Janyce Wolf is a 1977 graduate of the Organizational Behavior Master of Science program at Polytechnic who has achieved success in her career journey. Janyce is an industry leader in Business Process Management with extensive experience in improving business performance through process streamlining, project management and metrics development. Janyce's understanding of the dynamics of change and its impact on people has been a major factor in her success. She had a long career at JPMorgan Chase, becoming VP of Business Transformation/Process and Project Management in Workplace Financial Services. Janyce is currently VP of Global Securities Operations at Deutsche Bank and serves as President of the Association of Business Process Professionals, MetroNY Chapter. In recent years, Janyce has volunteered as a guest speaker at Polytechnic SHRM events as well as at more formal student seminars in the Poly OB program.

In recognition of her accomplishments, Janyce will receive a Polytechnic Alumni Career Achievement Award and share lessons to be learned from her personal journey that can help as a roadmap to success for others.
