourself to make sure that you are reimbursed properly?

A. I do but I keep -- the time sheet has, besides it could have anywhere up to 15 different cases that I worked on in any given day.

Q. And what hourly rate were you paid for these services?

A. That I get paid?

Q. You said that you're compensated for the time you put in for each case, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you tell --

A. I get paid --

Q. So you tell somebody how much time you spend and then you're paid for that time?

A. Correct.

Q. Are you paid on an hourly basis?

A. Yes.

Q. At what hourly rate?

A. At $8 an hour.

Q. Is that the rate that you were paid for this investigation?

A. Yes.

Page 52.

Michael Bell - Cross

Q. Now, is that in addition to any hourly rate that Mr. Newman billed, if you know?

A. I have no idea what Mr. Newman bills.

Q. Okay. Now, what you told us is that your search began on July 5th for Veronica Jones and that what you received was a name Veronica Jones, a date of birth, and a possible Social Security number?

A. Correct.

Q. From whom did you receive that information?

A. The information was forwarded to their office into Tactical from Mr. Weinglass or Counsel.

Q. Now, did you ever have an opportunity to determine the source of that information from Mr. Weinglass?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever have an opportunity to find out whether or not there was a person -- well, let me get back. Did you ever have an opportunity to determine whether or not this was a person who had been a witness to a particular event?

A. We were told verbally that she was a witness in a capital case.

Q. Did you request a copy of the notes of testimony of that witness who you were being asked to locate?

Page 53.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. Initially, no.

Q. Would that have been a logical request in an effort to identify or see whether that person in their testimony gave any information as to their whereabouts?

A. Eventually we did request a copy and got that. Initially we did not, we relied on the fact that Counsel had an investigator here and, who does the local work and would exhaust the local aspect of the case. Our involvement in the case was just in a technical sense, computer searches.

Q. Were you ever advised that the person -- I'm sorry -- when you were first retained on July 5th, 1995, were you advised that the person that you were seeking had been in custody in the Philadelphia prison system during the time of her testimony in 1982?

A. No.

Q. Were you ever told that?

A. Not that I know, I'm not sure.

Q. Were you ever advised or -- I'm sorry -- were you advised when you were first retained on July 5th, or when you first began the search on July 5th, 1995, that the witness who you were looking for had an identifiable Philadelphia Police identification number?

Page 54.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. No, initially, no.

Q. I take it, then, you became aware of that at some point?

A. When in the search or in the time span that we spent searching for the subject in this case, Veronica Jones, it was identified and at that point I think that was when we requested the criminal records.

Q. We will get to that in a moment. You told us that the first thing that you did was to use the Social Security number to check the credit headers?

A. Right.

Q. To get the addresses of any persons claiming or using that Social Security number?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, do you also use the name? You just put a Social Security number in?

A. It depends on the type of search that you're doing. If it's just the Social Security number we can use that. Sometimes you have to develop the Social Security number and it goes through this, it's also called a credit header, where I can use the name and the subject's address, in simplistic terms, turn it around, get the Social, feed it back in and let it go.

Page 55.

Michael Bell - Cross

Q. Incidentally, Mr. Bell, did you inquire of Mr. Weinglass or whoever provided the information of the name, date of birth and possible Social Security number as to the manner in which that Social Security number and birth date had been developed?

A. No.

Q. Would it make sense to you that the search that you were conducting would start off from accurate information as opposed to inaccurate information?

A. You always like to hope so.

Q. In addition to hope, as an investigator, were you trained at any time to investigate the source of the information you were being provided to check to see whether, if you could, that was accurate?

A. Are you saying did we go back and check where the information came from?

Q. I'm asking if you even asked where the information came from?

A. No.

Q. So you simply received the name, a date of birth and Social Security number without questioning its source?

A. Correct.

Page 56.

Michael Bell - Cross

Q. And as I understand it, utilizing that Social Security number in a credit header database --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- which is apparently a public database?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Through what database service?

A. There is a multitude of services that all use the same thing.

Q. And which one did you use?

A. I think they're called Tracers. That's all I know about them. I think it's Tracers Business Bureau or --

Q. And do I understand that utilizing that Social Security number and that name and that date of birth you found one person named Veronica Jones in New Haven, Connecticut?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes? I'm sorry, you have to say yes or no.

A. Yes, I'm sorry.

Q. That's all right. Does that mean that there was no other person named Veronica Jones in the United States?

Page 57.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. No.

Q. Who appeared in that computer database?

A. No, it does not mean that. It means that this particular Veronica Jones that was located in New Haven utilized the Social Security number given to us initially.

Q. All right. Now, you told us a moment ago that there was a local investigator, so far as you knew, located in Philadelphia doing local things?

A. Yes.

Q. Nevertheless, when the name Veronica Jones in New Haven came up it was Mr. Newman who flew across the country to see whether that was the person you were seeking; is that accurate?

A. He was coming to the East Coast for personal business anyway. And in doing so he stopped, yes.

Q. And when was it, sir, precisely when the name Veronica Jones in New Haven, Connecticut was developed by you?

A. At roughly the same time frame of July 5th.

Q. Okay. So that was almost immediate?

A. Yes. I mean the search does come back, usually there's, it could take up to an hour to develop the information.

Q. All right. And you told us that that name was developed on July 5th and Mr. Newman flew to New Haven in late July to determine whether or not that was the person you were seeking; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, you then told us -- and if I am chronologically incorrect please correct me -- that thereafter further information came in of a new name and two new dates of birth; is that accurate?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Plain --

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Would I be correct, then, that that would be August of '95, is that your thereafter?

A. I'm not, I don't know -- excuse me -- I don't know when they came in.

Q. Well, how did it come in, the FAX, mail, carrier pigeon, how?

A. I was told verbally.

Q. All right.

A. Here's another name and a couple dates of birth.

Q. And that information is given to you by Mr. Newman?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know from whom Mr. Newman received that information?

A. No.

Q. You have no clue as to where it came from?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any information as to the source of that new information?

A. No.

Q. And did you make any inquiries into the source of it?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask Mr. Newman?

A. No.

Q. And you said that with that new information, do I take it that you were assigned by Mr. Newman to now go to the computer and use whatever databases were available to you to see what information you could generate with these names and these dates of birth?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

A. Yes.

Q. And you told us that you then ran the surname and date of birth; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What database did you use to do that, sir?

A. Various, there's three or four.

Q. Well, did you run them on all four databases or did you run it on one?

A. This particular I think we ran on one; the name of it I'm not aware of.

Q. You are not aware of?

A. It's... I could tell you the abbreviation is DNIS, I don't know what that stands for.

Q. Well, are these the databases that you had received particular technical training in, the training that you were talking about earlier?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And it's called DNIS?

A. That's what I have it listed as, yes.

Q. And is this something that is purchased by the investigative agency?

A. Yes.

Q. And in what manner is this database purchased?

A. I don't, I don't understand in what manner. You mean financially? Yes, a check is --

Q. Well --

A. There is a monthly service to use it.

Q. My question is is it on a CD, do you keep it in your hard drive, are you using a telephone modem to access this database?

A. Oh, okay. Well, with all of the searches utilized there was some that was on a CD-ROM, some that was searched via a modem and the computer.

Q. Now, sir, this search in which you ran the surnames, when did that take place?

A. I don't know the date.

Q. Well, again, was that in the file that you reviewed yesterday so you could chronologically give us an accurate view of what it was that you did?

A. The results of the search were on the, on the results the date was unlisted.

Q. And you have no memory of when you ran this, you don't know if it was August, September, October, November of 1995?

A. No.

Q. No clue at all?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any information or any recollection as to when that information even came in, after the New Haven lead was developed?

A. There was a span of two or three weeks, I think.

Q. Now, you told us that as a result of running the name Veronica with dates of birth and coming up with 80,000 people across the United States, you then, or someone then picked the Eastern seaboard and identified 14 states?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you do that?

A. Umm, myself and Mr. Newman sat down together and said, you know, based on prostitution and what we know of it, this is areas that we could immediately eliminate, you know, Montana or Wyoming, as somewhere that at least in our minds we don't consider to be hotbeds of prostitution.

Q. They don't have prostitutes in California?

A. Yes.

Q. They have prostitutes in Detroit?

A. Yes.

Q. How about Chicago?

A. Yes.

Q. Were those considered in your search?

A. Yes.

Q. I thought you said that you picked the Eastern seaboard and limited it to 14 states? Last I looked, sir, California is not near the Eastern seaboard; correct?

MR. WILLIAMS: That is not his

Page 63.

Michael Bell - Cross

testimony, and she is misstating it.

MS. FISK: It certainly was his testimony, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, it was not.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did you tell us that you picked the Eastern seaboard?

A. I think I stated Eastern seaboard plus other states that lured prostitution.

Q. And you had been told that the person you were looking for had been a prostitute?

A. Yes.

Q. What else were you told?

A. In essence that was it, a prostitute by the name of Veronica Jones and this is a possibility of a date of birth.

Q. Were you ever told that in 1982, that this woman named Veronica Jones testified in a trial that her mother lived in Camden, New Jersey, were you told that in July 1995 when you were hired?

A. No.

Q. Do you think that if you were given that information which came directly from the trial transcript that it would have enabled you to narrow your search considerably, at least initially?

Page 64.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. Our involvement was just on the computers. Again, they had an investigator local that would do the local, and I would consider Camden to be in the local area.

Q. I'm sorry, Mister --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor: The witness is not being allowed to complete his answer. Counsel doesn't like the answer so she cuts him off. He should be given the common courtesy.

MS. FISK: It has nothing to do with liking the answer. The answer is not responsive.

THE COURT: If he is not answering your question move to strike it, I will strike it. Ask the question again --

-- and please answer the question.

MS. FISK: I apologize, Mr. Bell, please finish your answer.

THE WITNESS: I thought I did.

MS. FISK: I believe you did too.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was cut off again in explaining why he didn't finish the answer. He was cut off now.

THE COURT: You are not a witness. He

Page 65.

Michael Bell - Cross

is the witness here. And you're not the attorney involved, he is the attorney behind you. He hasn't objected.

So now come on. Ask the question again.

Please answer the question she asks you.

Ask the question.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Bell, my question of you was whether or not you had been told that the witness had said that her mother was in Camden. You said no because you were only involved with the computer and there were local investigators as far as you knew doing local work, right?

A. Yes, and --

Q. Yes?

A. In that we would go on the assumption that they would have checked the immediate areas to include Camden. And that our involvement again was just on the computers to proceed any further.

Q. Yet your involvement, sir, and as Counsel pointed out in direct examination, also requires you to exercise judgment, that is to determine, for example, when you ran the surname and dates of birth and came up with 80,000 names, to utilize the information that you and Mr. Newman had as investigators to identify the states where you should focus your inquiry; is that correct?

Page 66.

Michael Bell - Cross

A. Correct.

Q. And that was outside the computer, wasn't it? It was using investigatively gathered information to narrow an otherwise enormous computer search; am I correct, sir?

A. Correct.

Q. So you were using information --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor: He was cut off again.

THE COURT: He answered: He said correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was about to say something else.

THE COURT: How do you know what he was about to say?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because I am here and I have ears.

THE COURT: I have ears too. He says correct and that means correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, he started to say something else.

Page 67.

Michael Bell - Cross

THE COURT: You started to say something else?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: What are you going to say?

THE WITNESS: Once the 14 other states were developed, that information was just forwarded back and --

THE COURT: Then you didn't do anything?

THE WITNESS: No.

THE COURT: Well, say it. If you didn't do anything, say you didn't do anything.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. When you say the 14 states were developed, did you and Mr. Newman then send to the persons who had hired you the 14 states that the two of you decided should be looked at?

A. Correct. Yes.

Q. Are you done?

A. Yeah.

Q. And the 14 states that you and Mr. Newman picked were based on yours and Mr. Newman's knowledge as to the primary states where prostitutes worked; is that correct?

A. To our knowledge, you know, yes.

Page 68.

Michael Bell - Cross

Q. Do you have any particular training in prostitution that you and Mr. Newman in San Diego needed to identify those 14 states for the defense?

A. Myself, no. I cannot attest to Mr. Newman's training.

Q. Surely you can not. So you then suggested to defense, or to those who had hired you, that 80,000 people were across the United States with the first name of Veronica and the date of birth that you had. And it was your recommendation to them, I presume --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. --- that they focus on, of those 80,000, the thousands that were in these 14 states?

A. Correct.

Q. And you made Counsel aware, those that had hired you aware that those recommendations were based on the fact that those are the states where you are most likely to find a woman who used to be a prostitute?

A. Yes.

Q. That is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you at that point ask for any additional background information regarding the person you were seeking? And I am not talking about new names, new dates of birth, but information that was known to those who were asking you to find her about the person?

A. It's my understanding that the information that was forwarded to us was all the information known.

Q. And the information forwarded to you was a name, date of birth and a Social Security number?

A. Yes.

Q. You were never told by Counsel the trial transcript showed she had a mother living in Camden?

A. No.

Q. You were never told that because --

A. Not --

Q. I'm sorry, sir, I thought I started my next question. Go ahead.

A. Not initially.

Q. Not initially. When were you told that?

A. I don't know, it was further on, once we already started the search.

Q. When? Your search started July '95 and ended in April '96?

A. Yeah.

Q. According to the testimony we heard yesterday. Can you pinpoint when within there that you were told that she had a mother who lived in Camden?

A. No, I cannot.

Q. Was it towards the beginning, towards the end, or have you no idea at all?

A. I have no idea when we learned of that information.

Q. And you were simply at the mercy of those persons providing you and Mr. Newman that information as to when they chose to give it to you?

MR. WILLIAMS: Objection to the form of the question.

THE COURT: What's wrong with the question?

MR. WILLIAMS: He is not at the mercy of anyone.

THE COURT: Well. Yes, he is to a certain extent. He can only put into the computer whatever information he receives. If you don't give him the proper information, he's never going to get the proper answer.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, then, I take it the District Attorney is also at the mercy of the law enforcement personnel that provide them information. Would that be fair to say?

THE COURT: I am talking about this issue now. I am not talking about law enforcement or anything else.

MR. WILLIAMS: I object to the phrase at your mercy. But with that objection --

THE COURT: Well, cut out the at your mercy.

BY MS. FISK:

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

MS. FISK: I will restate the question.

Q. You were not asking for any additional information, you were assuming that the information being provided to you was all the information that those who were searching for her had; is that correct?

A. I personally did not request any further information as far as any --

Q. As an investigator, is it your training not to ask questions when you are searching for someone?

A. No.

Q. Your training in fact is to ask questions?

A. Correct.

Q. Would that be accurate? But you did not do that in this case?

A. No.

Q. Now, you told us that at some point, and this is after you were provided the 80,000 names in the United States, you received information regarding a Rhonda Harris, or that another name was Rhonda Harris?

A. Correct.

Q. Is that accurate?

A. I think the Rhonda Harris was, Rhonda was involved in the 80,000 also.

Q. I'm sorry.

A. I think the name Rhonda was involved in the 80,000 search as well.

Q. Oh.

A. It was just that a Rhonda, known to have an address was located or was forwarded to us.

Q. So a name you received from again those persons that had hired you to locate the subject, a person named Rhonda Harris and an address?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that a yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know, first of all, who sent that information to you and to Mr. Newman?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was it those persons who had hired you to locate this subject?

A. I would assume so, I do not know.

Q. And who was it who hired you to locate the subject?

A. I wasn't privileged to the initial conversations between anyone involved in this case.

Q. Well, to whom did you submit your time sheets for payment?

A. Mr. Newman.

Q. I thought you told us you were paid directly by the person for whom you were doing the work?

A. No.

MR. WILLIAMS: Objection.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. When the name Rhonda Harris and an address came in to your agency, and you were asked to make further checks based on that, did you ask where that information came from?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask who had developed that information?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask whether the persons providing that information had any other information that they could provide to you now rather than later?

Page 74.

A. No.

Q. Did you ask whether there were records within the jurisdictions that were being searched that could be subpoenaed in an attempt to obtain additional information?

A. No.

Q. Was it your belief, since you were able to figure out where prostitutes worked in various cities in the United States, that persons who worked as prostitutes also receive public assistance so that public assistance records could be checked?

A. I fail to follow you here. Are you asking did we request to have public records researched, or public assistance records researched?

Q. Okay, did you?

A. No.

Q. When was it that you received the information regarding Rhonda Harris on Hatfield Street?

A. I don't know.

Q. You have no idea at all? And what database did you then use to check that name?

A. As far as initially we tried to develop a Social Security number using the name Rhonda Harris and that Hatfield address, which was fruitless. Once we got that information then we tried a separate surname search and a separate database for Rhonda Harris.

Q. Through what database do you put in someone's name and then obtain their Social Security number?

A. That's also through the credit header.

Q. Through the...?

A. Credit header search.

Q. And that is something anybody can do?

A. Yes, as far as my knowledge is, yes.

Q. Is that by subscription or can anyone go to the public library and put in my name and come up with my Social Security number?

A. Subscription.

Q. Now, you said at some later time you received two more Social Security numbers and ran those and came up with three addresses under each Social Security number?

A. Correct.

Q. When did you receive that information?

A. Again, as far as dates are concerned, I can't attest to any dates that we did any of the searches other than the first one.

Q. Were you asked to bring with you from San Diego any of these records so that you could cogently answer questions regarding the searches you made?

Page 76.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am going to object to that. He has been cogently answering me.

MS. FISK: He hasn't been able to provide me with a single date.

MR. WILLIAMS: That doesn't mean it is not cogent.

MS. FISK: It is just vague.

THE COURT: It is vague. It is not precise, that's for sure.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Were you, sir?

A. What?

Q. Asked to bring with you records so that you would be able to precisely testify to what you did and when you did it?

A. No.

Q. You did in fact make yourself a little script sheet writing the order in which searches were made; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. But you did not put on that script sheet the dates on which those searches were made?

A. A great deal of the searches and the information brought back to us did not have dates on them.

Page 77.

Q. A great deal of the searches?

A. The results of the searches didn't have a date attached as far as when the search was made.

Q. Ahh. You did the searches, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you kept a time sheet of the work you were doing, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And the computer programs you were using, I presume, are programs being used by people who want accurate, timely information for whatever it is they are searching; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Would I be correct sir, that nine-and-a-half -- out of ten of these computer companies that you're subscribing with will print on the sheet of paper that you're obtaining the information the date on which this information is being provided so that if you look back at it a year or two later, the subscriber will know as of when that information was accurate?

A. It depends on when you turn the printer on.

Q. You mean you would do the search but not print up the information?

A. No, the information would be printed. Generally, when I would log on to a particular service, it would come up today's date and time. And then it would go through, okay, here is all the new information that we have available to you and stuff that isn't relevant to the search. I don't turn the printer on at that point in time to print out because I'd have a stack of papers that were meaningless to me.

Q. When you would receive the information -- new information, new Social Security numbers, new names, new addresses that came from those persons that had hired you to locate this woman -- were they coming via mail, via FAX, via carrier pigeon, in what fashion were you receiving the information?

A. Back through the computer, through modem.

Q. You were receiving E-mail messages?

A. No.

Q. I'm sorry, maybe you misunderstand me, sir. When you received information from those persons who hired you to find this subject, you would --

A. Oh, okay.

Q. Every time you would receive information from them --

Page 79.

A. Yes.

Q. -- in what manner were you receiving that information?

A. I was always told verbally of information.

Q. Did you ever ask to see in writing the information to make sure that Mr. Newman wasn't dropping a digit when he was giving you a new Social Security number, for example?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever hear of the game -- what is it -- Whisper Down The Lane?

A. In kindergarten.

Q. And you are familiar with how when people continue to repeat a piece of information from one to the next it often times gets changed?

A. Yeah.

Q. And as an investigator was it important to you to make sure that you were receiving the most -- accurate information so that you could properly find a needle in a haystack?

A. When I referred to verbal, there was always handwritten notes: Mike, here is a name, a new date of birth for Veronica. And he would place it into my box.

Q. And these were notes that were in Mr. Newman's hand?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on information that he had received from someone else?

A. Correct.

Q. Apparently via verbal --

A. No.

Q. You don't know?

A. I had no idea how he got the information.

Q. And you have no way of knowing if the information in his note was accurate from the person he received it from?

A. No.

Q. Is that how you generally do business, sir?

A. What do you mean?

Q. In business, don't people write letters to each other, this is what I'm hiring you to do, this is the information that I am giving you, and then you write them back or in some way record the nature of the work you've done for them? Is that generally the practice?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object to generally. Why doesn't she ask who was doing the communicating with the defense team, himself or Mr. Newman. If Miss Fisk wants to know the truth.

MS. FISK: Oh, Judge, I want to know the truth, and that's why I stopped listening to the defense a long time ago.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Can you answer my question?

MR. WILLIAMS: She could always ask him about this case.

THE COURT: She is asking him about this case. If he doesn't know anything, then say I don't know anything.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what I am asking her to ask.

THE COURT: Well, don't con the Court. If you don't understand the question, don't answer it. And if you don't know an answer say I don't know the answer.

Let's go, we will be here forever.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do you generally communicate with your clients in writing so that there is a written log of what you've been hired to do and what it is that you have done for them?

MR. WILLIAMS: There she goes again with the generally.

THE COURT: All right, we have FAX machines too. Did they FAX anything to them?

MR. WILLIAMS: In this particular instance?

THE COURT: Yes, did they.

MR. WILLIAMS: Not generally.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, Counsel on direct examination spent a great deal of time attempting to establish diligence. If in fact this search was conducted differently than in the manner of work that agency generally does, that is relevant to that issue. And for that reason my question about generally as opposed to this case is a proper question.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor sustained an objection where I tried to get this witness to explain why they exercised even more diligence with this particular assignment than others.

THE COURT: That is hypothetical. Ask the question what did he do. All he did was put some information into the computer and wait for it to spit out an answer.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is not true.

MS. FISK: Judge, I will withdraw that question, I will be happy to move on.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do I understand, sir, that at some point after you received the name Veronica Jones, after you received several Social Security numbers, after you received the name Rhonda Harris, that at some point you received yet a third name: Louise Tatum?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. I think January.

Q. Of 1995?

A. '6.

Q. I'm sorry, January 1996. Would it be fair to say that everything you have talked about up to now has occurred before January of 1996?

A. As far as questions that you have asked of me?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes.

Q. How is it that you are able to recall that you received Louise Tatum's name in January of 1996?

A. I think that is one of the documents that did have a date on it. In fact, this was part of my search. At that point Mr. Newman had just forwarded a FAX to me that he had received from Miss Wolkenstein. And I think, I believe the date was mid-January for the FAX. And on that is information pertaining to hey, here is a new name, can we focus on that.

Q. Other than the name Louise Tatum, were you told how that name was obtained, from what source?

A. No.

Q. Did you inquire?

A. Actually, I believe there was, in the same memo that was faxed there was a note of at that point in time I think it was developed in testimony. I do not know which testimony it was but an attorney referred to her as Louise Tatum.

Q. Was this the first time that you learned that the person that you were seeking had in fact given testimony in the past?

A. No.

Q. You had known previously that the subject you were searching for had given testimony in the past?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you ever asked to see that testimony?

A. No.

Q. Now, you also said that at some point -- and I'm following the order in which you testified -- you received additional information by way of handwritten notes?

A. Correct.

Page 85.

Q. From whom?

A. I do not know. Or -- excuse me -- as far as who wrote the notes or who did we receive the notes from?

Q. Well, let me start with where did you get the handwritten notes?

A. They were forwarded to us, to Tactical, by Counsel for Mr. Jamal.

Q. Okay. And these handwritten notes were what, scraps of paper with names and date of birth?

A. In essence, yes, there was just, you know, several 8-by-10 sheets with notes pertaining to each particular case that this individual had viewed.

Q. That what individual had viewed?

A. Whoever was writing the handwritten notes.

Q. And what was your impression as to what it was they had viewed which enabled them to make these handwritten notes?

A. It appeared to be criminal records: It had case numbers and then some notes and then a line and then another case number.

Q. And what kind of criminal records, do you know, had that person viewed?

A. I do not know.

Q. In addition to the various databases that you have testified using, were you familiar with the National Crime Information Computer?

A. I think every investigator knows of NCIC.

Q. Do you have access to that?

A. No.

Q. Are you familiar with the FBI's database listing persons, I don't know what it's called but the fact that the FBI has one?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have access to that?

A. No; I'm not government related.

Q. Can that be accessed by way of subpoena or Court order?

A. I have no knowledge of that, I don't know.

Q. Were you familiar with the fact that the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas has a database which is available to criminal defense attorneys to search?

A. No.

Q. When you were made aware of the fact that there were criminal histories, do you know whether or not any person had checked the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas database to identify names and addresses for the person who was being searched?

A. It was requested and I believe that's how we got the handwritten notes.

Q. Did those handwritten notes contain the outcomes of criminal cases of the persons whose files were checked?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did those outcomes -- I apologize -- did you have something more to say?

A. No.

Q. Did those outcomes include, for example, sentences of incarceration?

A. I believe they did.

Q. Did those outcomes include probationary sentences?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did you make an effort to check the records of those facilities, that is the prisons or the Department of Probation, regarding those persons' sentences to obtain additional information?

A. No.

Q. Did you make that request that that be done?

A. No.

Q. Did you have any reason to believe that it was being done?

A. No. If I could further on that?

Q. Go right ahead.

Page 88.

A. The reason that it was not requested is the cases that were forwarded back to us were dated back to '88, '82, '85, generally the mid eighties. And I believe all of the impositions of sentences, whether incarceration or probation, was for a short period which would have expired by the time we would have had to make the request.

Q. Oh, I understand that, but if, for example, a person in 1988 is placed on probation for two years, would you agree with me that that probation department would have an accurate address up to 1990, because that's when the person was still on probation?

A. I would assume so.

Q. And would that provide some value to you as a person attempting to locate that subject?

A. Yes.

Q. Might that probation record, for example, contain the name of the subject's mother or the subject's children or the subject's means of employment while they are on probation?

A. It's my understanding that probation records are not public information. And I have only available to me public information.

Q. Did you ever request of those persons who had hired you to obtain the assistance of an attorney who could by proper Court subpoena obtain that information?

A. No.

Q. Did you as an investigator suggest to any person that that information could be available and it could be sought by them?

A. Myself, no.

Q. When was it that you took that stack of paper home and laid it across your living room?

A. I think March of this year.

Q. And do I understand that despite all the enormous computer-generated searches that you had conducted, it required you to physically move pieces of paper around your living room for you to develop the stacks that you developed and then send the lists out; would that be correct?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you tell us that you had to start picking up pieces of paper from all across your living room?

A. No.

Q. You didn't tell us that?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you take a stack and start linking things together by picking up a name here and an address here?

A. I believe my testimony is that I would get an address from this piece of paper, cross reference it with an address over here. But as far as taking the papers from each end of the room and putting them together, no.

Q. Now, are you able to tell us, Mr. Bell, what number of hours you billed for this work?

A. No.

Q. Were you paid for it?

A. Yes.

Q. You were paid by Mr. Newman for the work?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you still work for Mr. Newman, sir?

A. Yes, I do.

MS. RISK: Thank you, Mr. Bell.

I have no further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Newman --

A. Bell.

Page 91.

Q. I'm sorry, Mr. Bell. By the way, we don't know each other, do we, other than just meeting last night?

A. Just met yesterday, yes.

Q. Mr. Bell, is it correct that your office and you in particular was doing, was basically doing a nationwide search?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's called I think in your parlance broad searches?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's because you wanted to be thorough; is that right?

A. Correct.

Q. Is it because your understanding is that we live in a very mobile society, that people move around?

MS. FISK: Judge, I object to the leading nature of that question.

THE COURT: You know, you testify very nicely. But let's let him testify. He is on the witness stand.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will take your suggestion.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 92.

Q. Why is it that you decided to do a nationwide search?

A. Because of the history that we knew of Miss Jones here in Philadelphia and Camden as a prostitute. There is a circuit for prostitutes in some circles. You know, where they go up and down the Eastern seaboard or out to California looking for, you know, Hollywood and the bright lights and big sunshine so they don 't have to stand in the snow in January.

Q. Let me ask you this. As far as you understand it, who was making the judgments about when you would focus on a particular locale?

A. My understanding is that Counsel for Mr. Jamal made those decisions. I think we just forwarded the broad-based information that was requested to narrow down to the particular areas.

Q. Did anyone delegate to you that kind of authority?

A. No.

Q. And by the way, during the course of this investigation when you were doing these computer searches, did you personally interact with members of the defense team?

A. No.

Page 93.

Q. And to your understanding, who was doing the personal interaction with the defense team from your office?

A. Mr. Newman.

Q. Okay. And by the way, did you discuss this assignment with Mr. Newman throughout the course of your investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Mr. Newman ever convey information to you about what he was learning from the defense team?

A. Yes; that's the basis of where I got all of my information.

Q. And by the way, you're not the lead investigator in this case by any means?

A. No, no.

Q. You were doing the technical support?

A. Correct.

Q. And so you can't, when you say that you didn't make suggestions to the defense team, nobody delegated for you to make those suggestions, right?

A. No.

Q. If anybody was to make suggestions from your office, is it your understanding it would be Mr. Newman?

A. Correct.

Page 94.

Q. Mr. Newman is far more experienced than you are, I take it?

A. Very much so.

Q. Do you, know the background of Mr. Newman?

MS. FISK: I object, Judge.

MR. WILLIAMS: That was inquired into on direct. She asked that, I think that question about Mr. Newman's expertise.

THE COURT: I don't remember her asking anything about Mr. Newman.

MR. WILLIAMS: She does.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. But do you know Mr. Newman's expertise?

A. In great detail, no. I know he's been in the business for 15 years at least, handled numerous cases. In fact, in the three years that we have worked together we've handled several cases of this magnitude.

Q. And in your office who would you say would be making most of the judgments about what kind of searches should be done and what kind of suggestions should be made to defense Counsel?

A. All suggestions back to Counsel were through Mr. Newman.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

Page 95.

MR. WILLIAMS: Pardon me for one moment.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Is there an investigative association in California?

A. Yes, there is. There are several.

Q. And does Mr. Newman hold an office in --

A. I think I referred to one.

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge. I object.

THE COURT: Okay, now we've had enough about Mr. Newman.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, you do know from your own personal knowledge that Mr. Newman had contact periodically with the defense team?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, he is testifying to that.

THE COURT: How many times are we going to go over this?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Newman, was your office doing any of the leg work?

THE COURT: He is Mr. Newman. Even I know that and I'm 76.

MR. WILLIAMS: Defense team has been working with Mr. Newman, not Mr. Bell.

THE COURT: You should know that is Mr. Bell: He doesn't look like Newman to you.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You have been dealing with Mr. Newman for quite some time; is that right?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And yesterday was the first time we have ever met?

A. Correct.

Q. I apologize. You both have the same first name?

A. Yes.

Q. And I have been referring to you as Mike?

A. It's, we have three Mikes in the office of six so it happens quite regularly.

Q. And we have been talking in terms of, I call you Mike, you call me Dan?

A. Yes.

Q. I apologize. Mr. Bell, the leg work was done in this case by other investigators, not by yourself; is that right?

A. Correct.

Page 97.

Michael Bell - Redirect

Q. But your understanding is that Mr. Newman at certain points did come out to the East coast?

A. Correct.

Q. In part at least for this particular assignment?

THE COURT: For personal reasons.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. In part for this assignment, right?

THE COURT: Personal reasons.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor taking an oath? I could question you.

THE COURT: He said that. The witness here said he came here for personal reasons.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, that was the first time.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Were there other occasions where Mr. Newman came out to the East Coast?

MS. FISK: And to that, Judge, I object. The witness was able to testify about things he knew.

THE COURT: Yes, this is redirect. If you wanted to go into that baloney you should have done that the first time. You could only go into what she brought up that you didn't have a chance to go into.

Page 98.

Michael Bell - Redirect

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I take it Your Honor will then start slicing the baloney rather thin.

THE COURT: Well, if you think it is baloney.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, Your Honor is the one that, said it is baloney at this point.

THE COURT: All right, Counselor.

MR. WILLIAMS: It's very distressing to hear a Court --

THE COURT: It's very distressing when I hear you.

MR. WILLIAMS: -- say it is baloney in the midst of a hearing. I think that's very distressing.

THE COURT: All right, I'm sorry I said baloney, okay. I didn't mean to imply anything to you.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, you said --

THE COURT: Besides, baloney is a good meat. It's not junk, you know. Everybody eats baloney now and then. Baloney and eggs. You know, it's good.

Page 99.

Michael Bell - Redirect

All right, let's go.

MR. WILLIAMS: I was just waiting for Your Honor to complete your discourse on baloney.

THE COURT: Yes, I know. Let's go.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. When you were asked questions about, well, you recall being asked questions about when certain searches were done, and you didn't recall?

A. Yes.

Q. I want to show you a document and ask if it refreshes your recollection to some degree about when certain investigations were done, or certain searches on your part. I am going to show you a document and then I will refer you to a particular page just to expedite matters. I am going to ask you to look at page 6, paragraph 14, or thereabouts.

MR. WILLIAMS: (Handing to Ms. Fisk).

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: (Handing.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Just for the record: The Commonwealth have spent in excess of ten minutes reviewing this document that was the subject of discussion yesterday.

MS. FISK: Oh, Judge, I object to

Page 100.

Michael Bell - Redirect

identifying what the document is. I agree that the witness can use anything Counsel wants to give him to refresh his recollection. But it's not being marked or entered into evidence or certified as accurate beyond being used to refresh the recollection of this witness.

THE COURT: All right, he's got it, let's go.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Bell, in looking at this affidavit of Mr. Newman --

MS. FISK: Judge, I object. My objection is that it would be proper only to ask this witness if upon reviewing the document which is given to him it refreshes his recollection.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. And in looking at this affidavit, page 6, paragraph 14, the sentence beginning by mid August, 1995 -- do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Does that help to refresh your recollection about when much of these searches on the computer were done?

Page 101.

Michael Bell - Redirect

A. I think that relates to the initial search that we had done plus the surname searches pertaining to both Veronica and Rhonda.

Q. Where you got the 80,000?

A. Yeah.

Q. You mentioned on your, on cross-examination that the Louise Tatum aspect of your search was in January of 1996?

A. Yes.

Q. So these computer searches that you were talking about prior to the Louise Tatum aspect occurred in time prior to January of '96?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were asked about your pay and things of that sort. Sir, were you motivated to find Miss Jones --

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge.

THE COURT: Well, I'm sure if he gets paid, for it he is going to be motivated.

MR. WILLIAMS: But there was more motivation than just being paid.

THE COURT: Well, I am not interested in his motivations.

MR. WILLIAMS: We objected yesterday to Miss Fisk --

Page 102.

Michael Bell - Redirect

THE COURT: I know you did.

MR. WILLIAMS: -- asking questions about pay and the offer of proof was that it's relevant -- Your Honor, I just ask you to hear me out. That it was relevant because it goes to the motivation of the witness. I'm simply just inquiring into the motivation of this office.

MS. FISK: I would note, Your Honor, that in cross-examination one gets far greater latitude than in direct examination. This is Counsel's witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just following up on questions about motivation.

THE COURT: Don't follow up on her.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is exactly what redirect is.

THE COURT: No, it isn't.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is follow up on cross-examination. If she inquires into a topic on cross-examination, I am then entitled to then probe into that particular topic. I can't probe into other topics.

THE COURT: I am sure all of us are motivated by pay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Besides more than just

Page 103.

Michael Bell - Redirect

pay.

THE COURT: They don't pay me, I won't be motivated to come in here.

MR. WILLIAMS: I would hope that you would be motivated by a sense of justice, but.

THE COURT: I am motivated but they don't pay me a hundred percent.

MR. WILLIAMS: I understand that.

THE COURT: You do. Then you're sympathetic towards my cause?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Bell, were you motivated in your office, motivated to find Veronica Jones in this particular assignment for reasons other than money?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the additional motivation?

A. Recognition in an article that was to be published with respect to hard-to-find witnesses or individuals.

Q. And Veronica Jones was going to be a case study in how to find hard-to-locate witnesses?

A. Very much so.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

Oh, one moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

Page 104.

Michael Bell - Redirect

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now let me direct your attention to the area of inquiry regarding Mr. Bell -- Mr. Newman traveling to the East Coast on that first search. Page 3, paragraph 6 of Mr. Newman's affidavit.

Does that refresh your recollection about the time frame when Mr. Newman came out to the East Coast?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object to that. That would not refresh his recollection. If this witness has been capable of testifying with regard to the date of that visit, he does not need his recollection refreshed. He testified when that occurred.

THE COURT: The important thing is somebody else wrote this.

MR. WILLIAMS: If it refreshes his recollection.

THE COURT: Yes, if he wrote it I would agree with you. He didn't write it.

MS. FISK: And the difficulty, Judge, is he had no difficulty remembering. He testified to when Mr. Newman came east. He does not have any recollection that needs to be

Page 105.

Michael Bell - Redirect

refreshed. He remembered.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, he prefaced it with maybe.

MS. FISK: Oh.

THE COURT: Oh, well, maybe. That was his testimony, not mine.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Does it refresh your recollection --

THE COURT: I sustained the objection, Counselor.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking a new question.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that Mr. Newman came out to the East Coast in early July of 1995?

A. I knew he came out in July, shortly after I did the search.

Q. And your search was done on July 5th?

A. Correct.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 106.

Michael Bell - Recross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was your ability to recollect, apparently inaccurately, Mr. Newman's visit out east about as accurate as everything else you have told us about today?

A. I don't understand your question.

Q. Well, you apparently were inaccurate in giving us information about Mr. Newman's trip east?

A. I feel I was accurate with that. I said previously and this time it was both in July of 1995.

Q. Okay. Mr. Bell, would you agree with me that in order to successfully locate a person, the one thing you would like is the most information available regarding that person, that person's whereabouts, identity, whatever is known about that person before you start the search?

A. Generally, yes.

Q. Would you agree with me that it becomes difficult to find a person only if you refuse to consider that other available information which exists, and limit yourself only to that person's name and date of birth and Social Security number; is that when it's difficult to find someone?

A. If you, if you distinctly and directly refuse to look at other information, you are making it more difficult on yourself.

Q. If you do not look at that information?

A. I looked at all information made available to me.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Did I understand you that when you started this investigation you were going nationwide?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Well, I am not an investigator, but I would think you would concentrate on the areas that you know she was in, like Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

THE WITNESS: Well, those were initially.

THE COURT: Yes. You mean you got nothing?

THE WITNESS: No, we searched in those areas. Information that -- excuse me -- that was developed was fruitless and then --

THE COURT: Why was it fruitless? She lived here. She was in prison here. Her mother lived in New Jersey. Why didn't you concentrate on that?

Page 108.

MS. FISK: Well, he wasn't told any of those things, Judge.

THE COURT: Oh, he wasn't told any --

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. Now we are having testimony from both the Court and the D.A.

THE COURT: No, I am not testifying, I just want to know how he operates, why he was going nationwide when he should go right where the person lives first. And when that's fruitless, then you expand out. And you don't necessarily go nationwide immediately, you go to the surrounding states.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I believe you inadvertently cut the witness off when he said at that point, and he was about to say something --

THE COURT: Okay, shut up. Do you want to say something? Say it.

MR. WEINGLASS: The initial searches were in the immediate area.

THE COURT: I know that, and what did they prove?

THE WITNESS: Information reverted back to our office was that they were fruitless.

Page 109.

At least the information that we had developed.

THE COURT: Well, did you say to them well give me more information about her there locally?

THE WITNESS: I had no contact with Counsel.

THE COURT: Well --

THE WITNESS: What was requested I can't attest to.

THE COURT: Well, you are an investigator, did you tell your boss, hey, get after them, get me information about right there in Pennsylvania and New Jersey?

THE WITNESS: I probably did, I can't recall it yes or no.

THE COURT: You probably did. And he didn't get it for you? Oh, he was more interested in this book he was going to write.

Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's what he said, he said he wanted to write, that was the motive, they were going to write a book.

MR. WILLIAMS: He was going to write an article about how to find --

Page 110.

THE COURT: I know.

MR. WILLIAMS: How to find difficult-to-locate witnesses.

THE COURT: This wasn't very difficult. No.

MR. WILLIAMS: It was a paradigm instance of that.

THE COURT: Concentrate right where these people live. When somebody disappears, where do the police go first?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, he testified about numerous searches in the Pennsylvania and New Jersey area. That's what he testified to.

THE COURT: Based on what information you gave him, he put it in the computer, got something out, gave it to you, and you told him it's negative.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: And ultimately it was a positive finding.

THE COURT: Ultimately how did he get it?

MR. WILLIAMS: He testified --

Page 111.

THE COURT: Well, I know. They found her in New Jersey.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: Well, why couldn't you find her in New Jersey in the first place?

MR. WILLIAMS: For the same reason that New Jersey authorities couldn't find her.

THE COURT: I didn't hear --

MR. WILLIAMS: For the same reason that the New Jersey authorities couldn't find her to enforce a bench warrant. Presumably they couldn't find her.

THE COURT: Hey, let me tell you: New Jersey has their own problems. Do you think they were going to worry about --

MR. WILLIAMS: New Jersey has more officers than we have investigators, that's for sure.

MS. FISK: I suspect their budget is lower, though, Judge.

MR. WILLIAMS: Their budget is far greater than anything we would have, first of all.

THE COURT: You had a good budget, you had an investigator right here. Right here.

Page 112.

MR. WILLIAMS: And we used them.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have no further questions of this witness. I don't know if he is still being questioned or --

THE COURT: Well, I just wanted to know why they go nationwide first instead of concentrating on --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is inaccurate, Your Honor. That does not reflect the testimony, not at all.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Another inaccuracy.

THE COURT: Okay, everything I say is inaccurate. Go ahead.

Okay, you can go.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Mr. Newman -- Bell.

THE COURT: Again, again he doesn't even know his witness' name. Well, okay. What do you want to do, gentlemen?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have a short witness.

THE COURT: Short witness, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Lamont Anderson.

MS. FISK: May I just have a moment,

Page 113.

Your Honor?

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Is he here?

MR. WEINGLASS: He's here.

Lamont Anderson, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Anderson.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Anderson, would you state to the Court what your present occupation is?

A. Transportation manager with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority.

Q. And back in 1993, the early part of that year, what was your occupation and employment?

A. Private detective.

Q. And how long had you been a private detective prior to '93?

A. About five years.

Q. And before that what was your occupation and employment?

Page 114.

Lamont Anderson - Direct

A. Police officer in Philadelphia.

Q. And how long had you been a police officer in Philadelphia?

A. 23 years.

Q. Were you retired prior to becoming a private investigator?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now directing your attention to early 1993, did you have occasion at that time as a private investigator to become involved in the investigation of the case that's presently in Court?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you have occasion at that time to be retained as an investigator?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you at that time an investigator in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. With all the experience in investigation you have already indicated?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And at that time in early 1993, did you know the name Kareem Shabazz?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was Mr. Shabazz?

Page 115.

Lamont Anderson - Direct

A. He is a private investigator.

Q. And were you told that you were replacing Mr. Shabazz as the investigator in this case?

A. Well, I don't know if that was the exact terminology but it was something to that effect, yes.

Q. That he had worked previously as an investigator on the case?

A. Yes.

Q. And he also to your knowledge is an investigator here in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. Now with respect to your working on this case, did there come a time where you were asked to do anything with respect to an individual named Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. And what were you asked to do?

A. To try to locate her, her present address, location.

Q. Right. And when was this? Approximately.

A. Early 1993, I don't remember the exact month but I know it was still cold.

Q. Were you able to locate Veronica Jones?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you use your expertise that you had

Page 116.

Lamont Anderson - Direct

acquired in all the years that you had in investigation?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Q. Hello, Mr. Anderson.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Oh, God, you're right, it is. In fact, when you retired from the Police Department after 23 years you retired as a detective from the Homicide Division, didn't you, sir?

A. That is correct.

Q. And in fact you and I had the opportunity to work together on homicide cases prior to your retirement?

A. Yes.

Q. And as a result of your years in the Police Department, you had become aware, I assume, about the existence of numerous kinds of documents and databases maintained in the Philadelphia Court system, the Philadelphia Prison system, and Philadelphia Police Department; am I correct?

Page 117.

Lamont Anderson - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And when was it, sir, that you were retained in this matter?

A. It was the early part of '93, it was right around the change of the seasons from winter to spring.

Q. All right, now, when you were retained in 1993, were you working at that time full time as a private investigator?

A. Part-time.

Q. You also were working as a security person at Jefferson University Hospital, weren't you, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time that you were retained in 1993, specifically what was it that you were told and what was it that you were asked?

MR. WEINGLASS: With respect to Veronica Jones, I assume.

MS. FISK: Absolutely, Judge.

THE COURT: I thought that's all we are talking about here. I hope that's all we are talking about here.

Page 118.

Lamont Anderson - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but in fairness to the witness it ought to be limited.

THE COURT: He knows that is the purpose for which he is here.

THE WITNESS: I was given her name.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Which name?

A. To the best I recall is Veronica Jones.

Q. By whom?

A. (Indicating) Mr. Weinglass.

Q. What else were you given, sir?

A. I believe an address. And I was told to try to locate her, that address was no longer valid as far as they knew.

Q. Were you told what the source of that address was?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Were you told who this person was in relation to the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. And what were you told?

A. I don't recall the exact scenario. But I know it was that she had been a witness.

Q. All right. You as an experienced Philadelphia

Page 119.

Lamont Anderson - Cross

police officer knew that when a person was a witness, the words they spoke in Court were written down?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask to read those words?

A. No.

Q. Were you ever advised that this witness when she had testified had been a guest of the Commonwealth and in fact was incarcerated at the time her testimony was offered?

A. I don't recall now if I was told that.

Q. Do you recall whether you ever inquired of Counsel who hired you whether or not an attempt had been made to determine whether or not this witness had a Philadelphia Police identification number?

A. I don't recall now if I asked.

Q. Because you as an experienced homicide detective knew that if you could identify a person through a Police identification number, you could then utilize an FBI nationwide search no matter what name or address that person gave because it used fingerprints to identify that person; is that correct, sir?

A. It could be done, yes.

Q. And did you advise Mr. Weinglass of the existence of that sort of database and the importance of determining a Police identifying number so you could then search for that person?

A. I don't recall now exactly what, how our conversation took at that time.

Q. Well, what did you do after you were given a name and an address that you were told was no longer good?

A. I researched various databases, such as voters registration, postal change of addresses. Court dockets. Some Social Security data, motor-vehicle-registration-type data. Some confidential sources.

Q. What kind of confidential sources?

A. Confidential.

Q. What kind of confidential? I am not asking you to name a person, I am asking you to name a bureau or an agency which --

A. Information services that would have access to addresses.

Q. For example, Department of Public Welfare?

A. Maybe.

Q. School districts?

A. Utility companies.

Q. And these were databases not generally available to the public but because of persons that you had met in your 23 years as a police officer and a homicide detective, sources that you had developed; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And I would assume that these, that you developed similar sources in your years as an investigator in the areas surrounding Philadelphia which would include Camden; would that be correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And had you been given any inkling of information at all that this woman that you were being asked to locate had any ties whatsoever to Camden you would have utilized those same sources that you had to make those same inquiries in Camden, wouldn't you sir?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. But you in fact were not given any information that this witness had any contacts whatsoever with Camden at anytime; am I correct about that?

A. To the best that I recall.

Q. Now, as a result of this work that you did, these official and unofficial databases, I take it that you were unsuccessful in providing any additional information about Miss Jones; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Page 122.

Q. Over what period of time did those searches take place?

A. I don't know exactly.

Q. Well, did you submit a bill for your services?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Have you had an opportunity to review that bill?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And for how many hours did you bill?

A. I didn't even note that.

Q. Were you being compensated?

A. Yes.

Q. At what rate, please?

A. $35 an hour.

Q. And what was your total compensation or what was your total number of hours?

A. Well, the bill included other information, so.

Q. Other investigative work you were doing?

A. Yes.

Q. Would it be fair to say that your entire investigative work in this matter covered a period of about two months?

A. I would say at least that.

Q. How much more than that?

A. Well, it could have gone over two months but

Page 123.

I'm, we're not talking, say, like a year, no.

Q. Well, are we talking three months? I am simply trying to identify a period of time in which you did this work.

A. I'm trying to recall back just how long I was involved and... I really don't know exactly but I would estimate anywhere from three months to six months.

Q. Now, when you were advised that you were replacing Mr. Al Shabazz, did you communicate with him?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Were you provided any written reports or documents that had been generated by him from which you were asked to follow up?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You were simply, then, provided with a name and an address?

A. Yes.

Q. And the address being in Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further of Mr. Anderson, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just one, Mr. Anderson. As you sit there today, do you know if you limited your investigation to the City of Philadelphia or you looked in the environs of Philadelphia as well?

A. To be honest, from memory I don't recall. But --

Q. You might have?

MS. FISK: Apparently Mr. Weinglass just cut off his witness, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry.

MS. FISK: He had something else to say.

BY: MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Yes, please?

A. -- But to be honest, if I had actually, if I had went to Camden or Jersey or anywhere, it seems to me that I would have remembered that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. Fair enough. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right?

Looks like that's all. Thank you.

(Witness excused.)

Page 125.

THE COURT: Could we break for lunch until 1:30?

MR. WEINGLASS: Just before lunch -- we are about to conclude on our side -- I would like to have the same privilege that we gave the District Attorney to have the names of their witnesses.

THE COURT: Well, talk to her, I don't know who they are.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we recited it yesterday on the record so that it was clear. I wish to be given the same privilege.

THE COURT: Well, she put the witnesses outside.

MR. WEINGLASS: We don't know who she is going to be calling.

THE COURT: Ask her.

MR. WEINGLASS: I was asked on the record yesterday and I responded on the record.

THE COURT: I said ask her.

MR. WEINGLASS: I ask for the same privilege.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am hungry, I am going to lunch. Between now and the time I come back, if she doesn't give it to you, then ask me again, okay. I will see you at 1:30.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands in luncheon recess until 1:30 p.m. at the call of the Crier.

(Luncheon recess was held until 1:45 p.m.)

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everybody.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, the defense would call Mr. George Edwards as the next witness.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I had misunderstood. I thought Counsel had said they were resting prior to lunch. There is a Commonwealth witness in the Courtroom and she will have to have her records back from Miss Wolkenstein so she can sequester herself.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All right, then we will take a few minutes later (handing).

BY MR. PIPER:

Page 127.

George Edwards - Direct

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Edwards.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Edwards, in what city do you reside?

A. I reside in the city of New Haven, state of Connecticut.

Q. And did you travel voluntarily to Philadelphia to give testimony today?

A. I did indeed.

Q. How do you presently support yourself?

A. I'm presently unemployed due to disability.

Q. And what is your age, sir?

A. 59.

Q. Before you went on disability, what was your last paid job?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. In terms of relevance, I don't understand it yet.

MR. PIPER: It is just background.

THE COURT: Well, we could leave the background. What did he do in this case. Let's get right to it, it is getting late.

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. Do you know someone in New Haven named Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And how did you come to know her?

Page 128.

George Edwards - Direct

A. I knew her through the capacity of my job and what I do, what I formerly did professionally.

Q. And what was that job?

A. Educational outreach worker with the AIDS division of the City of New Haven's Health Department.

Q. When did you complete, when did you last work at that job?

A. June of 1992.

Q. And when to the best of your recollection did you first meet Veronica Jones that lived in New Haven?

A. In the spring of 1991.

Q. Do you know her approximate age at that time?

A. Somewhere approximately in the range of the middle thirties.

Q. Did you know how she supported herself in New Haven when you met her?

A. Yes; she was a sex professional.

Q. It is called a prostitute?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you know whether she was involved in any drug use?

A. Yes, she was a client of heroin in my drug treatment advocacy program.

Page 129.

George Edwards - Direct

Q. And did you know where she had lived prior to New Haven?

A. She stated to me when I met her that she had prior experiences in prostitution in the state of North Carolina and in the state of Pennsylvania.

Q. You said that you are currently unemployed. Do you engage in any voluntary work?

A. Yes.

Q. And what voluntary work have you engaged in in the past two years?

A. I'm on the board of directors of a public access television station and I'm an independent producer of a show called Truth Incorporated.

Q. In connection with that work, is it your practice to review newspaper articles relating to matters of interest to the black community?

A. Yes.

Q. And is it your practice to clip articles of interest?

A. Yes.

MR. PIPER: I would like to mark the next Exhibit (handing).

MS. FISK: Okay, thank you.

MR. PIPER: For the record, the next Exhibit is D-3.

Page 130.

George Edwards - Direct

(Copy of newspaper article was marked
Defense Exhibit D-3 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked D-3, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PIPER: Which appears to be a newspaper clipping with a handwritten date, New Haven Register, March 30th, 1995. And a photograph.

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. Can you identify that document, Mr. Edwards?

A. Yes, I can.

Q. What is it?

A. It's a copy of a newspaper article with a photo and an article describing the event that's taking place in the photo.

Q. Can you identify the woman who is prominently featured in the photograph?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is she?

A. She is the Veronica Jones that I've been questioned about that I've made reference to.

Q. Did you clip this article at about the date that it bears?

A. Yes.

Page 131.

Q. Why did you clip it at that time?

A. I clipped it because of the event of the rally against, for, you know, for the homelessness.

Q. And again for the record, what is the date that it bears?

A. March 30th, 1995.

Q. At sometime after you clipped it, at the end of March or early April of 1995 -- let me strike that. In the course of your readings were you familiar with this case that is Commonwealth versus Jamal in Philadelphia?

A. In some aspects, yes.

Q. And did you come to be aware that there was a witness in the case named Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. At some point in time after clipping this photograph, did it occur to you that there might be a connection between the Veronica Jones that you knew in New Haven and this case?

A. Yes.

Q. About how long after you clipped this did that occur to you?

A. Approximately, umm, approximately a month or so later.

Q. At that time how long had it been since you had actually physically seen the Veronica Jones you knew in New Haven?

A. Approximately... six months.

Q. When you made that realization that she might have some connection to this case -- well, let me ask you: What did you know about her connection to this case?

A. I didn't know anything about her connection with this case.

Q. I'm sorry, what did you know about the witness Veronica Jones in this case, if anything?

A. I've read accounts that there was a missing witness to this case by the name of Veronica Jones, that she had prior background in prostitution and drug addiction.

Q. When it occurred to you that this Veronica Jones that you knew in New Haven might have a connection to this case, did you do anything about that?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. I placed a call to attorney Leonard Weinglass.

Q. And did you make contact with him?

A. Yes; by telephone.

Q. And what did you tell him in that telephone call?

A. I described the photo article that I had. I described to him the activities that she made me aware of, and that I knew that she was a prostitute, a drug addict, and that she expressed to me that she had prior been in the state of Pennsylvania.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Weinglass her approximate age?

A. Yes.

Q. As a result of that conversation with Mr. Weinglass, did you do anything further regarding the Veronica Jones in New Haven?

A. Yes.

Q. Let me step back. About when did that phone call occur?

A. Approximately, umm... Early June, I believe. Last of May, early June.

Q. And as a result of that phone call what activities did you then undertake?

A. Umm... I proceeded to try to locate her.

Q. Did you send any further materials to Mr. Weinglass?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you send him?

A. Well, I sent him a copy of this in the mail.

Page 134.

Q. What information did you try to obtain about her?

A. I tried to locate her by address and telephone number.

Q. Was there any other specific information that you tried to find out about her?

A. I think when Mr. Weinglass got the article, I think I heard from him again, he said I would need a Social Security number for this woman.

Q. Did you talk to people to try to locate her?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many people did you talk to?

A. Approximately 75 people.

Q. Were you ultimately able to obtain her Social Security number?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. That was approximately the first week of July 1995.

Q. And what did you do with that information?

A. I immediately made a telephone call to Mr. Weinglass and gave him the information.

Q. Do you know an investigator named Michael Newman?

A. I've met one and -- yes.

Page 135.

Q. And where did you meet him?

A. I met him in the city of New Haven.

Q. And could you tell us the date that you met him?

A. I met him on July the 14th, 1995.

Q. And did you and Mr. Newman do anything in New Haven regarding the Veronica Jones that's shown in this picture?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. We went to the address that I had been given for her. And I didn't get a response at the apartment. We then drove all over the city in areas where there was high drug activity looking for her visually. And I left word with numerous persons on the street that I was seeking her rather urgently.

Q. Did you succeed in finding her that day?

A. No.

Q. After Mr. Newman's visit did you continue trying to locate Miss Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. After his visit what was the next communication that you had with the defense team?

A. I got a call from Mr. Weinglass about the end of July in which he said to me that the Social

Page 136.

George Edwards - Direct

Security numbers didn't match and that she wasn't the Veronica Jones that he was looking for.

Q. Subsequent to that did you ever ultimately contact the Veronica Jones in New Haven?

A. I finally located her, yes.

Q. And at that time did you confirm that she was not the Veronica Jones who is connected to this case?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you inquire if she had any further information about another Veronica Jones who had engaged in prostitution in Pennsylvania?

A. Yes.

Q. And did she have any such information that she gave to you?

A. She said she was totally unfamiliar with the other Veronica Jones.

MR. PIPER: I have no further questions at this time, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: May I inquire?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MS. FISK:

Page 137.

George Edwards - Cross

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Edwards.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Edwards, as a community activist you obviously keep very careful records and clippings of any articles of interest to the black community; is that right?

A. Some, not all.

Q. Would you consider it an extensive collection of articles?

A. I sort through newspapers and sometimes I keep things for a while and sometimes I throw them out. And they pile up and I box them and I get rid of them for recycling.

Q. I trust in this case that you in fact had clippings from the case Commonwealth versus Jamal, would that be accurate?

A. Clippings from?

Q. Relating to Mr. Jamal.

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, that is how you knew to contact Mr. Weinglass when in early June 1995 you had some information; would that be accurate to say?

A. No.

Q. How did you know to contact Mr. Weinglass, sir?

Page 138.

George Edwards - Cross

A. Well, there was a tremendous amount of public information out about the defense, the names of the attorneys, the names of the prosecution, the name of the Judge. Various organizations and individuals, and information out on the Internet, Faxes, newspapers, books, articles, things like that about --

Q. And from which of those sources, sir, was it that you read accounts that there was a missing witness being sought named Veronica Jones?

A. I don't recall which particular piece of paper or point of information but I was aware that I had run across it in numerous, you know, pieces of information.

Q. And did you retain any of those clippings that discussed the fact that a Veronica Jones was being sought as a missing witness?

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. Did you bring those with you today, sir?

A. No.

Q. Do you know from what publications those clippings existed?

A. Like I said, I'm not certain if they were just clippings but, umm, I do know that there was, there was a, umm, search or some interest in finding

Page 139.

George Edwards - Cross

Veronica Jones.

Q. I apologize, sir.

A. Go ahead.

Q. What other witnesses were being sought as missing witnesses, sir?

A. I can't recall if there were any others.

Q. That is the only name that you remember being sought?

A. Yeah.

Q. And what was the date that you recall becoming aware through publications of some sort that a Veronica Jones was being sought as a missing witness?

A. Umm, somewhere around... somewhere around this time frame of this, spring of '95, somewhere around that time.

Q. How is it that you are able to relate learning that piece of information to that period of time, sir?

A. Well, I was thinking when I pulled this article out, I'm thinking I wonder if this is the Veronica Jones that is being sought. But I didn't immediately call Mr. Weinglass because I didn't want to be guilty of giving false information or sending people on a wild goose chase. So I kind of just waited and said maybe I'll find her. And I thought well maybe I shouldn't wait forever too long if I can't find her, so I called him.

Page 140.

George Edwards - Cross

Q. And that was in early June 1995; is that right?

A. Either late May or early June.

Q. Okay. Now, how is it, sir, that you obtained her Social Security number?

A. In the photo, in the background is the City Hall of the city of New Haven. And in the windows there's an organization called Fight Back. And I have a relationship with the drug treatment advocacy persons in that organization. And in the course of inquiring about her, I asked one of the workers if he knew where I could find her. And he is the one who gave me her address and a phone number. And I went back to him and asked him had he seen her. And he said yes and in fact he was trying to implore her. And I said do you have her Social Security number. He said yes so I said give it to me.

Q. That easy?

A. Yes.

Q. And after you received a call from Mr. Weinglass that the Social Security number was the wrong one and that it wasn't the person, that was the end of July?

Page 141.

George Edwards - Cross

A. That was -- yeah, around the end of July.

Q. And that was despite the fact that she had never been physically located by you or Mr. Newman up to that point, so far as you knew?

A. Right.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

Q. Other than the time that Mr. Newman visited on July 14th, did you try to visit her address on other occasions?

A. Numerous occasions.

Q. And did you try to call her phone number on numerous occasions?

A. I left numerous messages.

Q. And did you leave messages through other means.

A. Yes; I spoke to persons who lived in her building. And on the streets again.

MR. PIPER: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Defense calls Richard Childs.

Richard Childs, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Childs.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Childs, where do you reside, in what state?

A. Westfield, New Jersey.

Q. And what is your occupation and employment?

A. I'm a licensed private detective in the state of New Jersey.

Q. And how long have you been so licensed?

A. 10 years.

Q. Directing your attention back to October of 1994, were you then a licensed private investigator?

A. I was.

Page 143.

Q. And were you engaged in your own business?

A. Yes.

Q. Did there come a time in October of 1994 when you were contacted by anyone associated with this case?

A. Yes.

Q. And by whom were you contacted?

A. You, sir.

Q. And were you contacted by telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Did we have a conversation?

A. We did.

Q. Do you recall what you were asked to do if anything with respect to this case?

A. Yes. You asked me if I could help you locate a witness by the name of Veronica Jones. You had some information that a Social Security number was coming to a Dorothy Oliver in Passaic, New Jersey. And you had some indication that a Dorothy Oliver did live in Passaic, New Jersey, and you asked me to see if I could locate this witness for you.

Q. And did you proceed to attempt to locate this witness?

A. Yes, I did. I made some inquiries with the Social Security number and found it did indeed come to a Dorothy Oliver and also it had it been used by a Karen Oliver with an employment at MPA Industries in New Jersey. I attempted to find such an employment. I was unable to. I checked with New Jersey driver's license, there was none in her name. And then I went to the address 93 Burgess Place five or six times, left a card each time and nobody ever responded. And one other time I went back and a young man answered the door and told me that he would give my card to Miss Oliver. But nobody ever responded. I told you about it and closed the case.

Q. Was it ever indicated to you that others had attempted to locate her prior to your entry into the case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Where are you going?

MR. WEINGLASS: Just that question.

MS. FISK: Seeking hearsay, Your Honor, and I object.

MR. WEINGLASS: No. It explains the course of conduct that he followed. He was given some information and he acted on it. Part of the information he was given is that there were other attempts made to locate Miss Oliver at that address. I am just asking him that question.

MS. FISK: I will withdraw my objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't know how he knows but go ahead, ask him.

THE WITNESS: Mr. Weinglass told me that he had been to the location himself.

MS. FISK: Ahh.

THE WITNESS: And verified a Dorothy Oliver on the mail box but nothing else.

MS. FISK: Ahh.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So that this is clarification in your testimony, the Dorothy Oliver that you were looking for in Passaic, New Jersey was, you were told, believed to be the Veronica Jones that was being looked for in this case?

A. Yes, the witness you wanted me to find was a Veronica Jones, using the name Dorothy Oliver.

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. So I understand, Mr. Childs -- good afternoon.

Page 146.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Childs, you were contacted by Mr. Weinglass?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were told he was trying to locate someone known as Veronica Jones?

A. Correct.

Q. You were told that she had a Social Security number that Mr. Weinglass had obtained in some fashion?

A. Yes.

Q. You were told that he had already checked that Social Security number and found that it came back to someone named Dorothy Oliver who resided at a known address in Passaic, New Jersey, according to Mr. Weinglass' own checks?

A. Yes.

Q. You again checked the Social Security number, confirmed that it in fact came back to Miss Oliver, confirmed that Miss Oliver indeed did live at that same address that Mr. Weinglass had already told you that Miss Oliver resided at, and that was the end of your participation in this case?

A. That is correct.

Q. You were asked to do nothing else with regard to the location of Miss Jones?

A. I went back about five or six times to that location.

Q. That location?

A. Looking for Miss Jones, yes.

Q. And your participation was focused expressly on, and you were hired expressly to locate the person known as Dorothy Oliver at the address that Mr. Weinglass had confirmed she lived at, or attempted to confirm she lived at in Passaic, New Jersey?

A. I believe the scope was to locate Veronica Jones using the name of Dorothy Oliver at that address.

Q. Who was believed to live at that address with that Social Security number?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the extent of your participation?

A. Yes.

Q. How long did that effort take, sir?

A. I guess five or six trips, probably about eight to ten hours investigative time total.

Q. Over the course of what period, then?

A. Six weeks, five or six weeks.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further.

THE COURT: You are excused.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you, Mr. Childs.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I wanted to address the Court and make an offer of proof.

Defense Counsel contacted Joseph A. Brignola of Joseph A. Brignola, Inc. on 9-12-96, spoke with him, and indicated, confirmed with him that he was in fact an investigator who had been employed by Mr. Weinglass in August of '93 and worked for the defense team for a period of time through December of '93. And in that period of time did a profile check on Veronica Jones --

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Your Honor, before Counsel continues: Is this being offered in lieu of the witness being called? I am not quite clear.

THE COURT: I don't know. I don't know what she's doing.

MS. FISK: Well, is Mr. Brignola going to be testifying?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I want to get to that, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Well, I would ask that we get to that before any proffered substance of testimony be made of record, because it is improperly made of record.

THE COURT: Well, if it is improper I will just strike it.

MS. FISK: Fine.

THE COURT: Don't worry about it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Brignola checked voter registration in the City of Philadelphia, he did a criminal record inquiry using the names Rhonda Harris and Louise Tatum. And he understood that she was arrested in 1982 under the Louise Tatum name and he did a Social Security check under a particular Social Security number.

He further did an entire search under Veronica Jones' PPP number -- that's the Philadelphia Police photo number -- 560335, and went through the criminal records in the records rooms listing the various different charges of prostitution through '79 and '82. And as I indicated, had already checked the underlying charges involved in the '82 to '88 gun and robbery charges records.

Mr. Brignola completed that work for the defense team and did not in that course of time locate Veronica Jones under any of the aliases that he looked for, and provided a summary to the defense team, specifically to Mr. Weinglass, two communications summarizing this on August 25th, 1993 and December 30th, 1993.

Mr. Brignola when I spoke to him on the 12th of September, when we learned that a hearing was going to take place before this Court, contacted him, confirmed that he was in fact the Joseph A. Brignola so employed by the defense, and he said that he was more than willing to come in and testify as to his work as an investigator on behalf of the defense in the case of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal. He further indicated that he was going to be out of town from September 16th through September 27th, specifically in London, and that his further schedule involved him being further out of town from Philadelphia from October 9th to October 16th. The reason for these dates were precisely because of that early date we did not know that he was, what date this Court would set for a hearing.

Mr. Brignola I believe is well known to the District Attorney's Office: He is a retired police detective and a licensed investigator in the City of Philadelphia.

I further spoke to Mr. Brignola, he confirmed that he checked his records. I inquired if he had further records of his work for the defense and he indicated that he didn't have any records that were more than two years old, everything else was destroyed. He suggested that I send him a subpoena, he would accept service and he would appear in Court. I so mailed him a subpoena by overnight mail on the 12th of September, and confirmed with him at his voice mail when we learned of our September 18th date, and again after our September 18th date, when I learned of the date that we had set for October 1st.

On September 28th, after the scheduled date of his return, I further contacted or left a message with Mr. Brignola's answering machine or service, and further informed him that he would be needed in Court on October 1st.

However, he did not return that and several other calls left on his machine.

Last night our investigator Chris Milton, who appeared in Court and testified yesterday, went out to try and locate Mr. Brignola, since we had not had any response to our subpoena and to the repeated phone calls, despite his promise that he would appear here. Mr. Milton went to 2319 Carlisle Street, which is the working address for Mr. Brignola, spoke to a gentleman there who was described as approximately in his forties at that address, a white male who refused to give his name but told Mr. Milton that Mr. Brignola had a back injury and was at his sister's and would not return for a week.

We have not been able to confirm that since we have no other way at this particular late date and within the time period to confirm whether or not the gentleman who Mr. Milton spoke to was Joseph A. Brignola or not or a relative or whatever or where Mr. Brignola's sister is.

I would request this Court to enforce our subpoena and send the Sheriff to go and find and locate Mr. Brignola and bring him in as a witness in this case.

And alternatively, I submit to be marked for identification as Defense Exhibit 4 this correspondence from Mr. Brignola to Mr. Leonard A. Weinglass, two letters dated October 25th, 1993 and December 30th, 1993.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I will not accept the offer of proof, nor would I agree that the letters from Mr. Brignola to Counsel would be admissible as a factual basis of anything.

THE COURT: I am not accepting anything as substantive evidence.

MS. FISK: With regard to Counsel's request that a warrant be issued for their own witness, I would leave that for the Court: I am obviously not a party to that.

THE COURT: I am not satisfied that he was served initially. You said you sent it to him by mail?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I sent it to him by mail based on his representation that he would accept service.

THE COURT: That is not good service.

Page 154.

If we would make all services by mail, why do we need certified deputies or -- what do we have -- Court process servers now? What do they call them?

THE COURT OFFICER: ROR Officers, Judge.

THE COURT: ROR.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: If you would endorse a subpoena today I would be glad to --

THE COURT: Counsel --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- request that the Sheriff's Department go out there.

THE COURT: Do you think the Sheriffs Department has enough time to go look for your witness?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I believe if the Court so ordered it as a way of completing a full record here in this case it would be done.

THE COURT: Completing it. I am not going to wait until 1997 to complete this hearing. I am on a schedule too. If this witness doesn't want to show up for you, that's your problem.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, as we explained to you this is a very important witness, and I had every reason to believe --

Page 155.

THE COURT: All of the witnesses are important. Everything you say there is important.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I had every reason to believe based on my several-times communications with Mr. Brignola that he would show up in Court today.

THE COURT: Now you know you can't take his word for it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I also made it clear on the record that Mr. Brignola answers a whole number of questions and accusations being made by the prosecution, specifically whether or not the various criminal records belonging to Veronica Jones, Rhonda Harris, Louise Tatum have ever been searched and looked for by the defense.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In fact, his testimony and the documents that I am trying to get submitted here indicate and establish that that was done from October 25th, 1993 through the period of time of December 30th.

THE COURT: Well, you go out and look for him. You have a lot of people here that are outside parading and tell them to go out and look for him.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I would ask for these to be marked for identification.

THE COURT: I am not accepting anything you are giving me as substantive evidence.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, it could be marked for identification, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No. For what purpose? We don't have a witness here to substantiate it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I would make an offer of proof on the record and explain to the Court the difficulties in serving the subpoena.

THE COURT: Take it up with the Supreme Court. If they want to give you more time they will send it back down to me to give you more time.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I believe it would provide sufficient background for what undoubtedly would be our request --

THE COURT: Take it up with the Supreme Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The Court has refused to support us?

THE COURT: Counselor, I have already answered your question. I am not going to answer it one more time. Take it up with the Supreme Court. I am not considering it here, period.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Alternatively, I would ask at any time that we have the opportunity to further seek Mr. Brignola --

THE COURT: You can go --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- and bring him in before the close of this hearing.

THE COURT: You are right, and I am going to close this hearing as quickly as possible. I only have 30 days. He has to type up the record. And I have to make a report back to them. You go up there and ask them for more time. I didn't set the time limits. The Supreme Court set the time limits.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Just so I am clear about the time limit here, Your Honor: We then can try and bring him in any time between the time of now and the close of this hearing whether or not we have otherwise rested or whatever? I mean in other words, we are not going to rest until we try and find him.

THE COURT: Oh, you are going to rest. I am not going to continue anything. Take it up with the Supreme Court. If they think it's important enough they will send it back down to me for further hearing. Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

THE COURT: All right. Do you have any other witnesses?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor. Well, at this time I am moving into evidence Quarter Session files that were subpoenaed by the defense on the criminal cases of Veronica Jones, a/k/a Rhonda Harris. They have been here in Court for the past period of time. The numbers on them, for the record, are MC 7905-700. MC 8006-2923. MC 8107-0874. MC 8108-0110. MC 8110-1354. MC 8102-3187. MC 8105-1352. All right --

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, before you continue, I had just to clarify, Miss Wolkenstein. You had an 8108-0110 and then immediately following was 8110, was that accurate?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I'm sorry, 0110,

Page 159.

then 1354. I mean they all start 81.

810-8-0110. Next is 8110-1354.

MS. FISK: Yes, thank you.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: So I ask these to be admitted into evidence. I presume there is no objection to that.

MS. FISK: I assume Counsel is asking the Commonwealth to stipulate that if the Clerk of Quarter Sessions were to testify the Clerk would identify these files as accurately having been kept by the Clerk and that these are in fact the files of the Clerk of Quarter Sessions. And with that stipulation I have no problem.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay. That's wonderful. I also want to further state for the record, in these files, looking through them all, these names and addresses and dates and everything in there, nowhere in these records is the current correct address of either Miss Veronica Jones or her mother in Camden, New Jersey. Nowhere in these files.

MS. FISK: I will also stipulate I assume the records could speak for themselves.

THE COURT: The Supreme Court could look through them.

Page 160.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Furthermore, there are three other files, two other files here and I have to probably locate one other thing that was missing. These are files of Cynthia White.

THE COURT: Well, she is not involved in this matter right now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What is an issue here, Your Honor --

THE COURT: She is not involved in the issue.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Let me make an offer of proof.

THE COURT: I don't want an offer of proof. I am not interested in Cynthia White. It was sent down here for one purpose only and that's the only purpose I am hearing it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The prosecution has tried to impugn the testimony of Veronica Jones in the following way, of saying that Cynthia White --

THE COURT: No, she has herself.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That Cynthia White is not Lucky. They say in their answering papers to the Supreme Court, they dispute --

THE COURT: Take it up with the

Page 161.

Supreme Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In these files, Your Honor, is a clear record that one of the names of Cynthia White is Lucky. And for that reason, for that reason --

THE COURT: Let me say this: If the Supreme Court wants those records it can send for them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: So you are denying that being accepted into the record?

THE COURT: Right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Despite the fact they have proof in there that Cynthia White is Lucky?

THE COURT: If the Supreme Court wants to look for them, they could send for them. They could get anything they want down here. I am not sending it up to them. They sent it to me for one purpose and that's all.

But next, are you resting?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Provisional to the attempt to locate Joseph Brignola.

THE COURT: You are resting, then, as far as I am concerned.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: You are not allowing us to even try to find him?

THE COURT: I don't care what you do but you're resting now, are you?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Under those, you have just told us we are resting. We would like to at least be able to --

THE COURT: I know you would like to do a lot of things but I am under orders from the Supreme Court to have a hearing now and to get rid of it. I don't know why this witness that you're talking about is so important.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I just indicated for the record.

THE COURT: Well, if the Supreme Court thinks it's important --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I presume it is not an issue, Your Honor, whether or not the defense has ever tried to find the Quarter Sessions file, the criminal records of Veronica Jones, a/k/a Rhonda Harris, a/k/a Louise Tatum, and the Court is saying this is not relevant.

THE COURT: I let you put in the records for --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I would accept that Court's finding gladly. Is that your finding?

Page 163.

THE COURT: I am not telling you what my finding is. I didn't hear the whole case yet. Don't presuppose what I'm going to do. You could argue all you want and when you get up to the Supreme Court say I wouldn't give you more time and you need this witness. If they think he's important they'll send it back down to me and take his testimony, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are merely trying to comply with the Supreme Court Order that we develop --

THE COURT: That's what I am trying to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- a full factual record.

THE COURT: I am trying to do the same thing.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Supreme Court put that in particularly.

THE COURT: The Supreme Court didn't say you could have six months.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: They gave me only 30 days to hear this, and 30 days to do my opinion, and he has to type the record up first before I could even do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: I don't know how long it is going to take him to transcribe the notes.

MR. WEINGLASS: The Supreme Court addressed this hearing and they said it should commence on October 1st.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WEINGLASS: And it did, but they didn't put any time limit on it.

THE COURT: Oh, yes, they did.

MR. WEINGLASS: No.

THE COURT: Oh, yes. I am supposed to make my opinion within 30 days from that time.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's right, from the time, but, Your Honor, certainly giving us a few extra days to locate a critical witness --

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- and to bring them in here --

THE COURT: If he is that critical the Supreme Court will send it back down. Take it up with them.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no need to impose on their time.

Page 165.

THE COURT: I am not imposing on their time. They imposed on my time, they said do this within a certain time, and I am trying to do that.

MR. WEINGLASS: You could easily accomplish this within 30 days.

THE COURT: No, I can't.

MR. WEINGLASS: We only ask for a few days for Mr. Newman, for Mr. Brignola.

THE COURT: You had all those days, you should have been looking for him, he should have been here. If he doesn't come here that is your problem, not mine.

MR. WEINGLASS: As Miss Wolkenstein stated on the record, our attempts to locate Mr. Brignola --

THE COURT: Why didn't you locate him?

MR. WEINGLASS: We stated why we can't have Mr. Newman and we have only asked for a very brief period to bring in the two witnesses.

THE COURT: Like I am saying to you, if the Supreme Court thinks they are important enough they will send it back down to me to hear it. Then I will hear it then. I am not going to be delaying this matter any longer.

Page 166.

So you are resting or do I have to rest for you?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is up to the Court. We have made our position clear.

THE COURT: I know you have made your position clear. You don't have anymore witnesses to present now?

MR. WEINGLASS: At the moment, no.

THE COURT: Okay, so they are resting now.

MR. WEINGLASS: We ask for time to present witnesses.

THE COURT: Is the Commonwealth presenting any witnesses?

MS. FISK: Yes. Several. First and very brief will be Miss Roseann Reffner. She is outside somewhere.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: Miss Reffner is bringing some original copies. I would be happy to hand a copy, that is the only copy I have, just so Counsel can review what Miss Reffner will be testifying about. Miss Wolkenstein started looking at them earlier (handing).

(Pause.)

Page 167.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just one point, Your Honor. I just wanted to clarify one thing for the Court. The remand Order of the Supreme Court gave this Court 30 days at the end of the hearing, they didn't say 30 days from October 1st.

THE COURT: But they didn't say to take six months to have the hearing over.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we are only asking for a few days.

THE COURT: I am not giving you a few days. You had plenty of days to get him. You should have sought his arrest before this if he wasn't going to come in.

Roseann Reffner, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Reffner, how are you employed?

A. I'm records manager for the Philadelphia County Adult Probation-Parole Department.

Q. I think you have to pull that microphone down.

Page 168.

Roseann Reffner - Direct

A. I am the records manager for the Philadelphia County Adult Probation-Parole Department.

Q. And in that capacity are you the custodian of records for Philadelphia County Probation And Parole?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Miss Reffner, if an individual has the name and a Police photo identification number of a person who has been placed in the City of Philadelphia, is there a file existing under your custody regarding that individual?

A. Yes.

Q. Can a member of the public with a properly issued subpoena duces tecum which includes the name of that individual and a Police photo number of that individual obtain a copy of the Probation Department's record regarding that individual?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection to the form of the question. It is a hypothetical question which does not include all the necessary facts in the question.

MS. FISK: I am sure Counsel can clarify on cross-examination.

THE COURT: Well, you have cross-examination, you could bring in whatever

Page 169.

Roseann Reffner - Direct

you want. You could quote it your way, what you think should be asked.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Reffner, utilizing the name of an individual and a Police photo number, when an individual contacts the Adult County Probation Department, which you are the custodian of records, can that individual who is attempting to obtain a file obtain a case number and thereafter a copy of an individual's probation file?

A. Normally what we do is check to see if there is a probation officer active on that case. If there is that call is referred to that probation officer and he, he or she makes the determination whether the case will be disseminated to that individual.

Q. And of course when you are confronted with a subpoena duces tecum there is no question you must comply; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And as a result of the subpoena duces tecum issued to the Department of Probation by me within the last week or two, was the file in, the probation file in the case of Rhonda Harris, also known as Veronica Jones, provided to me?

Page 170.

Roseann Reffner - Direct

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have provided my copy to Counsel. As soon as he is done I will ask that it be marked and shown to the witness.

(Pause.)

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT: Could we have that thing marked.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I am asking why are they going through all this now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Because we weren't --

THE COURT: That's all right, before you cross-examine I will let you look at it. You are holding it up, you are holding up this Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The District Attorney spent 10 minutes reading another document.

THE COURT: You spent 10 minutes. He has looked at it, the other guy's looked at, you are looking at it now.

Page 171.

Roseann Reffner - Direct

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, just Mr. Weinglass and myself.

MR. WEINGLASS: Object, we object to the document being admitted into evidence.

THE COURT: All right, object.

MR. WEINGLASS: We object.

THE COURT: She is asking it to be identified, okay. Take it, mark it for identification, let's see where we go.

(Probation file of Veronica Jones was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-3 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-3, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Reffner, would you kindly review Commonwealth Exhibit -- I'm sorry -- did you, pursuant to the subpoena issued, subpoena duces tecum issued to you as custodian of records, bring with you the original file, that is the Probation Department file regarding Rhonda Harris, also known as Veronica Jones, who has a Police photo identification number of 560335?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you be so kind, please, to compare the

Page 172.

Roseann Reffner - Direct

photocopy which has been marked the Commonwealth Exhibit to the original which you have in your possession just to confirm that it is indeed an accurate photocopy? And if there is anything missing or additional, kindly let us know and we will make sure that the photocopy is conformed.

(Pause.)

A. It is the same with the exception of a printout that indicates termination of her probation on your copy, not in the master file.

Q. The termination does not appear in the master file?

A. No, it's a computer printout.

Q. Oh, I see. Okay. Was that created by the office of probation as well?

A. Yes.

Q. So it is not in the master file but it was provided to me from your office?

A. Correct.

Q. I see. This Commonwealth Exhibit, Commonwealth Exhibit 3, is this a document which has existed at the County Office of Probation since it's last entry, which appears on the face of the record to have been in approximately 1990?

A. Correct.

Page 173.

Q. And that document has been available and part of the records and files of the Adult County Probation Office since 1990?

A. Correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Miss Reffner, when you say the document which is C-3 has been available, do you mean it's available to members of the public?

A. Not generally.

Q. It's only available to people in your office; isn't that correct?

A. No, it isn't, it is available if we get a subpoena.

Q. Okay. A properly issued subpoena?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know what a properly issued subpoena is?

A. I know what a subpoena looks like. And I know that this indicates that it's a subpoena duces tecum.

Q. That brought you here today?

Page 174.

A. I did not get one for today.

Q. Who was it served on?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Who was it served on?

A. I do not know.

Q. I see. But do you know how a properly issued subpoena is obtained in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. So you have no idea how someone on the outside can get this document in the only way that you know the document could be obtained, that is through a properly issued subpoena?

A. Correct.

Q. You don't know that no one can obtain these documents through subpoena unless there is a case in existence that could entitle the subpoena, do you?

A. No, I do not.

Q. So if the case is not in Court, no one can get a properly issued subpoena; isn't that true?

A. I don't know how they are issued so I don't know.

Q. And you don't know that this case was not in Court on the PCRA proceeding until July 12th of 1995?

A. I don't know.

Page 175.

Q. So that if no one could get a properly issued subpoena before the case is in Court, which is July of 1995, they could not obtain this document?

MS. FISK: Judge, I am getting a little confused now as to who it is that's testifying.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am cross-examining: I am allowed to lead.

MS. FISK: Counsel is asking questions that have no foundation based on the answers the witness has given.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You can not tell this Court if someone could obtain a properly issued subpoena before July 12th, 1995?

A. No, I can't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Now let me -- may I look at a copy of the document?

THE COURT OFFICER: Mr. Weinglass.

THE COURT: Yes, just sit down, he will get it for you. He doesn't want to lose his job, you know.

MR. WEINGLASS: I always look forward to the assistance I get from the Court.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

Page 176.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You have either an original or a copy of C-3?

A. Of C-3.

Q. Now, on the first page, the name of the individual listed on the first page for this file is not Veronica Jones; isn't that right?

A. I don't know what you're looking at. The first page made be different than the first page in here.

Q. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Read something off the page so she could --

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The letter of August 8th --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I will agree that the record will speak for itself. The entirety of the file will become part of the record in this case and certainly Counsel will be free to argue any portions of it at the appropriate time.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, no, we have a witness here who introduces herself as a representative of the Philadelphia County Probation And Parole Department, who is knowledgeable about these documents. And now that we have the document, I feel free to question the witness about the contents of the document. She is not merely a file clerk, she is --

THE COURT: You are the custodian of records?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: She is the custodian of records. She keeps the records that are given to her on the case. She didn't handle this case personally.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. How long have you been the custodian of records?

A. For eight years.

Q. And you are familiar with these files, are you not?

A. I'm familiar with the files, correct.

Q. Fine. Now referring to August 8th, 1988, the name of the individual is listed as Louise Tatum, is it not?

A. Correct.

Q. And when we go to the extract of criminal record, which is part of these files that you brought today, we have the extract of criminal record listed under the name of Rhonda Harris?

A. Correct.

Q. And the aliases for Rhonda Harris are Veronica Jones, Louise Tatum, and Laura Smith, three aliases there, right?

A. Correct.

Q. So the extract of criminal record has four different names; isn't that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And the address that's given is, there are two addresses given, are there not, Everett Street and Chester Avenue in Camden; is that right?

A. I see three addresses.

Q. Three addresses, not two?

A. Correct.

Q. So on this one document there are four names and three different addresses?

A. Correct.

Q. You don't know which one is correct, do you?

A. No, I do not.

THE COURT: She is merely the custodian of records. She doesn't make up the record.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You don't know if any of these are correct?

Page 179.

A. No , I do not.

Q. Now, then let's turn to the Certification of Probation. Is that listed to Veronica Jones?

A. This is an a/k/a of Veronica Jones.

Q. But what is the first name?

A. Louise Tatum.

Q. Louise Tatum?

A. Correct.

Q. A/k/a Veronica Jones?

A. Correct.

Q. And when we look at the Administrative Supervision document, is that listed under Veronica Jones?

A. Louise Tatum.

Q. Louise Tatum. In the Court of Common Pleas letter of August 8th -- I think we have already gone through -- no, it's another Court of Common Pleas letter, of August 8th, 1988. Is that listed as Re Veronica Jones?

A. There are two of them.

Q. Yes.

A. Louise Tatum.

Q. Louise Tatum. The Out-Of-Town Services Document, is that listed in the typed form to Louise Tatum or Veronica Jones?

Page 180.

A. Louise Tatum.

Q. And it's signed by whom?

A. It is signed by Veronica Jones, a/k/a Louise Tatum.

Q. Yes. The Social And Legal History Concerning The Probationer, under whose name is that?

A. Louise Tatum.

Q. No reference there to Veronica Jones, is there?

A. Not on that page.

Q. The Probation Department Face Sheet, is that listed to Louise Tatum, a/k/a Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, on this one, what is the place of birth?

A. On what? I don't know what you're looking at.

Q. I'm sorry, the Probation Department Face Sheet.

A. Place of birth is Richland, Virginia. Could be a typo for Richmond, I'm not...

Q. Yes, it reads Richland?

A. Correct.

Q. Could be Richmond?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, is there Louise Tatum's, a/k/a Veronica Jones' father listed?

Page 181.

A. Yes.

Q. Under what name?

A. Clark Gray.

Q. And is the mother listed?

A. Correct.

Q. Under what name?

A. Shirley Wilson.

Q. Shirley Wilson?

A. Correct.

Q. And, Miss, to your knowledge, in all these records, Veronica Jones never uses the same last name as her mother?

A. I don't know. I did not go completely through this file, I don't know what's in all of the documents.

Q. Right. Just dealing with the parts you looked at.

A. Right.

Q. You never saw her anywhere listed under the same name as her mother, which is Wilson?

A. No.

Q. And is her mother's address listed?

A. Yes.

Q. And where is it listed as?

A. 812 Kingshow, Lindenwold, New Jersey.

Page 182.

Q. So her mother's address is not listed as Camden, is it?

A. No.

Q. Now, there is something called an Initial Interview?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that an initial interview by the Probation people, so far as you know?

A. By the probation officer.

Q. And is that dated?

A. 7-18-88.

Q. And here again the mother's name is listed as Wilson, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. And Lindenwold, New Jersey?

A. Correct.

Q. Now just going back to where we began so that we're clear. Hypothetically, if a private investigator showed up at the Parole Department or the Probation Department office where these files are maintained, and showed his or her identification, would these files be turned over to that individual?

A. No.

Q. And the only way would be through a properly issued subpoena, but you don't know how to your knowledge one is properly issued?

A. Either a subpoena or an authorization to release records from the individual, or the individual can ask for them himself with the right identification.

Q. Right, it would have to be the individual?

A. Correct, or an authorization to release the records from that individual.

Q. From that individual?

A. Correct.

Q. But if someone didn't have Veronica Jones, the only way he would get it was through a properly issued subpoena?

A. Correct.

Q. Right. And if someone got these records, now, to your reading of them -- and I think we've gone through most of the pages -- they would see three or four names of a Veronica Jones, three or four addresses, the fact that her mother is under a different name than she uses, and that her mother lived in Lindenwold; is that correct?

A. Correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. Okay, fine. Thank you, Miss.

I have nothing further.

Page 184.

MS. FISK: Could I have the Exhibit back.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Since we are so thoroughly going through this document, ma'am, just in a second, am I correct that when the Probation Department creates its record, they place it under the official caption of the case?

A. Yes.

Q. That is the probation file?

A. That is correct.

Q. In this case the case in which Miss Jones had been found guilty was entitled or captioned Commonwealth versus Louise Tatum?

A. Correct.

Q. And for that reason all of the documents bear that official Court name, that case and term number of that conviction; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is it otherwise clear to you, however, that the probationer utilized in daily events the name of Veronica Jones?

A. Yes.

Page 185.

Q. And that on every occasion that she signed any document or was asked to give her name to a probation officer, that the name that she provided was Veronica Jones?

A. Right.

Q. And that the name Louise Tatum is being used because the official conviction, the conviction for which she was on probation, was under that name Louise Tatum?

A. That is correct.

Q. Is it also clear to you, ma'am, based on an Out-Of-Town Services Room 509 Agreement To Return, that Miss Jones, on July 18th, 1988, signed a document agreeing that as of that date, July 1988, that she was going to be residing at an address which is specifically typed in in Camden, New Jersey during the term of her two-year probation which was beginning on that date in 1988?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that address given by her in Camden, New Jersey and signed by her as Veronica Jones, also known as Louise Tatum appears in this document?

A. Correct.

Q. And is there in fact within this file requests from the Department, the Philadelphia Adult Probation

Page 186.

Department to transfer this probation to Camden, New Jersey, specifically because that is where the probationer has expressed her intent to live during the terms of her probation as reflected in these files?

A. Yes.

Q. Do we also have in this file on her Initial Interview record an indication of the names and ages of Miss Jones' children?

A. Yes.

Q. Specifically as of the date of the document, that being July 18th, 1988, the names and the then current ages of her three daughters are given on that document?

A. Correct.

Q. And does that same document, the initial interview, show that Miss Jones resides at a specific address in Camden, New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Now with a telephone number?

A. Yes.

Q. With a previous address in Camden, New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. And with her mother's address, who is also named, in Lindenwold, New Jersey?

Page 187.

A. Yes.

Q. Does the second page of that document, ma'am, provide us with the name of the high school where Miss Jones attended?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it provide an employment history for Miss Jones, that is where she works, the phone number of that employer, the position she held, the amount of money she was paid, and her previous employer and the period she worked for that previous employer?

A. Yes.

Q. Does the same document -- and I am now in the middle of page 2 of that initial interview which occurred in 1988 -- reflect that Miss Jones while a resident of Camden was then currently receiving public assistance and in fact the amount that she was receiving is listed?

A. Yes.

Q. And is the case number under which she received public assistance in Camden, New Jersey reflected on that form?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. With respect to the question just asked of you --

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have a copy of C-3.

MS. FISK: May I pass it back, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir (handing).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. With respect to the information contained in C-3, a lot of it is provided by the probationer; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You don't know if it's true or not?

A. No.

Q. So in response to all the questions about high school and previous employment, you don't know if that's true information?

A. I don't know.

Q. As a matter of fact, in your experience, Miss Reffner, someone with a criminal history of Veronica Jones might not provide true information?

Page 189.

MS. FISK: Oh, my goodness, is Mr. Weinglass suggesting that perhaps we shouldn't believe Miss Jones' testimony given in this hearing?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would you answer the question?

MS. FISK: I object.

MR. WEINGLASS: What is the form of that objection?

THE COURT: I don't know, what are you asking me for?

MR. WEINGLASS: Is the Court going to rule on that?

THE COURT: If she tells me what her objection is and why you think you can.

MR. WEINGLASS: She hasn't told any of us the basis for the objection.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, Counsel has asked the witness whether in her opinion persons with criminal records might give false information. To that I object.

THE COURT: Well, evidently the defense witness did exactly that.

MR. WEINGLASS: When she testified in '82.

Page 190.

THE COURT: Well, when she testified here.

MS. FISK: At some point she admitted that she did.

THE COURT: She gave this information to the Probation Department. And if that's wrong, that's your witness.

MS. FISK: My objection, Your Honor, is to asking this witness as the custodian of records to give an opinion as to whether persons would give false information.

THE COURT: I keep telling you she is the custodian of records. She didn't make this record, she didn't talk to you about this, she just keeps these records. And when they are subpoenaed she comes in and says here's the records.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. But she also indicated because she was questioned extensively that she's familiar with how this information is generated.

THE COURT: Well, it should be generated through the probation officer who is handling the case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, and frequently

Page 191.

she's found out in her experience that the information provided by the probationers is not true.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. FISK: And it is to that question that I object, Your Honor. The fact that Counsel never even looked at this information is the point that I am trying to make.

MR. WEINGLASS: Counsel couldn't get it. The witness said --

THE COURT: You could get it.

MS. FISK: They subpoenaed every other document under the sun, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You could get it very easily. And if nobody gives it to you you go to the President Judge, you can to the Administrative Judge, or you go to the Judge who put her on probation. Any one of those can authorize you getting the records. Very easy.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Could you answer the question that was pending?

THE COURT: Well, she objected. I will sustain the objection. You are asking for her opinion. She is not here as an expert witness. She is here as the custodian of records. That's all. And the records speak for themselves.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would law enforcement agencies have access to this information that's in this record?

A. Yes.

Q. They could get it at any time?

A. Yes.

Q. So the Camden police could get it at any time?

A. Yes.

Q. To your knowledge did they ever request this information in the last two years?

A. Not that I know of. If there would be something in the file.

THE COURT: They sent the case over there.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions.

THE COURT: They sent the case over there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: They sent the case over to

Page 193.

Camden so they would have this information.

MS. FISK: Woodbury sent the bench warrant.

THE COURT: I am not talking about the bench warrant. He is talking about these records.

MS. FISK: Or the probation.

THE COURT: He is talking about these records, whether they would be able to get them. They got them.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, would the Court permit the witness to retain the original and allow the photocopy --

THE COURT: Oh, sure. She has to keep the original.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

Your Honor, the Commonwealth next calls Mr. William Thomas.

- - - - -

William Thomas, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the defense objects to Mr. Thomas as a witness. He violated the sequestration order of this Court, which was invoked pursuant to the request of the Assistant District Attorney, by being present in Court during the testimony of other witnesses.

Page 194.

MS. FISK: Which other witnesses?

MR. WEINGLASS: I believe he was present this morning.

MS. FISK: He was not. He was on call and he came this afternoon at 1:30. And if you would like to ask Mr. Thomas that prior to his testifying, you can. I reached him at work during the luncheon recess.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: If the witness could be asked.

THE COURT: Well, ask him.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Thomas, were you here this morning?

A. No, sir, I was not.

Q. Have you been inside this Courtroom during any testimony whatsoever during the pendency of this hearing, sir?

A. No, sir, I have not.

MS. FISK: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Are you satisfied? Are you withdrawing your request?

Page 195.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You were present, though, in Court this morning?

THE COURT: He told you no.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. No, were you present inside the well of the Court this morning?

A. No, sir, I was at my job and I performed my duties until I was called at 1:30. I was eating my lunch and I came down here, I changed clothes and came down here.

Q. And the first time you arrived at the building?

A. The first time I arrived at the building was about 20 minutes ago, sir.

THE COURT: Well, that's another one down the drain.

Go ahead.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Thomas, you were formerly a Homicide detective assigned to the investigation of the murder of Police Officer Daniel Faulkner?

Page 196.

William Thomas - Direct

A. Yes, sir, at that time I was Detective and my Badge number then was 744.

Q. Mr. Thomas, the defense in this case, or the Petitioner, that is Mr. Jamal, in the Petitioner's status report and renewed motions for recusal and for discovery and Brady disclosures, reveal on page 8, footnote 2, that although you, Detective Thomas, apparently was not one of the two detectives who threatened Jones, that is Veronica Jones, at the jail given his central role in the prosecution, he would almost certainly have been aware of their activity.

May I ask you, therefore, sir, since apparently based on the defense representation you have been aware of something had it occurred, did any police officers go to the prison in an attempt to threaten Jones at the jail?

A. Not with my knowledge.

Q. Thank you.

A. And not with my direction.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further of Mr. Thomas.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 197.

William Thomas - Cross

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, Detective, first of all, good afternoon, Detective Thomas.

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. So I take it that this could have occurred but you would be unaware of it?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, you just testified that you're unaware of any such intimidation of Veronica Jones; isn't that right?

A. She asked me a question and I answered it.

Q. Exactly, that you are unaware of any intimidation of Veronica Jones?

A. That is correct.

Q. So if it occurred you wouldn't be aware of it?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Counselor, that's not the proper way to ask questions. It is the kind of question that nobody can answer. He says he is not aware of any.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right.

THE COURT: Now, if you have some witnesses that could prove that he was aware of it, fine, produce them.

Page 198.

William Thomas - Cross

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. When you were working on this case you were supervised by a Sergeant Herbert Gibbons and a Lieutenant McGowan; isn't that true?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. That is beyond the scope of direct examination which was limited very expressly to the sentence placed by defense Counsel in their Petition. That is beyond the scope.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to establish who would have intimidated Miss Veronica Jones.

MS. FISK: Ahh. Your Honor --

THE COURT: Does he know?

MS. FISK: May I note that it was Counsel who placed in their footnote that it would be this individual, Detective Thomas, Mr. Thomas, who would almost certainly have been aware of the activity which Miss Jones alleged occurred. He has been called for one reason and one reason only: To refute the statement that defense themselves made regarding his awareness. He has testified he is unaware of any such activity. That was the entirety of direct examination and asking about his supervisors is beyond the scope of that.

Page 199.

William Thomas - Cross

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I will adopt him as our witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, you can't, not now. She put him on as her witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I can adopt him as my witness.

THE COURT: You would like to adopt him.

Do you want to be adopted by him?

THE WITNESS: How much money does he have?

THE COURT: You want to be adopted by this attorney?

He doesn't want to be adopted by you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Leave that. If you have evidence of this bring it in through whatever evidence you have.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will do it through this witness.

THE COURT: No, you can't: He doesn't know anything about it, period. He said it.

MR. WILLIAMS: You haven't permitted me to cross-examine him.

THE COURT: But he already said not

Page 200.

William Thomas - Cross

that he knows. He doesn't know --

MR. WILLIAMS: We just accept the direct testimony, we don't need cross-examination.

THE COURT: Look, you accused him in your Petition of something. She brought him in to disprove that and he comes in and he says I don't know anything about that.

MR. WILLIAMS: It is on --

THE COURT: Now, where did you get the information that he would know something about that?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not entitled to cross-examine him?

THE COURT: I said where did you get the information that he would know something about it?

MR. WILLIAMS: Based upon his status in the investigation.

THE COURT: Well, he told you his status and he doesn't know anything about it, period.

MS. FISK: That's why I want to cross-examine him.

THE COURT: Well, do you want to bring

Page 201.

William Thomas - Cross

these other witnesses in? Bring them in. Why don't you bring them in?

MR. WILLIAMS: I just want to cross-examine a witness that the Commonwealth brought in.

THE COURT: It is a fishing expedition with you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Not at all.

THE COURT: Oh, yes it is. If it is not a fishing expedition what is the value of it?

MR. WILLIAMS: How do you know if it is a fishing expedition?

THE COURT: Because that's what you are asking. You are asking him to say who were the other investigators.

MR. WILLIAMS: Is Your Honor denying me my right to cross-examine?

THE COURT: I am not denying your right to cross examine but only what he knows.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am inquiring.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Do you know whether you were supervised by a Sergeant Herbert Gibbons and a Lieutenant McGowan?

A. Do I know if I was supervised by Herbert

Page 202.

William Thomas - Cross

Gibbons and Lieutenant McGowan?

Q. On this particular case.

A. They were my supervisors for my particular squad but, you know, in any case you have supervisors all the way up to the Commissioner.

Q. I understand that. Were they your supervisors on this particular case?

A. They were my immediate supervisors at that time, I believe.

Q. And these supervisors had a better grasp of the overview of this investigation than you did; isn't that right?

THE COURT: Why didn't you subpoena them?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just asking him.

THE COURT: What do you expect him to say? They are his supervisors.

MR. WILLIAMS: Did they have a better grasp of the overview of his investigation.

THE COURT: He can't answer for them.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, he did at the hearing last summer. I have it here.

THE COURT: Well, that was last summer. This is now.

MR. WILLIAMS: Right, so I am just

Page 203.

William Thomas - Cross

getting --

THE COURT: You should have asked him those questions last summer, not now. He said they are his supervisors. And if you want to bring those supervisors in, bring them in. He can't answer for them. He can only answer for himself.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you examine the police report from supervisor Gibbons in connection with this case?

A. Did I examine what?

Q. Any reports from supervisor Gibbons.

THE COURT: You mean that was his job?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking. Well --

THE COURT: But he works under these people. You mean if someone works under me, he could supervise me or tell you what I'm doing?

MR. WILLIAMS: He could answer the question. If he didn't he didn't. I'm asking him.

THE WITNESS: I don't understand the question, Counselor. You know, maybe if you repeat it or you change the words around.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you examine any reports authored or

Page 204.

William Thomas - Cross

prepared by your supervisor Sergeant Gibbons?

A. Usually it's my supervisor that looks over my reports, not me looking over my supervisor's reports.

Q. So the answer is no?

THE COURT: Sure. He told you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I would just like to get a yes or no. If he didn't he didn't. If he did he did.

THE WITNESS: If you have a particular report that you want to show me and ask me.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you examine a report by Sergeant Gibbons? If the answer is no that's fine.

A. No, not that I recall, no.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that some individuals who were witnesses to this incident were interviewed on more than one occasion?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. Now you're going way, way afar. He wasn't brought in here for that purpose.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Was it your job to determine whether a witness was to be re interviewed in connection with this case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 205.

William Thomas - Cross

THE COURT: Sustained. He is not the supervisor here, he had his own supervisors.

MS. FISK: It is also beyond the scope of the direct examination.

MR. WILLIAMS: So I take it his supervisors would be authorized --

THE COURT: I don't know what they did. If you think it's important subpoena them.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So let me put it this way, then. You don't know whether your supervisors authorized an interview and interrogation of Veronica Jones within weeks of her testifying at the trial of this matter?

MS. FISK: He also doesn't know whether Martians have landed from Mars yet, Your Honor. That is also beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: Sustained, sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So you can't come in to categorically deny that the interrogation that Miss Jones testified to in this proceeding occurred or did not occur, you can't testify about that, can you?

MS. FISK: Because it is impossible to prove that something that didn't happen didn't happen. He is responding to the charges that the defense have made in their Petition, Your Honor.

Page 206.

William Thomas - Cross

THE COURT: Yes, he is trying to prove a negative.

MS. FISK: Precisely.

THE COURT: You could never do that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: Counselor, he is only here for one thing, what he did. If you have somebody else in mind you subpoena them.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now when witnesses were brought to Court for Mr. Jamal's trial they were brought in by the D.A.'s Office through D.A. detectives; is that right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You can't tell us here under oath whether detectives from the District Attorney's Office visited Miss Jones, can you?

MS. FISK: I object to that question,

Page 207.

William Thomas - Cross

Your Honor, in its form. It is beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You can't testify under oath whether detectives from the District Attorney's Office visited Miss Jones before she testified in 1982, can you?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, he is limited by his knowledge of the case as the assigned detective.

MR. WILLIAMS: If he doesn't know he doesn't know.

MS. FISK: I object to the form of the question.

MR. WILLIAMS: Sure, she is afraid of the answer.

THE COURT: No --

MS. FISK: I know the answer. He could only say what he knows. He has testified to that.

THE COURT: Now, if you want to bring in the D.A.'s detectives, fine.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, if they want to provide the names of the D.A. detectives who

Page 208.

William Thomas - Cross

visited Miss Jones --

MS. FISK: There were none. Listen, it is easy to understand: No one visited the woman in prison. No one threatened the woman in prison. Nobody cared what the woman was saying. There were none.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's put Miss Fisk under oath now and I will cross-examine her.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, if defense Counsel can't think of any questions to ask the witness that are not far beyond the scope of direct examination that is unfortunate, but that does not give them license to ask questions that are beyond the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: Counselor, you know, you go to the prison, find out who visited.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think the record should reveal that Ms. Fisk was screaming here in her last comment without response from the Court.

THE COURT: You were screaming too.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I haven't raised my voice.

THE COURT: He was screaming too.

MR. WEINGLASS: I haven't raised my

Page 209.

William Thomas - Cross

voice.

THE COURT: Oh, no, you never raise your voice.

MR. WEINGLASS: Only in an attempt to be heard.

THE COURT: Of course not. I wouldn't even think of accusing you of raising your voice. Why that's facetious. Oh, my God, you wouldn't do that.

But unless you have some relevant questions he is limited to what he just said, that's it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Miss Jones was brought in to testify at the trial of this matter through the District Attorney's Office; isn't that right?

A. I have no idea, Counselor. I have no idea.

Q. Do you recall testifying back on June 29th, 1982?

Counsel, page 86 going onto page 87.

Question, question of you: Did you not arrange at my request that Miss Jones be present today if Counsel wished to talk to her or whatever he wishes to do.

Your answer: Yes, before coming to

Page 210.

William Thomas - Cross

Court I did arrange that.

Do you recall that?

A. It's the first time I heard that and I have never read the transcript of the trial. So if that's what I said at that time, you know, this is 16 years later, I have no recollection of it.

Q. So you don't recall whether you in fact had any involvement in bringing Miss Jones into Court?

A. I believe if you read the statement I believe it said I took care of that matter. It does not mean that I had to do it personally.

Q. But you don't recall having done that?

A. Having done what?

Q Having brought Miss Jones in to testify. Or even arranging to have Miss Jones brought in to testify?

A. I don't, I don't recall arranging or bringing her in, I don't recall that. Wait a minute. I know that, I don't believe that I brought her in, if that was Miss Jones that was here yesterday and all, then I don't recall bringing her in. I don't remember that face, anyway, and all. And I would have to just yield to what I testified at that time as being the facts of the case.

Q. So if she was brought in by law enforcement authorities it would have been other authorities, other personnel?

Page 211.

William Thomas - Cross

A. I don't recall at this juncture myself bringing her in. But I may have. I can't say. I don't think I did.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So let me see if I understand you correctly, sir. You said you didn't recognize Veronica Jones yesterday?

A. Correct.

Q. So you were here in Court yesterday?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where did you see her?

A. If, there was a lady that came in and sat beside you in that second row back there, before we were -- if you remember, I was sitting right here (indicating).

MS. FISK: Indicating the jury box, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: I was sitting in the jury box.and they asked for sequestration. There was one lady, a black female, that did come in and sat in that back row behind

Page 212.

William Thomas - Cross

Mr. Jamal, and I believe it was next to you and all now. If that was Mrs. Jones. I didn't read the newspaper accounts today or anything. I had a paper but I didn't read it for this particular reason.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Are you saying that you don't recall ever seeing Miss Jones?

A. Counselor, 16 years ago and the number of cases that I've handled over the years, not just this case but the cases and all, witnesses, you know, I don't remember all the witnesses that I may have interviewed or all of the witnesses, even the statements that I have taken and all, I can't remember. Like I say, what I testified at that time is what I knew to be the truth. And that's what I testified then, that's what I am trying to do now.

Q. So I take it that you can't recall whether you may have authorized someone to visit Miss Jones before she testified?

THE COURT: Counselor, he said whatever he said then is what he said, period.

MR. WILLIAMS: But I am asking him now whether as he sits here can he recall whether he authorized or ordered anyone to visit Miss Jones weeks before she testified.

THE COURT: I thought he said that in 16 years he can't remember anything.

MR. WILLIAMS: Precisely.

THE COURT: Counselor, which is true.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions. He can't recall.

THE COURT: How many cases have I had. I can't remember them all.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am satisfied. He can't recall.

THE COURT: But he could recall whatever he said today.

MR. WILLIAMS: He just said he can't recall and Your Honor recollects that also. He just said he can't recall 16 years ago.

THE COURT: Specific things that you're asking about that he said.

MR. WILLIAMS: No.

THE COURT: He said whatever he said then he said.

MS. FISK: What Counsel is asking I would have no objection to the witness being permitted to answer the question. Counsel is asking him now whether he recalls sending people out to intimidate Miss Jones then.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Can you recall as you sit here today whether you directed anyone to visit Miss Jones before she testified?

A. Counselor, I am a detective. I don't send anyone anywhere or order anyone to do anything and all that. I only do my job.

Q. But you can't even recall whether you assisted in bringing Miss Jones into Court 16 years ago, can you?

A. No, I don't. But I --

Q. If you were assisting to arrange Miss Jones be brought into Court and if you didn't do it personally that would involve asking somebody to go out and get Miss Jones; isn't that right?

A. It could, yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: No further questions.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Thomas, when an individual, after 30 years of being a detective in Philadelphia, when an individual was in custody in the Philadelphia County Prison System and was needed to appear as a witness in a Court, would it be standard practice for the detective assigned, or anyone involved but in particular for the detective assigned, to request that the witness be brought down to the courtroom?

A. That is correct, a bringdown form is made up. But it's not done by usually the Philadelphia Police detectives, we don't handle that.

Q. Can a detective simply ask a clerk in the courtroom to prepare a bringdown?

A. I don't recall myself ever doing it at all.

Q. I understand that. When a bringdown of a witness is requested, who brings down the witness to the Courtroom?

A. The Sheriffs Department.

Q. And is that the Sheriffs van, does that go from the prison to the cell room which was then in City Hall?

A. That's correct.

Q. Mr. Thomas, do you ever, did you ever -- let me restate that. You told us that you do not have specific recollection of many things in many of your cases. Would you expect that if you had sent two police officers, or had been told two police officers went to a prison to threaten a witness prior to trial, that that would be an incident about which you would retain a memory?

A. I would retain memory, but I would never do anything like that.

Q. And in addition to not doing it in this case, were you ever aware that it was ever done in this case?

A. No.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now let me follow up on the practice that you just talked about. Isn't it a fact that when witnesses are brought in through the District Attorney's Office they are brought in through District Attorney detectives?

MS. FISK: Well, Judge, my objection to the question is that it is a question without a foundation. There is no indication that the witness was brought in through the District Attorney's Office. There is an indication in the record that the witness was brought to the Courtroom and there is no indication that it was done by any way other than the standard way, that is via a bringdown.

THE COURT: If she was in custody the Sheriff would have brought her down. That is the normal procedure in this Courtroom. In any courtroom in Philadelphia.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you know whether Miss Jones was in custody at the time of the trial?

A. I don't recall at this juncture where Miss Jones was, no.

Q. And you don't recall whether D.A. detectives were used to bring her into the Courtroom, into the Court building, do you?

A. No, sir, I wouldn't, I wouldn't know how she got in, no, sir. I have no personal knowledge of it.

Q. And if detectives, either from the D.A.'s Office or within the Police Department, engaged in illegal activity, would you expect them to report that to you?

MS. FISK: Judge, it is the defense who expected him to report it to them, apparently. I am the one who is quoting from their document filed with this Court. That is a ridiculous question, I object.

THE COURT: I will sustain the objection.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, the suggestion that the law enforcement would publicize their illegal activities is what is ridiculous.

THE COURT: You are presupposing facts that you haven't proven. You are saying that they are doing something illegal. Where is the evidence that they did? Why don't you check and find out if the Sheriff brought her in?

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor is presupposing.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Let me just make sure I understand you correctly.

THE COURT: No, I am not presupposing. What I am telling you is what I know of my own personal knowledge sitting in this Courtroom and trying cases. When a witness is in custody they are usually brought down by the Sheriff because the Sheriff is the one that goes there, picks up the witness, bring them to City Hall.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, but, Your Honor, if I may, Mr. Thomas testified last summer that, and I quote, but as far as availability, I give the witness to the D.A.'s Office. The D.A. has D.A. detectives to serve the subpoenas and get their witnesses in.

THE COURT: That's when witnesses are not in custody. That's when they are out on the street. The D.A. detectives serve the subpoena and sees that they come in.

MR. WILLIAMS: The point is there are D.A. detectives who have --

THE COURT: Not when they are in custody. Counselor --

MR. WILLIAMS: Are you suggesting that D.A. detectives are not authorized to enter into a prison facility?

THE COURT: Not without a Judge's permission. And I could tell you I never gave any permission to bring anybody in. The Sheriff always brings them in.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I think we really ought to have testimony from the witness stand regarding your remark.

THE COURT: Counselor, you should have researched this first. Don't ask him, he is out of the business for quite a while now. Why don't you ask somebody that is still in the business that knows how they operate. Call the Sheriffs.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Is there a mechanism to determine whether a potential witness is in fact in custody?

A. Is there a mechanism?

Q. Yes.

THE COURT: Sure.

THE WITNESS: From my general knowledge and everything, you can call up any State institution, they can put a name in the computer and they can tell you if they are in any State institution around the State of Pennsylvania. You can call the State in Pittsburgh and ask them for somebody that's in Philadelphia. But, you know, I don't know whether that was in effect when this trial went on or not. But I know what it is today.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. But you don 't know whether Miss Jones was in fact in custody back in 1982, you don't know that?

A. I don't recall it, no.

Q. And if a defense, an individual who the defense wants to call as a witness is in custody in Pennsylvania, do you know the procedure by which that defense attorney can have that witness in custody produced for the trial?

A. You mean then or now?

Q. In 1982, the relevant period that we are discussing.

A. I have no idea exactly how the defense operates. I've always been on the prosecution side so I really couldn't tell you.

THE COURT: Counselor, why don't you ask me that question, I will tell you. I was the Undersheriff.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have a witness on the stand, that's --

THE COURT: He doesn't know how that's done. I could tell you how it's done. You get a writ of habeas corpus and you give it to the Sheriff and they bring them in.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. If the defense counsel asked the prosecution to assist in bringing a witness in who is incarcerated, do you know what procedure is used by the District Attorney's Office to bring that individual in for the trial?

A. No, sir, I am a Philadelphia Police detective at that time, I wouldn't know exactly how the D.A.'s Office, I wouldn't want to sit in and testify as to how the D.A.'s Office runs.

Q. Have you ever brought in a witness at the defense request?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What do you mean did he ever bring in?

MR. WILLIAMS: Let me be a little more precise.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Have you ever brought in a witness who is incarcerated at the defense request so that witness could testify at a trial?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, I will let him answer.

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Have you ever arranged for such an individual to be brought in for the trial?

A. When you say arranged and all, in other words,

I go directly to the prison and contact them, no. I couldn't do that.

Q. Well, when you testified in 1982 and you said that you did arrange that, that is --

A. Right.

Q. -- that is the production of Veronica Jones for the trial --

A. Right.

Q. -- what did you mean?

A. In other words, I would contact the pertinent people whose responsibility with the D.A.'s Office it would be to see that the bringdowns are done and all and it's up to them to get it done. If they got it done and say okay it's been done, the bringdown's been made, whatever, you know, let Mr. McGill know that the bringdowns been made or whatever. So that would be someone from the D.A. 's Office that actually does most of the work on that.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, is it my understanding, sir, that if in fact you were aware of police intimidation of Veronica Jones in the nature of which she testified yesterday, that you would now under oath tell this Court that such activity occurred?

A. Counselor, I think I earlier told you I didn't read the newspapers today on this matter. I have a newspaper back there but I didn't read it so I have no idea what she testified to.

Q. All right, let me just ask it this way, then. Are you telling this Court that if you had knowledge of illegal police activity concerning a defense witness in regards to this case, that you would inform this Court about that illegal police activity?

A. Sir, if I knew anything that was illegal, whether it was this case or another incident that happened down the corner, or someone getting robbed over there, the pertinent people, police or whatever it would be, would have been notified by me.

Q. You would have notified somebody?

A. That is correct.

Q. Have you ever heard of the term the blue wall of silence or the code of silence?

THE COURT: Come on.

MS. FISK: Judge.

THE COURT: Come on. Now you are really digging into the lowest depths of possibility. Let's not besmirch the entire Police Department. A few men maybe went sour,

Page 225.

William Thomas - Recross

but that doesn't mean everybody in the Police Department went sour.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not suggesting that. I am just suggesting that a few men went sour in this case.

THE COURT: It is just the same thing when some lawyers do something wrong. Do we condemn the entire Police Department?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am not suggesting we condemn the entire Police Department.

THE COURT: The terminology you use is doing exactly that. And I object to you using that kind of a phrase. He told you if he knew of it he would report it.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further. The Commonwealth calls Mister --

THE COURT: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Mr. Bennett, please.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Bennett, you are a former homicide detective, sir?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. When did you retire from the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. December 20th, 1993.

Q. After how many years of service?

A. Over 31.

Q. Were you a homicide detective in December 1981?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And in that capacity did you conduct an interview with Veronica Jones?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. By whom were you accompanied when you conducted an interview with Veronica Jones?

A. Detective Roger Harmon.

Q. Was there any other police personnel with you when you and Detective Harmon interviewed Miss Jones?

A. There was a police officer from Camden with us too.

Q. Any other police personnel?

Page 227.

Daniel Bennett - Direct

A. No, that's all I remember.

Q. Other than yourself, Detective Harmon, the Camden police officer and Miss Jones, were there any other persons present when you interviewed Miss Jones?

A. That's all I remember being there.

Q. Was Miss Jones' mother there, if you recall?

A. It was her mother's house but I am not sure. She wasn't there at the time of the interview; she may have been in another room or something.

Q. Where was her mother's house that the interview took place in?

A. That was in Camden, New Jersey.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I believe that Miss Jones' December 1981 statement has previously been marked. Do you have a copy of that? Has it been previously marked?

THE COURT OFFICER: There was a statement marked D-l.

THE COURT: It was attached to his Petition, or his motion.

MS. FISK: I know it is, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't know if it was marked in this particular case.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-l.

Page 228.

Daniel Bennett - Direct

MS. FISK: Can I have that?

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, you can.

MS. FISK: I knew my copy was missing for a good reason.

THE COURT: You should keep checking.

MS. FISK: I should, yes, thank you, Judge. Could this be shown to the witness, please (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: Okay (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Bennett, you are being shown Commonwealth Exhibit 1. Is this a copy of a statement that you took from Miss Jones in the presence of Detective Harmon and the Camden County police officer on December the 15th, 1981?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Would you explain to us the manner in which this statement was taken, please?

A. I wrote the statement out myself, I actually printed it. It was in a question-and-answer form where I would formulate a question, ask the question, and Veronica Jones would give me an answer which I wrote down.

Q. Did you write down a summary of her answer?

A. No, it's the whole answer.

Page 229.

Daniel Bennett - Direct

Q. A verbatim account of her answer?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And did that continue for all the various printed pages, that is pages 1 through 5 of this document?

A. That is correct.

Q. And did you have an opportunity yesterday before the morning session began to thoroughly review these first five pages of Commonwealth Exhibit 1?

A. I read the statement, yes.

Q. And having reviewed it, do these pages accurately reflect word-for-word the questions you asked of Miss Jones and the answers she gave you in the presence of Detective Harmon on December 15th, 1981?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Now, the sixth page attached to Commonwealth Exhibit 1 appears to be a diagram with Locust Street running in the middle, 13th Street at one end and 12th Street at the other end. Do you see that, sir?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Was that diagram prepared by you or Detective Harmon?

A. Detective Harmon prepared the diagram of the streets.

Page 230.

Daniel Bennett - Direct

Q. Now, the words on, I don't know if I should call it the bottom or top of that diagram, where you see words that say heard shots, is that your handwriting?

A. No, it is not.

Q. Do you recognize that as Detective Harmon's handwriting?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you know who wrote those words there?

A. I believe and from what I remember that Veronica Jones wrote those.

Q. How about the word policeman?

A. Also her, also her printing.

Q. How about the rectangle with the four circles with the letters PC inside it, who put that there?

A. That was drawn by Veronica Jones, yes.

Q. And how about the word man --

A. Also.

Q. -- above?

A. Also by Veronica Jones.

Q. Those were all marks placed by Veronica Jones?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did you place onto, did you place any marks onto this document, this map?

A. No, I did not.

Page 231.

Daniel Bennett - Direct

Q. Now with regard to the first five pages of this document: After you asked the questions of Miss Jones and recorded her answers, did you ask Miss Jones to review the document for accuracy?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did she do so?

A. She took time and looked at each and every page and at the end of the page she signed it.

Q. And on how many places did she sign it?

A. She signed all five pages of this statement and she signed the sixth page which is the diagram.

Q. Was that the only contact you ever had with Miss Jones?

A. To my knowledge, yes.

Q. Did you ever visit her in the prison and threaten her?

A. No, I did not.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have no further questions, Your Honor.

(Discussion held off the record at this time.)

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 232.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Officer Bennett.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Retired Detective Bennett. When did you retire?

A. December of 1993.

Q. So given the fact that this interview was in 1981, you did 12 more years of service before you retired?

A. That's correct.

Q. And it would be fair to say that you interviewed a fair number of people in those last 12 years of your service?

A. That is correct.

Q. Could you give us a round figure estimate? I won't hold you to it. Would it be more than a hundred?

A. Yes, it would.

Q. And you're testifying here today from your recollection of an interview back in December of 1981?

A. That is correct.

Q. It would be fair to say that your recollection given the passage of time and the number of interviews you conducted in the meantime might not be

Page 233.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

totally accurate?

A. That could be, yes.

Q. Right. You would have difficulty in totally swearing to the accuracy of everything that you did on December 15th, 1981?

A. Everything I did on that day, I couldn't swear to everything I did that day, no.

Q. Everything you did with respect to this interview?

A. I don't know, because I do remember this interview. I do remember it because of the circumstances in the case. And over those years there were not that many police officers killed that I worked on.

Q. The circumstances that you are referring to is the death of a police officer?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that, I am sure you work hard on every case but the death of a police officer personally motivates all police officers a little more in conducting their work?

A. Only to a certain point.

Q. Yes. And this was one of those cases?

A. Well, I can't say this motivated me really more than any other cases. I mean I worked on a lot of homicides over the years and each one is different.

Page 234.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Right. I don't mean to say you don't work hard on every homicide. When it involves a fellow officer there is a little something about that that kind of keys you up?

A. I guess you could say that to a certain point, yes.

Q. So that on this particular evening, December 15th, 1981, when you went to interview Veronica Jones, you wanted to get a statement from her?

A. When I went there I don't even know if I knew Veronica was going to be there: We had several addresses on her.

Q. Right.

A. And if she was there, and wanted to talk to us, yes, we were going to talk to her.

Q. And you wanted to get a statement that was as accurate as possible?

A. If possible, yes.

Q. And that was as comprehensive and inclusive as possible?

A. If possible, yes.

Q. And in your experience in doing that, when you interview a person who might have been a witness in a

Page 235.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

homicide, you want to be sure that that person at the time of the interview is capable of giving you the information that she or he is conveying?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. And that involves a value judgment on your part?

A. That's right.

Q. And in your view Veronica Jones was able to give you information, in other words, you didn't perceive any disability?

A. No, I did not.

Q. In connection with her ability to talk to you and to recall events?

A. That's correct.

Q. You didn't perceive that she was drunk?

A. No.

Q. On that occasion? And you didn't perceive that she was high on any drugs?

A. No.

Q. So if she testified at the trial that at the time you spoke to her that she was high on marijuana, to your view that is probably unlikely?

A. That is correct.

Q. Because if you saw that she was, you probably at that moment would not have taken the statement?

Page 236.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. That's correct.

Q. So her testimony in 1982, limited to that particular aspect, if she said she was high on marijuana, that would be false, to your knowledge?

A. To my knowledge, yes.

Q. And how long do you recall you spent with Veronica Jones?

A. We were probably there an hour, maybe a little over an hour.

Q. And the we is you and another Homicide detective, Detective Harmon, and a police officer from Camden?

A. Camden, that's correct.

Q. And were the three of you there together at one time with Veronica?

A. The Camden officer is only there initially with us. He stayed in the background when the interview was conducted, he didn't take part in the interview.

Q. Do you recall if the interview occurred in a dining alcove or a kitchen or a living room?

A. I don't remember for sure what room it was in.

Q. But you were all three together in one area?

A. Yes, sir, that's correct.

Q. And you, I believe you said, were the one who

Page 237.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

was writing what became Commonwealth Exhibit 1, the six pages?

A. That's correct.

Q. And your fellow Officer Harmon, was he writing at all in any other document?

A. At some point during the interview Detective Harmon was drawing the diagrams on page 6.

Q. Right. Did he have a black book, I forget the terminology you use in Philadelphia, where he was making entries during the time of the interview?

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. Did you write yourself a report independent of this statement as to your work on the interview of Veronica Jones?

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. You don't follow any practice going back to December of '81 where you yourself write a report of an interview of a witness in a homicide case?

A. No, that wouldn't have been done, no.

Q. Pardon?

A. That would not have been done. It should have been filed with the other interviews on the case.

Q. I see. So it's your testimony that you didn't write anything pertaining to the December 15th, '81 interview other than the six pages that are marked as

Page 238.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Commonwealth 1?

A. Not that I remember, no.

Q. Were you interviewed by any superior or any person in connection with this investigation after you returned with the statement?

A. No, I was not.

Q. What did you do with the statement?

A. It was filed with the other interviews and other paperwork on the case.

Q. When you say filed, you mean you hand carried it back and you inserted it into a file?

A. It would have either been done that way or it would have been given to someone else who had the paperwork at that time and they would have filed it.

Q. The someone who had the paperwork at that time, would that be the investigator in charge of the investigation?

A. It could have been any one of a number of people.

Q. And to your knowledge, you didn't report either in writing or orally to anyone that it was your impression that Veronica Jones was not answering these questions that you put to her truthfully?

A. I didn't record anything like that, no.

Q. And let me ask you: Was it your impression

Page 239.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

that she was answering your questions truthfully?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the basis of the objection?

MS. FISK: Is the witness being called for an expert opinion of whether or not some witness was telling the truth? That is the purpose of the fact-finder, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the witness makes an evaluative judgment of whether or not --

THE COURT: He writes down exactly what the witness says. Whether it is truthful or a lie, he doesn't know. He is not God. Only God knows when we're lying.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you make a judgment of whether or not you are being given accurate and truthful information?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Whether or not he does is not the issue.

THE COURT: Did he write down exactly what the person said, that is all I am interested in.

MR. WEINGLASS: I prefer to get that from the witness, with all due respect to the

Page 240.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Court.

THE COURT: With all due respect, that is not a question you could ask him. Rephrase your question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Detective Bennett, you didn't write down the entire conversations that took place between you and Veronica Jones on December 15th, 1981, isn't that true?

A. That's true, yes.

Q. And so that when you were there with her for an entire hour, how much time was spent in writing down the five pages of handwritten materials that is on C-l?

A. I would just have to guess maybe a half hour, maybe a little longer, depending on how long it took her to answer the questions and for me to write down the answers. It could have been a little longer than a half hour.

Q. Well, in the other half hour, conversation occurred between you and Veronica Jones; isn't that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And I presume a good part of that conversation deals with the events of December 9th?

Page 241.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. No, that's incorrect.

Q. What did that conversation deal with?

A. Basically it was just here is who we are, are you Veronica Jones. Hello, introductions, things like that. And then after the statement was over we just spent a little time sitting there talking and we left. The only thing that had to do with the events, the events of December 9th, were recorded.

Q. So as you started to write, is it your testimony as you started to write this document you had no idea what her answers would be with respect to what she saw on December 9th until after you started writing and she verbally gave you the answers?

A. That's correct. I had no way of knowing what she was going to say.

Q. Right. You didn't ask her Veronica, were you out there that night even before you started writing?

A. No, I don't think I did. I think she knew that we were, what we were there for, is the indication I remember getting from her.

Q. Okay. Now, as a Homicide detective that night, you were asked, of course, to go out and get the statement?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do you recall who asked you?

Page 242.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. No, I don't. Again that could have been any one of a number of people. I don't know who was working that night.

Q. Well, the occurrence was December 9th. And your appearance at Veronica's mother's house was December 15th?

A. That is correct.

Q. So it wasn't the night of the occurrence, it wasn't during the frenetic activity of that night, it was almost a week later?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you were doing this on your regularly assigned hours?

A. I don't know if it was regularly assigned hours or whether I was working overtime that day. I don't know what hours I was working that day.

Q. And who is ordinarily your supervisor at that time?

A. At that time there would have been two, a sergeant and a lieutenant directly. But if there was other, if there were other people involved it could have been numerous other lieutenants.

Q. Right, is it sergeant --

A. Sergeant Gibbons would have been the sergeant and I think it was a Lieutenant McGowan.

Page 243.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. And this was the only work that you did on this case?

A. No, I did other things.

Q. Before?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you talked to other witnesses?

A. I don't know how many other witnesses I talked to. But I do know that I did other things on this case.

Q. Did you talk to a Dessie Hightower?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, this handwriting is your handwriting, is it not?

A. That's correct, it's my printing, yes.

Q. Your printing.

MS. FISK: Is Counsel referring to the first five pages of the document?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I'm sorry.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. That's clear. The first five pages of handwriting?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. And you record the age of Veronica

Page 244.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Jones at 20 years?

A. 20 years, yes.

Q. And you recorded her date of birth?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you indicated this interview occurred at 9:45 at night?

A. That's correct.

Q. You hadn't called in advance, you just appeared at the residence; isn't that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So you appeared unannounced with two other officers, one being a fellow detective and the other being a police officer of Camden?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, you asked an open-ended question to begin with: Would you go on in your own words and tell me what you know about the shooting death of Officer Daniel Faulkner.

A. That is correct.

Q. And that's an open-ended question?

A. Yes.

Q. And you then recorded for the better part of a full one page and about a third of another page what she answered?

A. That is correct.

Page 245.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. And is it your testimony now, today, 15 years later, that you put every word down that she gave you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you interrupt her or stop her at any point?

A. The only time I would stop her was while I was formulating the next question and waiting for her to answer.

Q. Do you have any training in speed writing?

A. No, I did not. I have done an awful lot of it, though.

Q. Right, but you're saying that as she was talking you were writing?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you caught every word?

A. Every word that she said, yes. I mean I may have missed a small and or it or something like that in here, but.

Q. A few words?

A. But all the main words, all the highlights of what she said are in here.

Q. But it's true, is it not, Detective, that you can't say under oath today that you recorded every word that she gave you, you might have missed a few words here and there?

Page 246.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. That's what I said, some of the small, insignificant-type words I may have missed.

Q. Okay. Now, she told you where she was standing when she observed the events that night?

A. That's correct.

Q. But did you ask her what side of the street she was standing on at the intersection of Locust and 12th in your handwritten portion?

A. I don't think I asked her that question directly because in her answer I think I knew where she was standing.

Q. How did you know where she was standing?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the statement speaks for itself.

THE COURT: Well, he can't find it so he's asking him to find it.

THE WITNESS: She says here in the, on page 1 that she was walking away from the High Speed Line entrance. And I know where that High Speed Line entrance is.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Which corner is it on?

A. The southwest. But it's on the 12th Street side. And this is the area she said she was at.

Page 247.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. You have been to that scene, have you not?

A. I've been to that corner down there a thousand times over the years.

Q. And you are telling this Court that there is no entrance on the northwest side of the street?

A. No, I didn't say that.

Q. Is there an entrance on the northwest side?

A. I believe there is one on the northeast corner, I'm not -- the one that I'm familiar with where she said that she was was the corner and an area where prostitutes hung at that time. And maybe when she said that to me, that's what came to my mind.

Q. And you never --

A. There are several High Speed entrances around there at different corners.

Q. Right, and there is one on the northwest corner?

A. Northwest or northeast, I'm not sure of that.

Q. You don't know?

A. I am familiar with one where the girls used to hang. And again --

Q. I'm sorry.

A. By her own diagram.

Q. Right. We will get to that in a moment.

Page 248.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Given the fact that you are placing a witness at a scene at or almost immediately after the shooting of a police officer, didn't you think it was important that night to put the precise corner that she was on at an intersection that has four corners?

A. I don't think by reading this interview that we were actually placing her on the scene. We were placing her a block away and around the corner.

Q. Right. But it was important to know which corner. There were four corners on that intersection. Some --

A. Well, I --

Q. Some corners you can see the scene of the shooting, other corners you can not?

A. Again, by her own drawing (displaying) we know where she was.

Q. I am forgetting her drawing for a moment.

A. I couldn't forget it that night. I am --

Q. The order in which you proceed is you first took her statement in handwriting?

A. That is correct.

Q. And after you had it in handwriting then you went to the diagram; isn't that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. So now you asked her the first

Page 249.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

question, we are right at the start, right at the top, and you ask Veronica, tell us in your own words what you know, and she begins to tell you and she tells you she was at an intersection. I'm asking you at that point is it your testimony you never asked her which corner of that intersection she was on?

A. At that point I never asked her, no.

Q. Now, she tells you then that she looks down Locust Street -- I am near the bottom of page 1 -- and she's looking towards Johnny Dees. Do you know where Johnny Dees was?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Where is Johnny Dees at that time?

A. That was on the southeast corner of 13th and Locust on Locust Street.

Q. On the southeast corner?

A. That's correct.

Q. So she's looking down towards that southeast corner and she said I saw a policeman fall down. Right?

A. That's correct.

Q. This is after she heard three shots?

A. That's correct.

Q. After I saw the policeman fall -- reading from what you wrote -- I saw two black guys walk across

Page 250.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Locust Street and then they started sort of jogging.

Are those the words she used?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. You can't say those are the exact words, though?

A. Well, like I said, I wrote down what she said. These are the words I remember her saying to me at that time.

Q. Did you ask her where they were jogging to?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you ask her in what direction they were jogging?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Were you interested in that?

A. At the time that this was taken maybe I don't know, I didn't know what else she was going to say during the interview. And if I overlooked that question I overlooked it.

Q. But is it your testimony that, Officer Bennett, that in the shooting of a policeman, someone hears shots, sees a policeman fall, some one or two men walk away and start jogging, you did not follow that up with a question to describe those people?

A. In an --

Q. To ask her in what direction they were

Page 251.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

jogging?

A. One thing you have to realize: At that time of night, shooting in that area, there was probably people running and jogging all over the place. Now, she only seen two. I am sure there was other people running.

Q. But she only talked about two, she didn't say everybody was running, she didn't say a lot of people were running?

A. She said she saw two.

Q. She said see heard shots, I looked and I saw two black men running. Did that in any way trigger in your mind the thought that you should ask her who it was by description of who she saw running?

A. Later on in the questioning, on page 5 I ask the question how close did the two black males who jogged and crossed Locust Street get to the fallen officer. And her answer was not close enough, maybe two or three steps away.

Maybe after I heard that I was satisfied that they weren't close enough to have done anything, I don't know. But for some reason I did not ask her what direction they jogged in.

Q. But it was important enough for you to follow it up with a second question on page 5 about those two men jogging?

Page 252.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. Well, the second question was important enough because maybe they were a block away when she seen them jogging. And I asked her how close it was, and when she said not close enough, whatever she means by not close enough.

Q. -- You have an impression they were jogging away from the shooting?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now let's go to the diagram which is page 6. Which I know you didn't draw, your partner Mr. Harmon drew; right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And this diagram is done after you take the written statement?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And what you try to do in this diagram -- correct me if I am wrong -- is to record in a drawing form what the witness has told you she saw?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you on the diagram ask her to put where she saw the two black men jogging after she heard the shots and the policeman fell down?

A. It's not in the diagram. The only, she does make an indication going back towards 13th Street, on the corner of 13th and Locust, southeast corner, again where she seen a man standing. That's the only man she indicates in the diagram.

Page 253.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Detective Bennett, is it your testimony that you never asked her to put on this diagram where she saw the two men jogging?

A. I would have to say yes because it's not on here.

Q. Incidentally, on this diagram, we will leave it, page 6, there is a direction for north, south east and west. Right?

A. Right.

Q. That's ordinarily done?

A. Yes.

Q. Who wrote that?

A. I believe that was done by Detective Harmon.

Q. So it was the detective who put the directions on the diagram?

A. That's my belief, yes, what I remember.

Q. In other words, you don't ask Miss Jones to orient the directions, the detectives do it?

A. Yes. That's correct.

Q. And do you recall that Miss Jones had difficulty in orienting directions with respect to where she was on this diagram?

Page 254.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. No, I don't recall that at all. She even made little dots, little marks which, I mean they could be her footprints from what she tells us.

Q. Right, where she goes around the corner?

A. Around the corner from 13th Street by the High Speed Line entrance and then onto Locust Street.

Q. But do you know in her testimony under oath --

MR. WEINGLASS: Page 112, Counsel.

MS. FISK: I object to the detective being questioned with her testimony under oath, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, I will sustain that. He can't answer for your witness. That is a question --

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You are sure she didn't indicate to you that she was on the northwest corner of that intersection?

A. No. And again, I think if we go back to page 1 of the interview, they were in a restaurant called Rocky's. I know where Rocky's is, I was familiar with where Rocky's was. They left Rocky's, they went down an alley towards 12th Street, they went down 12th Street, crossed Locust Street, and they joked around on the corner for a while. In order to go across Locust Street at that point there you are going down 12th, you would be on the southwest corner.

Page 255.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Right, but then she says we hung out on the corner for a while, which indicates she might have crossed the street to the northwest side?

MS. FISK: Well, I object to that question and what it might or might not indicate, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In other words, you made an assumption and on the basis of that assumption from what you know of the neighborhood you placed her on the southwest corner, and when she testified under oath she said she was on the northwest corner?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. When she testified under oath she denied ever saying these words. Which version would Mr. Weinglass like, the first, the second, the third or the fourth?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have the transcripts again.

MS. FISK: Which transcript? I object to this witness being questioned with the witness --

Page 256.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Of June 29th, 1982 of her testimony under oath where she puts herself on the north --

MS. FISK: She put herself on that corner in her version yesterday as well. My point is she has now given four different versions.

THE COURT: The witnesses were sequestered at the time of trial: He doesn't know what she testified to. You should ask your own witness that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, if Miss Jones said at the trial --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I objected to that question already.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I finish? I have that privilege. You may object of course.

MS. FISK: Well, thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the Court will rule.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. If Miss Jones said at the time at the trial on June 29th, 1982, under oath, that she never told you that she saw two men jogging, that would be false?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to

Page 257.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

that question.

THE COURT: Sustained. That is for me to decide whether it's false or whether it's not false.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: It is not for the witness to tell me.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. As you sit here today, Officer, you are certain that she said to you on December 9th, 1981 --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: 15th.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. -- 15th that she saw two black men jogging away from the scene?

A. I'm positive that's what she told me.

MS. FISK: Did she say jogging or jogging away from the scene? I object to the form of that question. Mr. Weinglass misrepresented to the witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: Jogging away.

MS. FISK: What was recorded as an answer? Would Counsel like to edit the rest of the transcript in this case as well?

MR. WEINGLASS: Following the witness' answer. I am not editing anything.

Page 258.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, Judge, maybe I missed something. My understanding and my reading is that it reads and then they started sort of jogging and that there is then a period there. And if the detective had an impression as to what she meant or what she didn't mean that is certainly his impression, but the words which she spoke and which he recorded do not include the word away on that page.

THE COURT: I agree with that: What is written is written.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Counsel, when Mr. Burns wrote his brief to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, on page 83 he informed the Supreme Court that Miss Jones had retracted her earlier statement --

MS. FISK: Objection to this question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. -- that she said seen someone running from the scene --

MR. WEINGLASS: That's Mr. Burns. That's their official document to the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: He is not on the witness

Page 259.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

stand either right now. And frankly, I don't think Mr. Burns was out there and would be likely a witness in this case ever.

MR. WEINGLASS: I assume the District Attorney tries to accurately --

MS. FISK: That's why we use information from witnesses that have information about the offense.

MR. BURNS: I am gratified that Mr. Weinglass read my brief so carefully but I don't think he is entitled to impeach this --

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not. I am answering Counsel's objection that they don't take the position that the men were jogging away. They took that position before the Supreme Court.

THE COURT: I don't care what position they give. The Supreme Court reads the notes of testimony and they know what each witness says.

MS. FISK: And I would note, Your Honor, that Mr. Burns did in his initial response to Counsel's Petition state that Miss Jones never even said she saw people running away and argued quite strenuously in that document that that was an interpretation that

Page 260.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Counsel, defense Counsel were placing on the document.

MR. WEINGLASS: Page 83, direct quote: Someone running from the scene.

THE COURT: Counsel, I don't care what he put in his brief. The witness can't answer for that. He didn't write that brief. Now, why are you wasting my time. It's getting late.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Detective Bennett, when you went out to the house on December 15th, you were given her address?

A. We secured her address. I don't know whether it was off of a prior contact, report, or what it was from, but we were given her address.

Q. Do you know how it was that almost a week later you had received information that there was this witness who was out there that night?

A. I think that information was probably secured long before a week later. From the, from my memory, I believe it came from another prostitute that was out there that night.

Q. From Cynthia White?

A. And that we had to do some research and everything to find out who she was and where she lived.

Page 261.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Right, it was from Cynthia White?

A. I don't remember the name, it could have been.

Q. Right. You remember the name Cynthia White, though?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And it could have been Cynthia White that provided this information?

A. It could have been her or any of the other people that were out there, yes.

Q. Do you know Cynthia White as Lucky also, that was her name?

A. No, I don't know that, no.

Q. You didn't know it?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So Cynthia White indicated at least to your impression that she knew Veronica Jones?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge. Maybe I am not hearing but that wasn't the response of the witness.

THE COURT: I know.

MS. FISK: I object to Counsel misrepresenting.

THE COURT: I sustain the objection. Please, Counselor, don't misquote what somebody says. It's bad enough to keep a record of what they say.

Page 262.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

BY MR: WEINGLASS:

Q. Just correct me, then, apparently I'm wrong. I think you testified that it's your impression that it was gotten from another prostitute, possibly Cynthia White, who would have to know who Veronica Jones is?

MS. FISK: Judge, how does he know who knows who? Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am asking the witness.

THE COURT: He said he didn't know. Whoever gave him the information, that's what he had. Here is a name, an address, go out there and interview this witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Referring you to page 2 of Commonwealth 1: Did you also hear Miss Jones tell you that she saw one other black guy standing by the entrance of the Speed Line by Johnny Dees?

A. That's what she said, yes.

Q. And you recorded that?

A. That is correct.

Q. And then when she did the diagram was she

Page 263.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

asked to place that person?

A. She does place that person in the diagram, yes.

Q. And she places him right there at that southeast corner?

A. That is correct.

Q. Of 13th and Locust and she writes the word man?

A. That's correct.

Q. That is in her handwriting?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Did you ask her to describe that man?

A. No, I don't think we did, no.

Q. Detective Bennett, prior to your seeing Miss Jones on December 15th and in connection with your investigation of this case, did you talk to a William Singletary?

MS. FISK: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Who claimed to be on the southeast corner right where Miss Jones said she saw a black man?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you talk to William Singletary?

Page 264.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MS. FISK: That was my objection.

THE COURT: Yes, it is sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, it goes to this diagram.

THE COURT: It doesn't go to the diagram. Where she put a man she put a man, that's all. She didn't write Singleton down there.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. No, she didn't know his name but did you attempt to ascertain from her who that man was?

A. I don't think I ever asked the question if she knew who that man was.

Q. He would be pretty close to the murder scene, wouldn't he?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. He would be within feet of Officer Faulkner; isn't that correct?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to where he would be. The statement which she made speaks for itself.

THE COURT: It is her statement, it speaks for itself.

Page 265.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In the course of your work of investigating a homicide of a police officer, if you interview a witness such as Veronica Jones and she indicates that she saw someone else right at the scene at or about the time of the shooting, would you attempt to ascertain the identity of that person for purposes of follow-up investigation?

A. I'm not fully aware -- sure, but we may have already known the identity of that person. Maybe that's why I didn't ask that question: I didn't think too much of it at the time. Then again, there is always a possibility once we review this or somebody else reviews it we go back and talk to Veronica again if we think it is important.

Q. Did you ever go back to talk to Veronica Jones?

A. To her? No, I didn't.

Q. Do you know if anyone ever went back to talk to her?

A. No, I don't think anyone ever did.

Q. Did you ever engage in a conversation with any other investigators in which you pointed to this diagram or explained to them that, A, there might have been another man out there at the scene?

Page 266.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. I don't remember doing that, no.

Q. So this diagram does not have, or -- I'm sorry -- the investigation does not have any description of that man and this diagram does not have any indication of the two black men who were jogging?

MS. FISK: I object to the form of that question, particularly the first half in reference to the investigation. I thought that the testimony was confined to this statement.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to what he did the night of December 15th.

THE COURT: Counselor, do you want me to tell you who the man was who was standing there?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, I object to this Court engaging in this kind of an exercise. It really is, Your Honor, quite futile.

THE COURT: Did you read the notes of testimony?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon?

THE COURT: Did you read the notes of testimony?

Page 267.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: I have read the notes very carefully.

THE COURT: Well, if you know the notes of testimony you know who was standing there.

MR. WEINGLASS: I read the notes of testimony and it is my belief it was William Singletary. Precisely where this person is located.

THE COURT: It wasn't William Singletary.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is exactly where William Singletary placed himself.

THE COURT: No, the officer came on that scene in 45 seconds. 45 seconds.

MR. WEINGLASS: You think it was a policeman?

THE COURT: No, I know who it was. It was his brother.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, his brother was nowhere near where this location is indicated. Nowhere near it, Your Honor. You are way off base, I must say that respectfully. He was up against the wall. This officer who you referred to testified. Up against the wall with his back against the building, raising his hands saying I have nothing to do with this. He was not out by the Speed Line on the southeast corner of 12th end Locust. You're just wrong on this. I say that most respectfully.

Page 268.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: There was only one person on that corner who has testified in this case and that is William Singletary.

THE COURT: I know that. His brother.

MS. FISK: That was a witness who Your Honor found to be incredible based on the fact that he saw police helicopters hovering overhead immediately afterwards in part.

Your Honor, may I ask if there is anymore cross-examination of this detective?

MR. WEINGLASS: There sure is.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now drawing your attention to page 3. In the middle of this page, according to your writing, Veronica Jones identified a woman named Candy who was there with her, or nearby her. Did you attempt afterwards to find out who Candy was?

A. Well, from what she said Candy wasn't a woman, but I never personally tried to find Candy, no.

Page 269.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Right. It's because she refers to Candy or Sabrina and she says I don't know his real name?

A. That is correct.

Q. Yes. Was it your recollection that she said his and not her?

A. I know she said his. That's what I recorded and I know she said his.

Q. In any event, Candy or Sabrina is someone you never did a follow-up investigation on?

A. I never did, no.

Q. And she said someone else was there, Charley Smith was there. She said he was either there or he heard about it?

A. She said she thinks this was one of the guys that picks up trash for Charley Smith.

Q. I'm sorry, for Charley Smith.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay, I'm sorry. One of the guys that picks up trash for Charley Smith. Charley Smith is a trash hauler?

A. Apparently a trash hauler, yes.

Q. Did you ever go to Charley Smith to find out who that particular individual might have been?

Page 270.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. I never did, no.

Q. Just going back to the earlier series of questions, I am finished with Charley Smith. Did you notice the answer that she gave to you if you wrote it verbatim, do you know Candy's full name you ask. And she says she uses Candy and Sabrina, Sabrina, I don't know his real name. So in the same sentence she uses she and then his?

A. That's correct.

Q. And from that you draw what conclusion?

A. Well, my impression from knowing that area for a lot of years, and the name Candy and Sabrina, it's someone that's trying to look like a she who was really a he.

Q. Right.

A. That's the impression she left with me. And that's the way she answered and that's the way I recorded it.

Q. Right, you didn't ask her a follow-up: Veronica, are we talking about a transvestite or are we talking about a male or female?

A. No, I think I just got that impression from her and that's the way it was left.

Q. And again no follow-up investigation there either that you did?

Page 271.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. I don't know. I didn't do anything.

Q. Right, and you didn't do anything about Charley Smith's employee?

A. I did not myself, no.

Q. Right. Now, you asked her how close she got to where the policeman was shot and she said I was near Polly's Coffee Shop. Where is Polly's Coffee Shop?

A. Polly's from my recollection would have been down about half a block away, I think it's Camac Street that cuts through there. And if I am not mistaken, Polly's was on the corner of Camac Street, I am just not that sure which corner. Polly's wasn't open that time of night. And when I was out there, 99 percent of the time it was that time of night.

Q. Right. You knew where Polly's was?

A. No, I know roughly where it was, I don't know for sure.

Q. Wasn't Polly's on the north side of Locust Street?

MS. FISK: No, not then, not ever.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I thought --

MS. FISK: I thought when a witness said he doesn't know that you don't then suggest

Page 272.

Daniel Bennett - Cross things, particularly when you're wrong.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I don't think it is proper for Counsel to answer a question directly.

THE COURT: Please. You know, it is getting late: 4:30. Let's get finished with this witness. He was brought here for one purpose only, but we are going through the whole world on this. You'd think he was the only investigator.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was it your impression as a seasoned investigator, by this time my calculation is you had over 15 years experience, that she was trying to answer your questions candidly, honestly?

A. I don't believe that to be the case, no.

Q. Did you ever inform anyone of that?

A. I don't think I had to. I don't think I did, no.

Q. In other words, you filed this information which is C-l into a homicide file believing that not all the information was correct and you never told anyone that this information was not correct?

A. It is not that it was filed believing that it was incorrect, no. I just, based on a lot of years experience, have found out that people most times, first interview, do not tell you everything that they know. And that's what my feelings were: I think she knew a lot more than what she told us.

Page 273.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. Right. And it would be wise for someone to go back and see Veronica?

A. Well, I ,think if anybody would have reviewed this interview anywhere down the line at that time we probably would have, I would have been questioned on it, that's for sure, and we would have had the same opinion probably.

Q. You don't know that she was picked up in January and questioned for over five hours?

A. No, I don't know that.

Q. You don't know that she was questioned again when she was in lockup in June just before she testified?

MS. FISK: That was a statement of fact or a question? I got confused.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. No, I am asking you if you know?

A. No, I don't know.

Q. You would have recommended that?

A. Would I have recommended it?

Q. Yes.

Page 274.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MS. FISK: What? Recommended what?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You would have recommended that she be interviewed again?

A. To get her to tell the truth, yes. But then again, I mean we could still be sitting here asking her questions.

Q. Right. Well, you thought that she did see someone jog away?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to what he thought.

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, we already had your impression that you weren't getting the whole story. But not getting the whole story, you also thought that she saw someone jog away?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, to what he thought.

THE COURT: Yes, he was only taking down her statement, not his statement.

MR. WEINGLASS: But he has already testified, Your Honor, that he has an impression based on his years of experience and he evaluated the information he was being given.

Page 275.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

And I am asking him did he evaluate the part of someone jogging away.

THE COURT: But, Counselor, what you don't understand: He doesn't have the ultimate say.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course not.

THE COURT: That is someone up above.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: Well, you should ask the somebody else who would be able to answer those questions.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay. Did someone up above who was involved in the investigation come back to you and say Detective Bennett, that information that you recorded in your interview of December 15th, is it your impression that that, that she was telling you the truth?

A. I don't remember anybody up above ever saying that to me, no.

Q. But you do, you did have the impression that she was out there that night and she saw a lot, and maybe she saw more than she told you in the initial interview; isn't that your impression?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 276.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. By the way, you knew that Veronica at that time was a prostitute?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And I don't want to get into any character questions, but you also knew that prostitutes had to be careful in their relationship with the police?

MS. FISK: What? Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained. What do you mean careful?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You also knew that prostitutes would have a self-interest in not doing anything to offend the police?

MS. FISK: Objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Particularly where there is a case where a police officer is killed?

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you take into account when you wrote this and you interviewed her her then occupation as a prostitute?

Page 277.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He said he knew she was a prostitute.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you take it into account?

THE COURT: So what? All he could take into consideration is what she tells him. He doesn't have a right to put anything in there of what he thinks she should tell him.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You wrote down in the interview that she was 20 years old?

A. That is correct.

Q. You knew that she had children?

A. I don't know that I knew that, no.

Q. Did you see children at the house?

A. I don't remember seeing children, no.

Q. They might have been there?

A. They could have been. They could have been upstairs in bed, I just don't know.

Q. Did you see any male members of the household when you were there?

A. No, I don't remember any males being there.

Q. A mother that you indicated at the beginning?

A. I sort of have a vague memory of her mother being there. And it was her mother's house, I know that. But if she was there, and I sort of had a vague memory of it, she did leave us alone and we did the interview.

Q. Right, did you know Veronica lived in that house?

A. Did I know that she lived there? I didn't know where she lived. We had numerous addresses on her.

Q. Right. Did you have aliases also?

A. There were other names, yes, I don't recall what they are, though.

Q. Various addresses, various names?

A. That is correct.

Q. Various Social Security numbers?

A. Well, she gave one Social Security number and she gave me two addresses on the interview.

Q. You wrote them down?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. They were never provided to the defense, though; is that correct?

A. I have no way of knowing.

Q. All right. Is it ordinarily done in a homicide case that the address of a witness is deleted, in your -- no, you can look at me, you don't --

Page 279.

A. There is nothing deleted on here. The addresses that I had at the time she gave us are written on here.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I take a look at the --

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, why don't you just read the addresses in?

A. She gave 1056 Everett Street, Camden, New Jersey, and that is where we did the interview. And she gave 5101 Chester Avenue, top floor, that's Philadelphia.

Q. So you had the impression she might be living in two places?

A. From what I remember, there was more addresses than two.

Q. More than two. Right. So as I understand now your testimony, your interview began at 9:45, that is the date and time you entered?

A. That's correct.

Q. And it concluded at what time?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, objection. I believe it's been asked and answered as to the length of the interview.

Page 280.

THE COURT: I think it has, too. But if it's on there read it off. If not --

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you write the date and time it concluded?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Is there a box for that?

A. No, there isn't.

Q. Now, as I see your document, which is C-l, Veronica's signature appears on every page at the bottom?

A. That is correct.

Q. You do that as a matter of practice?

A. Well, I didn't do that, Veronica did that. It is her signature. I asked her to read and sign it if she agreed with it. She took her time with each page, looked each page over and signed each page individually.

Q. In your presence?

A. Yes.

Q. You can testify of your own knowledge that she signed every page?

A. Yes, I can.

Q. And if she testified in 1982 at the trial under oath that she didn't sign every page, that would be false?

Page 281 is missing. We will attempt to locate it.

Page 282.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

Q. And that wasn't recorded; is that correct?

A. That's not on the interview, no.

Q. So there was more conversation that was never recorded?

A. I testified to that, yes.

Q. All right. And so how much more conversation was there that you never recorded?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

This has been gone over.

THE COURT: Yes, it's getting kind of late, Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I understand.

MS. FISK: Without regard to the hour, it's already been asked and answered.

MR. WEINGLASS: I understand.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ever ask Veronica in this form the question of... no, strike that. Just in summary form: You did not ask her to describe the person who worked for Charley Smith who was out there she said. You did not ask her to describe Candy or Sabrina. You did not ask her to describe the man who was at the southeast corner of Locust and 13th; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Page 283.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object: It has already been answered.

THE WITNESS: It is not what I said. I started to say and that is all I had.

MS. FISK: And I object to the question: It has been asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, did Officer Harmon do any of the questioning?

A. No, I asked all the questions and recorded everything that was said.

Q. And he, as you said, drew the diagram?

A. That is correct.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, that has been asked and answered.

THE COURT: That was a thousand times now. Geez, if you didn't get that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Who drew the police car on the diagram?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Asked and answer.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, that was never answered.

THE COURT: He said Harmon did

Page 284.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

everything as far as drawing on that thing is concerned.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, as I understand it, he drew the geographic lines of the streets. Who drew the car --

MS. FISK: That's been asked and answered that Miss Jones drew that, Your Honor, it is on the record.

MR. WEINGLASS: Oh, is it? Then I'm sorry, I didn't hear it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Miss Jones drew it?

MS. FISK: Apparently Mr. Weinglass chooses that not to hear a great deal, and that which he hears he chooses to change a great deal. That has been asked and answered.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, on page 2 you ask Miss Jones precisely did you see a Volkswagen parked on Locust Street that night. Now, you raised the Volkswagen, you knew there was a Volkswagen there; isn't that correct?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And so you had information going into this interview, of course?

Page 285.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you had read various police reports?

A. No, I don't think I read any reports at that time. I had information just from working on the incident.

Q. Right, but part of your working at that point was not reading reports?

A. That's correct.

Q. You looked at photographs or diagrams?

A. Well, as far as the Volkswagen goes, I was there when the Volkswagen was searched at the Police Garage so I knew it was a Volkswagen.

Q. Right. Do you know what was taken out of the Volkswagen?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, in response to the question about the Volkswagen, what response did Veronica give you that you wrote down?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, objection: The statement speaks for itself.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we are going --

MS. FISK: It has been marked and

Page 286.

Daniel Bennett - Cross

entered into evidence.

THE COURT: He can't read it so would you read what the answer is.

THE WITNESS: She answered, I saw a green Volkswagen go away, then she changed that to around the block a couple of times that night before the shooting. It was driven by a black guy.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did she strike the words away or did you?

A. When she was given the statement to read it is one of the corrections that she made.

Q. Did she initial that?

A. I think that's the only correction. No, it is not.

Q. Isn't it customary to have them initial corrections?

A. I think it is, yes.

Q. You didn't ask her to?

A. I asked her to but I am not going to grab her by the hand and make her do it. She was asked to do it, she just didn't do it.

Q. She said she saw a black guy driving the Volkswagen, the Volkswagen that was parked at the scene. Did you ask her to describe that guy?

Page 287.

A. No, I did not.

Q. Any reason for that?

A. I think at that time I already knew who the guy who was driving the Volkswagen was.

Q. You were sure of that?

A. From what I knew --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to whether the detective was sure or not.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ask her if there were others in that car?

A. No, I did not.

MR. WEINGLASS: Hmm-hmm. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I just, may I approach the witness, Your Honor? I have just, actually I will show the photograph to Counsel first (handing).

May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Go ahead, if you have to.

MS. FISK: I just want to point out one part of the photograph and ask a question about it.

Page 288.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Bennett, do you recognize this photograph as the south side of Locust Street?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you see -- and I am pointing in the left-hand side of the south side of Locust Street down towards, actually you can see clearly a sign Camac as we are going away from 13th Street, a little tea-shaped, tea cup shaped sign?

A. That is correct.

Q. And do you recognize what that sign was for?

A. That was the place I thought was Polly's Coffee Shop.

Q. Is that it?

A. To my knowledge it was.

Q. Is that the south side of Locust Street?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I see that?

MS. FISK: Certainly (handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: Are you sure that is not Chancellor?

MS . FISK: I am certain that is on Locust Street on the corner, southeast corner of

Page 289.

Locust and Camac.

THE COURT: You could take a walk down there.

MS. FISK: It is not there anymore, Judge.

THE COURT: Well, at least you could see the locality.

MS. FISK: It is Uncle's now.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, may I see Counsel for a minute.

I didn't see where you pointed.

MS. FISK: Certainly. Locust Street, on the south side (indicating). And there's Camac. 12th Street is down here. This tea-cup shaped sign, this is Polly's. It is on the other side of Camac Street on the south side of Locust. That is Polly's. It is now a store called Uncle's. If you go down there now you will see a store called Uncle's where Polly's used to be.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You have seen this photograph before?

Page 290.

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. First time you have seen it?

A. From what I remember, yes.

Q. To your knowledge, is this a photo of the crime scene?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. It was used to refresh his recollection with regard to the geography of Locust Street and the south side of Locust Street and the location of a restaurant called Polly's.

MR. WEINGLASS: I can't make out there what the witness identified. Is that east or west of Camac?

MS. FISK: I know it to be... east of Camac Street. Which is, frankly, precisely as the diagram of Miss Jones demonstrates.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I should ask the witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is it east or west of Camac? Do you need the photograph, would it help you?

A. What I testified to earlier was it was on the corner of Camac and Locust. And I couldn't remember which corner exactly it was on because it was always closed at nighttime and that's when I was out there.

Page 291.

Q. Could I show you this picture, would it help you?

A. I don't know if it would or not from that angle from what I have seen here.

Q. You can't say whether it is east or west?

A. From what I have seen here I couldn't tell.

Q. There is a sign here which says Camac?

A. Which corner is the sign on? I mean I don't know.

THE COURT: Counselor, why don't you take a walk down there after we leave here, take a look at it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Polly's isn't there anymore, is it?

A. Not that I know of.

MR. WEINGLASS: Not everything stays the same.

THE COURT: Well, when you wait 14, 15 years, no, it is not going to remain the same.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. There is also the Mission Hotel there?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am just going to ask some questions directed to the photograph.

MS. FISK: Then I suggest you read it

Page 292.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay, you are excused. I will see you tomorrow morning. Same time, same place.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10:00 a.m. at the call of the Crier.

(At 10:05 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I call my next witness?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: I would first renew my request for sequestration of all past and future witnesses and would call Police Officer Jesberger.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, there is no need to sequester past witnesses.

THE COURT: You are not going to call them again?

MR. WEINGLASS: We have no intention of calling them again.

THE COURT: They don't intend to call them anymore. If they testified and they are not going to be called back, who cares.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I would request an offer of proof as to the next witness.

Page 4.

MS. FISK: Certainly, Your Honor. Your Honor, when Veronica Jones testified she was questioned regarding her arrest in 1982 and the location of the guns which she was ultimately charged with and pled nolo contendere to a weapons offense. Her testimony under oath was that those guns were under the cushion in which she sat at the time of her arrest. Officer Jesberger was the arresting officer back in 1982, and will testify that indeed both of those guns were on Miss Jones directly, that is they were both down her pants. It is therefore further evidence that Miss Jones was not truthful in her testimony before this Court and goes directly to impeachment of her credibility.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I'm going to object to that witness on the following ground. Your Honor's made much of the principle of collateralness, collateralness of evidence. And I think this certainly falls within the --

THE COURT: No, this goes to the very heart of the thing.

MR. WILLIAMS: This is a paradigm instance of --

Page 5.

THE COURT: If she is lying now I have to --- make that decision.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: All right, you have an exception to my ruling. I have ruled that he is available, we will put him on. You have an exception to my ruling, argue it up to the Supreme Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, now we are going to have a mini-trial on Miss Jones' gun offense.

THE COURT: We are going to have whatever we are going to have. Counselor, you had a right to bring in all the witnesses you wanted. I am not going to tell her she doesn't have a right to do this. She has given me a legitimate reason for calling this witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: We would ask for time to be able to respond to --

THE COURT: No more time.

MR. WILLIAMS: To be able to respond to the accusations by this Police Officer.

THE COURT: You want to have some time, plenty of time, take it up to the Supreme Court.

MR. WILLIAMS: What we are having is a trial on Miss Jones' --

Page 6.

THE COURT: What we are having, if you will sit down, we will hear the next witness. I want this case to be concluded today.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I would like to see it concluded as well but I don't want to see extrinsic impeachment evidence offered on a collateral matter.

THE COURT: That is not your problem. This is my Courtroom, I make the rulings. If I'm wrong the Supreme Court will overrule me. You have an exception. Now sit down, please. Call your witness.

MS. FISK: I believe Officer Jesberger is sitting in Courtroom 305, if she is not already out in the hallway.

Philadelphia Police Officer Theresa Jesberger, Badge No. 3191, Highway Patrol, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Page 7.

Q. Good morning, Officer Jesberger.

A. Good morning.

Q. How long have you been a Philadelphia Police Officer?

A. Going on 17 years.

Q. And therefore were you a Philadelphia Police Officer back on June the 11th of 1982?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And what was your assignment and position within the Police Department back then?

A. I worked the Philadelphia Highway Patrol in an unmarked unit in the 39th District that night.

Q. Did you on June the llth, 1982 have occasion to effect the arrest of a Veronica Jones?

A. Yes; but it was a different name at that time.

Q. Who was it that you arrested based on your Court records?

A. The name this lady gave us was Louise Tatum.

Q. Is that a person who you currently see in the Courtroom?

A. She stepped out of the Courtroom.

Q. Did you see her here this morning?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you later discover that Louise Tatum was also known as Veronica Jones?

Page 8.

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did that arrest of Miss Jones take place?

A. That took place in the 2600 block of Deacon Street.

Q. Rather than go into the entire factual situation regarding why you went to that house and other reports, let's keep all of that out, did you have occasion to charge Miss Jones, or to -- I'm sorry -- did you have occasion to take action which caused Miss Jones to be charged with weapons offenses?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Would you please explain to His Honor the facts surrounding how that occurred?

A. I went into a house at 2646 Deacon Street and at that time four people that I observed in that place matched the description of a robbery that took place at 29th and Chalmers. The complainant came around and she identified Miss Tatum and three other individuals.

At that point I went to arrest Miss Tatum, who repeatedly wanted to go to the ladies room and I wouldn't let her move. I told her after, after everything was done and she was secured that we would let her go. That's when she stood up from a chair and on her person inside a pair of tight jeans she had two revolvers on her.

Q. Precisely where?

A. She had them in her waistband on the front.

Q. How is it that you remember that?

A. Because the pants were so tight I couldn't get the guns off of her, they were almost like painted onto her. And I had to struggle to get the guns from her waistband.

Q. Having taken those guns from her person, what did you do with those weapons?

A. I then placed them on a property receipt, which is property receipt number 878406.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I ask that a copy of the property receipt which the Officer has be marked. I certainly have a copy for Counsel (handing).

It is C-4. You have been counting, I haven't.

(Pause.)

(Property receipt was marked
Commonwealth Exhibit C-4 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-4, Your Honor.

Page 10.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Jesberger, you have already read us, told us the property receipt number, as well as the identity of the person from whom you took these guns, that being the person who at the time identified herself as Louise Tatum and who later identified herself to be Veronica Jones. In the section of this property receipt where there is space to enter the items of property and circumstances under which it was received, including the exact location taken from, would you read to us what is then typed there?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to object to reading in a document, that is just not proper. She could testify as to her recollection.

MS. FISK: All right, I will be happy to restate that question.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is this a document that is prepared by you, Officer?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And did you prepare this document -- when in relation to when you seized these guns from Miss Jones did you prepare this property receipt?

A. Approximately about an hour, an hour and a half later at West Detectives at Broad and Champlost.

Page 11.

Q. And consistent with the testimony that you have given, does this property receipt reflect the specifics regarding the two guns that were taken from Miss Jones?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Does this property receipt also expressly note that these guns were taken from the waistband of Miss Jones?

A. Ahh, yes, it does.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am going to object: She is reading from a document.

THE COURT: It is her document, she wrote it.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, no, she has to testify from her own recollection.

THE COURT: She does? It is her document.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, is it refreshing her recollection, then she can testify from that. But she can't just read a document into evidence.

THE COURT: Are you making the rulings for me?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, I am making an objection.

Page 12.

THE COURT: Oh. The objection is overruled.

MS. FISK: I have no further questions, Your Honor. Oh, I'm sorry, I do have one question.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. At the time you recovered these guns, Officer, can you tell us whether or not they were loaded?

A. I'm sorry, I didn't hear you.

Q. Can you tell us whether or not these weapons were loaded?

A. Yes; they were fully loaded with one spent round in one of the guns.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

Nothing further, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Officer Jesberger.

A. Good morning.

Q. I noticed that in this document which has been marked C-4 the district is indicated in the upper, right-hand corner?

Page 13.

A. That's correct.

Q. What is the district?

A. That's the district of the 39th District at 22nd and Hunting Park.

Q. Were you an Officer at that time in the 39th District?

A. No, sir, I was in Highway Patrol.

Q. And how come 39th District is noted, is that the place of the arrest?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. Now, as I understand your testimony, and you're testifying about an event that happened 15 years ago -- 14 years ago, actually -- do you have a recollection of what happened independent of this writing which is C-4?

A. Ahh, yes, I do.

Q. And so you can tell us about matters from your recollection that don't appear on the document C-4 because you remember the event?

A. Ahh, yes, I do.

Q. Were you alone or with other officers?

A. I had a partner at that time, Officer Toomer.

Q. Now, you told us that this began, and I know you didn't get into other matters, when you came to a location known as 2646 Deacon?

A. That is correct.

Q. And is that a residential building or a commercial building?

A. That is a residential building.

Q. And you and your partner entered that building?

A. I chased another female into that house.

Q. You chased another female?

A. That's correct.

Q. And do you know who that female was?

A. She answered to the name of Jan Stelly.

Q. And was there an episode that occurred that gave rise to your chasing her?

A. Ahh, yes, there was.

Q. And what was that, if you can recall?

A. While investigating a vehicle at King and Deacon, I observed a black female that matched the description. And when I went to stop her she took off running into a house and I chased her right through the door into the house at 2646 Deacon.

Q. Right. Deacon Street you refer to, is that a house, it is an apartment building, or is that --

A. No, it is a house.

Q. It is a private house?

Page 15.

A. That is correct.

Q. So you chased her right into the house?

A. That is correct.

Q. And what was your belief that she had done that gave rise to your chasing her?

A. We were investigating a robbery from 29th and Chalmers which is called Liz's Den at that location.

Q. And did you have reason to believe that she was connected to that robbery?

A. Yes, she matched the description given to us.

Q. Which is a black female?

A. Correct.

Q. That was the description that you had?

A. No, she had a red and white top on, striped top on.

Q. I see. And so you chase her into the residence, which is a single-family home?

A. That is correct.

Q. And when you entered where did you go?

A. I went right into the living room.

Q. And there were other people in the living room; correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Four, four people?

A. There were five people in the living room.

Page 16.

Q. Including the woman you chased?

A. It was the four people that matched the description and an elderly lady, who I don't recall her name or anything.

Q. I see. And when you entered the living room, did you see Veronica Jones at that point?

A. Ahh, yes, I did.

Q. And she was sitting down, was she not?

A. She was sitting on a chair facing me.

Q. Right. And was that an upholstered chair?

A. By upholstered meaning just a cover?

Q. Yes, it had cloth on it, it wasn't just a hardwood chair?

A. Ahh, that is correct.

Q. All right. And there was a cushion on that chair, was there not?

A. I really don't recall.

Q. Okay. So she is sitting on a chair that is upholstered, you don't remember whether there was a cushion or not?

A. It was a living room chair.

Q. Okay. And this older woman that was there was sitting next to her, was she not?

A. No, she was not. This was a single chair.

Q. It was a single chair, hmm-hmm. Do you remember if there were couches in that room?

Page 17.

A. To the left of me there was a couch.

Q. And were there people sitting on the couch?

A. The elderly lady and one of the other gentlemen by the name of Bernard Johnson was sitting on the couch.

Q. Right. Now, you wrote a report about this episode other than what's been marked C-4, which is a property receipt; is that correct?

A. Did I? I just did the property receipt on this.

Q. Did your partner write a report?

A. I don't really know if he wrote a report, the detectives would have wrote a report.

Q. I see. The detectives that came on the scene later?

A. That is correct.

Q. In other words, you never wrote anything about where Veronica was sitting, the type of chair she was sitting on?

A. No.

Q. You did not?

A. No.

Q. And so you can't rely on refreshing your recollection from anything that was done that was

Page 18.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

written, you're just testifying about that from your recollection 14 years ago?

A. Yeah, she was sitting to the, she was sitting down to the right of me as I entered the living room, facing me.

Q. I see. And you recall that it was an upholstered chair?

A. It was a cloth-type chair.

Q. Right. And did she stand up when you entered the room?

A. She wanted to go to the ladies room at that time and told me she was pregnant.

Q. Right. But did she stand up?

A. She tried to stand up and I had them sit back down.

Q. She tried to stand up?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you told her to sit down and she reseated herself?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Now, do you recall what she was wearing besides jeans?

A. She had a pair of tight like black, charcoal-type jeans on and a light-colored top.

Q. Now, incidentally, according to C-4 there was

Page 19.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

a disposition of guilty on the gun charge, is that correct, did you see that on the back?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Does that require a mandatory sentence to your knowledge back then?

A. Ahh, I do not know. I don't believe so, though.

Q. Did you find out that she was given probation on this charge?

A. Ahh, no, I did not.

Q. Hmm-hmm. Would it surprise you to find out that she was given a probation?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the difference whether she was surprised or not? She got probation.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

THE COURT: She went before one of our lenient judges, he gave her probation. What do you want?

MR. WEINGLASS: She might have had a lenient District Attorney also.

THE COURT: Well, she might have at that.

MR. WEINGLASS: As a result of her

Page 20.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

having testified against Mr. Jamal.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would suggest that Mr. Weinglass read the sentencing code which notes that a conviction for a robbery or an agg assault or a particular crime in which an operable weapon is used requires the imposition of a mandatory sentence, but that a conviction for a weapons offense alone does not require a mandatory sentence under the sentencing code in effect currently, a sentencing code which was not in effect in 1981 when this crime occurred.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you aware of the fact that Miss Jones was served with a letter from the District Attorney's Office indicating to her that she faced mandatory sentencing on this particular charge and that letter exists in a document that was entered into evidence here two days ago?

MS. FISK: I object to that question, Your Honor. And that is certainly a letter that was filed no doubt under the Quarter Sessions file at the time she was still facing charges of robbery.

Page 21.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And that when Miss Jones testified in this case in July of -- June 29th, 1982, she had been served with a mandatory sentencing letter by the District Attorney's Office indicating this she must go to prison if she's convicted of this charge?

MS. FISK: Of which charge, Your Honor? I object. That's the nature of my objection. I also object because it is an improper question to this witness.

THE COURT: It is. The gun charge or what --

MR. WEINGLASS: Let's clarify it. We have the document, it is in evidence.

THE COURT: But I don't think this witness is in a position to answer that question for you.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

THE COURT: She is only the arresting officer: She doesn't make those sorts of decisions. They are made by the District Attorney's Office.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. This is the first time you have testified

Page 22.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

about this 1982 arrest, isn't it?

A. No.

Q. Did you testify at the prelim on June llth?

A. No, I testified --

Q. June 10th, I'm sorry.

A. No, I testified in '88.

Q. At the disposition hearing?

A. Yes.

Q. I see.

A. And brought the guns down at that time.

Q. Pardon me?

A. And brought the guns down at that time for confiscation.

Q. I see, okay. And were you questioned at the disposition hearing, much as you are this morning?

A. No.

Q. And you just gave direct testimony and there was no questioning? Or could you explain to me what the nature of your appearance was in 1988?

A. In reference to the guns that were confiscated from Miss Tatum.

Q. Yes. And you just identified the guns?

A. I brought the guns down from the Evidence Room to the courtroom and just testified about the guns and they were confiscated at that time.

Page 23.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

Q. Did you testify about where the guns were found?

A. Ahh, yes.

Q. Okay. And there was a record made, I assume somebody was taking down your testimony?

A. I presume so.

Q. Hmm. Now, it is a fact, is it not, Officer, that it is easier to prove a claim of possession of a weapon if the arresting officer testifies that they were found on the person of the individual as opposed to being under a cushion of a chair on which that individual was sitting?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Could you have been able to make out the charge of possession of weapons if the guns were under a cushion on the chair on which an individual is sitting?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you appeared and testified in 1988, were the other defendants in court or was it just Miss Jones?

Page 24.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

A. I believe it was just Miss Jones.

Q. The other cases were disposed of as well, to your knowledge, if you have that knowledge?

A. No, I do not have.

Q. You didn't testify in any of the other trials?

A. No.

Q. When you make an arrest such as this, are you the officer who runs any kind of a computer check to see if there are outstanding warrants on the individual you have arrested or is that done by someone else?

A. I do not do that, no.

Q. So you had no knowledge of Miss Jones' background?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You had no knowledge, I assume, of the fact that on the day that you had arrested her she was listed as a defense witness in the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You didn't know that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you learn that shortly after this?

A. Not until this year.

Q. When you made the arrest, you filed this

Page 25.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

paperwork which is C-4 immediately? You said within an hour?

A. It's approximately within a hour, an hour and a half that I typed this up.

Q. All right. And this goes from your possession to whom?

A. I then take the property receipt along with the guns and we take them to 8th and Race, down to our Firearms Unit.

Q. On 8th and Race?

A. That is correct, the same night.

Q. Right. Is the Homicide unit also located at 8th and Race, if you know?

A. Ahh, yes, it is.

Q. So that people in Homicide would have access to this document about Veronica Jones being arrested on a gun charge?

A. Not that they would know of, sir.

Q. Pardon?

A. Not that they would have known of.

Q. But. if they went to the room they would have access to this document, they had access?

A. What room are you talking about, sir?

Q. Wherever this document -- tell us where you put this document at 8th and Race?

Page 26.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

A. This document goes to a Firearms Unit and they then test the revolvers and they take part of the property receipt, I take my copy, and they then assign that with the guns and have them test fired.

Q. Now, does this document ultimately, which is C-4, go into the hands of somebody in the District Attorney's Office?

A. There is also a copy for the District Attorney. After they are done their investigation, it gets sent there by the detective.

Q. To the District Attorney's Office?

A. That is correct.

Q. So then at some point in time the District Attorney's Office is advised that Veronica Jones has been taken into custody on a gun charge?

A. They would have known her as Louise Tatum, not Veronica Jones at that time.

Q. Right, but if they entered Louise Tatum into any kind of a search computer, they would have also got the a/k/a Veronica Jones; is that correct?

A. I'm not sure of that, sir.

Q. And how long after you turned this in would the District Attorney's Office have a copy of this?

A. Within a matter of a couple days.

Q. I see. So by, by your calculations, June 13th

Page 27.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

or June 14th the District Attorney's Office would know that Veronica Jones was arrested, or Louise Tatum, I'm sorry, was arrested and charged, right?

A. I would imagine so, sir.

Q. Right. And did you have anything to do with the bail being set on this case?

A. No.

Q. All right. Do you know if bail was set?

A. I do not know, sir.

Q. She was taken into custody, was she not?

A. That is correct.

Q. She was handcuffed?

A. That is correct.

Q. And she was taken down to where?

A. She was taken to Broad and Champlost, at that time it was called Northwest Detectives.

Q. Right. And you don't know how long she remained there?

A. No, I do not.

Q. All right. And you don't know if anyone from the District Attorney's Office had visited her there?

A. I do not know, sir.

Q. I assume anyone from the D.A.'s Office could visit someone in custody in the location that you describe?

Page 28.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will have to sustain it. If you want to find out bring in some competent witnesses. How does she know what the D.A. could do?

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Well, do you know --

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I will ask her and I will accept her answer.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you know if the D.A.'s personnel have access to people who are in custody in the location where you put Veronica Jones?

A. I have never seen them up there when I was there, sir.

Q. Do you know if they have access, that is my question?

THE COURT: She said she never saw them, so what are you talking about?

MR. WEINGLASS: My question is can they go in if they want to.

THE COURT: How could she answer that?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am asking her if she knows.

Page 29.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

THE COURT: She told you she doesn't know, she never saw a D.A. up there.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When were you contacted to testify here today?

A. Approximately about three weeks ago.

Q. Three weeks ago?

A. Yes.

Q. Right. Before Veronica Jones testified two days ago?

A. I was given a Court notice. I have been on vacation and I haven't been available. And at that time they sent me a Court notice and I came in here yesterday and today.

Q. Okay. And when you were notified three weeks ago, were you told what you would be testifying about?

A. Ahh, no, sir. Just about Veronica Jones at that time, did I know her.

Q. Right. And then you retrieved this document, which is C-4?

A. Yes, we have a copy of it.

Q. Right. So you knew you would be coming here three weeks ago to testify against Veronica Jones?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 30.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

That misstates her testimony.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right. You were told to be available to testify three weeks ago?

A. There was no date at that time.

Q. Right, but it was three weeks ago from today that you were told to be available as a witness?

A. Approximately three weeks ago, sir.

Q. Yes. And did you review your testimony with anyone in the D.A.'s Office before you testified here today?

A. I talked to the D.A.

Q. When did you talk to the D.A. first?

A. Ahh, yesterday.

Q. Right. And that was the first time you talked with the D.A.?

A. Yes; I have been away on vacation.

Q. Is yesterday the first day you were back?

A. I'm still really on vacation.

Q. But have you talked to any representatives of the D.A.'s Office, detectives or otherwise, prior to yesterday?

A. No.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

Page 31.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I am not sure I understood one point correctly. You have been on vacation for a period of time?

A. That is correct.

Q. And how are you able to get from being on vacation to come to Court yesterday?

A. Ahh, I had an approved vacation for two weeks when I was notified about this Court hearing at that time. I came in yesterday.

Q. Did someone contact you while you were on vacation and ask you to come in?

A. Yes.

Q. Right. And that's easily done, I mean through the process of the District Attorney's Office and the Police Department?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, as to whether or not it is easily done.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In other words, what I am asking is when you go on vacation, and you might be a witness in the case, you, I assume, leave with your superiors or someone in the D.A.'s Office or the Police Department how you can be located if you're needed?

Page 32.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

A. Sometimes yes, sometimes no, it all depends. They know how to get a hold of me.

Q. Right. Were you -- I don't want to get into anything of a private nature -- were you outside the City of Philadelphia on vacation and came back or were you in the City of Philadelphia?

A. I was outside the City of Philadelphia and then I came back.

Q. When you were notified that you would be needed as a witness?

A. I came back just a day before that. I had some work I was going to do in my house.

Q. And so when you were notified you were notified at your house to come here to Court?

A. My headquarters notified me.

Q. At your house?

A. That there was -- yes, that there was a Court notice for yesterday.

Q. I see. And that's what brought you in?

A. That is correct.

Q. They notified you -- again I don't want to get into any private matters -- by telephone?

A. They either notified me by telephone or --

Q. No, this time.

A. This time it was by telephone.

Page 33.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

Q. By telephone. At your home?

A. That is how they notified me, yes.

Q. And if you hadn't come back to do something at your home, how would they have been able to find you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Had you left with them when you went on vacation where you would be in case they would have to notify you?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I just want to be clear on one thing. It's your testimony that when you saw Veronica Jones she was seated on an upholstered chair and you don't remember if there was a cushion on it?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is that fair to say?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

Page 34.

THE COURT: Sustained. She answered that question before.

MR. WEINGLASS: On cross-examination you are entitled to repeat.

THE COURT: But she answered it for you before under cross-examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

THE COURT: How many times are you going to ask her the same question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Incidentally, did your fellow officer observe and witness your alleged removal of these guns?

A. Yes, my partner put Miss Jones' arms behind her because I was struggling to try to take these guns out, out of the waistband. They were like caught on the waistband. He brought her arms back because she was, she was leaning over.

Q. You didn't have your gun drawn?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You did. So with a gun in one hand you were struggling with the other hand?

A. At that time I had more backup and the complainant had ID'd them at that time. I had put my gun away and went to handcuff Miss Jones.

Q. Now I am a little confused, you will have to help me out. You walk into the room, you have your gun drawn already?

A. That is correct.

Q. You see Miss Jones sitting there?

A. That is correct.

Q. There are five people in that room?

A. Correct.

Q. You walk over to Miss Jones?

A. No, I do not.

Q. What do you do?

A. At that point I was waiting for more backup to come into the home behind me.

Q. So you hold your gun on these five people?

A. I had my gun out, sir.

Q. Yeah. And how long did you wait?

A. It was a matter of seconds.

Q. That backup got there?

A. Yes.

Q. And then what did you do when backup arrived?

A. At that time the complainant, the complainant had come in and ID'd, it was three out of the four people in the house. I then put my gun away and went to handcuff Miss Jones. And when she stood up, that's when I observed she had guns on her.

Q. You didn't observe that before?

Page 36.

A. She was sitting down in a hunched-over manner.

Q. In other words, when you walked in you saw her seated, you didn't see any guns?

A. She was hunched over saying she had to go to the bathroom.

Q. I see. And when you walked over she stood up?

A. After she was placed under arrest, yes. I had her stand up to be handcuffed.

Q. I see. And did you have your gun out at that time?

A. No, I had put my gun away.

Q. I see. And all the backup was there when you found these guns; right?

A. There were people in behind me, I was right by the front door.

Q. Do you know who else was there?

A. It was my partner and numerous other 39th District officers had arrived.

Q. And you don't know any of their names?

A. No.

Q. How many were there?

A. It was about, about five. Somewhere in that vicinity, five, six.

Q. Hmm-hmm. Did anyone have a camera to photograph this particular arrest?

Page 37.

A. No, not that I know of.

Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, did you request fingerprint examination of the guns?

A. No, I did not. I don't do that.

Q. It's left up to who?

A. Once they are confiscated and placed on a property receipt, they go downtown directly after I'm done my paper work.

Q. And who in the ordinary course would seek fingerprints if fingerprints would be sought, if you know?

A. It would be the detective.

Q. From the District Attorney's Office?

A. No. Detective would be like Northwest Detectives would orders fingerprints.

Q. Oh, okay. By the way, if you remember, these were black jeans?

A. They were like a, a grayish color to black, like a stretch jean.

Q. Okay. And you noted on the report that these guns were used in a holdup of a bar?

A. That is correct.

Q. How did you know that one hour after?

A. We had met with the complainant at the bar at 29 and Chalmers. And in her ceiling was a bullet from the guns from the robbery.

Q. The gun, at least one bullet was discharged?

A. That is correct.

Q. Right. And did the complainant identify the guns?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. These are the guns, she could identify the guns that were used in the robbery?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did Miss Jones say anything to you at the time of the arrest?

A. At the time I arrested her?

Q. Yeah.

A. That she had to go to the bathroom. She was still young but she had to go to the bathroom and she was pregnant.

Q. Other than that did she say anything?

A. No.

Q. Well, when you found the gun did you say anything?

A. I told her not to move.

Q. That's it?

A. We11, I was struggling to try to get the guns from her waistband, and while I was pulling them I was trying to make sure they didn't discharge.

Page 39.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

Q. Right. Were you being assisted by anyone?

A. I took the guns from her waistband and my partner put her hands behind her back to handcuff her.

Q. That was happening at the same time?

A. That is correct, because she kept leaning forward.

Q. Were all the people removed from the premises and put under arrest?

A. Three of them were removed from the premises.

Q. And put under arrest?

A. That is correct.

Q. Was there a search then made of that room for weapons or anything else?

A. I did not make it, sir.

Q. Do you know if others did?

A. I do not know.

Q. There were cushions in that room, were there not?

A. Cushions like a removable cushion?

Q. Yeah, like on a sofa?

A. The sofa was cloth, I don't know if they were removable or not.

Q. Well, there was something that appeared to look like to the eye a cushion on the sofa, was there

Page 40.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Cross

not?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: The witness just answered that question.

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You don't know if they were removable but there were cushions?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It has been asked and answered.

THE COURT: Yes, come on, let's get beyond the cushions.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay? I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: Oh, but I do, Judge.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Jesberger, you have been questioned in great detail in cross-examination regarding your recollection of this event. In light of that, would you please tell us from the beginning what it was that led up to this seizure and why it is that you recall it so clearly?

A. We responded to a radio call that took us to

Page 41.

Officer Theresa Jesberger

29th and Chalmers, it was a bar called Liz's Den. There was numerous patrons inside the bar. And at that point the barmaid, which was one of the complainants, came out along with her boyfriend and said that the people shot up into her ceiling. A man came into the bar and said that he had followed their car, it was a '73 Chevy, blue and white, over to King and Deacon and that he would take us to that location.

At that time myself and my partner, we were in an unmarked car, we went to that location. We notified the Radio that we were going to that location and numerous other officers came there. As we were investigating the vehicle that was sitting on the corner, I looked up and I observed a black female with a, it was like a red and white Y-band shirt who matched the description that was given to us.

When I called for her to stop she took off running and I took off running after her. At that point she ran right into a house at 2646 Deacon Street, and when she hit open the door the door swung back inside where there were other people that matched the description also. A few seconds later my partner realized that I had ran down the street and they came looking for me.

Page 42.

Officer Theresa Jesberger

Q. Why is it after, from 1982 to today, how is it that you recall this particular case?

A. It was a robbery, point of gun, and there was numerous people to it. But the struggle of pulling the guns from her person when she stood up, she kept saying she was pregnant, Miss Tatum, and bent over like she had to go to the bathroom. And she kept yelling she had to go to the bathroom, she didn't want to stay there at that location. She was sitting to like the far right of me. Where a couch was to the far left of me where the rest of the people were. She wasn't near anyone else. And when she stood up, that's when I observed she had the guns on her.

Q. Now, are you aware whether or not the Police Department or the Office of the District Attorney were ever able to prosecute or -- I'm sorry -- ever able to obtain the presence of any of the witnesses or victims of this event at trial so either Miss Tatum or any of the other persons who were arrested could be tried for the robbery?

A. I'm sorry, could you repeat the beginning of that.

Q. Sure. It was a long question, I will try to make it easier. Do you know whether any of the eyewitnesses to this event or victims to this event,

Page 43.

Officer Theresa Jesberger - Recross

that is the robbery in the bar, were able to be brought into Court for trial against any of the persons that you arrested inside that house?

A. No, they were not.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just one follow-up on that.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. This was, as you described, a robbery, point of a gun, and the gun was discharged; is that correct?

A. It was a robbery, point of two guns.

Q. And the gun was discharged?

A. Discharged into the ceiling.

Q. Do you have any knowledge of why someone who was found guilty would be given probation on that kind of a charge?

A. No, sir, I do not.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have nothing further of this Officer.

Page 44.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, at this time, pursuant to Title 42, which permits sealed documents to be accepted by a Court as self-authenticating, I offer to the Court the following Commonwealth Exhibit 5, which is a self-authenticating document from the State of New Jersey indicating that Veronica Jones was indicted with the charge that she did unlawfully and purposely obtain by deception from the Camden County Board of Services, welfare, Medicaid or food stamps having a value in excess of $500, along with the judgment of conviction from the State of New Jersey in the case of State of New Jersey versus Veronica Jones, showing that Miss Jones was indicted for the charge of theft by deception on October 14th, 1988, and being found guilty of those charges was placed on probation, ordered to perform community service, to pay restitution in the amount of $2,424, and ordered to pay a $30 VCP -- which I presume is some sort of penalty -- along with the statement of reasons for sentencing, signed by David G. Eynon. E-Y-N-O-N. As well as a copy of the State of New Jersey versus Veronica Jones Criminal Division plea agreement with regard to that same offense.

And as self-authenticating documents I offer them to the Court and an opportunity to Counsel to review them as Exhibit 5 (handing).

(Pause.)

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, I am not going to quibble over whether it is self-authenticating or not, but the fact that the document is an authentic document doesn't make it admissible. On what basis does the Commonwealth seek to admit these documents?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, evidence of conviction for theft by deception is an admissible crimen falsi which again the Court can use in determining the credibility of the witness who has testified.

MR. WILLIAMS: The proposition is correct, and Miss Jones testified when she was on the stand that she did indeed receive a conviction for this precise offense. So this is cumulative.

MS. FISK: Furthermore, Your Honor, the existence of these records, which apparently were never sought or discovered by defense in their efforts to locate Miss Jones, can be utilized by the Commonwealth as argument that a logical, diligent effort to locate an individual whom they knew or should have known had relations in Camden, New Jersey would further permit the use of the existence of these records beyond the facts that they state to be relied upon.

MR. BURNS: And the cumulative argument goes to weight, not admissibility.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, on the issue of diligence, we've been informed that this document has come to Court in a sealed envelope, number one.

MS. FISK: No, no, no, that they bear the seal: You can feel it, it's raised. That is the reference to the seal, Your Honor. I never said envelope. It is a sealed document, that is if you feel it --

MR. BURNS: Under seal.

MS. FISK: Document under seal, thank

Page 47.

you.

MR. WILLIAMS: Fine. But the fact that this document is here in Court doesn't tell us whether this document is accessible by private citizens.

THE COURT: Well, go over to New Jersey and ask them.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, if they want to introduce it --

THE COURT: No.

MR. WILLIAMS: -- to establish that we could have had access to it they bear the burden of proving that. They just can't simply ask that this document be admitted into evidence --

THE COURT: Go over to New Jersey.

MR. WILLIAMS: -- and then assume that the defense could have gotten it. We need a witness to testify to that.

THE COURT: You could have gotten it by an order of some judge over there.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, Mr. Williams is incorrect. This is being offered as a crimen falsi conviction that goes to the credibility of the witness.

MR. WILLIAMS: Miss Jones has already testified that she was convicted. This document doesn't add anything.

THE COURT: Well, if it doesn't add anything what are you arguing about? I will admit it into evidence. Let's go.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

MR. WILLIAMS: All right, for the limited purpose that Mr. Burns had so eloquently stated.

(New Jersey criminal records for Veronica Jones were marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-5 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-5, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I next seek to introduce a document by stipulation. I believe the defense is still in possession of it, unless it has been returned to the Court Crier. And those are prison records which were subpoenaed by the defense, as I understand it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: They were already moved yesterday into evidence.

MS. FISK: The prison records were never moved into evidence.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The prison

records -- I'm sorry. What was subpoenaed, Your Honor, what was subpoenaed yesterday, what was subpoenaed for this proceeding were the logs, the official log, visitors logs of official visitors, police and prosecution visitors at the House of Detention during the period of time when Veronica Jones was held there. That was what the subpoena was for. What came in that pile were things having to do with Mr. Jamal, his visitation, all that. That was not what the subpoena was for. Nothing that was requested in that subpoena came with that.

I have the subpoena here. It says quite specifically in this subpoena that what was subpoenaed was all logs and visitor records for the period June 1 through July 3, 1982, which would show visits or interviews by police officers or prosecution agents with inmates of the Detention Center. That is not the content of that, of that envelope. And therefore I am not moving that into evidence.

MS. FISK: No, may I please see the documents that came in response to the subpoena? I understood that they were delivered to the defense.

Page 50.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Thank you.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Those are visiting records of Mr. Jamal. That is not what is requested per the subpoena.

MS. FISK: Fine.

THE COURT: Let her look through it, will you. Don't get excited. Save your blood pressure.

MS. FISK: And I apologize to the Court and to Counsel. I misunderstood. It was my understanding that the records regarding Miss Jones were subpoenaed. I have provided to Counsel the photocopy of those records, and I would move that photocopy into evidence.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I have never seen them. Could you --

MS. FISK: Certainly (handing). As I advised Counsel, Your Honor, upon subpoenaing the prison for all visitors records regarding Miss Jones, I was advised that prison records from 1982 are no longer available. That the records which were provided in response to subpoena were from her incarceration in 1988 only.

Page 51.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, well, I am a little confused.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I issued a subpoena that I was told by Miss Fisk when I inquired from the Court and various other places what happened to them that, first from Miss Fisk, that she had had them and told the officer who delivered some documents to turn them over to the defense.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Then I learned that an envelope which purportedly contained that was given to other defense Counsel and I secured that envelope.

MS. FISK: Yes, that's right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is the envelope that I have now just showed to Miss Fisk.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It does not contain these documents.

MS. FISK: That is correct, the documents that I have were photocopied by me about a month and a half ago in response to my subpoena about a month and a half ago to the prison for Miss Jones' prison records and were then returned to the prison. It was my misunderstanding -- and I apologize to Counsel -- I assumed that the records which were brought into Court two days ago were again the original records that I had photocopied in response to my subpoena a month and a half ago, and it is my mistake and I apologize to Counsel for my misunderstanding. I do not know why Counsel did not receive --

THE COURT: Just a minute. These are records from what day to what day?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: From the House of Detention, I assume.

THE COURT: Wait a while, please. I could only listen to one.

MS. FISK: I issued a subpoena --

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: -- to the prison for all prison records and logs regarding Veronica Jones with Veronica Jones' photo number.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: Regarding her 1982 incarceration.

THE COURT: Okay.

Page 53.

MS. FISK: I was advised in response there are no records from 1982 available and the records that were provided were, all that they have were the 1988 records.

THE COURT: Oh. So these are 1988?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, what would they show me?

MS. FISK: Again, Your Honor, these are with regard to the efforts Counsel made or could have made ,with regard to --

THE COURT: Oh.

MS. FISK: -- with regard to locating Miss Jones. These are records that show that when Miss Jones was incarcerated on her bench warrant in 1988, the address which she gave is in Camden, New Jersey. There is an address of her mother contained in those records.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: And it is for that reason that I seek to mark those documents and move them into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: And that will be Commonwealth Exhibit 6.

Page 54.

(Pause.)

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What I find very interesting here is I subpoenaed records from the House of Detention for Veronica Jones and what I got in response are records about Mr. Jamal. The District Attorney gets records, gets records about Veronica Jones without any problem. I don't get them.

Now I want to make further, I was told, my investigator was told when he served the subpoena at the House of Detention, and it was, that subpoena was signed by Sergeant James, who informed Mr. Milton that he was in charge of the records at the Curran Fromhold Facility, the clerk of the records room there which oversaw any records there would be concerning logbooks of visitors there, that it would be possible for me to take a look at those records prior to the subpoena being honored and being brought down to Court. When I went on Friday preceding this hearing date to take a look at those records pursuant to that cooperative attitude from Sergeant James, I was informed by another sergeant there, I think a Mr. Donohue -- but I have to check my records, something like that -- that in fact Sergeant James was the new officer in charge of the records room and he didn't really know the rules. The rules were really contrary to what Sergeant James said, who is the clerk of the records room, that in fact it was not permissible for me to see these records, despite the fact that a copy was going to be brought to Court, a copy was going to be turned over to defense. I mean I was not going to be able to see it.

Then upon receiving this envelope there is nothing in it that is responsive to my subpoena. Yet apparently when the District Attorney requests documents they are in there.

THE COURT: Where are the subpoenas?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I will be glad to read it again. All logs and visitor records for the period June 1 through July 3, 1982 which would show visits or interviews by police officers or prosecution agents with inmates of the Detention Center. We were looking precisely --

THE COURT: Yes, but I don't see any name on that so far. I see you reading, you want something. What does it say?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We want the entire logbook.

THE COURT: Did you give them the name?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What name?

THE COURT: The witness Jones.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We wanted the entire logs. The logs for all visitors, official Visitors to the Detention Center. That's what we wanted. We wanted to be able to examine that to be able to determine --

THE COURT: You should have subpoenaed them to come down today with those logs, if they have them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We did subpoena them to come down today. The subpoena was for October 1st and for the duration of the hearing.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And what I got was an envelope which contained nothing of the kind. No logs.

MS. FISK: Apparently, Your Honor, Counsel did not limit her subpoena to a particular inmate but instead asked for all visitors records. And since it was under the caption presumably of Commonwealth versus Jamal, those were the visitors logs that were provided.

I would simply note, and Counsel is welcome to look at the subpoena which I issued, which was dated June 14th, which asked for any and all records, including visitors logs relating to the incarceration of Veronica Jones, also known as Rhonda Harris, Police photo number 560335, from July 1981 to present, which produced the records which I photocopied and which Counsel now has. Either that subpoena was clearer to the prison or I guess we can add the prison to the list of every police officer and every prosecutor in the City of Philadelphia who has apparently, according to the defense theory, joined this conspiracy to sit around and think of ways everyday to further try to frame a man who is innocent. I mean it is one or the other, Judge.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: My point is when the clerk of the record room from Curran Fromhold Facility learned that this was about Mumia Abu-Jamal we did not get the agreement and cooperation that was originally promised. We want the logbooks there, just like the logbooks from the Roundhouse were brought in, to be able to look through the entirety of the logs so we could make a determination over what officers and what detectives and what --

THE COURT: You should have told them to bring them here.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We want to know what representatives went to visit what inmate under what name.

MS. FISK: Apparently, Your Honor, according to the defense, the prosecutors, the police, the prison officials, and anybody else who is testifying on behalf of the Commonwealth in this case, spends their hours sitting around and trying to think up ways to frame somebody who they don't want to be found guilty who has been found guilty of a crime. In fact, a subpoena was issued, the records were returned. Counsel now has the opportunity to see them. If in fact her subpoena was overly broad and therefore not complied with, she now has those documents, they are in her hands.

I apologize to Counsel for believing that in fact the documents which I subpoenaed were in fact the documents she subpoenaed. There they are and I move them into evidence.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, the documents subpoenaed by the District Attorney are not the documents I subpoenaed. I wanted the visitor record logs of the institution.

MS. FISK: The visitors logs for Miss Jones are contained in the documents which Counsel has. However, the visitors logs are only for visits for her 1988 incarceration, in which there were none. The records from 1982 no longer exist.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: But I believe, Your Honor, that the logbooks, I believe that the institution must maintain logs of who came to visit that institution. That is a different type of record keeping. That's what the subpoena was for.

THE COURT: They are supposed to keep them for a hundred years?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I don't know, the point is that --

Page 60.

THE COURT: You don't know, that is your problem.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The point is, the point is that there is no, no response to this subpoena, which -- this is no reflection --

THE COURT: Because you don't know how to make out a subpoena, that is your problem.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I asked for logbooks and log records of the institution for a period of time. That is immensely clear.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the prison, as I understand it, then, as it does now, maintains Visitors logs as individuals come in based on the person they are coming to visit under each inmate's file. When a --

THE COURT: Separate logbook.

MS. FISK: There is a card on which that visitor signs their name. Thus, if an individual seeks to know the name of the person who has visited an inmate you ask for the visitors' logs of that inmate.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There is also a book, just as when I go into any institution I sign a book, police officers sign a log book. It is a logbook that refers to each day, all the visitors to an institution, and it contains -- there is a separate logbook for official visitors which is police officers, D.A.'s, Assistant D.A.'s, and sometimes they put attorneys on that list as well, depending upon the institution. It is a daily log. It is a log of visitors into that institution on a daily basis. And part of that log, yes, includes a space to indicate who you are going to visit. We wanted to examine that log ourselves. The subpoena was not responded to. I would ask the Court to assist us in contacting the institution. I have tried getting through. I can not get through on the phone lines there. I have not been able to go there during working hours since this subpoena was supposedly responded to and to get assistance from them and to get those logs down here.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would amend my request to also ask that either included as Commonwealth Exhibit 5 or as Commonwealth Exhibit 6 a copy of the subpoena which I served which caused these records to be delivered. A subpoena requesting all visitors logs from 1981 to present. And records which were returned to me included only records from 1988. I would ask that both of those documents be accepted as either --

Are you going to include that as Commonwealth Exhibit 5?

THE COURT OFFICER: Whatever is your pleasure, Counsel.

MS. FISK: Fine. The subpoena along with the documents be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 5 and moved into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: The Commonwealth rests, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I would ask for a response to my request for assistance on this subpoena. I think we could, with assistance from yourself, from your Court Clerk, I believe --

THE COURT: Wait a while. Wait a while, Counselor. Don't ask for my assistance. I am not involved in this case. You should go about it the right way. If you don't do it that is your problem.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The subpoena was served properly.

Page 63.

THE COURT: No, it doesn't say what you want.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It says exactly what I want. The Court doesn't want me to get what we want.

THE COURT: The Court doesn't care what you get.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, there is no response to this subpoena, not a statement those records are not available.

THE COURT: Let me see your subpoena.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is for official visitor logs for the institution. That's what we want to look at.

I would ask also, Your Honor, that be marked as Defense Exhibit 5. This is the subpoena to the Curran Fromhold Center and the clerk of the records room.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

MS. FISK: Would you give this to the Judge, please (handing).

(Subpoena was marked Defense Exhibit D-5 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked D-5, Your Honor.

Page 64.

This Court will take a ten-minute recess to the call of the Crier.

(Brief recess.)

THE COURT: What name was she under at that time?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the caption of the case for which she was arrested was Commonwealth versus Louise Tatum. And she was there under --

THE COURT: Wait a while. You better give them both.

MS. FISK: The subpoena which I issued, Your Honor, it does it I thought by the photo number, Police photo number. And that --

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: And that Police photo number was on the document I just moved in, my subpoena.

THE COURT: All right, what is the number?

THE COURT OFFICER: The Police photo number, Your Honor, would be 560335.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: But, Your Honor, I want their official logs.

THE COURT: Shut up, will you please.

Page 65.

I am trying to get --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Don't be telling me to shut up.

THE COURT: Look, throw her out of here. I don't want to be disturbed. The man's on the phone. I am trying to help you. Now keep your mouth shut.

560 what?

THE COURT OFFICER: 335, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I have to do your work for you.

(Brief recess.)

THE COURT OFFICER: Court is reconvened, please cease all conversations.

THE COURT: Oh, I was just looking at your subpoena. No wonder they didn't know what you were talking about. You asked for records and you say they should be brought to Courtroom 707, that's crossed out. You say 200, for the City aforesaid, on Wednesday morning, October 1st. I thought that was Tuesday morning, October 1st. Homicide Post-Conviction Relief Petition, and to produce documents, it looks like listed in the attached codicil...

All logs and visitor records for the period June the 1st - July the 3rd, 1982, which would show visits or interviews by police officers or prosecution agents with inmates of the Detention Center. Detention Center, that would be the wrong thing.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I don't know what facility she was being held.

THE COURT: She was over with the women, that's called the House of Corrections, really. And what you want is the logs. They don't keep the logs more than five years: They are destroyed. So they don't have the logs to give you.

And it's confusing. That's why they sent you things on Mumia Abu-Jamal: That's the only name they see on there.

If you don't know how to fill out the subpoena you are supposed to have local Counsel assist you. Why didn't you go to local Counsel and say hey, how do I fill out the subpoena to get the records. But they don't have that log.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: First of all, I want to thank the Court for making the phone call. I appreciate it. So the record is complete.

THE COURT: Let me say: The man I spoke to was a Robert Dorset, he is the director of records. He is at 685-8487. Anybody that wants to call him, it's all right with me. But that's what he told me. They don't keep those books more than five years and they are destroyed.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay. Just briefly as to the subpoena so the Court understands: It was done initially for the September 18th Court date. And unfortunately Wednesday was not changed to Tuesday when the subpoena was changed to October 1st. The Courtrooms are because this Courtroom or the Courtroom we were in was not assigned until the very last moment. And the 707 was the Courtroom that we were initially assigned to for September 18th, and Room 200 was what I was told to put in when I made inquiries because we had no correct Courtroom.

THE COURT: Where did you make inquiries?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I made inquiries to the Clerks of the Court and the PCRA unit who was setting the Courtroom. And they suggested since I had a problem with where to have the subpoena returnable since we had no Courtroom listed to make it Room 200.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Where anyone could make an inquiry. And in fact records did get to this room without any problem. The problem was they were the inaccurate records.

MS. FISK: Nevertheless --

THE COURT: They are inaccurate because you didn't tell them what you wanted.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

MS. FISK: Nevertheless, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Nowhere in that codicil do you mention what is her name.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I did not want the records of Veronica Jones; I wanted the records of the institution, the official logbooks.

THE COURT: Well, they keep separate cards for each.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As I explained before --

THE COURT: I know what you wanted but they don't keep them beyond five years.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Fine, if that is the response that is the response.

MS. FISK: Having resolved that matter, Your Honor, the Commonwealth has rested.

Page 69.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Do you want to mark this thing for the record, your subpoena?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes.

THE COURT: It's all right by me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That's fine.

MS. FISK: D-5.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: D-5.

Also, to complete the record, I would like to have marked as Exhibits D-6 and D-7 the subpoenas to the custodian of records office of the District Attorney and the commanding office. D-7 would be the commanding officer or his designee of the Homicide Division. These were two subpoenas that Your Honor quashed.

(Subpoenas were marked Defense Exhibits D-6 and D-7 for identification.)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And as D-8 the subpoena that was served on the custodian of records, Office of the District Attorney.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note that if a subpoena is quashed by this Court it would been improper to make it a part of the record: It has been quashed.

Page 70.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Then the appellate court would have a chance to be able to review the substance of the subpoena, it would be there to complete the file.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I would note that one of the three documents I have, Your Honor, is a subpoena referring to an attached codicil and there is nothing attached.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, I'm sorry. Which one is that? I'm sorry.

MS. FISK: I have --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Which one doesn't have the attached codicil?

MS. FISK: This one says the Office of the District Attorney, D-8, although D-6 is also a subpoena to the Office of the District Attorney with an attached codicil.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I'm sorry, I just pulled the wrong thing out. So the one with the codicil to it for the District Attorney, that is one of them. That is fine.

Okay, here it is with a codicil on it. The other one, that has the codicil.

Page 71.

MS. FISK: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, that's fine.

MS. FISK: And I would note, Miss Wolkenstein, that Defense Exhibit 6 and Defense Exhibit 8 appear to be identical. I would ask you to review both of those, perhaps you only want to mark one.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All right, so you had the one with the codicil on it. That's fine. That's D-6.

THE COURT: D-6. So we don't have a D-8?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, D-6 is the District Attorney.

MS. FISK: D-7 is to the Police Department.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, fine. And then D-8, then, will be the Homicide Division.

MS. FISK: I thought that was D-7.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, they have just been changed. One is the Homicide, okay, and then the other is... okay, D-8, then, will be, okay, D-8 is commanding officers or his designees, reports, control and review, Philadelphia Police Department (handing).

Page 72.

(Subpoena was marked Defense Exhibit D-8 for identification.)

MS. FISK: Are you getting enough exercise?

May I see the other two as well?

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked accordingly, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, sorry about that. Then as D-9 --

THE COURT: Wait a while. Wait a while.

Are you answering these things?

MS. FISK: They are simply being marked as part of the record, Your Honor.

THE COURT: But she is saying you are not honoring them.

MS. FISK: Your Honor has quashed them. Counsel has indicated she is making it a part of the record so an appellate court could review them.

THE COURT: Let me see them. You say I quashed them. Let me see what I am quashing.

MS. FISK: Very well, Your Honor.

Page 73.

These were subpoenas seeking the District Attorney's Office file in the case of Commonwealth versus Mumia Abu-Jamal, as well as the Police Department's file in that same prosecution.

THE COURT: They want all records, files, memoranda, reports, notes, rough notes, whether typed, handwritten or taped. Boy. That's a real broad subpoena. No wonder.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I indicated I would be happy to modify that so that it dealt with only the records concerning Veronica Jones.

THE COURT: Well, that was the way it was.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we had a discussion about that. Alternatively, if Your Honor, if the Court would honor that, given the evidence that we have produced from Veronica Jones, and the fact, and the fact that --

THE COURT: You have to be specific. I don't know what you want. And neither do these people.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we wanted the entire --

Page 74.

THE COURT: The whole file.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The whole file, yes.

MS. FISK: Our objection was based in part upon Your Honor's prior ruling that there were no discovery provisions for Post-Conviction Relief Act proceedings. Nevertheless, I note that Counsel is marking those, those are being moved into the record. I again note the Commonwealth has rested and asks whether this proceeding has ended.

THE COURT: Now they are talking about Detective William Thomas in D-7.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right, Detective William Thomas is, as our understanding was, the officer, the detective in charge of this investigation from the Homicide Division. At least that's what the record reflects.

THE COURT: Is that the gentleman who testified here?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes.

THE COURT: He told you that he had superiors over him.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, he did. But all the trial record indicated was he was the person who was responsible for the investigation and he oversaw it.

THE COURT: I know but you had him here and he testified.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: You wouldn't let us ask the questions.

THE COURT: What questions?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Other questions beyond.

THE COURT: What other questions?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The one question that the District Attorney asked him.

THE COURT: But you got a chance to ask a lot of questions.

MS. FISK: I would note that Detective Thomas was subject to cross-examination for some extensive period yesterday. I would also note that Your Honor has previously ruled with regard to these subpoenas. Counsel is at this time simply marking them to be moved into the record. And I would ask whether Counsel can move from that and we can determine where we are now going with this proceeding.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I have a couple other --

THE COURT: Well, she wanted to, under

Page 76.

D-8, she wanted the logs on William Cook, Kenneth Freeman. Well, you know, William Cook wouldn't come in here to testify.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, he was scared away from testifying.

THE COURT: He was scared away?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: He was told that what happened to Veronica Jones would happen to him. That was made very clear by the District Attorney's Office and this man is scared to death.

THE COURT: Counselor, let me tell you, if this was my brother I don't care if they had a hundred subpoenas for me, I'd have been in here. Don't give me that story.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The point is we requested that this Court allow him to come in without having a threat of arrest. The Court did not grant that, he was scared away.

THE COURT: I did? They have a warrant for him?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And the treatment of Veronica Jones just confirms these fears were well-founded.

THE COURT: A judge would decide what do with him.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Veronica Jones did not get out of incarceration yesterday morning.

THE COURT: I thought she was here today.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: She spent, she spent the night in jail. She did not get out until six o'clock in the morning, and she only got out at six o'clock in the morning because people were outraged by this Court and the District Attorney's Office and raised bail money for her.

THE COURT: What did the judge say, did he put her out on bail?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: She got out on bail.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The fact that there was bail money for her and people there in Court was a response to the outrage that people had against what the prosecution --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I certainly hope that the next time I prosecute a homicide case in the neighborhood of every one of those people they will be as outraged and willing to come in and testify with regard to what they know so that they can assist in keeping the streets safe for all of us.

I would ask once again if we could please move on from these subpoenas and get to the next matter.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This morning, Your Honor, we subpoenaed, and the record is here in Court, this is file MC 96 dash 09 dash 0936 dash 19. This is the file concerning Veronica Jones on the fugitive from justice warrant, what is the underlying basis for her arrest from testifying here on the 1st. I would ask that this record which is an official record be marked for evidence, and I would move it later, mark it as an exhibit and moved into evidence later (handing).

That would be D-9.

(Pause.)

MS. FISK: (Handing).

(Quarter Sessions file was marked
Defense Exhibit D-9 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked D-9, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, Your Honor, just a couple more matters. Your Honor indicated in Court yesterday that Joseph Brignola did not honor our subpoena. We sent an investigator back there this morning to his home, he was not there in the early morning hours before eight o'clock. I note from reports in the newspaper this morning that someone from the press contacted Mr. Brignola at his office yesterday.

THE COURT: You ought to have the press serve your subpoenas.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I should.

THE COURT: They could do a better job than you and your so-called investigator.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: If they would have done that I would have been eternally grateful.

THE COURT: They could have had Jones in here for you if you asked them to publicize it in the paper.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The substantive point about that is Mr. Brignola was in his office, contrary to the information given to our investigator when we went to serve him a subpoena to make sure he came in because he had not responded in his previously cooperative attitude. I am very distressed about the fact that a police officer, former police officer would have so blatantly lied in terms of cooperation.

THE COURT: Let me tell you this, Counsel: I will never issue a warrant for anybody who is not properly served. Sending it to him in the mail, that is not proper service. And I would never issue a warrant for that man's arrest.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I wanted to indicate to the Court --

THE COURT: I know you wanted to indicate.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- that we had tried again.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That there was information that he was in fact at home, or working, contrary to the report that we got, I presume now from him, that he was ill with a back problem and he was at his sister's. And I also wanted to indicate to the Court that I had spoken to him several times and he had assured me, as someone who had been formerly employed and paid good money by the defense here, that he would come into Court and testify as to his investigative efforts on behalf of Mr. Jamal.

I would renew my request, Your Honor, that we introduce, I have marked as an exhibit the correspondence, two letters from Mr. Brignola to Mr. Weinglass, again they were dated, dated August, August and December of 1993. Could I have those, would the Court agree to have those marked?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, I would object: That is hearsay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay. One other matter, Your Honor. Well, would the District Attorney agree to bring Mr. Brignola in? I am sure you would have more persuasive powers.

MS. FISK: Trust me, I would not.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I know since the District Attorney's Office has been very concerned with the question of whether or not the defense is engaged in due diligence here, Mr. Brignola is a very key witness and I think that it would provide edification for all of us.

THE COURT: You should have properly served him in the first place, then I would be able to issue a warrant.

Page 82.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I think a simple phone call from the District Attorney.

MS. FISK: I can assure Counsel that a request from me to Mr. Brignola to come into this Court would send him in the opposite direction as soon as he received it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is a no then, I guess.

MS. FISK: I cannot, cannot and have no ability to control Mr. Brignola. Nor do I have a relationship with him that would enable me upon request to produce him. I can assure you of that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay. Our next matter, we are renewing our request to have the affidavit of George Michael Newman marked as an exhibit here. George Michael Newman, as was indicated in Court testimony yesterday, was, is the head of Tactical Investigations.

MS. FISK: And I would make the same objection I made two days ago. And I would object to it being reread into the record, redescribed into the record, or any further details with regard to it. Mr. Bell testified and great portions of his affidavit have already been read. Mr. Newman was not available Tuesday, apparently was not available yesterday, is still not available. And I would object to any further reference with regard to him beyond that which has been testified to.

THE COURT: You know, it would have been much smarter for defense Counsel to hire somebody that's local who knows how to use a computer, who would be here with your investigators and be able to work together. You go all the way out to California, you are sending information to him, he is sending information here. You can't run it like that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, Your Honor, we would be happy -- let me just indicate --

THE COURT: It is too late now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Let me just indicate to the Court that the defense team has hired or attempted to hire numerous investigators from the City of Philadelphia and who -- provide me with the opportunity of making a record -- that this case is so high profile that the --

THE COURT: Counsel.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- that the atmosphere against Mr. Jamal is so charged, as was seen by what happened in Court --

THE COURT: That is a statement you make. They are charged outside. Let them go. Let them go.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The investigators in Philadelphia tell us that they could not work on this case because if they did they would never get any other employment in this city. And that was the reason why --

THE COURT: Well, go over to New Jersey.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- why you have to go as far as San Diego to get assistance to work on this case.

THE COURT: You don't have to go all the way to California. Don't give me that baloney. You could have gone right over to New Jersey.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right. We started with Mr. Kareem Shabazz. There was Lamont Anderson.

MS. FISK: Mr. Shabazz, incidentally, stopped working on this case because members of MOVE were dictating to him the conditions under which he had to work.

Page 85.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Is this being said --

MS. FISK: That was the conversation that Mr. Shabazz had with us this morning.

THE COURT: I don't want all this malarkey. You have enough malarkey in here, I don't know how the Supreme Court is going to handle all this stuff.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Yes, I talked to Mr. Shabazz myself in the month before this hearing began, in which he agreed to do work, and then you know what, he simply disappeared. And I assume it came from pressure from the police and prosecution community.

THE COURT: Oh, you assume that?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor, because every single person who walks the streets and sidewalks of the City of Philadelphia are sitting down with the prosecutors and the police and the prison officials each and everyday so they can plan evil things to do to Mr. Jamal. It is all part of the conspiracy.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What happened to Mr. Shabazz verifies what we are saying.

THE COURT: Yes. I know.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Another thing, I was attempting to make sure the record here on this particular hearing and case is complete. We have subpoenaed and have marked as evidence various files of Miss Jones' past record, her criminal record, I don't know, some ten or, ten or so files. I was attempting to make copies of them in order for them to be able to put, the copies to be put with the record here directly with this so that the record would be complete.

Mr. Conaway, who is one of the supervisors across the hall from the Court, in the Quarter Sessions, has said that he did not want, I have just been notified, did not want the entire subpoenaed files copied. I presume and the information is that if the Court agrees that they could be copied and made part of the record then he would see to that. I think that would make it much more complete so that if anyone wanted to review this matter they wouldn't have to then re-subpoena --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I have no objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: She has no objection, all right.

MS. FISK: So long as I am advised that the Clerk from the Court of Common Pleas Quarter Sessions will be photocopying the entirety of those files which were placed into the record, I have no objection as to whether they are copies or the original.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, one of our staff people was doing them. I would be happy for somebody else to check them.

MS. FISK: I have been advised by the Clerk in the Courtroom that those files are in fact being photocopied and photocopies of the files will be in the record rather than the originals. And the Clerk of Quarter Sessions is in the Courtroom now certifying they will be full and complete copies. I have no objection to that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Conaway wanted to remove some things from the file. The point is we wanted everything in the file, we wanted everything in the file.

THE COURT: They have the file, the Clerk has the files, they will do the whole thing.

Page 88.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Thank you very much. I'm sorry. Okay, great, thank you very much.

The last matter, Your Honor, is I wanted to place on the record the fact that defense has been speaking with other potential witnesses in this case. And I wanted to inform you of that. We are as expeditiously as possible investigating all leads in this case and will bring them to the attention of this Court and the Supreme Court as we find them.

THE COURT: Well, take it up with the Supreme Court. Because they gave me a definite Order: I am only to hear about Veronica Jones.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I am informing the Court of that and I also want to indicate again, I think it's clear, that the treatment of Veronica Jones has made it very, very difficult in these last --

THE COURT: Come on now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- in these last days of trying to talk to people and investigate these claims.

THE COURT: I didn't commit those crimes, she did.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: People are not willing to come forward and risk the type of treatment that was meted out to Miss Jones, if they come forward in any way favorable to Mr. Jamal.

THE COURT: See, they have to go before the Municipal Court Judge and ask for extradition. Now, if she wanted it resolved, all she had to do was waive extradition, she could have gone over to -- what was that, Woodbury?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: She wasn't fighting extradition.

MS. FISK: I believe she did, Your Honor, once she was brought in front of a judge she did indeed, extradition was waived.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Until six o'clock.

THE COURT: I can't help that, I am not the judge that handles that thing.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: From noon of the prior day to six o'clock in the morning.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, do I understand that defense is resting?

THE COURT: Well, they rested long ago.

MS. FISK: I mean resting on rebuttal.

Page 90.

THE COURT: Oh.

MS. FISK: If that is the case will Your Honor entertain argument today?

THE COURT: Yes, I will, but at two o'clock. I have a meeting at 12:30.

MS. FISK: May I ask Your Honor, will we be arguing today and then returning in perhaps 10 days after we return the notes of testimony to offer proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law? Or --

THE COURT: Well, you could do whatever you want. But I may be in the process of writing up my opinion.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, we have no objection to making argument today and we are certainly prepared to do so. We would ask, however, we are advised that the notes from this proceeding will take approximately one week to be completed.

Is that correct, Mr. Gorgol?

About a week. We would ask that after argument at two o'clock this afternoon, that we, the matter be completed and Your Honor can simply after perhaps three weeks, after both sides have been given an opportunity in about three weeks to submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

THE COURT: Three weeks. You know I have to write my opinion in 30 days. Why are you giving me three weeks?

MS. FISK: 30 days from today's date.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir, we are advised that the notes of testimony will take about a week. We would ask for, Your Honor, about a week after that in order to submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

THE COURT: Well, I don't care because I may not have my opinion ready yet.

MS. FISK: We would simply ask Your Honor, as I say, we have no objection to making the arguments today and Your Honor holding it under advisement and simply releasing that opinion without further Court proceedings after receiving briefs from both sides.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. So two o'clock Your Honor will have closing arguments?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, in view of the fact that there will be argument, apparently, at two o'clock, and that we now have to evaluate the records so we can marshal the evidence in our arguments, I would like to say this. That there is an elementary rule of law and decency that we --

Page 92.

THE COURT: I don't know about decency, okay, but go ahead, what is the rule of law?

MR. WILLIAMS: That when an attorney questions a witness, there must be a good faith basis for any underlying suggestion that --

THE COURT: Counselor, couldn't that wait until two o'clock?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, I really would like, so that when we consider the evidence that we have to marshal to Your Honor at two o'clock, we have a certain understanding as to what that evidence is. That there must be a good faith basis to propound the question to a witness. What I want to address briefly is the rather scandalous suggestion that the defense has suborned perjury through the payment of Veronica Jones that came in through questions. Questions themselves --

Page 93.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILLIAMS: -- without the answer is not evidence. But more distressing is that it appears now, because the prosecution has rested, that those questions concerning payments to Veronica Jones, or the suggestions, were made without any good faith basis. They have essentially implicated the defense in committing a crime, which is libelous if the suggestion was made outside of a Courtroom, and they did it without any good faith basis. So not only is there no evidence of that, but I ask that that entire inquiry be stricken from the record because it poisons the atmosphere in this proceeding far beyond what can be tolerated, to implicate the defense in a criminal act, for which I'm sure if the Commonwealth had evidence, they would convene a grand jury rather quickly. But to suggest it in questions, knowing that there was no good faith basis, really ought not be tolerated in any Courtroom in this country.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Commonwealth had information that as of February of this year, the address where Miss Jones resided was more than $4,400 in arrears on rent.

Page 94.

That in March, May, June -- and I might be missing -- July, August and September, huge portions of that arrears were repaid. She was asked in fact whether those huge amounts were repaid at those times in accordance with the schedule which we had been advised existed and she admitted that that was so. You may use that as circumstantial evidence if you wish. You need not do. The Commonwealth asked her whether that was payment, she said it was not.

Nevertheless, the fact that thousands of dollars in arrearage has been paid since March of this year was information which the Commonwealth had and which Miss Jones agreed occurred.

MR. WILLIAMS: Your Honor, if the defense ever suggested that we were entitled to look at the bank records of all of the witnesses, I am sure that we would be met without outrage by Ms. Fisk, and probably rightly so.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Commonwealth found the landlord and asked him.

MR. WILLIAMS: There is no evidence that any of those arrearages were paid by the defense. And to suggest that --

Page 95.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MR. WILLIAMS: To suggest they were paid by the defense is entirely false.

THE COURT: You had a right to call anybody you wanted. You could call the landlord or anybody you want but you didn't do it.

All right, I will see you back here at two o'clock.

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, Your Honor. This Court now stands adjourned until 2:00 p.m. at the call of the Crier.

- - - - -

(Luncheon recess was held until 2:05 p.m.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I inquire whether the Court is imposing a time restriction on arguments?

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: This week?

MS. FISK: I was going to suggest no more than 30 minutes a side.

Page 96.

THE COURT: All right. I don't care.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we begin, I just want to clarify one problem with those Quarter Session files that is still going on. There is a question of whether or not the copies, which are to be placed, since these are exhibits and part of the evidence here, into the files on this proceeding, whether the copies are only, are the full set, everything that's in The Quarter Sessions files, or this is somehow only what is publicly available. Apparently Mr. Conaway is still maintaining that only the portion that is publicly available can be made part of the record in this proceeding in terms of the copies. And I have a problem with that. Because what's publicly available is not in fact the information that contains the particular personal information that is there about the person who is the Defendant in those cases.

So either the full set has to be there so it establishes all the information about the individual, and I presume if we had subpoenaed those to Court we would have the full file to look at, as we were able to do here. And that's what I was intending to move into evidence.

If we're going to have a restricted file, then I believe it has to be clear in the record that this is a restricted file, and if somebody without Court subpoena simply went and looked at the file they would get only those documents which are now going to be appearing in the record.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, for the first time in several days I agree completely with Miss Wolkenstein. It was my understanding that when you subpoena a Quarter Sessions file the entirety of the file is what you get to see. I was never made aware that there are parts of it that remain hidden. And I again state that I have no objection to the entirety of those files, from the front of the manila folder to the back of the manila folder, being photocopied and placed into the file.

THE COURT: If everybody is agreeable it's all right by me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: So Mr. Conaway just has to be informed of it.

THE COURT: He has to be informed of it, he will take care of it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: He was out for lunch. I asked if he could please come to the Courtroom.

Page 98.

THE COURT: He will be told by the Court Officer.

THE COURT OFFICER: I believe he is outside now. The Clerk is coming now. So he will be informed, she'll be informed.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It could just be clarified with the Clerk here that the entirety, the full Xerox, everything that was in the Quarter Sessions files will be put into the files here on this case as part of the record. No --

THE COURT CLERK: I still can't do that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This is the problem.

THE COURT: Who said that?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We wanted it in Mr. Jamal's file.

MS. FISK: No, I thought the files we were discussing were Veronica Jones' prior files.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Veronica Jones' prior files, copies of everything in there, the entirety of the file, even those portions that are not publicly available, have been introduced into evidence as part of this proceeding. And copies of that full file have to be made part of the file that's involved in this case. All the exhibits. So, yes, it goes into Mr. Jamal's file as part of this case, the file of this case.

MS. FISK: As exhibits.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As exhibits. There is a dispute with Mr. Conaway still on it so we need --

THE COURT CLERK: You have to speak with Mr. Conaway.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, the Judge I believe --

THE COURT: Okay, if you have any trouble call me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, we have trouble.

THE COURT: I said if you have anymore trouble call me.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay.

THE COURT: Let's get going, it's after 2:00.

Page 100.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: So it is clear, that you - -

THE COURT: Come on. Move. Whoever is going to argue for the defense, let's go.

MR. WEINGLASS: If the Court please, at the outset, and I don't want to take any greater time than is necessary for this, I just do want to indicate that there has been an ongoing problem here in the Courtroom with respect to people who have come here to witness the trial -- the hearing. And there are people, so to speak, who are on both sides of the fence who are here. And the people who came here wearing buttons on Mr. Jamal's side --

THE COURT: I don't want to hear that now. Please, I don't want to go into that now. You're taking up my time and you're taking up your time. So take it up with me after a while if it's that important.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, this is our last session.

THE COURT: Well, it is our last session.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I did want to indicate that people have been asked to remove any buttons or anything that they have been wearing that supports Mr. Jamal, whereas people on the other side who are wearing FOP buttons have not been similarly asked, I'm told.

THE COURT: What kind of FOP buttons?

MR. WEINGLASS: Pardon? Fraternal Order of the Police buttons.

THE COURT: What kind? I know but what kind of buttons are you talking about?

MR. WEINGLASS: They are buttons that you wear out of your clothing which indicates that you are a member of a political union. And I have no quarrel with that.

THE COURT: I don't see anybody with buttons.

MR. WEINGLASS: The people who had buttons were not allowed in the Courtroom if they wore Mr. Jamal --

THE COURT: I don't see anybody with FOP buttons, that's what I am saying. I am looking out there, I don't see any.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, there are.

THE COURT: Where?

MR. WEINGLASS: With FOP buttons, if they could stand.

Page 102.

THE COURT: Well, I see the president there, he doesn't have any on.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well. There are others who are wearing --

THE COURT: Well, who are the others? I don't know what you're talking about.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, Your Honor, there are. There is a gentleman fingering his button right now. I don't know what it is, I can't see from here, but he has a button.

THE COURT: Sheriff. Sergeant, what kind of button is that?

MR. WEINGLASS: My point is everyone should wear buttons. I am not against anyone wearing buttons. It's just that people on our side --

THE COURT: I don't care what you're for or against. The Sheriff runs the Courtroom here.

THE SHERIFF: One button is just for a deceased police officer in the line of duty, it is from Washington D.C. It is just a badge and insignia.

MR. WEINGLASS: And he has a right to wear that, he has an absolute right to wear that. And people who were ordered to remove their buttons on the Jamal side are sitting without buttons because they wouldn't be allowed in with their buttons.

THE COURT: What is the difference? What is the big deal about a button?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is a First Amendment right. The United States Supreme Court has made a big deal about it.

THE COURT: Well, then take it up with the United States Supreme Court. Let's get going. I want to finish this before I go. I am going to leave after a while.

THE SHERIFF: He took the button off, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not asking him to take the button off.

MS. FISK: I would note that Counsel has been doing this now for several minutes.

THE COURT: Let me say this to you: I didn't issue any kind of order, but I don't care whether they wear it or they don't wear it. If the Sheriff is enforcing some rule here, take it up with the Sheriff.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is no rule respecting that.

THE COURT: I don't know.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the Sheriff's been enforcing it against one side and not the other.

THE COURT OFFICER: Your Honor, if I may: The Sheriffs did not enforce it. Your Honor, the day before yesterday I made the announcement as from before when we were in 650 and we had the problem with both sides wearing buttons and shirts, and it became a confrontation. So to head off the confrontation, Your Honor, on Tuesday evening before anybody in the audience left, I made the announcement to please not wear any paraphernalia that would cause or incite a fight or a riot. And I asked both sides, not one side, Your Honor, both sides. And then this morning, yesterday, Your Honor, everything was fine. Nobody came in, nobody had any complaints about it. And now today, Your Honor, they come in and they want to escalate something. So this is what they did. And all I did was ask the young lady not to wear it because I didn't want anything to be incited in the Courtroom. And that was all, Your Honor.

Page 105.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: That's what happened.

THE COURT: Wearing a button is not freedom of speech.

MR. WEINGLASS: It absolutely is.

MS. FISK: That is not the issue in this proceeding.

MR. WEINGLASS: California versus Cone.

MS. FISK: May I ask if Counsel would like to file a suit on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union or anyone in the Courtroom who has been injured, that could be done at a different time. We are here at this time on this Post-Conviction Relief Act.

THE COURT: All I want to do is hear your argument. If you don't want to give one that's all right.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do. I don't want to function in a Courtroom where First Amendment rights are openly being --

THE COURT: Don't then, I don't care.

MR. WEINGLASS: It also impacts Mr. Jamal's right to an open trial.

Page 106.

Defense Argument

THE COURT: There are people out there.

MR. BURNS: I assume this time will count against Counsel's half hour.

THE COURT: It will in a second if he doesn't get moving.

MR. WEINGLASS: With respect to the matters raised in this hearing, I think, as in all arguments, an argument should proceed from those matters which are not in dispute as a framework for examining those matters which are in dispute. When we look at the evidence that's before this Court on this issue of Veronica Jones, we are immediately confronted with two issues that are not in dispute. Issue number one: Was her December 15th, 1981 statement as recorded by Officer Bennett, and marked as an Exhibit in this case, a truthful statement by Veronica Jones within one week of the shooting, that she saw two black men jogging away, as Officer Bennett testified, from the scene of the shooting.

I think the record is abundantly clear on that. Veronica Jones said she told that to the officers and Officer Bennett said I heard her tell us that and I wrote it down. There is no dispute that that's what occurred on December 15th, all sides agree.

Page 107.

Defense Argument

Furthermore, there is no dispute, as there can not be a dispute, that on June 29th, when Veronica Jones testified under oath, she denied that she ever told anyone that she saw people jogging from the scene.

So with those two facts which are not in dispute the issue is framed. And the issue is framed in this fashion. Did Veronica Jones testify untruthfully when she said in the trial that she did not see two people run from the scene. And I think on the basis of this record there can be no dispute over the fact that she testified untruthfully and that Mr. Jamal was convicted in part on the basis of falsified testimony.

So we have that as a given. Now the question is why did she change her testimony. Why did she testify untruthfully on June 29th, and what does this record indicate about that?

What the record indicates is we have Veronica Jones' testimony yesterday, or the day before, that she changed her testimony because she was visited several days or up to a week before she testified by two detectives who pointed out to her that they could help her if she would help them and that the very serious charges she then faced would go away providing she did nothing to help Mr. Jamal.

Page 108.

Defense Argument

Is there any other evidence in this record that would give a reason for Veronica Jones to change her testimony from her December 15th statement? Mind you, that testimony was given against Mr. Jamal, and indeed it hurt his defense substantially. So no one on Mr. Jamal's side would be interested in having her change that testimony. Indeed, Mr. Jamal's attorney called Miss Jones for that very reason, to confirm the fact that two people jogged away from the scene, and to offer confirmation of the testimony that was offered by witness Dessie Hightower who said he saw one person run.

And Your Honor will recall that witness Chobert told the police as they arrived that the guy ran away, and he then gave the police a statement 30 minutes later which he signed that he saw someone run. But when he got to the stand he also retracted those earlier statements and said he was mistaken. We now know from the record that was made last July, or August, which is part of this record, that witness Chobert was then on parole for a serious felony violation and he was driving that night without a license. And that he had had some kind of a conversation with District Attorney McGill relative to his status as an unlicensed cab driver.

Page 109.

So this record as it stands gives witness Chobert a motive to lie about seeing someone run; it gives witness Veronica Jones a motive to lie about seeing someone run. And as Your Honor knows, Debbie Kordansky was never produced in the trial, although she did testify last summer, and she recalls that she told the police that someone did run. And there is a dispute in what direction, but I think the evidence is pretty clear that she has that individual running away as well.

So the product of the investigation is that four people saw someone run: Hightower, Chobert, Jones, Kordansky. But when the case was tried, only one would come in here and so testify. And that testimony was not supported by any of the other three, because Chobert had a motive to lie in favor of the prosecution, and Veronica Jones we now know also had a motive to lie, and indeed she confesses that she lied.

Page 110.

Now, given that set of circumstances I think there is no other conclusion that could be reached on the basis of this record but that Mr. Jamal, who stands convicted of a capital case, was convicted as a result of false testimony at his trial, as a result of prosecutorial misconduct, and as a result of witnesses who were threatened, coerced, intimidated, and found their own self interest in testifying against him.

I have not mentioned at all the fact that witness Singletary came in last summer and he also explained why he did not appear to testify. And he did not appear to testify because he also saw someone run and was threatened and coerced, as he testified, and failed to appear in the trial at all.

Now, what do we know about Veronica Jones and why she's coming forward now? We know she was in custody. We know she faced serious charges at the time of the trial: Armed robbery, possession of a weapon with a weapon being discharged. What do we also know? She got probation after she testified. Does that lend support to her claim that she was compliant with the threat that was made to her that she would not see her children for five to ten years if she said anything to help Mr. Jamal?

Page 111.

Defense Argument

Not only did she face serious charges, but she fled this jurisdiction and avoided prosecution for six years. You would think that a sentencing Court, having someone who was convicted in this set of circumstances, and even pled guilty, and who fled the jurisdiction to avoid prosecution, and who had a long criminal record of many prior arrests, something remarkable had to happen here for Veronica Jones to get probation. Completely unexplained on this record.

And let's look at Veronica Jones today, this week as she testified. Oh, the prosecution says, and they brought in an extraneous witness on a collateral attack on her credibility, which I think Mr. Williams is absolutely right to point out to this Court was collateral impeachment, not allowed in the

Page 112.

Defense Argument

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but permitted in this Court today, collateral impeachment on a non-material matter was permitted here. But what did that collateral impeachment show? It showed this. That Veronica Jones already pled guilty to these charges of having a gun. She admitted it in '88. Why would she now come to Court and say that the gun was under a cushion, I was sitting on it, as opposed to in my waistband? She's already been faced with that charge. There is no reason whatsoever for her to lie about that issue. It's not like she still faces the charges.

These charges were done away with eight years ago. There is utterly no reason for her to deny having those guns in her possession: The case is gone.

Now, was it important for the prosecution to defeat the claim that someone ran from this scene, the claim made by Chobert, Singletary, Hightower, Kordansky and Jones? Of course it was critical. Because if the shooter ran, the shooter could not have been Mr. Jamal, who was lying on the sidewalk in a pool of blood and found within minutes of the shooting. So the prosecution set about to defeat the evidence of his innocence, and they did it by turning Veronica, turning Chobert, disappearing Kordansky, and coercing and intimidating Singletary, leaving Dessie Hightower, who also was coerced.

Page 113.

Defense Argument

You remember Dessie Hightower last summer, and five hours of police interrogation, followed by a polygraph? And remember that polygraph, Your Honor? They didn't ask him did you see anyone run from the scene because they knew he would pass on that one. They asked him every other kind of question you could imagine but they kept away from that one.

Yesterday, Officer Bennett testified that after Veronica gave a statement, or contemporaneous with it, Officer Harmon drew a diagram of the critical events that she saw that night. A policeman on the ground. The police car in the street. A man standing by the Speed Line. But what was absent from that diagram? The two black men jogging away. It was absent from that diagram the same way it was absent from Chobert's testimony. The same way it was kept from the defense by disappearing Kordansky.

Page 114.

Defense Argument

And the same way it was kept out on the Singletary issue by threatening Mr. Singletary and ultimately driving him out of the City.

There is no other explanation as to why the two black men jogging away from where a dead police officer was laying on the sidewalk was omitted from that diagram except that it was inconvenient to the case. And when you see that diagram, and it's undeniable, it gives you what? It gives you insight into the way they were dealing with this investigation. They had Mr. Jamal, he was on the sidewalk in a pool of blood. They were not interested in anyone who ran from that scene who might have been the shooter.

I know this Court has been involved in some aspect of law enforcement, not in homicide investigation, in the Sheriffs Department. One week after a police officer is shot an eyewitness is interviewed and says I saw two black men jog from the scene, and the officer taking that interview does not ask her to describe those men. Why? No interest in that. That would harm the case, the theory that it had to be Mr. Jamal.

Page 115.

Defense Argument

Now I want to just shift over and in a few minutes deal with the issue which is really a non-issue here, the issue of whether or not there has been so called due diligence to locate Veronica Jones prior to May of 1996. Veronica Jones is not a newly-discovered witness. She was known in '81, she was produced in '82. What is new is that she is an intimidated and a violated and a manipulated witness by members of the prosecution. That was not known until she was found. She goes in the legal pigeonhole of not newly-discovered witness, but as Mr. Williams said, suppressed evidence. So what is the standard to be applied?

As I understand the rules, any time there is a suppression of evidence by the prosecution, that information, whenever it surfaces, because of the nature of it, the fact that it undermines the very basic tenets of the judicial process, that the state exercises its power to alter evidence wrongfully, is something that any Court will hear at any time.

But the Court apparently, over our protest, has ordered us to go ahead to show due diligence. Briefly, what have we shown? As I read the record we have shown this.

Page 116.

Defense Argument

Former Philadelphia police detectives, working as private investigators, Kareem Shabazz, Lamont Anderson, Joseph Brignola, were brought into this case early on by the defense to find Veronica Jones. They failed. And they reported they could not find her. The defense then sought outside investigators. Childs from New Jersey, he testified. And in a computer search nationwide, because local investigators could not locate her, a San Diego detective firm was brought into the case to try to locate her through computer.

In addition, the defense employed the services of a fourth Philadelphia outfit, you have heard from him, Chris Milton. And he attempted to locate her in the 11th hour. And after all the other efforts failed, he, together with Mr. Newman, a consulting investigator who assisted us from July 1995 until the time she was found.

Is this due diligence? What are the standards for due diligence? Clearly by any stretch, by any standard that could be employed against the defense in a capital case, having four Philadelphia investigators, a New Jersey investigator, and a San Diego consultant, seeking one witness, amongst many others, among many others, is not only due diligence, that's excessive diligence. I don't think anyone could be required to comply with anymore diligence than what that represents.

Page 117.

Defense Argument

I know this Court has heard many PCRAs. Your experience in this regard is much more than my own. I venture to say this Court and no other Court in Philadelphia has ever heard a PCRA where the Defendant has employed no less than six separate investigators in the search for one person: That's why I say in this case there has been excessive diligence.

Now, the prosecution postulates ways in which information could be obtained by subpoena. We have to be clear about this. None of that information could be obtained by anyone going to the police or the probation or any other public official and asking for it. You must get what the prosecution referred to as a properly, a legally proper subpoena. But that legally proper subpoena, as I understand it, would not be available unless there is a case in

Page 118.

Defense Argument

Court. And they have produced no one to testify about how you would go about doing that. And whether or not a subpoena could issue without there being Mr. Jamal in Court on a case.

Mr. Jamal was not in Court on any case until July of 1995. And he was in Court on July 12th. And on July 14th this Court ordered no discovery because this is a PCRA. What would have happened to a subpoena? And this Court quashed all of our subpoenas, including subpoenas against the Police Department. And this Court refused to order the prosecution to give us the address of Veronica Jones which is in all these files that we couldn't get because we're not law enforcement.

So this notion of a failure on the part of the defense to pursue an avenue of retrieval of information is just nonsense.

Also, we should point out that in all these files that are before the Court, that they say we could have gotten, in not one file, not one piece of paper, is the correct address of Veronica Jones. And as this Court pointed out, and I couldn't agree more, she used, Your Honor said, a million aliases. Well, it might have been an overstatement, I think the record indicates at least four or five, maybe up to nine. She used over a dozen Social Security numbers. She used over a dozen addresses. Was Veronica Jones being untruthful back then when she was a working prostitute? Of course. Was Veronica Jones untruthful in 1982 when she testified under pressure from District Attorney investigators? Of course. Is Veronica Jones' life now different? Yes. Two children in college, a stable life, a stable job, outside the City of Philadelphia, outside the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. She comes forward now to tell the truth. No motive shown as to why she would not tell the truth when she comes into this Courtroom. And she understood, apparently,that there were open charges against her in New Jersey and she took the risk. What did she have to gain by coming here? Only a risk to her and her children, that's all. Self interest would have dictated that she not appear. But she appeared here and testified against her own interest to tell the truth.

Page 119.

Defense Argument

So I think on balance this record is very clear that Veronica Jones told the police

Page 120.

Defense Argument

the truth on December 15th in part, testified falsely on June 29th in '82. My client was convicted in part because of that false testimony, as well as the other prosecutorial misconduct, and what they did to Chobert, Kordansky, Singletary, Hightower, or anyone else who came close to this case. And what they still propose to do, I suppose, with any other witnesses who will come forward, like Billy Cook.

THE COURT: Five minutes.

MR. WEINGLASS: So I think on the whole, this Court's findings have to particularize those aspects that are not disputed. False testimony in the trial. An honest statement to the police on December 15th about people jogging away, two black men jogging away. And an unrebutted accusation that she was advised by the detectives who offered her apparently the deal that ultimately was put into effect when she was sentenced in 1988. And given the whole, I think this Court has the power now in complying with the remand Order to inform the Supreme Court that on balance and after hearing this testimony, the Court would recommend to the Supreme Court, now that the Court has this new evidence, that the matter be reversed, and that the case be set down for a new trial.

Page 121.

Commonwealth Argument

THE COURT: Commonwealth.

MS. FISK: May I have just a moment, Your Honor, before I begin? Less than a moment.

Thank you. Your Honor, if I may proceed.

Your Honor, Counsel's argument to the Court began with his statement to the Court that it was uncontested that Veronica Jones' statement of December 1981 was true, and that her trial testimony of June 29th, 1982 was false. I would note that once again the manipulative use of evidence and the bending and breaking of the truth continues even throughout the argument.

Veronica Jones in her very own testimony from this witness stand two days ago testified that portions, significant portions of her December 1981 statement were not true. She testified, for example, that the truth was that she was on the north side of Locust Street, whereas in her statement she very clearly places herself on the south.

Page 122.

Commonwealth Argument

She testified from the witness stand two days ago that she had no part in the preparation of the sketch which is the sixth page of that document, when according to Detective Bennett she is the person who placed onto that sketch numerous marks including numerous dots and dashes about the direction which she ran after she heard gunshots. So she herself says that that statement is not true.

With regard to her testimony from June 1982, which Counsel says is false and clearly perjured based upon her testimony, Miss Jones from this witness stand two days ago gave testimony that large portions of that testimony from trial were true. She testified two days ago, as she did under oath in 1982, that at some time after giving a statement to police in 1981, and prior to her arrest for a gun-point robbery, that she was taken by police officers and questioned for many hours and told that if she changed her testimony she could have the same deal as Cynthia White. That is all testimony which she gave under oath in 1982 and which she continues to say today is truthful.

Page 123.

Commonwealth Argument

So when Counsel suggests that her testimony from trial was false, his very own witness rebutted and disproved that statement of him.

I feel as though we are being asked to enter a Chinese restaurant and take a little bit from column A, a little bit from column B, and a little bit from column C. Counsel would like us to accept some but not all of Miss Jones' statement from 1981, some but not all of her testimony from trial in 1982, and some but not all of Miss Jones' testimony in this proceeding this week.

It is for that reason in and of itself that the testimony of Veronica Jones is simply not credible. She has given at least three different versions of the events with regard to her placement, what she saw, where she was when she saw it, and what happened. And this Court can quite properly find on the record that as a result of that alone, without anything else, that Miss Jones is lying.

Add to that, Your Honor, the fact that Miss Jones does have, and it is incontroverted, a subsequent conviction for a crime crimen falsi, that being a theft by deception.

Page 124.

Commonwealth Argument

Add to that the fact that Miss Jones tells us in these proceedings that she never came forward for 15 years because it didn't occur to her until she was asked, and that recanting witnesses generally are considered the least reliable. We have a situation where a witness comes forward and recants trial testimony after a passage of an extensive period of time, a period of time that has passed which renders it impossible for the Commonwealth to disprove a negative in light of the fact that visitation records from 1982 are no longer available.

It was the defense themselves that claimed in their documents filed with the Court that it would be Detective Thomas who would know that in fact efforts were made to intimidate Miss Jones. Detective Thomas as the assigned detective came in and said no, that did not occur, it has never happened, and it is not anything that he would ever permit to occur or a matter about which he would be involved or even be aware.

I would further note, Your Honor, that

Page 125.

Commonwealth Argument

the police in 1981 and 1982 and now have absolutely no motivation to threaten Miss Jones. Counsel spent a great deal of time last summer presenting Mr. Singletary, a man who testified that when he gave a statement immediately following this incident the police ripped it up and threw it away because it included information that tended to suggest that Mr. Jamal was not involved in the shooting. And Mr. Singletary spent some great deal of time telling us how he hand wrote statements and the police ripped them up and threw them away. Well, if in fact the police were doing that the night of the incident it stands to reason that when Veronica Jones told the police that she saw two men running from the scene, that they would have ripped up that statement as well. The fact that they did not, and the fact that Veronica Jones gave a statement which was reviewed by her, signed by her, which makes reference to two people running at the time of the incident, is proof, frankly, that Mr. Singletary's statement last summer was untrue and is proof that there was no conspiracy on the part of the police or prosecutors to fabricate statements and to create evidence which was not truthful.

Page 126.

Further, the testimony which Miss Jones would have given, if Counsel suggests it would have been consistent with her statement and that which she testified to in this proceeding, is not testimony that was significant in this case. Miss Jones tells us two days ago that after hearing several gun shots while on 12th street she waited several minutes -- being her words -- before she looked around the corner and saw two men up near the vicinity of 13th and Locust running from the scene. That was her testimony two days ago. That in and of itself is not remarkable, is not contradictory of any other testimony given in this matter. One can only assume and expect that several minutes after a shooting people running from an area where there has been a shooting is ordinary and to be expected. And that that testimony, even if given at time of trial in 1982, would in no way have caused a different verdict to have been rendered by a jury.

A Jury convicted Mr. Jamal in this case not because of anything that Veronica Jones said or did not say. A Jury convicted Mr. Jamal because three eyewitnesses testified under oath and subject to cross-examination that they witnessed the shooting, and the combined effect of those witnesses made it overwhelmingly clear beyond a reasonable doubt that the identity of that shooter was Mr. Jamal. And that was the basis of the conviction.

Page 127.

Commonwealth Argument

If in fact the police had participated in this campaign to cause Miss Jones to change her testimony, one would think that Miss Jones would then have been called by the prosecution as a witness because the prosecution expected her to now say Mr. Jamal was the shooter. That did not occur. This was, apparently, if you will believe the defense, police who went up there and threatened her and did it privately, ad hoc, and without telling anyone. So that even if you were going to threaten the witness, nobody was going to gain or lose anything because she was still not being called by the Commonwealth. That simply lacks logic, lacks common sense, makes no sense, and further shows the ridiculous nature of the claims being made. Based on the large amount of contradictory statements given by Veronica Jones, there is no reason to believe that anything she has ever said regarding this matter was true; and she is clearly not a credible witness with regard to this matter and we ask this Court to so find.

Page 128.

Commonwealth Argument

I would note that even if she were not lying now, and what she says now is evidence that would have been presented, that that would make absolutely no difference in the result in this case.

I would note as well with regard to that, Counsel has looked to the subsequent treatment of Miss Jones with regard to her arrest and sentence as evidence of a deal or agreement or payback for Miss Jones' testimony at trial. I would note that neither Jan Stelly nor Zachery Leach testified in the case of Commonwealth versus Jamal, yet their arrests, which occurred at the same time as Miss Jones for that June 1982 robbery, resulted in their cases being discharged altogether because the witnesses in that case simply never appeared.

Veronica Jones, after having been held for Court, was made bail, failed to appear.

Page 129.

Commonwealth Argument

Again, if in fact the woman had been intimidated and had changed testimony because she believed that the police were now going to help her, she would not have failed to appear. She would have stayed around and gotten the results of her bargain. She failed to appear for unrelated reasons, apparently left town as she tells you, and six years later when apprehended the witnesses from the robbery are still unavailable, as they were when Mr. Leach and MS. Stelly were discharged. But because guns had been found on her person, as a property receipt prepared at the time of her arrest shows, she pled, not guilty, as Counsel continued to note, but she pled no contest, nolo contendere, did not offer a defense, accepted the recitation of facts regarding the fact that guns were found on her person, and was found alone, and received a sentence, I suggest, consistent with the guidelines.

Perhaps Counsel would like to be able to consider arrests in determining the sentence a person should get, but in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania you consider only convictions. And guilty of a possession of an instrument of crime

Page 130.

Commonwealth Argument

Ms. Jones' sentence of probation in accordance with her past record of convictions, and the fact that she had pled nolo contendere to a misdemeanor weapons offense, appropriately called for her to receive the sentence which Judge Carolyn Temin imposed based upon the Quarter Sessions file.

I would note, Your Honor, that with regard to the efforts made by defense to locate Miss Jones, we continue to disagree with Counsel regarding the burden that they have in this proceeding. We know because the deposition of Dessie Hightower was given to us last summer when he was called as a defense witness that defense Counsel in this case have been involved in this case since, I believe it was August of 1990 when Miss Wolkenstein, along with Marilyn Gelb represented Mr. Jamal at a deposition taken of Mr. Hightower in Philadelphia. From 1990 until May or June of 1995, one can only assume Counsel worked actively, because when a Post-Conviction Relief Act Petition was filed in May or June of 1995, it was a volume of some 300 pages, had numerous affidavits attached, and was evidence of a great deal of work and investigation accomplished. Nowhere in that application or affidavit was there any averment that Miss Jones was sought or wanted or needed as part of the Post-Conviction Relief.

Page 131.

With very small exception -- and I will address that in a moment -- with very small exception, the majority of the evidence which we received today regarding the defense efforts to locate Miss Jones started after the filing of that Petition. We hear Mr. Milton was hired in mid July 1995 and started looking for her in August. That Mr. Bell started his numbers crunching in June 1995. To suggest that the efforts done by these persons was a diligent effort is equivalent to telling someone that they need to find a needle in a hay stack and go look inside the Taj Mahal for it. None of these people were being given adequate information or proper information, and it certainly makes one wonder whether indeed the persons who were asking Mr. Milton, Mr. Bell to find this woman even wanted them to be successful.

That becomes the most evident, Your Honor, when you look at the testimony of Lamont Anderson. Mr. Anderson indeed was a trained homicide investigator. He is a person who, he told us, had access not only to legitimate records, phone records, voters registration records, Post Office records, he told us from this witness stand he had then, as he does now, have access to what he referred to as confidential sources, sources that he should not be able to receive information from but because of his experience as a trained investigator is capable of receiving information from, sources like welfare records and the like. And in fact when he was hired to find a Veronica Jones and given an old Philadelphia address, he used, utilizing that information, those confidential sources in the Philadelphia region to attempt to locate her and was unsuccessful.

Page 132.

Commonwealth Argument

Mr. Anderson was never told what was obviously plainly obvious to Counsel, and that is that this woman had significant ties in Camden, New Jersey. She so testified in 1982. Her statement was obviously taken at the home of her mother in New Jersey. And she said that time and again during her testimony. Had Mr. Anderson been told that the person we're looking for has ties in Camden, he could have used those same confidential sources, without those problematic subpoenas that Counsel somehow cannot manage to get; to obtain the information which we know exists, that being that Veronica Jones lived there and received welfare there, was on probation there, and had an active criminal conviction and probation over an extended period of time.

Page 133.

Commonwealth Argument

Beyond that, of course, Your Honor, is the fact that her criminal record did show that she had an active probation in Philadelphia. Probation records do give you the names, the ages of her children, the full name of her mother, the place of her birth and address of her mother, significant information which Counsel apparently chose to ignore.

The same is true with regard to the testimony of Mr. Bell and the testimony he gives regarding his employer.

It reminds me, Your Honor, of a joke -- and I am not good at jokes but it is so analogous. You know, a woman walks into a room and she sees her co-worker kneeling on the floor. And she says to her co-worker what are you looking for. And her co-worker says I lost my contact lens, I am looking for it. So she gets down on her knees with her co-worker and they start looking for this contact lens. And after 15 or 20 minutes they have no success and the first woman says where is it that you lost it, let's concentrate our search. So her co-worker says I lost it down the hall in the Xerox room. She says well how come we're looking for it here. She says well it is much easier for us to see here.

Page 134.

Well, it is much easier for Mr. Newman to make surname searches and create 80,000 names of women in Spokane, Washington, in New Haven, Connecticut, in Baltimore and in California. To not even provide the information that the woman is on probation in Camden, her mother lives in Camden, she lives in Camden, when her bench warrant was lifted in 1988 she was living in Camden, look in Camden -- the name she signed her bench warrant on was Veronica Jones -- the fact that that information was not provided, the fact that this nationwide search was conducted when the evidence was overwhelming and available and I suspect known to Counsel that her ties were in Camden, certainly suggests that a legitimate effort to find Veronica Jones was never made and was not made until well into the Post-Conviction Relief Act proceeding, and when it became clear to Counsel that none of the other witnesses that they were attempting to produce were giving them any luck with regard to winning a new trial in this matter.

Page 135.

Commonwealth Argument

We would argue, Your Honor, that there has not been a sufficient record made that this witness was sought appropriately, adequately, diligently, she is not after discovered, and that her testimony should not be made part of the record.

We would note, however, with regard to my original arguments, that even if her testimony were allowed onto the record, even if there is a finding that she was, she is an after-discovered witness, that she is simply an incredible witness, that she should be found by this Court to be lying and therefore not subject or worthy of belief at this proceeding.

And even if this Court were to find that the testimony of Miss Jones at this proceeding was credible, that that testimony would not in any way have changed or affected the verdict in this case. The testimony she gives in this proceeding is not markedly different from the testimony that she gave at trial. She testified at trial that after looking around the corner she saw two men on the corner and she left. It is very evident from a reading of that record, and I suspect as evident to the Jury at that time, that neither of those two men that she saw standing on the corner a significant period of time after the shooting could have been Mr. Jamal. The Jury was well aware of the fact that Mr. Jamal had been shot and he too was down on the curb. Her testimony that she saw two men and then she left is no different than her testimony then that she saw two men and that they left and then she left.

Page 136.

Commonwealth Argument

And for all those reasons, Your Honor, we ask that the testimony in this case, whether or not made part of the record, be found by this Court not to in any way affect the prior ruling of this Court that defense has failed to meet their burden, that there has been no showing of an after-discovered witness, a recanting witness, and the relief sought continue to be denied.

Page 137.

MR. WEINGLASS: I just have one comment, which will take less than one minute. With respect to Miss Jones' co-defendants in 1988, it's my understanding that only Miss Jones faced the gun charges which were serious.

THE COURT: Yes, that's right.

MR. WEINGLASS: Alone. And the others had their cases dismissed, had their cases dismissed on related charges but not gun charges.

THE COURT: Well, they didn't find any guns on the other people. There was a robbery and the people who could prove the robbery just didn't show up.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: The judge had no --

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no quarrel with that.

THE COURT: Well, that's what she said.

MR. WEINGLASS: But to say that the fact that her co-defendants were also released --

THE COURT: Well, that's because she also was charged with that robbery.

Page 138.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: But they didn't show up in her case as well as in the other co-defendants.

MR. WEINGLASS: My only point is only she faced serious charges.

THE COURT: No, she faced the gun charge.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Because when those complainants didn't show up the judge couldn't do anything else but throw it out.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly. But she was the only one with gun charges.

THE COURT: I understand that.

MS. FISK: May I note, however, Your Honor -- and I also did not reserve a minute but neither did Counsel so I am assuming I get a chance to respond to that -- that again under the sentencing code, the gun charge in this case was a misdemeanor. The serious charge in this case was robbery.

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Under the sentencing act, if you commit a robbery with an operable firearm, or are an accomplice of a person who commits a robbery with an operable firearm, it is under those circumstances that mandatory sentences are imposed. Thus, everyone of the persons charged with the robbery in this case faced the same serious charge. It apparently was because she was found as the person in possession of the gun that that was the charge that she had to plead nolo contendere to because even without witnesses from the bar that was a charge that could be proven because Officer Jesberger was still available.

THE COURT: I understand.

MS. FISK: With that I rest. And we could do this all day and in fact we have.

MR. WEINGLASS: The only question is from June of 1982 when she testified in this case, she faced at that time the serious gun charges. And that it later turned out that witnesses did not come forward.

THE COURT: Well, are you blaming the police for that too?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not blaming anyone.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am just saying that her state of mind in June of 1982 --

THE COURT: Well, sure, she was facing --

MR. WEINGLASS: When she faced mandatory --

THE COURT: She faced very serious charges, I understand that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes. It just goes to her motive at the time she testified.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I ask what the schedule should be for providing the Court with --

THE COURT: Well, he says he will have this printed within a week.

Within a week you say?

So within a week after that you could file proposed findings of fact.

MS. FISK: And conclusions of law.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. BURNS: Will do, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: And Your Honor will simply issue your opinion with regard to this case.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: All right.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

THE COURT OFFICER: Mr. Weinglass stepped out for a moment.

(Pause)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Excuse me, Your Honor. We wanted to see Mr. Jamal before we began proceedings this morning as well up here.

THE COURT: What do you need to see him about?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: He is our client.

THE COURT: I know he is your client.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We need to consult with him.

THE COURT: Why didn't you see him yesterday?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Weinglass...

THE COURT: Well, he will be brought out to you and you will have a chance to talk to him.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Judge Sabo asked why we didn't see Mr. Jamal yesterday and I just wanted to make a record on that.

Page 5.

(Discussion held off the record.)

THE COURT: I didn't okay anything. Nobody asked me anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: The clerk --

THE COURT OFFICER: It was just brought to my attention, Your Honor, that that's what he wanted to do. If it's all right.

THE COURT: He said whether I okayed it. I didn't okay anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: It was a Court clerk, I never said the Judge okayed it.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

THE SHERIFF: Bring him in?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, as I requested, we would like to see Mr. Jamal before we begin.

THE COURT: You will see him when he comes in the Courtroom. You should have seen him before now. I can't run my Courtroom for your convenience. We are here for one limited purpose, that is to take the testimony of Pamela Jenkins.

Page 6.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we get into that, you asked why we didn't see Mr. Jamal yesterday. And I wanted to indicate to you that Mr. Jamal was brought to Frackville, which is some three hours from here, yesterday. We certainly intended to see Mr. Jamal yesterday but he wasn't even in Frackville until late in the evening. Which is three hours away, which meant it was impossible for us to consult with Mr. Jamal prior to this hearing in any sort of deliberate, regular way.

THE COURT: Why do you have to consult with him? He is not going to testify today. Only one witness: Pamela Jenkins. That's all, nobody else.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We firmly believe that our client has the right to Counsel and that he has a right to consult with Counsel.

THE COURT: You will be able to consult with him while the witness testifies. I mean he knows what the witness is going to say?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, I request that we make sure that Mr. Jamal is housed in the Philadelphia --

THE COURT: He will be brought in here for you, he will sit right there, you will be able to talk to him all you want.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In the Philadelphia area this evening so that we will be able to consult with him prior to any proceedings, further proceedings in this matter.

THE COURT: What further proceedings? We are here for a limited purpose: To take the testimony of Pamela Jenkins. That's all. I am not hearing anything else, do you understand?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Judge, we subpoenaed --

THE COURT: I don't care who you subpoenaed. They are quashed. I am here only for Pamela Jenkins. That's what the Supreme Court sent it down for and that's all I am hearing.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we discuss that could we have Mr. Jamal produced in Court before we begin?

THE COURT: Well, he will be brought in here.

THE COURT OFFICER: Bring him out, gentlemen. Thank you.

(Pause)

Page 8.

(The Defendant entered the Courtroom at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS. If Your Honor please: Just to address the, just to address the last issue which the Court has raised: We have received a May 30th Order of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania which requires this remand hearing -- quoting from the Order -- to take additional testimony with respect to Pamela Jenkins. Now, of course the Supreme Court could have ordered testimony of Pamela Jenkins, and then the Court hearing would have been limited to just her testimony. However, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania wrote in their opinion that they wanted testimony with respect to Pamela Jenkins. Which is a much broader grant of authority.

THE COURT: You will have to go back up to the Supreme Court and tell them to revise their order. Because I take this to mean only her testimony. Now, if it means something else, let the Supreme Court tell me.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, it is the position of this Court -- so that I am clear --

THE COURT: Yes, yes --

Page 9.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- that you will --

THE COURT: Only hear Pamela Jenkins, that's all.

MR. WEINGLASS: We contend that --

THE COURT: Well, if you contend that you go back up to the Supreme Court. They have sent it back before and they will send it back again. And let them spell out who is going to testify.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, by --

THE COURT: As far as I am concerned, only Pamela Jenkins. Now, if it is going to be anything else, you better go back up there and get it clarified.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor is going to have to evaluate her credibility in making findings of fact.

THE COURT: Well, I know that.

MR. WEINGLASS: In order to do that you will need testimony of others who support her testimony.

THE COURT: Counselor, you take that up with the Supreme Court. Please. I don't interpret it that way.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I may note that after Miss Jenkins' testimony, if Counsel at that time wishes to offer additional witnesses and state an offer of proof, the Commonwealth may not have objection to various additional witnesses.

Page 10.

THE COURT: I don't care what the Commonwealth feels. I am telling you I am going by the Supreme Court's Order. If you have to go up and get it clarified, fine.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: So you better be prepared to make whatever objections you are going to make and I will rule on them.

MR. WEINGLASS: So that we are clear at the beginning: We are only to call Pamela Jenkins?

THE COURT: That's all.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we are precluded from all the others?

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WEINGLASS: All the subpoenas are quashed?

THE COURT: They are quashed. I don't even know what subpoenas you issued.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor,

Page 11.

could we make a record on our subpoenas?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am assuming that Your Honor is going to permit the Commonwealth to call witnesses to contest --

THE COURT: I am not going to let the Commonwealth do anything. This Order says Pamela Jenkins. Now, if you had a problem with it, while you were up at the Supreme Court, why didn't you argue that?

MS. FISK: We don't have a problem with it, Your Honor. Our position, however, is that whenever the Defendant presents a witness, the Commonwealth, in addition to cross-examining that witness, has a right to present testimony to challenge the witness' credibility.

THE COURT: Did it say that in this Order?

MS. FISK: Certainly. And it is my position that, with respect to her, we have a right to show the witness is not telling the truth.

THE COURT: Have you ever heard of a PCRA that has come back for a remand two times? Two times?

Page 12.

MS. FISK: It is, however --

THE COURT: I want a clarification of exactly what they want.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I don't know why they need this.

MS. FISK: Beyond that, however, it is the Commonwealth's position that the Commonwealth should be allowed to present testimony that contradicts the witness.

THE COURT: You should have argued that when you were up at the Supreme Court and asked them to rewrite this Order. You had this Order for a long time.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I didn't. They didn't send me the Order.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, when we applied to the Supreme Court for this remand hearing, we filed a 15-page document setting out all the reasons why all the other support testimony is required for Pamela Jenkins. It was only after receiving our document that the Supreme Court ordered this hearing, presumably so that all the contextual issues that we raised could be brought out in this hearing.

THE COURT: Counselor --

MR. WEINGLASS: You can not just hear Pamela Jenkins alone: It will not make any sense to the Supreme Court.

THE COURT: If it doesn't, let them put a new Order in, we will bring them back again.

MR. WEINGLASS: But their Order is clear.

THE COURT: It is not clear to me.

MR. WEINGLASS: It doesn't say for the testimony of Pamela Jenkins, it says with respect to Pamela Jenkins. Which the Supreme Court wrote that order after receiving our lengthy document explaining why all the additional testimony in addition to Pamela Jenkins is required.

THE COURT: What are they doing, giving us a whole new hearing here?

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

MS. FISK: With regard to this witness, clearly the Supreme Court has permitted testimony to be taken.

Page 14.

THE COURT: I am saying today we will take the testimony only of Pamela Jenkins. You go back up to the Supreme Court and say will you please clearly outline what you want the Court to do. I wasn't there at the Supreme Court. You were and he was. I don't know what goes on up there.

MR. WEINGLASS: But, Your Honor, we filed this week a new document --

THE COURT: I know you did. And in some of it you wanted to get a new Judge, they denied that. You wanted to make a Batson claim and they knocked that out. You wanted discovery and they knocked that out.

MR. WEINGLASS: But they did grant us a full hearing on Pamela Jenkins with respect to Pamela Jenkins.

THE COURT: Counselor, right, today I am only taking her testimony. After her testimony is finished, you could go back up to the Supreme Court and say the Judge only allowed that, would you please tell him what else he can do. I am not going to try to interpret their minds: I don't know what they want.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we gave you a memorandum on Tuesday.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't know what they want. Let them put it in plain English. And whatever they say, I will do. But as far as I'm concerned, it is limited today to Pamela Jenkins. Go back up to the Supreme Court.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: We are prepared to proceed with Pamela Jenkins.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: The defense calls Pamela Jenkins.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Judge Sabo's Court clerk knows she is in custody because he assisted in getting the order to have her produced.

THE COURT OFFICER: Nobody told us, we had to tell the Sheriff.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: She's downstairs.

THE COURT OFFICER: She is downstairs?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: She is produced. We made sure she is produced. She is produced.

THE COURT OFFICER: Captain Kennedy.

Page 16.

Ask the Captain to come in, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, while we are waiting do you want us to make the record on the subpoenas?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we do that?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: As indicated in the pre-hearing memorandum that was filed by the defense on Tuesday, the defense, in line with the Order from the Supreme Court indicating that this hearing is in reference to the testimony of Pamela Jenkins, has subpoenaed a number of individuals as well as documents for this hearing. One of the other individuals, or two of the individuals who have been subpoenaed are Richard Ryan, Detective Richard Ryan of Central Detectives. He is centrally named by Pamela Jenkins as the individual from Central Detectives that she was brought to by Tom Ryan, who was also subpoenaed.

THE COURT: That's all right, just give me their names.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I think I need to make clear for the record and for the Court so in making you're ruling as to what are the reasons and the rationale for --

Page 17.

THE COURT: Please, I told you go back to the Supreme Court. Let them -- you give them those names and if they say take the testimony of those individuals, I will hear that testimony.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: These individuals were specifically named by Pamela Jenkins as being the officers who pressured her into trying to make her falsely state that Mr. Jamal was the shooter of Officer Faulkner. And they further indicated to her that they wanted to try and find Cynthia White, they paid her money to find Cynthia White, who was the primary prosecution witness in this hearing. And --

THE COURT: I don't think she was the primary.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: And extremely germane to the hearing that we are --

THE COURT: She wasn't the primary witness.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note that we have no objection to the defense calling these two additional witnesses in pursuant to the remand.

THE COURT: What witnesses?

MS. FISK: Officer Tom Ryan and Officer Richard Ryan are both mentioned in Pamela Jenkins' affidavit that was submitted to the Supreme Court, and we have no objection to the defense also calling those witnesses in order to support the allegations that Ms. Jenkins is making. And we have no objection to their calling those witnesses.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The other individual who is also specifically named by Pamela Jenkins who we have subpoenaed is former patrolman or Officer Lawrence Boston. He has been subpoenaed. He has been subpoenaed, he is named by Pamela Jenkins as being a police officer who was present on the scene at the time of the Faulkner shooting. This is information, furthermore, that should have been Brady material, should have been turned over to the defense.

THE COURT: Well, they denied your Brady material now.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Brady material is not deniable; Brady material is an obligation by the prosecution --

Page 19.

MS. FISK: Right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- to turn over. It is not required that we even ask for such a thing.

MS. FISK: Your Honor --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is the obligation of the State to provide any Boston evidence to the defense. Officer Boston and Detective Richard Ryan and another man by the name of Sarge, who we believe is the prosecuted, convicted 39th District officer named Louis Maier who is currently incarcerated, were all three individuals who were present on the scene when Officer Faulkner was shot. These individuals and any statements of what they saw have never been turned over to the defense. This should have been Brady material. The fact that we have officers who may have been there when the shooting took place that we do not have one report from them in the 150 reports that were turned over to the defense makes this very, very similar to the Ryder case, where after 13 years and many, and several different hearings, it took, it took 13 years for finally one judge to issue an order so that there was discovery of the prosecution's files, in which there were several, another hundred investigative reports in there, including eight which were exculpatory of the defendant.

We believe that is the posture of this case. That there is Brady material, information establishing not only the innocence of our client, but also any other information important for impeachment of prosecution witnesses that should have been turned over.

For this prosecution to depend on Cynthia White, a prostitute convicted some 38 times, when there were police officers on the scene who witnessed this shooting --

THE COURT: As I told you before, I was the Judge at the time and I don't think Cynthia White was a big witness in this case. But.

MS. FISK: She certainly was not the sole eyewitness, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: But beyond that, Your Honor, with regard --

THE COURT: Wait a while.

Page 21.

MS. FISK: With regard to Miss Wolkenstein's application: Pamela Jenkins in her affidavit notes in the last paragraph that Tom Ryan told her that police personnel, including a police officer named Boston, was present. For that reason I have no objection to Counsel calling former Police Officer Larry Boston to testify in order to buttress Miss Jenkins' testimony. There was a nickname Sarge in the affidavit. The Commonwealth cannot agree and does not agree that that refers to any particular officer. And in fact I don't believe that Officer Maier, or former Officer Maier, of who they are claiming is Sarge, is available. And the Commonwealth does not agree, nevertheless, that he was Sarge and I don't believe he was.

But we have no objection to Officer Boston or Detective Ryan or former officer Ryan because they are expressly named and mentioned in Miss Jenkins' affidavit.

THE COURT OFFICER: Ms. Jenkins is up, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Should I continue, Your Honor?

Page 22.

THE COURT: Sure. Who else do you want?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I will continue. The other point I wanted to make about Richard Ryan is that he was also involved in the arrest of Ken Freeman in February of 1982, two months after the Faulkner shooting. The name of Detective Ryan, Richard M. Ryan, Badge number 9071, appears as the officer in charge of the arrest in which in Ken Freeman's house was found a .22 caliber pistol, explosives and various ammunition. We believe that this is extremely germane to this case.

And Detective Ryan's name, who previously does not appear in any of the reports concerning this investigation and the prosecution of our client, nonetheless is clearly somebody, based on Pamela Jenkins' testimony, that is a link between not only trying to pressure witnesses to falsely identify Mr. Jamal as the shooter, but also involved in an investigation and arrest of a man who has died suspiciously.

Ken Freeman, we heard at the PCRA hearing by witness Arnold Howard, was the source of giving, Arnold Howard was the person who gave to Ken Freeman his license. It was Howard's license that was found on the body of Officer Faulkner when he was found shot that night. The fact that a license belonging to some other person, not Mr. Jamal, not his brother Billy Cook, was found on the person of Officer Faulkner, was also Brady material and that material was never turned over to the defense. The first time we heard of this was from Arnold Howard, and then it was confirmed in this Court before this Court in the PCRA hearing in August of '95 by a prosecution witness, Detective, former Detective Edward D'Amato. He confirmed that the reason that he was questioning Arnold Howard that night was because of the fact that Arnold Howard's license or temporary license or application for a license was found on Officer Faulkner's body. Howard testified that Freeman was the source of that.

Freeman is unavailable to us, Your Honor, because he died under very strange circumstances. We understand that he died, he was brought to a hospital in a police vehicle, gagged, bound, naked, to a hospital. And the death certificate indicates he died at the age of 31 of natural causes of a heart attack.

The interesting date of this, Your Honor, as well, is that the date of his death was May 14th, 1985: The night of the bombing of Osage Avenue.

These particular points linked to Detective Richard Ryan, who previously was unknown to the defense, despite the fact that he obviously engaged in this investigation, was likely there that night, is all Brady material, all information that we should have had at the time of the trial. Information that we should have had in 1995 when we had the PCRA hearing. It is information that should have been disclosed in the past two years in which we have been on appellate review. All of this material, by the Brady versus Maryland and Kyles versus Whitley, is material that is the obligation of the prosecution to turn over to the defense.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, with regard to the second half of Ms. Wolkenstein's presentation... let me start --

THE COURT: The second half.

MS. FISK: The statement taken from

Page 25.

Mr. Howard by the police in 1981, the day after Officer Faulkner was murdered, makes clear that he is being questioned because his license was found at the time of the shooting.

THE COURT: Wait.

MS. FISK: That is a statement which was part of discovery, disclosed to defense counsel, and following Mr. Jamal's arrest when discovery was provided. This is not something that was secret or unknown.

Mr. Howard was interviewed by police and his interview was disclosed to the defense. He was not called to trial because, frankly, there is nothing that he said in that statement which was at all relevant.

Mr. Howard testified at proceedings before Your Honor in 1995 and was found, Your Honor, to be an incredible witness with regard to many things, including, I suspect, and I believe the Order makes clear, his describing Mr. Freeman having been at the homicide the night of the shooting because his description of Mr. Freeman is buttressed by his allegation under oath before Your Honor that in 1981 he and Mr. Freeman participated in a line-up in a line-up facility at the PAB, which he described, and which has not now or ever existed. He described in fact the line-up facility which exists up at the Detention Center. But his testimony very clearly described a line-up facility at the PAB in the first of the 72 hours in which he said he was held in custody by the police and taken from district to district to district and released after three days.

He described a line-up being conducted at the Police Administration Building, a physical impossibility because the facility he described does not exist; and testimony was presented to Your Honor that it does not exist.

In addition, the Commonwealth presented evidence at that proceeding in 1995 before Your Honor that Mr. Howard was signed in at a particular date and time when he came into the Police Administration Building, and was signed out two hours later, which also clearly showed that his testimony that he was held in custody and transferred as a prisoner in custody from place to place to place for three days was untrue.

For Counsel to now get up here and say well, other things became relevant because the witness who testified who has been found completely incredible by this Court makes it relevant is simply bootstrapping one lie on top of another.

Nevertheless, because Ms. Jenkins mentions Officer Ryan in her affidavit with regard to efforts that he made with regard to her, and her referring to him as someone present at the scene when Officer Faulkner was murdered, we have no objection to Officer Ryan being called. I reserve the right to object when he is called to, to object to questions which in the Commonwealth's position is beyond the scope of this hearing.

But the Commonwealth agrees with Ms. Wolkenstein that with regard to Ms. Jenkins' claims regarding Detective Ryan, we have no objection to him being called.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There is only one problem with what Ms. Fisk had to say, which is that the essential point about Howard's testimony and Howard's report is that the report that was submitted to the defense was false. That's point number one. It indicated in there that this license was found in Billy Cook's car. It was from the prosecution's own witness, from one of their own investigating detectives, Edward D'Amato, that we heard that in fact this license was found on the body of Officer Faulkner. That was said by Mr. Howard that is true, but it is the prosecution's own witness who said because this license was found on the body of Officer Faulkner, that he was questioning Arnold Howard.

THE COURT: Well, you see why I need further clarification from the Supreme Court. If you people can't agree with what the Supreme Court means by that, what you say is ambiguous, it's ambiguous to me, too.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I am disputing the factual rendition, not whether or not --

THE COURT: I know what you are disputing. That's why I say, after we have the hearing today and you have Pamela Jenkins off, you people go back up to the Supreme Court and get a clarification of just who could be testifying here. Okay.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Those three witnesses that I just went through and some related matters to them deal with some of the specifics, one of the sets of specific allegations that Pamela Jenkins' made which is in her signed statement, her signed statement.

MS. FISK: We have no objection to that testimony being taken today, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We issued a subpoena on the District Attorney's Office for them to release the entire file on Mr. Jamal's case on the investigation into the death of Officer Faulkner and on the prosecution of Mr. Jamal. We make this application because we believe as I have already stated that there is substantial Brady material there, information concerning witness coercion, witness manipulation, falsifying statements, and missing witnesses. And witnesses who provided initially true statements, such as Mr. Singletary, as to having seen the actual shooter that day, not Mr. Jamal, not his brother, and then the shooter run away.

We also have asked the prosecution to produce Cynthia White. We believe that Cynthia White is in the protection and custody of the Police Department and we believe that the last time she was seen was actually in the presence of Police Officer Ryan and former police officer Tom Ryan. And we request again that the prosecution produce her, or at least give us the information on where to locate her. We have been looking for her for several years and we have not been able to find her. We believe at this point that she is being protected by the police.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I note that in the brief filed by the defense this week, there is an averment that they have received information or have evidence that Ms. White was seen this year, 1997 is what is said in the brief, in the presence of police personnel. I would ask Counsel to please present that testimony and provide it to give us assistance in attempting to locate Miss White on behalf of defense. And I would have no objection to their presenting evidence with regard to her last known whereabouts so we could assist them. We do not have access or ability to provide or present Ms. White in this Courtroom.

THE COURT: Okay. Now do you see why I have to go back to the Supreme Court? I don't know all of these factors that you are talking about. Go back up and let the Supreme Court lay it out clearly which witnesses you can present.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Pamela Jenkins, again, Your Honor, why we think that dealing with the question of Cynthia White is entirely relevant to and actually been ordered by the Supreme Court, is because Pamela Jenkins' statement indicates quite clearly that she learned from Cynthia White that Cynthia White feared for her life from police officers. Having to do with testifying, you know, for, for the prosecution, for the police against Mr. Jamal. And that she feared for her life in connection with that testimony. The whole question of Cynthia White, who as I said was a primary or main witness, and who we also --

THE COURT: You keep referring to her as the main witness. As far as I am concerned, she was not the main --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I won't quibble, Your Honor, over whether she was primary or main, but she certainly was a witness. She certainly was a central witness. There were three witnesses from the prosecution here. She was the only witness, Your Honor, who testified that she saw Mr. Jamal with a gun. No other witness ever said they saw a gun in Mr. Jamal's hands. For that reason alone, I believe the fact is that she is somewhat different and unique and was relied on by the prosecution as accurate.

We also believe that Cynthia White was a police informant. And that is also something that will come out in the course of this hearing. And we believe that is totally germane. And certainly if she was a police informant, that is Brady material and should have been disclosed to us. And the fact that it is Brady material and is absolutely critical to the question of whether or not Mr. Jamal had a fair trial has been shown by the Carter case, the recent reversal on the charges against Mr. Carter, who was incarcerated for some 13 years on a life sentence on murder charges. And it was clear that the fact that it was not known to the prosecution, not known to the defense, that the main witness, who I will say right here was Pamela Jenkins, was paid for, was not heard, she was not paid as an informant in that but she was actually paid to find Mr. Carter, was the basis on which that case was reversed.

I also want to make the point that the question of not disclosing informants and the fact that a witness is an informant for the prosecution or for the police is grounds for a new trial, which is central and the main reason why after 27 years Geronimo Pratt, a former Black Panther party member, like Mr. Jamal, who was convicted unjustly for murder, like Mr. Jamal, for a crime he did not commit, like Mr. Jamal, was finally released on an order granting a new trial based upon the fact that for 27 years, despite numerous, I believe a half a dozen habeas corpus, comparable PCRA petitions, Federal habeas corpus proceedings, the District Attorney's Office kept a secret from the defense of the fact that their witness, one of their main witnesses against Mr. Pratt, was a police informant.

So this question of police informant and the relationship of Cynthia White to the police is extremely relevant to this case and relevant to and absolutely on point with what it means by saying that testimony should be taken with reference to Pamela Jenkins.

Page 34.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note that there is no allegation in the affidavit signed by Ms. Jenkins that Cynthia White is a police informant. Nor is there any proof.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is not accurate.

MR. BURNS: Your Honor, Geronimo Pratt? Let's try to return to reality. And I could understand Your Honor's wanting to have some clarification from the Supreme Court, but I think, and I want to suggest, Your Honor, that in order to save you time it might be more beneficial to hear all the witnesses who were actually mentioned in the Pamela Jenkins affidavit now. Not to the extent they talk about things like Howard or Freeman or Singletary, things that are not mentioned in the affidavit, but we can at least hear from the people who were actually mentioned in the affidavit -- or the so-called affirmation: They call it an affirmation -- that was actually presented to the Supreme Court, which is actually referred to anywhere in their Order.

Beyond that, certainly we should exclude all the other, irrelevant material that is being brought in from the four corners of the earth.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In the affirmation of Pamela Jenkins, paragraph 4 -- this is from Pamela -- I know that Cynthia White worked as a prostitute in the Center City area, specifically at Locust and 13th Street, during 1980 and 1981, and that she was a prostitute, police informant, and turned tricks for the police officers in the district.

We certainly did, Pamela certainly made the statement already that Cynthia White, also known as Lucky, was a police informant.

Okay? So we are requesting that the subpoena that was served on the District Attorney's Office for release of the entirety of their files be --

THE COURT: Well, you go back up to the Supreme Court and see if that's what they meant.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would note that the Supreme Court denied the defense request for additional discovery in this matter.

THE COURT: That's why I am confused about the whole thing. Go back up to the Page 36.

Supreme Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is absolutely inaccurate.

THE COURT: You have plenty of time today to do it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The Order from the Supreme Court where it relates to discovery is very specific. And it relates to discovery concerning the Batson issue.

THE COURT: Well, I don't --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That is very clear, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: In their Order -- I will read it to the Court --

THE COURT: I could read it myself, Counselor. Counselor, please, don't waste my time.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It makes it clear.

THE COURT: Counselor, we both can't talk at the same time. This Court reporter can't take us both down at the same time. Now, I am telling you right now I am only going to hear your first witness Pamela Jenkins now. You go back up to the Supreme Court today. We will keep him here locally, we will keep whatever witnesses you need, we will have them ready for you. If the Supreme Court says well, I want you to hear this witness, this witness -- or name them down, I don't care.

Page 37.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT: So don't waste my time. You are wasting my time.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will right now just stop. There are certainly many more subpoenas and many more issues, but we would like to call Pamela Jenkins.

THE COURT: Oh, I know. You take it up with the Supreme Court, how many subpoenas they are going to allow you to issue.

Come on. Where is she? Bring Pamela Jenkins in.

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, one moment, please. My name is Henry Schober. I am representing Pamela Jenkins in this hearing. I am from the Law Offices of Michael Farrell. We represent her in her Pennsylvania charges. I would like an opportunity to speak with her before she testifies.

Page 38.

THE COURT: She is in there, go ahead.

(Pause.)

MR. SCHOBER: Thank you.

(Pause)

Pamela Jenkins, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

MR. WEINGLASS: May I proceed?

THE COURT: Sure.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Miss Jenkins.

A. Good morning.

Q. You are going to have to speak loudly into the microphone.

A. Good morning.

Q. Thank you. Miss Jenkins, where do you presently reside?

A. I am in P.I.C.C. correctional facility.

Q. Is that here in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long have you been at P.I.C.C.?

Page 39.

A. About two-and-a-half months.

Q. Since sometime in April?

A. Right, yes.

Q. And directing your attention to the year 1981, where did you reside at that time?

A. 3410 North Sydenham Street.

Q. In the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes.

Q. And how old were you in 1981?

A. About 15, between 14 -- between 15 and 16.

Q. And were you in school at that time or --

A. Yes.

Q. Or were you employed?

A. I was in school.

Q. Do you recall what school you attended in 1981?

A. Simon Gratz.

Q. And directing your attention to the early morning hours of December 9th, 1981, were you at or near the intersection of 13th and Locust Street here in the City of Philadelphia?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Did you at that time and place witness a shooting?

A. No, I did not.

Page 40.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

Q. Did you in December of 1981 know a Philadelphia police officer by the name of Tom Ryan?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And who was Tom Ryan in 1981?

A. He was a truancy officer that had picked me up from truancy from Simon Gratz and a Philadelphia cop.

Q. He had arrested you?

MS. FISK: I'm sorry. And a Philadelphia cop? Is that what you said?

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

Yeah, he arrested me.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did he arrest you as a truant officer?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And by December 9th of 1981, could you describe for the Court what your relationship was with Tom Ryan?

A. I was sleeping with Tom Ryan; I was his informant.

Q. Yes. Did you say you were sleeping with Officer Ryan?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And you were also an informant?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you being paid by him for information?

Page 41.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And during the time that you were sleeping with him and he was a Philadelphia police officer, in 1981, how old were you?

A. About 15. About 15. Between 15 and 16, I ain't sure.

Q. Now, sometime shortly after December 9th of 1981, the time of the shooting of Officer Faulkner, did you have occasion to meet with Officer Tom Ryan?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And approximately when and where did that occur?

A. Germantown -- Germantown and, uhh, let me see... Germantown... it was in front of the Sunshine Inn, I think that's Germantown and Westmoreland, if I am not mistaken.

Q. Right. And, I'm sorry, you are going to have to speak a little louder.

A. Between Germantown and Westmoreland, in front of the Sunshine Inn.

Q. And do you recall what time of day it was that you met with him there?

A. It was at night, evening time, just turning dark.

Q. And do you recall what day of the week it was?

Page 42.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

A. It was a Saturday.

Q. Was this the Saturday following the shooting on December 9th, 1981?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. So it would be about three days later?

A. Yes.

Q. Was officer Ryan in uniform when you met with him?

A. No, he was in plainclothes.

Q. And did you and he remain at that location where you met or did you go somewhere else?

A. We went down to the central district.

Q. And where is the central district?

A. That's at, uhh, 8th Street, I can't tell you the exact address.

Q. 8th Street here in Philadelphia?

A. Right.

Q. And it is a police --

A. Police station.

Q. It is at the police headquarters?

A. Yes.

Q. And Tom Ryan went with you to the police headquarters?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. How long did you remain there at the police

Page 43.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

headquarters?

A. We got there about 7:00, we left out about 10:00.

Q. For about three hours?

A. Right.

Q. And during the time that you were there with Officer Ryan, did you have any conversation with any police officers?

A. Richard Ryan.

Q. With Richard Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. And did that conversation take place in an office or in a cell or where?

A. In, umm, like a -- interrogation room.

Q. And who was present in the interrogation room?

A. Tom Ryan and Richard Ryan.

Q. And did they talk to you about this case?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And did the name Mumia come up?

A. Yes.

Q. Who mentioned that?

A. Tom Ryan and Richard Ryan.

Q. And what did they say in connection with Mumia?

A. They just told me -- well, in other words,

Page 44.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

they were saying that it was a shootin' and that Mumia had did it. And they was making slurs across me, trying to make, you know, trying to pressure me into saying I was somewhere that I wasn't.

Q. Did they want to pressure you to say that you saw Mumia shoot the officer?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Did you think they were trying to get you to lie?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And what was there about that evident interrogation that gave you that impression?

A. Because they kept asking me, you know, was I there. They kept being persistent, pushing it. And Ryan know I wasn't there, and they knew I wasn't there. So that's what I assume, it was pressure, if they are going to keep asking me the same question over and over again and I am telling them no I wasn't there.

Q. And you were there for three hours?

A. About three hours.

Q. Could you describe for the Court what Detective Richard Ryan looks like?

A. Umm, he's like heavyset -- well, back then or now?

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

Q. Then.

A. Okay, he was like, he wasn't as heavy as he is now. He was like about medium build, brownish hair.

Q. Were you shown a photograph of him?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did you identify him?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Have you seen --

MS. FISK: I would ask access to that photograph that was shown to her, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

(Pause)

(Discussion was held off the record at this time among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: I have one for Counsel. One may be marked and shown to the witness (handing).

Would you mark this as the original and show it to Counsel? That is the original.

(Photograph was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-l for identification.)

MS. FISK: Oh, yes, I see it. Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: Your Honor?

THE COURT: No.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Showing you what has been marked D-l for identification: Is that a copy of the photograph that you were shown?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And who is that a photograph of?

A. Richard Ryan.

Q. In the period of time prior to that meeting with Detective Ryan and Officer Tom Ryan, had Tom Ryan paid you for information?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you think you were being asked to lie for money?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you agree to lie?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did Officer Tom Ryan indicate to you the names of other officers who were present at the scene of the shooting?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Do you recall who he mentioned?

A. Boston, O'Neil, Sarge.

Q. I'm sorry, could you say that again?

A. Boston, Sarge, O'Neil.

Q. Boston? Sarge?

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

A. Sarge, O'Neil.

Q. O'Neil. Now also directing your attention back to 1981, did you know then an individual by the name of Cynthia White?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you know her by any other name?

A. Lucky.

Q. And how long prior to December of 1981 had you known Cynthia White or Lucky?

A. I knew her way -- about a year, a couple years before that.

Q. Did you know what Cynthia White or Lucky did for a living?

A. Prostitution.

Q. To your knowledge, did she have any relationship to the police?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that?

A. Prostitution.

Q. Was she providing information to the police?

A. Sometimes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Don't lead your witness, please. It is your witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, to your knowledge back then in 1981, in what part of the City did she work?

A. Central. Center City, central.

Q. Would that include the area of Locust Street and 13th?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Now, sometime shortly after December 9th of 1981, did you have occasion to have a conversation with Cynthia White about her role in this case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Could you relate to the Court what that conversation was?

A. First time I ran into her she was scared. The second time she was in fear for her life from the police.

Q. Had she told you that?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. She was in fear for her life from the police?

A. Yes.

Q. And what became of Cynthia White?

A. She disappeared.

Q. Do you know where she went?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, after Cynthia White disappeared, did you ever have occasion to talk to Officer Tom Ryan again about Cynthia White and her disappearance?

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

A. About her disappearance? No. I talked to him because he wanted me to find her for him.

Q. He wanted you to find Cynthia White?

A. For him.

Q. Did he pay you to do that?

A. Yeah; he gave me $150.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have this document marked D-2?

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

MS. FISK: Thank you.

(Affirmation of Pamela Jenkins was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-2 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Ms. Jenkins, showing you a document, a three-page document that has been marked D-2 for identification, would you look on page 2 of that document, at the bottom of the document.

A. (Witness complies with request.)

Q. Does your signature appear there?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And did you sign this document on January 9th,

Pamela Jenkins - Direct

1997?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And looking at the bottom of page 1: Do your initials appear there?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you review this document before you signed it?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And have you reviewed it again before today's hearing?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Is this document true?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. When did you last see Cynthia White, or Lucky?

A. Umm, around the beginning of this year.

Q. And do you recall where you saw her?

A. Umm, 1326 13th Street, at Yates house.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, say it again, please?

THE WITNESS: 1326 13th Street.

MS. FISK: You said something after that.

THE WITNESS: Yates house. Yates house.

MS. FISK: Yates?

Page 51.

THE WITNESS: Y-A-T-E-S.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And when you saw Cynthia White there, did you talk to her?

A. I talked -- no, she act like she seen a ghost and, umm, she ran out the door and got into Ryan's truck.

Q. Now let me make sure I understand this correctly. You were inside the house?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did she then enter the house?

A. She was already in the house.

Q. And what happened when you saw her?

A. When I walked in there she act like she saw a ghost, and next thing I know she was running out the door. When I got to the door she was getting in Ryan truck, Tom Ryan.

Q. Tom Ryan's truck?

A. (The witness shook her head affirmatively.)

Q. Officer Tom Ryan?

A. Officer Tom Ryan.

Q. And that was in or about March of this year?

A. Yes, it was.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, March of this year? I apologize. March of this year, ma'am?

Page 52.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And could you describe Tom Ryan's truck?

A. It's red, it is a red truck with, umm, now he got the frame over it in the back (indicating).

Q. It is like a pickup truck with a frame over the bed of the pickup?

A. Yeah.

Q. And it's red?

A. Right.

Q. What time of day or night was this?

A. Umm... about 9:30, ten o'clock.

Q. In the evening?

A. Right. In the evening.

Q. Was Tom Ryan alone in that truck?

A. No, he wasn't, he was with Richard Ryan.

Q. He was with Detective Richard Ryan?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And in March of 1997 you saw Detective Richard Ryan and officer Ryan drive away with Cynthia White?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What were you doing in the Yates house that night?

Page 53.

A. I was helping look for her.

Q. Helping to look for Cynthia?

A. Yeah.

Q. Who were you helping?

A. Umm, Don.

Q. And who is Don?

A. He is an investigator for your office.

Q. For the defense?

A. Yeah.

Q. So in March of 1997 you were working with Don, the investigator for the defense?

A. Yes.

Q. In trying to find Cynthia?

A. Right.

Q. And you found her in the company of police officers?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you write out a handwritten statement to that effect?

A. Yes, I did.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have this marked D-3 (handing)?

MS. FISK: Do you have another copy of this?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, I do, I have several copies (handing).

Page 54.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

(Handwritten statement was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-3 for identification.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Yes, showing you D-3, which is a one-page document (handing), handwritten, do you recognize this document?

A. Huh?

Q. Do you recognize this document?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And in whose handwriting is this document?

A. Mine.

Q. And who signed this document?

A. I did.

Q. Did you date it?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What's the date?

A. 3-9-97.

Q. Is the statement on this document -- have you read it since?

A. No.

Q. Do you want to take a minute to look at it.

(Pause)

THE WITNESS: Yeah, it's right.

Page 55.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is it accurate?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Okay. Now, before we move off of Cynthia White: Back in 1981, other than prostitution, did Cynthia White have any relationship with the police that you know of?

A. You mean other than tricking?

Q. Yes.

A. I mean she gave them information, if that's what you are talking about.

Q. She was an informant?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. In 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you said other than tricking. What do you mean by tricking?

A. What do I mean by what?

Q. Tricking.

A. Prostitution, same thing.

Q. And she was performing acts of prostitution with the police?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. Was she, incidentally, being paid as an informant, to your knowledge?

Page 56.

A. Like I told you before, I can't say that because I never seen her get paid for the information.

Q. I see. But you knew she was providing information?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, incidentally, in 1981 and '82, did you know someone named Veronica Jones?

A. Not I did not.

Q. Now, Miss Jenkins, are you now facing charges?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. In the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And do those charges include felonies?

A. Yes, they do.

Q. And when were you charged with felonies?

A. I was charged with felony on June the 5th of --

Q. Of 1997?

A. Of 1997.

Q. About 21 days ago?

A. Yes.

Q. Prior to that time you weren't charged with felonies?

A. No, I was not.

Page 57.

Q. And the felonies that you were charged with on June 5th, did they involve events that occurred in an earlier time?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. When did those events allegedly occur?

A. They occurred on the, on the beginning of March. That's when the picture -- on the beginning of March I called because the picture was hot. Downtown. I called the cop -- I called the Feds, and, umm, they came to my house and, umm, they told me if I took them to get the picture back, I would not be -- they was -- I would not be arrested. I got I get locked up for retail, they throw the retail, they throw the retail out, okay. I was in jail for extradition to Jersey. On June the 5th they came to P.I.C.C. and recharged me for that picture.

Q. I see. Let me just try to clarify that somewhat. Are you saying that in March of 1997 you went to the Federal authorities?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. About a stolen painting?

A. They came to me, I didn't go to them. They came to my house.

Q. Had you called them earlier?

A. Yes, I did.

Page 58.

Q. So you contacted the Federal authorities?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And then they came to your house?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you cooperated with them?

A. Yes.

Q. And they regained the painting?

A. Yes.

Q. And from March 5th or 6th when you did that, until June 5th or 6th, you were not arrested?

A. No, I was not.

Q. You were not charged?

A. No, I was not.

Q. You were living here in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. You weren't hiding?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. And they told you that they weren't going to charge you with this?

A. Yes.

Q. And then on June 5th or 6th they charged you?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Do you know why they did that?

A. My feelings is due to this case they did it.

Page 59.

You know, that's the way I feel about the situation. Because they can -- it is not like I was hiding. I was still living at the same address. And my -- I think it's due to this case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I would like to point out as the Court has noted there, that on May 30th the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania ordered the testimony of Pamela Jenkins and within one week she was charged with felonies where she wasn't charged before and even cooperated with the police in recovering stolen property. I just think that ought to be in the record. Given the fact of what happened with Veronica Jones, it is just another instance of retaliation against a witness who comes forward for Mr. Jamal.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Since you have been in custody at P.I.C.C., have you seen Detective Ryan?

A. No.

Q. Did you see Detective Ryan shortly after these charges were leveled against you?

A. No. I seen Ryan before. I was downtown, I seen him before I even got to P.I.C.C. But after the, after these charges came I haven't seen him.

Page 60.

Q. Did he say anything to you when you saw him downtown?

A. Richard Ryan?

Q. Yes.

A. Oh, he said yeah, I finally, finally, you finally graduated, we gonna sit their ass down.

Q. Richard Ryan said that to you?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. When did he say that to you?

A. When I, umm, when they was arresting me.

Q. And where did this take place?

A. First I was at, I was at 22nd and Pennsylvania. And then they took me upstairs to the detective bureau, and that's where he was at. And we had some words. But his words when I first came in there, you finally graduated to the big league, we gonna sits that ass down. So we had some words and I just told him fuck him and I just went on in the cell.

Q. Did Detective Ryan on that occasion say anything to you about your having mentioned his name?

A. Oh, yeah, I keep my name out of his mouth.

Q. He said that to you?

A. Yeah, keep my name out of his mouth, off the news or --

Page 61.

Q. This was after you had signed the affirmation to the Supreme Court?

A. Right.

Q. In January of '97?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you take that as a threat?

A. Did I take that as a threat?

Q. Yes.

A. No, because they know they can't move me.

Q. Incidentally, did you know a person who was known by the nickname of Peanuts?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And who is Peanuts?

A. She is one of Tom Ryan's prostitutes.

Q. Do you know her name to be Joan Downs?

A. I don't know of her name to be Joan Downs, I just know the last name Downs, not Joan.

Q. Right, you know her as Downs?

A. Right.

Q. And that is Peanuts?

A. That's Peanut, that is her nickname on the streets.

Q. And she was a prostitute for Officer Tom Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you have seen Detective Richard Ryan

Page 62.

since April of this year when you were in custody and you related the conversation that you had with him.

A. (The witness shook her head affirmatively.)

Q. Have you seen officer Tom Ryan?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. Now, in 1994, did you have occasion to testify at several arbitration hearings for Police Officer John Baird?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was there more than one hearing in his arbitration?

A. Yes, there was. But they postponed a lot of them.

Q. Did you testify at one of the first hearings that actually went forward?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you testify for Officer Baird?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was that testimony that you gave for Officer Baird truthful?

A. No, it was not.

Q. At that time were you being paid by Officer Baird?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did you later after giving that testimony meet with agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation?

Page 63.

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you agree to return to that hearing or arbitration at a later date and testify truthfully?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you later appear and testify truthfully?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What became of Officer Baird?

A. He now serving 13 years.

Q. Did the United States Department of Justice then present you as a witness to a Federal grand jury?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And did that involve allegations of corruption of the Philadelphia Police Department in the 39th District?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. And as a result of your appearance before a Federal grand jury, did the grand jury vote indictments?

MS. FISK: I object to that question, Your Honor. There were probably hundreds of witnesses and I doubt the indictments were based solely on this witness' testimony.

Page 64.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, I will withdraw the question and reframe it.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did that grand jury, after you had testified, and others, vote indictments against Philadelphia police officers?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And was one of those indictments against officer Tom Ryan?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And do you know how his case was disposed of?

A. He turned state's evidence.

Q. Did he enter a plea of guilty?

A. Guilty to, guilty to the, umm, the charge with, umm, what's his name... Akeem.

MS. FISK: Akeem?

THE WITNESS: Yeah, guilty to the charge of Akeem but not with the corruption. He got 10 months.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now with respect to Akeem, that's a nickname for a gentleman named Colbert -- I'm sorry.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

Page 65.

MR. WEINGLASS: I will withdraw that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Incidentally, did the FBI put a wire on your person in order to record a conversation between you and Officer Baird?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And did you do that?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there ever a time when the Federal authorities were looking for you and Officer Baird hid you in a motel?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object only because the relevancy with regard to Officer Baird's acts --

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

MS. FISK: -- does not exist with regard to this witness' testimony of Officer Ryan's contact with the witness in the context of this case.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Not only that, he is leading. It is his witness, he shouldn't have to lead.

MS. FISK: Well, yes, beyond that.

Page 66.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, with respect to Officer Baird and the objection that was made, the fact that the police, that police in the City of Philadelphia hid Ms. Jenkins when the FBI was looking to serve her with a subpoena is relevant to the fact that we believe -- and she has testified to this -- that officers of the City of Philadelphia are hiding Cynthia White when they know that we are looking for her.

THE COURT: Well, that is a supposition you're making. Prove it. That is a supposition.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, that the police hid a witness from the FBI.

THE COURT: Not necessarily the police. Baird may have hid her.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes.

THE COURT: Well, Baird did it. Does that mean the entire Police Department is corrupt, they hide witnesses?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, but Baird was a partner of Ryan and Ryan was working with Richard Ryan.

THE COURT: I understand that, I understand all of that. But it was Baird who did that. This, you say the Police Department. It's like the time when they investigated the judges and they took action against them. Does that mean every judge in the City of Philadelphia is corrupt?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, I don't want to --

THE COURT: Well, for what you are trying to do, I sustain the objection. Because it has no relevancy to the matter that's before me now.

MR. WEINGLASS: What we have at this point is sworn testimony that Officer Tom Ryan, who has pled guilty --

MS. FISK: What we have is clear, it is on the record and it doesn't need to be repeated.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am not making an allegation against all the police. The officer who brought her down to the Police Department pled guilty. And he brought her down in this case. He was involved in this case. Richard Ryan is involved in this case.

THE COURT: Well, stick with Ryan, then. Stick with Ryan, what Ryan did. Stick with Ryan and what he did.

Page 68.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, I will.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Who was Officer Tom Ryan's partner at the time of these events?

MS. FISK: Which events? In 1994 when she testified?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, in --

MS. FISK: Which events?

MR. WEINGLASS: In the events that were the subject of the Federal investigation.

THE COURT: Wait a while.

THE WITNESS: Sergeant Jack Baird was his partner.

MS. FISK: Jack.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did Tom Ryan have any relationship with Baird?

MS. FISK: Well, objection.

THE COURT: Do you want to testify?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, it is a question.

THE COURT: It is a question. You are telling her the answer. If you want to testify take the stand and be sworn and testify as to what you know.

Stop leading you're own witness, please.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Miss Jenkins, as you sit here today are you afraid?

A. No, only for my daughter. Only for my daughters, that's all.

Q. Pardon?

A. Only for my kids, that's all.

Q. Why are you afraid for your kids?

A. Because look what they are doing to me. You know, you know, I get arrested for one thing and then barn, they charge me with another. And I know they retaliate, you know. And I know this in my heart because I done dealt with them before. They retaliated with me in Jersey, me sitting and sitting and waiting. Now they want to retaliate with this art picture. And this art picture had no bearings on this, but I am still sitting behind bars for it and I know they are retaliate.

Q. And it is your belief that they are retaliating against you because you are testifying in this case?

A. Yes, it is.

Page 70.

MS. FISK: Asked and answered, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes, it is.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further. Thank you, Miss Jenkins.

THE WITNESS: You're welcome.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Q. Ms. Jenkins, what is your middle name, please?

A. Why?

Q. Because I get to ask the questions.

A. And I --

THE COURT: You have to answer. Please, if she asks you a question, answer it.

THE WITNESS: Don't holler at me. Don't start hollering at me.

THE COURT: Well, I am going to holler.

THE WITNESS: No, you are not going to

Page 71.

holler at me.

THE COURT: Oh, do you want me to wipe out all the testimony? I will do that if you don't answer the questions that are given to you.

THE WITNESS: My middle name is Denease.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. D-E-N-E-A-S-E?

A. Yes.

Q. And your date of birth is what?

A. 9-1-65.

Q. And your mother, ma'am, is Margaret Baker, is that your mother's name?

THE WITNESS: Can I speak to my attorney, please?

MS. FISK: Be my guest.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, may we have a recess so that the witness could consult with her Counsel?

THE COURT: He could go right up there and consult with her.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, with respect

Page 72.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

to questions of my client about her mother, I would offer an objection. I don't know what the relevance would be with regard to this proceeding.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. SCHOBER: My client has some hesitancy to speak about her mother in these circumstances.

THE COURT: Why should she have?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am not asking any questions regarding the circumstances of this witness' mother, I am simply asking for an affirmation from this witness that her mother is indeed one Margaret Baker. That is the only question I am asking.

THE COURT: Okay. The objection to that question is overruled.

THE WITNESS: My mother name is Margaret Jenkins.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was she formerly Margaret Baker?

A. I don't know what she under right now.

Q. Were you born in Champaign, Illinois?

A. Urbana, Illinois.

Q. All right, now, ma'am, you told us that you

Page 73.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

attended Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes.

Q. And for how long, ma'am, did you attend Simon Gratz High School?

A. About, about two years. Off and on.

Q. What school did you attend prior to Simon Gratz? If you recall.

A. Umm, Gillespie.

Q. Now, am I correct that when you attended Simon Gratz High School you certainly were registered and attended under your name, that being Pamela Jenkins?

A. Yes.

Q. Pam Denease Jenkins?

A. Yes.

Q. And with your date of birth September lst, 1965?

A. Right.

Q. And when you say you attended about two years off and on, you started, you went to the end of the year, you started the following year, and then you went for a period of time before you left; would that be fair to say?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. So over, you attended parts of two different school terms? And by school terms I refer to the September through June term.

Page 74.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. And that sounds right to you, that you attended parts of two different school terms?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you told us, ma'am, that you met Officer Thomas Ryan when you were at Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, at the time you met him he was a police officer, ma'am?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And at the time you met him he was not yet in plainclothes, would I be correct, he was a police officer in uniform?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what you told us today is that you met Tom Ryan, you said he was a truancy officer and a Philly cop, he was in fact a Philadelphia uniformed police officer who was making truancy stops; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. I mean he wasn't separately working as a truancy officer, he was a police officer, right?

A. Yes.

Page 75.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. And he was a uniformed police officer?

A. Yes.

Q. And the first time you met him, so I am clear, was when he, as a uniformed Philadelphia police officer, picked you up for truancy?

A. Right.

Q. And was that during the period of time that you were registered as a student at Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I am going to object to this line of questions. Officer Ryan was wearing a uniform as a truant officer and they are asking the witness whether or not she knew what his status is as a police officer or a truancy officer.

MS. FISK: The witness just said he was a police officer.

MR. WEINGLASS: But she saw him in uniform as a truancy officer.

MS. FISK: Do I get to cross-examine Mr. Weinglass as well? Because that is not what Miss Jenkins' said. And if I am permitted cross-examination --

THE COURT: The objection is

Page 76.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

overruled. This is cross-examination. She has a right to ask any questions that she wants.

MR. WEINGLASS: She doesn't have a right to confuse the witness.

THE COURT: That is for me to decide. You make your objection and I will rule on it.

MR. WEINGLASS: My objection is she is confusing the witness.

THE COURT: She is not, it is overruled. She is not confusing anybody. Except you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. So I am clear: When Officer Ryan arrested you it was when he was a Philadelphia police officer?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection to the form of the question. He was a --

THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Ma'am?

THE COURT: You could answer.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You understood that question of you when I asked it a minute ago?

A. He was a truancy police officer.

Q. So he was a police officer?

Page 77.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. Truancy officer. Asked and answered.

THE COURT: Do you want to testify in this case?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, the witness said it.

THE COURT: All right, your objection is overruled.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was he in a Philadelphia police officer's car?

A. He was in a paddy wagon.

Q. In a what?

A. A paddy wagon.

Q. A police paddy wagon?

A. Right.

Q. A police wagon, Philadelphia Police Department paddy wagon?

A. Right, yeah.

Q. Okay. And he was a Philadelphia police officer working truancy, so far as you could tell, right?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled, overruled.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Page 78.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I just want to make sure, Miss Jenkins, that I am not confused, and I am not trying to confuse you. He was in a police paddy wagon, he was in a uniform. Did he have a gun, because he was a cop?

A. Yeah, he had a gun.

Q. And he picked you up for truancy?

A. Right.

Q. And he picked you up for truancy, was this outside Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes.

Q. And would it be fair to say that that is in the area of Pulaski and Hunting Park?

A. Right.

Q. And on this first occasion when you met him and he picked you up and he was in the paddy wagon, was he with another uniformed officer?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Do you remember who that officer was?

A. I remember Sarge.

Q. Sarge?

A. Yeah.

Q. And what is his -- Sarge is all you know him by, right? Is it that you know the person just by Sarge?

Page 79.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Just by Sarge.

Q. Do you know any other name?

A. (The witness shook her head negatively.)

Q. You are shaking your head no?

A. No.

Q. Okay.

THE COURT: You can't shake your head because he has to take it down (indicating). He can't take that down.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Was this, Miss Jenkins, was that the only time that Officer Ryan picked you up for truancy?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was, as I understand it, the very first time you met Officer Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, following his picking you up for truancy outside Simon Gratz High School, when following that did you start becoming his informant, how many minutes, days, weeks, months?

A. I can't recall that.

Q. Well, did it happen the next day?

A. No.

Q. The next week?

A. No.

Page 80.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. Did it take a period of months after you first met him before you became his informant?

A. It took a while. I mean we was more intimate before I became his informant, if that's what you want to know.

Q. So you became intimate with him before you became his informant?

A. Yeah.

Q. When, then, in relation to when he arrested you on this first occasion for truancy, was it that you became intimate with him?

A. I don't know exact period of time. I mean you are asking me something a long time ago.

Q. Yes, ma'am. Did it happen that day or did it happen --

A. No.

Q. -- weeks or months later?

A. Months later, I don't know. Months, yeah. I don't know, I don't recall on that.

Q. So it's at some months after the one time that he arrested you for truancy is when you became intimate with him?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: The witness said a month later and she couldn't recall. Now Counsel is saying some months.

Page 81.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

THE COURT: Counselor, please, this is cross-examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but you can't distort the witness' answer.

THE COURT: If you are going to testify and interrupt, I am just going to disqualify her entire testimony on direct. So don't interfere. She has a right to cross-examine. You had a right to present whatever you wanted to present.

MR. WEINGLASS: But when the witness says one month --

THE COURT: No, when the witness said -- and I said shut up, please. Before I have to hold you in contempt. Don't try me again, please.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Miss Jenkins, as best you are able to recall, what period of time after you became intimate with Officer Ryan was it that you then became his informant?

A. Probably a year or so later, I guess.

Q. Okay. Now, in terms of the murder of Officer Faulkner, as I understand your testimony, the

Page 82.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Saturday after Officer Faulkner was murdered you met with Officer Ryan; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, at that point in time, then, am I correct that you were already intimidate with Officer Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were already acting as an informant for Officer Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. And for what period of time had you been, as best you can recall, intimate with him, or acting as an informant for him, on this Saturday following Officer Faulkner's murder?

A. About a year, about a year.

Q. All right. And for that period of a year prior to then Officer Faulkner's murder, you had been an informant for Police Officer Thomas Ryan; is that right?

A. Yeah. Around that, a year or so.

Q. Approximately, I am not pinning you down. But that Saturday after Officer Faulkner's murder was, you were at that point already an informant of Police Officer Thomas Ryan and had been for approximately, as you say, one year?

Page 83.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Yeah, year or more.

Q. All right, and you are certain of that? Yes, ma'am?

A. Maybe longer, I don't know.

Q. Maybe longer?

A. Maybe longer, I can't give you an estimate, you know. I am just giving you around how much time it was.

Q. Yes, ma'am. And it was that Saturday after Officer Faulkner was murdered that you and Officer Ryan went to the central district on, at night, and that's when you met with this other officer, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I'm sorry, where did you say the central district was?

A. It's in Center City..

Q. Yes. I thought --

A. I didn't say where it was.

Q. Okay. When you said you went down to central district, where is it that you went?

A. When, it used to be in 8th and Race.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. Okay, so that's, that's the circle, you know.

Q. You mean the Roundhouse building?

A. Yeah.

Page 84.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. And is that the building that you went down to with Officer Ryan on this Saturday after Officer Faulkner was murdered?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay, 8th and Race. And do you recall where in that building you went where you and Officer Ryan then met with this additional police officer?

A. We caught the el -- I know we got on the elevator.

Q. Yes?

A. So they got a bunch of offices up there.

Q. Yes. You don't know which one you went to?

A. I think on the left-hand side, about the second one from the left-hand side.

Q. Left-hand side after you got off an elevator?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you know if the office had a name on it?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Now, it is at that location that you and Officer Ryan met with an additional officer?

A. Right.

Q. Met an additional officer?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the person whom you have identified as Detective Richard Ryan?

Page 85.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Right.

Q. And how is it that you know the name of the person in the photograph that you identified to be Detective Richard Ryan?

A. Because of the questions they asked me when I was down there. But he was younger -- he was not, you know, like that big then.

Q. Right. But how did you learn his name was Detective Richard Ryan?

A. I knew his name.

Q. How, before you met him on this Saturday?

A. No, when I was -- this is how I was able to identify him.

Q. Yes?

A. Because they, they asked me about the picture, about -- Richard Ryan asked me the officers that was in the case. And I told him it was Tom Ryan and Richard Ryan.

Q. I'm sorry, you said Richard Ryan asked you which officers were in the case?

A. No, listen, listen, listen. Tom Ryan and Richard Ryan.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. Was the two officers --

Q. Yes?

Page 86.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. -- that I was in central detective with.

Q. Right. And my question is how is it that you know that this man who is pictured in Defense Exhibit 1 (displaying) is named Richard Ryan?

A. Oh, I remember his face, you know. Like I said, he wasn't as fat then.

Q. Did he tell you his name, did someone tell you his name back then?

A. I mean he told me his name when they introduced, okay.

Q. Okay. And he told you his name was what?

A. Richard Ryan.

Q. Okay. That was my question.

A. Oh, okay.

Q. So back in 1981, on this Saturday after Officer Faulkner was killed; you and Officer Tom Ryan went to the PAB and you were then introduced to a man who identified himself to you as Richard Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. Got you. Okay. Now, you told us that at some later time you met Cynthia White and talked to her about her fears?

A. At some later time?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. What you mean? Explain what you're saying.

Page 87.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. I will be happy to. As I understand it, you have told us how the Saturday after Officer Faulkner was murdered --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- you had this meeting with Officer Tom Ryan and with Detective Richard Ryan?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. You also told us on direct examination --

A. Right.

Q. -- that you knew Cynthia White?

A. Right.

Q. And that you had a conversation with Cynthia White?

A. Right.

Q. About her being scared and in fear of her life from the police?

A. Right.

Q. Was that conversation with Cynthia White after this meeting that you had with Officer Tom Ryan and Detective Richard Ryan?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. How long after?

A. Umm... about a week or so, I guess.

Q. So that would -- and I don't want to confuse

Page 88.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

you. Officer Faulkner was murdered on December the 9th, 1981. I don't have a calendar in front of me but the Saturday following that would be less than seven days thereafter?

A. Okay.

Q. So would it be fair to say that your conversation with Cynthia White took place, then, in December 1981?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay, still within the month of December?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And still at that time -- and, I'm sorry, you can't say hmm-hmm.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And still at that time when you had been an informant or an intimate with Police Officer Ryan for a period, you can't be certain but approximately a year, maybe more?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, did you report her comments to Officer Ryan?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, how long after that was it that Officer Ryan paid you $150 to locate Cynthia White?

A. About... about three days later. About three

Page 89.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

to four days later. I am not really sure how many days it was.

Q. Again would it be fair to say that was still in December 1981?

A. Yes, it would.

Q. Or maybe just going into January '82? Or was it definitely December of '81?

A. You know, I can't really tell you about that.

Q. Okay, but your best recollection is it was about three or four days after you spoke to Cynthia White?

A. Yeah, that is my best recollection.

Q. And you spoke to Cynthia White, approximately again, approximately one week after you met with Officer Thomas Ryan and Officer Richard Ryan? Is that right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Where were you in June and July 1982?

(Pause)

A. Hmm... June and July 1982...

Q. Maybe I could relate that for you so you could put it into context. Do you recall when the trial against this Defendant for the murder of Officer Faulkner was held?

A. No, I don't remember that.

Page 90.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. You don't remember that trial being held?

A. I remember the trial being held but I wasn't, you know.

Q. You weren't what?

A. I wasn't, you know, following it.

Q. You weren't, all right, but you remember reading in the paper that it was occurring or that there was a trial? Do you understand my question?

A. No.

Q. The trial of this matter was conducted --

A. Right.

Q. -- at some point, you know that?

A. Right.

Q. And you remember being aware of that, that it was on trial?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And do you know where you were living or whether or not you were in school at that time? Do you recall?

A. No. Not right offhand.

Q. Okay. Now, as I understand your testimony, you have told us that you last saw Cynthia White, that same person you spoke to in December 1981, the last time you saw her was you know at the beginning of this year and you signed a statement dated March the 9th of this year saying that you saw her that day; is that right?

Page 91.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Was it that day or the day before?

MR. WEINGLASS: I think Counsel is misreading the document. March 7th is in the upper, left-hand side.

MS. FISK: Oh, I'm sorry. I apologize.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, you signed a document on March the 9th but it notes that on March the 7th of this year you saw Cynthia White?

A. Right.

Q. Yes, ma'am?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And there is no doubt in your mind that that was Cynthia, the same Cynthia White that you spoke to in December 1981?

A. No. There is no doubt.

Q. No doubt. Okay. Now, do you know -- strike that.

Now, at that time on March the 7th, 1997, you have told us that the circumstances of your seeing Cynthia White was that you were helping the investigator on behalf of the defense look for Ms. White. Yes?

Page 92.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Were you hired for that purpose?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Were you being paid at all for that?

A. No, I was not.

Q. You were doing it for free?

A. Yes.

Q. And at that time you were out on a bench warrant; isn't that right?

A. Out on what?

Q. On a bench warrant: You had failed to appear for a proceeding on which you had been arrested and charged with retail theft in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Probably.

Q. Oh. Did the investigator you were working with know that?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that you had failed to appear at a proceeding?

A. No.

Q. Now, in addition... you have told us today that you believe the arrest upon you this month was retaliation, and I believe you then said in the course of your description that they retaliated in New Jersey as well?

Page 93.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. (The witness nodded her head affirmatively.)

Q. Again you're shaking your head?

A. Yeah, yeah.

Q. Would you please tell us the nature of the retaliation and who retaliated upon you in New Jersey?

A. They had, they had to be the defense because I stayed over here in P.I.C.C. and when I got, when I stayed over there in P.I.C.C. and then they had me sitting there and waiting and waiting for a court date. Then I got to get an attorney and as soon as I got the attorney I was out like the next day, you know. So what you mean when you say retaliate?

Q. Well, that's what I am trying to find out.

A. When I say retaliate, I was charged with fugitive from justice.

Q. Yes, ma'am, you were in jail in New Jersey at some point some months back, right?

A. But that didn't have nothing to do with this case.

Q. In the course of your direct examination you said they retaliated on you in New Jersey?

Page 94.

A. That was for the art picture there.

Q. Oh, all right. That was for the arbitration?

A. When I started working for, when I started helping the Feds, that was their way of keeping me in jail then.

Q. When, back in 1994?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. Ma'am, am I correct, Ms. Jenkins, that in August 1995 you were arrested in New Jersey for having a knife?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. And then in April '96 you were sentenced on that weapons possession to one year probation?

A. Right.

Q. Is this the retaliation you're talking about?

A. No.

Q. Or was it before August of '95 that you are talking about?

A. No, I testified after that case.

Q. You testified after that August of '95?

A. I testified after that case for the arbitration. I don't know all the dates.

Q. I am just trying to put things in context. You were arrested in New Jersey, would you agree with me that you were arrested in New Jersey for possessing a knife on August the 17th, 1995?

A. Yes.

Q. That date is correct?

A. Right.

Q. Okay, and your testimony today is that the testimony which you gave at the Jack Baird arbitration was after that date?

A. I think so, yeah.

Q. Because what you're claiming is that after that arrest you testified against Jack Baird?

A. Right.

Q. Admitted that you had lied at his first proceeding?

A. That's right.

Q. And then Jack Baird in some way retaliated against you; is that your testimony?

A. Yes.

Q. Ms. Jenkins, if the notes of testimony from the arbitration proceedings show that your testimony in the Jack Baird arbitration is, the first one was March 1994, and the second was November 1994, and your arrest for the knife was after the second arbitration, could you then explain how that arrest in August 1995 constituted a retaliation? You had already testified the second time, ma'am, not --

Page 96.

A. I didn't testify -- where you got the dates for the testimony? For the arbitration?

Q. It was all done by the end of 1994, ma'am?

A. Yeah. All right, then I was arrested again for a fugitive warrant.

Q. Okay. Now, after your arrest in August 1995, you were in April '96 placed on probation; is that right, ma'am?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, am I correct that because it was claimed by your probation officer that you never reported, in November 1996 you were arrested in New Jersey and charged?

A. No.

Q. And charged with violating your probation?

A. Wrong. I was not arrested in New Jersey. I was arrested in Philadelphia for violation of probation. I sent --

Q. In April of this year?

A. No. The first time I violated I was arrested here in Philadelphia.

Q. Was that in November of 1996?

A. I don't know when it was, I don't know all them dates. It might have been.

Page 97.

Q. Were you transferred back to New Jersey?

A. Yes, I was extradited back.

Q. Okay. And that is not this arrest, that was an earlier arrest, right?

A. Right.

Q. And you were extradited back?

A. Right.

Q. And you stayed in prison in New Jersey for a period of time until you had a violation of probation hearing; is that right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. And is it your testimony today -- so I am clear -- that that arrest and extradition back to New Jersey was in retaliation for your testifying or providing an affidavit in this matter?

A. No.

Q. Oh, it's not?

A. No. I told you this retaliation is for the art picture, that's what I said.

Q. This retaliation is for what?

A. You all are retaliated because I am testifying in this case for that art picture. I never say nothing about no art -- whatever you said.

Q. I misunderstood, I thought you used the word arbitration and I apologize for misunderstanding.

Page 98.

How is it, Miss Jenkins, that you came to give the affidavit which is before you as a defense exhibit?

MR. WEINGLASS: Affirmation. Objection.

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, affirmation.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Defense Exhibit 2 which is before you.

A. Rachel came out to P.I.C.C. -- I mean in Jersey.

Q. Yes?

A. And she asked me do I know anything about it. And I --

Q. Yes?

A. And I told her yeah.

Q. All right.

A. And that's how she got the affidavit.

Q. Now, again you are referring to it as an affidavit as well as did I?

A. Whatever it said in there.

Q. But Counsel has made it clear to us that it is an affirmation, so we should use the right word, Miss Jenkins.

A. What?

Q. We have been told by Counsel it is an affirmation.

Page 99.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. I don't know what it is.

Q. I don't know what it is either, actually. Miss Jenkins, I understand Miss Wolkenstein came out to see you, yes?

A. Yes.

Q. In New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. And she met with you?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you, following that meeting, sign this document?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Having met with Ms. Wolkenstein how did you then sign this document?

A. She came back and then I signed it.

Q. She came back?

A. I don't know if it was the same day but I think it was afterwards and I signed it. After she went and typed it all up.

Q. Hmm-hmm?

A. That's when I signed it.

Q. Now, on both of those occasions when Ms. Wolkenstein came to see you --

A. Yes.

Q. -- where were you, please?

Page 100.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. I was in jail.

Q. All right. In New Jersey?

A. Right.

Q. And Ms. Wolkenstein came to the prison on an earlier occasion and interviewed you and then came back and you signed this document?

A. After I gave her the statement. Then she came back, I signed it. I think I signed it.

Q. Is that right?

A. Yeah, I guess.

Q. Well, when you say yeah you guess, this is back in January?

A. Yeah, you know, I was using this stuff then. I think that's how it happened. Yeah, I will say yes.

Q. You were using what stuff then, ma'am?

A. I mean you asking me all these questions back and forth. And I don't remember all that stuff.

Q. And why is that, ma'am?

A. I mean, I mean, I mean we ain't got to beat around the bush. You all know I was using. Come on, we ain't got to beat around the bush.

Q. Using what, ma'am?

A. You all know what it was: Crack. You all know I was using this for a period of time, before

Page 101.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

you get to it. I am just saying you ain't got to beat around the bush, you know what it was.

Q. Were you using crack on the day you were interviewed?

A. No, because I was in jail.

Q. Were you using crack on the day that you signed the affirmation?

A. No, I was in jail.

Q. Over what period of years have you been using crack?

A. I can't give you all that exact dates. Over -- my daughter 10 years old, so over that period.

Q. So you have been using crack over the last 10 years?

A. Off and on, off and on.

Q. Would it be fair to say that you were even using crack back in 1981 during the period of time when you say you were Officer Ryan's informant and were intimate?

A. No, not in 1981, I wasn't using crack then.

Q. Oh?

A. No. No.

Q. All right, well, when did you start using crack?

Page 102.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. When... about '87.

Q. And as a result of having used crack, then, for approximately ten years off and on, do you have difficulty with your memory?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Well, then let me go back to the question that led to you saying that. As I understand it, Ms. Wolkenstein came to the prison and interviewed you?

A. Right.

Q. And then am I correct that Ms. Wolkenstein returned?

A. Right.

Q. Some period of time later?

A. Right.

Q. You can't exactly tell us when?

A. Right.

Q. And presented you with this written document which you signed?

A. Right.

Q. And the date which it was signed --

A. Right. But I gave her the statement.

Q. You had been interviewed by her earlier?

A. Right.

Q. And this written document reflected what you had told her?

Page 103.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Right.

Q. I am not questioning you, I am simply asking you. She came back at a later date and presented you with this document, which you read?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that right?

A. Right.

Q. And which correctly reflected what you told her?

A. Yes.

Q. So you signed it?

A. Yes.

Q. And you dated it?

A. Yes.

Q. And the date is January the 9th of this year?

A. Right.

Q. Was anyone with Miss Wolkenstein on this second occasion when she presented this to you and you signed it?

A. I don't think nobody was present.

Q. How about the first time when she came and interviewed you: Was anyone with her?

A. No.

Q. Now, ma'am, when was the last time -- no, let me rephrase that. This past March the 7th when you saw Ms. White, as I understand it you were looking for her so you were going up to Yates' house on 13th Street, right?

Page 104.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Again, you must say yes or no, ma'am.

A. Yes.

Q. You gave the address 1326 13th Street?

A. Right.

Q. Was that in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Was that North or South 13th Street?

A. North Philly.

Q. Oh, okay. So it's 1326 North 13th Street?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And does Yates have another name?

A. No, I don't know his real name.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. I don't know his real name.

Q. And what was his relationship to Ms. White?

A. I mean he ran a head house.

Q. And prior to March 7th of this year, when had you last been to Yates' hit house?

A. What you mean, myself?

Q. Yes, ma'am.

A. I ain't been there. Only when I went, when I

Page 105.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

went over there when I was helping Don look for her.

Q. Why was it --

A. Because she smoked and I smoked so I went to the head houses to look for her.

Q. Okay. So you knew that Ms. White smoked?

A. Right.

Q. So you were going to head houses, would it be fair to say, throughout the City to see if you could find her?

A. Not throughout the City, just North Philly, that area.

Q. Why were you looking in that area?

A. Because I knew that's where she hung at.

Q. Okay. Prior to March 7th of this year, when had you last season Cynthia White?

A. The last time I had seen her was when I seen her get in the truck.

Q. Well, that was on March 7 of this year?

A. Right.

Q. Before that when had you seen her, before --

A. I seen her a couple times. I can't give you the exact dates.

Q. Well, then approximate it if you can.

A. Umm... I seen her like about the middle of February.

Page 106.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. Of this year?

A. Yeah. Umm. I found her a couple of times, put it like that.

Q. Right. Well, let's, I would like, please, to identify as best you can separately each of those instances when you found her or when you saw her, okay. So let's go backwards in time from, you saw her March 7th. The time before that you saw her is approximately February of this year?

A. Yeah.

Q. And where did you see her?

A. She was -- where was she. On Germantown and Allegheny. And I seen her again... where else I see her... umm, Germantown, Allegheny. You know, I can't be specific on all the streets, but, you know, the North Philly area, it's all in the same area.

Q. Okay.

A. Sunshine Inn, all, you know, it's all in the same area.

Q. Now, did you ever speak to her on any of these occasions?

A. I -- yeah.

Q. Did you ever speak about this matter?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Okay. You told us when you saw her on March

Page 107.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

7th she looked like she saw a ghost and ran out of the house?

A. Right.

Q. Now, were you in the house at that point?

A. Was I in there?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I had walked in there.

Q. You had just walked into the house?

A. Yes.

Q. So you had walked in from the outside?

A. Yes, the house.

Q. When you walked in from the outside then, did you notice any cars or trucks or vehicles outside?

A. I wasn't even paying attention to that, I just went in there.

Q. It wasn't until after she ran out that you saw her get into this pickup truck that you have described for us?

A. Right.

Q. And you told us that Officer Tom Ryan was in the passenger seat of that pickup truck?

A. That's right.

Q. And Detective Richard Ryan was the driver of the pickup truck?

A. No, I did not tell you that.

Page 108.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. I'm sorry.

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Who was the driver or the truck?

A. Tom Ryan was driving.

Q. I apologize for misrepresenting. Tom Ryan was driving. And Richard Ryan was the passenger?

A. Yeah, Tom Ryan was driving, Richard Ryan was passenger. Cynthia -- Richard Ryan got out of the truck, Cynthia ran, got in the middle, and Richard Ryan was the passenger. Both of them was passengers.

Q. Now, on the earlier occasions when you had seen Cynthia White on Germantown Avenue in North Philly near the Sunshine Inn, had she ever after looking in your direction acted like she saw a ghost and run away?

A. No.

Q. It was just this March?

A. No, I asked, you know, I had seen her before but she would always tell me she was coming back, you know what I mean, and she would never come back.

Q. So she would say to you oh, I'll be right back, or we'll talk, or something like that?

A. Yeah; and it just so happened I caught her

Q. Caught her what?

Page 109.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. I caught her in the house that day. And when she saw me it looked like she saw a ghost and she ran out and got in the truck. Like I said, you know, I can't put it no plainer than that.

Q. Okay. Now, ma'am, am I correct that you were released from prison in Camden on January 17th of this year?

A. I don't know the exact date. Probably.

Q. Okay. Would you accept that you had a second violation of probation hearing -- or -- I'm sorry -- you had a violation of probation hearing?

A. Yes.

Q. In front of a judge?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. That you were given a new one-year period of probation until next January -'98?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were then released?

A. Yes.

Q. And would it be fair to say that you were, despite the fact that you were placed on reporting probation, that you did not report again to your probation officer?

A. I reported about four times. Then I stopped reporting.

Page 110.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. Pardon?

A. I reported four times, then I stopped.

Q. Then you stopped? Am I correct that it was then in April of this year that you were arrested and charged in Philadelphia because there was a warrant for you in Camden for violating your probation?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, before that time, after you were released from the Camden jail and before you were arrested again, am I correct that you contacted the FBI about the theft of a picture?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. And that was because, ma'am -- well, let me put it this way: Am I correct that you have since that time confessed to having participated in the theft of the picture?

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, I object to any questions about the specifics of the offense, and any questions about other than the fact that she gave a statement. The use of the word confess, Your Honor, implies more than the statement might contain, and for that reason I would object.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Page 111.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

THE COURT: I overruled the objection.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You can answer the question, Miss Jenkins.

THE WITNESS: Can I ask you a question?

THE COURT: No, you can't ask me.

THE WITNESS: What does this have to do with this case? Can I ask you that?

MS. FISK: Certainly, Miss Jenkins, I would be happy to answer it.

If I may, Your Honor.

A. person can't claim retaliation if they have been arrested for a legitimate offense.

THE WITNESS: Okay, I confessed to it, but what about the time period?

BY MS. FISK:

Q. That is fine, Miss Jenkins, I understand that you have a complaint about that, but am I correct that you confessed to having stolen that picture?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And the theft of that picture took place in February, right?

Page 112.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Yeah.

Q. And you contacted the FBI in March, right?

A. Right.

Q. And when you contacted the FBI, you assisted an FBI agent and a Philadelphia police detective by showing them the store where you had fenced the picture, right?

A. Right.

Q. And then they gave you three bucks and you went home?

A. Gave me what? Didn't give me nothing. I had money in my pocket.

Q. But then you went home, right?

A. Right.

Q. Because you didn't want to be there when they went into the store to get the picture back?

A. No, he told me to stand outside the store. It ain't that I didn't want to be in the store, I had took them already to the store.

Q. But you were not there when they recovered the picture back?

A. No; but he called me and told me they recovered it back.

Q. Who called you?

A. The detective. I can't tell you which one but

Page 113.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

they told me they got the picture back.

Q. So you took them to the store where you fenced the picture, sold it?

A. Right.

Q. And you left so they could go in and get the picture?

A. Right.

Q. And sometime later they called you and told you they recovered the picture?

A. Right. No, the same night.

Q. The same night they called you?

A. Right.

Q. And this was the picture you had told the police and the FBI on that date that you contacted the FBI that you along with another man had stolen, right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, am I correct that when you gave the police the information that day you were able to tell them that the other man who you assisted or -- I'm sorry -- the other man who stole the picture with you is a guy named Tone?

A. Right.

Q. But that is all you were able to tell them about Tone?

Page 114.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

A. Right.

Q. You were able to give them some background of what he looked like and when he had last been arrested, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. But you didn't know a last name?

A. No.

Q. So when the detective contacted you that night and told you they got the picture back, did he tell you that he needed to be able to find out who Tone was?

A. I don't recall that, no. He just told me he found the picture. The conversation that I had with the detective, when he got the picture, it was to take him to get the picture.

Q. Yes, ma'am?

A. And he wanted Tone.

Q. Right.

A. And it was over with me.

Q. Right. Because you took him back and then you went home?

A. Yeah. No, it was over, period. I wasn't going to be arrested or nothing. Because if I was going to be arrested, I ain't that dumb.

Q. No?

Page 115.

A. No. I wouldn't of gave them nothing.

Q. All right, well, when you called the FBI that day to tell them that you knew about a picture --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- nobody had told you when you picked up the phone that you weren't going to be arrested, right?

A. He didn't have to tell me, he just told me he was going to come out to the house. But he came out to the house and told me that.

Q. Who did?

A. One of the, I think it was the, umm -- anyway, they are not the same two cops that came out to the house, but if you all say Corbin, I guess it was Corbin.

Q. I didn't say who came to the house.

A. Well, Corbin and the FBI agent came in the house.

Q. Right.

A. And FBI agent all of a sudden, though, retired now. So you tell me. You tell me, I don't know. You tell me. You tell me.

Q. Do you think he retired as part of a cover up in retaliation?

A. Yeah.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection to the form of the question.

Page 116.

MS. FISK: I am simply responding to the comment of the witness, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, now, the FBI agent and, the detective and FBI agent came to your house in response to your calling the FBI?

A. Right.

Q. You had already told the FBI agent on the phone that you had participated in the theft of a photo and you wanted to help him get it back?

A. Right.

Q. Right?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that right?

A. Right.

Q. And on the phone the FBI agent did not say before you say any of this, Miss Jenkins, I am promising you we are not arresting you, he didn't say that on the phone?

A. He didn't say nothing on the phone, he just, just stay at the house, he was coming to 526 Thompson. We didn't have no conversation like that on the phone.

Q. Well, you called him to help him get the picture back?

A. That was the conversation, to help him get the picture back. That was it. The conversation took place in the house, not on the phone.

Q. So what you are telling us is when the FBI agent and the detective came to your house that day, they told you you would not be arrested?

A. That's right.

Q. Okay. All right, got you. Now, after they recovered the picture, am I correct that the detective, when he arrested you -- which was in June of this year, and which you claim is retaliation --

A. He did not, he didn't arrest me when he went to get the picture.

Q. I didn't say that.

A. Oh.

MR. WEINGLASS: There was no arrest in June of this year. Counsel is confused and confusing the witness.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. When were you arrested for stealing the picture?

A. June the 5th.

MS. FISK: That's what I thought. Someone confused Counsel; it wasn't me.

Page 118.

THE COURT: Counselor --

THE WITNESS: I was charged with the picture on June the 5th.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You were arrested for stealing the picture on June the 5th?

A. (The witness nodded her head affirmatively.)

Q. I didn't think arrest and charged were different in this circumstance. You were already in custody, right?

A. I was already in custody for a fugitive from Jersey, that's all.

Q. You had been in violation for failure to report four times in Jersey?

A. Right.

Q. After you were in custody you were taken from the prison to the detective division to be arrested for the picture theft?

A. Yeah, two months later, yeah.

Q. You were arrested for the probation violation at some point in April, right?

A. I was picked up for, it was for retail theft at first. The lady threw it out. Then they ran my name and came up fugitive for Jersey. Never for that picture. They came to P.I.C.C. and arrested me.

Page 119.

Q. All right, when were you arrested for the fugitive, that should be on --

A. I was arrested from the fugitive, April the 14th is when they ran my name.

Q. Is that the date that is on your bracelet?

A. Ain't no date on my bracelet. No, it is not.

Q. I thought they were.

A. I told you I know when it was.

Q. I don't doubt you. Now, when you were arrested in June of this year for the theft of the picture, am I correct that the detective presented to you an array of photos so you could identify who Tone was, the other person involved in this theft?

A. Yeah.

Q. Now, do you know whether or not after the detective spoke to you when the picture was recovered, in June of this year the detective was trying to get in touch with you for you to identify that photo array?

A. He be getting -- I live at 526 Thompson, you know what I mean.

Q. With whom did you live?

A. My grandmother.

Q. What is her name?

A. Jean Bronson. I got the statement what it

Page 120.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

says she said.

Q. What did it say?

A. It say, she thought I was on crack again or something.

Q. Right.

A. Because I hadn't been home. And when I called her and asked her about it, she didn't tell nobody that.

Q. I see. In fact, though, what the statement which appears in the police discovery relating to your theft -- just so the record is clear what you told me -- reflects that the detective made efforts to find you in April and went to your house, and your grandmother told the detectives that you were no longer living there and she didn't know where you were; is that right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Right?

A. Right.

Q. And in fact that statement also says that she had given you money to deliver to an attorney for someone else and they left with that money?

A. I don't know anything about that.

Q. You don't know anything about that?

A. No.

Page 121.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. Okay. Now, again just so I am clear: That charge of theft, which occurred in June of this year, you had a preliminary hearing, yes?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you have been held for Court on that charge; correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you are awaiting trial now?

A. Right.

Q. Now, this morning, before you were brought out, and actually since you testified, you have made reference to your counsel.

A. Right.

Q. Your attorney. He is not court-appointed, ma'am, is he?

MR. SCHOBER Your Honor, I have an objection to any question concerning the relationship between myself and my client and Mr. Farrell. That has no relevance to this case. Certainly any communications or discussions --

THE COURT: Well, she hasn't gone into communications.

MR. SCHOBER: She did.

THE COURT: No, she hasn't. She just

Page 122.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

wanted to know if you are privately retained.

MR. SCHOBER: I think that is confidential. I don't think that is relevant to this proceeding as well. Whether I am retained, appointed, or whether I am volunteering my services.

THE COURT: Maybe you are.

MR. SCHOBER: Any of those issues all irrelevant to this procedure and are contrary to the attorney-client privilege.

MS. FISK: Not unless it goes to bias of the witness.

MR. SCHOBER: How could the relationship between the client and myself go to any bias she has to testify in this Court?

MS. FISK: Because if counsel's client is being given counsel free of charge on behalf of defense counsel in this case --

MR. SCHOBER: I make a representation as an Officer of this Court I have absolutely no relationship to Counsel in this case and my relationship with this client goes back further than any affirmation or --

MS. FISK: I would ask Counsel if he is Court-appointed or retained?

Page 123.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

MR. SCHOBER: I am refusing to answer that.

MS. FISK: Well, then I am asking the witness who is under oath.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled as to that.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The attorney who represents you currently, is he retained or court-appointed?

A. He is retained.

Q. When did you, I am not asking what you said --

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, again she is now going further.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, the date on which you retained this counsel --

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, I would indicate as an Officer of the Court that Mr. Farrell's relationship with this client goes back to before January of this year when he represented her in New Jersey.

MS. FISK: I would indicate as an Officer of the Court that the Public Defenders Association represented this witness at her preliminary hearing on June the 6th of this year. According to the Court extract which has been produced.

Page 124.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: So I have a right, Your Honor, to know when this counsel entered his appearance on this matter in this Courtroom in this Court, that's all.

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: He was obtained when the Public Defenders refused to represent me anymore because of they was conflict of interest for the 39th District, that's when he was retained.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I see. That took place after your preliminary hearing, ma'am?

A. Yes, it did.

MR. SCHOBER: Again, Your Honor, I object. Perhaps these questions are better directed to the Public Defenders who refused to represent this woman, as opposed to this client herself.

THE COURT: Well. All right, Counsel. Go ahead. Please.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Page 125.

Pamela Jenkins - Cross

Q. Is that what the Public Defenders --

MS. FISK: I'm sorry, I don't want to inquire into conversations with counsel. I won't ask that. I withdraw that question.

I have no further questions, Your Honor. Well, if I may have a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: Just a few questions, Ms. Jenkins.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You were asked a few questions just now about any bias that you might have in this proceeding for the defense. Let me ask you this question. Do you face time in prison now in Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you believe you're going to go to prison?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you think your testifying for Mr. Jamal is going to make your life in prison easier?

Page 126.

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you think it is going to make it more difficult?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And you're still willing to testify?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Can you imagine any benefit to yourself from testifying for Mr. Jamal?

A. No, because I mean they done all they can do and I am not going to sit back and let this man go, you know, an innocent man go to jail for something he didn't do and right some of the wrong that I already done. So that's where I'm at with this.

Q. Can you imagine some harm coming to you and your family because of your testifying here?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Umm.

MS. FISK: Objection.

Ms. Jenkins, I made an objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to bias.

MS. FISK: Whether she can imagine?
THE COURT: She said that already on direct. She had already answered that question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, do you know for a fact when you first started having an intimate relationship with Tom Ryan whether he was a truant officer or a police officer of the City of Philadelphia?

A. He was a truant police officer. He was a truant, he was picking up people that was truancy and he was a police officer, the same thing.

Q. That's your belief?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ever ask him if he was an official police officer of the City?

A. No.

Q. Okay. With respect to the times that you started with Tom Ryan and the time that you began working with him as an informant, can you be precise as to what weeks or months that you started with him and when you started working with him?

A. No, I can't. And I am pre -- not precise.

Q. Right, it was 16 years ago?

MS. FISK: Well, if she can't be precise, I suggest to Counsel suggesting a time frame --

THE WITNESS: I mean I have been this informant for years, I can't say when.

THE COURT: Okay. There is no

question yet.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You indicated in response to a question that was asked of you by Counsel that after your conversation with Cynthia White when she indicated to you that she was afraid for her life, you never related that conversation to Tom Ryan?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Why didn't you?

A. Because at the time, umm, when he paid me I was using the money and I was getting high, so it didn't matter, and I wasn't looking for it.

Q. Now just going into the time period when you were looking for Cynthia this year in 1997, you were questioned about that; is that correct?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And you were trying to find her for the defense in this case?

A. For Don, yes.

Q. For Don, the investigator for the defense?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you make a number of efforts in trying to locate her?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Not just this one night at the Yates house?

Page 129.

A. No.

Q. And you were, were you attempting to get her, Don to meet with her?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And in fact were there some arrangements that you made with Cynthia where you would meet her where you intended to bring Don to those meetings?

A. Only one time, I had him with me for like -- I had him with me and I called and she was sitting there but Don never showed.

Q. She never showed?

MS. FISK: Don never showed.

THE WITNESS: Don never showed. And other times I was trying to get them to meet but she wouldn't do it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. She wouldn't do it?

A. She wouldn't do it.

Q. Did you tell Cynthia that you were trying to get her to meet with an investigator for the defense in this case?

A. No, I just told her I was trying to get her to meet with Don.

Q. I see.

A. Private investigator. That's all I told her.

Page 130.

Q. Okay. You mentioned Tom Ryan had told you about officers who were on the street on the night of the shooting. Was the name Richard Ryan also mentioned as being on the street?

A. Richard -- no, it was Richard Ryan, O'Neil1, Boston. That's all I remember right now.

Q. The date that you called the FBI about the art theft, was that March 5th?

A. I think so. You know, I don't remember the exact date it was. You know, I can't say when I picked up the phone to call them because I don't remember the exact date. I know it was the beginning of March. They got March the 5th so I guess it was March the 5th, I don't know.

Q. Okay. And do you know that your name was first publicly associated with this case on March 10th when your affirmation was filed with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Does that ignore the press conference that Counsel had prior to the filing of the affirmation announcing Miss Jenkins was the new witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: It was on the same day.

Page 131.

MS. FISK: Ahh.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further. Thank you, Ms. Jenkins.

MS. FISK: Oh, I have nothing more, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor --

MR. SCHOBER: Your Honor, if you are done with this witness, may I be excused?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

All right, will you get back to the Supreme Court as quickly as possible.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, I would ask and again would join in Counsels' motion that they be permitted to call additional witnesses.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you take it up with the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, I would note --

THE COURT: Please, Counsel, I am not a member of the Supreme Court.

Page 132.

MS. FISK: I understand, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't know what they want. And I don't want to go beyond what they want. So if you go up there and tell me what you could agree to and they say okay, and they sign whatever agreement you signed, we will be back tomorrow or the next day or whenever.

MS. FISK: If I may, Your Honor, before that is done, insofar as it is clear that the Supreme Court has asked for notes of testimony of this witness so that a determination as to her credibility and therefore the value of her testimony to the overall proceeding could be made, the Commonwealth always in any proceeding has a right to rebut that testimony. The Commonwealth cannot be put in a position, Your Honor, of guessing what the testimony will be and then having the Supreme Court --

THE COURT: That's what he says. I am not going to make the decision for them. Go back up there and just ask them. Tell them what you agree to, he will tell them what he agrees to, they will sign an order.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the Commonwealth is in possession of information, witnesses and documents which clearly show without question that testimony that this witness has provided today and which we have heard for the first time is false. And we absolutely in any proceeding have an absolute right to present that. And I would ask that Your Honor permit that to be presented. And in particular, it is in response to testimony offered by this witness.

THE COURT: How long, how long will your witnesses be?

MS. FISK: Well, the first witness actually, Your Honor, is by way of documentation. It will take about 30 seconds. The second witness, Your Honor, is a combination of records and witnesses, and will take not long. One witness is on call and has to come down. Another witness is present in the hallway. But these are witnesses who will absolutely and without question show the false --

THE COURT: Can you come back here at two o'clock?

Page 134.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, we object to being precluded and the prosecution is being allowed to go ahead.

MS. FISK: I have no objection to Counsel continuing in that situation.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are being precluded.

THE COURT: That's why I am telling you go back to the Supreme Court.

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor, we have an absolute right to show the falsity of what this witness has testified to.

THE COURT: Okay. Then just do that.

MS. FISK: Okay.

THE COURT: All right, two o'clock.

MS. FISK: Two o'clock, Your Honor.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands in luncheon recess until 2:00 p.m. this afternoon.

(After a luncheon recess, the hearing was reconvened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys at 2:10 p.m.)

Page 135.

THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have a series of very brief, I anticipate very brief witnesses.

The first witness is Detective Raleigh Witcher.

- - - - -

Philadelphia Police Detective Raleigh Witcher, Badge number 17, Homicide Division, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MR. WEINGLASS: May we have the name again?

MS. FISK: Raleigh -- R-A-L-E-I-G-H -- Witcher -- W-I-T-C-H-E-R.

May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Detective Witcher, how long have you been a Philadelphia Police Officer?

Page 136.

A. Since 1965, that's 32 years.

Q. How long have you held the rank of detective?

A. Since 1970.

Q. And to what unit are you currently assigned?

A. Philadelphia Police Homicide Division.

Q. How long have you been assigned to the Philadelphia Police Homicide Division in the capacity as a Philadelphia detective?

A. 17 years.

Q. Were you a Philadelphia Homicide detective back in June 1982 at the time this Defendant Mr. Jamal was tried for the murder of Officer Daniel Faulkner?

A. Yes, ma'am, I was.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that this photograph be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 1 for the purposes of this hearing (handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: May we see it?

MS. FISK: Absolutely.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

(Photograph was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-l for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked

Page 137.

(handing).

MS. FISK: May I sit, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Oh, sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Witcher, can you identify what has been marked as Commonwealth Exhibit l?

A. Yes. This is a police photograph of a black female using the name Cynthia White, Philadelphia Police photo number 573095. It was taken on 12-17-1981. At the time she was 23 years of age and gave an address of 2120 South 6th Street.

Q. Now, do you recognize the woman who is portrayed in that photograph?

A. Yes, ma'am, I do.

Q. And as whom, or how do you recognize her?

A. She is the Cynthia White that testified in this case.

Q. And that being in the trial against Mr. Jamal?

A. Yes.

Q. And when she testified she testified under the name of Cynthia White?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Now, you have told us that this Commonwealth Exhibit also gives to Ms. White, you referred to a Philadelphia photo number?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Could you tell us what that is?

A. The number is 573095.

Q. And, I'm sorry, what does it mean to have a Philadelphia photo number assigned to an individual whose picture appears as you are looking at it?

A. Anyone arrested inside the County of Philadelphia is given a number that stays with them for the length of their life.

Q. Now, do any two people -- well, strike that.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that this document next be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 2, and shown to Counsel (handing).

(Pause)

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

(Master Name Index was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-2 for identification.)

MS. FISK: And we could mark this as Commonwealth Exhibit 3. I believe Miss Wolkenstein was looking for something in particular, I believe it is on this document (handing).

(Court history was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-3 for identification.)

(Pause)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-2 and C-3 (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Witcher, let's start with Commonwealth Exhibit 3. Tell us what Commonwealth Exhibit 3 is first?

A. Commonwealth Exhibit 3 is the Court history of one Cynthia White.

Q. Is that the same Cynthia White who was the Cynthia White who testified in this case, Commonwealth versus Mr. Jamal, I believe the official title was Commonwealth versus Wesley Cook, but testified against this Defendant regarding the murder of Mr. Faulkner?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how are you able to make that determination that this is the record for the same person?

A. Because the Philadelphia photo number is the same. And that number is on the Court history records 573095, which is the same as that on the photograph of Cynthia White.

Q. Now turn to Commonwealth Exhibit number 3.

Tell us what that is, please?

A. This is a --

Q. I'm sorry, Commonwealth Exhibit number 2. Thank you.

A. This is a computer printout of the Philadelphia Police Department automatic master name index, which is controlled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Q. Now, on the first portion of that printout, does it reflect that it is a printout for the person who has the photo number assigned to Ms. White, that being 573095?

A. Yes, it does. In the name of Cynthia White.

Q. And does it, in that portion where the Philadelphia photo number is noted, also assign to Ms. White an FBI number?

A. Yes, ma'am. And that number is 0934288R, Robert, 7.

Q. What is an FBI number?

A. That is an identification number that is given a person at the time of arrest wherever in the country, and that number stays with that person forever. He or she never gets a different number, it is the same number.

Q. So similar to a Philadelphia photo number but for FBI record keeping purposes?

A. That's correct, ma'am.

Q. Now, in your experience as a detective for the 30 something years that you have been a police officer, does the FBI maintain records of persons, criminal contacts from all the various states around the country?

A. They do.

Q. Continue, then, on Commonwealth Exhibit 2, can you tell us what the next portion of Commonwealth Exhibit that printout reflects?

A. Well, in the first portion, it also reflects a Social Security number, which is 127-50-6809. The next portion is the identification index response, which is interstate from the FBI. And that reflects an FBI number of 934288R, Robert, 7.

Q. Is that in fact the FBI number that you have previously told us matches or belongs to Cynthia White, the same person who has the photo number 573095?

A. It is, ma'am. And this sheet she uses the name Mildred Saunders here.

Q. I'm sorry, go ahead?

A. This printout also contains approximately 19 to 20 aliases for this same person bearing the numbers that we spoke of before.

Q. Within those aliases is Cynthia White included?

A. Cynthia White is included, and also the name Mildred Saunders.

Q. Is the name Cynthia Williams included?

A. Cynthia Williams is also included.

Q. And the Social Security number which you have provided to us -- 127-50-6809 -- is that included as a Social Security number used by or identified with this same individual?

A. Yes, ma'am, that number and other numbers used by her.

Q. Now, does this FBI information also include identifying numbers assigned to this person by states, or by entities other than the FBI and Philadelphia?

A. Yes, by states, other states as she was arrested in. And it would show, that would be the State of New York, and also the State of New Jersey.

Q. And besides the identifying number assigned to this person in the State of New Jersey, is there any information noted on this printout?

A. Yes.

Q. And what --

Page 143.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Direct

A. The information is deceased: D-E-C-E-A-S-E-D.

Q. But it doesn't say when?

A. No, it does not say when.

MS. FISK: May I ask that this document be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 4, please (handing).

MR. WEINGLASS: Object to the document. The document is hearsay. The declarant of the document is a representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who is not here to authenticate the document. And particularly the notation in the document of deceased is not authenticated.

MS. FISK: The death certificate of the witness which is being marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 4, which reflects that she died, Your Honor, in 1992, bears the seal from the State of New Jersey and is self-authenticating.

MR. WEINGLASS: Whatever the following document is -- and we will deal with that document when it comes up -- it doesn't make this document any more available as evidence than it is in its current state.

THE COURT: I know. You could argue

Page 144.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Direct that before the Supreme Court. I am letting it in.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

MR. WEINGLASS: May I just cross-examine on that document as of voir dire?

THE COURT: You will get your turn.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I voir dire on the document?

THE COURT: Wait until she finishes with this document. You will get your turn and you could cross-examine on anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but ordinarily you are allowed to cross-examine on a document.

THE COURT: Counselor, I have made a ruling already. You will get a chance after she finishes.

Come on.

(Pause)

(Report of Death was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-4 or identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-4 (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. All right, Detective Witcher, can you tell us, though it is self-authenticating, can you tell us

Page 145.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Direct

nevertheless what Commonwealth Exhibit 4 is?

A. It is a Certificate of Death issued in the State of New Jersey, State Department of Health. And attached is a Report of Death, Camden County Office of the Medical Examiner.

Q. Starting with the Certificate of Death, does that bear a seal, a raised seal from the State of New Jersey?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Can you tell us for whom this is a Certificate of Death?

A. It is for Cynthia Williams, a\k\a Mildred Saunders.

Q. Is there a Social Security number for that individual reflected on that Certificate of Death?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. And what is that, please?

A. The number is 127-50-6809.

Q. And is that the same Social Security number that the Philadelphia records showed was assigned to Cynthia White?

A. And the Federal records.

Q. Both?

A. Both.

Q. Can you please tell us the date that that

Page 146.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Direct

death certificate reflects Cynthia White, also known as Cynthia Williams, also known as Mildred Saunders, was certified dead in the State of New Jersey?

A. On 9-2-92.

Q. '92?

A. '92.

Q. Can you tell us, please, what the cause of her death was as declared by the coroner on behalf of the State of New Jersey?

A. It was undetermined.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

I have no further questions of this witness, Your Honor.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Detective Wichert.

MS. FISK: Witcher.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Witcher, I'm sorry.

A. All right.

Q. Detective Witcher, when did you first see Commonwealth 4?

A. I think the first time I actually saw it was

Page 147.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

maybe this past, within the past two weeks.

Q. Within the past two weeks?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Certainly since May 30th, 1997, when the Supreme Court ordered this hearing?

A. I'm not sure that I saw it prior to that time. I knew there was one, I did not see it.

Q. You knew there was one without seeing it?

A. I understood that there was one.

Q. When were you first told that there was one?

A. I don't remember.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Frankly, it is irrelevant.

THE COURT: If he remembers, I don't care.

THE WITNESS: I don't remember.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Who told you?

A. Oh, I don't know. It was someone that's involved in this investigation.

Q. What investigation is that?

A. The investigation of your client.

Q. Someone called you to tell you?

A. No; I'm an active part of the investigation.

Q. You are still part of the investigation?

Page 148.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. When did you, have you looked for Cynthia White in the past two years?

A. Physically, no.

Q. How have you looked for her?

A. Checking records.

Q. And did you ever find a death record for her?

A. I did not.

Q. What records did you check?

A. Several records. The local records, State records.

Q. Did you check New Jersey?

A. I did not.

Q. Did anyone to your knowledge check New Jersey?

A. Yes. That's how we obtained this document.

Q. But the document was obtained when, to your knowledge?

A. I can't tell you that, sir.

Q. Within the last two, three weeks?

A. I think so.

Q. So it was only within the last two or three weeks that you checked in New Jersey?

A. No, I did not say that.

Q. Did someone check in New Jersey?

A. Someone came up with this (displaying),

Page 149.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

someone involved in our investigation. I don't know exactly who that person is.

Q. Right. Did you order it?

A. No, I did not order it.

Q. Right. So let me just get this clarified in my own mind. Is it your testimony that as of May 30th, 1997, you had no knowledge or information respecting the whereabouts of Cynthia White as of that time?

A. I did not.

Q. As of that time, prior to May 30th, 1997, had you inquired as to the whereabouts of Cynthia White in the previous two years?

A. Probably so.

Q. And what do you mean by that?

A. During the course of this investigation, we did actively try to locate Cynthia White.

Q. When was that, if you can give us years? '95? '96?

A. Well, I don't know the years but since these hearings have been coming up.

Q. Would that be since '95?

A. Probably, yes.

Q. And when you say we have actively, could you describe to the Court what you have done?

Page 150.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. I am a part of the investigation. I am an active part of the investigation. There are a lot of things that I have done. I have not always been designated to do any one particular thing in the investigation. This is a team effort here.

Q. Right. I want to limit it to Cynthia White. What have you done since 1995 with respect to Cynthia White?

A. I have checked local records --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object. That is not relevant to the document which is self-authenticating and which shows the date of her death in 1992.

MR. WEINGLASS: If it is the same person.

MS. FISK: But that has nothing to do with this detective's efforts to locate --

THE COURT: He said he never went to New Jersey, somebody else in the squad evidently had New Jersey.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Let me just ask it this way relative to this objection and the Court's comment. Did you receive in 1995 and in 1996 and in 1997, up to May 30th, 1997, information that Cynthia White was alive and in

Page 151.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

the environs of the City of Philadelphia?

A. The only information that we received that she was alive was a document sent to the District Attorney's office by your team, sir.

Q. Other than that you had no other information?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, my second question, then, is could you tell the Court what efforts you made yourself, in 1995, 1996, '97, to locate Cynthia White?

A. As I stated before, I checked records, I made telephone calls. I checked records both local and out of the locale. We did not locate her.

Q. Could not locate her?

A. Could not locate her. Until this document was produced (displaying).

Q. And that document wasn't found until after May 30th, 1997?

MS. FISK: That's not what he said, Your Honor. He said that's when he saw it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. To your knowledge, when was that document found?

A. I don't know.

Q. You have no knowledge?

A. That was my testimony, I can not tell you when

Page 152.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

this document was found. I said I found out or saw this document for the first time approximately two weeks ago.

Q. And could you indicate to the Court just an approximation of how many hours you spent in '95, '96 and '97, up to April 3rd, May 30th, looking for Cynthia White?

A. I can't honestly estimate that.

Q. Would be it more than 100 hours?

A. I can't honestly estimate that.

Q. But you were actively looking for her?

A. From time to time. And I also testified that that was not physically. In other words, I wasn't out in the street looking for her.

Q. Were others, to your knowledge?

A. I imagine so.

Q. So it's your testimony that officers of the Philadelphia Police Department were actively looking for someone who you are telling the Court today has been dead since 1992, and dead in the State of New Jersey, just across the river in Camden, and your office had no knowledge of this?

A. I did not testify to that, sir.

Q. If your office had knowledge that Cynthia White died in 1992, would you have been assigned the task of locating her in '95, '96 and '97?

Page 153.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to the credibility of this report. We don't know if she died or not.

THE COURT: Well, he is just telling you what the records say. If you think the records are wrong, you go out and investigate them.

MR. WEINGLASS: We have investigators.

THE COURT: You nave investigators, good. Go out, do what you have to do.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I can assure the Court you will hear from that. But I want to get the information this witness has about his efforts to find someone.

THE COURT: He told you he didn't go out in the street, he made telephone calls, that kind of investigation.

MR. WEINGLASS: But he was part of the team and others went out into the street.

THE COURT: Yes, he is part of the team, but he doesn't know what each individual is doing.

MR. WEINGLASS: And they are looking for someone who according to their information was dead since '92, and the information was lodged in Camden, New Jersey.

THE COURT: That's what they are telling you that they found out ultimately.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. After you got this information which is in Commonwealth 4, did you do anything to try to obtain the fingerprints of the deceased person who is identified in that document?

A. That information, sir, I did not, but that information is contained in Commonwealth Exhibit 2.

Q. And could you refer me to the fingerprint identification information?

A. Yes, if you will look on --

MS. FISK: Counsel Doesn't have a copy. There is only one copy.

THE WITNESS: There is a fingerprint class number on about the third page and that's from the FBI.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And what does that fingerprint class number say?

A. There are ten numbers.

Page 155.

Q. Yes?

A. And you would have to get a person that reads fingerprints to tell you exactly, or to read it. But it reads thusly: PM, 11, 12, CO, 16, DO, 08, 13, PI, 18.

Q. In your experience what do those numbers reflect?

A. It identifies your fingerprints. There are ten numbers there, one number for each finger.

Q. And did you check with the FBI after you got this document, Commonwealth 2, to see if in fact the deceased who is on Commonwealth 4 bore the fingerprints of Cynthia White?

A. No, sir, but the Philadelphia identification system has the same records and the same numbers.

Q. Did you check the Philadelphia numbers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you bring them with you?

A. We have them here in this document on this Court -- on C-3, the Court history. Well, we don't have those numbers. Well, we have the fingerprints, the photo identification number.

Q. Right?

A. Which is --

Q. Yes?

Page 156.

A. -- the identifying number for Cynthia White. And if you check deeper in her records, you will find her fingerprint class.

Q. All right, and I am asking you, Detective, did you check deeply into those records before testifying today?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Where are those records?

A. They are in the fingerprint identification system or section of the Philadelphia Police Department.

Q. Where is that?

A. Located at 8th and Race.

Q. About how many blocks from here?

A. I don't know. We're at Juniper and Filbert.

Q. It is a short walk?

A. Well, it's pretty hot out there today, sir.

Q. You didn't want to walk it today, did you?

A. I do what I am told and I do what I am paid for.

MS. FISK: Objection. He didn't have a burden to do that. A self-authenticating document is sufficient, whether Counsel likes it or not.

THE COURT: If he wants to investigate

Page 157.

it further, go ahead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I want to get this clear. You don't know of your own knowledge if Cynthia White is alive today or dead?

A. I have every reason in the world to believe that the FBI would not deem her dead if she was not dead.

Q. My question to you, Detective: Of your own knowledge, do you know if she is alive or dead?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, these are offered as business records.

THE COURT: Yes; objection is sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Would you have looked for Cynthia White for the last two-and-a-half years as part of a team with others who were also looking for her if in fact you had knowledge that she had died in '92?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He said he looked, whatever he did. Now, would he have? It would have been futile.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly.

Page 158.

THE COURT: Well, he knows that, you know that. So what are you asking him for?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Incidentally, as a detective in Homicide with 33 years experience overall, 17 years in Homicide in the City of Philadelphia, you do work frequently, do you not, with comparable law enforcement services in Camden County, New Jersey?

A. Not necessarily, sir.

Q. Do you work frequently with them?

A. No.

Q. They are right over the river; is that right?

A. It doesn't matter. Darby is to the right and I don't work with Darby, Pennsylvania authorities regularly either.

Q. Right. You have worked with Camden authorities in the last three years?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Did you ever ask them about Cynthia White?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It is irrelevant. The efforts made produced evidence that the woman is dead and that she wasn't the one who saw a ghost last March.

THE COURT: Save them for some other time if the Supreme Court wants to hear further.

Page 159.

I don't.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the evidence of her death, not surprisingly, allegedly surfaces only after the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania orders this hearing, even though this witness and others have been looking for her.

THE COURT: Are you saying that that is a phony? Are you saying that that death certificate is phony?

MR. WEINGLASS: I am saying that we will have testimony to rebut it.

THE COURT: All right. Are you saying that it's phony?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will have testimony to rebut it.

THE COURT: Are you saying that it is phony? I asked you a simple question.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am saying we will rebut it.

THE COURT: You are not answering my question. All right, go ahead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you look at a photograph of the alleged deceased who is in Commonwealth 4?

Page 160.

A. I am looking at it now.

Q. The photograph of her as a deceased person?

A. No, I did not see her body.

Q. You didn't see her?

A. Not photographed or otherwise.

Q. And you didn't see a photograph?

A. No.

THE COURT: The body is already gone, how is he going to see it? It will come out of the grave and look at you? You know the body is dead, it is down in the ground. Sure, he didn't see the body.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I am not asking him to do subterranean investigation.

THE COURT: Well, for a minute I thought you were.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do think, though, that given the fact that there is a police report or a report appended to Commonwealth 4 --

THE COURT: Take it up with the Supreme Court when you get up there, okay. If they want you to do something further they will send it back.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

Page 161.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have the Exhibits that are before the witness? We don't have copies.

THE COURT: Well, how in the world is he going to answer your questions?

MR. WEINGLASS: I will give the witness the courtesy before I ask the witness a question about the documents. May I?

THE COURT: All right. Which ones?

MR. WEINGLASS: May I see all of the documents? As I question I will return the documents to the witness.

(Pause)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you in the course of your investigation, '95, '96 and '97, have any information that the Cynthia White you were looking for had any next of kin?

A. I think I recall seeing the name of a parent or someone at some time. I, I can't say yes or no.

Q. My question to you is, did you attempt to locate Cynthia White's, who you were looking for, next of kin?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you ever look for a woman named Ruth Ray,

Page 162.

R-A-Y?

A. No, sir.

Q. She is the mother of Cynthia White?

A. I never looked for her.

MR. WEINGLASS: Now I want to return to you Commonwealth 1 together with another document which has six photographs in it, which I would like to have marked Defendant's 4 for identification.

(Photographs were marked Defendant's Exhibit D-4 for identification.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, before I get into these documents which are being handed to you, let me ask you this question. Back in 1982 --

THE COURT: Wait a while. Wait a while. She is looking at some documents.

Okay.

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked D-4, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Back in June and July of 1984, when you were

A. working on this case --

MS. FISK: '84?

Page 163.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. -- I'm sorry -- '82, you were aware of the fact that Cynthia White was brought down to testify here in Philadelphia from the City of Boston where she was then incarcerated?

A. I don't recall that. I know she testified, she was present in Philadelphia and she did testify in this case. I don't know if she was brought down from Boston or not, I don't recall that.

Q. You don't remember that?

A. I said I don't recall it.

Q. Now I will ask you to look at Defense Exhibit 4 for identification. Look at the top two photographs on that document. Do you recognize that person? The top two, left and right.

A. Are you referring to these two here, this same photograph, one profile and one straight face (displaying) (indicating)?

Q. That's correct.

A. Yes.

Q. Who is that person?

A. Cynthia White.

Q. Now, could you do as you did before: Read into the record what is marked on those photographs?

A. Police Department, Boston, Massachusetts.

Page 164.

There is a number 213533. And it's dated 5-4-79.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection that Cynthia White was in custody in Boston, Massachusetts in '81 and '2?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, the numbers that are marked there, are those State, or Commonwealth of Massachusetts numbers?

A. I have no idea what those numbers are.

Q. Have you ever seen those photographs before?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Not in your investigation?

A. Sir, I have not seen these photographs before.

Q. By the way, I have limited my questions to you up to this point of any activity you did with respect to Cynthia White in '95, '96 and '97. Would it be fair to say that your activity with respect to Cynthia White goes back 15 years?

A. What activity are you referring to?

Q. Attempts to locate her.

A. No, sir. You would be wrong.

Q. When did you start to locate her?

A. Probably around the dates that you just mentioned, '95 on.

Q. Not before?

Page 165.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. Okay. Looking at the second series of photographs that are in the middle left and right on Defense Exhibit 4, do you recognize those photographs?

A. That is a photograph of Cynthia White.

Q. And is there a date on those photographs?

A. 7-22-81.

Q. And where are those photographs taken?

A. Police Department, Boston, Massachusetts.

Q. So that would indicate to you that in July of '81 she was in Boston?

A. No, sir. It would indicate to me that there is a date on this photo of 7-22-81 and it's marked Police Department, Boston, Massachusetts.

Q. Would that indicate that she was in Boston on that date?

A. No, sir, not to me.

Q. Why is that?

A. Because it indicates only what I read here.

Q. I see.

A. Nothing further.

Q. I see. Okay. You wouldn't want to on the basis of just data that is on a document even venture an opinion beyond what the data is?

Page 166.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. No, that is not true. I don't know where these pictures were obtained from and I don't know whether they are authentic or not. I know I got the documents that I obtained from authentic sources.

Q. I see. Now look at the last two photographs on that document. And who is that?

A. Cynthia White.

Q. And what is the date of that?

A. 4-27-83.

Q. Where is that taken?

A. Boston.

Q. So with respect to these six photographs that appear on Defense Exhibit 4, it is your testimony that all six are Cynthia White?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, who is -- I'm sorry -- do you have Commonwealth 4 before you?

A. I don't have any.

MR. WEINGLASS: If we could return that document.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. WILLIAMS: (Handing).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Commonwealth 4: Who is the medical examiner who certified that this individual has the name

Page 167.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

Cynthia Williams, also known as Saunders?

A. He is Dr. R. L. Catherman, 43rd and Madison Avenue, Pennsauken, New Jersey.

Q. Is he the same, to your knowledge, Dr. Catherman who was a medical examiner in Philadelphia for 20 years?

A. I believe he is.

Q. And he was the medical examiner here until the late 1980s?

A. I don't recall when he left.

Q. Had you worked with him in any way?

A. Yes, I have.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Discussion held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In your checks in looking for Cynthia White, '95, '96 and '97, you did, did you not, come across the fact that she was a wanted felon here in the City of Philadelphia during that time for having skipped bail on a felony charge in 1987?

A. No, I don't recall that. It very well might be, I don't recall it.

Q. Is that noted in the computer printout which

Page 168.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

is Commonwealth 2, or in the Court history which is Commonwealth 3? And I don't think you have Commonwealth 3 before you. Which we will give you.

A. I don't have 2, either.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, if we could have 2 and 3.

MR. WILLIAMS: (Handing).

MS. FISK: Does he have Commonwealth Exhibit 3? Thank you.

MR. WILLIAMS: (Handing).

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could we get copies of these documents?

THE COURT: You could get copies later on.

(Pause)

THE WITNESS: I don't see any indications that she is a fugitive, sir.

MS. FISK: May I call the detective's attention to Commonwealth Exhibit 3.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, thank you. That is Commonwealth 3.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is that an FBI document or is that a Commonwealth of Pennsylvania document?

A. Which documents?

Page 169.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

Q. 3.

A. 3 is a Court of Common Pleas Court history.

Q. And that is one where you don't see any reference to a 1987 warrant?

A. No, I was reading from the Federal document.

Q. I'm sorry, so you were reading from --

A. Yes.

Q. -- Commonwealth 2?

A. That's correct.

Q. And the Federal document doesn't indicate any outstanding warrants from '87?

A. I did not notice it on my perusal of it.

MS. FISK: Look at the first page, Detective.

THE WITNESS: Yes, this document does. The first page of 3 indicates that she is, that the defendant is at large on a robbery charge.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Since 1987?

A. Scheduled trial date was 3-30-88.

Q. Right. But she made bail in '87 thanks to the intercession of the District Attorney's Office?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No comment, will you please. Strike that question from the record.

Page 170.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

Start over again. Be a gentleman for a change.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I would agree that Commonwealth Exhibit 3 had a bench warrant issued for her from March 1988 when she failed to appear at trial.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, that bench warrant does not appear in Commonwealth 3 to your reading of it today? I'm sorry, in Commonwealth 2.

A. It does not.

Q. And that is the FBI document?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that is the document that you rely on for the fact that she is deceased in part?

A. That is correct.

Q. Is there any reason why the FBI document is missing the fact that there is a warrant outstanding for her?

A. Because there is another system that you can go into and get whether she's wanted or not.

Q. Did you try that system in the FBI?

A. That would come up the same as this (displaying).

Page 171.

Q. Did you try it?

A. No, I did not personally.

Q. So you don't know?

A. I am telling you.

Q. But you don't know?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You don't know, Detective, because you didn't try?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Dead is dead. They can't arrest her on a warrant if she's dead.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, but if they are going to say someone is deceased on a long printout, if that person is the one we are looking for there would be notations that there was a warrant outstanding for her. That notation does not exist on the FBI document.

THE COURT: Counselor, the FBI is not going to put anything on their docket unless they get it from somebody. If they didn't tell the FBI we are looking for this person, therefore it's not on their docket.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fair enough. I will ask the witness that question.

Page 172.

THE COURT: What do you have to ask the witness for? Ask me, I will tell you that is why it is not on the docket.

MR. WEINGLASS: I want to ask this witness in the ordinary course if there is a warrant outstanding for somebody for robbery --

THE COURT: Do you know how many warrants outstanding we have in Philadelphia?

MR. WEINGLASS: For robbery?

THE COURT: For robbery, anything else. Do you know how many?

MR. WEINGLASS: Are they given to the FBI?

THE COURT: No, they are not automatically given to the FBI.

MR. WEINGLASS.: May I ask the witness that question?

THE COURT: I don't know, if he could answer it. Ask him whatever he could answer, I don't know.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. If there is an outstanding warrant for someone who is in flight on a robbery charge in 1988, is that information given to the FBI?

A. Not necessarily. In some cases it is, some cases it's not. For whatever reason.

Q. What determines it?

A. Mainly it would be the investigator, the charge. And if that person is wanted on a robbery I would suspect that it would go into NCIC, which is a national system.

Q. Is that picked up by the FBI?

A. Yes, it is; it is controlled by the FBI.

Q. So you would have expected that this information would be with the FBI if it is the Cynthia White we are looking for?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, he has already testified that it would be in a different portion, a different record that would give him this record through the FBI, that this particular document, Commonwealth Exhibit 2, is not a document which gives you open charges. Those are different documents. Perhaps Counsel does not realize we have not marked or entered into evidence a Federal printout of open charges. That's simply different. We are talking apples and oranges.

THE COURT: Do you understand her now?

MR. WEINGLASS: What I do realize is that this witness never bothered to get the other documents.

THE COURT: You call the FBI and find out why it is not on their docket.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: They won't give it to us.

THE COURT: Ask them to give it to you, sure.

MR. WEINGLASS: Somehow we don't get the same cooperation from the FBI as the District Attorney's Office.

THE COURT: Try, try being nice to them: You might get it. If you are going to be like you are here in the Courtroom you won't get anything. I am telling you be nice. They will give it to you.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Sure.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I, just in light of the last series of questions, wanted to go into one more area. In your work in '95, '96 and '97, did you inquire of the FBI if they had any documentation or information pertaining to Cynthia White?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you check the NCIC records?

A. I did not.

Page 175.

Q. Would you look at Commonwealth 4. In Commonwealth 4 is there an indication --

A. Hold on, sir, please.

MS. FISK: That is the death certificate, Detective.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is there an indication on the face of that document on page 1 as to any next of kin for this person who is Cynthia Williams or Cynthia Saunders or Mildred Saunders?

(Pause)

A. Yes.

Q. And what is indicated?

A. The name Ruth Ray, R-A-Y. Relationship is mother.

Q. Is there any other information about Ruth Ray on that document?

A. No, sir.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You never called this individual or tried to find this individual who is listed as this person's next of kin?

Page 176.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. I did not.

Q. Incidentally, in reading the report on how this individual was found in Camden, do you have any idea as to how the Medical Examiner's Office would know who her next of kin was?

A. No, sir, you would have to ask them. That was not an investigation conducted by Philadelphia.

Q. Is it indicated in that report that at the time they found this individual this individual was not in a position to communicate to the persons who found her?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Was she already dead?

A. No, it says she was unconscious and unresponsible... I'm sorry, yes, responsible --

MS. FISK: Responsive.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, responsive.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. All right. Had rigor mortis already set in?

A. Sir, I do not know.

Q. Is that indicated?

A. She was unconscious and unresponsive.

MS. FISK: It speaks for itself, it is self-authenticating.

THE COURT: You will have a copy of

Page 177.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

this and you could investigate it all you want.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, could you just indicate lastly for the Court how Exhibits 2 and 3 -- one is the FBI document which is 2, and the other is the Court history which is 3 -- how are those documents generated?

A. They are generated by computer. You put in codes and it responds.

Q. When you say you put in codes, do you put in the name of the individual or do you put in a code number?

A. You can do it various ways.

Q. Could you put in a Social Security number?

A. Yes.

Q. And could you put in the name?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you put in the fingerprint?

A. I couldn't. But there are people that can.

Q. When you say there are people, who are you referring to?

A. People in our identification unit.

Q. And do you know if these documents which have been presented to the Court as Exhibits 2 or 3 were produced by putting in the fingerprints?

Page 178.

Detective Raleigh Witcher - Cross

A. These documents were not produced that way.

Q. Okay. Do you have the fingerprint card for Cynthia White?

A. I gave you the numbers, I do not have the card.

Q. Do you know if the card exists today?

A. I couldn't answer that.

Q. You didn't look for it before you came to Court today?

A. No, I would have no reason to look for the card.

Q. That's because you are relying on the documents?

A. That's because I have no reason to look for the card. I know that these documents are authentic and any information that I need that I could handle and that I can read are in these documents and I can obtain them without putting in the fingerprint numbers.

Q. Last question to you, Detective: The bottom line is that there is no match that you are aware of personally between the fingerprints of the Cynthia White who you knew in 1982 and the person who was found dead in Camden in 1992?

A. There is a match and it's authenticated in the

Page 179.

FBI report here.

Q. But you don't know if that is the case?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Now you are arguing with him. He is telling you that it's in the FBI report. Call the FBI.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You indicated to us that when you looked at Peoples' -- Commonwealth's Exhibit 3, there was some information on fingerprint -- 2 -- I'm sorry -- there was some information on the fingerprint there?

A. That's correct.

Q. But you don't know if that fingerprint is the fingerprint of the Cynthia White you knew in 1982?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: Asked and answered.

THE COURT: He has already told you about that. If you want to investigate further, go right ahead.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I have no questions of the witness right now. But I ask the witness be held until after Ruth Ray, who is the named next of kin of a person who was found in '92, comes to this Court and testifies as to who that individual was.

THE COURT: Well, I am sure he could be available to you in some way.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I call my next witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sure.

MS. FISK: Commonwealth calls Sherrie Brewer, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could we see those documents again, Miss Fisk?

THE COURT: You will get a copy later on. We will make copies for you. Don't get excited.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: C-l is here.

THE COURT: Do we have a Xerox machine?

MS. FISK: You may want to wait until the next document.

THE COURT: Do you need that?

MS. FISK: There is an additional document referred to. Counsel may want that.

Sherrie Brewer, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Ms. Brewer, would you please tell us how you are employed?

A. By the Philadelphia School District, Department of Records Management. We keep the school records of all the students in Philadelphia who attend Philadelphia public schools.

Q. And are you here in the capacity of custodian of records for the Philadelphia Board of Education?

A. Yes, I am the custodian of records.

Q. And how long have you held that position, Ms. Brewer?

A. Well, I have been with the School Board for about 12 years, records management about five years.

Q. Ms. Brewer, prior to your appearing today, were you asked to obtain from the Philadelphia Board of Education records the school records of one Pamela Denease Jenkins?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And have you obtained the records of Pamela

Page 182.

Sherrie Brewer - Direct

Denease Jenkins?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And is that the package before you?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Now, ma'am, do those records -- so the Court record is clear -- are those the records of a Pamela Denease Jenkins who was a female whose date of birth is September the lst, 1965?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. And as part of those records, Ms. Brewer, do they contain a card or a single document which reflects the schools that Ms. Jenkins attended as a Philadelphia student?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that on a single document or photocopy of a portion of the file?

A. Yes, it is.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that this document be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 5.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we see it?

MS. FISK: Absolutely.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

(Board of Education record was marked Commonwealth's Exhibit C-5 for identification.)

Page 183.

Sherrie Brewer - Direct

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked (handing).

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Ms. Brewer, is Commonwealth Exhibit 5 an accurate photocopy of a card out of the Education files, Board of Education files kept on file for Pamela Denease Jenkins, whose birth date is 9-1-65?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And is that a document maintained for record keeping purposes within the Board of Education which shows the schools that Ms. Jenkins attended in the City of Philadelphia?

A. Yes, yes, it is.

Q. Does that document reflect whether or not Ms. Jenkins ever attended Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And would you please tell us the date that Ms. Jenkins began attending Simon Gratz High School?

A. As the record shows, it would be January 19th, 1982.

Q. And does that same document reflect the date on which Ms. Jenkins stopped attending Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes, it does.

Page 184.

Sherrie Brewer - Direct

Q. And what is that date?

A. That date would be December 6th, 1982.

Q. And based on your review or your position here as the custodian of records, is there any other period of time in which Pamela Denease Jenkins attended or was registered to attend Simon Gratz High School?

A. No, that's it.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am. I have nothing further of this witness, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Ms. Brewer.

A. Yes, good afternoon, sir.

Q. I just have a few questions for you. On the document that is before you C-5, you told us about where Pamela Jenkins according to that document went to school?

A. Yes.

Q. In 1982? And you told us that she went to

Page 185.

Sherrie Brewer - Cross

Simon Gratz High School?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it indicate where she went to school in 1981, the year before?

A. Umm, actually it is a, it is recorded that she was in Beeber, B-E-E-B-E-R, she began there 4-2-81. And then 5-6-81 she was listed as a runaway.

Q. Now, from May 6th, 1981, according to that record, she is a runaway?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, when someone is a runaway, do the truant officers try to locate that person?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't know if this witness is qualified to answer that question.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just as a general practice, does Philadelphia try to find and locate runaways?

A. Not that I'm aware of. I really couldn't say because I --

Q. You can't say one way or the other?

A. No, I can't, because I am not a truant officer and I don't know what their duties are.

Q. Right. But from May 6th of '81 she is listed

Page 186.

Sherrie Brewer - Cross

as a runaway?

A. Yes.

Q. That means that she is someone who is not going to school?

A. That's correct.

Q. And there is no indication that she returned to school in the year '81?

A. That's correct.

Q. So according to that record, she is a runaway from May 6th of '81 until January of '82?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's when the truant officers might have been looking for her?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: She told you she doesn't know what the duties are of the truant officers.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, I have nothing further. Thanks.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: You're welcome.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Ms. Brewer.

I would ask, Your Honor, that Ms. Brewer only leave behind Commonwealth Exhibit 5 and be permitted to return the remainder of the record back to the files of the Page 187.

Board of Education.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Ms. Brewer.

THE WITNESS: You're welcome.

MS. FISK: Commonwealth next calls Ms. Peggy Tolan, Your Honor.

- - - - -

Peggy Tolan, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Ms. Tolan, how are you employed, please?

A. With the City of Philadelphia, Police Department.

Q. In what capacity?

A. I am an administrative services supervisors in the personnel office.

Q. And you are a civilian employee of the Police Department?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And how long have you held the position that you hold?

A. I've been with Police personnel for about 11 years, a little over 11 years.

Q. And in that capacity are you the custodian of records for Philadelphia Police personnel documents?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And in that capacity, Ms. Tolan, have you identified for us the date on which former police officer Thomas Ryan began, that is was hired by the Philadelphia Police Department and began his training at the Police Academy?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And can you tell us, please, according to the Philadelphia Police Department records, the date on which Officer Ryan -- or, I'm sorry -- before he became Officer Ryan, the date on which Thomas Ryan was hired and began his training at the Police Academy?

A. Yes; that date was August 17th, 1981.

Q. And can you identify for us, please, the date on which he graduated the Police Academy and was made a police officer?

A. Yes, Officer Ryan graduated the Police Academy December 2lst, 1981.

Q. And following his graduation from the Police Academy on December 2lst, 1981, did he become a uniformed officer?

Page 189.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And are you able to tell us the district to which he was then assigned on December the 2lst, 1981?

A. Yes, he was assigned to the 39th District.

Q. And that is what the records in the custody of the Philadelphia Police Department reflect?

A. Yes, ma'am.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

I have nothing further of Ms. Tolan, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I see the records that are before the --

THE WITNESS: Sure.

MR. WEINGLASS: Have these been marked?

MS. FISK: It hasn't been. I will be happy to have it marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 6.

THE COURT: We will have to make copies of it.

MS. FISK: Yes, sir. I was just saving Roosevelt the walk. I didn't want him to start copying something: I suspected that there were additional ones coming.

Page 190.

(Employee history record was marked
Commonwealth's Exhibit C-6 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-6, Your Honor (handing).

(Pause)

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good afternoon, Ms. Tolan.

A. Yes.

Q. I have the document which has been marked Commonwealth 6 in front of me. Do you have a copy in front of you?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Oh, good.

THE COURT: Is that a copy you gave him?

THE WITNESS: Yes, he can have that.

THE COURT: Oh.

MS. FISK: Which one's been marked?

MR. WEINGLASS: This one's been marked.

THE COURT: I guess that is a copy.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 191.

Q. Well, going down the columns now that appear on Commonwealth 6 --

A. Yes.

Q. -- it is indicated as you told us that Officer Ryan was appointed a correctional officer in June of '81. Is that correct?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And then in July of '81 there is a notation for him, is there not?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. What is that notation?

A. That specifies that he received a 10 percent pay increase.

Q. Was that as a --

A. A 10 percent pay increase on 7-1-81.

Q. Was that as a correction officer?

A. Yes.

Q. So he is still a correction officer?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. Are correction officers uniformed, by the way, to your knowledge?

A. Not the same uniform that the police wear.

Q. Are they uniformed?

A. Yes.

Q. All right, thank you. Now, on August 16th,

Page 192.

'81 he is promoted to the Police Department. You have told us that?

A. Yes.

Q. And he is appointed the next day?

A. Yes.

Q. August 17th. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, between August 17th, '81 and December 2lst, '81, is there any indication as to what he's doing?

A. The officer is in the Police Academy. They spend approximately 5 months, 5-and-a-half months in training. They are assigned to the Police Academy, they are not full-fledged police officers at that time.

Q. Right. And is there another document that reflects that? Because it is not reflected on C-6.

A. No, sir, that's the way it's handled. Every police officer that if they have not been a police officer prior would spend that amount of time in the Police Academy.

Q. I see. If they had been a correction officer prior, they would still spend that amount of time?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And if they had been a truant officer prior to

Page 193.

that, they would still spend --

A. It would have no bearing on it at all.

Q. Right. Do you know if Officer Ryan was a truant officer?

A. No, sir.

Q. Prior? Do you know if truant officers wore uniforms?

A. No, sir, I have no knowledge of that.

Q. Okay. Now, in the five months that he is in the Academy, could you just briefly describe what he does? Does he go to the Academy everyday?

A. Yes, Monday through Friday.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this witness is called as a custodian of records with regard to the date Officer Ryan started in the Academy, the date he graduated the Academy and became a police officer.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, this record says nothing about a Police Academy. We are relying -- and I accept that -- on the witness' testimony of what she knows.

THE WITNESS: Sir, it does say the Police Academy. If you go across the page there is a P, period, A. That is Police Academy.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 194.

Q. P.A.?

A. P.A.

Q. Okay. And you are assuming that he was there until December 21st because of your knowledge?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yeah. Even though it is not on this document, you know that?

A. No, sir, it is on the document.

MS. FISK: It is on the document, Your Honor, and I object.

THE WITNESS: When a person is changed, his assignment is changed, it is reflected on the next line down. As you see when he goes to the 39th.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When he goes to the Police Academy does he wear a uniform?

A. Partial uniform.

Q. When you say partial, does he wear a uniform shirt?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Uniform pants?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And are these the same color, if you know, back then as a police uniform?

Page 195.

A. Yes, they were.

Q. They are?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. So if I saw an Academy candidate walking down the street, as a civilian, wearing a uniform, he would look much like a police officer but he wouldn't have a gun?

A. He also wouldn't have a badge.

Q. And he wouldn't have a badge?

A. No, sir.

Q. But he would have a hat, the shirt and the pants?

A. Not necessarily the shirt; I believe they wear baseball caps in the Academy.

Q. Right. But in the Academy?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. But would he have a hat?

MS. FISK: She just said he had a baseball cap.

THE COURT: They wear a baseball cap when they are in the Academy.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, these records that you have for Officer Ryan include, do they not, records of what happened prior to his resignation in 1991?

A. His history of assignments.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Do they also include his history of being brought up on departmental charges?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where are those records?

A. They would probably be with the personnel file.

Q. I see. You don't have those records?

A. No, sir.

Q. That's in a separate office?

A. No, sir. I was instructed to bring this.

Q. I see. Those files are in your office, though, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were instructed only to bring these files?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: I just have one question.

- - - - -

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 197.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Do corrections officers -- I'm sorry -- the document which has been marked reflects that Mr. Ryan before he entered the Academy was a corrections officer assigned to Welfare; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Do persons in that capacity have the authority to drive Police Department vehicles?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Do persons in the Police Academy have the authority to, outside of the Police Academy, other than learning to perhaps shift the car, have the authority to drive Police Department vehicles?

A. No, no, they are not a sworn officer until graduation.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. One last: This is the employment, the employee history record which is C-6; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the entitlement of the record that you refer to that would indicate disciplinary charges?

Page 198.

Peggy Tolan - Recross

A. It would be the personnel folder.

Q. The personnel folder?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And it is in your office?

A. Not the original.

Q. A copy is?

A. A copy is.

Q. And your office is the administrative office?

A. Yes.

Q. Located where?

A. In the Police Administration Building, 8th and Race.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Thank you, Ms. Tolan.

THE WITNESS: Hmm-hmm.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

The Commonwealth next calls Detective Clarkson, Your Honor.

I think they have the marked document of that last witness.

THE COURT: Yes, put that with the rest of the documents.

MS. FISK: Rosy, is this the one that was marked?

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, that is the

Page 199.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

one that was marked. It is marked on the front.

THE COURT: Keep it with the other papers.

THE COURT OFFICER: Well, right now he is making copies, my partner is making copies of the other one. He had already took the last.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes, sure.

- - - - -

Philadelphia Police Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson,
Instructor of the Advanced Training Unit, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Lieutenant Clarkson, how long have you been a Philadelphia police officer?

A. Since November 16th, 1981.

Q. And what happened on November 16th, 1981, sir?

A. I was sworn in at the Philadelphia Police Academy.

Q. Oh. When did you graduate, though, the Police Academy, incidentally?

Page 200.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

A. I believe it was in March of '82.

Q. During that period of time from November 16th, 1981 to March of '82, as a member of the Police Academy, did you, were you issued a uniform?

A. No; we were told we had to wear white shirts and black pants.

Q. And was that the standard --

A. With a black tie.

Q. I'm sorry. When you entered the Academy on November 16th, 1981, was that what you were told to wear?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. And all persons who preceded you, at least when you arrived on November 16th, 1981, who were going through the Academy --

A. Yes.

Q. -- wore similar outfits?

A. Yes, to my knowledge.

Q. I'm sorry. Were those provided to you or you simply had to buy your own?

A. No, you had to find them. Back then it was kind of hard to find black pants and white shirts.

Q. Upon graduating the Police Academy in March 1982 --

A. Yes, that's correct.

Page 201.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

Q. -- and becoming a uniformed police officer, were you placed in a police district?

A. Yes; I was assigned to the 39th District from the Police Academy.

Q. Now, you are currently a lieutenant?

A. Yes.

Q. So if you will just take us generally through your career: At what point did you stop becoming a uniformed police officer and go up in rank?

A. I believe it was in 1988 I was promoted to corporal. And in 1991 I guess it was to sergeant; and I guess it was 1994 as lieutenant.

Q. And what is your current assignment as a lieutenant, sir?

A. I am at the Advanced Training Unit of the Philadelphia Police Department. We do all State-mandated training that is required.

Q. Now, Lieutenant, you have told us that when you first became a uniformed officer in March 1982, you were assigned to the 39th Police District?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you have occasion at any time after being assigned to the 39th Police District in March 1982 to ever work a police wagon with Police Officer Thomas Ryan?

Page 202.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

A. Yes.

Q. Now, in that capacity, were you and Officer Ryan at that point both uniformed police officers?

A. Yes, we were both uniformed police officers.

Q. And what squad were you working?

A. We were working 3 Squad.

Q. And what does that mean when you say you were working 3 Squad, what does that define?

A. Well, at that time the Police Department was divided into four squads. And that was the squad we worked. We worked six days on, two days off.

Q. And were there printed calendars to show --

A. Yes, there was.

Q. To show when your squad was working?

A. Yes; we had a calendar for the year.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, well, may I ask, Your Honor, that this document be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit...

THE COURT OFFICER: 7.

MS. FISK: 7.

(75-48 Police Incident Report was marked
Commonwealth's Exhibit C-7 for identification.)

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

Page 203.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-7, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Lieutenant Clarkson, would you please identify what has been marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 7?

A. This is a 75-48 Complaint or Incident Report we used in the Philadelphia Police Department. And it has a place of occurrence, Pulaski and Hunting Park. And it says under Details, it says sight, truancy. And the name was Pamela Jenkins, a Negro female. And I have date of birth, 9-1-65; 1712 West Tioga Street, Philadelphia, PA; and phone number; and notified mother that she was a truant. The date on the 48 is June l0th, 1982. And the time of this truancy was 10:15 a.m.

I was working that day with Police Officer Thomas Ryan and we were working an emergency patrol wagon, 3900 wagon.

Q. Was this document prepared by you?

A. Yes, this is my handwriting, ma'am.

Q. And was this prepared by you on the date that this truancy stop of Pamela Jenkins took place?

A. That's correct.

Q. And again what is the date that that truancy stop of Pamela Jenkins took place?

Page 204.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Direct

A. June l0th, 1982.

Q. And the location, please?

A. Pulaski and Hunting Park.

Q. Where is that in relation to Gratz High School?

A. Oh, it's about a block away.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further of this witness, Your Honor.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Lieutenant Clarkson, good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. So it is your testimony that Tom Ryan arrested Pamela Jenkins for truancy; is that right?

A. Well, she was taken into the 39th District for truancy.

Q. By Tom Ryan?

A. And myself. Was transported to the 39th District. I don't know if she was arrested or not.

Q. Right.

A. We just notified her mother.

Q. She was taken, she was physically put in the van and transported?

Page 205.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Cross

A. That's correct.

Q. And Tom Ryan did that?

A. It was me and Tom Ryan, we were both working the wagon, in a wagon in the Philadelphia Police Department, that is operated by two individuals or two police officers, sir.

Q. This might not be fair to ask but do you remember who was driving?

A. Probably because I made the paperwork up, probably Officer Ryan was driving. And since he had a little bit more time on than me I was probably the recorder.

Q. Right. Do you, by the way, have an independent recollection of Pamela Jenkins?

A. No, I do not.

Q. You don't remember her at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know how old she was when she was arrested -- or, I'm sorry -- picked up?

A. I just have her date of birth of 9-1-65, so however old she would be as of June 10th. She was a student at Gratz High School.

Q. Yes. Yes, she was about 16; is that correct?

A. I don't know, whatever.

Q. You can't do the math?

Page 206.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Cross

MS. FISK: Whatever 9-1-65 to June l0th, 1982 comes out to, we will agree that that was her age.

THE COURT: Well, June is not her birthday so you will have to go a year back.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So that makes her 16, right?

THE COURT: It makes her what?

MR. WEINGLASS: 16.

MS. FISK: 15. I can't add, Judge.

(Pause)

MS. FISK: I am advised, Your Honor, by someone who can add that she would be turning 16 the following September. She's 15 and 10 months.

MR. WEINGLASS.: Okay.

MR. BURNS: Eight months. Nine months.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. So she is 15. And Tom Ryan picks her up for truancy in your presence, you and Tom Ryan?

A. Yes, we were working the wagon together.

Q. Do you know what developed in the relationship between Pamela Jenkins and Tom Ryan thereafter?

Page 207.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Cross

A. No, I am not aware of that.

Q. You are not aware of it? Did you continue to work with Tom Ryan?

A. For several years thereafter, then he went to a different squad and I was promoted.

Q. How long were you his partner?

A. I was never his partner. We were just assigned for that day. It was very unusual that Tom Ryan and I worked together. And especially a wagon.

Q. I see. Do you know if Tom Ryan knew Pamela Jenkins before you all picked her up for truancy?

A. I don't recall that he knew her then. He never said anything to me, sir, that I could recall.

Q. So you can't say that he didn't know her before, you just don't know?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He just answered that question. He said what he said. It is not fair for you to interpret it. The Supreme Court will interpret it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. To your recollection, what was Pamela Jenkins doing when she was picked up?

A. She was outside a block or so away from Gratz High School and she should have been in school. So

Page 208.

Lieutenant Thomas Clarkson - Cross

knowing the location of Pulaski and Hunting Park, there is a steak shop or, walk-up steak shop and pretzel store.

Q. Do you know if she was working as a prostitute?

A. I have no knowledge of that, sir.

Q. Did you have knowledge -- how long were you in the 39th at that time?

A. Oh, just several months. I got out of the Academy, I guess it was March of '82. So March, April, May, June -- three months, sir. A little less.

Q. That's all you were there for, just that time?

MS. FISK: At that time.

THE WITNESS: At this instance, yes.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. But after that did you stay at the 39th?

A. Yes, I stayed with the 39th.

Q. For how long?

A. 1988, I believe, or something around there. I'm not sure of the date.

Q. So you stayed there for five, six years?

A. That's correct.

Q. Were you aware of the fact that police officers were using prostitutes as informants at that time?

A. No.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It is beyond the scope of this witness.

THE COURT: Well, he said no.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you say no?

A. No, I didn't know that.

Q. You didn't know that?

A. No, sir.

Q. You later found out they were?

A. I still don't know that, sir.

Q. Did you hear that they were?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you read that they were?

A. Read that they were using prostitutes?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Were you aware of Tom Ryan's case?

A. What case, sir?

Q. Where he pled guilty.

A. Yes, I'm aware of that.

Q. Is this the only time to your knowledge that Pamela was stopped for truancy?

A. I have no knowledge other than this day.

Page 210.

Q. Were you ever told by anyone that Pamela Jenkins was working as an informant for Tom Ryan?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Incidentally, back in 1982, when you were on this assignment on this day, June l0th, was it your practice that if you saw a person who was a teenager who should have been in school, you would stop them and pick them up and do what you did on this day?

A. That's correct.

Q. Right. And if someone were a runaway they would also be stopped if you could find them?

A. Yeah, they would be stopped and taken back home, notified, her parents would have been notified.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, may we have Commonwealth 7 for a moment.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you do this kind of a pickup of a truant, is it an arrest or is it just something less than an arrest?

A. I believe that the Juvenile Aid Division would decide that, I don't make that decision.

Q. Did you as a police officer refer to it as an arrest?

Page 211.

A. I don't recall if we referred to it as an arrest or not.

Q. So if Tom Ryan under oath testified that he had never arrested Pamela Jenkins, would that in your opinion, having done this with him on June l0th, '82, be true?

A. That she might not have been arrested. It depends what the Juvenile Aid Division does. I don't know what happened after this case, after we brought her in.

Q. When you -- I am not familiar with this practice. When you see a truant like in this particular instance, you get out of your vehicle, you call the truant over to your vehicle?

A. No, we would get out of our vehicle.

Q. You get out. And you go and you approach the truant and talk to the truant. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Then how do you get the truant into your vehicle?

A. We put handcuffs on them and put them in the back of the wagon for custody.

Q. They are handcuffed?

A. You know, I don't -- I believe they would be, yeah.

Page 212.

Q. Yeah. Because of going into the back of your vehicle?

A. That's right.

Q. For no other reason than your safety?

A. Right.

Q. So they are handcuffed, and they are put in the vehicle, is that right, then they are transported to the station?

A. That's correct.

Q. Are they free to leave from the vehicle, can they say wait a minute, I don't want to go to the station?

A. No, they are not free to leave, they are in custody.

Q. Right. Okay. And to your current recollection, this is the only time you saw Pamela Jenkins?

A. To my knowledge, yes.

Q. In all the time that you were at the 39th District?

A. I don't recall ever running into her again, sir.

Q. But you did run into Tom Ryan again. I am not saying you worked with him but you saw him?

A. We worked in the same squad, yes.

Page 213.

Q. You worked in the same squad? And you didn't know what his relationship was with Pamela Jenkins after this truancy arrest?

A. No.

Q. Have you talked to him since he's been put out of the Police Department?

A. This is the first --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I think you are going a little bit too far, you are going on a fishing expedition.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did he ever indicate to you what his relationship with Pamela Jenkins became at any time?

A. No, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: Nothing further.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. You are excused.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Corporal Tobin, please.

- - - - -

Philadelphia Police Corporal George Tobin, Badge number 8062, Reports Control Unit, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Page 214.

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Corporal Tobin, good afternoon, sir.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Corporal Tobin, what is your position in the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. I'm a corporal, I'm working in the documents processing unit at 8th and Race in Room 205, the 75-48 section.

Q. Now let me start with how long have you been a Philadelphia police officer?

A. 15 years.

Q. Now, your position as a corporal in the documents processing section, 75-48 section, can you tell us what that means?

A. 48s are written through the City, it's the initial police report.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Police incident report. They come to me, they are put in order. They are stored. When they are requested by attorneys, private citizens, investigators, they are copied, mailed out. After approximately two years from the date of an incident, they are placed on microfilm and stored in my unit.

Q. And are you here as the custodian of records, then, for all of those 75-48s, both current and more than two years old, which exist on microfilm in the City of Philadelphia Police Department?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Now, in that capacity, Corporal, did you have occasion this week to search for 75-48s in the period of 1982?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And specifically, were you asked to search starting with -- I'm sorry --

MS. FISK: May I please have Commonwealth Exhibit 5: The school records?

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Were you asked to search for 75-48s produced from the 39th District beginning on January the 19th, 1982, in which an Officer Tom Ryan was involved?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And specifically were you asked to search for any 75-48 involving Officer Tom Ryan which involved a truancy stop of a Pamela Jenkins?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Now, for the period of -- I'm sorry -- were you told to go through the end of June 1982?

A. Ahh, yes, I have a copy of the request. If I could look at it I could give you the date.

Q. Sure.

A. I checked up until...

Q. Yes.

(Pause.)

A. The date was actually January 18th, 1982. And the ending date was June 14th, 1982. It's not all dates, it was certain dates.

Q. Then I am going to clarify. Are you familiar with the squad calendar?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. What is a squad calendar?

A. A squad calendar, if it is from 1982, or from a four-platoon system, each platoon had their own calendar to tell them which days they were working, which days they were off.

MS. FISK: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: (Indicating).

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. I am handing to you, sir, a document. Is that a squad calendar for 3 Squad for uniformed officers for the calendar year 1982?

A. That's what it appears to be, yes.

Q. And do you recognize that as the type of calendar that a 3 Squad officer would have back in 1982?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Now utilizing that calendar, can you tell the days that a 3 Squad officer, a person in 3 Squad was assigned to work day work, as opposed to 4:00-to-midnight shift, as opposed to a midnight-to-8:00-in-the-morning shift?

A. Yes, I can.

Q. All right. Were you, utilizing that squad calendar, asked, when you were being asked to search for 75-48s that are recorded on microfilm because they are more than two years old, asked to restrict yourself to those days that a 3 Squad officer, between January 18th, 1982 and the June date that you gave us, had day work?

A. Okay, actually, I didn't work off of this schedule.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I worked off -- a detective from Homicide --

Q. Yes?

A. -- supplied me with a sheet of paper with dates.

Page 218.

Q. And I want you to look just briefly if you can, please, at the schedule you have?

A. Sure.

Q. And tell me whether those are the dates that you checked?

(Pause)

Q. Oh, and restricting yourself to the weekdays Monday through Friday when school is in session.

A. Okay, what makes this a little bit different on the squad schedules is --

Q. Yes, sir?

A. -- you don't have a real date.

Q. You have to have another calendar?

A. Right. To give you the date. I can tell you that 3 Squad in January worked day work Monday through Thursday just one time, and those dates that I have listed are 1-18, 19, 20 and 21.

Q. So you were given day work dates from January 18th through June 1982?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did you, beginning then with January 18th, 1982, read on microfiche every single 75-48 generated from the 39th District to check for a 75-48 that involved Officer Ryan and a truancy stop of

Page 219.

Corporal George Tobin - Direct

Pamela Jenkins?

A. Okay, what I did, because it was a truancy stop, I limited the search between 7:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Q. Because that's the only time people can be declared truant?

A. And it was actually giving an hour before school and maybe an hour after school had closed. And they are the 48s that I reviewed for truancies.

Q. All right. January 18th through June the 9th of 1982, did you find any?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Can the witness please be shown Commonwealth Exhibit 7.

THE COURT OFFICER: Yes (handing).

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is Commonwealth Exhibit 7 a copy of a 75-48 which you found?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And is Commonwealth Exhibit 7 an accurate photocopy of the 75-48 which appears and exists in the microfiche records of the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. Yes, it is.

Page 220.

Corporal George Tobin - Direct

Q. Now, did you also check, then, to the final date in June?

A. There was two days left. I checked them because I had already checked a lot, a lot of days. And there were no more.

Q. So this was the only one that you found involving Pamela Jenkins and Officer Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. And the date of that is reflected as what, please?

A. The date is 6-10-82.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further of the corporal, Your Honor.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Corporal Tobin, good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon, sir.

Q. Were you asked to check the records for the year 1981?

A. '81?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I was not.

Page 221.

Corporal George Tobin - Cross

Q. Your 75-48s include truancy arrests?

A. 75-48s at that time included just about everything. It is an initial police incident report. You would write that out on pedestrian investigations, on up to a major crime. I mean it was the initial contact report.

Q. I see. Were there truancy officers back then?

A. I don't know.

Q. If you know.

A. I can go back to when I was a kid and tell you they were. And they weren't wearing a uniform. And they rode a motor scooter, you know. But since I have been on this job, I couldn't tell you.

Q. They were in uniform?

A. When I was a child?

Q. Yes.

A. No, they were not in uniform. They drove around on a motor scooter.

Q. Later on did they become?

A. I don't know.

Q. When you do the search that you have described, you search it, do I have it correctly, by squad?

A. For the 48?

Q. Yes.

Page 222.

Corporal George Tobin - Cross

A. The way I had to search it was 1982, the search was for 3 Squad during the day work tour. So we had to figure out what days 3 Squad would be working day work, take those dates and look at the 48s that were written by the entire 39th District between 7:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. for a truancy incident.

Q. I see. And you were told to focus on 3 Squad? That was part of your instructions?

A. Actually, I wasn't really told the squad. What I was told was an incident report with Officer Ryan and Pamela Jenkins involving a truancy.

Q. So you looked through all the squads?

A. No, no, I was supplied, from a Homicide detective I was supplied dates and to only look on those dates.

Q. Only on those dates?

A. Yeah. And looking at this schedule now, it looks like 3 Squad, just a rough review of it, was working day work on the dates that I was supplied. Weekdays.

Q. How many dates were you supplied? Just approximate.

Q. (Pause)

A. Looks like approximately 32.

Page 223.

Corporal George Tobin - Cross

Q. 32 dates?

A. 32 days.

Q. You have in that 6-month period?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do you know why those 32 dates?

A. Well, because they were looking for a truancy, I assumed that the officer worked in a particular squad which I now know is 3 Squad. They would be the only days he would work Monday through Friday.

Q. Right?

A. You know, on those particular dates. That's why in one month we have eight or nine days and in another month you only have 4.

Q. Right. If an officer worked on a different squad?

A. The dates would be different.

Q. Would be different. You wouldn't have found those dates?

A. If I was supplied with the dates for 3 Squad, I would not have found an officer working 2 Squad during the time frame that I searched.

Q. Right. Or 4 squad?

A. Exactly.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Okay. I have nothing further. Thank you.

Page 224.

Detective Joseph Walsh - Direct

MS. FISK: I have nothing further of the corporal.

And, finally, Your Honor, Detective Walsh, very briefly.

- - - - -

Philadelphia Police Detective Joseph Walsh, Badge number 697, Homicide Division, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Walsh, you are currently a Homicide detective?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Are you the detective who provided the dates to Corporal Tobin to search for a 75-48 that has been marked and identified?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Would you please tell us how you arrived at the dates which Corporal Tobin was given?

A. The officer, Officer Ryan, from the time he was assigned out of the Police Academy in December of '81, until years later when he became a burglary

Page 225.

Detective Joseph Walsh - Direct

detail officer sometime I believe in 1984, '85, worked exclusively in 3 Squad. And I obtained a 3 Squad calendar and I wrote down a list of all the days that 3 Squad, Monday to Friday, would have been working day work where he would have had an opportunity to come in contact with Pamela Jenkins on a truancy.

Q. So were the dates which you gave Corporal Tobin all dates after Pamela Jenkins became a student at Simon Gratz High School in which Officer Thomas Ryan was working day work on a weekday?

A. That's correct.

Q. And each and every one of those days were the dates that were supplied to Corporal Tobin for searching?

A. That's correct, ma'am.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

Nothing further, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. These are dates that you ascertained by looking at records; is that correct? Is that right?

A. The squad calendar (displaying)?

Page 226.

Detective Joseph Walsh - Cross

Q. Right.

A. Right.

Q. Did you see Officer Ryan in Court today?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I believe it's beyond the scope of this witness, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: He is telling us that he figured out the days by looking at records that Officer Ryan worked. Officer Ryan was here today, why didn't he ask him.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you ask him if he asked him.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you ask Officer Ryan today what days he worked?

A. From 1982?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't ask. You did see him in Court today, didn't you?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: This is beyond the scope. And I would note that Officer Ryan was subpoenaed by the defense to be

Page 227.

Detective Joseph Walsh - Cross

here today. Nevertheless, that is not the point.

MR. WEINGLASS: He was, exactly.

MS. FISK: The point is that the squad calendar reflects the dates that a 3 Squad officer worked, and that is the sole purpose for which this witness has been called.

THE COURT: Okay. Limit yourself to that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Detective Walsh, did you tell Tom Ryan he could go home?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you talk to him?

A. Today?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you talk about?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Where are you going? Is this an inquisition or something?

MR. WEINGLASS: We are putting in all these documents about Tom Ryan. He was here and he was available as a witness.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you call him.

MR. WEINGLASS: Exactly. We will call him.

THE COURT: When?

MR. WEINGLASS: I accept the invitation. As soon as this witness is completed.

THE COURT: Okay. Then ask him.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, fine. With Tom Ryan on the stand, I have no further questions of Detective Walsh.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

Detective, the 48's been marked. Thank you, sir.

Your Honor, I have no further witnesses. Your Honor, I would move into evidence all of these documents, Commonwealth Exhibits 1 through 7, and ask that they become part of the record in this matter.

THE COURT: So admitted.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would make the same request with respect to Defendant's 1 through 4.

THE COURT: All right.

Page 229.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: If we may have just a moment.

Defense calls Tom Ryan.

Thomas F. Ryan, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, I am going to inquire of this witness.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Ryan, good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Are you the Officer Ryan with the badge number when you were a police officer 4580?

A. That's correct.

Q. The same Officer Ryan with the 39th District?

A. That's correct.

Q. Are you the same Officer Ryan that owns a red pickup truck?

A. At one time.

Q. Did you own a red pickup truck back in 19, in the early 1980's?

A. No.

Q. When did you first own a red pickup truck?

A. 1987.

Q. Has Pamela Jenkins ever been in your red pickup truck?

A. I don't know if she's been in it. She's been in the presence of it.

Q. Has a woman by the name of Cynthia White ever been inside your red pickup truck?

A. I don't know a Cynthia White.

Q. How about a prostitute that goes by the name of Lucky: Has a Lucky been inside your red pickup truck?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. How about a woman named Joan Downs -- D-O-W-N-S -- has Ms. Downs been in your red pickup truck?

A. No.

Q. Or Ms. Downs has certainly been in the presence of your red pickup truck; isn't that true?

A. Yes.

Q. By the way, Ms. Downs also goes by the nickname Peanut?

Page 231.

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. In any event, you know a Ms. Downs?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I take it because Ms. Jenkins has been in the presence of your red pickup truck that you know her?

A. That's correct.

Q. Why don't you explain to us how it is that you came to know Pamela Jenkins?

A. As was stated in earlier testimony, I came in contact with her on June l0th, 1982.

Q. Okay. Now, today is not the first time you've had to testify under oath in connection with your relationship with Pamela Jenkins; isn't that true?

A. That's correct.

Q. You've had to testify about your relationship with Pamela Jenkins in connection with a murder trial, Commonwealth versus Raymond Carter, true?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, and you were asked questions about Pamela Jenkins, do you recall that?

A. I recall being asked questions.

Q. At this murder trial?

A. Yes.

Q. And you recall being asked this question and giving this answer?

Page 232.

Question: How long had you known Pamela Jenkins as of September 1986.

Your answer: Five years.

Do you recall that?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Q. Okay. Do you want to see your testimony (displaying) where you said that you had known her for five years as of September of 1986?

A. I could review it, I don't recall it.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will be glad to show it to you.

THE COURT OFFICER: Counsel, I will take care of that.

MR. WILLIAMS: Thanks. Great, thanks.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, before you look at that: Just five years prior to 1986 would send us, of September of 1986, would send us back to September of 1981; isn't that true?

A. You are asking me before I review this?

Q. Yes, if you have September of 1986 as a date, and you go five years back, you go back to September of 1981; isn't that true?

A. Chronologically, that's correct.

Page 233.

Q. Okay, now look at your testimony.

A. Which part, sir?

Q. It's bracketed there. The question is how long had you known Ms. Jenkins since September of 1986. And you said five years?

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. You were under oath, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In a murder trial, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Rather serious charges, right?

MS. FISK: This is direct examination and I ask Counsel to restrict himself to questions appropriate for direct examination.

MR. WILLIAMS: Okay, I will do that.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Were you telling the truth in the murder trial of this case: Commonwealth versus Raymond Carter?

A. Yes, I was telling the truth.

Q. Good. I will take the transcripts back.

MS. FISK: May I have an opportunity to review it, please?

MR. WILLIAMS: Great.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Page 234.

(Pause)

MS. FISK: Counsel (handing).

MR. WILLIAMS: Thanks.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. It is your testimony that the circumstances under which you met Ms. Jenkins for the first time is in connection with a truancy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why don't you describe to us exactly what happened in connection with this truancy, when you first met Ms. Jenkins?

A. Well, as I can best recall at this time, I was working a patrol wagon assigned to 39th District, 3 Squad, working the day shift tour of duty. And I was patrolling in the vicinity of Simon Gratz High School. And sometime during the school hours that day, observed Ms. Jenkins and others outside of the school building on a public street.

Q. And what did you do when you saw that?

A. Well, they were supposed to be in school so therefore that made them truants from school. And they were taken into the 39th District for that violation.

Q. All right, when you say taken into the 39th District, what do you mean?

Page 235.

A. Specifically, they were placed in the patrol wagon and driven to the 39th District headquarters at 22nd and Hunting Park Avenue.

Q. Was she placed in the wagon against her will?

A. No, she was placed in custody.

Q. When you say in custody, is that another way of saying that she was arrested?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: That is a legal term of art.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, he was a police officer.

MS. FISK: And Counsel has MS. Jenkins' record and knows that she was not arrested in 1981 or 1982 at any time and ever charged with truancy. And I know Counsel has obtained her criminal records. And she clearly was not arrested, that is fingerprinted and processed and arrested and charged.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We tried to, we have been precluded. Could we get them? We would love them.

THE COURT: Okay, Counsel, stay away from that, please.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Was she handcuffed?

Page 236.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

A. I don't recall.

Q. She was placed in the vehicle and not free to leave: Fair to say?

A. That's correct, she was being transported.

Q. Is it your testimony -- I just want to get your state of mind -- when you had her in your vehicle and she wasn't free to leave, would you consider that to be an arrest of an individual?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained, sustained. Even the Courts can't agree on that, so what are you asking him for.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Can you say under oath today that at the time you took her into custody in 1982 that it was not an arrest?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well.

MS. FISK: Your Honor --

THE COURT: You argue that up with the Supreme Court when you get there. You could argue whether it is an arrest or what it was.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. In the same trial, sir, with the Commonwealth

Page 237.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

as the prosecutor, do you recall being asked this question and giving this answer?

Question regarding your relationship with Ms. Jenkins, was that, was that -- referring to your relationship -- as a result of you arresting her on various occasions.

Your answer: I have never arrested her.

Do you recall that?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, and move to strike.

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, I am only confronting him with prior testimony.

THE COURT: Objection is sustained.

Strike it from the record.

You can argue that upstairs when you go back there.

MR. WILLIAMS: Why, she was asked by the district --

THE COURT: I said you could argue it back there. They will make a decision whether it was an arrest or whether it wasn't.

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, I am only asking him about his prior testimony.

THE COURT: I said you will argue that

Page 238.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

up in the Supreme Court when you go back there.

MR. WILLIAMS: All right, let me refer to the page so that that Supreme Court will know where I'm referring to. Referring to the trial testimony of Commonwealth versus Carter at page 112, line 16 through 18. And then in fact on page 1 -- I'm sorry -- 112, line 16 through 18, and then page 114, line 16 through 20, where the Commonwealth uses the term arrest in asking him the very same question.

MS. FISK: And again I object and move to strike.

MR. WILLIAMS: Of course she does.

MS. FISK: I know those pages have been noted on the record.

THE COURT: I know the Commonwealth asked her. What did the Supreme Court say? If they made an issue of it, did the Supreme Court rule on it? I don't know: The case wasn't in front of me, I can't answer that.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, let me see. You were in the Police Academy in 1981; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, did you consider yourself to be a police

Page 239.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

officer as of 1981?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sure, when he went and graduated he considered himself as a police officer. Why not?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. When did you graduate?

A. December, I believe, 19th, of 1981.

Q. Now, do you have an understanding as to whether law enforcement during your tenure as a police officer ever used prostitutes as sources of information?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What is the purpose of it?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, Judge, you just heard from Pamela Jenkins --

THE COURT: Why don't you ask him a definite question on Pamela Jenkins.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going to get to that.

THE COURT: Well, get to it right now, don't waste my time. It is a quarter after 4:00.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, officer, have you ever used prostitutes

Page 240.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

as sources of information?

MS. FISK: I object to that question, Your Honor. I thought we were restricted to the witnesses involved in this proceeding.

THE COURT: Yes. Why aren't you?

MR. WILLIAMS: I am asking him about his practice, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Don't ask him about his practice. Nobody asked you about your practice. Just ask him if he hired Pamela Jones. That's what we are interested in, isn't it?

MS. FISK: Jenkins.

THE COURT: Or Jenkins. Even after all that I am getting confused.

MR. WILLIAMS: All right, well, let's do that.

THE COURT: Yes, I wish you would.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. We have this woman Pamela Jenkins who you say you arrested, right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. That is not what he said.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. That you took into custody; correct?

A. I transported.

Page 241.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

Q. Okay. Now, that is not the last time you've had any dealings with Pamela Jenkins, true?

A. Could you be more specific?

Q. Well, let me ask you: Have you ever had any dealings with Pamela Jenkins after this whatever you want to call it, taking Ms. Jenkins into custody for truancy, have you had dealings with her after that?

A. In what respect, sir?

Q. In any respect, sir. Have you had any dealings whatsoever with Pamela Jenkins after taking her into custody in 1982?

A. Yes.

Q. Why don't you describe to the Court what kinds of dealings you've had with her since that date?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, it is an open-ended question.

THE COURT: Wait a while.

MS. FISK: I understand it is an open-ended question. Ms. Jenkins' testimony which was offered by the defense was that it was several months after she first met Officer Ryan that she became his informant and several demands were placed upon her and that she had further conversations. The clear, unequivocal evidence based on documents and records that have been presented this afternoon shows that that contact with Ms. Jenkins occurred, first contact on June the l0th, 1982. And I would note that the Court records reflect that the trial against Mr. Jamal began on June the lst, 1982, and was completed in the early part of July 1982.

Page 242.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

Based upon that, any contact that former officer Ryan had with Ms. Jenkins thereafter is absolutely irrelevant and has no bearing on the testimony which she presented, which she claimed -- though clearly incorrectly -- all took place prior to the trial.

THE COURT: So she didn't present any testimony at the trial?

MS. FISK: No, no, at today's proceeding.

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, that is all very nice, but we have testimony under oath from this officer who says that he has known Ms. Jenkins five years prior to September of 1986. My calculation is --

Page 243.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

THE COURT: I am not interested in what happened after that, I am only interested in what she said today.

MR. WILLIAMS: That's what I am exploring.

THE COURT: Well, explore that. Ask him a definite question on that.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Has Ms. Jenkins ever been an informant for you?

A. Yes.

Q. Has she ever been a paid informant for you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were asked questions about this so-called professional relationship you had with Ms. Jenkins back in 1988, the Carter case; isn't that true?

A. Could you refresh my memory?

Q. Well, do you recall being asked this question and giving this answer in his 1988 trial? Did you have a professional relationship -- referring to Ms. Jenkins -- has she provided you with information in other cases.

Answer: Yes.

Does that refresh your recollection?

Page 244.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

A. I don't recall that from, from my mind right now.

Q. You recall that she has given you information on a variety of cases: True?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is she the only prostitute that you used for information?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. How long has she been an informant for you?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: It looks to me like you are on a fishing expedition.

MR. WILLIAMS: No, I am not.

THE COURT: Now, wait a while. He is your witness, now ask direct questions.

MR. WILLIAMS: That is about as direct as you can get.

THE COURT: I know but there is no end --

MR. WILLIAMS: Do you want me to lead the witness? I will be glad to do that.

THE COURT: If that's the only way you can get your witness to testify I guess you will

Page 245.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

have to.

MS. FISK: I would object to Counsel leading the witness, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. How long was she your informant?

THE COURT: I sustained an objection to that, didn't I?

MR. WILLIAMS: That is a direct question, Judge. You asked me to give a direct question.

MS. FISK: And my objection is based on relevance, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Judge, it is relevant as to Ms. Jenkins' credibility. Ms. Jenkins came in and told you she was an informant for this man. Now I will bolster this testimony through the testimony of Mr. Ryan.

THE COURT: Why don't you limit it to a specific time so he could answer you.

MR. WILLIAMS: I will get to it.

THE COURT: Well, get to it right now. It is almost 4:30. I will cut you off if you don't.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. During what period of time was she an

Page 246.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

informant for you?

A. The 1980's.

Q. Now, was this pursuant to a policy or a practice within the 39th District?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Or was this an independent judgment on your part to use her as an informant?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain that objection. We all know what informants are.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I want to know if it was through some kind of policy with the Police Department.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you ask the Police Department.

MR. WILLIAMS: I have got a representative from the Police Department here.

MS. FISK: No, you don't.

THE COURT: No.

MR. WILLIAMS: He may be discredited but he would know.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Why, he would know, he is in a position to know.

Page 247.

MS. FISK: He is in a position to know what he did with regard to Ms. Jenkins and that is the relevancy for this proceeding.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Okay, and did you do what you did with respect to Ms. Jenkins as a result of a directive or your own volition?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let's hear the basis for that one.

MS. FISK: The testimony has to be about Ms. Jenkins and her assertions that this person as an officer made allegations or tried to force her to do things, and that is the purpose for which he is being presented by the defense. Not his policy, not his practice, not his contact with other persons, but his contact with Ms. Jenkins in regard to her testimony regarding asking her to testify or trying to get her to testify or identify Mr. Jamal as the person who shot Officer Faulkner.

MR. BURNS: In short, there is no foundation.

THE COURT: Why don't you limit yourself to that, Counselor. That's what Ms.

Page 248.

Jenkins said, so. If you want him to substantiate her, why don't you ask it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. First of all, when you were using her as an informant through the '80s as you testified, you also knew that she was a prostitute, true?

A. At one point, yes.

Q. Well, you say at one point. What do you mean by that?

A. Well, at another point in time I didn't know she was a prostitute.

Q. You came to learn that she was a prostitute?

A. From time to time, that's correct. When her addiction got severe.

Q. Did any superior officers know that you were using her as an informant?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WILLIAMS: Of course there is an objection. Anytime we seem to be probing into areas that might be of danger to the Commonwealth we hear an objection.

THE COURT: Probe somewhere else. You are here for a specific purpose. Stick to that purpose.

Page 249.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. How did you, when you began using Ms. Jenkins as an informant, how did you get her to agree to be an informant for you?

A. She would come forward and supply information regarding criminal activity.

Q. And what would you do with that information?

A. Try to corroborate it.

Q. Okay. And would you pass it on to other officers?

A. If it was warranted.

Q. And in a serious case like a murder case, if she says that she has information you would pass it on to a detective, wouldn't you?

A. That's correct .--

Q. And you did that in the Carter case, for example?

A. That's correct.

Q. You passed on Ms. Jenkins and you introduced her to a Detective Settle, I believe it is?

A. That's correct, sir.

Q. Now, since we are on that subject in connection with the investigation in the Carter case, where you brought Ms. Jenkins to see another detective, were there ever occasions where Ms.

Page 250.

Jenkins would call you for assistance?

A. What do you mean by assistance, sir?

Q. Well, did she ever call you to say she needed help from you?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. And did you, did you have the understanding that she trusted you?

A. To some degree.

Q. And did you make efforts to cultivate that trust in her?

A. Not necessarily.

Q. Well, were you nice to her?

A. I tried to be nice to everybody, sir.

Q. Did you give her money on occasion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever buy her clothes?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever attempt to get her lodging, such as an apartment?

MS. FISK: May I ask what period of time we are referring to, Your Honor?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. During the time that she was an informant for you?

A. No, sir.

Page 251.

Q. Did you trust Pamela Jenkins?

A. As I stated, to a certain degree.

Q. Did you find that she was reliable?

A. On occasion.

Q. Were there occasions where you found that she was unreliable?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you determine that she was unreliable?

A. When her addiction became severe.

Q. And when was that?

A. The late '80s.

Q. Now, let me see. You understand that Pamela Jenkins provided information to Federal authorities against you and your partner Jack Baird, right?

A. I don't know exactly what she supplied, sir.

Q. You never came to learn that she had supplied information to Federal authorities against you and your partner Jack Baird?

A. Yes, but I don't know what it was.

Q. But you know that she did?

A. I just stated yes.

Q. Okay. And you understood that your partner Jack Baird had paid Pamela Jenkins to lie under oath: True?

Page 252.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WILLIAMS: That was encompassed by Ms. Jenkins' testimony this morning, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: I believe Your Honor barred the testimony regarding actions by Jack Baird which caused Ms. Jenkins to do the things, properly limiting Ms. Jenkins to her contacts with Mr. Ryan.

MR. WILLIAMS: Let me establish the foundation.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Ryan, did you ever introduce Pamela Jenkins to your partner Jack Baird?

A. No.

Q. How did Jack Baird come to know Pamela Jenkins?

A. From the street in the 39th District.

Q. Was Pamela Jenkins also an informant for your partner Jack Baird?

A. I don't have independent knowledge of that.

Q. Did you know that your partner was giving money to Pamela Jenkins?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He said he didn't know what the relationship was between Baird and that.

MS. FISK: And it is also irrelevant, Your Honor, and has nothing to do with Ms. Jenkins' testimony of this morning having to do with contacts which she claims she had with Mr. Ryan prior in fact to his becoming a police officer or her ever entering Gratz High School.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Mr. Ryan, wouldn't it be fair to say that you would not give money to, to an individual to lie under oath if you didn't trust that person?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain that objection.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, when you have informants, you have to trust those informants; isn't that true?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. You are getting -- where are we going?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I am establishing Ms. Jenkins' credibility here.

THE COURT: How?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, you will see how in a minute.

Page 254.

THE COURT: Right. Well, get into it, then. Why are you going into all of this about trusting somebody? How could you ever trust anybody? Especially a prostitute.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, you trusted --

THE COURT: And somebody taking dope.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You trusted her enough to give her money: True?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: How do you get information without giving them money?

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Isn't it true you gave her money because you trusted her?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILLIAMS: Could we get an answer from the witness?

THE COURT: She is objecting to the question. I will sustain the objection. I was just trying to tell you what the situation was, but okay. But you don't want it. Okay.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Page 255.

Q. The information she gave you, for example in the Carter case, turned out to be reliable; isn't that true?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Counselor, what are we doing with the Carter case? I am not concerned one bit about the Carter case. I have got this case here. And that's enough of a headache for me. I am not going to worry about what they did in Carter. I didn't sit on that case, I don't have the slightest idea what went on there. And I don't care what went on there. I am only interested in this case. Limit yourself to what he did in this case. If you can.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. You had used Pamela Jenkins as a source of information prior to the Carter case; isn't that true.

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, do you know a detective by the name of Richard Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. And he is a detective with the Central district, Central Division, pardon me?

A. I don't know.

Page 256.

Q. Well, how do you know Detective Ryan?

A. I met him sometime in 1988 and he processed a burglary arrest that I made.

Q. And that's the extent of your knowledge of Mr. Ryan, of Detective Ryan?

A. That's it, sir.

Q. So I take it that Detective Ryan has never come up in conversations between you and Pamela Jenkins; is that your testimony?

A. As I just stated, my only contact was him processing a burglary arrest sometime around 1988.

Q. All right, so I could take from that that you have never discussed a Detective Richard Ryan with Pamela Jenkins?

A. That's correct.

Q. So I take it that you have never heard Pamela Jenkins say anything negative about a Detective Richard Ryan; isn't that true?

A. I've never heard Pamela Jenkins say anything positive or negative about the detective.

Q. So you can't say that Pamela Jenkins harbors any animosity towards this Detective Ryan, right?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MS. FISK: I believe the question has been answered.

Page 257.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, isn't it also true that in addition to receiving information from Pamela Jenkins, that you also had a sexual relationship with her?

A. A brief one.

Q. And when did that occur?

A. In 1984.

Q. That was the subject, your sexual relationship with Pamela Jenkins, in your dealings with the Federal authorities in connection with your arrest?

A. Was it?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know.

Q. Isn't it a fact that when you were arrested you were debriefed by an FBI agent?

A. Regarding?

Q. Regarding your activities as a police officer.

A. That's correct.

Q. And that FBI agent is James Williamson, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And there was a police investigator named James Dambach: D-A-M-B-A-C-H?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you recall being debriefed by them?

Page 258.

A. Yes.

Q. And as part of the debriefing was your sexual relationship with Pamela Jenkins: True?

A. That's correct.

Q. And part of your debriefing by this FBI agent was her use as an informant: True?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in fact, part of your debriefing also involved the use of prostitutes as informants in general?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Isn't that true?

MS. FISK: That is irrelevant to this proceeding.

THE COURT: Objection is sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, let's put it this way. Your use of Pamela Jenkins as an informant was not something unique within the Police Department: That's fair to say?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Whether it is fair or not it is not relevant.

THE COURT: You better get another question someplace, forget that one.

Page 259.

MR. WILLIAMS: Sustained, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, isn't it also a fact that you told the Federal authorities -- specifically FBI Agent James Williamson and police investigator James Dambach -- that you had been having sex with and paying for information since she was 15 years old? Isn't that true?

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall that, okay. You don't recall the details of what you told FBI Agent Williamson?

A. That's correct.

Q. But you might have told him, you just don't recall, that you had been having sex with Pamela Jenkins and paying for information since she was 15?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain the objection. He said he doesn't recall it. That's enough.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that Pamela Jenkins was 15 years old in 1981?

Page 260.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Boner.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. To your knowledge.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I believe that everyone is capable of counting from September lst, 1965 and figuring out exactly each and every day since then how old Ms. Jenkins has been.

MR. WILLIAMS: Okay. I think we can all agree.

THE COURT: Rephrase your question. Get more specific if you want to bring something out.

MR. WILLIAMS: I think we could all agree she was 15 in 1981.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. So is it a coincidence, officer, that under sworn testimony you indicate that you have known Ms. Jenkins since September of 1981, and then in a debriefing with FBI Agent Williamson you told him that you had began having sex with her and using her as an informant since she was 15? Is that a coincidence?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: There is no foundation for that question.

Page 261.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Well, does it help your recollection as to what you told FBI Agent Williamson regarding use of her as an informant and having sex with her since she was 15, that you testified under oath that you had known her since 1981 when she was 15 (displaying)? Does that help your recollection?

A. As my recollection is refreshed, I first met Pamela Jenkins on that truancy stop on June the l0th, 1982.

Q. So you're saying that when you said you knew Pamela Jenkins essentially since September of 1981 under oath in Raymond Carter's trial, that you testified falsely? Is that what you are saying now?

A. I don't recall that, sir.

Q. Well, if that's what it says here in black and white, you would say that that testimony under oath is false (displaying)?

MS. FISK: It could also be a mistake, Your Honor. I object to the form of that question.

THE COURT: Sustained. Anybody could make a mistake, Counselor. You make mistakes too.

Page 262.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, leaving aside whether you were mistaken as to your testimony under oath in the Carter case about your relationship with Pamela Jenkins, is it possible that you were also mistaken when you told the FBI that you had been having a relationship with her since she was 15?

THE COURT: I think we went through that.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I am getting tired of that. How many times are you going to bring that story up?

MR. WILLIAMS: As many times as it takes to get an answer.

MS. FISK: I believe it has been answered appropriately.

THE COURT: Hey, look, it's almost five o'clock. If you think I am going to stay here until midnight you're crazy. I am not going to stay here until midnight. Now let's get moving.

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, tomorrow is another day.

Page 263.

THE COURT: Yes, so is Monday.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, is it your testimony that you have never heard of a prostitute named Lucky?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, that's been asked and answered. I object to it being asked again.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am just reorienting the witness.

THE COURT: Don't reorient him. He knows. What question do you want to ask him? Let's be specific. What do you want to ask him?

MR. WILLIAMS: Well, I want to ask him that question, Judge.

THE COURT: Well, that question has already been answered. Ask whatever you want but let's get to it.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Did you know of any other prostitutes who were friendly with Pamela Jenkins during the course of your relationship with her?

A. No, not off the top of my mind.

Q. There could be, you just don't recall?

THE COURT: He said not off the top of his mind. Isn't that enough for you? Come on.

Page 264.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Now, back in December of 1981, early 1981, did you come to learn of the shooting death of Officer Faulkner?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you come to learn of that?

A. The news media.

Q. And did you then attempt to gather information on your own to assist in the investigation?

A. Counselor, at the time of Officer Faulkner's murder, I was in the Police Academy.

Q. No, I understand that, but the question is did you attempt to gather information in connection with that murder?

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, it certainly wouldn't hurt your career if you turned up information concerning that crime, right?

MS. FISK: And, Your Honor, if he found the aliens that landed in Arizona 50 years ago that would probably make him a media star too, but he has answered the question.

THE COURT: Yes. Come on, Counselor, stop playing around with this.

Page 265.

MR. WILLIAMS: I am going into questions that are directly relevant here.

THE COURT: He told you he was in the Academy then. What authority did he have to do anything? He wasn't an officer then yet.

MS. FISK: He also answered that he did not. Whether he should have or could have is not the issue. He did not, and that was answered by the witness.

BY MR. WILLIAMS:

Q. Are you denying, sir, that you introduced Pamela Jenkins to Detective Richard Ryan?

MS. FISK: I would note again, Your Honor, my objection. This is direct examination. That is an improper question on direct examination.

THE COURT: He is supposed to be your witness. You called him as a witness. What, has he suddenly become somebody else's witness?

MR. WILLIAMS: No, it is just that I seem to be blocked at every juncture by the Court asking questions of my witness.

THE COURT: Counselor, take it up with the Supreme Court. Now, come on, I am asking you for the last time. Or we will continue this until Monday, I don't care. Do you want to come back in Monday?

MR. WILLIAMS: I will take whatever time I need to get at the truth, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, why don't we come back Monday, then. All right. You want to come back Monday? It is almost a quarter of 5:00.

MR. WILLIAMS: We will do whatever it takes to get at the truth, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Fine. Let's come back Monday. Monday morning back at this Court.

MR. WEINGLASS: What about tomorrow?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: What about tomorrow?

THE COURT: Tomorrow I have the day off, okay. I am taking a day off. I need it after this.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands adjourned until Monday morning.

THE COURT: Monday.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Mr. Jamal needs to be housed in this area.

THE COURT: Take it up with the Sheriff, he knows where to take him.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

Page 267.

THE COURT OFFICER: This Court now stands adjourned until Monday morning, 10:00 a.m. at the call of the Crier.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, on Friday morning, on Friday morning I spoke to U.S. Attorney Joel Goldstein who prosecuted the 39th District cases requesting authentic copies of the interview statements of Tom Ryan, the witness, and Pamela Jenkins. He said that under the Federal Secrecy Act he could not provide me -- this is the U.S. Attorney Goldstein said he could not provide me these statements. However, he told me that at a non-public proceeding he had been ordered to give them to Arlene Fisk and had in fact given these statements to her on Thursday morning. He said he thought we would be able to get the documents from Ms. Fisk, and from the conversation it was my understanding that he meant that he expected that we were entitled to get them from Ms. Fisk. But we also have subpoenaed those documents from the Assistant District Attorney because we have not in the past been able to rely on their fulfilling those obligations.

Under our subpoena, the Brady doctrine, and Commonwealth versus Ulen, we are entitled to receive these statements of Mr. Ryan and Ms. Jenkins, and we request that they be produced pursuant to our subpoena.

MS. FISK: Your Honor has previously ruled that Rule 305 discovery does not apply in PCRA proceedings. And Counsel cannot do by way of subpoena what they are not due by way of discovery. This was not documents that related to Brady, there was no exculpatory material in them, they were not even mainly the statements of a witness, they are merely summaries of reports of FBI agents based on matters completely unrelated to this one.

For that reason I ask that the discovery request be denied and the subpoena served upon us for discovery of these documents be quashed.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, as we have noted, even the recent Bracey case indicates the --

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not going to waste time. I will make a decision, you take it back up to the Supreme Court. If they want to give you the information, fine. But I am not going to get involved in all of that. Okay. It is denied. The subpoena is quashed.

Thomas F. Ryan, having been duly sworn,
was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Ryan, good morning.

A. Good morning.

Q. Are you still a police officer of the City of Philadelphia?

A. No, sir.

Q. When did you cease being a police officer?

A. 1991.

Q. And was that as a result of a resignation on your part?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, when you appeared here last Thursday, you knew you were going to be testifying in this case about matters that have occurred some 15 or 16 years ago: isn't that true?

A. I wasn't sure what I was going to be testifying to, sir.

Q. Did you review any records or statements or documents prior to your appearance here last Thursday?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have any conversations prior to your taking the stand last Thursday with representatives of the District Attorney's Office?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have any conversations prior to taking the stand with members of the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who did you have a conversation with?

A. Detective Walsh.

Q. And is he seated here in Court today?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. As a matter of fact, did you have a conversation with Detective Walsh this morning?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And aside from your conversation with Detective Walsh -- was that last Thursday? Or was that prior to last Thursday? Your first conversation

Page 7.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

with Detective Walsh.

A. Prior.

Q. What day was that?

A. I don't recall.

Q. It was just last Thursday, you don't remember what day before last Thursday?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge.

THE COURT: He said he didn't so let's proceed. Come on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You can't recall a conversation last week but you do recall events that happened in 1982?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge: That is not what he said.

THE COURT: Well, your witness had the same thing, Pamela Jenkins. Her memory wasn't too good either.

MS. FISK: And I would note, Your Honor, that this is also their witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when you spoke with Detective Walsh the first time, what did you talk about?

A. Coming to Court.

Q. And did you talk about what you were coming to Court for?

Page 8.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

A. Yes; your private investigator served me a subpoena.

Q. And did you talk to Detective Walsh about anything to do with Pamela Jenkins?

A. Just that she would be testifying in Court.

Q. And did Detective Walsh and you talk about your relationship with Pamela Jenkins?

A. No.

Q. Did not? Did Detective Walsh and you review any documents or testimony?

A. Yes.

Q. What documents or testimony did you review?

A. The statement of Pamela Jenkins from January the 9th, 1997.

Q. Did you and Detective Walsh review any statement or statements that you might have made?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, how long did you talk to Detective Walsh?

A. Approximately an hour.

Q. And in that hour, recall for us as best you can what was discussed?

A. Within that hour we discussed what I have been doing since 1991. What he has been doing. We discussed his house. Umm... and I read the statement.

Page 9.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

Q. And did you discuss the statement?

A. No, I just read it.

Q. And after you read it you and Detective Walsh had no discussion about the statement; is that correct?

A. No, he just offered it to me to read.

Q. And after you read it, you and he had no discussion about that statement; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you indicate to him that it was true or untrue?

A. Sir, we didn't discuss it. He handed it to me, he said this is the statement of Pamela Jenkins, and he asked me to review it and I read the statement.

Q. And you had no reaction that you gave to him verbally?

A. No, I just read it.

Q. Okay. And aside from Detective Walsh, did you meet with any other police officers prior to testifying last Thursday?

A. No.

Q. You just came to Court and you took the stand when called and testified without meeting any other police officers?

Page 10.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

A. Sir, when you say meeting, could you define that for me?

Q. I mean face to face.

THE COURT: Well, he is asking you, do you mean discussing this case or what? He may have said hello to somebody. Be more specific.

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. On this floor did you have occasion to be in a room with other police officers?

A. Yes. In this room.

Q. Pardon me?

A. In this room.

Q. Right, and any other room?

A. In the building generally.

Q. Right.

A. The building's full of police officers, sir.

Q. Right. But you didn't have any meeting with other police officers relative to this case?

A. No.

Q. All right. And when you took the stand last Thursday you were wearing a button, were you not?

A. Yes.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 11.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

And what did that button say?

THE COURT: Sustained.

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained. I am not interested in a button.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to the bias of the witness.

THE COURT: No, it doesn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness was wearing a button for Officer Faulkner. Now, when a witness comes into this Courtroom and testifies and has a button for one side, that should go on the record.

THE COURT: Why didn't you tell him to take it off?

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no authority to do that.

THE COURT: It is your witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no authority.

THE COURT: It is your witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness was wearing a button for Officer Faulkner.

THE COURT: All right, he was wearing a button. But let's -- I'm not here to hear all about his life. I am not concerned about his life.

MR. WEINGLASS: You are the Judge that is going to --

THE COURT: I am only here to hear what he had to do with the Mumia case. If he had nothing to do with the Mumia case, I don't want to hear about his case. Somebody else heard that case.

MR. WEINGLASS: You have to judge his credibility.

THE COURT: I could judge his credibility without that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Without knowing a bias?

THE COURT: Without that, Counselor.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think we can all agree he was wearing the button to Court.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. Unless Mr. Weinglass would like to testify, Your Honor, and subject himself to cross-examination, we can't agree with anything Counsel says.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am being blocked from questioning a witness and I have to put it on the record.

THE COURT: No, you could get on this stand, swear to tell the truth and tell under oath that you saw a button on him and what he was wearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: And I am not allowed to ask him that?

THE COURT: No.

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay.

THE COURT: That's what she is saying: She says you are making statements that can't be challenged.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, prior to today's hearing you met with Detective Walsh again, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you discuss anything about your testimony?

A. No, not about my testimony.

Q. How long did you meet with him?

A. We spoke for about ten minutes.

Q. Now, if I understand your testimony correctly, prior to today you talked to Detective Walsh for about an hour and 10 minutes total. Have you talked to anybody from the District Attorney's Office prior to today?

A. Prior to today, no.

Q. Prior to Thursday?

Page 14.

A. No.

Q. Have you talked to any representatives of the defense?

A. When?

Q. Prior to today.

A. Only your private investigator.

Q. And when was that?

A. When he served me the subpoena.

Q. And how long did you talk to him?

A. About ten minutes.

Q. And did he ask you any questions relative to your testimony?

A. Not at that time. When he came to my door the second time he did.

Q. And what was your response to that?

A. Tell the attorneys to ask me on the witness stand.

Q. In other words, you refused to talk to him about your testimony?

MS. FISK: Objection.

THE COURT: Counselor.

MS. FISK: Asked --

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. He told you what he said. It is not for you to interpret it.

Page 15.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, Mr. Ryan, would it be fair to say that you favor the District Attorney's Office in this hearing over the defense?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, would it also be fair to say that your recollection of the events about which you have been questioned on Thursday was better nine years ago than it was last Thursday?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I object to the form of the question, only because it is overly broad: The events of nine years ago. There have been no events that have been admitted to by this witness. I object to the form.

MR. WEINGLASS: Counsel misheard my question, unfortunately.

THE COURT: I would suggest that you rephrase your question. Lay the groundwork if you have any.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, you testified Thursday about events that happened in 1982; isn't that correct?

A. Yes, there was testimony about 1982.

Page 16.

Q. And you gave that testimony?

A. I responded to questions regarding 1990 -- 1982.

Q. Okay. Nine years ago in 1988 was your recollection better about events in 1982 than it is today?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know if you recalled events of 1982 better in 1988 than you do in 1997?

A. Sir, if you could tell me specific events maybe that would help me recall.

Q. Right, I am just asking you in general?

A. You're asking me about a chronological year, do I recall events from nine years ago?

Q. No. Again, I am asking you about your recall of events in 1982, was it better in 1988 than it is today?

A. Again I say I don't know.

Q. In other words, you think your recollection has improved in the last nine years?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge. Perhaps Counsel doesn't understand the meaning of I don't know but it is fairly clear and I object. He has answered the question.

THE COURT: Objection is sustained.

Page 17.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Is your recollection better today than it was in 1988?

MS. FISK: Objection, Judge: Asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained. Please, this is not a guessing game. If you have something specific to ask give it to him. Don't expect him to answer general questions like that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, in 1988 you did testify under oath; isn't that correct?

THE COURT: In which case? What are you talking about?

THE WITNESS: I was a police officer, I went to Court a lot in 1988.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In the Carter case you testified --

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not interested in the Carter case. I don't care what he did in the Carter case. I want to know what he did in this case, the Mumia case. That's all I am interested in.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In 1988, in the case of Commonwealth V Carter,

Page 18.

did you testify?

THE COURT: I just said I am not interested in the Carter case.

MS. FISK: And, Your Honor, I would note for the record that questions with regard to Officer Thomas Ryan's testimony in 1988 were asked and answered on direct examination on Friday before we broke. Notes of testimony were read from, referred to, they are on the record. And just because Counsel wants to ask them again doesn't mean he has a right to. These questions are asked and answered, that area has been covered.

THE COURT: I am not going to go over it a second time. I am not here, you are not here to delay this Court or the Supreme Court. They want a reply immediately and I am going to give it to them.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, have you given sworn testimony previous to today about your relationship with Pamela Jenkins who testified in this hearing?

(Pause)

A. I'm not sure if I have or not.

Q. Right. I want to show you, then, you're testimony about Pamela Jenkins in which you were asked this question.

Page 19.

How long had you known Pamela Jenkins as of September --

MS. FISK: I have another objection: This is asked and answered.

THE COURT: It's already been asked and answered.

MS. FISK: On Thursday.

THE COURT: Objection is sustained. Strike it from the record.

Now, come on, Counselor, you are wasting my time.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, you were also questioned, were you not, about Pamela Jenkins who testified in this hearing in another proceeding in 1996, that was last year, in a deposition that you gave in a civil suit?

A. What is your question, Counselor?

Q. Were you questioned about Pamela Jenkins in 1996 in a deposition that you gave in a civil suit?

A. Specifically, I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall that deposition either?

A. If you have the information I would be glad to review it.

Page 20.

Q. Do you recall giving a deposition?

A. Sir, I have given many depositions.

Q. Do you recall giving a deposition in 1996 about Pamela Jenkins?

THE COURT: Is it in reference to Mumia?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is about Pamela Jenkins.

THE COURT: I don't care about Pamela Jenkins. Was it about Mumia?

MR. WEINGLASS: It was about his relationship with Pamela Jenkins.

THE COURT: I am not interested in his relationship. I already know what his relationship was: He was sleeping with her. So what..

MR. WEINGLASS: It was about when it began, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I don't care when it began or when it ended.

MR. WEINGLASS: That issue is very much a factor.

THE COURT: No, it is not a factor. If he didn't talk to her about Mumia, I am not interested in it.

Page 21.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, in this Courtroom Mr. Jamal is Mr. Jamal. I think it is extremely disrespectful for the Court to refer to the Defendant by his first name.

THE COURT: Well, it's the only name I could remember offhand.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It is Mr. Jamal. Mumia --

THE COURT: Mumia Abu-Jamal, okay. If it is not about that I am not interested.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Do you remember saying under oath in 1996 that you first met Pamela Jenkins in 1983?

A. No, I don't remember that, sir.

Q. I want to show you this testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness --

THE COURT: Is this important when he met her?

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, it is, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, was Mumia's case over with?

MR. WEINGLASS: It is important because Pamela Jenkins said she met him in '81.

THE COURT: I don't care what she said.

MR. WEINGLASS: That's why he brought her down to Richard Ryan three days after it occurred for an interview. When he testified he said that he met her in '82, which we contend is false. Previously he had said under oath that he met her in '81 and now a second time under oath he says he met her in '83.

THE COURT: So what, people have lapses of memory. You're own witness Pamela Jones, she couldn't -- I mean Pamela Jenkins -- she couldn't remember everything either when it came to dates.

MR. WEINGLASS: She remembered the date that they met.

MS. FISK: She also remembered seeing a dead woman three months ago, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You see. You see what you are up against. People have lapses of memory as far as dates. And that's not going to help me in deciding this case. If you want to argue that to the Supreme Court, fine, be my guest. But I don't want to get involved in unnecessary discussions in this matter.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, peoples' lapse of memory is a factor the Court should consider in determining whether or not they are credible.

THE COURT: I know that, I realize that people have lapse of memory, but when they come up with specific evidence like a death certificate, well, you know, I don't have any trouble with her testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, you might after you hear the rebuttal to it. But --

THE COURT: Let me tell you this: I am not going to get too far into rebuttal. Because if you wanted further, to present further testimony, you go back to the Supreme Court and get permission. I am here specifically for what they said here in their Order and I am not going to go beyond that. If you need to go beyond that, go back up to the Supreme Court.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Following up on the Court's observations: Would it be fair to say, Mr. Ryan, that your recollection of when you met Pamela Jenkins today is not very clear?

A. No, my recollection today is very clear.

Q. And when is that date?

Page 24.

A. That date is June the l0th, 1982.

Q. Do you remember saying under oath that it was '83?

A. No, I don't, sir.

Q. Do you remember saying under oath that it was '81?

A. No, I don't, sir.

Q. Okay, let me show you your sworn testimony.

MR. WEINGLASS: May the witness be handed this document. Which is the sworn testimony of Thomas F. Ryan, June 3rd, 1996, in the matter of the 39th Police District.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. I refer you to page 347, the testimony that's highlighted, where you indicated that you met her in '83 (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

MS. FISK: Thank you (handing).

Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Okay, do you remember, reading the highlighted portions, being asked this question under oath?

Page 25.

How did Pamela Jenkins become an informant for you.

Answer: Way back in around 1983, early '83, I was still in 3 squad in uniform working the patrol wagon, and she was one of a number of juveniles arrested at Gratz -- G-R-A-T-Z -- High School for truancy. And she lived in the neighborhood in Tioga. And after that would contact me and/or my partner regarding criminal activity in the street.

Do you remember being asked that question and giving that answer?

A. I don't remember it but this refreshes my, ahh, my recollection.

Q. Did you indicate then in '83?

A. Yes; specifically I said in around 1983.

Q. Right.

A. Which was an approximation.

Q. Right, and then you qualified it to say early 1983?

A. That's another approximation.

Q. Right.

A. Yes.

Q. And was it also an approximation when you told the Carter jury in 1988 that it was 1981 that you had met her, was that an approximation?

A. I don't believe I testified 1981.

Q. You said you have known her for five years as of September 1986. Doesn't that bring it back to September of 1981?

A. You said that I testified that I met her in 1981. That was not my testimony.

Q. The question was how long had you known Pamela Jenkins as of September of 1986. Having heard that question, your answer was five years. Do you remember that question and answer?

A. Yes; that's an error.

Q. That was an error?

A. That's an error: 1981.

Q. Right. And this one that you gave in 1996 when you said around '83, that was also an error?

A. No, this was an approximation.

Q. That is an approximation?

A. Around. I was asked this question in '96.

Q. Right.

A. And I answered around 1983.

Q. Right. So, Mr. Ryan, we have one approximation and one error with respect to when you met Pamela Jenkins; is that correct?

A. Along with one fact. When my memory -- my recollection was brought back clearly through the 75-48 that was provided on Thursday, and also the testimony of Lieutenant Clarkson who was my partner at the time when I met Pamela Jenkins. That refreshed my memory on Thursday.

Q. Right. But Officer Clarkson didn't say that's when you met her. He said that's when you and he arrested her?

A. Yes, sir, that is the information that refreshed my memory.

Q. Is it your testimony you never arrested her prior to that time?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. I would ask that the word arrest not be used. There was an argument with regard to that.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness just used it. The witness used it.

THE COURT: Well, he used it because you have been using it.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I will withdraw my objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In 1996, when you were questioned in that document that's right before you --

Page 28.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- didn't you say there that you arrested Pamela Jenkins?

A. Yes, I used that term.

Q. Right. Okay. And you did arrest her, didn't you?

A. I transported her to the 39th District. Now, it was an arrest, to what definition of arrest are you referring?

Q. You are the police officer, you used the word arrest?

A. Okay, Counselor --

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I note that this is direct examination. And I have not yet heard a question that did not have an answer suggested, and I would object.

THE COURT: He is your witness, you know. You called him. I will sustain the objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, it's true, is it not, Mr. Ryan, that we have your testimony last Thursday that you met, you arrest her in '82, we have your testimony in '96 that it was '83, we have your testimony in '88 that it was '81?

Page 29.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I impose an objection to this form of question. This is direct examination, Counsel is providing testimony.

THE COURT: I will sustain the objection.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Let me just ask you this question. Did you take -- did you transport Pamela Jenkins prior to June 10th of 1982 in a vehicle?

A. No, sir.

Q. And what have you examined by way of other documents that makes your recollection certain of that fact?

A. I just testified to what refreshed my memory on Thursday. The 75-48 from that incident on June l0th, 1982, and the testimony of Lieutenant Clarkson, who was my partner on that date.

Q. Incidentally, on that date, according to your testimony in 1996, she was one of a number of juveniles who were taken into the vehicle at that time; is that correct?

A. That's correct, sir.

Q. Was there ever a time when you had picked up Pamela Jenkins and she was alone, prior to June 1982?

Page 30.

A. No, sir, that was the date that I met her.

Q. How many other juveniles were there, if you can recall, that were picked up?

A. Sir, that would only be a guess at this point.

Q.You can't recall?

A. Not matter of factly, no.

Q. Would it be more than five or fewer than five?

THE COURT: He said he can't guess.

MR. WEINGLASS: I am trying to assist the witness.

THE COURT: Don't try to assist him. He is your witness. And you called him, you're bound by his answers.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, that's why I am trying to assist him.

THE COURT: Well, you don't have to assist him, he is your witness. Just ask him questions. But don't ask him to guess. Would you remember how many people you defended back in 1982? Of course you wouldn't.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness indicated his recollection was refreshed on Thursday.

THE COURT: Well, it was refreshed because they had the 94 -- what do they call it?

MS. FISK: 75-48, Your Honor.

Page 31.

THE COURT: 48.

MS. FISK: It is Commonwealth Exhibit 7.

THE COURT: Sure that's what refreshed his memory. Because that was taken down right at the time of the incident.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Before becoming a police officer you were a correction officer: is that true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when did you start becoming a correction officer?

A. I was only a correction officer for six months. I had gone into there and finished their training and then resigned from there and went to the Police Department.

Q. And what six months, do you recall?

A. Six months prior to my starting the Police Academy.

Q. And that would be six months prior to August of 1981?

A. That's correct.

Q. And at that time when you were a correction officer you were issued a badge; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Page 32.

Q. And you had that badge since June 22nd, 1981; isn't that correct?

A. Somewhere around there, sir, I don't remember matter of factly.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let me assist you with this document if I may. It is defense 5. It may be shown to Counsel.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

MS. FISK: Thank you.

(Philadelphia Prisons record was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-5 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: Judge, would you like this?

THE COURT: No.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Looking at the one-page document that is defense 5, does that refresh your recollection that on June 22nd, 1981 you were issued a badge?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you signed for it. Did you ever sign that you returned that badge, by the way?

Page 33.

A. I don't know. I returned it when I resigned from the prison system.

Q. Does the document indicate that you returned the badge?

A. No, this says issues receipt.

Q. Does it have a column for returned?

A. Sir, it says issued receipt and that's all it refers to is issues.

Q. There is no column there for -- isn't there a column, Mr. Ryan, that says date returned?

A. Okay, I'm sorry. Yes, -- 8-14-81.

Q. Mr. Ryan, on that document D-5 you never returned that badge, isn't that true, according to the document?

A. Well, according to the document I signed for it and it is initialed by the person that received it from me.

Q. Okay. But the box for date returned is blank?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Now, in 1981 you were what age?

A. 25.

Q. And prior to working as a correction officer what was your employment?

A. I was district manager for the Philadelphia Inquirer newspaper.

Page 34.

Q. Okay. And prior to that?

A. I was at that occupation since 1977.

Q. How long were you district manager -- what do you mean by district manager?

A. I was district manager in the circulation department.

Q. Is that for delivery of newspapers?

A. Yes, circulation department, sir.

Q. I see. So you were a manager of delivery system for the newspaper?

A. Part of it, yes.

Q. Right. And you had left college?

A. Yes.

Q. In 1977?

A. Yes.

Q. After one year at Penn State?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do you recall if you applied to become a police officer prior to being a correction officer?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And could you explain to the Court how that happened, you applied to be a police officer and then you became a correction officer while your application was being considered?

A. No, sir, I --

Page 35.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I impose an objection. This is simply irrelevant.

THE COURT: Yes. I suppose he maybe filed a lot of applications for a police officer, different departments, different counties. So what. We are only interested in Philadelphia here since that's where he became a police officer.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When you said you applied, you applied in Philadelphia; is that correct?

A. Yes, that was an application I submitted.

Q. And that was your only, you only applied here in Philadelphia?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It is irrelevant.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. I don't know where this is going, but...

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you rejected by any other police department?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 36.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

Q. Now, the testimony that's in front of you, which is your, your testimony in 1996 about Pamela Jenkins, you indicated that she contacted you and/or your partner with information. Who is your partner that you were referring to there?

A. In 1983, sir?

Q. When you testified here you referred to a partner. I am just asking who was it that you were referring to?

A. That would be an officer by the name of Ted Ryan.

Q. Ted Ryan?

A. Yes.

Q. No relationship?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you are not related to Richard Ryan, are you?

A. No, sir.

Q. And when did you and Ted Ryan become partners?

A. 1983.

Q. And you and Ted Ryan were brought into squad 5 together?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor: It's irrelevant. We are at a date well beyond

Page 37.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

the date that Ms. Jenkins alleged she met this witness, beyond the date of the trial, beyond the date of the alleged improper acts committed.

It is irrelevant.

THE COURT: Objection is sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, when you picked up Pamela Jenkins -- let's deal with the June l0th, 1982 incident that's recorded in the document -- where to your recollection was she taken?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, objection: This was asked and answered on Thursday.

THE COURT: All right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you take her home?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. This was asked and answered on Thursday. Questions were made --

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. Okay.

MS. FISK: Questions were asked with regard to that stop.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The romantic portion of your relationship with Pamela Jenkins, over what period of time did that relationship last?

Page 38.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

A. That was sometime in '83 or '84, I don't remember exactly when it was.

Q. And it was over a period of those months?

A. No, it occurred during that time frame.

Q. The relationship occurred?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long did the relationship of a personal nature last?

A. I wouldn't even qualify it as a relationship, sir.

Q. Well, how would you describe it?

A. An encounter.

Q. I see. And how long did that last?

A. One time.

Q. And you don't know whether that was '83 or '84?

A. No, sir, it was sometime in that time frame.

Q. And at that time she was providing you information as well?

A. I'm sure at some point during that time frame she gave me some sort of information.

Q. And you were paying her for that information?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Incidentally, the money that you were paying

Page 39.

Thomas Ryan - Direct

to her, was that from your own pocket? Where did you get that money?

A. From my own pocket.

Q. And was that money you had taken from others?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Was that money that you had taken from other people?

A. Yes; from the City of Philadelphia in my paycheck.

Q. I see, okay. Did you plead guilty to a felony?

A. Yes.

Q. What felony did you plead guilty to?

A. One count of conspiracy to violate civil rights.

Q. And for the record, what was that, what civil rights, whose civil rights?

A. Whose civil rights?

Q. Yes.

A. A male by the name of Arthur Colbert.

Q. Arthur Colbert? Prior to your plea of guilty, did you provide any law enforcement agency with false information about your involvement with him?

A. No, sir.

Q. You never did?

Page 40.

A. No, sir.

Q. You had always acknowledged what you had done to him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Incidentally, what had you done to him?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. That's been resolved by another tribunal.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The count that you pled guilty to, did you acknowledge that you had injured, oppressed, threatened and intimidated an individual in the free exercise and enjoyment of his Constitutional rights?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Have you ever been charged with an offense by the Assistant District Attorney of Philadelphia against Mr. Arthur Colbert for what action you took against him?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He was prosecuted and pled guilty Federally.

MR. WEINGLASS: Only by Federal authorities but never by the District Attorney's Office of Philadelphia.

Page 41.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you a defendant now in a civil suit relating to your activities as a Philadelphia police officer?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: It goes to motive for testifying, Your Honor. And bias. The witness has a financial interest in giving the testimony he is giving here today.

THE COURT: Yes, how?

MR. WEINGLASS: Because he is being sued personally.

THE COURT: So?

MR. WEINGLASS: In another case. So he has to conform his testimony in such a way that it will not injure him in the civil suit that's pending against him.

THE COURT: That's not for me to resolve. That is another tribunal.

MR. WEINGLASS: It certainly is a factor the Court should take into consideration in assessing his credibility.

Page 42.

THE COURT: I know how to assess credibility.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, you should have the information to do it properly.

THE COURT: You have already told me the information.

MR. WEINGLASS: It would be helpful to get it from the witness.

THE COURT: It's just as well getting it from you. He is your witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well; if the Court will accept it as established fact I will move on.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Are you a defendant again in a lawsuit by Raymond Carter?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: A different lawsuit.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You were present at your sentencing hearing in the Federal Court, were you not?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And you were present when Joan Downs testified as a character witness for you?

Page 43.

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And it's true that she was a crack addict?

A. That's a fact.

Q. Was she a prostitute?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I object on the basis of relevancy. This was not a person who has offered testimony or from whom there has been any offer of proof with regard to her relationship to this prosecution of Mr. Jamal or testimony with regard to Mr. Jamal.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, faced with a Federal sentence, this witness presented a character witness who was a crack addict and prostitute who he had worked with and had involvement with and I think the Court should know this.

THE COURT: You mean he can't have that kind of a character witness?

MR. WEINGLASS: I think it is something the Court should know in assessing his credibility.

THE COURT: You told me about it, so what. I am not going to decide that Federal case. Whatever happened there happened there and he was sentenced by the Federal judge. As far as I am concerned, that is the end of it.

MR. WEINGLASS: But the Court's --

THE COURT: I am not here to rehash it.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was Joan Downs another prostitute who provided you with information?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was Joan Downs another prostitute who you had sex with?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. I am not here to go through his whole life. Besides, he is your witness. If you don't want me to believe anything he says that's all right with me. You have the burden of proof.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you begin cooperating with Federal authorities in an investigation in August of 1994?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, objection. That is irrelevant to this proceeding. When --

Page 45.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think the record should reflect that the witness keeps stopping before he answers to look to the Assistant District Attorney for an objection and she complies.

THE COURT: Well, he is a smart witness, see. And you called him so don't be surprised about that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, obviously working in conjunction with the Assistant District Attorney.

THE COURT: You should have instructed him to do otherwise. He is your witness, you know. If you want to criticize your own witness, go ahead.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you report to the Federal judge at the time of your Federal sentencing that you felt that your life was threatened by people in the Philadelphia Police Department because you were helping the Federal Bureau of Investigation in an investigation of the police?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. He is still alive today, the police didn't do anything to him.

Page 46.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you agree to and in fact wear a wire to record a conversation that you had with a fellow Philadelphia police officer named Jack Baird?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. I am not going to rehash that. That's been done down in Federal Court, it's over with and that's it.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. How much money had you paid Pamela Jenkins in the time that she provided you with information?

A. I would be guessing at that.

Q. Over how long a period of time did you pay her, let me start with that?

A. Well, it was off and on, sir, it wasn't a continuous length of time.

Q. Right, give us a beginning when it began and a date when it probably ended?

A. It was around '83 or '84, and then she had disappeared for a number of years. And then she reappeared in the late '80s. So it was on again, off again.

Q. Over a period of a number of years?

Page 47.

A. Off and on, yes.

Q. Right. And although you were charged and pled guilty in Federal Court, to your knowledge Pamela Jenkins has never been charged nor has she pled guilty to any Federal offenses?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor --

THE COURT: We are not here to try Jenkins.

MS. FISK: And this is direct examination.

MR. WEINGLASS: The testimony of two people, one is a convicted felon.

MS. FISK: This is direct examination.

THE COURT: Counselor, I don't care what happens to Jenkins in Federal Court. If they didn't do anything that's their problem, not mine.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right, but in weighing the testimony of two people, one is a convicted felon, the other is not convicted.

THE COURT: Well.

MR. WEINGLASS: I think the Court ought to take that into account.

Page 48.

THE COURT: Yes, I will take it into account, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: If I may have just a moment.

(Pause).

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just one last question. Am I correct in assuming that prior to last Thursday when you sat here in Court and heard the other testimony and saw the document, you had no recollection as to when you had met Pamela Jenkins?

A. Not an accurate matter-of-fact recollection, no.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Mr. Ryan, prior to last week, am I correct that you had on previous occasions testified that you met Pamela Jenkins when you stopped her on a truancy stop at Gratz High School?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in fact, the document which the defense put in front of you today, that deposition from 1996, under oath at that proceeding you testified that you met her when you stopped her as a truant when she was a student at Gratz High School; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in fact, last Thursday were you present in the Courtroom when Pamela Jenkins testified?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And did you hear Pamela Jenkins testify in great detail, both on direct and cross-examination, that the first occasion when she met you was when she was a student at Gratz High School and you were a police officer in a police wagon; did you hear that, Mr. Ryan?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you hear her testify that when you and another uniformed police officer in a police wagon stopped her for being a truant while she was at Gratz High School, that that was the first occasion when she met you?

Page 50.

A. Yes.

Q. And did that confirm your recollection as to the first occasion, that is opportunity, you had to meet Pamela Jenkins, and that was an accurate recollection?

A. Yes, that refreshed my memory regarding that event.

Q. Now with regard to that, you have always recalled that you met Ms. Jenkins when you stopped her when you were a uniformed police officer for being truant, but the precise date of that stop was something which was just sometime in the past; would that be fair to say?

A. Yes, the date and time were vague.

Q. And was the production last week of Commonwealth Exhibit 7, a 75-48 that was prepared by the uniformed officer that you were a partner with on that date, was that the document which refreshed your recollection with regard to the precise date on which you met Pamela Jenkins?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Would it be fair to say that without that document you would still be guessing as to whether it was '81, '82, or '83, when you made that truancy stop of Ms. Jenkins?

Page 51.

A. That's very much correct.

Q. But that document Commonwealth Exhibit 7, which was marked last week, was a document, is it fair to say, that was prepared by the officer who was your partner, then Officer Clarkson, on the day that you first came into contact ever with Pamela Jenkins?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. And it's because that document clearly bears the date of June the l0th, 1982 that you now know absolutely that that indeed was the actual day on which you met Ms. Jenkins?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, in fact we have also learned through other documents marked last week that you graduated the Police Academy on December the 2lst, 1981. Prior to that time did you ever impersonate a police officer?

A. No.

Q. Prior to that time were you ever in possession of marked police vehicles off the lot of the Police Academy in order to pretend that you were a police officer?

A. No.

Q. Prior to that time did you ever use any extra badges to make other people think you were a police officer?

A. No.

Q. And just so the record is clear -- and I note that defense Counsel did not ask any questions about it -- did you ever speak to Pamela Jenkins regarding the murder of Police Officer Daniel Faulkner?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Did you ever investigate the murder of Officer Faulkner in any way at all?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Or participate in the investigation of the murder of Officer Faulkner in any way at all?

A. No; this is my first contact with that incident.

Q. Now, you were questioned last week with regard to your ownership of a red pickup truck. Do you recall that, sir?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did there come a time where you divested yourself that have red pickup truck?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that, please?

A. Sometime in 1994.

Q. And how is it that you divested yourself of that pickup truck?

Page 53.

A. I purchased another vehicle.

Q. And did you sell the red pickup truck?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, you were also present when Ms. Jenkins testified to an observation she made of Cynthia White running into a red pickup truck being driven by you at 9:45 p.m. on March -- I don't want to misstate the date -- on March the 7th of this year. Did you hear that testimony, Mr. Ryan?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Can you tell us, please, sir where you were living on March the 7th of this year, please?

A. On March the 7th of this year I was living in a halfway house as part of my Federal sentence.

Q. When had you arrived at that halfway house?

A. January the 10th, 1997.

Q. And until when did you remain at that halfway house?

A. March the l0th, 1997.

Q. As a resident of that halfway house, were you permitted to leave?

A. On occasion we were given a pass.

Q. Were there periods of time during the day that you were required to be back in the halfway house?

A. Yes. Everyday the curfew was at nine o'clock,

Page 54.

9:00 p.m.

Q. And during the period of time that you were a resident of that halfway house did you ever violate that curfew?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Can you tell us, then, whether or not you were outdoors at 9:35 p.m. on March 7th of this year?

A. No; I would have been in violation of the curfew.

Q. And you never were in violation during the period of time that you were there?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. You told us on direct examination last week that you had one contact with a Detective Richard Ryan; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you estimate that that was from an incident or arrest that you had made, you estimate approximately in 1986 or 1987?

A. Yes. Somewhere in that time frame was a burglary arrest at 11th and Ridge Avenue.

Q. What were you doing at 11th and Ridge Avenue if you were assigned to the 39th District?

A. I was en route from the 39th District to police headquarters at 8th and Race and that was my travel route: Ridge Avenue, southbound.

Q. So you just happened to see something happening and stopped and made an arrest?

A. Yes, it was a sight arrest.

Q. And as a result of that sight arrest, was the person who was arrested then taken to a particular detective headquarters?

A. Yes; he was transported to the Central Detectives.

Q. Oh, and incidentally, where is Central Detectives, or where was it back then?

A. At 20th and Pennsylvania Avenue.

Q. Is that at the Roundhouse?

A. No, Roundhouse is at 8th and Race.

Q. Well, when you took the person that you arrested in '86 or '87 to Central Detectives, was that case assigned to a line squad detective who handled the arrest?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And who was that detective to whom it was assigned?

A. Detective Ryan.

Q. And was that the first opportunity you had to meet Detective Ryan?

A. Yes, it was.

Page 56.

Q. And in fact did that remain notable to you because your partner was named Ryan and you were named Ryan and the detective was named Ryan?

A. Yes; all the law enforcement in that case were named Ryan.

Q. And there were three of them?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Did you and Detective Ryan ever work together in the investigation of the murder of Daniel Faulkner?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Was this meeting with him in 1986 or 1987 the first meeting and working you had with him?

A. Yes; that was the first time I ever met him in my life.

Q. And since the prosecution of that case, that sight arrest that you made, have you ever had any further contact with him?

A. The next time I saw him was Thursday here.

Q. This past Thursday when you were subpoenaed to the Courtroom?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, Mr. Ryan, you told us that you had two contacts with the investigator who served you with a subpoena for last Thursday's proceeding?

Page 57.

Thomas Ryan - Cross

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And you told us that you had some brief contact with him on those two occasions?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us what the nature of that contact was?

A. The first contact was when he served me a subpoena and identified who he was. There was some general conversation about police work and he gave me his card and told me to call him in reference to a job.

Q. I'm sorry, you said there was general conversation with regard to police work?

A. Police work.

Q. Could you tell us as best you can recall what the nature of the conversation was that you had with that investigator?

A. He had told me that he was a former law enforcement and correction officer.

Q. Yes?

A. In his past, and that he had gotten into private investigations.

Q. Yes, sir?

A. And that he asked me did I know Philadelphia well. And I said yeah, I know Philadelphia very well. And he says well, here is my card and give me a call and I will give you a job in Philadelphia to serve subpoenas.

Page 58.

Thomas Ryan - Cross

Q. When he suggested giving you a job to serve subpoenas, were you advised whether or not you would be paid for such work?

A. Yes, he said the pay rate would be $25 per hour.

Q. Incidentally, that person who offered you this job when you were served with a subpoena, is he present in the Courtroom?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Would you please point to him so the record could be clear as to who that was?

A. The gentleman with the mustache and gray hair seated to the rear of the Courtroom (indicating).

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that that individual stand up and identify himself for the record.

MR. BURTON: Donald Burton. Private investigator from New Jersey.

MS. FISK: Could you spell your last name?

MR. BURTON: B-U-R-T-O-N.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

Page 59.

Thomas Ryan - Cross

(Pause)

BY MS. FISK:

Q. So in addition to giving you a subpoena, Mr. Burton offered you a job and gave you his card so you could call him when you decided whether or not to take him up on that offer?

A. Yes, ma'am.

(Discussion was held off the record between Counsel for the Commonwealth.)

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Prior to December 2lst, 1981, you were in possession of a badge, were you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And incidentally, do you know to your knowledge if Pamela Jenkins ever met with Richard Ryan?

A. I have no knowledge of that at all.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Pamela Jenkins about Richard Ryan?

A. No.

Page 60.

Thomas Ryan - Redirect

Q. Do you know why of all the police officers in the City of Philadelphia she would say she met with Richard Ryan?

A. You would have to ask her, Counselor.

Q. Okay. When you said your red truck was divested in 1994, had you told that to anyone prior to testifying today?

A. Such as who, Counsel? I am not sure --

Q. Any representative of the District Attorney's Office or the Police Department?

A. Prior to today?

Q. Prior to just now.

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you tell?

A. Detective Walsh.

Q. Yes, when I asked you before about your conversations with Detective Walsh you couldn't remember that, could you?

A. No, I --

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, he couldn't remember. He remembers now and he is telling you that's what he told him.

MS. FISK: My objection is that was not what he was asked by Counsel.

Page 61.

Thomas Ryan - Redirect

MR. WEINGLASS: I asked what did you talk to Detective Walsh about. His house.

MS. FISK: Right.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You didn't say your house, you didn't say the red truck?

A. I didn't remember, Counselor, that refreshed my memory.

Q. Okay.

A. You just asked me a specific question did I tell anybody about divesting my red truck. Yes, I did.

Q. Now you remember you told Detective Walsh?

A. Well, you asked me a specific question.

Q. Did you tell anyone about the conversation that you had with Mr. Burton about subpoenas?

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you tell?

A. Detective Walsh. And I said it to somebody else but I'm not sure.

Q. Right, and you forgot that when I asked you but your recollection was refreshed by the Assistant District Attorney; isn't that correct?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. Remember, he is your witness.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Why didn't you tell me that when I asked you what you talked about?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you have any conversation with anyone prior to your being questioned by Counsel about where you were on March 7th, 1997?

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you have that conversation with?

A. Assistant District Attorney.

Q. Did I ask you if you had talked to the Assistant District Attorney before today?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you tell me?

A. I don't recall, could you read it back? I just don't remember, Counselor. If you ask me specific --

MS. FISK: I would note for the record, Counsel, the question was did you speak with the Assistant District Attorney prior to today. The answer was no. In fact he had not. And the first time that Mr. Ryan and I had any substantive contact with regard to this matter was today, which was not prior to today.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, could the Assistant District Attorney be sworn and give that and testify to that?

THE COURT: No, I am giving her the same leeway I am giving to you. You could speak for yourself, she could speak for herself. If the Supreme Court thinks it's material, fine.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. When did you talk to the Assistant District Attorney today?

A. Prior to the beginning of this session.

Q. And how long did you talk to her?

A. Oh, approximately two minutes.

Q. Right. And do you recall my asking you if you had any conversation with her prior to today?

THE COURT: Well, prior to today he didn't have any.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right, and isn't that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. Just so that we are all very accurate.

THE COURT: We are accurate on that one.

Page 64.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

MR. WEINGLASS: May I have just a moment.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Okay, I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Lawrence Boston.

- - - - -

Lawrence Boston, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, before we begin: We subpoenaed the employment record of Mr. Boston. And there was a motion from the City to quash that subpoena on the really false grounds that what we were looking for was a full personnel file. All we were requesting was the same type of employment record that was submitted by the prosecution concerning Thomas Ryan. So we would request that this employment record, which I presume at this point Ms. Fisk has in her possession, be given to us prior to the questioning of Mr. Boston.

MS. FISK: I do not, Your Honor. And I would note that Ms. Smyler, who was here on behalf of the City Solicitor, was here on Thursday, was advised that the subpoenas were quashed, and I do not see her here today. I don't have any records with relation to former Officer Boston.

THE COURT: Why are we interested in Boston?

MS. FISK: He was mentioned in Ms. Jenkins' testimony. That's why I am not objecting to this witness. Ms. Jenkins testified that Officer Ryan told her that a police officer named Boston was one of the officers on the scene. I assume that Counsel is alleging that that is this officer. That is why I am not objecting.

THE COURT: What does that have to do with this case?

Page 66.

MS. FISK: I presume it goes to the credibility of Ms. Jenkins, Your Honor.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It goes to the fact that Ms. Jenkins testified that he was one of the individuals on the scene that night during the shooting of Mr. Faulkner, Officer Faulkner. And we want to examine former police officer Boston as to that matter.

THE COURT: Well.

MS. FISK: And I have no objection with regard to those questions. I have no records with regard to his employment with the police and I am sure that he would be happy to answer the questions that Counsel asks him.

THE COURT: The Supreme Court said no discovery.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This is in reference to the testimony of Pamela Jenkins. She testified on this on direct examination, and we are further pursuing the question of Pamela Jenkins' testimony.

THE COURT: Did you object to her? Just a minute. Did you object to her testifying on this point?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, they did not.

Page 67.

MS. FISK: No, I have no objection on the part of the Commonwealth to Officer Boston testifying. And I am sure if Counsel wants to ask Officer Boston when he became a police officer and when he stopped being a police officer, he could provide that information.

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MS. FISK: I have no records or documents. That subpoena was quashed last week and the representative from the City Solicitor's is not again here. And I assume it is that person who is in possession of those records. I have never had them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I want to make the point again to the Court that that subpoena was quashed before the Court heard any argument about it. And the arguments being made in the papers by the corporation counsel was that in fact we were asking for personnel records, which we never were asking. Our subpoena was very explicit. It said employment history of Officer Boston. It had the same title on the subpoena per talking to Counsel at the Police Department before we drew up the subpoenas as the very document that was submitted to this Court with the employment record of Police Officer Ryan.

THE COURT: Well, who is he, this gentleman?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: This is, I presume, former Police Officer Lawrence Boston.

THE COURT: Well, he is the guy that could tell you.

MS. FISK: Right.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We would like to be able to have the document to confirm what he is saying. Which we have a right to have.

THE COURT: Well, you can get that after awhile. Maybe he knows. Or maybe he has copies.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor is saying that we have the right, that our subpoena will be honored?

THE COURT: I didn't say you have a right to anything. Because the City Solicitor isn't here.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, Your Honor, the City Solicitor doesn't need to be.

THE COURT: You called him. Ask him questions.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Fine. So we just want to make the record that we had a subpoena outstanding that this Court quashed.

THE COURT: All right. I didn't quash anything.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I believe almost the first words out of your mouth on Thursday --

THE COURT: I said discovery.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: All subpoenas are quashed.

THE COURT: All right. Then I quash it. Ask him questions. If he can answer them, fine.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Mr. Boston, were you ever employed as a police officer in the City of Philadelphia?

A. I was.

Q. Yes. Do you recall the date of your employment beginning and ending? Just give us a year.

A. I was appointed June the 27th, 1967. I think it was May two years ago I retired.

Q. 1995?

Page 70.

A. Yes, around that time, yeah.

Q. So you were, were you an active-duty police officer in December of 1981?

A. That's correct.

Q. And do you recall what your assignment was in December of '81?

A. I was assigned to the 6th District, I believe.

Q. Yes. And in what capacity did you serve in the 6th District?

A. Policeman.

Q. Would that be a patrolman?

A. Yeah, policeman.

Q. I see. And were you assigned in December of '81 to any particular part of the 6th District?

A. Ahh, I walked the 6th foot beat 3A and 3B.

Q. And what are 3A and 3B?

A. The walking beats on 13th Street.

Q. And 13th between any particular cross streets?

A. Actually, it went I think from -- I may be mistaken -- from Chestnut to the bus terminal.

Q. Okay. Do you recall the hours of your assignment in December of 1981?

A. I couldn't tell you without a squad card.

Q. I see. Is there a record of your assignment in December of 1981 anywhere to your knowledge?

Page 71.

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. Would there be a record anywhere of the hours that you served in December of 1981?

A. There may be.

Q. To your knowledge where would that be?

A. I have no idea. Police records.

Q. Would that be your employment records or your personnel records?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor. He said he did not know, and frank -- well, objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Where are you trying to go?

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, we don't have the records, Your Honor. So I am trying to see, I am following the Court's suggestion that the witness himself might know without his records when and where he was employed at the time of this incident.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, this officer's testimony is only relevant if indeed he was present on the scene when Officer Faulkner was killed.

THE COURT: Yes, why don't you --

MS. FISK: If in fact he was, perhaps we could pursue it. And if he wasn't his testimony is unnecessary.

Page 72.

THE COURT: Why don't you ask him that.

MR. WEINGLASS: We will get to that in a moment.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you subpoenaed to testify here today?

A. I was.

Q. Right. On June 24th, 1997? Is that when you were subpoenaed?

A. No, that was sometime last week, I remember that.

Q. Tuesday of last week?

A. Sometime last week.

Q. Right. And do you recall the individual who subpoenaed you?

A. The gentleman right there (indicating).

Q. Mister -- do you recall who it was?

A. I don't recall his name but he is sitting right in the back of the Courtroom there (indicating).

THE COURT: Same person who served Ryan.

MR. WEINGLASS: Thank you.

Page 73.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, at the time that you were served with the subpoena, did you have a conversation with the individual who served you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you indicate to that individual that you knew the whereabouts of the woman who the defense was seeking who had testified and changed her story?

A. No.

Q. Did you indicate that you knew that she was in New Jersey living in a condominium near a golf course?

A. I knew that she was living there prior to that.

Q. When?

A. This was years ago.

Q. How many years ago?

A. Oh, it must be back in the '60s. I mean -- not '60s, excuse me -- '80s.

Q. You didn't indicate that she was there for the last two years?

A. No. No. I haven't seen her in years.

Q. And who are we talking about?

A. Who are you talking about, sir?

Q. Are we talking about Cynthia White?

Page 74.

Lawrence Boston - Direct

A. Correct.

Q. Right. And is it your testimony that you didn't tell the investigator that she's been there for the last two years?

A. No.

Q. And that she's changed her story?

A. No, no, no, no, no, no, no, no, sir. No, sir.

Q. And that she wants to make money on the deal?

A. No, sir.

Q. Is Cynthia White's whereabouts known to you?

A. I guess she's in the graveyard, from what I heard the other day.

Q. Where did you hear that?

A. Here.

Q. You were sitting in Court?

A. Correct.

Q. Is that why you're now changing your testimony?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. There is no foundation for that. Except your own imagination.

MR. WEINGLASS: And the report of our investigator who had a conversation with this witness.

Page 75.

Lawrence Boston - Direct

THE COURT: And, well, he has denied that conversation.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY: MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you know Richard Ryan?

A. Personally, no. I've seen him around.

Q. Did you know Richard Herron?

A. Excuse me, sir?

Q. Richard Herron, H-E-R-R-O-N.

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain it. I don't know where you are going with all of these names.

BY: MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you know a Joseph Geoffrey?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: G --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY: MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Did you know Daniel Faulkner?

A. Very well.

Q. Okay. Did you know Gary Bell?

A. Very well.

Q. Do you recall where you were on December 9th,

Page 76.

Lawrence Boston - Direct

1981?

A. I was in the City of Philadelphia.

Q. Do you recall where you were at approximately 4:00 in the morning, December 9th of 1981?

A. I should have been asleep.

Q. Okay. You weren't near, at or near the intersection of 13th and Locust?

A. No, sir.

Q. At 4:00 in the morning?

A. No, sir.

Q. Either in uniform or out of uniform?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you checked your employment records to verify where you were?

A. I remember that date very well.

Q. Where were you?

A. I should have been home in bed.

Q. I don't know if I have this correct, did you know Cynthia White?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you know her?

A. From the streets.

Q. And was she a working prostitute at that time?

A. I never caught her, no. I couldn't say. I couldn't say, no, I don't know.

Page 77.

Lawrence Boston - Direct

Q. You don't know?

A. I never caught her.

Q. Right. Did you see Cynthia White after December 9th, 1981 and before January lst, 1982?

(Pause)

A. I think it was around Christmas time of that year.

Q. And where did you see her?

A. Around 13th Street.

Q. She was working?

A. Counselor, I don't know what you mean by working.

Q. Okay, what was she doing when you saw her?

A. Walking.

Q. Was it daytime or nighttime?

A. I think the time I saw her was at night.

Q. So you were working nights in December of 1981?

A. I could have been. It could have been at daytime too because I covered that beat.

Q. Is there any reason why you said nighttime a moment ago?

A. Because most of the time I did see her was at night.

Q. So that refreshes your recollection that you were working nights in December of 1981?

Lawrence Boston - Direct

A. Counselor, no, it does not. It could have been in the daytime. I could be mistaken, I could have seen her in daytime. I could have seen her on 4:00-to-12:00 shift. I could have saw her any time. I don't know which time during that time.

Q. What were the different shifts that you were working in 19 --

A. 8:00 to 4:00, 4:00 to 12:00, and 12:00 to 8:00.

Q. So 12:00 midnight to 8:00 in the morning was one of the shifts you worked?

A. Correct.

Q. And you don't know if you were working that shift in December of '81?

A. I tell you I would have to look at my squad card.

Q. I'm sorry, when you say -- squad card?

A. Correct.

Q. Right. And where would that card be lodged?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Have you talked to the Assistant District Attorney prior to taking the stand?

A. I did.

Q. Who did you talk to?

Page 79.

A. I don't know.

Q. Was it the Assistant District Attorney who is here?

A. I don't know. I didn't see her.

Q. It was on the telephone?

A. Correct.

Q. It was a woman?

A. Correct.

Q. When was that conversation?

A. I think around the 24th or the 25th, I'm not sure.

Q. Either the day you were served or the day after?

A. Yeah, it was around that time, yeah.

Q. And did you review the substance, the kinds of questions that I'm asking you?

A. To who?

Q. With the Assistant District Attorney.

A. I talked to a person on the phone.

Q. The person on the phone, did you review the kinds of questions that I'm asking you?

A. Yes. Similar.

Q. Did you ask about your squad card?

A. No.

Q. Were you asked if you recalled if you worked that night on December 9th, 1981 into the early morning hours?

A. I believe I did.

Q. And what was your answer to that: You couldn't remember?

A. Are you asking me or telling me to say something?

Q. Could you remember?

A. Could I remember? I told them I wasn't working.

Q. Right. Okay. Have you since that time had occasion to seek your squad card to verify your recollection?

A. I have no reason to.

Q. When was the last time you saw Cynthia White?

A. As I stated, it could have been Christmas time, I think, the year '81.

Q. That was 15 years ago?

A. It's been awhile.

Q. Right. And how did you know that -- how did you have any information about her living in a condo in New Jersey?

A. Well, the word was out in the street that she was living in Jersey.

Q. Near a golf course?

Page 81.

A. That's what they told me.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. The golf course near Pine Hill?

A. Yeah, that's what I heard.

Q. And do you remember when you were told that?

A. No, I don't. It was, it was a long time ago.

Q. Not in the last two years?

A. No, no, no.

Q. It was sometime after the trial of this case, though; isn't that correct?

A. No, no, this is prior to the incident with Mr. Faulkner.

Q. It was prior to the incident with Mr. Faulkner that you heard that she was living in New Jersey?

A. Well, during that time. After that time, after.

Q. After that time?

A. After that time.

Q. Right. You also said that she was being taken care of?

A. No.

Q. The information you got was she, were you given information that she was being taken care of in this condo?

Page 82.

A. No.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have no further questions.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

- - - - -

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Officer Boston.

A. Good morning, ma'am.

Q. This information about Cynthia White, did this come from other ladies who --

A. Yes. Street people, yes, correct.

Q. This was just what other ladies or street people told you about her?

A. Con -- average conversation between me and the women on the street.

Q. Now, Officer Boston, you told us that you were appointed to the Police Department in June 1967?

A. That's correct.

Q. Was there a period of time when you were a Transit police officer as opposed to a Philadelphia police officer?

Page 83.

A. Oh, that is part of the Philadelphia Police Department, when I was assigned to the Transit unit.

Q. Until when?

A. I can not give you the dates, ma'am. But it was before I got transferred to the 6th District.

Q. Which was approximately when?

A. Around 1980, 1979, 1981, in, it was in that area.

Q. All right, when you were in the Transit unit, did you work specifically in the area of 13th and Locust?

A. I did, I had that beat. That was the Patco Line. That covered from 15th and Locust to approximately 12th and Locust or 13th and Locust, underground.

Q. I apologize, I didn't mean to cut you off. When you were transferred to the 6th District, is that when your assignment moved north, that is on 13th Street from you said Chestnut to the bus terminal? So the record is clear, the bus terminal is on Filbert between Market and Arch; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And was that when you were transferred to the 6th District, in '79 or '80?

Page 84.

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. Is that when your beat moved north on 13th Street?

A. That's correct.

Q. Between Chestnut and Arch?

A. That's correct.

Q. So that your opportunities to have met Cynthia White occurred prior to that time when you worked the Patco Line; would that be fair to say?

A. That's correct.

Q. And for how long a period of time during the time that you were a Transit, assigned to the Transit unit was it that you knew Cynthia White?

A. I was sent to Transit because I lost my driver's license, I wasn't allowed to drive a police car. And during that time is why I was put on that beat. And I would come upstairs because the smell of the subway, I would come upstairs a lot and so I met a lot of these people.

Q. Right. Did you also meet other people who knew Cynthia White during that period of time?

A. Yes, a lot of people.

Q. Let me ask you this. Was she ever referred to by herself or by others in the course of speaking to her in your presence or about her, was she ever referred to by the nickname of Lucky?

A. Yes.

Q. Cynthia White was referred to by that name?

A. Was Lucky, right.

Q. Who was Lucky?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Question was asked and answered. Cynthia White.

MS. FISK: No, I am asking who was Lucky.

MR. WEINGLASS: The witness just answered. Cynthia White was Lucky.

MS. FISK: May I ask the question, Your Honor?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, I object to it, it was asked and answered. Counsel doesn't like the answer, that's no reason to repeat it.

THE COURT: What's the answer?

MR. WEINGLASS: The answer is Cynthia White was Lucky.

MS. FISK: That's what I am asking.

THE COURT: Was that who Cynthia White was?

THE WITNESS: To me she was called Lucky, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

Page 86.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did you know any other persons in that area known as Lucky?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection.

THE WITNESS: No, no, no, I didn't, no.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did you speak to a detective here last week before taking the witness stand, Officer Boston?

A. Yeah; Mr. Welsh.

Q. And did you tell Mr. Walsh that you knew Lucky to be a male, a transvestite who was in the area of 13th and Locust Street?

A. Yeah, he point both ways.

Q. And that is my question.

A. Yes, he went both ways.

Q. So that was another person who you knew as Lucky?

A. Right.

Q. And that was a male?

A. It was a male, right.

Q. Who sometimes dressed as a woman and sometimes dressed as a male?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Detective Walsh ask you whether Cynthia

Page 87.

White was ever known as Lucky?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Question has been asked and answered, Judge.

MS. FISK: Not that question.

THE COURT: Not that question, not that specific question.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did Detective Walsh --

A. Yes, he did.

Q. -- ask you whether or not Cynthia White was --

A. Was known as Lucky, right.

Q. And did you tell him that Cynthia White was never known as Lucky?

A. Not to me, no. Not to me.

Q. She was not?

A. Not to me.

Q. I am getting confused now. That was my question: Was Cynthia White ever known to you as Lucky?

A. No.

Q. Did any other persons ever refer to Cynthia White as Lucky?

A. No, not to me.

Q. So the person you knew as Lucky, you knew someone in that area?

Page 88.

A. Yes, as Lucky, right.

Q. And Lucky was this transvestite who went both ways?

A. Both ways.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection, Your Honor. Counsel didn't like the answer that she got from the witness.

THE COURT: We are trying to get it clarified. Don't get excited, please.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not clarified, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Let the witness --

MS. FISK: I will do it again.

MR. WEINGLASS: They are inducing the testimony of a former police officer.

MS. FISK: If Counsel wants to talk about inducing testimony, Your Honor, we could review Ms. Jenkins' testimony.

THE COURT: Okay. Fight nice.

MS. FISK: May I continue, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Just so I am clear, Officer Boston: Did

Page 89.

Cynthia White have any nicknames on the street in the period of time that you knew her?

A. Not that I know of, no.

Q. You just knew her as Cynthia White?

A. Cynthia White.

Q. And the person who you knew as Lucky was a transvestite?

A. Transvestite, right.

Q. You were served with a subpoena by the gentleman who was in the Courtroom last week. Did you make any written statement to that person?

A. No, I did not.

Q. So you had some brief contact with him?

A. Conversation.

Q. And received a subpoena?

A. That's correct.

Q. Incidentally, did he offer you a job?

A. No. We talked about his past employment, what he did.

Q. Yes, sir.

A. And talked about me going fishing all the time. And that's just about it. Just a few things about the case.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, could you describe for us Cynthia White?

A. Describe her?

Q. Yes.

A. She was a black female.

Q. How tall?

A. I have no idea now.

Q. Was she heavy?

A. I have no idea now.

Q. Complexion?

A. I have no idea now.

Q. You knew a lot of women who were working on the street, I mean acquaintances, you will meet them?

A. I knew tons of them.

Q. Right. Do you know the name Mildred Saunders?

(Pause)

A. That name rings a bell in my head.

Q. Could that have been Cynthia White?

A. Could have been.

Q. Not unusual for the people who you met to have several different names?

A. No, it wasn't, no. It wasn't unusual at all.

Page 91.

Lawrence Boston - Redirect

Q. Right. Did you know Veronica Jones?

A. I cannot remember that name, not now.

Q. Did you know Pamela Jenkins?

A. No.

Q. You say that with some emphasis.

A. Right, because I looked at her in the face the other day when she's testifying. I have never seen or heard of that woman before.

Q. Okay. Now, you at one point served under an officer named DeBenedetto?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Where are you going, Counselor?

MR. WEINGLASS: I will ask, the follow-up question will indicate.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Were you present when Officer DeBenedetto had a meeting of policemen in the 6th District and spoke about organizing vice payoff money in the 6th District?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I will sustain that.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. You do recall that there was a Federal investigation into the payoff to police officers?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, why don't we just empty the prison and take everybody out, because as far as defense is concerned, if you have a uniform you are corrupt. That's not the way it works. This is a man who served 20 years in the Police Department, retired, works security now at the Art Museum. And I object to questions regarding other officers' misdeeds and other improper actions. It is irrelevant, it is improper, and it is insulting.

MR. WEINGLASS: Let the record reflect Counsel is shouting.

MS. FISK: Because Counsel is pissed off -- excuse the expression -- for the disgusting attitude that defense has towards law enforcement people, that's right, that's why I am shouting.

THE COURT: Well, I mean not here.

MS. FISK: I apologize, Your Honor, for raising my voice.

THE COURT: For investigating the Police Department, the objection is sustained.

MR. WEINGLASS: May we have comment from the Court about Counsel reverting to language of the street?

MS. FISK: And I apologize, Your Honor, for that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Without comment from the Court.

MS. FISK: I don't need comment from the Court in order to apologize. I apologize for my improper language, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, you let him get you all excited. Don't get excited.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now, in the time that you were walking the beat in that area in the 6th District, you were in uniform, were you not?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Were there also plainclothes officers who were working this area in 1981, in December?

A. There were some.

Q. And they were on the street as well?

A. They were.

Q. And they would be on the street in the early morning hours as well when there was a...

A. I do not know.

Q. Right. Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Outside the scope of the Redirect.

THE COURT: Oh, I don't know, you talked about it.

MS. FISK: I will rephrase it.

THE COURT: All right.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Officer Boston, back at the time Officer Daniel Faulkner was murdered, do you remember what squad you were assigned to?

A. I can't remember a squad. I knew me and Danny were in the squad together prior to him being transferred to another squad. That's why we --

Q. So at the time he was murdered you were in separate squads?

A. That's correct.

Q. And does that by definition mean you're working different times?

A. That's correct.

Q. So therefore, if he was working at the time he was murdered, you were not working?

A. That's correct.

Q. And how is it that you learned then that he was murdered?

A. KYW.

Q. And that was the morning following the murder?

A. That's correct.

Douglas Culbreth, having been duly

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Culbreth.

A. Good morning, sir.

Q. How are you presently employed?

A. I am an investigator.

Q. And were you formerly a member of the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. When did you join the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. April '66.

Q. And when did you leave the Philadelphia Police Department?

A. February '96.

Q. What was your rank in December 1981?

A. I was a detective.

Q. And which division were you assigned to?

A. The Homicide unit.

Page 97.

Q. When did you become a detective in the Homicide unit?

A. As I recall, somewhere like 1979 or '80, is my recollection.

Q. And how long did you remain a detective in the Homicide division?

A. Until I retired.

Q. As a Homicide detective, did you come to know someone named Cynthia White?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And when did you first come to know Cynthia White?

A. On the 9th of whenever, whenever this incident occurred.

Q. The night that Officer Faulkner was shot?

A. That's correct.

Q. When was the last time that you saw Cynthia White?

A. About, oh, I don't know, it's been a few years.

Q. Where was that?

A. As I recall, it was at 11th and Winter, a police station.

Q. And what caused you to be at 11th and Winter at the police station?

Page 98.

A. I went there as a result of either a phone call from her or information of a phone call from her.

Q. She called the Homicide unit; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. She spoke to you or someone else in the Homicide unit?

A. I've been thinking about this. It's my recollection that she called me. But I don't want to say that because the possibility is I could have got it from somebody else. But it is my recollection that she called me.

Q. What did she say to you in that conversation?

A. Well, the information that I received from her or from the message was that she was in jail and she was sort of threatened there.

Q. And she was looking for help from you; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you gave her help, didn't you?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You went down to 11th and Winter to help her get out of jail; is that correct?

A. No, that's not correct.

Q. What did you do to help her?

Page 99.

A. Well, you have a, I understand you have a transcript of the, when I went there. Can I see it?

Q. Why don't you tell us what you recall doing to help Ms. White?

A. I went there to report what she told me to the Court.

Q. And did you tell the Court anything else about Ms. White?

A. I didn't tell the Court anything other than what she told me.

Q. Did you tell the Court that she was a very important witness for the Commonwealth in a high-profile case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And the very high-profile case you were talking about is this case; is that correct?

A. That's correct, that:s correct, sir.

Q. Was this in 1987?

A. I don't recall, sir. If you show me, whatever date it says there, it would be the date.

MR. PIPER: If I could mark the next defense witness.

THE COURT OFFICER: Next defense exhibit would be D...

MS. FISK: D-6.

Page 100.

THE COURT OFFICER: D-6.

(Court transcript was marked Defendant's Exhibit D-6 for identification.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing.)

(Pause)

MS. FISK: The only portion of these notes which Counsel had provided to us in their Petition to the Supreme Court was the last four pages of a 30-page document. They are seeking to mark the entirety of the notes of testimony, so if I can just have a moment to review them. I have only reviewed the last five pages.

MR. PIPER: We would also be happy to submit just the last four pages, where Douglas Culbreth appears.

MS. FISK: Fine. I have no objection to that, Your Honor, and I don't challenge the authenticity of the cover sheet or the pages 29 through 33, which is what was attached in the defense request to the Supreme Court.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: 29 through 33 and the cover sheet.

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. Detective Culbreth, is this the transcript of the Court appearance that you made on behalf of Cynthia White?

A. Yes, that's what it appears to be, sir.

Q. And what's the date on the cover of this transcript? And for the record, this is a transcript in Commonwealth V Cynthia White, 11th and Winter Streets, MC number 8706-2351.

A. The date is June 29th, 1987.

Q. And does that refresh your recollection that it was in 1987?

A. That's about, that's about when it happened.

Q. Did you make the decision on your own that you would go down to Court for Ms. White?

A. I most certainly did.

Q. Did you discuss that decision with anyone else before you went down?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, 1987 was not your first...

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. Do you recall that Ms. White was let out on bail on her own signature after you appeared in

Page 102.

Douglas Culbreth - Direct

Court?

A. I learned -- I've learned, yes, I've learned later, yes.

Q. And that was based on your representations to the Court?

A. I don't know why she was let out.

Q. Could you turn to the last page of the transcript in front of you?

A. (Witness complies with request.)

Q. And what are the last words of the Court?

A. From Mr. Gilson?

Q. Following that the Court says SOB?

A. The Court says SOB.

Q. What does that mean?

A. I would imagine sign own bail.

Q. And you were in Court when that happened, weren't you?

A. No, I don't recall being there then.

Q. But you do recall giving, making the statements that are ascribed to you on pages 31 and 32?

A. Yes; and I don't see any place there where I'm asking for bail.

Q. Not but do you see that immediately after you spoke she was allowed to sign her own bail?

Page 103.

Douglas Culbreth - Direct

MS. FISK: Well, Your Honor I would note that the notes speak for themselves, that Mr. Culbreth has testified with regard to his recollection.

THE COURT: He doesn't make that decision, the Court does. Why don't you subpoena the Court officer or whoever was down there.

BY MR. PIPER:

Q. And you were in Court during this proceeding that is transcribed here, weren't you?

A. As I testified, I don't recall being there then. My recollect --

Q. I'm sorry.

A. It is my recollection I left after I said whatever I had to say.

Q. You did learn that she had signed out on her own bail; is that correct?

A. It's... I don't remember anything -- when I learned of that was this. I don't know anything about her signing out her bail. I haven't heard from her since this. This is the last I heard from Cynthia.

Q. In fact, that is the last the Philadelphia Courts heard from her, isn't it?

Page 104.

Douglas Culbreth - Direct

A. I have no idea.

Q. You don't know that she was issued a bench warrant in 1988 for her failure to appear after signing her own bail?

A. I haven't heard from her.

Q. And can you think of any reason why that bench warrant would not have been reported to the NCIC tracking system?

A. I don't work -- sir, I don't work with NCIC and don't know too much about computers. But, not to answer you, no, I have no idea. No, sir.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. PIPER: No further questions at this time.

MS. FISK: May I inquire, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective Culbreth, since your retirement from the Philadelphia Police Department you have been working as an investigator with the Defender's Association of Philadelphia; is that correct, sir?

Page 105.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

A. That's correct, ma'am.

Q. And it was in that capacity that you received a subpoena about a week or a week and a half ago from the defense to appear at today's proceeding?

A. No, not in that capacity.

Q. I'm sorry, it was within the last week, week and a half that you received a subpoena to come to this proceeding?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And at the time you were served, sir, the gentleman who is sitting here in the Courtroom (indicating) is the gentleman who served you?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And did you discuss with him or did he discuss with you the fact that as a retired or former Philadelphia police officer there was a great deal of work that he could have for you in terms of serving subpoenas in the Philadelphia area?

A. He mentioned something about being a subpoena server but he didn't offer me any job.

Q. Did he discuss with you the fact that as a retired Philadelphia police officer he has lots of work in the Philadelphia area?

A. I don't remember him saying he was a Philadelphia police officer.

Page 106.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

Q. I'm sorry, I apologize. What do you remember him saying with regard to the availability of work?

A. He had some small, small talk about whatever. I am not going to say where he worked, that's his business.

Q. Yes.

A. But it wasn't Philadelphia. But he just mentioned small talk, a police retiree talk. You know, there's work here in Philadelphia.

Q. But since you are currently employed you didn't follow up on that?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Now, you met Cynthia White on the night, or actually the morning that Officer Faulkner was murdered, and you in fact are the detective who took her statement down at the Police Administration Building?

A. Yes, as I recall, I believe I was the first. I'm not sure about that.

Q. Okay.

A. But I believe I was the first detective she spoke to.

Q. Now, at the time that she testified at trial in June 1982, were you present when Ms. White was brought into the Courtroom and testified?

Page 107.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

A. Yes.

Q. Now, can you please tell us whether or not there was any fear on the part of Ms. White -- I'm sorry, not fear -- whether you detected any kind of attitude on the part of persons in the Courtroom when Ms. White testified?

MR. PIPER: Objection to that question. How can you have a witness detecting attitudes in a Courtroom.

MS. FISK: I will rephrase it.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Did you note any hostility directed towards Ms. White when she testified at this trial?

MR. PIPER: Objection to the form. How can someone sit in the Courtroom and notice hostility being directed. I mean it's just --

THE COURT: Oh, it happens everyday with me. Especially in this case. So I will let him answer it if he can.

THE WITNESS: I wasn't in the Courtroom but I waited outside the Courtroom for Ms. White and I escorted her away. And there was some level of hostility directed towards her.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. I ask the

Page 108.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

answer be stricken. The question was in the Courtroom. The witness indicated, I think, honestly that he wasn't in the Courtroom.

MS. FISK: Right, and then he said that out of the Courtroom there was, and that is an appropriate response. May I continue my cross-examination, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the question was in the Courtroom.

THE COURT: I know what the question is. And I know what he answered. So let's go. We will be here forever.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. What kind of hostility was directed towards Ms. White out of the Courtroom, Detective?

A. I don't remember the exact but there were remarks made. I don't remember exactly what they were, but they were negative remarks made.

Q. Now, were those negative remarks made by Philadelphia police officers or law enforcement officers?

A. No. I didn't hear any.

Q. Were those remarks made by persons who were in the Courtroom on behalf of Mr. Jamal?

Page 109.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection. The witness has no way of knowing who was in the Courtroom on behalf of Mr. Jamal, because unlike the police officers, they didn't wear buttons.

THE COURT: They didn't? They didn't?

MR. WEINGLASS: The Court --

THE COURT: They didn't?

MR. WEINGLASS: They didn't.

THE COURT: You weren't there.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Your Honor recalls buttons?

THE COURT: Oh, yes: Free Mumia. Come on.

MR. WEINGLASS: Right. Well, they may ask questions about the buttons but not questions other than that.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I am not asking any questions about buttons. My question is whether the hostility directed towards Ms. White was by persons who were in the Courtroom on behalf of Mr. Jamal. And I would ask that the former detective be permitted to answer that question.

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: I don't know who the

Page 110.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

people were but they were people in the crowd with -- outside in the hallway there were people, spectators. I don't know who they were, but they were making, there were negative remarks made.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Now, as a result of that, were you afraid for Ms. White's safety?

A. I was afraid for hers and mine.

Q. Now, you have told us that sometime in 1987 you received information, either a call from Ms. White or someone told you about a call that Ms. White placed, indicating that Ms. White was in custody and again was afraid?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. Would you explain to us why once receiving that information you went to a preliminary hearing listing to tell the judge about that?

A. I did it because that was Ms. White's right to have that reported to someone who could handle it.

Q. And based on what you had observed at the trial in 1981, did you believe that her fear for being in danger was legitimate?

MR. PIPER: Objection, Your Honor: That is beyond the scope and relating to a different event.

Page 111.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, it explains the action taken by the detective.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I believe it was possible that her fears were -- I believe it was possible for her to be upset.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And that her fears while being in jail -- I'm sorry -- that her reporting that she had received threats while in custody was legitimate?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And that --

MR. PIPER: Objection. The objection is to his state of mind, that has no bearing.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, my -- well. Your Honor, this witness was called by the defense in an attempt to show improper --

THE COURT: I know that.

MS. FISK: Something he did was improper. I have a right to show --

THE COURT: This is cross-examination. So the objection is overruled.

Page 112.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

Go ahead, proceed.

MR. PIPER: This was six years --

THE COURT: You are bringing in six years. You are bringing all the way back to 18 years ago, so what.

Come on.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Detective, as a Homicide detective from 1979 until 1996, were there other occasions where you received contacts from witnesses who had provided information or testified after they completed testimony in a particular case?

MR. PIPER: Objection. Is she talking about this case? Other cases? This has no relevance.

MS. FISK: Again, Your Honor, it explains the actions of this detective and proves that what this detective did was not improper, was not in violation of discovery, was not part of a pre-agreed arrangement which defense Counsel may want to claim at some later time was not disclosed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PIPER: They could ask what

Page 113.

Douglas Culbreth - Cross

arrangements there were in this case. If they want to go into the pattern of dealing with prostitution witnesses, we have been shut down on going into that issue.

THE COURT: They didn't do that. The Supreme Court did.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, you did.

THE COURT: I did.

MR. PIPER: You did.

THE COURT: I did. Well, there was a good reason for it.

MR. PIPER: It was in our Petition which was granted, Judge.

THE COURT: Oh, all right, that's what it says in there.

MS. FISK: I will restate the question, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. In 1982 did you agree with Ms. White that you would help get her out of jail five years later?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Her call to you in 1987 was, so far as you know, placed by her or someone on her behalf to you or someone in Homicide?

A. That's correct.

Page 114.

Q. And as a result of the information which you received, that being that she had been threatened while in custody, you went to a preliminary hearing listing and advised the judge that she had been threatened or that she reported to you that she had received threats while in custody?

A. That's correct.

Q. Was that pursuant to a deal or an agreement with Ms. White?

A. No, I think it was pursuant because she knew I would do it.

Q. I'm sorry, I didn't hear you.

A. I think she called me because she knew I would do it.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir. I have nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. PIPER: I have some questions.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. PIPER: The witness may be excused, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you.

(Witness excused)

Page 115.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, may we break early and come back early from lunch?

THE COURT: What do you mean break? How many witnesses do you have?

MR. WEINGLASS: Three very short. And one longer.

MS. FISK: May I inquire as to who they are, please?

THE COURT: Yes, who are they?

MR. WEINGLASS: We will provide the District Attorney's Office the same courtesy accorded to us last Thursday.

THE COURT: Well, I am asking you now who do you have. Give me the names so she could hear them. If she has any objections I will have plenty of time to think about it while I eat my lunch. Come on, who are they? Who are the short ones and who is the long one?

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Corbett.

THE COURT: He was just here, wasn't he?

MS. FISK: No, this was Culbreth.

THE COURT: Oh, another one. Okay.

Page 116.

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Cannon. Mr. Grant. Larry Johnson. These are the short witnesses. Don Hudson, longer witness. Don Burton, longer witness.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I address each of those? Because I would object actually to each and every one of them.

Mr. Corbett, Detective Corbett is the assigned detective on the matter which Ms. Jenkins has recently been held for Court on. And it is simply collateral. She has in fact been arrested and held for Court on a theft from February. I know defense claims it is retaliatory, nevertheless she has been held for Court on it. And she could certainly claim that, but beyond that, that is irrelevant to her testimony and the substance of her testimony which has to do with what she claims are improper contacts in 1981.

Frankly, I have no idea, there has never been any offer made with regard to Mr. Cannon. I would ask that offer be made.

Mr. Grant, I am assuming, is Charles Joseph Grant, former Assistant District Attorney. And I would object to any testimony he would give. He hasn't been involved in this matter since 1995 and had no contact with this case when it was tried in 1982.

Larry Johnson and Don Burton are both defense investigators. And again, as I understand it, defense investigators involved with this matter now, in the past two years. And with regard to the substance of the defense claims alleging improper police conduct in 1981 and 1982, their testimony is irrelevant.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, as to Detective James Corbett, his testimony is relevant because we have raised the substantial allegation that Miss, Ms. Jenkins' arrest was retaliatory. She was here on the stand, she indicated her involvement or the extent of her involvement in an art theft which took place in February of 1997.

It also was her testimony, and we want James Corbett in here to testify that it was in March, early March of 1997 that she contacted voluntarily the FBI to provide information to the FBI concerning that art theft and retrieval of the painting. That conversation was then related to Detective James Corbett in the

Page 118.

Central Detectives Division of the Philadelphia Police Department. Ms. Jenkins was in the company of Detective Corbett and the FBI agent and I believe the date was March 6th or March 7th, 1997. At that time after assisting the authorities in the retrieval of that stolen art painting, she was told that she would be, there would be no further prosecution, no further involvement of her for any alleged participation by her in this art theft.

It was only after the defense filed its papers for a supplemental remand hearing to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court on March l0th, some four or five days later, with the accompanying publicity, including Ms. Jenkins appearing at a press conference when we filed those papers, that the prosecution pursued some sort of arrest of her and prosecuted her for these charges. And in fact, it took them another two-and-a-half months before they ever effectuated any arrest on her, despite the fact that she was in P.I.C.C., she was in the, she was in the institutions of the City of Philadelphia, arrested on a detainer, available from April 14th on.

Prior to that she was available and had been in the custody, or at least in the company, of a detective from the Central division -- that's Detective James Corbett -- and an FBI agent in early March. It is not until May 17th, after the Assistant District Attorney has filed it's Answer to the Supreme Court on our remand papers saying they have done an investigation on this case and they would be oh so welcome to have a remand hearing that a warrant of arrest on May llth, 1997 was sworn out for Ms. Jenkins. And it was not until after the Supreme Court actually set the remand hearing in an Order dated May 30th, 1997 and filed in the Court on June 2nd, 1997 that there was any attempt to arrest Ms. Jenkins on these charges.

It is our position that this was retaliation. It was an attempt to threaten her against testifying on Mr. Jamal's behalf and providing the information that she has given to the Court and was contained in her verified statement. We believe this is absolutely relevant to these proceedings, it is absolutely part of the behavior of the prosecution and the police towards any witness who comes forward on Mr. Jamal's behalf with any sort of information which would be possibly helpful to the defense. It is the same type of thing that was done to Veronica Jones, only a little bit of a reverse. This time the prosecution effectuated arrest prior to the witness appearing on the stand instead of while she was on the stand. I think they figured out that that created such an uproar that they had to try something with different means. The means was different but the intent was the same and that was to intimidate, harass, punish, retaliate against a defense witness.

MS. FISK: May I note, Your Honor, that Ms. Jenkins' testimony, which was, frankly, shown to be, I submit, perjured on the basis of documents which were produced last Thursday, included her statement that no one at any time when she was prosecuted and charged with art theft ever asked her about her testimony in this matter, ever sought to have her change her testimony in this matter. And that her arrest on the art theft was unrelated to her testimony in this matter.

I would note as well that Ms. Jenkins was in custody prior to her arrest and I don't know if Counsel is claiming we also had her locked up on a violation of probation for New Jersey as well, maybe that's our fault too.

In any event, the testimony of Ms. Jenkins, which was proffered to the Supreme Court, and the reason for which this matter was remanded to this Court, was to allow Ms. Jenkins to give testimony regarding allegedly improper efforts by Philadelphia police officers to have Ms. Jenkins provide false testimony against Mr. Jamal at his trial. Whether or not something is done 15 years later is not relevant to the claims made by defense in their affirmation and their Petition to the Supreme Court for activities then. Their allegation was conduct was improper then.

The woman has been held for Court and charged with a theft. Whether or not the defense considers that retaliatory has nothing to do with anything. Ms. Jenkins' testimony was I am providing this testimony without regard to what anybody has said to me or done to me, and anything anyone has said to me or done to me with regard to this most-recent arrest has not changed my testimony.

It is, therefore, irrelevant and I ask that it be barred.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There is one correction I want to make here. Very clearly, Ms. Jenkins testified that when she was brought into the Central Detectives division for booking on this charge, that she encountered Detective Richard Ryan and he said to her to the effect keep my name out of what you have to say about this case.

MS. FISK: Well, I note that --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: I want to make that very clear and I want to indicate that it has everything to do with this case to show the type of intimidation and harassment that witnesses are subjected to.

MS. FISK: And I note that Detective Richard Ryan's name is not one of the names Counsel has listed on their five remaining, though he too has been subpoenaed by the defense and as I understand it is present in the Courtroom. He is a witness to whom I have no objection: He is mentioned in the affidavit, he has been referred to by the witness. And I would agree that his testimony pursuant to Ms. Jenkins' affidavit would be proper. And I understand that he is available.

But whether or not a subsequent arrest is retaliatory is not relevant.

And I would ask Counsel if they are calling Detective Richard Ryan?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Could we have a ruling on Detective --

THE COURT: Are you going to call Richard Ryan?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Well, Detective Colbert is before the Court right now. That's --

THE COURT: I am denying your request on Colbert. Take it up with the Supreme Court if you think I'm wrong.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Oh, Cannon, okay. I will proceed since the Assistant District Attorney wants us to give proffers for each of the witnesses.

One of the witnesses that we intend to call, subject to any contrary order from the Court, is Marcus Cannon. He is a life-long resident of the City of Philadelphia, gainfully employed for many years, a father, no criminal record. And he has very critical testimony in connection with reference to the testimony given here in Court by Pamela Jenkins.

He has testimony that he was in Whispers on December 9th, 1981 -- that is a club at the corner of 13th and Locust -- and upon leaving that club and walking north on 13th Street from the corner of Locust and, Locust and 13th, he passed two men, white men, one who appeared to be like a bum, sitting near Whispers on the side, on the store side, another one a little bit further down, also white, just leaning along the side. And as Mr. Cannon proceeded north on 13th Street he heard shots, he saw a flash of light, he turned and looked back towards 13th and Locust Street. And as he turned back he saw a black male fleeing very fast east on Locust Street, away from 13th and Locust Street.

And as he continued turning he saw these two men, white men appear, suddenly stand up, look erect and pull out weapons and proceed very quickly to the corner of 13th and Locust

Page 125.

Street.

He was frightened, he was scared, having seen this, having seen virtually a transformation of a man who appears to be a, who appeared to be a bum, suddenly turn around there, taking an aggressive stance with weapons out. And he immediately turned and continued up, up 13th Street towards Walnut.

As we know, former Police Officer Boston just confirmed that there were plainclothes officers certainly working in the 6th District. We have asked for discovery many times. We believe that the two men that Marcus Cannon saw that night were plainclothes policemen. They are either on duty or off duty. And we believe we are entitled to know their identities, and we believe we are entitled to get the reports of what they saw. Because we find it extremely strange that two white men with weapons at approximately four o'clock in the morning, at the time of the shooting, were there on the scene and we have heard nothing about them.

And we find it further strange that this case is based largely -- I am not going to argue about primarily or predominantly -- but with the, with the testimony of a very known prostitute, now a police informant, Cynthia White, who was allegedly on the scene. This is a case being made against Mr. Jamal, who is facing execution, when there are obviously other men, quite likely police officers on the scene, who were in a position to see what happened. We find it extremely strange that we have not had any disclosure of any information of any, of any policemen on foot.

And I will just further say and we will conclude and we could see what Ms. Fisk has to say to this, that of all the reports that we have gotten, there is not one report from any police officer who arrived on the scene or near the scene at that time who was on foot.

I maintain that there were some police officers on foot that night, on duty or off duty. And we need to hear from Mr. Cannon to get this into the record.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, the allegations which have been continuously raised by the defense throughout these proceedings are far more than strange, but I have already exhausted my use of foul language for the morning and will not make comments with regard to it. I will note only that the proffer on Mr. Cannon as noted by Ms. Wolkenstein is to suggest, far beyond the Petition for remand with the Supreme Court, doesn't even begin to, has nothing to do with the Petition for remand, it is a little bit closer.

And I would note as well that since these proceedings began in 1995, there was absolutely no averment made by Ms. Wolkenstein in that very full and detailed and complete proffer which explained why Mr. Cannon was unavailable to the defense in the 1995 proceeding, or the 1996 remand, or at the time in March of this year when the defense sought further remand.

In so far as Mr. Cannon has not even been alleged to have been unavailable previously, and was clearly not the subject of the remand by the Supreme Court, I would ask that his testimony be barred.

THE COURT: All right, his testimony is barred too. What about the rest of them?

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Grant, Mr. Grant has been subpoenaed by the defense. We are not going to question him about 1997 or 1982, because he was not involved in the case. We are going to question him about 1995, when he was involved in the case and conducted on behalf of the District Attorney's Office the post-conviction hearing heard by this Court.

And at that time -- and I represent to the Court we have information on this -- Mr. Grant was involved personally in an active search for a Cynthia White, contacting authorities as far away as Boston, Massachusetts to locate Cynthia White.

Now, his testimony is relevant because if in fact Cynthia White was a deceased person as of 1992, and that information was contained in official documents readily available to the District Attorney's Office that were valid, the Assistant District Attorney conducting this hearing in 1995 would not have been involved in a frantic search to locate Cynthia White. So his testimony about his own personal involvement in a search for Cynthia White in 1995 going so far as Boston, Massachusetts in the search for that individual belies the fact that in 1992 she was deceased and that documents that were valid supported that conclusion.

In fact, everything that Mr. Grant has to say indicates what we feel the rest of our case will show, and that is that Cynthia White was not a deceased person in 1992 -- the District Attorney's Office knew it, we know it -- and Mr. Grant is the best witness to be called from the District Attorney's Office to reflect the fact that they knew that although there was an individual who was apparently deceased in Camden, that individual was not the Cynthia White who was involved in this case.

And so we wanted to call Mr. Grant to establish the fact that that office was proceeding in 1995 on the assumption that Cynthia White was alive, even though they now produced records going back to 1992 that allege that she is deceased.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is simply ludicrous. The fact that someone is being looked for does not, is not proof that that person is not alive. You have to discover that that person is dead before you stop looking for that person.

Page 130.

Mr. Grant as the prosecutor handling this proceeding in 1995 frankly provided to defense each and every one of the witnesses they sought in the course of those proceedings. My recollection is that they were unable to proceed at one point because they did not have witnesses served. Mr. Grant was able to get those defense witnesses served so the proceedings could go on.

In that capacity, Mr. Grant, along with persons working with him, were looking for each and every one of the parties sought by defense. The fact that he did not discover a death certificate which has been marked and entered into this record does not prove that that death certificate is irrelevant, or improper, or forged, or unauthentic, or does not relate to a particular individual. It is simply not relevant to the testimony and the documents which have been offered in this matter.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, it is not just the death certificate. There is a document which has been marked as Commonwealth 2.

There is an NCIC printout. The printout that was given to this Court is not a complete document. Because if the Court has the complete document, the Court will see that in the complete document the fact of Cynthia White being deceased was not, I emphasize not, confirmed by fingerprints. That's why they were still looking for her in '95.

Now in 1997 when we make the claim that Cynthia White is alive and produce a witness to support it, now they come to Court with a part of an official document, leaving off the remainder of the document, to convince this Court that there was FBI national data indicating that the witness was deceased.

But I believe the full record will show that this Court has been misled -- I won't say deceived -- but the Court has been misled. And that's what we want to rebut. We are going to call not just Mr. Grant for that fact, we are also going to call Mr. Burton and we are going to call another investigator named Larry Johnson. And those three will provide the rebuttal to the documents that have been provided to this Court, which are not valid documents in the sense of what they convey. That is that Cynthia White is deceased. This record, by the time the Court hears our last three witnesses, will reflect the fact that there is no verifiable proof that Cynthia White was deceased in 1992.

As a matter of fact, our investigator Mr. Burton will testify that in 1997 he took photographs of Cynthia White into the City of Philadelphia where she was last known to be, and that various persons -- two, three, four people -- identified those photographs as someone who they had recently seen. And seen alive in the City of Philadelphia. This testimony is very crucial rebuttal testimony to the death certificate.

Beyond that, Your Honor, the death Certificate that you have been shown is not properly authenticated. Because there is attached page 2, which has nothing to do with the death certificate, and attached page 3, which has nothing to do with the death certificate. You have not been shown the information by the Assistant District Attorney, either as a result of negligence or as a result of willful intent, to establish the fact that documentation shows that that Cynthia White died in 1992.

Page 133.

Beyond that, the death certificate itself is not complete. And we have an affidavit from the next of kin who was contacted in 1992 and asked if she would identify the body as that of her stepdaughter. And she never identified the body. So there is no identification that that body is Cynthia White. This is no fingerprint verification that that body was Cynthia White. The death certificate is a document pertaining to another individual. And evidence shows that Cynthia White was alive and well in Philadelphia in 1997.

That's what we are going to show with our last three witnesses: Joey Grant, Mr. Burton and Mr. Johnson.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, unless Counsel is offering to produce-members of the New Jersey State Troopers and the AFIS unit which does fingerprint identifications, or members of the Camden County Prosecutor's Office which has custody of the file regarding Cynthia White, I would suggest that any testimony they are offering with regard to Ms. White's death, the death certificate, the manner of her identification, is hearsay. Because those are the agencies involved in the identification of the decedent.

Ms. White's fingerprints were taken at the Office of the Medical Examiner in Camden, her fingerprints are sent to the New Jersey State Troopers, where they are matched against master fingerprints. Her death is verified as a result of fingerprint identifications at the New Jersey State Troopers and AFIS, the computerized fingerprint office. And thereafter the county in which she was found dead is verified or is told that their death has been verified, and because she is dead her records are purged.

Unless Counsel wishes to call persons from those offices, any private investigator, any prosecutor from outside that county is testifying on the basis of hearsay and it is inadmissible.

If Counsel would like to have produced the people from the New Jersey State Troopers office who can verify the manner in which a death verification is made, I would be happy to present those witnesses to Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Those subpoenas are denied also.

Page 135.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor --

THE COURT: She is giving you an opportunity. Go to New Jersey, get the proper people in here and I will listen to you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Will the Court sign an order for us to bring --

THE COURT: How can I sign an order for New Jersey?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, as Mr. Grant did in 1995, I would be happy to produce persons from the New Jersey State Troopers office who can verify the manner in which a death is verified in the State of New Jersey.

THE COURT: Okay, she is going to get them for you.

MR. WEINGLASS: Will they be produced here in Court?

THE COURT: She is saying she'll produce them if you want them.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We also want the Medical Examiner's full file. We attempted to get that.

MS. FISK: Well, I don't have that, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: And we were told it was turned over to the Assistant District Attorney here, Arlene Fisk.

Page 136.

MS. FISK: I do not have it.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We would appreciate getting it.

THE COURT: Wait a while. She says she doesn't have it. That is enough for me.

MS. FISK: I would note that the Medical Examiner, Your Honor, is currently on vacation, and I am advised that she is due back next Monday.

MR. WEINGLASS: But his report is available and they have it.

THE COURT: No, she said she doesn't have it.

MS. FISK: That's why I am objecting to Mr. Grant's testimony. He is not a Camden County prosecutor.

THE COURT: Okay, well, then there is nothing else we could do today.

MS. FISK: Is the defense calling Detective Ryan?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Your Honor, you are saying we cannot call our investigators to explain the types of things that Mr. Weinglass has laid out, that we had evidence that Cynthia White was alive?

MS. FISK: That is all hearsay, Your Honor.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is not hearsay. It's his personal work here in the City of Philadelphia, walking to various areas where she was last seen.

THE COURT: Well, let me tell you this: If she's dead then he is looking at the wrong person. Now, if you want to prove that she's not dead, call the proper authorities in New Jersey and we will conduct a further hearing.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry. Your Honor, I didn't hear.

THE COURT: What do you mean, how many times do I have to repeat that?

MR. WEINGLASS: Just once.

THE COURT: You have to call the people from New Jersey. That's what I told you.

MR. WEINGLASS: But we also wanted Mr. Burton as a rebuttal witness to the things testified to by Mr. Ryan.

THE COURT: Well, I want to find out if she's dead, if she's really, legally dead. Forget about it.

Page 138.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, in order to find that out you have to hear from Mr. Burton.

THE COURT: No, I don't have to hear from him. I have to hear from the people in New Jersey who say she is dead.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We need the full NCIC report.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor needs to see a part of a document that is NCIC, you need the whole document.

THE COURT: I don't need the whole document, she'll bring in the people from New Jersey.

MR. WEINGLASS: Bring in the NCIC document which says fingerprints were not established to confirm the death.

MS. FISK: Frankly, I don't know what Counsel is talking about, but.

MR. WEINGLASS: There is an NCIC document.

MS. FISK: Well, apparently Counsel has it, then. Maybe he would like to have it marked.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are not permitted because we are not law enforcement. They have the document. Could they bring the whole document in? The Court was only given a part of it.

THE COURT: Counselor, you talk to the D.A. If she could do it, she will do it for you.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, is Counsel calling Detective Ryan? Who was here, as I understand it, pursuant to a defense subpoena.

THE COURT: Are you calling --

MR. PIPER: Your Honor, at this time we would like to move into evidence the Court files.

THE COURT: Wait a while. There is a question. Are you going to call that --

Who is he?

MS. FISK: Detective Richard Ryan.

THE COURT: Are you going to call Richard Ryan?

MR. WEINGLASS: We are not.

THE COURT: He is not. So you could tell him he could go home.

Page 140.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Joey Grant is right here.

MR. WEINGLASS: Mr. Grant is here.

THE COURT: I know Mr. Grant is here.

MR. WEINGLASS: May we call him after the lunch break?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, our position is that is hearsay, it is irrelevant, it is unnecessary, and it is not the manner in which to prove that which Counsel is seeking to prove.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: We are establishing --

MS. FISK: Does Your Honor --

MR. WEINGLASS: -- that the District Attorney's Office in 1995 was seeking Cynthia White.

THE COURT: Well, so what?

MS. FISK: And other witnesses in this case.

THE COURT: So what? She was seeking a lot of persons. But the person is dead. You prove to me that that person is not now dead, then we will hear some more. All right.

MR. PIPER: We would also like to move into evidence the Court files of Cynthia White which shows that her alias was Lucky, which was offered at the Veronica Jones hearing. And it would show that she was repeatedly arrested by Officers Geoffrey and Herron of the 6th District. As well as their indictments and conviction.

THE COURT: Counselor, I am not hearing anything right now. I am trying to get to lunch. But I will give you an opportunity to work it out.

MS. FISK: When shall we reconvene, Your Honor, this afternoon or tomorrow, with regard to those persons from New Jersey? If Counsel in fact wants them.

THE COURT: Well, you talk that over.

MS. FISK: Is Your Honor available both this afternoon and tomorrow morning?

THE COURT: Yes, I am available.

MR. GRANT: May I address the Court, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, come on.

MR. GRANT: Because I don't know that I will be available tomorrow. But I received a subpoena this morning at 9:30 to be here at nine o'clock. There was no phone number by which I could contact Counsel or to ask to be placed on call, or any comment or even professional courtesy.

If Counsel who have subpoenaed me wishes me to testify, I would appreciate it -- because I have clients just like they do -- that they give me some kind of notice and allow me to tell them what my schedule is like.

This afternoon I have to be at the airport. I am not going to be here tomorrow. And this morning I was in the middle of a serious conference on the orders of Judge Bonavitacola. So I would like to know who subpoenaed me and what their intentions are.

THE COURT: He subpoenaed you (indicating).

MR. GRANT: Well, I assumed as much based on the lack of courtesy.

Mr. Weinglass, what could I do for you?

MR. WEINGLASS: Be here two o'clock.

THE COURT: No, he says he has someplace to go this afternoon.

MS. FISK: It is my understanding that Your Honor has denied the defense the opportunity to call Mr. Grant from the fact of what they want is hearsay and irrelevant.

THE COURT: Yes, if they wanted the people from New Jersey who could clear up this matter for us.

MS. FISK: Does the defense want representatives from the New Jersey State Troopers and AFIS?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, we want the full documents.

THE COURT: I know you want everything. Let me tell you this --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We want the fingerprint cards.

MS. FISK: I would like the defense to call a witness to tell the truth but I am not getting that even.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: If there was one. And when we have all those things we would be able to determine.

THE COURT: You will never be satisfied in this case.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we want the entire prosecution file.

THE COURT: Well, you go back up to the Supreme Court. I am making a ruling they are out. Except she'll get the New Jersey authorities for you. If you want them to come over here to prove that she is the one that's dead. All right.

Page 144.

MS. FISK: My understanding, Your Honor, is that Counsel does not want that witness produced.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we want the documents first. When we get the documents first we will make an evaluation of what witnesses.

MS. FISK: I don't have documents.

THE COURT: She doesn't have --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: The documents that are produced are incomplete.

THE COURT: Whoa, whoa. He can't take you down and me at the same time. When I begin to speak, you shut up, okay. Do you understand that? When I start to speak, you shut up.

Okay, we are recessing. You call me whenever you're ready.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is my understanding that Counsel does not want that witness produced. In light of the fact that

Page 145.

Counsel does not have any additional witnesses to call --

THE COURT: Well, I am not hearing any additional witnesses now. But if they want those people from New Jersey and you could get them over here, I will be glad to hear them tomorrow.

MS. FISK: Fine, Judge.

THE COURT: Shall we reconvene tomorrow at 10:00 a.m.?

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we want the files. On the records --

THE COURT: I have made a ruling. Go back up to the Supreme Court. I made a ruling, that's it. If you want those people from New Jersey, they will come.

MR. WEINGLASS: Without the documents, without the documents we don't want the witnesses.

MS. FISK: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. BURNS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Without the documents you don't want the witnesses. It's all right with me. Counselor, take it up to the Supreme Court. I am ruling if you don't want the witnesses, you want the documents first, and I can't force them to give you the documents first, you have to have those witnesses in here.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: D.A. has documents.

MS. FISK: I have no documents from New Jersey. Perhaps Counsel doesn't listen.

THE COURT: I know, I heard you say that.

MR. WEINGLASS: Are we reconvening at two o'clock?

THE COURT: No. What for: We will reconvene whenever you people decide who is going to come in here. I am not going to come over here at two o'clock for nothing.

(At 10:05 a.m. the hearing was convened in the presence of the Court and the attorneys.)

- - - - -

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. PIPER: To begin with, Your Honor, we would like to protest the way this proceeding is being conducted. This has ceased to be an adversarial proceeding and has simply become a dialogue between the prosecution and the Court in which we have been relegated to the role of bystanders. Thursday they claimed to have provided conclusive documentary proof of the death of Cynthia White. We offered to rebut that with evidence that the documents they had presented were not proof, that they were an amalgam of pieces of documents taken from various sources. And we protested that we had not been provided the Medical Examiner's file or any of the other documents relevant to this issue. Now they come in saying they want a second chance to again verify the death of Cynthia White, which they previously claimed had already been shown conclusively.

Page 4.

We are denied the documents to independently test their claims. And we are denied the ability to present our witnesses on this issue. They are so eager to put on these witnesses before we have the documents that we would need to cross-examine them and they won't even tell us who the witnesses are that they are calling. If this were truly an adversarial proceeding, we would have the documents we need to cross-examine these witnesses and to explore this issue. We don't even get copies of their exhibits while they have the witnesses on the stand and while they are examining the witnesses so that we can follow to test their claims.

Detective Witcher put on documents which are not genuine, were claimed to be certified, but attached one certified page which is incomplete to other documents which are not certified. They spoon feed the pages they want and hold back the pages that we need.

We went to Camden in February with information that a Mildred Saunders had died and were told that there was no file at the Medical Examiner's office. We went to the State and were told there was no file that Mildred

Page 5.

Saunders or Cynthia White had died, and yet this information supposedly miraculously appears.

Since January we have attempted to get the Medical Examiner's file from Camden, any Medical Examiner's file, and were told there was not one. Then when they produced the death certificate we attempted to get it and were told that we would have to present a letter from a lawyer. We did that and we are told no, a letter from a lawyer is not sufficient, you need to file a civil action, and if you need discovery in the civil action then you can file a separate action to get this file.

We have repeatedly requested the Assistant District Attorney to present their entire file on this. We sent a letter yesterday indicating that we could not proceed without the documents. The Assistant District Attorney can whip up these witnesses from New Jersey but denies having the ability to present the documents which we have requested and which we need to cross-examine these witnesses.

In the same way we have tried to get information from the U.S. Attorney on the 39th District and the connections to this case since 1995. We were stonewalled there and we were denied the discovery in this Court.

Page 6.

Ms. Fisk has the statements of Officers Ryan and Jenkins which bear on the date and timing of their relationship and were discussed in the testimony here but she refuses to provide them.

The course of the proceedings is that we came in here with a long list of witnesses and we told the Court the hearing would take several days. The Court said the only witness that would testify in this proceeding is Pamela Jenkins. We put her on and then we were shut down. We wanted to present the other witnesses and the Court said that they were, quote, precluded, close quote. However, at the behest of the Commonwealth, the Court then opened the floor to a parade of Commonwealth witnesses and then the prosecution on Thursday, quote, rested its case. We were then allowed to call further witnesses but only witnesses of the prosecution's choosing. Unless the prosecution invited or agreed to our witnesses, we could not call them. These were hostile police witnesses whom the prosecution had clearly within their control and ability to and had interviewed all of them beforehand.

For example, Officer Boston testified that Lucky was Cynthia White, and then under prompting from Ms. Fisk recanted that testimony; and we were refused the ability to submit the Court records which prove that according to the police and Court files, Lucky is the a/k/a of Cynthia White.

In sum, the course of this proceeding demonstrates once again the inability of the defense to get a fair adversarial proceeding in this Court and we renew our request for disqualification.

MS. FISK: May I respond, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. FISK: Thank you. First, Your Honor, I am unwilling to accept and ask this Court to be unwilling to accept any factual references made by Counsel in this Court, in part because I now know personally that factual references they have made in this Court are untrue.

For example, Ms. Wolkenstein stated in this Courtroom yesterday that I had documents from Camden and that she had been advised when she contacted the Camden County Medical Examiner's Office that the documents had been given to me. In fact, that was untrue. What I later learned was that apparently defense Counsel had indeed been advised that the Medical Examiner's file in this matter in Camden had been provided to the Assistant District Attorney. I'm sure they were told that. What Counsel did not next inquire was which Assistant District Attorney. They were provided to the Camden County District Attorney's Office. And as a result of Counsel's reference yesterday, I inquired and indeed the Camden County District Attorney's office had that file, and at my request have brought it today. And at the time that the investigator from Camden County testifies I will certainly make a copy of the documents that he is referring to available to Counsel because they were provided to me today at five minutes of 9:00 when the investigator from the Camden Prosecutor's Office arrived in my office.

And for that reason, Your Honor, it is clear to me that the factual claims made by defense are simply not based credibly on the truth and on the facts and I ask the Court to discount and not accept factual references made by Counsel.

After the Commonwealth presented last week clear evidence that Cynthia White is dead, Mr. Weinglass appeared on the radio, and he was quoted on the radio --

MR. WEINGLASS: I am objecting, Your Honor, to any reference to statements made. What they do, Your Honor, is they address this to the record. And then when Counsel writes --

THE COURT: So do you. You do it too.

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, in this Courtroom.

THE COURT: In this Courtroom.

MR. WEINGLASS: I do not refer to newspapers.

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled. Now sit down. You will take it up with the Supreme Court later on.

MR. WEINGLASS: But they want to put this in the record to use on their appellate brief.

MS. FISK: No, Your Honor, I am

Page 10.

raising this --

MR. WEINGLASS: It is improper.

MS. FISK: -- to explain the actions of the Assistant District Attorney which Counsel in his statement this morning is questioning.

THE COURT: Yes. Go ahead. Go right ahead and say whatever you want.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course. Of course.

THE COURT: This will go up to the Supreme Court and they will decide what they are going to do with it.

MR. WEINGLASS: But there are times when we are precluded from saying what we want to say.

THE COURT: Okay, you are precluded. I overruled your objection. You are precluded right now.

Now go ahead.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, Mr. Weinglass noted in interviews following this proceeding --

MR. WEINGLASS: What radio station? What interview? What time? They have misquoted me before. They are going to do it again.

THE COURT: So what, you misquote them.

Page 11.

MS. FISK: If Counsel would like we could bring the tape recorder in and we could play the interview. If Counsel would like I would be happy to play it.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: I am not presenting it as a factual assertion, I am presenting this to explain the actions because Mr. Weinglass was quoted in numerous interviews following last Thursday's proceeding that the documentation was not truthful and that there were never any fingerprints taken of the deceased to support the identification.

In light of his complaints and assertions both in this Courtroom and since Thursday as well in the media, the Commonwealth did indeed contact representatives from New Jersey; and I am prepared to present two witnesses from New Jersey today who will prove and who will testify that when Ms. White's body was found her fingerprints were taken and indeed the identification and verification of her death was made by way of fingerprints.

This is not a second chance because the Commonwealth has already shown her dead and this simply supports that, contrary to the assertions of defense that Ms. White was seen alive in March of this year, and contrary to the proffer that the defense made yesterday that their investigator has shown Ms. White's picture around North Philadelphia and numerous people have been seeing her. I would also --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We were precluded from putting that witness on.

THE COURT: Wait a while, she is speaking.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: There was an objection from the Assistant District Attorney to putting those witnesses on as well.

MS. FISK: That's correct.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: That's right, they object to us putting on the witnesses.

MS. FISK: Because the disciplinary rules prohibit Counsel from putting on knowingly perjured testimony, Your Honor, and that is exactly what they are doing. They just spent 15 minutes telling you they knew Cynthia White was dead yet they insist on calling witnesses that are --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: No, we have not been given the opportunity to put up our witnesses that show the course of the investigation.

THE COURT: Well, I am only interested in whether or not Cynthia White is dead.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right.

THE COURT: And these witnesses could testify to that.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right, and as of Thursday, as of Thursday this Court ruled over and over and over again that Cynthia White is dead. You precluded witness after witness, question after question, based upon the statement Cynthia White is dead.

THE COURT: What more do I need? I have seen the death certificate.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: It has been the Court's ruling over and over again since Thursday afternoon that Cynthia White is dead. That has been the ruling of the Court. The prosecution rested their case. They rested on Thursday afternoon, and this Court, over our objection --

THE COURT: Will you please --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: -- has reopened this case without giving us any notice, without any courtesy, without any documentation.

Page 14.

THE COURT: Take it up with the Supreme Court.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We will.

THE COURT: Okay.

All right, what do you want to say?

MS. FISK: Your Honor, I have two witnesses. The first is --

THE COURT: All right.

MS. FISK: -- Sergeant Ronald Morgan from the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: I will hand to Counsel a packet of documents which the detective is bringing to the witness stand.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We want time, we request a continuance for a few minutes from the proceeding.

THE COURT: Well, a few minutes is all you are going to get.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Right. We would like a copy we could have to work with while we are doing this.

MS. FISK: That's what I just --

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: A copy that could be made first that could stay at defense Counsels' table.

Page 15.

That is our copy? Is that our copy?

MS. FISK: Yes.

THE COURT: If you would keep yourself awake and into what is going on we will move along much faster.

Well, you have a copy, you have a few minutes. Go ahead, look it over.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Thank you.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is about 30 pages.

THE COURT: Well, 30 pages, you are a fast reader.

Let the witness take the witness stand.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, I thought we were given time here.

THE COURT: Well, you have a few minutes, what do you want. Read it.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is over 30 pages.

THE COURT: You went to law school, you ought to be able to read it real fast.

(Pause)

THE COURT: All right, let the record show that Counsel had 17 minutes to review this information.

MS. FISK: May I also note, Your Honor, that in addition, though I don't have photocopies, the Sergeant has a whole stack of photographs that are those of Camden County. He made copies of five of them and I would be happy to show those to Counsel as well. I do not have photocopies of these but if they want to look at these, and the Sergeant is going to testify regarding them and he will identify them, but this is just to allow them to look at them beforehand (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

THE COURT: Well, he wouldn't know even if he saw them.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, it is nevertheless an exhibit and Counsel certainly has the right to review it.

THE COURT: I know, he is reviewing them.

MS. FISK: That is fine.

THE COURT: I don't think he ever saw Cynthia White.

MS. FISK: Maybe this past March with

Page 17.

Ms. Jenkins.

THE COURT: All right, could we have the witness take the stand, please.

MS. FISK: Certainly.

THE WITNESS: Certainly.

Sergeant Ronald Morgan, Camden County Prosecutor's Office, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

MS. FISK: Counsel, when Counsel is done with these photographs I need them back so I could incorporate them into this document which I intend to have marked. May I have those?

THE COURT OFFICER: What do you need marked?

MS. FISK: Could I have those photographs marked.

No, back to me. Back to me, please.

THE COURT OFFICER: I just want to get a pen (handing).

MS. FISK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 18.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Sergeant Morgan, by whom are you employed, sir?

A. The Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

Q. In what capacity, please?

A. I am a sergeant and the assistant unit commander of the homicide unit.

Q. And how long have you been an investigator or Sergeant with the Camden County Prosecutor's office?

A. I have been with the Prosecutor's Office since 1984.

Q. And prior to that time what was your employment, sir?

A. I was a patrolman in North Collingswood, which is also located in Camden County.

Q. For what period were you a patrolman?

A. Almost ten years.

Q. Now, Sergeant, in your capacity as the assist -- and, I'm sorry, what is your position now with the homicide unit?

A. I am a sergeant, the assistant unit commander.

Q. And that is the Camden County Prosecutor's Office?

A. That is correct.

Page 19.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

Q. Okay. Now, in that capacity, Sergeant, were you requested to bring any documents to the Courthouse today?

A. Yes, ma'am, I was.

Q. And what documents were you asked to bring, please?

A. A case folder in regards to an investigation of a sudden death which occurred in Camden County.

Q. Now, what does that mean: A sudden death and an investigation regarding a sudden death?

A. Our unit is assigned to investigate all sudden or suspicious deaths within the County: Homicides, suicides, accidental deaths, overdoses. We are required to prepare investigative reports. Those reports are taken into the office and a package is prepared.

Q. Now, pursuant to my request, did you recover from your stored or closed files a file regarding the investigation into the sudden death of a Cynthia Williams?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Q. I'm sorry. Which occurred on September the 2nd, 1992?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Q. And did you have an opportunity to provide me

Page 20.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct with a copy of that file?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Q. And precisely when did you provide me with a copy of that file, please?

A. Today, July lst, at approximately five minutes to 9:00 when I entered your office and met you for the first time.

Q. Now, do you have the original file, that is the actual file which you took from your records in front of you?

A. Yes, ma'am, I do.

Q. And did you prepare a duplicate of that file?

A. Yes.

Q. For the Court records?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

MS. FISK: Your Honor, may I ask that this file be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit, I think it's 8.

THE COURT OFFICER: C-8.

(Camden County Prosecutor's file was marked Commonwealth Exhibit C-8 for identification.)

MS. FISK: And I would be happy to let defense look at it. I would note for the record that with the exception of the photographs, the

Page 21.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

documents which have been provided to Counsel are duplicates of all the documents in this, and if Counsel would like to review and compare I certainly would have no objection.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, we would.

MS. FISK: I am marking this as one document, Your Honor: It is the file from the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

MR. WEINGLASS: We would ask that they be separated because that file contains a number of different documents.

THE COURT: Well, whatever it contains it contains, okay.

MR. WEINGLASS: Is that an answer?

THE COURT: It will become a part of the record here.

MR. WEINGLASS: For purposes of facilitating cross-examination, it would be better --

THE COURT: I don't care, I don't care what is facilitating anything.

MR. WEINGLASS: Of course.

THE COURT: It is a record, it is C-R or whatever it is. Let's go. Let them look at it.

Page 22.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

(Pause)

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

(Pause)

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: Okay, we have examined the file and everything that we have, everything that is in this file is contained in our copies. Except for the photographs. Which we did not have a copy of.

MS. FISK: That's correct. I have these copies, and since it is the Sergeant's original file which I do not intend to mark because it is the property of Camden County. It has those photographs as well as additional ones: He only copied some. If Counsel would like to review them following his testimony I am sure he will have no objection to that.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Sergeant, is Commonwealth Exhibit 8 an accurate photocopy of the documents from the file of the Camden County Prosecutor' s Office regarding the investigation into the death of Cynthia Williams?

A. Yes, ma'am, they are.

Q. And you made that copy, sir?

A. Yes, ma'am, I did.

Page 23.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

Q. In addition, within Commonwealth Exhibit 8 there is a packet containing some photographs?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And are these photographs of the deceased Cynthia Williams taken both at the autopsy and the morgue as well as the condition in which she was found on the scene?

A. They are copies of the original photographs of what you described, yes, ma'am.

Q. And the original photographs, again, are in your actual file which is also beside you?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, can you tell me, sir, based upon that file, is it correct that the Cynthia Williams, the person known -- well, is it correct that a woman's body was found in an abandoned building in Camden on September 2nd, 1992?

A. That is correct.

Q. Can you tell us, please, what if any efforts were made based upon your review of that file to identify that woman?

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Hearsay. The file speaks for itself.

THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

Come on. Go ahead.

Page 24.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

BY MS. FISK:

Q. You may answer the question.

MR. WEINGLASS: You are asking the witness to just read the file.

THE COURT: I don't care what she is asking. It is her witness.

MR. WEINGLASS: Yes, but it is an objectionable question.

THE COURT: Well, the objection is overruled. You take it up with the Supreme Court when you get there later on.

MS. FISK: Judge, I will restate the --

MR. WEINGLASS: We would hope to get correct rulings from this Court while here.

THE COURT: They are correct as far as I'm concerned, okay.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Does the file which is marked Commonwealth Exhibit 8 include within it as part of the investigation the report from the Medical Examiner, that is the autopsy of this woman who was found in the abandoned building?

A. Yes, ma'am, it does.

Q. And does that report reflect whether or not

Page 25.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Direct

fingerprints were taken of that individual during the course of the autopsy?

A. Yes, ma'am, it does.

Q. Now, in your practice as a sergeant and assistant unit commander in the Camden County Prosecutor's Office, for what purpose are fingerprints taken during the post-mortem examination?

A. The most obvious: For identification of that person.

Q. And what happens with those fingerprints, please?

A. Once fingerprints are taken they are sent to the State Police for comparison. And what I mean by comparison is comparison of prints taken from the person to any prints that they have in their files.

Q. Now, in this case was that done?

A. Yes, ma'am, it was.

Q. And how do you know that?

A. We have a letter which is I guess one of the State Police reports that is sent to us identifying those fingerprints to a name.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, is that letter in this file?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir, it is.

Page 26.

MR. WEINGLASS: It is? Okay.

THE COURT: Wait a while. You will have your chance. At's not your chance at the present time, okay. Wait until your time comes.

Go ahead.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. After these fingerprints which were taken during the post-mortem examination were sent to the State for identification purposes -- well, let me ask you this. Let's put fingerprints aside. At the time the body of the woman was found, were there identifying documents accompanying that body?

A. Yes, ma'am, there was.

Q. And in whose name are those documents?

A. Cynthia Williams.

Q. Now, did any of those documents identifying, identifying documents have a photograph on them, that is an ID card with a picture?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And was the person in that ID card the same person, from your observation, who was pictured at the scene as well as in the autopsy photographs?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, did Camden County through use of the name Cynthia Williams identify a state identifying number of that person, or a person who was previously known to the Camden County Prosecutor's Office as Cynthia Williams?

A. That is correct.

Q. And what state identifying number was Cynthia Williams determined to be based on that name and the photographs and having seen her at the autopsy?

A. I would have to check the reports. May I?

Q. Please.

MS. WOLKENSTEIN: We need to know which document he is referring to.

THE COURT: Wait a while. You will have your turn when cross-examination comes.

Go ahead. Look for it.

THE WITNESS: The state identification number is 159986B.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. And how is that determination made within the Camden County Prosecutor's Office?

A. The investigator assigned to the case is required to fill out a rap sheet request, that is a criminal history request. That is sent to the Sheriff's Department. The Sheriff's Department checks that through their means, the computer -- again I am not sure exactly how -- but they put the

Page 28.

ID number, the FBI ID number, and they send that back to us.

Q. And that is without fingerprints; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. At the same time, however, fingerprints with that believed identification number is sent to New Jersey; is that how it's done?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Now, at some point after the fingerprints were sent to the New Jersey State Police, you told us that you received some verification back?

A. Yes, ma'am, that is correct.

Q. Would you please turn to the document within the file which reflects the verification you received back?

A. I have it right here,

Q. And so the record is clear, in Commonwealth Exhibit 8 it appears to be the first document on, as you are facing the document on the left side of the file?

A. That is correct, ma'am.

Q. And could you tell us, please, the date of that letter?

A. 11-18-92.

Q. And what does that letter reflect, please?

A. This is a letter indicating the comparison of fingerprints that are submitted on a Cynthia White with the same number that I read off: 159986B. There is some other information in regard to them purging their files. And down the bottom in the remarks column it has a/k/a Williams, Cynthia.

Q. Now, what do you mean about purging their files? What if anything are you familiar with -- well, you are not a member of the New Jersey State Troopers, are you, sir?

A. No, ma'am, I am not.

Q. And you have never been?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. What does purging files mean, so far as you understand it?

A. The files are erased or discarded.

Q. Does any such action like that take place within Camden County with regard to records of persons who are verified as deceased?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how does that occur?

A. We keep sudden death investigations for a minimum of five years. After that we are allowed to go through them through proceedings, you know, documenting, which is the Prosecutor of Camden County.

Page 30.

Q. Thank you, sir. Following the verification from the State Police that in fact Ms. Williams had been verified as Cynthia White and her prints had been matched, were there other means of identifying Ms. Williams, also known as Ms. White, done within Camden County?

A. There was a detailed criminal history, a rap sheet ran. In that rap sheet it lists aliases and names. And that is viewed and reviewed and placed in a file.

Q. Does the file also reflect whether or not investigators spoke to persons who knew the person who you knew as Ms. Williams to have her identified?

A. In regards to the investigation, yes, ma'am, it does.

Q. And was she indeed identified by others who knew her as Ms. Williams?

A. That's correct.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have no further questions, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

Page 31.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Sergeant Morgan.

A. Good, morning, sir.

Q. When were you asked to appear here today?

A. Yesterday afternoon.

Q. At what time?

A. I know I came back from lunch, I believe it was somewhere around two o'clock.

Q. And who requested that? Did you talk personally on the phone with someone?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what did they identify themselves as being, whom?

A. Ms. Fisk, Arlene Fisk, the Assistant District Attorney for Philadelphia.

Q. And that was her first communication to you, that you're aware of?

A. That is correct, sir.

Q. Now, with the Commonwealth 8 in front of you, will you open to the document which I will show you by holding it up (displaying), which is a document entitled Request For Criminal History Record Information (displaying).

A. I have it here, sir.

Page 32.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. All right. And so this document does exist in your file; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this document is a request for criminal history made by whom, if you can ascertain that?

A. It would have been made by the lead investigator from our office.

Q. I see. And do you know when this request was made, is it indicated on the document?

(Pause)

A. No, sir, it is not.

Q. Now, attached to the request is the response; is that correct?

A. You are referring to the rap sheet itself?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that response is a computerized response, is it not?

A. That is correct.

Q. And could you read into the record the very first line on the response?

A. This response not supported by fingerprint comparison.

Q. Okay. Now, this computerized printout that says this response not supported by fingerprint

Page 33.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

comparison, do you have a date for this response by looking at the document?

A. Third line down, date of record, 9-92. Are you referring to that date?

Q. No, the date that the response actually was sent back to the person in your office who requested this history.

(Pause)

A. On the last page before it gets into the one with a bunch of blocks, you will see a date of 9-9-92, 1425.

Q. I'm sorry, could you help me with that a little more. The last page before the blocks. 9-9-92?

A. Yes, sir. It's after arrest number 21.

Q. So that if someone like the person in your office requested this record information, they would have received a response that said not supported by fingerprint comparison?

A. I, I would have to say yes, sir. I guess that is a standard computerized program that prints that out.

Q. Right. By the way, this computerized response, who provides this computerized response, what agency?

Page 34.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. We submit the request to the Camden County Sheriff's Department, which is part of Camden County. They have some investigative units and they control the identification of inmates who have been arrested in Camden County.

Q. And so is it your testimony that the data that's on this document was the data that is in the computer in the Sheriff's Office in Camden County, or did they get it from some other agency?

A. I believe they are just like a terminal agency that would go up to the State. And it also goes to the FBI because there is a State rap sheet and a Federal rap sheet here.

Q. I see. And I gather from your answer that you can't tell by looking at this document whether or not this is FBI-generated information or State-of-New-Jersey-generated information?

A. At the second line under the first sentence it says multi-state record. I assume that to be FBI.

Q. FBI?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right. Now look at the middle of that page also.

A. Are you referring to one particular line, sir?

Q. Yes; the line that says State of New Jersey,

Page 35.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

conviction of, State Police record of convictions?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is now State information?

A. Again I don't know whether the FBI information comes through the State, because underneath that it says multi-state record. So I am not sure how the computer kicks back the information.

Q. Right. And again we find the same refrain right there: This response not supported by fingerprint comparison?

A. That is correct.

Q. And it is repeated a third time on the same page towards the bottom?

A. That's probably repeated on a lot more of them, sir, yes.

Q. Yes. Now, the document which is Commonwealth 8, as I understand your testimony, resides now in the District Attorney's Office where you work in Camden County?

A. No, sir, it does not.

Q. Oh. You brought it with you today, but prior to your bringing it with you where was it, was it in your office?

A. I physically duplicated the package that I brought to the office today and gave to Ms. Fisk.

Page 36.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. All right, my question, then, is where is the original file, prior to your copying it, where did you find it?

A. All files are maintained in file cabinets designated by the year. These files are maintained -- well, they were, in alphabetical order, until we got a new computer, and now they are maintained by a number system. So that room where the file cabinets are is connected to the homicide unit.

Q. I see. In the County Prosecutor's Office?

A. That is correct, in our building, again connected to our homicide unit.

Q. So that I guess the answer to my question would be if someone wanted the file, they would have to go to your office to obtain the file that you brought here today?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you know if a --

A. Excuse me.

Q. -- if a copy of that file is also maintained in the coroner's office of the Medical Examiner's Office in Camden County?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Is it?

Page 37.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. Not in regards to our investigative or the police reports.

Q. I see. But a portion of the file would be in the Medical Examiner's Office?

A. That is correct.

Q. Right. And have you inquired of the Medical Examiner's Office as to the status of that file today?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Right. And the portion that would be in the Medical Examiner's Office I assume would be that portion dealing with the Medical Examiner's work in this case?

A. That is correct.

Q. And your office, being the County Prosecutor's Office, goes beyond what the Medical Examiner does in that you investigate the deceased and the deceased's background?

A. That is correct.

Q. Prior to your receiving the call yesterday afternoon from Ms. Fisk, had anyone previously asked you to attempt to locate the file that's under the name of Cynthia Williams?

A. No, sir.

Q. No one from the D.A.'s Office to your

Page 38.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross knowledge has previously asked for that?

A. No, sir.

Q. And when your file is compiled, is there a distribution list of who you send the information to?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you in the regular course provide the information that your office has generated to the FBI about a deceased such as in this case?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you provide it to any State agency of New Jersey?

A. No, sir. Again, if it is requested there is procedures to be followed, the same as it would be for yourself, again for the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office. We do not normally just disperse these folders, no.

Q. No, of course. But if the District Attorney's Office of Philadelphia had asked you information about this individual let's say back in 1995, assuming your file was intact at that point, your office would have provided that information?

MS. FISK: Objection. Well, I will withdraw that.

THE COURT: Go ahead. You could answer it.

Page 39.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

THE WITNESS: After they followed the procedures and guidelines set up by our office.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. And what procedures, could you just briefly describe what that is?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, I will let him tell us about it.

THE WITNESS: They have to send us a letter identifying who they are, what they are looking for. That letter goes to a special Assistant Prosecutor within the Camden County Prosecutor's Office. We then provide her with the package. She reviews the package, and if there is stuff that is not supposed to go out, that stuff is reviewed, it is duplicated and then sent out. The letter of request is then placed in a package.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Was that done yesterday?

A. Was that done on -- no, sir.

Q. It was not?

A. No.

Q. You appeared here voluntarily without that procedure being followed?

Page 40.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. Well, I have a boss that said to appear here, so I guess you could say voluntarily, yes.

Q. Right. And when you received the phone call from Ms. Fisk, you then questioned, asked your boss if you should come?

A. He more or less instructed me to be here.

Q. He instructed you. I see.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And so in less than 24 hours the Assistant District Attorney of Philadelphia could produce the file on Cynthia Williams; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And they could have done that in '95 also; isn't that true?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why is that?

A. Because I was instructed that this was a Court proceeding and the importance of the document. The Assistant Prosecutor of my unit is the one that made the decision for me to copy and bring it here. In 1995, if there would have been a Court proceeding, it would have been provided. But in 1995 they would have had to provide a letter.

Q. A letter?

A. If it was not a Court proceeding.

Page 41.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. How long would it have taken them to follow your procedure?

A. As soon as the girls can copy it and it would be hand delivered or mailed to them. I don't have a set time. Within a matter of a couple days, I'm sure.

Q. Okay. Do you get requests from the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office of that nature in the ordinary course?

A. Yes, sir, we have.

Q. And so far as you could tell by looking at the file, the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office made no such request in 1995?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now I want to show you another document, which has been marked into the record in this case as Commonwealth 2 (handing).

(Discussion was held off the record at this time.)

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

(Pause)

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Sergeant, if you had to give a label to this document, what would you call this document, in your experience?

A. Rap sheet.

Q. Is it a rap sheet?

A. Criminal history.

Q. Criminal. Is it different than the rap sheet that appears in Commonwealth 8, in terms of its source?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how is it different?

A. Philadelphia, this says at the top, Philadelphia Police Department, Automated Master Name Index Query By Photo Number.

Q. So this, what does that mean to you?

A. I'm not a big computer person but a query means a check, and you're going into a computer system to try and find information about something. And what it is saying, Philadelphia Police Department, Automated Master Name Index, I believe that is your computer system that would be checking the name -- well, in that case checking by photo number.

Q. I see. This is a photo number inquiry?

A. That's what it says (displaying).

Q. Yes. And so this inquiry which is Commonwealth 2 is not the multi-state record inquiry that is in Commonwealth 8?

(Pause)

A. I don't know.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, is the multi-state inquiry system available to the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office, the same as it is to yours?

A. It says it right on the thing (displaying) yes, sir.

Q. It is available?

A. That's what it says, yes, sir.

Q. By the way, if you could tell us, Sergeant, how does your office retrieve this information? I know you told us it is from the Sheriff's Department, but how does the Sheriff's Department retrieve it? What I am asking you: Is it a simple matter of keying into a terminal and the printer connected to the terminal just gives you the responses?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So the information that's in Commonwealth 8 was available to the Sheriff's Department and, presumably, the Philadelphia Police Department just by typing in the name and getting a response?

A. Through -- you're asking me is it available through the Camden County Sheriff's Department or through the Philadelphia system, sir?

Q. What was available to the Sheriffs in Camden County was equally available to the Philadelphia Police Department, I assume, through the multi-state system?

A. In regards to them getting information and coming to the Camden County Sheriff's Department, yes, sir. In regards to their system, I don't know.

Q. You don't know?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So I guess my question is is the multi-state system available to law enforcement agencies throughout the United States, to your knowledge?

A. Yes, sir, it is.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Now referring to Commonwealth 2 once again, the document I handed you -- which I assume you haven't seen before?

A. That is correct.

Q. Could you turn to the third page. And there is a designation in the first printed line that says from NCCH. Do you see that?

A. Yes, sir. May I ask you, are we looking at the same page here, sir (displaying)? I just want to make sure.

Q. I believe we are.

A. Okay.

Q. The first line, NCCH?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yes. What does that mean to you?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Oh, okay. Looking at the next-to-last line, could you read that into the record?

A. Inquiry on name --

Q. No, the next-to-last line. I'm sorry.

A. Oh, okay. This interstate identification index response is the result of your...

Q. Yes, inquiry? Next line.

A. Inquiry on.

Q. Now my question is what is the interstate identification index?

A. What is it?

Q. Yes.

A. I guess it's a big computer bank that has information in regards to people that have been fingerprinted, arrested, or details like that.

Q. Yes. Is that different than the multi-state index that's in Commonwealth 8?

A. I don't know.

Q. By the way, it would be fair to say, would it not, that Commonwealth 8, the one you have today brought to us, is a much more complete document with respect to Cynthia Williams than Commonwealth 2 appears to be?

MS. FISK: Objection, Your Honor, it is different.

MR. WEINGLASS: Well, Your Honor, one is five pages and the other is about 15.

MS. FISK: Well, Mr. Weinglass speaks a lot more than I do but that doesn't mean he's better.

THE COURT: Well, if he knows he'll tell us, if he doesn't know he'll tell us that too.

THE WITNESS: The only thing I could refer to, sir, is on, on the fourth page there is a list of names, and the name Cynthia Williams does appear there. There is some Social Securities below that. The investigation package I have here is for Cynthia Williams and I did notice that the one Social Security number is the same.

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. One is?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yes, but one is different, right?

A. I think there is a couple of them different.

Q. Yes.

A. A lot of dates of birth, too.

Q. Yes. Okay. Did you before coming here today ask the Sheriff's Office in Camden County to make a new multi-state record printout for Cynthia White?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Now, about the fingerprint information...

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Looking at the document --

MS. FISK: I believe the witness was asking for some water.

THE COURT: Oh, just a minute.

THE WITNESS: Sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's all right.

(Pause)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Looking...

A. Go ahead, sir.

Q. Is it okay without the water?

A. Yes, sir, fine. Thank you.

Page 48.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. Looking at the document we have been examining -- request for criminal history -- on the first page of the response... after the name and the height and the weight and the physical description, there is something referred to as SOC. Do you see that going down? It's about the fourth line down.

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. And the SOC number is Social Security number, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that number is 127-50-6809 in this document?

A. That is correct.

Q. Right. Did you have that number checked at all?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what did you come up with?

A. The criminal history check that you have in front of you.

Q. I see. You punched in this number and --

A. Well, first of all, I did not do it.

Q. Someone else did, yes?

A. Would you like to know how?

Q. Yes.

A. On, and I believe you have this, the request,

Page 49.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

request for criminal history information, it gives the name, address, date of birth, description of the person, Social Security number.

Q. And that's the same 6809 number in the request?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, on the same line after that number there is something that says HFP?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that refer to fingerprints?

A. I believe it does, yes, sir.

Q. And then there is a series of numbers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which refer to fingerprints?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now look at Commonwealth 2. And look at the fourth page, the upper, left-hand side. Is there a fingerprint series of numbers?

A. You are looking at the words fingerprint class?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, do those numbers correspond with the numbers that you brought us today in Commonwealth 8?

A. No, sir, they are different.

Page 50.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. Look at another document, which is a Bureau of Criminal Identification document -- I will hold it up for you to see the format (displaying) -- which is in Commonwealth 8.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And look at the third page of that document.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The bottom line that's in the box on the top, does that have fingerprint identification numbers?

A. Yes, sir, it does.

Q. Do those numbers correspond to the numbers that are in Commonwealth 2?

A. Yes, sir, they do.

Q. They are the same?

A. Umm, the letters and the numbers are, yes, sir.

Q. Well, let me start with the PM numbers on that line. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. First is PM 13. Commonwealth 2 is PM 11; is that right?

A. Yes, sir, okay, I'm sorry, you're right. I was looking at a different line here.

Q. Right.

A. On that. Yes, sir.

Page 51.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. So they don't correspond either?

A. That is correct.

Q. I also take it, Sergeant Morgan, that you did no investigation personally in connection with this matter, the death of the woman who was found on September 2nd of 1992?

A. That is correct, sir.

Q. You're here today as a person bringing a file, reading to us from the file documents; is that right?

A. That is correct, sir.

Q. From looking at the file documents, could you tell us who did the investigation first for the Medical Examiner's Office? Is it Sergeant Juan Acevedo, Junior?

A. No, sir.

Q. Detective Boyd?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who did it?

A. If I can assist you, sir, I will refer to a document that you also have a copy of (displaying). Where you will see about halfway down the page it says Medical Examiner investigator.

Q. And what name?

A. That's investigator J. Alloway.

Q. Alloway?

Page 52.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He is an investigator with the Medical Examiner's Office?

A. That is correct.

Q. Is he still with the Medical Examiner's Office, to your knowledge, if you know?

A. Yes, sir, he is.

Q. Yes. He is available today?

A. I don't know about that.

Q. Is he here in Court today, to your knowledge?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right, okay. Then there was also, was there not, a County detective named Juan Acevedo, Sergeant Acevedo?

A. Yes, sir, that is correct.

Q. He worked on the investigation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is he still with the office?

A. Yes, sir, he is.

Q. Is he here today?

A. No, sir.

Q. And lastly Detective Boyd. Do you know who he is?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. And who is he?

Page 53.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. He is a detective with the Camden City Police Department.

Q. Did he work on this investigation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is he here today?

A. No, sir.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. In looking through all these records, can you see if any next -- no, strike that. Strike that. By the way, is the name of the funeral home that handled the body listed in any of the documents? I refer you to the death certificate if you have that.

A. Not with the death certificate that I have. And I only have the one that is completed by the Medical Examiner's Office.

Q. It is not listed?

A. No, sir.

Q. No.

MR. WEINGLASS: Could we show the witness Commonwealth 4 (handing).

THE COURT OFFICER: (Handing).

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Showing you Commonwealth 4, Certificate of

Page 54.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Death, does that indicate the name of the funeral home in item 23A?

A. I'm sorry, I don't...

Q. 23A.

A. Ahh, yes, sir, I am holding the death certificate.

Q. And what is the name of the funeral home?

A. Boyd Funeral Home.

Q. B-O-Y-D?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Incidentally, I probably didn't notice it but you indicated that the letter that was sent to the State for identification of the fingerprint is in this file, Commonwealth 8, and I couldn't locate it. Could you tell me which document that is?

A. (Displaying) This one here, sir.

Q. That is the request?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For criminal history?

A. Right. It is a standard request that we complete and we send it over to the Sheriff's Department.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Page 55.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. And could you tell us, were you present when the fingerprint comparison was accomplished?

A. No, sir, I was not.

Q. Do you know how that is done in the ordinary course in 1992?

A. The comparison is sent to the State Police and how they compare it I do not know.

Q. And when you say sent to the State Police, that's not in Camden County, that is the State Police located in Trenton?

A. Yes, sir, that is correct.

Q. And then your office relies on their report?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right, okay. And to your knowledge, your office then doesn't send the information that's been, developed to Federal authorities for purposes of entering it into the, into an interstate system or a multi-state system?

A. In regards to the death?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir, we do not.

Q. Once again going back to the criminal history, the request for criminal history and the computer response, with respect to the criminal history, item 21. The criminal history.

Page 56.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

A. Yours or mine?

Q. Yours.

A. Okay.

Q. Commonwealth 8.

A. Okay. Yes, sir.

Q. Is there an indication here that this individual had a charge for robbery, theft, simple assault, aggressive assault -- aggravated assault, I'm sorry?

A. Could you tell me what page you refer to?

Q. Item 21 under the recitation of history. It is about the fourth or fifth page back. Sixth page.

A. Oh, okay. I was a little confused, I found it now. You are referring also to the date of 6-21-87?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Does it indicate that there was a warrant issued for this individual?

(Pause)

A. No, I don't see -- if you're referring to a particular line maybe you could help me, sir.

Q. Yes, you don't see it there?

A. I hope we are on the same page (displaying).

Q. Yes.

A. I'm not sure.

Page 57.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Cross

Q. We are item 21, 6-21-87?

A. Right.

Q. There is no indication of a warrant being issued?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay.

(Pause)

(Discussion was held off the record among Defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just a cursory look at this criminal history record for this person, without asking you specifically, does this record reflect that this individual was arrested multiple times in Florida, Washington D.C., Philadelphia, Camden, New York and Boston?

A. Yes, sir, it does.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

MR. WEINGLASS: All right, I have no further questions. Thank you, Sergeant.

MS. FISK: I have I think just one.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Page 58.

Sgt. Ronald Morgan - Redirect

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Sergeant, after the fingerprints of this woman Cynthia Williams, known to you as Cynthia Williams, were sent to the New Jersey State Police, you made reference to the fact that you received verification of identification back and that is contained within Commonwealth Exhibit 8?

A. That is correct.

Q. Would you please just point out or show us which document that is which you received back?

A. In this folder it is on the left-hand side and it is the first document under a brown envelope that contains some photographs. The heading is State of New Jersey Department of Law And Public Safety, Division of State Police.

Q. All right. And that is what you received back after the fingerprints were sent to the State?

A. Yes, ma'am, we did.

MS. FISK: Thank you, sir.

I have nothing further of this witness.

THE COURT: All right, you are excused. Thank you very much.

(Witness excused)

MS. FISK: Sergeant Elizabeth Welch,

Page 59.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

please.

- - - - -

Sergeant Elizabeth Welch, New Jersey State Police, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

DIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Good morning, Sergeant Welch.

A. Good morning.

Q. Sergeant Welch, how are you employed?

A. I'm employed as a trooper with the New Jersey State Police in West Trenton.

Q. How long have you held the position as a trooper with the New Jersey State Police?

A. 17 years.

Q. What is your current assignment within the New Jersey State Police Department?

A. I'm in the records and identification section, the State Bureau of Identification.

Q. How long have you held that assignment?

A. I've been with R & I for the past 10 years.

Q. R and...?

A. Records & Identification.

Page 60.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

Q. And what is your responsibility as a member of that unit, R & I?

A. We are the central repository for all fingerprints of individuals arrested in the State of New Jersey. We create, maintain criminal rap sheets, and we deal with all applicants' fingerprints.

Q. Now, can you tell us generally what the process is when you receive from one of the counties within the State of New Jersey a request to identify fingerprints of a person who has been found dead in one of those counties?

A. When fingerprints come in on a fingerprint card that states the individual is dead, we take the fingerprints downstairs to the Automated Fingerprint Identification System, our AFIS unit. The SBI number, State Bureau of Identification number is on the card as well as the individual's name and other identifiers.

The card is brought up on a terminal screen, computer screen, the card that's sent in with the fingerprints on it, and it is a side-by-side comparison to the individual's criminal rap sheet fingerprints.

Q. What if the card comes into you with a name other than the name which is maintained by your main

Page 61.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct records room?

A. If the name is different it makes no difference to us because it is strictly at this point a side-by-side fingerprint comparison.

Q. So if Social Security numbers are different that doesn't matter?

A. Nothing matters but the fingerprints.

Q. Now, if in fact you receive a fingerprint card from a county and you are able to find a matching fingerprint in your database, what then occurs?

A. The fingerprint technician compares them side by side, ascertains that it is the exact same person. We then take the verified dead card upstairs and the entire record will be purged in a matter of 30 days. We send out a record to the contributor, a form saying we have identified your person, we have the fingerprints on file, that the individual has been verified dead. And within 30 days we will purge the record.

Q. And what do you mean by purge the record?

A. Completely destroy. It's removed in all paper and electronic form.

Q. Once the New Jersey State Police verifies the identification of a person as being dead, do you notify any other law enforcement agencies, other than

Page 62.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct the contributing county?

A. No, just the contributor of the verified dead fingerprint card.

Q. Do you notify the FBI?

A. No, we do not. The FBI's really not interested in purging records.

Q. Do you send a copy of the fingerprints which you have utilized to identify someone as dead to the FBI?

A. No, we do not.

Q. Why is that?

A. We operate on a two-fingerprint-card system in the State of New Jersey: A State and a Federal. We rarely if ever get more than one card in on a verified dead. So we keep that for our own records.

Q. And once you are prepared to purge, do you share that at that point with the Federal authorities?

A. Yes; when we are purging the records we send a message through the terminal to the FBI that we have verified dead fingerprints and we are purging our records and we notify them.

Q. Now, you have Commonwealth Exhibit 8 in front of you, I believe. Oh, I'm sorry. If you would please open Commonwealth Exhibit 8. And on the

Page 63.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

document directly underneath the brown manila folder --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. -- is a letter. Do you recognize that letter and that form of letter?

A. Yes; that is a typical death notification response back to the originating agency that has sent us the verified dead fingerprints.

Q. And is that a response verifying that Cynthia Williams, who was determined also to be identified based on State master files as Cynthia White, was indeed the person whose fingerprints were sent to your office and that she was verified dead?

A. Without a doubt.

Q. And that was done on the basis of fingerprints that were sent to the New Jersey State Police?

A. That's correct.

Q. Back in 1992?

A. That is correct.

Q. And what is the date of that letter, incidentally?

A. It is dated 11-18-92.

Q. Can a death be verified by your unit by any means other than fingerprints?

A. No; fingerprints are the one true identifier.

Page 64.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

Q. And what if, what if I were to die in front of you and there are 19 people, members of my family, who are swearing on a Bible that it is me, would you verify me dead?

A. Not unless they sent us your prints.

Q. In addition to sending that letter to Camden County as the contributor of the fingerprints, are any logs or notations made within your State office that reflects that an individual person has been verified as dead?

A. Yes, we keep a paper log.

MS. FISK: May I ask, Your Honor, that this document be marked as Commonwealth Exhibit 9, and a copy for Counsel (handing).

(Verified dead listings was marked
Commonwealth Exhibit C-9 for identification.)

(Pause)

THE COURT OFFICER: So marked C-9, Your Honor.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Sergeant, Commonwealth Exhibit 9 is a black-and-white photocopy of a document which you have a color photocopy of I believe with you; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Page 65.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

Q. And can you identify what has been marked Commonwealth Exhibit 9?

A. Yes.

Q. What is it, please?

A. This is a list of, we call them verified deads. When we receive fingerprints in to verify that an individual is deceased, we make up a list of all the fingerprints, we make up a list of their names. The numbers next to them are the FBI number.

Q. I'm sorry, the what number?

A. FBI, Federal Bureau of Identification.

Q. All right.
A. Next to that is a column to check to see whether any of the records were expunged. Next is a column for State Bureau of Identification numbers, also known as SBI number. And then what information was deleted from that record.

Q. And by deletion, is that the purging that you were referring to?

A. Purging, correct.

Q. Now, these documents are kept in a loose-leaf in Trenton?

A. Yes, it is just more or less a paper file.

Q. And there is one particular page out of that file from, there is a date up on top, November 19th,

Page 66.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

1992?

A. That is correct.

Q. Utilizing this document, please, the name second from the bottom, can you read the name which appears on this log of verified deads?

A. Last name is White, first name is Cynthia.

Q. Next to that is there handwritten an FBI number?

A. Yes; it's 934288 Romeo 7.

Q. And how was that FBI number determined?

A. That FBI number is contained right on the individual's rap sheet or criminal history.

Q. Which is maintained in your master files?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Then the next file check expungement, there is an X in the no column?

A. That is correct.

Q. What does that mean?

A. That indicates that there were no files for Cynthia White that had been previously expunged.

Q. Next is the SBI number. Can you please read to us the SBI number which appears on this verified dead log?

A. 159986 Bravo.

Q. Now, again, is that an SBI number which as a

Page 67.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct result of the State Bureau of Identification -- I know I have the right letters -- your unit's identification determined based on the master list?

A. That is correct. Once an individual is originally arrested in the State of New Jersey they are assigned an SBI number. That number stays with them their entire criminal career regardless of any other identifying information that they might give.

Q. Based on this notation in the verified dead log, are you telling us, then, that the fingerprints which were sent to you matched those of this person who was already contained in the master files in Trenton?

A. That is correct.

MR. WEINGLASS: Objection: Leading.

May we have a ruling?

THE COURT: She may be but it's not harmful.

Go ahead. Let's go.

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Can you tell us what the next handwritten notations are in that SBI number column?

A. It says by and then it has what we call an ORI number, which is the originating number of the department that sent us the fingerprint card: NJ

Page 68.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

004013A as in Alpha, which is the originating agency number for Camden County Prosecutor's Office. And the date below it, 9-2-92, would have been the date on the fingerprint card as the date of death.

Q. Now, your next three, your next four columns under Delete: Are these notations made at the time of verification, or are these notations made 30 days thereafter at the time you are preparing to purge the documents?

A. At the time of purge these are made.

Q. All right. What is that first column: MNI?

A. MNI is master name index. That's the mechanism by which you go in to look up an individual by name and date of birth or Social Security number. That was deleted.

Q. All right. Next?

A. Next is the actual CCH record, the computerized criminal history record, or otherwise known as a rap sheet, that was deleted.

Q. All right, next?

A. Next is an CDR database. This no longer exists, but at the time if there was an open, an open or pending charge that we did not have a disposition for, that would have been deleted. This indicates that there was no open or pending charge in New

Page 69.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Direct

Jersey.

Q. All right. And last?

A. And the last is triple I. Triple I is the interstate identification index. These are arrests from any state outside the State of New Jersey. They were all deleted as far as New Jersey was concerned.

Q. Based on the presence of Cynthia White's name on this verified dead log, Sergeant, are you able to tell us whether or not Cynthia White, whose SBI number and FBI number appeared on this log, was identified via fingerprints as having died in Camden County on September 2nd, 1992?

A. Yes, it is the same individual without a doubt.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Good morning, Sergeant Welch.

A. Good morning.

Q. I understand that you are here testifying because this document C-9 is within the ambit of your custody?

Page 70.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

A. That is correct.

Q. You did not have anything to do yourself personally with the investigation back in '92?

A. No, sir.

Q. So you only know what's on the documents that you brought to Court today?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is there a bureau of vital statistics in New Jersey?

A. I couldn't testify to that, sir.

Q. You don't know if there is such a bureau?

A. I cannot say.

Q. When your office does these checks and makes an identification, is that information distributed to other agencies of the government of New Jersey besides the requesting agency?

A. Not by us, sir, no.

Q. Is it distributed by anyone who you know of?

A. No, sir. We require the fingerprints and it is strictly for in-house purge of our own records.

Q. Your own records. And your own, you are referring to the State Police of New Jersey?

A. Ahh, well, as the central repository for all the fingerprints in the entire State regardless if it was an arrest by State Police or a municipal

Page 71.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross department or a county department.

Q. I don't know if you could answer this but if someone is seeking a person who might be dead and they don't know, and they go to the New Jersey bureau of vital statistics, would they have the information in that bureau that your office has generated?

A. Not directly from us. From some other means, I don't know if they use other data banks, but I know they do not have access to CCH.

Q. I see. Now, I am trying to also understand the process of deletion.

A. All right.

Q. One of the things that's marked on C-9 is a deletion of CCH?

A. Correct.

Q. Is that right?

A. Hmm-hmm.

Q. And you told us, what is CCH?

A. CCH stands for computerized criminal history, within the State of New Jersey.

Q. That's within the State?

A. Correct.

Q. Is there a national CCH?

A. Yes, that's triple I. Interstate identification index, that is the FBI's program for

Page 72.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

all the states to become involved in.

Q. So you in New Jersey, when you delete, do you delete it from the Federal records, the national records as well?

A. We delete all the New Jersey arrests from the Federal system.

Q. But the other arrests would stay?

A. We have nothing to do with any other state's arrests so we wouldn't touch theirs.

Q. I see. So if you could look back on Commonwealth 8 for this document which is a request for criminal history (displaying). And it has attached to it a computerized response.

A. Which side is that on?

MS. FISK: The other.

THE WITNESS: The other. Okay, request for criminal history record information?

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Yes, and I am interested mainly in the response.

A. All right.

Q. Which is computerized.

A. All right.

Q. When you delete from CCH and triple I --

A. Hmm-hmm.

Page 73.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

Q. -- does this document continue to exist?

A. No. This does not exist anymore (displaying). This is the first I've seen it.

Q. I see. This being the response to the request?

A. Right. This is an actual criminal history response on Cynthia White (displaying), which no longer exists in our files.

Q. In your files?

A. Correct.

Q. Right. But it would still exist in the multi-state file, minus the New Jersey information?

A. No New Jersey information would be in the multi-state file at all.

Q. Right. Because you have deleted it?

A. Correct.

Q. But information from other states would still be in --

A. Triple I, correct.

Q. Triple I?

A. That's correct.

Q. And the document would still exist even today?

A. Which document are you speaking of?

Q. The computerized response.

A. This computerized response? Or a computerized

Page 74.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

response?

Q. A computerized response.

A. You can get Cynthia White's information from other states.

Q. Yes?

A. But you won't get anything from New Jersey because we expunged it.

Q. Exactly.

A. Right.

Q. So that --

A. Purged it.

Q. Purged. In 1995, the information in a computerized response on Cynthia White would have existed, minus the New Jersey --

A. Information.

Q. -- information?

A. Correct.

Q. You can't tell us what Cynthia White's real name is, can you?

A. No. When we receive fingerprints in, it makes no difference what information they put down on the card. The name that they put down becomes their master name. And their date of birth and Social Security number. Anything that they supply us afterwards is listed as an alias.

Page 75.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

Q. Okay. So in Commonwealth 8 we have an individual named Cynthia Williams, an individual named Cynthia Drake, an individual named Mildred Saunders, and other names?

A. Right.

Q. Yes?

A. The record was constructed from the fingerprint cards and the fingerprint comparison.

Q. Now, I think you mentioned also that when you do have purging, your office sends a message to the FBI?

A. That's correct.

Q. And could you tell us what that message is and what happens?

A. It's a message right through the computer terminal after our data input operator's purge. They send the message to the FBI indicating that we received fingerprints verifying this individual is dead and that we are purging our records.

Q. And what does the FBI do with that information, if you know?

A. They just list it as an identifier -- not identifier, but like a notice on their rap sheets, their own rap sheets, that this person has been confirmed dead by New Jersey.

Page 76.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Cross

Q. Do they say confirmed dead by fingerprints?

A. They put, I would have to refer to something in here to find it for you, if you wanted me to read it specifically. I know they use the word deceased.

Q. I see. But you don't know if they use confirmed dead by fingerprints, for instance?

A. Do you want me to look?

Q. If you can find it, yes.

A. Okay.

The copy states the FBI has been notified of the subject's death. However, this information has not been confirmed by fingerprint comparison. Date of death is listed. And notified by, and that would be State Police.

Q. And that's what's sent?

A. That's right. What that means is they don't have any fingerprints, we have the fingerprints.

Q. Right, but it says -- can you read that again -- fingerprint not confirmed?

A. The FBI has been notified of the subject's death, however this information has not been confirmed by fingerprint comparison.

MR. WEINGLASS: Fine. I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: May I?

Page 77.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Redirect

THE COURT: Sure.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

- - - - -

BY MS. FISK:

Q. The document which you just read to us, that comes from the FBI?

A. That's correct, that's a response back from our response.

Q. Right, so you notify the FBI that you have verified a dead based on fingerprint comparison?

A. That's correct.

Q. The FBI is then allowing every other state who might use their multi-state to know that in New Jersey this person has been verified dead?

A. That's correct.

Q. Though the FBI has not had an opportunity to review fingerprints on their own?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that's because you never sent a separate copy of those fingerprints to the FBI?

A. Right.

Q. That is not within the practice or procedure of New Jersey?

A. That's correct.

Page 78.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Recross

MS. FISK: Thank you.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Just one last question to follow up on that. So if someone were to inquire of the FBI, the information they would get is not confirmed by fingerprints?

A. They would get the individual's entire criminal rap sheet from other states.

Q. Right.

A. And this caveat would be included in there, that New Jersey has confirmed them dead, but they, the FBI is not holding fingerprints on this individual confirming them dead.

Q. Well, look at Commonwealth 8, the printout. It just says, does it not, this response not supported by fingerprint comparison?

A. Yes; what that means is --

Q. That's all it says. It doesn't --

THE COURT: Well, let her answer you.

MR. WEINGLASS: I'm sorry, I'm sorry.

THE WITNESS: What that means if you were a police officer --

Page 79.

Sgt. Elizabeth Welch - Recross

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right?

A. -- and you have a suspect, so you go to the terminal and you're doing a CCH look-up, a rap sheet look-up, you are putting in a name, a date of birth, maybe a Social Security number. You're not sending us fingerprints saying this is the person I have, who is it, so we can respond back to you. You're just putting in a name and date of birth. So that's to protect us from being sued.

What we are saying is, the division of State Police is saying based on the name and date of birth and whatever identifiers you have put in, this is the record for that person.

Q. Not confirmed by fingerprint comparison?

A. Right. If you send us a set of fingerprints, that would be a different story.

Q. Right.

A. But just on a name or date of birth check, or Social Security number, that is the response we would send because you are not sending us fingerprints right now.

Q. And if someone were to inquire of the FBI by computer, the printout that they would get would say this response not supported by fingerprint comparison?

A. I can't testify as to the FBI response.

Q. I see.

A. I don't know how they create their records.

Q. I see.

(Discussion was held off the record among defense Counsel.)

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Lastly, so that I understand: If you make a match between someone who is found deceased in New Jersey with the records that you have of that individual's fingerprints based on the prior criminal history, New Jersey will purge that information from New Jersey files, but if someone inquires through the Federal authorities or through other states, there might not be any indication in those files that such a match has been made?

A. It is indicated on their record, their out-of-state record. It will say New Jersey, it will have the SBI number listed, and next to it will have the word deceased. That's the only information you'll see on there in reference to that.

Q. But nothing about fingerprint confirmation?

A. No, they know that we only would mark someone deceased verified with prints.

Page 81.

Q. Right, right. And with respect to Commonwealth 8, which says no confirmation -- I'm sorry -- not supported by fingerprint comparison, that also will continue to exist in the national records?

A. Yes, because you're not sending them fingerprints, you're just asking through a terminal based on name and date of birth.

MR. WEINGLASS: I have nothing further.

MS. FISK: Could the witness be shown Commonwealth Exhibit 2, please, just for clarification purposes.

Q. Sergeant, do you recognize this document which is marked Commonwealth Exhibit 2? I believe actually that is a photocopy. Well, that's all right. Nevertheless, it is a photocopy of Commonwealth Exhibit 2. Do you recognize this document, or this type of document?

(Pause)

A. Yes; this is a triple I record response.

Page 82.

Q. And is that for Cynthia White, whose FBI number is 934288R7, and whose SBI number is 159986B?

A. 9986B, that's correct.

Q. Also, just so it is clear, also on the first page is Cynthia White's Philadelphia Police photo number indicated?

A. That's correct.

Q. What Philadelphia Police number is indicated on this triple I response? If you are able to read that.

A. That is that PPN number?

Q. Yes.

A. 573095.

Q. On the last page of this document, is there the notations which you just referred to regarding the verification of death made on the basis of fingerprints by the New Jersey State Police?

A. That's correct, it says New Jersey, it lists our State ID number, and the word deceased.

MS. FISK: Thank you, ma'am.

- - - - -

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. WEINGLASS:

Q. Right, but it doesn't say verified by fingerprints?

Page 83.

A. That's the only way we would mark someone deceased.

Q. Does it say verified by fingerprints?

A. No, that is known.

Q. That is known to you in New Jersey?

A. Right.

Q. But if someone looks at the same record they will know that for the FBI numbers, there is no indication of deceased?

A. No, because the FBI would hold her active record and other states as well that have not marked her as deceased.

Q. Right, and for New York there is no indication of deceased?

A. That's correct.

Q. And nowhere does it say fingerprints?

A. That's the only way we do it, sir.

Q. Yes, I know that is the way you do it, but from the point of view of a reader, you don't see fingerprints on this document?

A. These documents can be very difficult to read, especially when you are dealing with different states, every state is different.

Q. Right. By the way, this document which is the triple I, is that available information only to law enforcement, to your knowledge?

A. That's correct.

Q. Only to law enforcement?

A. That's correct.

Q. And it's, would you say it's readily available to law enforcement?

A. It depends if you have a computer terminal.

Q. If Philadelphia has a computer terminal they could get this in a matter of a minute?

A. If they have a computer terminal with a hookup to CCH, yes.

Q. They could have gotten it in '95, '96, '97?

A. If there were arrests there for that period, yes.

MR. WEINGLASS: All right, I have nothing further.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MS. FISK:

Q. Is there any chance, Sergeant, that Cynthia White, that because she is not listed as deceased by the FBI, is alive in any other state outside the State of New Jersey?

Page 85.

She is definitely dead in New Jersey.

MS. FISK: Thank you.

THE COURT: Are you finished?

MS. FISK: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. You are excused.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, sir.

MS. FISK: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

Oh, I'm sorry, Your Honor. Actually, in light of the testimony presented by the defense on Thursday and again yesterday, since the defense has chosen not to call Detective Richard Ryan, I would request permission to do so. I would request permission to call Detective Richard Ryan, who is the detective referred to by Ms. Jenkins in her testimony, as well as former officer Ryan.

THE COURT: Do you object to her calling him?

MR. WEINGLASS: No, Your Honor, the defense, the Assistant District Attorney had an opportunity to call him during their presentation of their case. We were told we were coming here today to hear from several

Page 86.

State Police from New Jersey, the reason why we came back, because they are out-of-state witnesses and they weren't available to the defense. I object to now the hearing being expanded back into areas that have nothing to do with the death of Cynthia White, absolutely nothing to do with her death, and are not New Jersey state troopers and have nothing to do with the purpose for which this Court especially convened Court today.

MS. FISK: Judge, I would note for the record that Ms. Jenkins testified that she saw Detective Ryan in the presence of Ms. White in March of this year. Nevertheless, so long as the record reflects that Detective Ryan was present as a result of a defense subpoena, has been in the Courtroom, has been available to the defense -- and the defense has the burden in these proceedings -- and has opted not to call him, I would respect that request by Counsel for the limited purpose of today's remand and I will not call him.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. FISK: Does that complete these proceedings?

Page 87.

THE COURT: Sure, as far as I am concerned.

MR. WEINGLASS: Your Honor, the defense --

THE COURT: I already ruled on the subpoenas of these people.

MR. WEINGLASS: -- would request our investigator Don Burton to testify about the death of Cynthia White.

THE COURT: What does he know about the death?

MR. WEINGLASS: He has examined the record and he has done an investigation into her death. He has directly relevant information.

THE COURT: So she is still alive?

MR. WEINGLASS: He has done an investigation, Judge.

THE COURT: Is she alive?

MR. WEINGLASS: I know no better than this Court knows whether she is alive or not.

THE COURT: Well, as far as I'm concerned she's dead. Now, if you say she is alive go out and get her, bring her in. We will be glad to hear --

MR. WEINGLASS: We will put on a witness who will testify about efforts in that regard.

Page 88.

THE COURT: I am not concerned about all the efforts in the world. I have heard evidence that she is definitely dead. As far as I'm concerned she's dead.

MR. WEINGLASS: He has examined the documentary evidence which the Court has on her death for the defense. And he has testimony to offer on this documentary evidence.

THE COURT: I don't need his help. I am making a ruling we are finished. You go back to the Supreme Court. If they want to send it back for anymore testimony from anybody in the world, fine, let them send it down and I will hear it. As far as I'm concerned, it's completed.

MR. BURNS: Judge, if the Court please: Counsel will be submitting proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law?

THE COURT: Yes, when would you like?

MR. BURNS: As soon as I get the notes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.
