SL.NO	UTs	Compliance Status	State Security commission (1)	Selection & Minimum tenure for DGP (2)	Minimum tenure for I.G. & other field officers (3)	Separation of investigation and law & order (4)	Police Establishment Board (5)	Police Complaints Authority (6)	DRAFTING A NEW POLICE BILL OR NOT
8	Pondicherry	Partial compliance	Taken steps to establish, chosen the Sorabjee model.	IGP is the head of police. He is appointed by MHA, which is to take appropriate action.	Taking steps to ensure minimum tenure of 2 years for other officers	Separation of law and order from investigation already in place in major police stations.	Decided to set up Board, with IGP as Chairman	Not complied on the ground that there is already Vigilance Department and Human Rights Commission.
9	Government of India's Views		There could be a Central Committee for Union Territories' Police Comments: No objection to having an integrated SSC for all UTs. However, composition suggested by Government is totally dominated by its representatives, which is against the spirit of Supreme Court directions	Involvement of UPSC unnecessary. Tenure be two years "as far as possible" Comments: UPSC involvement would ensure fair selection. Tenure should be two years.	A rigid prescription of two years across the board would not be possible or feasible. Will be unfair to officers of other services Comments: Objection is untenable. Government should give stability to officers of other services also.	Agreeable	Agreeable. Boards are being set up in each of the UTs, though the pattern varies. Board should not have appellate functions. Comments: Variations in UTs would be acceptable but these should be in keeping with the spirit of Supreme Court directions	There are several public complaint redressal mechanisms already in place, these may be strengthened instead of adding another institution. Comments: Two-tier Complaints Authority headed by retired judges of Supreme/High Court would inspire confidence.	Model Police Act for UTs being enacted

Note: Delhi and Goa are states, but have been shown here for convenience

Prakash Singh and Others Vs Union of India and Others

Supreme Court Directions	Government of India's Response	Comments
National Security Commission comprising Union Home Minister, Heads of CPOs, Security Experts with Union Home Secretary as its Secretary	Committee on National Security & Central Police Personnel Welfare formed. It has also been enlarged with the induction of a Retired DG of a CPMF and retired Chief Justice of a High Court. GOI have objection to nomenclature "NSC".Heads of CPMFs may be invited to this body "if considered relevant or imperative"	There is no reason why heads of CPOs should be kept out of NSC. They are commanding huge forces of even more than two lac strength. They should be associated in deliberations concerning National Security. Devaluation of NSC into a Committee is objectionable
Role of NSC would be in the selection and placement of Chiefs of CPOs	Government has objection on the ground that sometimes the existing heads of CPOs are themselves under consideration.	In such cases, which would be rare, the concerned officers could be kept out of the deliberations
NSC would also i. review measures to upgrade the effectiveness of Forces, ii. improve service conditions of personnel, iii. ensure coordination between them and see that the Forces are utilized for purposes they were raised	Government is opposed to heads of CPMFs being associated in these matters.	These matters vitally concern the operational efficiency of the Central Paramilitary Forces. The Heads of the Forces must be consulted in these matters.
Tenure of Heads of CPOs	Flexibility is needed in the interest of exigencies of service	Heads of Central Paramilitary Forces play a very vital role in internal security of the country. They should have a stable tenure.
