

Religious Intelligence

the only single source of information on conflict throughout the world

The key to security in a turbulent world...

Religious Intelligence

who are we?

Madeline Albright, the former US Secretary of State, told the Clinton summit in New York in September 2005 that the major mistake that she made in her years of political activity was not to acknowledge the role that religion plays on politics, and conflict in particular.

Religious Intelligence does what no one else can: we tell you where conflicts are brewing, or developing, based on our expert knowledge of the world's religious scene.

From the centre of London a dedicated team of specialist journalists, with extensive links throughout the world, are reporting hourly on the hotspots of the world. With an impressive track-record, we have already broken stories on trouble spots around the world long before the national press have taken notice. And those developments are important, whether you have staff working there, or are investing there.

What better way to protect your money – or your staff – than to have expert intelligence on where trouble is brewing?

In a fast-changing world, the eruption of conflicts can have an instant impact on the health of your business. But by knowing what the risks are you can prepare for the unexpected. Religious Intelligence can help you understand the trends,

How the monitoring service of Religious Intelligence could help your business, whatever area you work in...

Natural Resource Extraction Firms. Say you want to build a pipe-line across Uzbekistan, or in the Niger Delta; information on government stability is readily available, but to find information on what the Sunnis or Shia are up to in Uzbekistan, or the attitude of the Anglicans in Ogoniland, you need our service.

Socially Responsible Investing. Christian denominations across the world are debating the ethics of investing in forms employed by the State of Israel connected with the building of the controversial security 'fence'. Such decisions can have ramifications on company's share price, and in extreme cases might even be targeted by militant groups. Religious Intelligence can deliver the information you need. Our accurate information tells you what religious groups and NGOs are saying or doing.

NGOs and Government Agencies. The Norwegian foreign office, to take one example, has been sending aid and development funds to the Tamils

Religious Intelligence is not so much a religious service as a security service, but only by being aware of both can we deliver the best service to your business, that's why only we can provide information about the economy, stock markets, religious temperature and political environments of the countries that affect your business.

In the hectic and dangerous world we live in, we offer you the whole picture, so that all your bases are covered in working and investing in a troubled world

A web-based system is used to deliver the information you need. Check out the important information on the country of your choice (we carry detailed information on every country in the world). There are profiles of the key players, stock and commodities information, security levels and information on security developments. We list all known terror groups and where they operate. We also predict where trouble is emerging so that you are the first to know.

In addition to the web service we offer a tailored service for companies, delivering information as it happens. Our experts can compile the facts you need in consultation with you and this is delivered as you prefer to receive it. If you have an immediate concern, we are on hand to advise you and to research the information you require.

“ Those who say religion has nothing to do with politics do not know what religion is ”
Mahatma Gandhi

To ensure the integrity of your business and investments, you need the expert service provided by ReligiousIntelligence.com

“ Never before has religion been so important in the politics of the world, ”
Ashley Peatfield,
BBC Religion and Ethics

Like the 'Butterfly Effect', we monitor events around the world that could have an immediate or long-term effect on the world of commerce. What happens in a remote part of the world could have an effect on your business. But you need the whole picture to assess what might happen in Northern Sri Lanka for a number of years. While they can purchase consultancy services on the security situation in Sri Lanka from a number of vendors, few if any can give them a picture of the religious situation and how it plays into the conflict we can. How? Religious Intelligence has the contacts and sources from faith communities around the world and we gather information from the ground to help you predict what action might be needed in a rapidly changing world.

Gambling. While gambling firms have lawyers on retainer, the religious marketplace is often off the radar. Take the case of Donald Trump. In the mid-90s the real estate developer sought to build a casino in Bridgeport, Connecticut. A coalition of local religious leaders fought the casino and were successful in convincing the legislature not to allow him to build. With the expansion of Casino gambling, this sort of information can help companies predict what obstacles their plans might face from religious groups.

Whatever your business is, whether oil, gas, mining or agribusiness Religious Intelligence ensures that you are not in the dark about developments that might affect your bottom line, or even the security of your work.

A unique service, ReligiousIntelligence.com features constantly updated news, even warning where possible terror attacks might take place.

But there is also an exhaustive collection of information on every country in the world, documenting the economic, political, demographic, geographic and religious background to that nation.

While others might provide some of that intelligence, ReligiousIntelligence.com is the only service that brings it all together, giving you the whole picture.

Nigerian corruption alleged
The Church of Nigeria has condemned police corruption claiming that the behaviour of the police has become an embarrassment to the nation. In a communiqué signed by Archbishop Peter Akinola the Church raised the issue over police extortion of money from motorists and the 'reckless' handling of weapons by the police. Archbishop Akinola blamed the police for indiscriminate shooting and the loss of innocent lives.
The communiqué addressed a wide range of the country's problems, but also condemned the killings in Darfur in the
