

My Lord,

One of the People's artifacts from the time before sleep is being used to extend the cold, I pray it will be enough to help awaken the Sleepers. As most of our weapons from the Reign of the People seem to have no effect on the Beast I sorely wish we had these artifacts from the end of days to help fight it. Our innate mastery of Ice and Cold however makes the manufacture of something that shall slay the Beast merely a matter of time. Now that I have caused the creation of a guardian at the old fort in the pass and need not watch so carefully over the artifact I can turn my mind more to that problem, though it seems that the Beast is dead I wish to have something more in case more of its kind lay further down the pass where the mortals call to us.
