

Pelco Embarrassed Twice

I really don't know what to say. Except for maybe 3 or 4 good plays in the field, the defense was horrible and the offense even worse. There are no highlights to speak of as it would have been less embarrassing to forfeit the games. Pelco was outscored, 43-9 in the two games, out hit 52-15 and generally outplayed. After the game, the manager had this to say, "These are the kinds of games you get when the team refuses to practice. If I don't quit before the end of the season, I just might retire completely at the end of the year. All my efforts to try and build a winning team are being thwarted by the players. After all, there is not a player on the team that doesn't need the practice. It's amazing that we have any wins at all." Pelco's next game will be Monday, June 25th at Germonds. Good luck guys, you certainly need it.
